in prisoner's absence:—Held: on proof of the death of such witness & that such deposition had been duly signed both by the coroner & the witness, & that prisoner was present & had full opportunity of cross-examining such witness by her solicitor, the deposition was admissible at the subsequent trial of prisoner at assizes, but such portions as were obviously hearsay, or on other grounds inadmissible as legal evidence, should not be read to the jury.—R. v. COWLE (1907), 71 J. P. 152.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Black (1909), 74 J. P. 71.

2895. Consent of prosecutor necessary—To reading of deposition.—The deposition of a witness for the prosecution, who has gone to sea, cannot be read in evidence on the part of prisoner, without consent on the part of the prosecutor, but with such consent it may be.—R. v. HAGAN (1837), 8 C. & P. 167.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Hunt (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 261. Consd. R. v. Austen (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 55.

2896. Mere absence insufficient.—If the deposition of a witness on charge of an indictable offence has been regularly taken before a magistrate, & at the time of trial such witness is dead or so ill as not to be able to travel, the deposition may be read as evidence against prisoner. So also if it be proved that the witness is kept away by prisoner's procurement. But such deposition is not admissible on the ground, merely, that the prosecutor, after using every possible endeavour, cannot find the witness. If procurement of the absence be shown, & there are several prisoners, the deposition is evidence against those only who are proved to have procured the absence.—R. v. SCAIFE (1851), 17 Q. B. 238; 2 Den. 281; 4 New Sess. Cas. 731; 20 L. J. M. C. 229; 17 L. T. O. S. 152; 15 J. P. 581; 15 Jur. 607; 5 Cox, C. C. 243; 117 E. R. 1271.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bertrand (1867), L. R. 1 P. C. 520; R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; R. v. Duncan (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 198; R. v. Hampshire (1887), 3 T. L. R. 712; R. v. Simpson, Ex p. Smithson (1913), 110 L. T. 67.

2897.—]—A deposition taken before a magistrate on a charge of felony against prisoner, cannot be read in evidence against him on his trial, merely because the witness is absent, & resident in a foreign country.—R. v. AUSTIN (1856), Dears. C. C. 12; 25 L. J. M. C. 48; 26 L. T. O. S. 261; 20 J. P. 54; 2 Jur. N. S. 95; 4 W. R. 237; 7 Cox, C. C. 55, C. C. R.

charge of causing grievous hurt, two witnesses, one of whom was the person assaulted, were examined on behalf of the prosecution. Prisoners were committed for trial. Subsequently the person assaulted died in consequence of the injuries inflicted on him. At the trial, before the judge, charges of murder & of culpable homicide not amounting to murder were added to the charge of grievous hurt. The deposition of the deceased witness was put in & read at the Sessions trial:—Held: the evidence was admissible, notwithstanding the additional charges before the Sessions Ct.—Re ROCHIA MOHATO, R. v. ROCHIA MOHATO (1881), 1 L. R. 7 Calc. 42; 8 C. L. R. 273.—IND.

o. ———. ]—Where a witness for the prosecution was examined before a committing magistrate, but was not cross-examined, & then died before the case came on for trial to the Sessions Ct., & his deposition was tendered in evidence at the trial:—Held: the deposition was admissible.—R. v. BASVANTA (1900), 1 L. R. 25 Bom. 168.—IND.

p. ———. Witness abroad.—If it can be satisfactorily proved that a Crown witness is out of Canada his depositions on a preliminary inquiry are admissible under Criminal Code, s. 999, & may constitute the corroboration of a charge required under sect. 1002.—R. v. BERRY (1922), 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 127; 55 N. S. R. 247.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— E. (b).

q. General rule.—When the admissibility of a deposition is in question at a criminal trial, all relevant questions of fact are to be determined by the presiding judge, & his decision is conclusive unless it is manifestly not warranted by the evidence.—A.-G. of NEW SOUTH WALES v. JACKSON (1906), 3 C. L. R. 730.—AUS.

2899 i. Discretion is absolute.—Upon a prosecution for uttering forged notes, the deposition of one S., taken before the police magistrate on the preliminary investigation was read, upon proof that S. was absent from Canada:—Held: the admissibility of the deposition was in the discretion of the judge at the trial.—R. v. NELSON (1882), 1 O. R. 500.—CAN.

2899 ii. ———. ]—Where a witness could not be found after diligent search, the

(b) Discretion of Judge.

2898. General rule—May postpone trial.—Where in a criminal case a witness for the prosecution is so ill as not to be able to travel, the judge may, at his discretion, permit the deposition to be read to the jury, under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, or postpone the trial to the next assizes.—R. v. TAIT (1861), 2 F. & F. 553.

2899. Discretion is absolute.—R. v. STEPHENSON, No. 2907, post.

(c) Absence caused by Illness.

i. In General.

See Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17.

2900. Sufficiency of reason—Inability to attend assizes—Bedridden.—On the trial of a case of felony where the prosecutor is bedridden & not likely to be ever able to attend the assizes his dispositions taken by the committing magistrate in the presence of the prisoner may be given in evidence.—R. v. WILSHAW (1841), Car. & M. 145.

2901. ———. Danger to life sufficient.—R. v. DAY, No. 2879, ante.

2902. ———. ]—A witness, who had been examined before the committing magistrate, came to the assize town where the ct. was sitting, but before the trial came on returned to his home by the advice of a medical man, who deposed that in his judgment it would have been highly dangerous for the witness to remain. While the trial was going on the witness was on his way home:—Held: the witness was "unable to travel" within the meaning of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, & consequently his deposition before the committing magistrate might be read in evidence.—R. v. WICKER (1854), 18 Jur. 252.

2903. ———. Too ill to give evidence—Not too ill to travel.—If a witness has had an attack of paralysis & is unable to hear or speak or give evidence, & his physician does not permit him to go about, his deposition may be read under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, though it would not endanger his life to travel or be brought into ct.—R. v. COCKBURN (1857), Dears. & B. 203; 26 L. J. M. C. 136; 29 L. T. O. S. 114; 21 J. P. 358; 3 Jur. N. S. 447; 5 W. R. 570; 7 Cox, C. C. 265, C. C. R.

2904. ———. ]—A witness who had been examined, before the magistrate, & whose deposition was returned, was at the trial, said to be too ct. in a trial for murder refused to allow the witness's depositions, which contained evidence of an alleged conversation to be read to the jury, although in the ct. below accused had been legally represented & the witness had been cross-examined at considerable length.—R. v. BALFOUR, [1918] C. P. D. 386.—S. AF.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— E. (c) i.

r. Sufficiency of reason—Benefit of health.—The depositions, taken before justices, of a medical witness, who was absent from the trial of a prisoner on account of having to go to Sydney for the benefit of his health:—Held: admissible.—R. v. PENN (1871), 2 Q. S. C. R. 177.—AUS.

2901 i. ———. Danger to life sufficient.—On the evidence of a medical man that a witness, who lived 40 miles from the ct. expected her confinement, & that it would be dangerous to her life to attend ct., her deposition was admitted in evidence:—Held: it was rightly received.—R. v. WEBSTER & WELLS (1880), 1 N. S. W. L. R. 331.—AUS.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 7, E. (c) i. & ii., (d) & (e).]

ill to give evidence, though not too ill to be able to travel. His deposition was read.—R. v. WILSON (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 453.

2905. Sufficiency of evidence—Whether medical evidence essential.—Where in a criminal case a witness is ill, & is attended by a surgeon, the judge at the trial will not receive the witness's deposition in evidence under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, unless the surgeon attend at the trial to prove that the witness is unable to travel. But where a witness is permanently disabled & is not attended by a surgeon, other evidence that the witness is unable to travel may be sufficient.—R. v. RILEY (1851), 3 Car. & Kir. 116.

2906. ———.]—In the absence of medical evidence, deposition not allowed to be read.—R. v. WELTON (1862), 27 J. P. 24; 9 Cox, C. C. 296.
Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Noakes, [1917] 1 K. B. 581.

2907. ———.]—Upon the trial of prisoner for obtaining money by false pretences, it was proved, by a female servant & the brother of the prosecutrix, that she was daily expecting her confinement, & the latter stated that she was "poorly otherwise," & was, therefore, too ill to travel.—Held: upon this evidence Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, authorised the presiding judge to receive the depositions of the prosecutrix taken before the committing magistrate. There may be incidents, with regard to parturition, to bring the case within the statute. It is in the discretion of the presiding judge to determine whether the evidence of illness is sufficient. It is not necessary in such case to produce medical evidence.—R. v. STEPHENSON (1862), Le. & Ca. 165; 31 L. J. M. C. 147; 6 L. T. 334; 26 J. P. 484; 10 W. R. 546; 9 Cox, C. C. 156; sub nom. R. v. STEVENSON, 8 Jur. N. S. 522, C. C. R.
Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Noakes, [1917] 1 K. B. 581.

2908. ———.]—The deposition of a married woman was allowed to be read on the trial of a case of felony, on the evidence of her husband, without medical evidence, that she was, from pregnancy, unable to travel.—R. v. CROUCHER (1862), 3 F. & F. 285.

2909. ———.]—Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, provides that, if upon the trial of an indictment it shall be proved by "any credible witness" that a person whose deposition shall have been taken before a justice is "so ill as not to be able to travel," the deposition may be read as evidence in the prosecution.—Held: the credible witness need not be a medical man.—R. v. NOAKES, [1917] 1 K. B. 581; 86 L. J. K. B. 594; 116 L. T. 705; 81 J. P. 140; 33 T. L. R. 201; 61 Sol. Jo. 284; 25 Cox, C. C. 722; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 204, C. C. A.

2910. ———.]—No evidence as to nature of illness.—A superintendent of police, having seen a policeman, a material witness, in bed two days before the trial, & stating that he appeared ill, & so weak that he could not get out of bed:—Held: this, without medical evidence, or any evidence as to the nature of the illness, was not sufficient to admit the policeman's deposition.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1865), 4 F. & F. 515.

2911. ———.]—Evidence must be recent.—Upon the trial of a prisoner it was proposed to put in evidence the deposition of a witness absent through illness. The evidence that he was unable to travel was that of a medical man, who last saw the witness on the Monday previous to the trial, which took place on Wednesday:—Held: this was not sufficient, & the deposition was rejected.—R. v. BULL (1871), 12 Cox, C. C. 31.

2912. ———.]—R. v. FARRELL, No. 2930, post.

2913. ———.]—Evidence given before coroner—Admissibility of coroner's depositions.—(1) Where a medical man testified that the attendance of a witness aged eighty-seven, who had given evidence before a coroner, would be dangerous to her life & that he would not answer for the consequences if she were required to appear in ct., but that she is suffering from no illness beyond great nervousness which may bring on a fit of apoplexy if she has publicly to give her evidence:—Held: her deposition taken before the coroner was not admissible.

(2) Where the deceased made certain statements first to a doctor & then to a nurse, both in the absence of prisoner, of a directly contradictory nature but both relating to certain wounds upon the deceased, which ultimately caused her death:—Held: although the names of both the witnesses were in the back of the indictment & both had been called before the grand jury, the prosecution were not bound to call such witnesses simply because their names were in the back of the indictment, & if the defence insisted on having the statement from the nurse which was favourable to prisoner's version of the affair given in evidence, the prosecution would then be entitled to give the other statement, the one to the doctor, in reply, as rebutting evidence.—R. v. THOMPSON (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 181.

2914. ———.]—Proof by a police sergeant that a witness is apparently very close indeed to her confinement is not sufficient evidence of her inability to attend the ct. so as to allow her depositions taken before the coroner to be read. Coroner's depositions stand on the same footing as depositions taken before magistrates, & the provisions of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), apply.—R. v. BUTCHER (1900), 64 J. P. 808.

ii. Particular Illnesses.

2915. Pregnancy.—The deposition of a witness who is so far advanced in pregnancy as to make her unfit to travel to the assize town cannot be read in evidence under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, which makes the deposition admissible if it be proved that the person whose deposition shall have been taken "is so ill as not to be able to travel."—R. v. OMANT (1854), 6 Cox, C. C. 466.

2916. ———.]—Qu.: whether pregnancy & a confinement of women is an "illness" within the meaning of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, so as to excuse their absence as witnesses if unable from that cause to travel, & enable their depositions to be read.—R. v. WALKER (1857), 1 F. & F. 534.

2917. ———.]—R. v. STEPHENSON, No. 2907, ante.

2918. ———.]—R. v. PARKER & ASHWORTH (1862), Archbold's Criminal Pleading, Evidence & Practice, 22nd ed. 342.

2919. ———.]—R. v. CROUCHER, No. 2908, ante.

2920. ———.]—It was proposed to read, on the trial at the assizes, the deposition of a witness called before the magistrates, on the same charge,

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— E. (c) ii.

2915 i. Pregnancy.—The words "so ill as not to be able to travel" include the case of a woman sworn by her husband to be not in a fit state to travel on account solely of approaching confinement, & a conviction supported by the depositions of such an absent woman was affirmed by the ct.—R. v. AH POCK (1864), 1 W. W. & A'B. 127.—AUS.

now absent by reason of pregnancy. Evidence given by a doctor on Feb. 5, that he had last seen the witness on Jan. 29, & that she was then daily expecting her confinement, which had not yet taken place, was held to be sufficient to entitle deposition to be read at the trial on Feb. 5.—R. v. HEESON (1878), 14 Cox, C. C. 40.

2921. —.]—Pregnancy may create an "illness" within the meaning of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, so as to give the presiding judge discretionary power to admit in evidence upon a criminal trial the deposition of a witness, duly taken, who owing to pregnancy is proved to be unable to travel.—R. v. WELLINGS (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 426; 47 L. J. M. C. 100; 38 L. T. 652; 42 J. P. 615; 26 W. R. 592; 14 Cox, C. C. 105, C. C. R.

2922. —.]—Pregnancy alone may be ground for the admission of a deposition.—R. v. GOODFELLOW (1879), 14 Cox, C. C. 326.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Marsella (1900), 17 T. L. R. 164.

2923. —.]—R. v. BUTCHER, No. 2914, ante.

2924. Recent confinement.—A witness who had been examined before the magistrates was absent, & it was proved that one week ago she had been delivered of a child & was still unable to travel:—Held: under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, the deposition of such witness was admissible.—R. v. HARVEY (1850), 16 L. T. O. S. 513; sub nom. R. v. HARNEY, 14 J. P. 592; 4 Cox, C. C. 441.

2925. —.]—It must not be supposed that the fact of a woman having been delivered nine days ago constitutes an illness within the meaning of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, but we have it in evidence that she was delivered of a dead child, which would tend to produce a morbid state of body, & her deposition may be read (WILLES, J.).—R. v. WILTON (1858), 1 F. & F. 309.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Walker (1859), 1 F. & F. 534.

2926. —.]—A recent confinement of a woman, which renders her unable to travel, is an illness within Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, so as to empower the judge at the trial to allow her deposition taken at the police ct. to be read.—R. v. MARSELLA (1900), 17 T. L. R. 164.

2927. Bowel complaint.—A witness, who had been examined before the magistrate, came up five miles from the country & gave her evidence before the grand jury. She went back at night & returned in the morning for two days, during which she was waiting for the trial to come on. At the trial, on the third day, it was proved that she had been attacked that morning with a bowel complaint, & that when the policeman left her residence early on that day, she was unable to travel:—Held: her evidence was not admissible, as the Common Sergeant was not satisfied that the witness was so ill as to be unable to travel.—R. v. HARRIS (1850), 16 L. T. O. S. 513; 14 J. P. 592; 4 Cox, C. C. 440.

2928. Cold & inflammation.—A witness who had been examined before the magistrate was proved, at the trial, to have been in bed the night before with a cold & inflammation, & that on a person calling at his house that morning he had been told that he was very bad:—Held: the deposition could not be read.—R. v. ULMER & HOOPER (1850), 16 L. T. O. S. 513; 4 Cox, C. C. 442; sub nom. R. v. ULMER, 14 J. P. 689.

2929. "Usual winter complaint."—A witness in bed a few days before the trial having, as he said, "his usual winter complaint," there being no evidence what that was, & whether it was more than a mere cold, & whether it still subsisted, or would render it unsafe for him to travel, & no medical witness called, though a medical certificate, that a few days ago the witness was not in a fit state to attend proffered in evidence:—Held: there was not sufficient evidence within Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, that the witness was too ill to travel at the time of the trial.—R. v. DENNIS (1862), 3 F. & F. 502.

2930. Nervousness.—At the trial of an indictment it was proposed to read the deposition of a witness on the ground that the witness was so ill as not to be able to travel. The evidence upon that point was as follows: The medical attendant of the witness was called & said, "I know M. L. She is very nervous, & seventy-four years of age. I think she would faint at the idea of coming into ct., but I think that she could go to London to see a doctor without difficulty or danger. I think the idea of seeing so many faces would be dangerous to her, & that she is so nervous that it might be dangerous to her to be examined at all. I think she could distinguish between the ct. going to her house & she herself coming to the ct." The witness whose deposition it was proposed to read lived not far from the ct.:—Held: the deposition was not admissible.—R. v. FARRELL (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 116; 43 L. J. M. C. 94; 30 L. T. 404; 38 J. P. 390; 22 W. R. 578; 12 Cox, C. C. 605, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Thompson (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 181.

2931. —.]—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 2913, ante.

(d) Insanity of Witness.

2932. General rule.—Qu.: whether evidence of declarations of a pauper, dead or insane, relative to his settlement, be admissible?

In the two cases alluded to it was held that, when he is dead, his declarations may be received in evidence; & the being in a state of insanity, which introduces the same impossibility of producing him as if he were dead, makes the evidence equally admissible (ASHURST, J.).—R. v. ERISWELL (INHABITANTS) (1790), 3 Term Rep. 707; 100 E. R. 815.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hill (1851), 2 Den. 254; Haines v. Guthrie (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 818. Refd. R. v. Ferry Frystone (1801), 2 East, 54; Flgg v. Wedderburne (1841), 11 L. J. Q. B. 45. Mentd. Smith v. Edge (1796), 6 Term Rep. 562; Johnson v. Lawson (1824), 2 Bing. 86; Wright v. Doe d. Tatham (1838), 7 L. J. Ex. 340; R. v. Walsh (1850), 5 Cox, C. C. 115; Bird v. Keep, [1918] 2 K. B. 692.

2933. —.]—R. v. FERRY FRYSTONE (INHABITANTS) (1801), 2 East, 54; 102 E. R. 289.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Addingham (1848), 12 Q. B. 63.

2934. —.]—If a witness is actually insane at the time of the trial of an indictment for a misdemeanour, his deposition, taken before the committing magistrate, is receivable in evidence, the same as if the witness were dead, although the insanity of the witness may be only temporary; but if it appear that the witness be not insane, but that the witness has been suffering from delirium & depression of spirits, in consequence of a blow on the head, & that his intellects are affected by the injuries he has received, but it be the opinion of his physician that he will recover, the deposition of the witness, taken before the committing magistrate, is not receivable in evidence.—R. v. MARSHALL (1841), Car. & M. 147.

(e) Witness kept away by Accused.

2935. General rule.—R. v. MORLEY (LORD) (1866), 6 State Tr. 770; Kel. 53; 1 Sid. 277; 84 E. R. 1079.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Sealife & Rooke (1851), 2 Den. 281. Mentd. R. v. Mawgridge (1706), Kel. 119; R. v. Oneby (1727), 1 Barn. K. B. 17.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 7, E. (e), (f) & (g)

2936. —.]—R. v. HARRISON (1692), 12 State Tr. 833.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Scaife & Rooke (1851), 2 Den. 231. Mentd. R. v. Ball (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 238.

2937. —.]—In a case of rape, if it were proved on the part of the prosecution that the party alleged to have been ravished had been kept out of the way by the prisoners, the judge would allow her deposition before the magistrate to be given in evidence.—R. v. GUTTRIDGE (1840), 9 C. & P. 471.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167. Mentd. R. v. St. George (1840), 9 C. & P. 483; R. v. Scaife (1841), 9 Dowl. 555; R. v. Bird (1851), 2 Den. 94.

2938. —.]—R. v. SCAIFE, No. 2896, ante.

(f) Depositions before Coroners.

See CORONERS, Vol. XIII., pp. 245, 256–258.

(g) Deposition taken on a Different Charge.

2939. Charge on trial different from charge before justices—Same transaction—General rule.]

—A deposition properly taken under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), before a magistrate against a prisoner on a charge of assault, is not receivable in evidence against him on a trial for feloniously wounding, although on both charges the transaction be the same, & the witness be too ill to attend the trial for the felony.

Such a deposition is only receivable in evidence where the indictment is for the same identical offence as that charged before the justice, & upon which such deposition was taken.—R. v. LEDBETTER, JENKINS, BRAIN & GOODE (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 108.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Dilmore (1852), 19 L. T. O. S. 50; R. v. Beeston (1854), Dears. C. C. 405. Refd. R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202.

2940. — Trial for murder—Deposition taken on less serious charge.]—A deposition of the deceased was admissible in a case of murder, although taken when prisoner was charged with another offence.—R. v. SMITH (1817), Holt, N. P. 614; Russ. & Ry. 339; 2 Stark. 208, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Hake (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 226; R. v. Walsh (1850), 5 Cox, C. C. 115; R. v. Beeston (1854), Dears. C. C. 405. Refd. R. v. Christopher (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 76. Mentd. Ex p. Bottomley, [1909] 2 K. B. 14.

2941. — — — —.]—Qu.: whether the deposition of a deceased person on a charge against prisoner of stabbing him can be read on a trial for the murder or manslaughter of the deceased.—R. v. DILMORE (1852), 19 L. T. O. S. 50; 6 Cox, C. C. 52.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Beeston (1854), Dears. C. C. 405.

2942. — — — —.]—Prisoner was charged before a magistrate with feloniously wounding A. with intent to do him grievous bodily harm, & the deposition of A. was taken under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17. A. subsequently died of the wound, & prisoner was indicted for his murder:—Held: on the trial of prisoner for the murder the deposition of A. might be read in evidence; as, although the deposition was not taken on the same technical charge as that for which the prisoner was indicted, it was in fact the same case, & prisoner had had full opportunity for cross-examination.

Semble: if the charge on the two occasions had been substantially different the deposition would not have been admissible.—R. v. BEESTON (1854), Dears. C. C. 405; 24 L. J. M. C. 5; 24 L. T. O. S. 100; 18 J. P. 728; 18 Jur. 1058; 3 W. R. 56; 3 C. L. R. 82; 6 Cox, C. C. 425, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Galvin (1865), 10 Cox, C. C. 198. Foldd. R. v. Edmunds (1909), 25 T. L. R. 658.

2943. — — — —.]—R. v. LEE, No. 2884, ante.

2944. — — — —.]—Prisoner was indicted for murder, & it was suggested by the prosecution that the motive of prisoner was to get rid of the deceased, who was a witness against him for an assault for which he had been committed for trial, but acquitted, in consequence of the absence of the deceased. The deposition of the deceased taken upon the original charge of assault was tendered, in order to show that the deceased was a material witness:—Held: the deposition being taken prior to the passing of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17, was not admissible.—R. v. SHIPPEY (1871), 12 Cox, C. C. 161.

2945. — — — —.]—In order to prove malice or motive against the accused, the deposition of the accused against him, taken before the magistrates on another charge & for which he was afterwards convicted, was tendered in evidence:—Held: admissible.—R. v. BUCKLEY (1873), 13 Cox, C. C. 293.

2946. — — — —.]—Prisoner was indicted for the murder of a woman. At his trial the deposition of the woman, which was taken at a time when it was expected that she would recover & prisoner was being charged with attempted murder, was given in evidence:—Held: the deposition was properly admitted.—R. v. EDMUNDS (1909), 25 T. L. R. 658; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 257, C. C. A.

2947. — Trial for uttering forged document—Deposition taken on charge of obtaining money by false pretences.]—Where a prisoner is charged before a magistrate with obtaining money by false pretences, & afterwards indicted for uttering a forged promissory note, the charges arising out of one & the same transaction & being in fact identical, & prisoner having had the opportunity of cross-examination before the magistrate:—Held: the deposition of a witness taken at such hearing, & who was afterwards unfit to travel to give evidence, was admissible & might be read at the trial for uttering the forged promissory note.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1871), 12 Cox, C. C. 101.

F. Statement of the Accused at Preliminary Examination.

See Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42).

2948. General rule—Put in by prosecution.]—(1) Where upon a criminal trial counsel for the defence calls prisoner as a witness under the provisions of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), their consideration upon the question of the existence of a motive:—Held: the documents were properly admitted in evidence for that purpose.—R. v. LYDANE (1858), 8 Cox, C. C. 38.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—F.

t. When not in writing—Admissibility of parol evidence.]—If prisoner's declaration before a magistrate has not been taken in writing, parol evidence of it is admissible.—R. v.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—E. (g).

s. Former charge quite distinct.]—Prisoner was tried in 1858, for the murder of M. in 1857. In 1856, M. had sworn informations against prisoner for rape. It was proved at the trial that the informations were sworn by her, & subscribed by her in the presence of prisoner, & that then a recognisance was executed for prisoner to appear at the Assizes, 1856.

Prisoner married M. before the Assizes, & consequently the charge was not proceeded with. At the trial in 1858, the informations so sworn, & the recognisances, were offered in evidence by the Crown. The judge received them, telling the jury that they were to regard them, not as evidence of the truth or falsehood of the charge so made, but as evidence of the fact of a charge having been made; & that the facts evinced by the mere existence of those documents might be taken into but calls no other evidence, the right of the prosecuting counsel to sum up the evidence against prisoner is not extinguished, but is merely postponed until after prisoner has given his evidence. In exercising his right of summing up, the counsel for the prosecution is entitled to comment upon the evidence given by prisoner.

(2) Under the provisions of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), prisoner charged with an indictable offence is cautioned, & any statement made by him after such caution is taken down, & it is the invariable course at his subsequent trial, whether such statement tells for him or against him, to put it in as part of the case for the prosecution, treating it not as evidence, but as a statement made by the prisoner; & it is further a most ordinary thing for counsel to point out inconsistencies apparent in the statement (LORD RUSSELL, C.J.).—R. v. GARDNER, [1899] 1 Q. B. 150; 68 L. J. Q. B. 42; 79 L. T. 358; 62 J. P. 743; 47 W. R. 77; 15 T. L. R. 26; 43 Sol. Jo. 30; 19 Cox, C. C. 177, C. C. R.

2949. Admissibility—Whether further proof necessary.—The prosecutor proved, that when prisoner was before the magistrate she was duly cautioned, & that she made a statement, which was taken down & read over to her, to which she made her mark, the magistrate also signing it. The prosecutor identified the paper by his own signature to his own deposition, being on the same sheet of paper:—Held: prisoner's statement might be given in evidence without examining either the magistrate or his clerk.—R. v. HEARN (1841), Car. & M. 109.

2950. ———.]—Semble: the statement before the magistrate of an accused person, though taken in the form given in Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), is not admissible without further proof under sect. 18 of that statute, unless the requisites contained in the proviso to that section have been inserted in the form, or proved to have been fulfilled.—R. v. KIMBER (1849), 13 J. P. 122; 3 Cox, C. C. 223.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sansome (1850), 1 Den. 545.

2951. ———.]—Semble: before a statement made by a prisoner in the presence of & duly signed by the committing magistrate can be received in evidence against him, proof must be given that he was cautioned in the manner provided by Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 18, dehors any declaration to that effect contained in the caption of the statement itself.—R. v. HIGSON (1849), 2 Car. & Kir. 769.

2952. ———.]—Where a statement made by a prisoner before the committing magistrates appears on the face of it to have been duly taken under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 26, & is at the trial produced from the depositions of the witnesses taken at the same time, & appears to have been transmitted with them, it is receivable in evidence without further proof.—R. v. HARRIS (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 509; 4 Cox, C. C. 147.

2953. ———.]—You ask me for the statement; I hand it down, taking notice that it is in the proper form & that it has been duly transmitted by the justices to the proper officer of the ct.; for if it appears to have been so transmitted, & there is nothing shown to the contrary, then it is to be assumed to have been duly taken according to, & within the meaning of, the recent statute, & therefore no further evidence is necessary (ERLE, J.).—R. v. HUNT (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 509; 4 Cox, C. C. 149, n.

2954. ———.]—The examination of prisoner taken by the magistrate in form 11, given in the schedule to Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), & duly returned to the ct., is admissible without proof of the signature of the magistrate, or of compliance with the proviso in sect. 18 of that statute.—R. v. STEEL (1849), 13 J. P. 606.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sansome (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 332.

2955. ———.]—On Oct. 24 prisoner, when before the committing magistrate, & after being cautioned by him in the manner prescribed by Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 18, made a statement, which was taken down in writing, but not signed by him or by the magistrate. He was remanded, & on Oct. 31 brought again before the magistrate; no new witnesses were examined, but prisoner's attorney put some questions to a witness who had been examined before. Prisoner was again cautioned, but declined to make any statement:—Held: the statement made on Oct. 24 was admissible in evidence at the trial.—R. v. BOND (1850) 1 Den. 517; 3 Car. & Kir. 337, n.; T. & M. 242 4 New Mag. Cas. 133; 4 New Sess. Cas. 143 19 L. J. M. C. 138; 13 J. P. 796; 14 J. P. 288; 14 Jur. 399; 4 Cox, C. C. 231, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Thomas (1850), 14 J. P. 513.

Mentd. R. v. Faderman (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 359.

2956. ———.]—A statement made by a prisoner before a committing magistrate, & signed by prisoner & the magistrate, if taken in the form prescribed by the schedule to Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), is admissible in evidence against him at his trial at common law; & semble: under above statute, without proof of the magistrate's signature.—R. v. SANSOME (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 332; 1 Den. 545; T. & M. 260; 4 New Mag. Cas. 80; 4 New Sess. Cas. 152; 19 L. J. M. C. 143; 15 L. T. O. S. 119; 14 J. P. 273; 14 Jur. 466; 4 Cox, C. C. 203, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Hertfordshire JJ. (1910), 80 L. J. K. B. 437.

2957. ———.]—Statement made without previous caution.—A statement elicited from a prisoner by questions put to him without any previous caution by a magistrate, before whom he is brought in custody upon a criminal charge is not admissible against him in evidence at his trial.—R. v. PETTIT (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 164.

Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

2958. ———.]—Statement in answer to question by magistrate.—After the investigation before a magistrate on a charge of concealment of birth & after the accused had been cautioned in the usual manner & had stated that she had nothing to say, but before her actual committal, the presiding magistrate asked her what she had done with the body of the child:—Held: her statement in answer was not admissible.—R. v. BERRIMAN (1854), 6 Cox, C. C. 388.

Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

2959. ———.]—To contradict defence set up on trial.—Prisoner made his defence before the committing magistrate, & on his trial he relied on matter of excuse wholly repugnant to his former statement. That former statement had not been given in evidence in the case for the prosecution, & therefore the ct. would not allow it to be read afterwards to contradict the defence set up on trial.—R. v. POWELL (1842), Car. & M. 500.

2960. Whether evidence.—The reading, on the part of the prosecution, of prisoner's statement, FARRELL (1841), Arm. M. & O. 72.—IR.

u. Prisoner's signature—In forgery.]

—The signature of a prisoner to the Statement of Accused at the preliminary hearing may be tendered as evidence against him at his trial on a charge of forgery.—It. v. GOLDEN (1905), 11 B. C. R. 349.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 7, F.; sub-sect. 8, returned by the magistrate at the end of the depositions, does not give prisoner the right to consider the depositions as in evidence on the part of the prosecution, though it appear that they were all taken before the statement was made; but if prisoner wishes to have the whole or any particular part of the depositions read, he must read it as his evidence.—R. v. PEARSON & BROOKS (1837), 7 C. & P. 671.

2961. —.]—Prisoner's statement before the magistrate cannot, when tendered generally, be received as evidence on his behalf. Prisoner's statement is evidence against him, but not for him. But what he said, before the magistrate, he may repeat through his counsel.—R. v. HAINES (1858), 1 F. & F. 86.

SUB-SECT. 8.—THE DEFENCE.

A. Order.

2962. Joint indictment.]—When several prisoners are defended by different counsel, the order of their defences is not to be determined by the seniority of their counsel at the bar, but on the precise offence charged against each; & in a well-drawn indictment, the order in which the prisoners should be called on for their defence usually coincides with the order of their names in the indictment.—R. v. MEADOWS (1856), 2 Jur. N. S. 718.

2963. —.]—Where several persons are indicted for the same offence, the order in which they should be called on to make their defence is not determined by the order in which their names stand in the indictment.—R. v. HOLMAN & POPLETT (1857), 3 Jur. N. S. 722.

2964. —.]—Where two prisoners were indicted for the same offence, with a second count charging one of them as accessory after the fact, the prisoner named first in the indictment, though he had no counsel, was heard in his defence before the other prisoner, who was defended by counsel.—R. v. THOMAS & HARRIS (1857), 3 Jur. N. S. 272.

2965. —.]—Where two prisoners were indicted, one for larceny, & the other as receiver of the stolen property, the latter of whom was defended by counsel, & the former not:—Held: the counsel for the receiver should make his defence first.—R. v. BELTON & GREENGOW (1859), 5 Jur. N. S. 276.

2966. Order of speeches for defence—Where more than one accused—In discretion of judge—Not by seniority of counsel.]—On the trial of a cause it is in the discretion of the judge to say in what order the counsel for different defts., having different interests shall cross-examine & address the jury. The order of seniority is not imperative.—FLETCHER v. CROSBIE (1842), 2 Mood. & R. 417, N. P.

2967. — — — Order of names in indictment.]—Where the counsel for several prisoners cannot agree as to the order in which they are to address the jury, the ct. will call upon them, not in the order of their seniority, but in the order in which the names of the prisoners stand in the indictment. But where the counsel for one prisoner has witnesses to fact to examine, the counsel for another cannot be allowed to postpone his address to the jury until after those witnesses have been examined.—R. v. BARBER (1844), 1 Car. & Kir. 434; 8 J. P. 644; sub nom. R. v. RICHARDS, BARBER, FLETCHER & DOREY, 3 L. T. O. S. 142; 1 Cox, C. C. 62.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rowlands (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 436.

2968. — — — Order of professional standing.]—R. v. ESDAILE (1858), 1 F. & F. 213.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

2969. — — — One of two undefended—Undefended prisoner first.]—If two defts. are indicted for a conspiracy, the judge will, under certain circumstances, permit one of defts., who conducts his own case, to cross-examine before the counsel for the other deft., & after the conclusion of prosecutor's case, to address the jury & call his witnesses, before the counsel for other deft. opens his case.

A witness who is subpoenaed by a deft. indicted for a conspiracy, is compellable to give evidence, though such deft. refuses to pay his expenses; & the indictment having been removed by certiorari, & coming down to the assizes as a civil record, does not make any difference as to this.—R. v. COOKE & JENKINSON (1824), 1 C. & P. 321.

2970. — — — —.]—Where one prisoner was indicted for stealing, & the other for receiving, & the receiver was defended by counsel, but the principal felon was undefended, the ct. called upon the principal to make his statement to the jury before the counsel for the receiver was permitted to address them.—R. v. MARTIN & BUTT (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 56.

2971. — — — Defended prisoner first.]—Where two prisoners are jointly indicted, & the second in the indictment only is defended by counsel, the latter will be permitted to address the jury before the other makes his statement, notwithstanding the rule established in R. v. Barber, No. 2967, ante.—R. v. HAZELL & BIRD (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 220.

2972. — — — —.]—R. v. BALFOUR (1895), Times, Oct. 29.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—A.

v. Where three defended—Counsel for two ignorant of form of accusations.]—A., B. & C. were charged on a joint presentment with conspiracy to defraud. A. gave evidence on his own behalf & called witnesses. B. gave evidence on his own behalf, but called no witnesses & did not cross-examine any of A.'s witnesses. C. gave no evidence & called no witnesses, & made at the trial no unworn statement, but did ask a few questions of one of A.'s witnesses. The evidence given affected all the accused, who were separately represented by counsel. On the point of order in which, after the close of the evidence, counsel should address the jury:—Held: the general rule that where upon a joint presentment one prisoner calls evidence which is applicable to the others, the Crown has a right of general reply, is correct, & should usually be adhered to, but the rule is not inflexible &, in the peculiar circumstances of this case, counsel for B. & C. being really unaware of the way in which the facts would be presented against their respective clients counsel for A. should first address the jury followed by counsel for the Crown, counsel for B. & counsel for C. in that order.—R. v. ORTON, [1922] V. L. R. 469.—AUS.

a. Where one accused calls no witnesses.]—A. & B., being jointly charged with intent to commit a felony, A. was represented by counsel but B. was not. The Crown evidence was that A. & B. had committed the offence in company, A. having a revolver at the time. A. gave evidence in his own behalf in support of an alibi, but was the only witness called by the defence in his own case. B. & B.'s wife both gave evidence on B.'s behalf in support of an alibi. A. counsel elicited from B. in cross-examination the statement that A. & B. were not in company at the time of the alleged joint offence, & from B. wife the statement that A. had openly shown to various persons a revolver which was found at his residence, which it was suggested might be the revolver above referred to:—Held the order of the concluding address should be: First, B.; secondly, prosecutor for the King; thirdly, counsel for A.—R. v. CANAN, [1918] V. L. R. 390. AUS.

B. Conduct of Defence in General.

2973. Opening the case—Counsel calling witnesses has right to open his case.]—Counsel who intends to call witnesses for the defence other than deft. has an absolute right to open his case to the jury.—R. v. HILL (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

2974. Right to cross-examine co-defendant—Right of reply by prosecution.]—R. v. PAGET, No. 2893, ante.

2975. —.]—When one prisoner gives evidence on oath inculcating another charged on a joint indictment, he is liable to be cross-examined by or on behalf of that other.—R. v. HADWEN, [1902] 1 K. B. 882; 71 L. J. K. B. 581; 86 L. T. 601; 66 J. P. 456; 50 W. R. 589; 18 T. L. R. 555; 46 Sol. Jo. 464; 20 Cox, C. C. 206, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Hunting & Ward (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 177; R. v. Macdonnell (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 322; R. v. Paul, R. v. McFarlane, [1920] 2 K. B. 183.

2976. Right to cross-examine witnesses for co-defendant.]—Upon the trial of A., B. & C. for a conspiracy, where after the case on the part of the prosecution is closed, C. only calls witnesses & examines as to a conversation between himself & A., the counsel for the Crown may cross-examine such witnesses as to any other conversation between A. & C., although the evidence tend chiefly to criminate A.—R. v. KROEHL (1818), 2 Stark. 343.

2977. — No right of defence to reply.]—If one of two joint defts. calls witnesses, the counsel for the other deft. may cross-examine such witnesses, & then the counsel for the prosecution may cross-examine them. But the counsel for the other deft. cannot again address the jury upon such evidence.—R. v. PAINTER & DAVIS (1849), 13 J. P. 381.

2978. — Right of defence to reply.]—On the trial of two prisoners, jointly indicted for manslaughter, & separately defended, witnesses were called on the part of one of the prisoners, for the purpose of showing that the death of the deceased had been caused by the act of the other:—Held: the counsel for the latter had a right both to cross-examine such witnesses, & to reply upon their evidence.—R. v. WOOD (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 224; 17 J. P. 714.

*Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Hadwen, [1902] 1 K. B. 882.

2979. —.]—Where two prisoners are jointly indicted, & a witness called by one of them, gives evidence criminatory of the other, the latter has a right, by himself or his counsel, to cross-examine that witness & address the jury in reply upon the evidence so given.—R. v. BURDETT (1855), Dears. C. C. 431; 24 L. J. M. C. 63; 6 Cox, C. C. 458; sub nom. R. v. LUCK, 24 L. T. O. S. 280; 19 J. P. 87; 1 Jur. N. S. 119; 3 W. R. 246; 3 C. L. R. 440, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hadwen, [1902] 1 K. B. 882.

Reid. Allen v. Allen, [1894] P. 248. Mentd. Parnell v. G. W. Ry. (1876), 34 L. T. 126.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—B.

b. Opening the case—Must address jury before witnesses examined.]—Prisoner's counsel must, if at all, address the jury before he examines witnesses for the defence, & cannot be allowed to do so afterwards.—MANNIX'S CASE (1841), Ir. Clr. Rep. 163.—IR.

c. — Right to address jury—After right waived.]—Prisoner's counsel held entitled to address the jury after having gone into his defence, the Crown having produced a witness to contradict the testimony of one of prisoner's witnesses, although, when the case for the Crown had closed, he had waived his right to address the jury.—MURPHY'S CASE (1841), Ir.

Clr. Rep. 117.—IR.

d. Right to alternative defence.]—There is nothing in law to prevent a man on his trial on a charge of culpable homicide from setting up an alternative defence.—It. v. YUSUF HUSAIN (1918), 1 L. R. 40 All. 284.—IND.

e. Accused undefended—Jury addressed by accused.]—Where an accused is undefended at the trial, the judge must be careful to point out to the jury the leading points in favour of the defence, but where the accused has himself made an elaborate address to the jury & has refused throughout a long trial to have counsel an Appellate Ct. should not be astute in finding points overlooked by the trial judge in his charge.—R. v. KELLY (1916),

2980. —.]—R. v. COPLEY, No. 3109, post.

2981. —.]—The evidence of one party cannot be received as evidence against another party in the same litigation unless the latter has had an opportunity of testing it by cross-examination.

It appears to us to be contrary to all rules of evidence, & opposed to natural justice, that the evidence of one party should be received as evidence against another party, without the latter having an opportunity of testing its truthfulness by cross-examination. In the case of prisoners jointly charged with an offence, the jury are always most carefully warned that what one may say inculcating the other, is not evidence against that other. The reason is because one prisoner cannot cross-examine another, & therefore, their statements condemnatory of each other, unassailable by cross-examination, would be valueless. But when two prisoners are jointly indicted, & a witness called by one gives evidence criminatory of the other, the latter has a right by himself or his counsel to cross-examine that witness (LOPES, L.J.).—ALLEN v. ALLEN, [1894] P. 248; 63 L. J. P. 120; 70 L. T. 783; 42 W. R. 549; 10 T. L. R. 456; 6 R. 597, C. A.

*Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hadwen, [1902] 1 K. B. 882; Brown v. Brown, [1915] P. 83. Reid. Hensley v. Hensley & Nevins (1920), 122 L. T. 814; Mourilyan v. Mourilyan, Mourilyan v. Mourilyan & Fazil (1922), 127 L. T. 403. Mentd. De Gasquet James v. Mecklenburg-Schwerin, [1914] P. 53.

2982. Witness for prosecution recalled—Right to cross-examine.]—Where, after the examination of witnesses to fact on behalf of a prisoner, the judge, there being no counsel for prosecution, calls back & examines a witness for the prosecution, the prisoner's counsel has a right to cross-examine again if he thinks it material.—R. v. WATSON (1834), 6 C. & P. 653.

2983. Taking objections—Technical objections must be taken at the trial.]—Technical objections must be taken at the trial.—R. v. PAYNE (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 259, C. C. A.

2984. Defence of insanity—Must be raised at the trial.]—R. v. ATHERLEY, [1909] 3 Cr. App. Rep. 165, C. C. A.

2985. —.]—Where deft. deliberately refuses to raise the defence of insanity at the trial the ct. will not allow him to raise it on appeal.—R. v. SIMPSON (1910), 75 J. P. 56; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 217, C. C. A.

2986. — Counsel must not quote opinions of medical men from books.]—Where a plea of insanity is set up, the prisoner's counsel has no right in his address to the jury to quote the opinions of medical men as given in their works.—R. v. CROUCH (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 186; 9 J. P. 10; 1 Cox, C. C. 94.

2987. Conduct of counsel for defence—Jury to

35 W. L. R. 46; 11 W. W. R. 46.—CAN.

f. Discretion of judge—Postponement of cross-examination.]—A judge in a criminal case may in his discretion postpone the cross-examination of a witness.—It. v. CHUBB (1863), 2 N. S. W. S. C. R. 282.—AUS.

g. Taking objections.]—Where prisoner is defended by counsel, any objection to the charge of the presiding judge, either for non-direction or for misdirection, must be taken at the trial, & if not then taken it cannot be afterwards raised, especially where the evidence fully sustains the verdict.—R. v. FICK (1866), 16 C. P. 379.—CAN.

h. Names of witnesses—Should be lodged in court.]—The name & designa-

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 8, B., C., D. & E.]

take law from judge.]—The jury should take the law from the judge; & therefore, where cases had been cited to the judge on a legal argument, & he had given an opinion on them, they were not allowed to be read to the jury in the address of the prisoner's counsel to them.—R. v. PARISH (1837), 8 C. & P. 94.

2988. Must not suggest recommendation to mercy.]—It is improper for counsel for a prisoner to suggest to a jury to recommend a prisoner to mercy.—R. v. MCINTYRE (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 379.

2989. Discretion of counsel—When instructed to set up two inconsistent defences.]—If counsel is instructed to set up two inconsistent defences, he is entitled to use his discretion as to which he will put forward.—R. v. DENOEL (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1756; 114 L. T. 1215; 32 T. L. R. 473; 25 Cox, C. C. 429; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

2990. Summing up by counsel—Right to make observations on whole case.]—R. v. WAINWRIGHT (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 171.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

C. No Evidence to go to Jury.

2991. Meaning of "evidence to go to jury."]—The meaning of the phrase "evidence to go to the jury" is such evidence that if the jury found in favour of the party for whom it was offered, the ct. would not upset the judgment.—PARRATT v. BLUNT & CORNFOT (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 103; 2 Cox, C. C. 242.

2992. Duty of defending counsel—To make submission in a proper case.]—In a proper case counsel for the defence ought to submit, at the close of the case for the Crown, that there is no evidence to go to the jury.—R. v. WHITE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 211, C. C. A.

2993. Duty of judge—To withdraw case on submission—If no case.]—When at the close of the evidence for the prosecution there is no case to go to the jury, the ct. on a submission, ought to withdraw the case from them.—R. v. LEACH (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 72, C. C. A.

2994. May withdraw case where no submission made.]—(1) Prisoner was convicted on an indictment charging him with burglary, larceny, & receiving, & sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour. On an appeal from the conviction:—Held: as the evidence only justified a verdict of guilty on the count for receiving, the ct. would reduce the sentence to six months, as it could not feel confident that the sentence of twelve months would have been imposed had the jury found the prisoner guilty of receiving only.

(2) If at the close of the case for the prosecution the judge considers that there was no evidence to go to the jury, he might, on his own initiative, stop the case, but, in the absence of a submission on behalf of prisoner that the case ought not to go to the jury, he was not in law bound to stop it.

(3) Where the case proceeds & evidence is given for the defence which is evidence against the prisoner, & on which he is convicted the ct. will not quash the conviction on the ground that there was no evidence against the prisoner in the case for the prosecution.—R. v. GEORGE (1908),

73 J. P. 11; 25 T. L. R. 66; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (2) Refd. R. v. Leach (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 72. As to (3) Follid. R. v. Jackson (1910), 74 J. P. 352. Refd. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

2995. ———.]—J. was indicted for stealing. At the close of the case for the Crown there was no evidence against him, but he made no submission to that effect, & the judge who tried the case did not withdraw it from the jury. J. then called evidence on behalf of the defence, which afforded evidence of his guilt, & he was convicted.—R. v. JACKSON (1910), 74 J. P. 352; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

2996. Where case left to jury—Although no evidence to go to jury—Whether evidence called for defence can be regarded.]—R. v. GEORGE, No. 2994, ante.

2997. ———.]—J., who was a breeder of pheasants, left his cottage on Dec. 28, at 3.15 a.m., with nothing in his hands. Three hours later he returned carrying a sack containing eleven tame pheasants. J. was tried for larceny, & the case for the prosecution consisted of the above facts given in evidence by the police who were watching J.'s cottage. No one was called to prove that he had lost any live tame pheasants. J.'s counsel submitted that there was no evidence of larceny to go to the jury; but this contention was overruled & J. was convicted:—Held: (1) there was no evidence of larceny to go to the jury; (2) counsel for prisoner having taken the point, at the close of the case for the prosecution, that there was no evidence to go to the jury, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal would not look to see whether any evidence of larceny was elicited subsequently in the case for the defence.—R. v. JOINER (1910), 74 J. P. 200; 26 T. L. R. 265; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A.

Annotations:—N.F. R. v. Fraser (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 99; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

2998. ———.]—R. v. JACKSON, No. 2995, ante.

2999. ———.]—There was no sufficient evidence when the case for the prosecution closed to be left to the jury. . . . Of course, if the evidence for the defence supported what was wanting the ct. would not interfere (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. PEARSON (No. 1) (1908), 72 J. P. 449; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Howells & Allen (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 197; R. v. Fraser (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 99; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

3000. ———.]—Where an objection is taken by counsel unsuccessfully, & he then calls evidence, this ct. is not bound to disregard the effect of that evidence (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. FRASER (1911), 76 J. P. 168; 7 Cr. App. Cas. 99, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Follid. R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

3001. ———.]—Where at the close of the case for the prosecution it is submitted that there is no evidence to support the charge, but the judge rules that there is a case to answer & evidence adversely affecting the prisoner is then given for the defence, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal, even if they consider that the judge's ruling was wrong, are not bound to disregard the effect of the evidence for the defence, & will not quash the conviction on the ground that the evidence for the prosecution tion of every witness to be examined for the defence must be duly lodged with the Clerk of Justiciary, & notice by letter to the Crown officers of the intention to examine such witnesses is not sufficient.—H.M. ADVOCATE v.

MUR (or MURE) (1858), 3 Irv. 280.—SCOT.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—C.

k. Duty of judge—To withdraw case.]—A judge has no power, in the absence of statutory authority, to withdraw a case from the hands of the jury after prisoner has been arraigned.—R. v. LAMBERT & HAYWARD (1915), S. R. 213.—S. AF.

disclosed no case if it has been sufficiently supplemented by the evidence for the defence.—R. v. POWER, [1919] 1 K. B. 572; 88 L. J. K. B. 593; 120 L. T. 577; 83 J. P. 124; 35 T. L. R. 283; 26 Cox, C. C. 399; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. O. A.

3002. ———.—R. v. HOGAN, No. 1937, ante.

3003. Joint trial—Submission upheld as to one accused—Time for acquittal & discharge.]—In an action of tort against several, if there be evidence against some only, & none against others, it is discretionary with the judge at nisi prius, whether he will direct the acquittal of such defts., against whom there is no evidence, at the close of pltf.'s case, for the purpose of making them witnesses for co-defts. But such an intermediate acquittal is not a matter which defts.' counsel can claim of right.—DAVIS v. LIVING (1816), Holt, N. P. 275, N. P.

3004. ———.—A co-deft. against whom pltf. has given no evidence, has no right to an acquittal to be made a witness, until all the other evidence for defts. is finished.—WRIGHT v. PAULIN (1824), Ry. & M. 128, N. P.

3005. ———.—CARPENTER v. JONES (1828), Mood. & M. 198, n.

Annotation:—Refd. Leach v. Wilkinson (1836), 1 Mood. & R. 537.

3006. ———.—A person jointly indicted with another under Prevention of Cruelty to, & Protection of, Children Act, 1889 (c. 44), s. 7, but against whom no case is made out, is, nevertheless, not entitled to be discharged at the close of the case for the prosecution where the other person charged elects to give evidence.—R. v. MARTIN (1889), 17 Cox, C. C. 36.

D. Accused as a Witness.

3007. Should be informed of right to give evidence.]—A prisoner ought to be distinctly told that he has a right to give evidence on his own behalf.—R. v. WARREN (1909), 73 J. P. 359; 25 T. L. R. 633; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 194, C. O. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Graham (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 40.

3008. — Whether omission to do so ground for quashing conviction.]—An undefended prisoner should always be informed of his right to give evidence on oath or to make an unsworn statement to the ct., but a mere omission on the part of the judge to inform him of this right is not a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. YELDHAM (1922), 128 L. T. 28; 27 Cox, C. C. 315; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 18, C. C. A.

3003 i. Joint trial—Submission upheld as to one accused—Time for acquittal & discharge.]—Where no evidence appears against one of several prisoners he ought to be acquitted at the close of prosecutor's case.—R. v. HAMBLEY (1859), 16 U. C. R. 617.—CAN.

1. — Discretion of judge.]—The judge is not bound to order acquittal of one of prisoners joined in an indictment at the close of the case for the Crown, where evidence is to be adduced on behalf of the other prisoners.—R. v. KENNEDY (1856), 3 N. S. R. (2 Thom.) 203.—CAN.

m. Where prosecution defective—Evidence of accused.]—Though the case for the prosecution may be defective through insufficient evidence, but the trial proceeds, & evidence is given on behalf of accused, the latter evidence may be taken advantage of to establish accused's guilt.—R. v. HUGHES, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 119; 55 D. L. R. 697; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 103.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—D.

n. Should be called as first witness for defence—No fixed rule.]—There is no rule of law which prevents an accused person giving evidence even after he has called other witnesses for the defence. It is desirable that he should be the first witness called where witnesses are ordered out of ct. This rule does not apply to an accused person who makes a statement.—R. v. RICHARDS, McDONALD & AUNGER (1918), S. A. L. R. 315.—AUS.

3011 i. Liability to cross-examination.]—If accused makes a statement & afterwards testifies on oath as a witness the only limit of his liability to be cross-examined is that contained in Crimes Act, 1900, s. 407 (1) (b).—BROWN v. R. (1913), 17 C. L. R. 570.—AUS.

3011 ii. —.]—An accused giving evidence must submit it to cross-examination.—R. v. GRAVEL, [1918] Q. R. 28 K. B. 146.—CAN.

o. — By co-defendant.]—Where two prisoners are jointly indicted & one of them gives evidence which does not incriminate the other, the latter

3009. — — —.]—Neglect to inform a deft. on trial that he is entitled to give evidence on oath & to call witnesses may be a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. GRAHAM (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 40, C. C. A.

3010. Should be called as first witness for defence.]—R. v. MORRISON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

3011. Liability to cross-examination.]—Where a prisoner is on his trial for an offence in which he may & does give evidence, he may be cross-examined to the same extent as in the case of an ordinary witness.—R. v. GAWTHROP (1895), 59 J. P. 377.

As to limits of cross-examination, see Part VI., Sect. 3, sub-sect. 2.

Failure of accused to give evidence—Comment by judge.]—See Sect. 7, sub-sect. 12, C., post.

Evidence of accused.]—See Part VI., Sect. 3, sub-sect. 2, post.

E. Statement by Accused.

3012. Statement by accused through his counsel—Not permitted as to facts.]—A prisoner's counsel, in addressing the jury, will not be allowed to state anything which he is not in a situation to prove by evidence, or which is not already in proof, & the counsel for the prisoner will not be allowed to state prisoner's story, unless he is able to confirm it by evidence.—R. v. BEARD (1837), 8 C. & P. 142. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Burrows (1838), 2 Mood. & R. 124.

3013. — If made gives right of reply.]—Counsel for prisoners in felony have no right to give the prisoners' statement of the facts. A statement of facts not intended to be proved gives a reply to the counsel for the prosecution.—R. v. BUTCHER (1839), 2 Mood. & R. 228.

3014. — — —.]—A prisoner on his trial defended by counsel is not entitled to have his explanation of the case to the jury made through the mouth of his counsel, but may, at the conclusion of his counsel's address, himself address the jury & make such statement, subject to this, that what he says will be treated as additional facts laid before the ct., & entitling the prosecution to the reply.—R. v. SHIMMIN (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 122.

3015. — Statement before magistrate read.]—R. v. HAINES, No. 2961, ante.

3016. — Statement permitted as to accused's intention.]—Prisoner's counsel allowed to make a statement on the part of prisoner to show that the trigger of the gun was pulled without any intention has no right to cross-examine the former.—R. v. MUTCH (1894), 15 N. S. W. L. R. 226.—AUS.

p. Failure of accused to give evidence—Comment by counsel.]—Counsel are not allowed to comment on fact of prisoner refraining from going into the witness box.—R. v. LYNCH, [1919] S. A. L. R. 325.—AUS.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—E.

q. Statement by accused through his counsel—Not to include inadmissible evidence.]—Counsel for prisoner may open to the jury the facts which prisoner intends to include in his statement to the jury, but counsel must not open such facts to the jury as the evidence which he proposes to adduce at the trial if such evidence has been ruled to be inadmissible.—R. v. MAHON (1891), 17 V. L. R. 335.—AUS.

r. Whether in lieu of evidence. Prisoner is not entitled to make statement to the jury in lieu of giving of firing it.—R. v. WESTON (1879), 14 Cox, C. C. 346.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 8, E. & F.; sub-sect. 9, A.]

3017. Irrelevant & irregular statement by accused—Power of judge to refuse to allow.]—

A judge has the right to refuse to allow a prisoner on his defence to make a statement irrelevant to the issue or subversive of law.—R. v. DUNN & O'SULLIVAN (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 863; 38 T. L. R. 907; 67 Sol. Jo. 49; sub nom. R. v. DUNN, R. v. O'SULLIVAN, 128 L. T. 27; 27 Cox, C. C. 312; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

3018. Right to make statement on oath—Effect of irregularity—Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (g), (h).]—If the ct. allows deft. either, when he is on oath, to read a statement from the witness-box, or to have his statement read for him by some one else, this is by way of indulgence to him, & if there is any irregularity under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (g) & (h), he cannot make it a ground of appeal.—R. v. ELLIOTT (1909), 100 L. T. 976; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

F. Right of Accused to address the Jury.

3019. When defended by counsel—Accused cannot address the jury in addition to his counsel.]—

If a prisoner employs counsel to examine & cross-examine witnesses, he will not be allowed to do so himself in addition, but it will be at his option whether he or his counsel address the jury.—R. v. REDHEAD (alias YORKE) (1795), 25 State Tr. 1003.

3020. ———.]—If, in a case of felony, prisoner's counsel has addressed the jury, prisoner himself will not be allowed to address the jury also.—R. v. BOUCHER (1837), 8 C. & P. 141.

3021. ———.]—Where a prisoner is defended by counsel he has no right to make two statements to the jury, one by himself, the other by his counsel.—R. v. BURROWS, HUDDY & DAY (1838), 2 Mood. & R. 124.

3022. ———.]—A foreigner, indicted for felony, being unable to speak English, the proceedings were explained to him by an interpreter. He was defended by counsel, who cross-examined the witnesses for the prosecution, at the close of which the judge, through the interpreter, acquainted prisoner that he might choose whether he would make his defence himself or allow his counsel to make it for him, but that both could not be heard.—R. v. TESTE (1858), 4 Jur. N. S. 244.

3023. ———.]—A prisoner will be allowed to make his own statement to the jury, but his counsel cannot be permitted afterwards to address the jury for him.

The right of reply where no evidence is called for the defence, on behalf of the Crown in Mint Cases, not admitted.—R. v. TAYLOR (1859), 1 F. & F. 535.

3024. ——— Except on charge of treason.]—Prisoner, in a case of high treason, has a right to address the jury in addition to the speeches of his counsel.—R. v. COLLINS (1832), 5 C. & P. 305.

3025. — Accused can address jury before his counsel—Where counsel only argues points of law.]—

On the trial of a misdemeanour, deft. cannot have the assistance of counsel to examine the witnesses, & reserve to himself the right of addressing the jury; but if he conducts his defence himself, & any point of law arises which he professes himself unable to argue, the ct. will hear this argued by his counsel.—R. v. WHITE (1811), 3 Camp. 98, N. P.

3026. ———.]—(1) On the trial of an indictment for perjury the judge will allow deft. to address the jury, & cross-examine the witnesses, & his counsel to argue points of law.—R. v. PARKINS (1824), 1 C. & P. 548; Ry. & M. 166, N. P.

3027. ——— Only in special circumstances.]—Although the judge will, under very peculiar circumstances, allow a prisoner, charged with felony, to make a statement before his counsel addresses the jury, this is not to be considered as a precedent with respect to the general practice in such cases.—R. v. WALKLING (1838), 8 C. & P. 243.

3028. ———.]—A prisoner charged with felony, who is defended by counsel, ought not to be allowed to make a statement in addition to the defence of counsel, unless under very particular circumstances, & the general rule ought to be, that a prisoner, defended by counsel, should be entirely in the hands of his counsel. That rule should not be infringed on, except in very special cases.—R. v. RIDER (1838), 8 C. & P. 539.

Annotation:—N.F. R. v. Manzano (1860), 6 Jur. N. S. 406.

3029. ———.]—On the trial of a case of shooting, with intent to do grievous bodily harm, there having been no person present at the time of the offence but the prosecutor & prisoner, the latter was, under these special circumstances, allowed to make a statement before his counsel addressed the jury.—R. v. MALINGS (1838), 8 C. & P. 242.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Walkling (1838), 8 C. & P. 243. N.F. R. v. Taylor (1859), 1 F. & F. 535. Refd. R. v. Burrows (1838), 2 Mood. & R. 124; R. v. Manzano (1860), 2 F. & F. 64.

3030. ———.]—The prisoner, in a case of murder, allowed to make a statement to the jury as to how he became possessed of the clothes.—R. v. MANZANO (1860), 2 F. & F. 64; 6 Jur. N. S. 406.

3031. ———.]—Even where prisoner is defended by counsel, he will be permitted to make a statement in his defence, & afterwards his counsel may address the jury & comment upon prisoner's statement, together with the evidence for the prosecution.—R. v. DYER (1844), 4 L. T. O. S. 196; 1 Cox, C. C. 113.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Williams (1846), 1 Cox, C. C. 363. Refd. R. v. Taylor (1859), 1 F. & F. 535.

3032. ———.]—The practice in R. v. Dyer, No. 3031, ante, permitting prisoner to state his defence to the jury before his counsel addresses them, is a proper practice & will be admitted.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1846), 1 Cox, C. C. 363.

3033. ———.]—Prisoners, who were defended by counsel, were indicted for maliciously shooting at the prosecutor, & at the conclusion of the evidence for the prosecution, without waiting for their counsel, they themselves addressed the jury in their defence. When they had concluded their observations, the judge permitted their counsel to address the jury in their behalf.—R. v. STEPHENS (1871), 11 Cox, C. C. 669.

3034. ———.]—A prisoner defended by counsel may make a statement to the jury, provided on oath.—R. v. KRAFCHENKO (1914), 28 W. L. R. 76.—CAN.

s. Right to make unsworn statement
—When defended by counsel.—A prisoner defended by counsel has no right to make an unsworn statement.—

CAMPBELL, [1919] 1 W. W. R. —CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—F. t. When defended by counsel—State- ment of facts.]—A prisoner on his trial, defended by counsel, may, at the conclusion of his counsel's address, himself make a statement of facts to the jury, but the prosecution will be entitled to reply.—R. v. ROGERS (1888), 1 B. C. R. pt. 11, 119.—CAN.

vided he does so before the speech of counsel for the defence.—R. v. MASTERS (1886), 50 J. P. 104.

3035. ———.]—R. v. BLADES (1880), Archbold's Criminal Pleading, Evidence & Practice, 26th ed. 203.

3036. ———.]—Prosecution may reply.—R. v. DOHERTY, No. 302, ante.

3037. ———.]—A prisoner, who is defended by counsel, can make a statement to the jury without being sworn before his counsel addresses the jury, instead of giving evidence under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36).—R. v. POPE (1902), 18 T. L. R. 717.

3038. ———.]—Not after summing up by prosecution.—An unsworn statement made by a defended prisoner who calls no evidence must be made before & not after the speech made by counsel for the prosecution in summing up his evidence.—R. v. SHERRIFF (1903), 20 Cox, C. C.

Annotation:—Mentd. Nye v. Niblett (1917), 16 L. G. R. 57.

3039. ———.]—Whether accused can address jury after his counsel—Right of prosecution to reply.—R. v. SHIMMIN, No. 3014, ante.

3040. ———.]—Where no witnesses called.—R. v. HULL & SMITH (1880), Archbold's Criminal Pleading, Evidence & Practice, 26th ed. 203.

3041. ———.]—Not if he calls witnesses.—Upon the trial of a prisoner who is defended by counsel, prisoner, after his counsel's address to the jury will be allowed to make a statement of facts to the jury. But when it is proposed to call witnesses for the prisoner it will not be competent for him to make any statement to the jury in addition to his counsel's address.—R. v. MILLHOUSE (1885), 15 Cox, C. C. 622.

3042. ———.]—Counsel not permitted to address jury & put in written statement by accused.—On two persons being charged with robbery with violence, counsel for one of them proposed to put in a written statement of his client who had an impediment in his speech which made him unintelligible. He also claimed the right to address the jury on behalf of his client.—Held: he must elect either to put in prisoner's statement or make a speech, but could not do both.—R. v. ATTWOOD & TATHAM (1884), 29 Sol. Jo. 29.

3043. ———.]—When not defended by counsel—Should be informed of right to address jury—Omission does not invalidate conviction.—A person charged with an offence has no right to give evidence on his own behalf before the grand jury. The judge ought to inform an undefended prisoner of his right, on his trial, to address the jury on his own behalf, but the omission of the judge to do so does not invalidate the conviction.—R. v. SAUNDERS (1898), 63 J. P. 24; 15 T. L. R. 104, C. C. R. Annotation:—Reftd. R. v. Yeldham (1922), 128 L. T. 28.

3044. ———.]—R. v. YELDHAM, No. 3008, ante.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 9.—A.

a. By prosecution.—To rebut fresh evidence elicited in cross-examination.—Accused was charged on three counts with having obtained money from the Naval Department by false pretences. In the cross-examination of one of the witnesses for the Crown evidence was elicited to the effect that the accused had repaid to the department a sum of money.

The Crown called evidence to show that the repayment in question was in respect of alleged defalcations other than those charged.—Held: the evidence was properly admitted on the ground that where one party introduces in evidence part of a transaction the other party may answer that evidence by proving the balance of the transaction, so as to show that the complexion sought to be given is not the right one.—R. v. DONOGHUE, [1917] V. L. R. 449.—AUS.

b. ———.]—On the trial of the master of a vessel for scuttling her, the principal witness for the Crown, who had himself done the act of scuttling the vessel at the instigation of prisoner, on his examination in chief stated that he bored auger holes in the air streak. On cross-examination he was asked how far below the water he bored, etc. On the part of the defence it was sworn by several witnesses that the air streak of the

SUB-SECT. 9.—PROCEEDINGS AFTER CLOSE OF DEFENCE

A. Calling further Evidence.

3045. For defence—During final speech for prosecution.—R. v. MORRISON, No. 3010, ante.

3046. ———.]—When witness for prosecution recalled—Accused may give evidence in rebuttal.—Where a witness is recalled after the summing-up & interrogated prisoner has a right to cross-examine him & to give evidence in rebuttal.—R. v. HOWARTH (1918), 82 J. P. 152; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

3047. By prosecution—To rebut evidence of good character of defendant.—Where witnesses to character are called by prisoner, prosecutor may call others to contradict them, though, except in the case of a previous conviction, it is very uncommon to do so.—R. v. HUGHES (1843), 2 L. T. O. S. 247; 1 Cox, C. C. 44.

Annotation:—Reftd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 34 L. J. M. C. 57.

3048. ———.]—Semble: if witnesses to character are called for prisoner, witnesses may be called in reply on behalf of the prosecution, to show general or specific acts of bad conduct.—R. v. LOVEJOY (1850), 14 J. P. 592.

3049. ———.]—Where witnesses are called on the part of prisoner to give evidence of his general good character, it is not competent to the prosecution to call witnesses to give evidence of prisoner's general bad character.—R. v. BURT (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 284.

Annotation:—Dtd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 13 W. R. 436.

3050. ———.]—R. v. GERARD (1852), T. & M. 631.

3051. ———.]—If a prisoner on his trial gives evidence that his character is good, it is open for the prosecution, by way of reply to prove that the prisoner's character is bad (per CUR. MARTIN, B. dub.).

Evidence of character must not be evidence of particular facts, but must be evidence of general reputation only, having reference to the nature of the charge (per CUR. ERLE, C.J. & WILLES, J. diss.).

A witness's individual opinion respecting the general character & disposition of the prisoner with reference to the charge is admissible, though such witness knows nothing of the prisoner's general reputation (ERLE, C.J. & WILLES, J.).—R. v. ROWTON (1865), Le & Ca. 520; 5 New Rep. 428; 34 L. J. M. C. 57; 11 L. T. 745; 29 J. P. 149; 11 Jur. N. S. 325; 13 W. R. 436; 10 Cox, C. C. 25, C. C. R.

3052. ———.]—To rebut evidence of bad character of prosecutrix—On charge of rape.—On a trial for rape witnesses may be called on prisoner's behalf to prove general indecency of the prosecutrix, & witnesses for the prosecution may then be called to rebut their testimony.—R. v. TISSINGTON (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 458; 1 Cox, C. C. 48.

3053. ———.]—To rebut statement of deceased vessel alleged to have been scuttled was above the load-line, & that if the holes were bored in the air streak they must have come out above the water. The Chief Justice allowed the Crown to call rebutting evidence for the purpose of showing that the air streak was below the load line.—Held: the evidence was properly allowed.—R. v. TOWER (1880), 20 N. B. R. 168.—CAN.

c. ———.]—On a trial for rape, prosecutrix was cross-examined by prisoner's counsel, as to statements made by her to one D., relating to the transactions in question. The cross-examination was for the purpose of showing that such statements varied from those made by prosecutrix on

[—The hearing: Sub-sect. 9, A.]

Favourable to accused.]—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 2913, ante.

3054. — To disprove an alibi.]—In a case of felony, where the defence was an alibi, the witnesses for prisoner stated that they respectively saw him at various places on his route from Gloucestershire to Warwickshire for two days before, & up to the time of the felony being committed:—Held: the counsel for the prosecution might call a witness in reply, to prove that the prisoner had said he was at home on those days.—R. v. FINDON (1833), 6 C. & P. 132.

3055. — —.]—When the defence sets up an alibi, it may be contradicted (even as to an immaterial date) by rebutting evidence. Semble: There is no objection to a prisoner being arraigned on an indictment under Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 7, alleging a previous conviction, after he has been tried on another indictment found at the same time.—R. v. FROGGATT (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 115, C. C. A.

3056. — To rebut unforeseen evidence called by accused.]—Where prisoner calls evidence to prove new matter which could not be foreseen by the prosecution the prosecution is entitled to give evidence in reply to contradict it.—R. v. FROST (1840), 9 C. & P. 129; 4 State Tr. N. S. 85, 386; 1 Town. St. Tr. 1; Gurney's Reps. 749.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Crippen, [1911] 1 K. B. 149. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Cuffey (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 467; R. v. Smith O'Brien (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Duly (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; R. v. Bird (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 20; Mansell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 34; R. v. Bernard (1858), 8 State Tr. N. S. 887; R. v. Burke (1867), 10 Cox, C. C. 519; Dillon v. O'Brien & Davis (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 245; R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194.

3057. — —.]—On the second trial of an indictment for perjury, fresh witnesses for the defence were called to prove facts confirming prisoner's alleged false statement. A witness called by prosecutor to contradict a fact deposed to by them, was allowed to prove that on the former trial a particular question was put to him on his cross-examination by prisoner's counsel, in order to show that at that time the prisoner's counsel had notice of the testimony now given, but did not venture to call the witnesses.—R. v. COYLE (1855), 26 L. T. O. S. 136; 7 Cox, C. C. 74.

3058. — Must be confined to matters which negative case for defence.]—On an indictment for her direct examination:—Held: D. might be examined for the prosecution, as to the statements so made to her by prosecutrix.—R. v. HAYES (1840), 1 Craw. & D. 367.—IR.

3054i. — To disprove alibi.]—After the case for the Crown & accused was closed, the Crown called witness in reply whose evidence changed by a few minutes the exact time of the crime as stated by the Crown's previous witnesses, & which tended to weaken the alibi set up by the accused:—Held: to allow the evidence was entirely in the discretion of the judge, & there was no legal prejudice to the accused, as he was allowed an opportunity to cross-examine & meet the evidence.—R. v. WONG ON & WONG GOW (1904), 10 B. C. R. 555.—CAN.

3054ii. — —.]—After prisoner's case had closed, counsel for the Crown was allowed to give in evidence a statement of prisoner's to meet the case of an alibi set up for him.—MOHIDE'S CASE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 40.—IR.

3054iii. — —.]—When a witness for the prosecution had deposed to having been present at the burning of a house, for which prisoners were indicted, & evidence had been given on the part of prisoners to show that it was impossible that the witness could have been there:—Held: the Crown was then entitled to go into a rebutting case as to such evidence. Prisoners could not after the rebutting case had closed, give any further evidence to explain it.—M'DOWAI'S CASE (1842), Ir. Cir. Rep. 640.—IR.

3054iv. — —.]—Where evidence of an alibi was adduced for the defence, after the defence had closed, prosecutors were allowed to prove a statement of prisoner to rebut the alibi.—R. v. REYNOLDS (1844), 3 Craw. & D. 248.—IR.

3054v. — —.]—To an indictment for larceny prisoner pleaded not guilty, & was put upon his trial. The Crown having closed their case, prisoner set up the defence of insanity at the time of the commission of the offence:—Held: witness previously examined for the prosecution might be recalled, for the purpose of giving testimony as to the state of mind of the prisoner at the time of the commission of the offence.—R. v. DANGAN (1840), 2 Craw. & D. 67.—IR.

a larceny, if prosecutor rests his case on prisoner's recent possession of the goods, & prisoner call a witness to prove that he, prisoner, bought them of T.; if the prosecutor call T., he can only ask him as to such matters as go to negative prisoner's case, & cannot prove by him that he saw prisoner commit the theft.—R. v. STIMPSON (1826), 2 C. & P. 415.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Crippen (1910), 27 T. L. R. 69.

3059. — Not to confirm original case.]—Any evidence that is a confirmation of the original case, cannot be given as evidence in reply; & the only evidence that can be given in reply is that which goes to cut down the defence, without being any confirmation of the original case.—R. v. HILDITCH (1832), 5 C. & P. 299.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Crippen (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 255. Mentd. Budd v. Davison (1880), 29 W. R. 192.

3060. — Not for mere repetition of former evidence.]—It is an abuse of the right of calling rebutting evidence to recall a witness merely to repeat his evidence in chief.—R. v. SULLIVAN, [1923] 1 K. B. 47; 91 L. J. K. B. 927; 126 L. T. 643; 86 J. P. 167; 27 Cox, C. C. 187; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

3061. — Evidence omitted per incuriam.]—Where counsel for the prosecution intending to put in evidence to reply, begins his reply to the jury before doing so per incuriam—he ought not therefore to be debarred from the right to put in his evidence in the usual course.

In an indictment for highway robbery, accompanied by violence, witnesses were called for prisoner, to show that he had received certain marks of blood on his coat before the robbery:—Held: it was competent to the prosecution to put in the prisoner's statement before the magistrate, wherein he gave a different account of the same matter.—R. v. WHITE (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 24; 11 J. P. 246; 2 Cox, C. C. 192.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Crippen (1910), 27 T. L. R. 69.

3062. — Discretion of judge to allow—Surprise.]—Applt. was convicted on an indictment charging him with receiving property knowing it to have been stolen. The indictment charged L. & B. with stealing three bags of wool, & also with receiving the wool, & applt. with receiving it. L. pleaded guilty to receiving, B. not guilty on both counts, & applt. not guilty.

After the case for the prosecution had closed, B. went into the box & gave evidence, & called witnesses on his own behalf, but not L. Counsel

3054vi. — —.]—It is competent for the Crown, with or without the instructions of the ct., but with its permission, to call evidence to rebut evidence given for the defence on some new point, upon which the Crown evidence is silent, & which could not have been foreseen by the prosecution.—R. v. JILWANA, [1917] E. D. L. 411.—S. AF.

d. — Medical evidence.]—Prisoner's witness having stated that death was caused by two blows from a stick of certain dimensions:—Held: a medical witness, previously examined for the Crown, was properly allowed to be recalled to state that, in his opinion, the injuries found on the body could not have been so occasioned.—R. v. JONES (1868), 28 U. C. R. 416.—CAN.

e. — To supplement case for prosecution.]—After the Crown have closed their case, & prisoner's counsel has addressed the jury, the Crown cannot call a witness to supply any defect or omission in their proofs.—M'NAMARA'S CASE (1842), Ir. Cir. Rep. 525.—IR.

f. — Corroboration.]—Counsel for for applt. then called his own client, who said that he agreed to give a shilling & a halfpenny per pound for the wool, & that the payment of £41 was only on account. At the conclusion of his evidence, his counsel closed his case. Whereupon counsel for the Crown said that he had been taken by surprise, as he expected that the other prisoner, L., who was called for B. only before the justices, would have been called. He asked & obtained leave to call L., in spite of the protest of counsel for applt., who objected that in no circumstances could L. be called for the Crown against applt., as B. had not called him, & that even if he could have been called against B. he certainly could not be against applt. The jury found both prisoners guilty:—Held: the course taken at the trial was unusual: deft's case had not been prejudiced, & no miscarriage of justice had occurred by reason of L.'s evidence being admitted in such way.

The calling of witnesses after the close of the defence was in the discretion of the judge at the trial, & that discretion must be exercised with a due regard to the interests of deft. If it were shown that the prosecution had done something unfair—had set what has been called a trap—which resulted in an injustice to the prisoner, the ct. reserved to itself full power to deal with the matter (per Cur.).—R. v. FOSTER (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.

3063. Evidence available in chief—Whether judge will call.—After the cases for the prosecution & prisoner are closed, the judge will not, at the suggestion of the counsel for the prosecution examine a witness not before called.

It is quite clear that counsel cannot call him, as the cases are called & if it were allowed, it would necessitate two more speeches (BRAMWELL, B.).—R. v. HAYNES (1859), 1 F. & F. 666.

3064. — Discretion of judge to admit in rebuttal.—It is within the discretion of the judge at the trial whether evidence, admissible in chief, should be admitted in rebuttal, but that discretion is subject to review on appeal.—R. v. CRIPPEN, [1911] 1 K. B. 149; 80 L. J. K. B. 290; 103 L. T. 704; 75 J. P. 141; 27 T. L. R. 69; 22 Cox, C. C. 289; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consid. R. v. Foster (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 196. Reid. R. v. Sullivan, [1923] 1 K. B. 47. Mentd. R. v. Wilson, Lewis & Havard (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 126.

3065. — — — — ——A judge has in a criminal trial a discretionary power, with which a Ct. of Appeal cannot interfere, unless it appear that an

the Crown, in opening the case for the prosecution, stated that he would produce S. as a witness to prove a certain fact which she had disproved in her informations:—Held: after prisoner's case had closed, the Crown could not examine witnesses to corroborate the evidence of a witness for the prosecution who had sworn differently at the trial from what she had sworn in her informations.—R. v. McTEAGUE (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 252.—IR.

g. — — — — ——Where the case for the prosecution has been rested on the evidence of a single witness, who proves the entire charge, but whose evidence is unexpectedly sought to be discredited by the witnesses for the defence, the ct. may allow witnesses to be called by the prosecution, after the defence is closed, to corroborate the evidence of the single witness examined for the prosecution.—R. v. CUNNINGHAM (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 301.—IR.

3064 i. Evidence available in chief—Discretion of judge to admit in rebuttal.—R. v. JENNINGS (1876), 20 L. C. J. 291.—CAN.

h. — Whether allowed in reply.—A new trial will not be granted in a civil action if a judge allows evidence to be given in reply which might have been given in chief. The same principle applies in criminal cases.—R. v. CHANTLER (1891), 12 N. S. W. L. R. 116.—AUS.

k. Discretion of judge.—In a charge of murder witness G., in the original case of the Crown, swore that the murder had been committed about three o'clock in the afternoon, & that he & prisoner were back in the city about five o'clock. Prisoner swore that the crime was not committed until about five o'clock, & that the clocks were striking six when he & G. were coming back to the city. The Crown, by permission, then called a witness to contradict prisoner as to the time of G.'s return to the city; & the judge allowed prisoner's counsel to put in a witness in reply:—Held: as it was in the discretion of the judge in what order he would receive evidence, & as prisoner had had the opportunity of replying, of which he had taken advantage, a new trial on the ground that such evidence was injustice has thereby resulted, of recalling witnesses at any stage of the trial & of putting such questions to them as the exigencies of justice require.

In a trial for the murder of a woman, evidence was given on behalf of the prosecution that the prisoner had been seen near the scene of the murder shortly before it was committed & on several of the preceding days; that certain articles which had been left by the murderer in the cottage where the murder was committed had previously been seen in the possession of the prisoner & that the prisoner had sold a suit of clothes stolen from the cottage to a woman. The prisoner gave evidence on his own behalf in which he set up an alibi & denied that he was in the neighbourhood of the scene of the murder when it was committed, or that the articles found in the cottage belonged to him, or that he had sold the suit to the woman. By the direction of the judge certain witnesses for the prosecution were recalled to rebut the evidence given by the prisoner. The counsel for the prisoner subsequently in his speech to the jury after the speech for the prosecution suggested that the husband of the murdered woman might have committed the murder, & also commented upon the fact that certain of the articles found in the cottage were not found till two days after the murder. The judge directed that the two police constables who searched the cottage should be recalled to say when & where the articles were found, the evidence which they gave being mainly a repetition of what they had previously said. The husband of the murdered woman was also recalled to deny the suggestion made against him:—Held: the witnesses had been recalled not for the purpose of repeating their evidence, but for the purpose of rebutting the case set up by the prisoner in his evidence & of meeting the suggestion made by the counsel for the prisoner in his speech to the jury—namely, that the murder had been committed by the husband of the murdered woman, & that therefore the witnesses were properly called even after the counsel for the prisoner had made his speech to the jury.—R. v. SULLIVAN, [1923] 1 K. B. 47; 91 L. J. K. B. 927; 126 L. T. 643; 86 J. P. 167; 27 Cox, C. C. 187; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

3066. Accused may be recalled—For further cross-examination.—Deft. who has given evidence may be recalled, after the close of the case, cumulative should be refused.—R. v. HIGGINS (1902), 36 N. B. R. 18.—CAN.

l. Where no witnesses for defence—Right of prosecution to examine fresh witness.—Upon a trial for robbery, the case for the Crown was closed, & no witnesses having been called for the defence, the judge proceeded to charge the jury, & had made some observations, when counsel for the Crown stated that, owing to inadvertence, a material witness had not been examined, & proposed then to examine such witness. No witness having been called for the defence, counsel for the Crown was permitted to examine such witness, but at the peril of a mis-trial.—R. v. FLYNN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 32.—IR.

m. Joint trial—One prisoner incriminated by another.—Where in a joint trial one accused in giving or leading evidence in his defence incriminates his fellow accused the latter is entitled to cross-examine, & if necessary lead further evidence even though he has previously closed his case.—R. v. BARRHAN & MOLLINK, [1917] T. P. D. 35.—S. AF.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 9, A., B. & C.; sub-sect. 10, A.]

for further cross-examination.—R. v. SEIGLEY (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 106, C. C. A.

B. Summing up by Prosecution.

3067. Where accused defended by counsel—No witnesses called for defence—Criminal Procedure Act, 1865 (c. 18), s. 2.]—It being a general principle of criminal procedure, that counsel for the prosecution should consider themselves not merely as advocates for a party, but as ministers of justice, & not as struggling for a verdict, but as assistants in the ascertainment of truth according to law, therefore, counsel for the prosecution ought not, under Denman's Act, to exercise their right of summing up the evidence, where prisoners call no witnesses, unless they really, in their discretion, deem it to be necessary for the purposes of justice.—R. v. BERENS (1865), 4 F. & F. 842; sub nom. R. v. HOLCHESTER, 10 Cox, C. C. 226.

3068. ———.]—Under above Act counsel for the prosecution ought not, when prisoner calls no witnesses, to sum up the evidence.—R. v. WEBB (1865), 4 F. & F. 862.

3069. ———.] Joint indictment—One accused not defended — Time for summing up.]—R. v. MADDEN (1872), 12 Cox, C. C. 239.

3070. ———.] Except accused — Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36).]—R. v. GARDNER, No. 2948, ante.

3071. Improper comment—On witnesses at trial not being called before magistrates.]—It is an improper practice for counsel for the prosecution to make any comment by way of reproach upon the fact that the witnesses whom prisoner produces were not examined before the magistrates.—R. v. CLARK (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 230.

3072. ———.] On prisoner calling no witnesses.]—In criminal cases counsel for the prosecution under Criminal Procedure Act, 1865 (c. 18), ought not, in summing up their evidence, to make observations on prisoner's not calling witnesses, unless, at all events, it has appeared that he might be fairly expected to be in a position to do so. Neither ought they to press it upon the jury that, if they acquit prisoner, they may be considered to convict prosecutor or prosecutrix of perjury.—R. v. PUDDICK (1865), 4 F. & F. 497.

Annotation:—Reidf. R. v. Banks, [1916] 2 K. B. 621.

3073. ———.]—On a charge of rape prisoner called no witnesses. In summing up the prosecution commented upon this, & observed, that if prisoner were acquitted, the woman's character would be blasted:—Held: the observations ought not to be made.—R. v. RUDLAND (1865), 4 F. & F. 495.

3074. ———.] On accused's wife not being called—Effect of comment—Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (b).]—At the trial of a prisoner counsel for the prosecution inadvertently commented on the fact that prisoner's wife had not been called for the defence. The jury were subsequently told to disregard this comment, & their foreman said that they had disregarded it:—Held: the circumstances that such comment had been made by counsel for the prosecution, in contravention of s. 1 (b) of above Act did not make the trial a nullity.—R. v. DICKMAN (1910), 74, J. P. 449; 26 T. L. R. 640; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3075. Proper comment—On prisoner having reserved his defence.]—If by reserving his defence the case set up by prisoner at his trial cannot be investigated, the prosecution are entitled to comment on that circumstance.—R. v. McNAIR (1909), 25 T. L. R. 228; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 2, C. C. A.

C. Summing up by Defence.

See No. 2990, ante.

SUB-SECT. 10.—RIGHT OF REPLY.

A. In General.

3076. Defence witnesses called as to character only—Discretion of prosecuting counsel.]—A conviction:—Held: certain conduct of prosecutor during his address to the jury amounted to an invitation to them to assume that certain evidence which had been rejected had been given & a persistence in that invitation notwithstanding the judge's rebuke; a new trial should be directed.—R. v. EYLES (1917), 23 C. L. R. 1.—AUS.

r. Counsel expressing own opinion—When ground for new trial.]—While it is the much better practice for counsel to refrain from expressing their own opinions upon the evidence before the jury, the question of their right to do so is one of propriety rather than law; some substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice must be proven to have resulted therefrom before it can provide ground for a new trial.—R. v. MOKE, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 575.—CAN.

s. Before defending counsel addresses jury—Discretion of prosecutor.]—After the trial & conviction of deft. on a charge of murder, the victim being his wife, a case was stated by the trial judge for the opinion of the ct.:—Held: the judge was right when he ruled that counsel for the Crown is not obliged to sum up before counsel for prisoner addresses the jury; he may waive that right or privilege, & address the jury in reply only.—R. v. COPPEN (1920), 47 O. L. R. 399; 53 D. L. R. 576; 18 O. W. N. 165.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 10.—A.

3076 i. Defence witnesses called as to character only—Discretion of prosecuting

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 9.—B.

n. Improper comment—On accused not giving evidence.]—R. v. KING (1905), 6 Terr. L. R. 139.—CAN.

o. ———.]—After the trial & conviction of deft. on a charge of murder, the victim being his wife, a case was stated by the trial judge for the opinion of the ct.:—Held: counsel for the Crown did not violate Canada Evidence Act, s. 4 (5), by commenting on the failure of deft. to testify, when he told the jury that, taking the facts, they had the record of a crime, of an act wrongfully done upon a woman which resulted in her death, of murder, & "no explanation has been offered & no explanation is possible of these facts that will exculpate the criminal whom we have not yet inquired as to in regard to that act." In making these observations, counsel was referring to the address of counsel for prisoner, & to his not having suggested any theory as to the cause of the woman's death that would explain the condition in which her body was found, which, according to the case of the Crown, indicated that she had been murdered.—R. v. COPPEN (1920), 47 O. L. R. 399; 53 D. L. R. 576; 18 O. W. N. 165.—CAN.

p. ———.]—On the trial of prisoners for robbery, etc., prisoners did not avail themselves of the privilege of giving evidence on their own behalf. Prosecutor, in addressing the jury, said, "You are sworn to give your verdict according to the evidence. E. has sworn that prisoners robbed him, & he has not been contradicted; you must believe him." The evidence had shown that the only persons who could contradict E. were prisoners:—Held: the observations were not improper.—R. v. BARKER & BAILEY (1913), 32 N. Z. L. R. 912.—N.Z.

3074 i. ———.] On accused's wife not being called—Effect of comment.]—Deft. was indicted for stealing a quantity of pine oil. He pleaded not guilty, & on the trial gave evidence on his own behalf. Prosecuting counsel, in addressing the jury, commented unfavourably on the failure of deft.'s wife to testify:—Held: deft. was entitled to a new trial.—R. v. CORRY (1898), 30 N. S. R. 330.—CAN.

3074 ii. ———.]—On the trial of deft. on a charge of shooting with intent to kill, counsel for the Crown commented upon the fact that deft.'s wife, who had been a witness on the preliminary examination before the magistrate, was not called:—Held: the comment in question was not justified by the fact that it was made in reply to an explanation offered by counsel for deft. to account for the omission to call the wife, & the conviction must be set aside.—R. v. HILL (1903), 36 N. S. R. 253.—CAN.

q. Stressing rejected evidence—After judge's rebuke—Effect of.]—Resp. was convicted on a charge of murder, the evidence being purely circumstantial. The trial judge stated in his report that he had no reason to think that the evidence did not fully justify prosecutor's counsel in a case of felony has in strictness the right of reply, though the counsel for prisoner only calls witnesses to character; but Seemle: it is not a right, which in practice ought to be exercised, except under very special circumstances.—R. v. STANNARD (1837), 7 C. & P. 673.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194.

3077. ———.]—R. v. PATTESON (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 262.

3078. ———.]—When witnesses have been called to the character of a prisoner; the prosecuting counsel may reply, but in ordinary cases he should not do so.—R. v. WILDGOOSE (1849), 13 J. P. 766.

3079. ———.]—In a case of felony, if witnesses are called to the character of prisoner, this gives prosecutor's counsel a right to reply on the whole case, & not merely to observe on the evidence to character; & it is entirely at the discretion of prosecutor's counsel whether he will exercise his right of reply or not.—R. v. WHITING & HARVEY (1837), 7 C. & P. 771.

3080. ———.]—(1) If the only evidence called on the part of prisoner is evidence to r, although the counsel for the prosecution is entitled to the reply, it will be a matter for his discretion whether he will use it or not.

(2) In cases of public prosecutions for felony instituted by the Crown, the law officers of the Crown, & those who represent them, are, in strictness, entitled to the reply, although no evidence is produced on the part of prisoner.—MEMORANDUM OF JUDGES (1837), 1 Mood. C. C. 495; 7 C. & P. 676.

3081. ———.]—Counsel for the prosecution has a right to reply generally, even where witnesses to character only are called for the defence. It is in the discretion of counsel whether he will exercise that right, & it will be sanctioned by the ct. where counsel for the prosecution is of opinion that a fallacious argument has been used for the defence.—R. v. CORFELL (1844), 4 L. T. O. S. 215; 1 Cox, C. C. 123.

3082. ———.]—R. v. GERARD, No. 3050, ante.

3083. ———. No right of reply—Without notice to defence.—Seemle: in a prosecution for murder, where counsel for prisoner calls witnesses to character only, counsel for the prosecution has no right to reply, unless he has given notice to counsel on the other side that he intends to avail himself of his calling witnesses to character.—R. v. BROOKS (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 575; 1 Cox, C. C. 6.

3084. ———. Criminal Procedure Act, 1865 (c. 18).—Under above Act, "witnesses for the defence" do not include witnesses merely called as to character; & such witnesses, therefore, do not give counsel for the prosecution a reply.—R. v. DOWSE (1865), 4 F. & F. 492.

3085. ———.]—The practice as to reply on the part of the prosecution after witnesses only as to character, is not altered & witnesses as to character do not give the prosecution a right of reply.—R. v. GLASS (1865), 4 F. & F. 492, n.

3086. Where no witness called for defence.—Seemle: the privilege of replying in a criminal prosecution, when deft. does not call witnesses, is confined to the Attorney-General.—R. v. ABINGDON (LORD) (1794), 1 Esp. 226; Peake, 310. N. P.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Creevey (1813), 1 M. & S. 273; Hodgson v. Scarlett (1817), Holt, N. P. 621; R. v. Carille (1819), 3 B. & Ald. 167; Lewis v. Walter (1821), 4 B. & Ald. 605; R. v. Harvey (1823), 3 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 464; Flint v. Pike (1825), 4 B. & C. 473; Roberts v. Brown (1834), 10 Bing. 519; Stockdale v. Hansard (1840), 3 State Tr. N. S. 723; R. v. Pembroke (1842), 3 Q. B. 901; Davison v. Duncan (1857), 7 E. & B. 229; Wason v. Walter (1868), L. R. 4 Q. B. 73; R. v. Munslow, [1895] 1 Q. B. 758; Jones v. Hulton, [1909] 2 K. B. 444.

3087. ———. Counsel for defence opening new facts—Gives right of reply.—If counsel for deft. on the trial of an indictment for a misdemeanour opens new facts in his address to the jury, & afterwards declines calling witnesses to prove the facts so opened, counsel for the prosecution is, notwithstanding, entitled to a general reply.—R. v. BIGNOLD (1824), 4 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 70; 2 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 167; previous proceedings (1823), 1 Dow. & Ry. N. P. 59, N. P.

3088. ———.]—R. v. BUTCHER, No. 3013, ante.

3089. ———. Prosecution in Mint cases.—R. v. TAYLOR, No. 3023, ante.

3090. Undefended prisoner reading inadmissible document—Gives no right of reply.—(1) The judge who tries a prisoner in one county has no jurisdiction to sentence him in another.

(2) A sentence for felony cannot be passed in the prisoner's absence.

(3) An undefended prisoner who, in his defence, reads a document which is not admissible in evidence, does not thereby give the prosecution "the right of reply."

counsel.—In criminal cases, when witnesses to character only are called, & there is no other evidence offered on behalf of prisoner, counsel for the Crown have the right to reply; & in every such case it rests altogether in the discretion of the Crown counsel whether or not that right shall be exercised.—R. v. HAYES (1840), 1 Crav. & D. 367.—IR.

3076 ii. ———.]—A right to reply does not exist in the case of a private prosecution, when prisoner has called witnesses merely as to character.—R. v. LOUGHAN (1842), Arn. M. & O. 253.—IR.

t. Where no witness called for defence—Counsel for defence opening new facts—Gives right of reply.—Notwithstanding prisoner calls no evidence, if he makes a statement of fact to the jury, the Crown has the right of reply.—R. v. ROGERS (1888), 1 B. C. R., pt. II., 119.—CAN.

3086 i. ———.]—R. v. KING (1905), 6 Terr. L. R. 139.—CAN.

3086 ii. ———.]—At the close of the evidence for the prosecution the attorney for the defence in answer to the judge, stated that he meant to call witnesses. The ct. then adjourned, & on the following day the attorney stated that, on reconsideration, he did not the prosecutor to reply:—though the strict interpretation of Criminal Procedure Code, ss. 249, 292, would warrant this course, it was never meant by the Legislature that no witnesses are called for the defence, the object of the law being evidently to let each side have an opportunity of commenting on the evidence of the other, & not to give an additional advantage to prosecutor in such a case as the present.—HURRY CHURN CHUCKERBUTTY v. R. (1883), 1 L. R. 10 Calc. 140.—IND.

3086 iii. ———.]—Where two prisoners were jointly charged with conspiracy, & on being arraigned one pleaded guilty & the other not guilty, prisoner who had pleaded guilty could not be admitted as a witness against the other prisoner. No evidence being adduced for the defence:—Held: prisoner entitled to right of reply.—R. v. ASHER

& AWANUI (1888), 6 N. Z. L. R. 592.—N.Z.

b. Where witnesses for prosecution

Crown does not call some of the witnesses whose names are on the back of the indictment, & counsel for prisoner this will make them for the call the witnesses itself in such a case, & if it calls them, counsel for the prisoner can cross-examine them, & will not lose his right of reply.—R. v. SINCLAIR (1905), 25 N. Z. L. R. 266.—N.Z.

b. Documents introduced.—In cross-examination by defence.—The fact that accused has, during the cross-examination of the witnesses for the prosecution, used certain documents, & that such documents have been put in as evidence on his behalf, does not entitle prosecutor to the right of reply, if, when asked upon the close of the case of the prosecution whether he means to adduce evidence, accused says that he does not.—R. v.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 10, A., B. & C.; sub-sect. 11.]

(4) When the ct. below has no jurisdiction Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (3), does not apply.—R. v. HALES (1923), 40 T. L. R. 179; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 193; 87 J. P. Jo. 828, C. C. A.

3091. Accused making statement in addition to counsel's speech—Gives right of reply.]—R. v. SHIMMIN*, No. 3014, ante.

3092. ———.]—R. v. DOHERTY*, No. 302, ante.

See, also, No. 2893, ante.

Right of defence to reply.]—See* Nos. 2977–2979, ante, & 3109, post.

B. By Law Officers of the Crown.

3093. Where no witnesses called—Right confined to Attorney-General.]—R. v. ABINGDON* (LORD), No. 3086, ante.

3094. ———.]—Right of reply exercised by the Attorney-General although no evidence was called for the defence.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1797), 28 State Tr. 653.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. DUFFY (1849), 4 Cox, C. C. 294; Bowman v. Secular Soc., [1917] A. C. 406.

3095. ———. Appearing in official capacity.]—R. v. BELL* (1829), Mood. & M. 440, n., N. P. Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Gardner (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 628.

3096. ———.]—When the A.-G. or King's counsel appears officially as such to conduct a prosecution on an indictment for misdemeanour he is entitled to reply though deft. calls no witnesses.—R. v. MARSDEN ALEXANDER & ISAACSON (1829), Mood. & M. 439, N. P.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Gardner (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 628.

3097. ———. Refused to Attorney-General of the County Palatine.]—R. v. CHRISTIE* (1858), 1 F. & P. 75; 7 Cox, C. C. 506.

3098. ———. Counsel representing Attorney-General.]—R. v. MARSDEN ALEXANDER & ISAACSON*, No. 3096, ante.

3099. ———.]—In a prosecution by the

CHUNDER BANERJEE (1884), 1 L. R. 10 Cal. 1024.—IND.

c. ———.]—The action of the defence, during the cross-examination of a witness for the Crown, in tendering a document to such witness & using the same as evidence for the defence was held to entitle the Crown to reply.—R. v. MOSS (1893), 1 L. R. 16 All. 88.—IND.

d. Whether restricted.]—Counsel for the Crown is not restricted in his reply to answering matters dealt with by counsel for prisoner.—It. v. WALKER & CHINLEY (1910), 13 W. L. R. 47.—CAN.

e. Conspiracy—Where one defendant only calls witness.]—It was held in a prosecution for conspiracy, that although evidence was called by only one of defts., it might have occurred to the benefit of both, & that the right of general reply was with counsel for the Crown.—R. v. CONNOLLY (1894), 25 O. R. 151.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 10.—B.

1. Where no witnesses called.]—The A.-G., conducting a prosecution on the part of the Crown, has the right of reply, although accused calls no witnesses, & if he elects to exercise that right he is not bound to sum up for the Crown at the conclusion of the evidence.—R. v. KIERSTAD (1918), 45 N. B. R. 553; 42 D. L. R. 193.—CAN.

3098 i. ———. Counsel representing Attorney-General.]—After the conviction of prisoner for murder the question

Post Office for a felony, it being stated by counsel for the prosecution that he appeared as representative of the A.-G.:—Held: on the ground of his representing the A.-G. he was entitled to reply without reference to prisoner's having called witnesses, or not.—R. v. GARDNER (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 628.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Young (1846), 2 Cox, C. C. 142; R. v. Shepherd (1856), Dears. C. C. 606.

3100. ———.]—In a prosecution directed by the Poor Law Board, counsel for the Crown cannot claim the right to reply where prisoner calls no witnesses.—R. v. BECKWITH (1858), 7 Cox, C. C. 505.

3101. ———. Law officers of Crown—& their representatives—Felony.]—MEMORANDUM OF JUDGES, No. 3080, ante.

3102. ———. Solicitor-General—Post Office prosecution.]—R. v. BARROW* (1866), 10 Cox, C. C. 407.

3103. ———.]—In conducting prosecutions for the Post Office, where the Solicitor-General appears on behalf of the A.-G., he has, on the part of the Crown, the right to reply on the whole case, although prisoner calls no witnesses.—R. v. TOAKLEY (1866), 10 Cox, C. C. 406.

3104. ———. Appearing in person.]—RESOLUTION OF JUDGES (1884), 5 State Tr. N. S. 3, note c.

See, also, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, Vol. XI., pp. 528, 529, Nos. 325–334.

C. Where more than one Accused.

3105. Reply by prosecution—Witness called by one accused—Joint offence—General reply.]—Semble*: if two prisoners are indicted jointly for the same offence, & one call witnesses, the counsel for the prosecution is entitled to a general reply. But if the offences are separate, & they might have been separately indicted, he must in his reply confine himself to the case of the party who has called witnesses.—R. v. HAYES & WALTER (1838), 2 Mood. & R. 155.

was reserved whether counsel for Crown should have been allowed the right to reply, no evidence being tendered on behalf of prisoner:—Held: Crown prosecutors in the Territories are under general instructions from the department of justices over which the A.-G. for Canada presides. The administration of Criminal Law is in his hands, & Crown prosecutors act for him. The Crown prosecutor had the right to reply.—R. v. KING (1905), 1 W. L. R. 348.—CAN.

3098 ii. ———.]—Prisoner called no witnesses, & his counsel contended on that ground he had the right of reply. The trial judge ruled against him & Crown replied:—Held: Crown always had the right of reply if its representatives saw fit to use it.—R. v. RYAN (1905), 5 O. W. R. 125; 9 O. L. R. 137.—CAN.

3098 iii. ———.]—A.-G. (1829), 2 Ir. L. Rec. 312.—IR.

3101 i. ———. Law officers of Crown—& their representatives.]—R. v. QUATRES PATTES* (1851), 1 L. C. R. 317.—CAN.

g. Whoever originates motion.]—Semble*: no matter with which side the motion originates, the law officers of the Crown have a right to reply.—R. v. TYRRELL (1843), 1 Cox, C. C. 369.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 10.—C.

3105 i. Reply by prosecution—Witness called by one accused—General reply.]—R. v. CANAN*, [1918] V. L. R. 390.—AUS.

3105 ii. ———.]—A., B. & C. were charged on a joint presentment with conspiracy to defraud. A. gave evidence on his own behalf & called witnesses. B. gave evidence on his own behalf, but called no witnesses, & did not cross-examine any of A.'s witnesses. C. gave no evidence & called no witnesses, & made at the trial no unsworn statement, but did ask a few questions of one of A.'s witnesses. The evidence given affected all accused who were separately represented by counsel. On the point of order in which, after the close of the evidence, counsel should address the jury:—Held: the general rule that where upon a joint presentment one prisoner calls evidence which is applicable to the others, the Crown has a right of general reply, is correct, & should usually be adhered to, but the rule is not inflexible & in the peculiar circumstances of this case, counsel for B. & C., being really unaware of the way in which the facts would be presented against their respective clients, counsel for A. should first address the jury, followed by counsel for the Crown, counsel for B. & counsel for C., in that order.—R. v. ORTON, [1922] V. L. R. 469.—AUS.

3105 iii. ———.]—Where one of several accused persons tried jointly calls witnesses at the trial, but the other accused calls no witnesses, they must all follow one another in their defence, & the prosecution has the right of reply on the whole case.—R. v. SADANAND NARAYAN (1894), 1 L. R. 18 Bom. 364.—IND.

3106. ————.]—R. v. JORDAN & COWMEADOW, No. 208, ante.

3107. ————.]—Three prisoners were indicted for murder, & witnesses were called, for the defence of one only:—Held: the counsel for the prosecution was entitled to reply generally on the whole case, & was not to be limited in his reply to the case as against the one prisoner for whom the witnesses were called, although the evidence adduced for the one prisoner did not at all affect the case as it respected the other two prisoners; but if the evidence against two prisoners affect them with different offences, such as larceny & receiving, & one call witnesses, there is no right of reply against both.—R. v. BLACKBURN (1853), 3 Car. Kir. 330; 6 Cox, C. C. 333.
Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Godinho (1911), 76 J. P. 16.

3108. ————.]—Two prisoners being indicted for night poaching, the defence being on the question of identity, one of them calling witnesses to prove an alibi, the other calling no witnesses, the counsel for the prosecution was allowed a general reply on the whole case as against both prisoners.—R. v. BRIGGS & PALMER (1858), 1 F. & F. 106.

3109. ————.]—R. v. COPLEY (1865), 4 F. & F. 1097.

3110. ————.]—Where two persons were jointly indicted for arson, & evidence was called on behalf of one of them:—Held: this gave the prosecution the right to a general reply.—R. v. DAVIS (1900), 17 T. L. R. 164.

3111. ————.]—No general reply.—Prisoners were indicted for obtaining goods by false pretences & conspiracy to defraud. At the close of the evidence for the prosecution witnesses were called for the defts. W. & S. only, whose evidence was applicable to their respective cases only, & did not affect the cases of the other defts.:—Held: counsel for the prosecution should confine his reply to the cases of W. & S.—R. v. TREVELLI (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 289.

3112. ————.]—Where several prisoners were indicted jointly, & some of them called witnesses, but others did not:—Held: the Crown had a right of reply to the counsel for those prisoners who called witnesses, but that counsel for the prisoners who called no witnesses had the right to address the jury last.—R. v. BURNS (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 195.

3113. ————.]—R. v. KAIN (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 388.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 11.

3120 i. Duty of judge—To assist jury & protect interests of accused.—After the trial & conviction of deft. on a charge of murder, a case was stated by the trial judge for the opinion of the ct. The judge had pointed out to the jury that they, & they alone, were the judges as to all questions of fact. He dealt with & placed before the jury every theory suggested by counsel for prisoner:—Held: the judge's charge indicated clearly to the jury what their functions were & the conclusion to which they must come before pronouncing deft. guilty.—R. v. COPPEN (1920), 47 O. L. R. 399; 53 D. L. R. 576; 18 O. W. N. 165.—CAN.

h. — To decide whether sufficient evidence to go to jury.—Not to express opinion on verdict.—On motion for a new trial by a prisoner convicted of murder on circumstantial evidence only:—Held: a judge is called upon only to say whether there is evidence to go to the jury, not to express any opinion as to their verdict founded upon it.—R. v. GREENWOOD (1864), 23 U. C. R. 255.—CAN.

k. — Not to make remarks likely to result in injustice to accused.—A verdict cannot be impeached in consequence of an observation made by the judge presiding while the trial was proceeding, unless such observation was calculated to influence the jury against the deft.—R. v. CARLIN (1903), Q. R. 12 K. B. 483.—CAN.

l. ——Where in the course of a criminal trial before a jury the presiding judge had made remarks which were irregular & injudicious, special leave to appeal was refused on the ground that no grave injustice to accused had resulted from the use of the language complained of, & consequently an appeal against their conviction could not hope to succeed.—R. v. LEO (1914), App. D. 241.—S. AF.

m. — To explain law & to assist jury to arrive at correct conclusion of fact.—While it is the duty of the judge to explain the law affecting the case to the jury so far as is necessary for its application, & it is their duty to accept his opinion without question, it is also his duty to assist them so far as he can to arrive at a correct con-

3114. ————.]—Severed defences—Whether general reply.—Where there are several prisoners, & they sever in their defences, if one should call witnesses & the others not, the right of reply is now in practice confined to the case against the prisoner who has called witnesses.—R. v. BURTON, SCOTT & LOCKWOOD (1861), 2 F. & F. 788.

3115. ————.]—Where two prisoners on the same indictment are separately defended by counsel, one of whom only has called witnesses, the convenient course of proceeding is for prisoner's counsel who calls witnesses to open his defence & sum up; then for the counsel for the prosecution to reply upon the whole case, & then for the counsel for prisoner who has called no witnesses to address the jury in his defence.—R. v. HARRINGTON (1869), 21 L. T. 57.

3116. Reply by one accused as against another—Where one calls evidence incriminating another.—R. v. PAINTER & DAVIS, No. 2977, ante.

3117. ————.]—R. v. WOOD, No. 2978, ante.

3118. ————.]—R. v. BURDETT, No. 2979, ante.

3119. ————.]—R. v. COPLEY, No. 3109, ante.

SUB-SECT. 11.—FUNCTION OF JUDGE AND JURY.

3120. Duty of judge—To assist jury & protect interests of accused.—I have been reminded that I sit here as counsel for deft. I certainly do so, so far as to interpose between him & counsel for the prosecution & to see that no improper use of the law is made against him & that no improper evidence is given to the jury; but the judge has another task to perform which is that of assisting the jury in the administration of justice (LORD KENYON, C.J.).—R. v. WAKEFIELD (1799), 27 State Tr. 679.

Annotation:—Apprvd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1, 702.

3121. ————.]—To decide questions of foreign law—In civil & criminal cases—Administration of Justice Act, 1920 (c. 81), s. 15.—Above Act, which provides that "in any action or other matter" questions of foreign law shall be decided by the judge & not by the jury, applies to criminal, as well as to civil, cases.—R. v. HAMMER [1923], 2 K. B. 787; 92 L. J. K. B. 1045; 129 L. T. 479; 87 J. P. 194; 39 T. L. R. 670; 68 Sol. Jo. 120; 27 Cox, C. C. 458; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

clusion of fact on the evidence while making it clear to them as part of the law that that conclusion is within their province, & not his.—R. v. CAMPBELL, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 1076.—CAN.

n. — To make notes of applications & rulings.—It is proper that the judges should be especially careful to see that a note is made of every application & ruling during the course of a case, so that no party may possibly be deprived of any advantage to which he may be entitled.—R. v. DOMINION DRUG STORES, LTD., R. v. CANADIAN NORTHERN RY. CO., [1919], 2 W. W. R. 413; 44 D. L. R. 382.—CAN.

o. — To be impartial.—It is true the judge is prisoner's counsel, & he is also the counsel for the Crown; but both those offices are subordinate to his higher functions as a dispenser of justice & an expounder of the law; & he is bound to administer that law equally & impartially to both sides.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1844), 7 I. L. R. 261.—IR.

p. — Not to initiate criminal prosecution.—The function of a judge is not to initiate prosecutions, but to

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sects. 11 & 12, A.]

3122. Function of judge—Does not include questioning prisoner in dock—& making disparaging comments.]—R. v. TAYLOR*, No. 4222, post.

3123. Function of jury—To decide issue of fact.]
—At the trial at quarter sessions of a prisoner upon a charge of stealing milk, the jury retired, & without any communication from them the judge sent for them & asked them if they were agreed upon their verdict. They replied that they were not. The judge then asked them if they believed the evidence for the prosecution, & the foreman replied that they did. Thereupon the judge directed a verdict of guilty to be recorded:—Held: the judge in effect found a fact essential to the conviction, namely, that the prisoner did the act animo furandi; that was not his function, & the conviction must be quashed.

If a special verdict includes all the evidence required to find a prisoner guilty of the offence charged, the judge may act upon it & direct a verdict of guilty to be entered (POLLOCK, B.)—R. v. FARNBOROUGH, [1895] 2 Q. B. 484; 64 L. J. M. C. 270; 73 L. T. 351; 59 J. P. 505; 44 W. R. 48; 11 T. L. R. 554; 39 Sol. Jo. 691; 18 Cox, C. C. 191; 15 R. 497, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Meyer (1908), 99 L. T. 202.

SUB-SECT. 12.—JUDGE'S SUMMING UP.

A. In General.

3124. Whether summing up may be dispensed with—In a simple case.]—In a simple case the judge is entitled to ask the jury whether they will dispense with his summing up.—R. v. NEWMAN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 134, C. C. A.

3125. — In a difficult case.]—At the end of a trial for larceny on several different occasions, which had lasted four days, the assistant Recorder omitted to direct the jury saying that they had heard the case, that he expected they had had try them. It is only in rare cases, such as where he is an eye-witness of a breach of the law, that he should initiate a prosecution, & even then, with the exception of contempts of the ct., he should not be the trial judge.—R. v. DANIEL (1912), 21 W. L. R. 563; 17 B. C. R. 150; 4 D. L. R. 443.—CAN.

q. — Not to act as prosecutor.]—A judge ought not to have imposed upon him the appearance of acting as prosecutor.—R. v. FARRELL & MOORE (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 139.—IR.

3123 i. Function of jury—To decide issue of fact.]—It is essential that the whole evidence be submitted to the jury who decide finally as to the innocence or guilt of accused.—R. v. CARLIN (1903), Q. R. 12 K. B. 483.—CAN.

3123 ii. — — —.]—In an altercation prisoner struck B. & afterwards B. also struck B. several times. B. died within a few hours from the blows. Upon prisoner's trial for unlawful assault, before the chairman of the sessions & a jury:—Held: it was not for the judge to determine whether the assault which prisoner was alleged to have committed resulted in the death of B.; that was, if a material question, one for the jury.—R. v. TAYLOR (1921), 67 D. L. R. 372; 51 O. L. R. 392.—CAN.

3123 iii. — — —.]—On a charge of rape the judge in his charge to the jury stated what had been proved instead of leaving it to them to decide what in their opinion was proved:—Held: such a charge amounted to a clear misdirection, & the verdict was erroneous owing to such misdirection.—ALI FAKIR v. R. (1897), 1 L. R. 25 Cal. 230.—IND.

r. — — — Credibility of witness.]—On a trial for murder, the Crown having made out a prima facie case by circumstantial evidence, prisoner's daughter, a girl of fourteen, was called on his behalf, & swore that she herself killed deceased without prisoner's knowledge, & under circumstances detailed, which would probably reduce her guilt to manslaughter:—Held: the judge was not bound to tell the jury that they must believe this witness in the absence of testimony to show her unworthy of credit, but he was right in leaving the credibility of her story to them, & if from her manner he derived the impression that she was under some undue influence it was not improper to call their attention to it in his charge.—R. v. JONES (1868), 23 U. C. R. 416.—CAN.

s. — — — Sufficiency of evidence.]—On a Crown case reserved it is not proper to reserve the question whether there is sufficient evidence in support of the criminal charge, that being a question for the jury; whether there is any evidence is a question of law for the judge.—R. v. LLOYD (1890), 19 O. R. 352.—CAN.

t. — — — Meaning of document.]—It is for the judge to determine enough of it, & that anything he could say would be of little use. Prisoner complained of the method of identification adopted, & as to some of the charges his evidence went to establish an alibi. The jury found prisoner guilty. On appeal the conviction was quashed on the ground that in the circumstances the assistant Recorder should have directed the jury on the question of identification, & should have told them that if they thought that upon the evidence some of the charges could not be supported they might, if they saw fit, acquit prisoner.—R. v. FINCH (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575; 115 L. T. 458; 25 Cox, C. C. 537; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

3126. Not dissertation upon the law.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal does not criticise summings up as if the judge was writing an accurate treatise of that part of the criminal law with which he is dealing (per CUR.)—R. v. MASON (1909), 73 J. P. 250; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 57, C. C. A.

3127. — Reference to particular case.]—R. v. HAMPTON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 274, C. C. A.

3128. — — —.]—(1) On a trial for murder the judge is entitled to tell the jury that there are no grounds for finding a verdict of manslaughter.

(2) When a judge sums up he is not composing a law treatise, but speaking with regard to the facts of the particular case (per CUR.)—R. v. SCHOLEY (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 183, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Generally, Mentd. Public Prosecutions Director v. Beard (1920), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 158.

3129. Direction as to onus of proof.]—Where prima facie evidence has been given for the Crown, which, if unanswered, would raise a presumption that might justify a jury in bringing in a verdict of guilty, & prisoner has called evidence to rebut that presumption, the proper direction for the jury is, that if the evidence in rebuttal raises in their minds a reasonable doubt as to prisoner's guilt, they should acquit him, as the onus of proof still lies upon the prosecution. If upon the whole evidence the jury are left in a real state of doubt the prosecution have failed to satisfy the onus of proof which lies upon them.—R. v. STODDART whether a document is capable of bearing the meaning assigned to it, & for the jury to say whether, in the circumstances, it has that meaning or not.—R. v. KARN (1903), 5 O. L. R. 704; 2 O. W. R. 335.—CAN.

a. — — — Not to be governed by opinion of judge as to facts.]—R. v. BREWSTER (No. 2) (1896), 2 Terr. L. R. 377.—CAN.

b. — — —.]—R. v. KAPLANSKY, SACHUK & SENILOFF (1922), 69 D. L. R. 625; 51 O. L. R. 587.—CAN.

c. Right of jury—To make inquiries.]—On a criminal trial the jury may with leave of the ct., through their foreman, make any inquiry which could be properly made on behalf of the prosecution or defence.—R. v. JAMES (1884), 3 V. R. (Law), 193.—AUS.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 12.—A.

3126 i. Not dissertation upon the law.]—On a stated case for argument on the question "should a judge at trial specifically instruct the jury to consider the state of intoxication of prisoner, & if they thought his state of intoxication was such as to prevent him appreciating the nature & result of his acts they should not convict of murder, but of manslaughter?"—Held: when a judge sums up to a jury, he must not be taken to be intiting a treatise on the law.—R. v. BLYTHE (1909), 14 O. W. R. 688; 1 O. W. N. 33; 19 O. L. R. 386; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 224.—CAN.

(1909), 73 J. P. 348; 25 T. L. R. 612; 53 Sol. Jo. 578; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 217, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Held. R. v. Vassileva (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 228; R. v. Schama, R. v. Abramovitch (1914), 112 L. T. 480; R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194; R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11. Mentd. R. v. Bradshaw, etc. (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 280; R. v. Brownlow (1910), 74 J. P. 240; R. v. Norton, [1910] 2 K. B. 496; R. v. Pratley (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 159; R. v. Ellsom (1911), 76 J. P. 38; R. v. Hill (1911), 76 J. P. 49; R. v. Savidge (1911), 76 J. P. 32; R. v. Horn (1912), 76 J. P. 270; R. v. Monk (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 119; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Finch (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575; R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 416.

3130. Issues of fact must be left to jury.—On an indictment for attempted rape, a positive direction to the jury to convict of indecent assault is a ground for quashing.—R. v. WEST (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Beeby (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 138.

3131. —.]—However strong a judge's view may be of the evidence he should leave questions of fact to the jury.—R. v. BEEBY (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 138, C. C. A.

3132. —.]—A summing up, in effect recommending a verdict of guilty which does not adequately put prisoner's case to the jury, is reason for quashing a conviction.—R. v. FRAMPTON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 202, C. C. A.

3133. —.]—Judge may express opinion.—On the facts.]—Provided that the judge in summing up clearly leaves the issues of fact to the jury he is entitled to express his opinion on the facts of the case.—R. v. O'DONNELL (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 219, C. C. A.

3134. —.]—As to defence.]—R. v. MELVILLE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

3135. —.]—R. v. HEPPWORTH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 128, C. C. A.

3136. —.]—As to conduct of defending counsel.]—R. v. CASTRO, No. 3207, post.

3137. Where gist of offence is intent—Should

3133 i. Issues of fact must be left to jury—Judge may express opinion.—On the facts.]—R. v. SWYRD (1909), 13 O. W. R. 468; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 138.—CAN.

3133 ii. —.]—It is open to a judge in charging the jury to express his opinion as to the effect of a certain portion of the evidence; but he should always be careful to add that it is for the jury to form their own opinion.—R. v. BEPIN BISWAS (1884), 1 L. R. 10 Calc. 970.—IND.

3133 iii. —.]—Where the judge expresses an opinion that if the facts given in evidence are believed, accused is guilty of murder, the jury have a right to disagree with his view & acquit prisoner of the offence.—R. v. NIRMAL KANTA ROY (1914), 1 L. R. 41 Calc. 1072.—IND.

d. Mode of summing up—Two counts—Evidence for one only.—Where two counts are included in one presentment & evidence is given which is applicable to one count, but not to the other, the ct. will not interfere with it if the trial judge in his summing up has directed the jury not to apply the evidence to the count to which it is not applicable.—R. v. JOHANSEN, [1917] V. L. R. 584.—AUS.

e. —.]—Avoidance of interrogative expressions assuming guilt of accused.]—The judge should avoid the use, in the charge to the jury, of interrogative expressions assuming the guilt of accused, & of slang & colloquial phrases.—AMIRUDDIN AHMED v. R. (1917), 1 L. R. 45 Calc. 557.—IND.

f. —.]—Direction that guilt must be beyond reasonable doubt.]—In a criminal case accused is entitled to have the jury directed that before they can convict him they must, on the evidence, be satisfied of his guilt, beyond reasonable doubt.—R. v. ROBERTS (1910), 10 S. R. N. S. W. 612; 27 N. S. W. W. N. 148.—AUS.

g. —.]—On a trial for manslaughter the judge directed the jury that the Crown must prove two things to their satisfaction beyond all reasonable doubt: that deceased was killed by being struck by a motor car, & that accused was the driver of that car. He then directed them to weigh the evidence for & against the contention that accused was culpably negligent, but did not tell them before convicting accused they must be satisfied beyond reasonable doubt of his negligence.—Held: this was a proper direction.—WITTIG v. R. (1919), 27 C. L. R. 158.—AUS.

h. Misdirection—Ground for setting aside verdict.—[Whole summing up must be considered.]—Isolated passages of a summing up will not be considered separately as grounds for setting aside a verdict, but the whole summing up must be taken into consideration.—R. v. BENNETT (1900), 10 Q. L. J. 147.—AUS.

k. —.]—R. v. WALKER (1893), 1 Terr. L. R. 482.—CAN.

l. —.]—What constitutes—Neglect to draw attention to Criminal Code, s. 259 (d).]—On the trial of an indictment for murder of K., it was proved that prisoners, who had been drinking, came on deceased's lawn & commenced to shout & sing & use profane & insulting language towards him. He twice warned them away, & finally appeared with a loaded gun threatening to shoot. A rush was made towards the verandah where he stood, when he took hold of the barrel of the gun & struck one of prisoners with the stock. The gun was discharged into his body & there was evidence that prisoners then maltreated him & his wife. He was taken to a hospital & died shortly after. The trial judge, in charging the jury, instructed them that prisoners were doing an unlawful act in trespassing on the property of deceased, & that if they were actuated by malice it would be murder, if not it was manslaughter, drawing their attention specially to the above sect. & sect. 259 (6). Prisoners were found guilty of murder. On appeal:—Held: the above direction to the jury ignored the requirements of the sub-sect. above, to which the judge should also have drawn their attention directing them to find whether or not prisoners knew, or ought to have known, that their acts were likely to cause death, & his failure to do so left his charge open to objection & constituted misdirection for which prisoners were entitled to a new trial.—GRAVES v. R. (1913), 47 S. C. R. 568.—CAN.

m. —.]—Neglect to point out minor inconsistencies.]—A case is to be put to the jury in a way to ensure their due appreciation of the value of the evidence; but, if the judge, in his analysis of the evidence, omits some fact relied on or fails to note its significance, that is not misdirection or non-direction.

The theory of the defence & the evidence favourable to the defence should be put before the jury in such a way as to ensure their appreciation of the points at issue. But every bit of evidence & every inconsistency therein need not be pointed out to the jury (FERGUSON, J.).—R. v. BAUGH (1917), 38 O. L. R. 559; 33 D. L. R. 191; 28 Can. Crim. Cas. 146.—CAN.

n. —.]—Omission to call attention to evidence of witnesses for defence.]—In summing up a case to the jury, the judge omitted to call their attention to the evidence of the witnesses for the defence. This evidence appeared to the High Ct. to be untrustworthy:—Held: the summing up was not defective on account of this omission on the part of the judge.—RE ROCHIA MOHATO, R. v. ROCHIA MOHATO (1881), 1 L. R. 7 Calc. 42; 8 C. L. R. 273.—IND.

o. —.]—Omission to call attention to fact in favour of accused.]—Three persons, who were attacked & wounded in an affray, informed the police on the same day that the persons who had attacked them were A., B. & C. Eighteen days afterwards the same complainants gave to the magistrate inquiring into the case the names of four other persons who, they said, with the three persons first accused, formed the attacking party. The seven accused were tried jointly for the offence before the Additional Recorder of Rangoon & a jury. In his charge to the jury the Additional Recorder omitted to call their attention to the fact that four out of the seven accused had not been mentioned by prosecutors until after eighteen days had passed over. Prisoners were convicted:—Held: the Additional Recorder misdirected the jury; under the circumstances the misdirection prejudiced the four persons last accused; & the verdict must be set aside as far as they were concerned.—LEU TU v. R. (1884), 1 L. R. 11 Calc. 10.—IND.

p. —.]—Points in favour of accused not sufficiently amplified.]—Where a charge to the jury is, upon the whole, favourable to accused, & most of the points of importance in favour of accused are more or less dealt with in the charge, the mere fact that some of the points are not so amplified as they might have been does not amount to a misdirection.—R. v. WAMAN SHIVRAM DAMLE (1903), 1 L. R. 27 Bom. 626.—IND.

q. —.]—Material inadmissible evidence admitted.]—Where material evidence, which ought not to be admitted, is admitted, it is a misdirection of law when the judge tells the jury that it was evidence which they can consider & on which they can, if they think proper, convict accused. The fact that, after putting the jury in possession of the inadmissible evidence, the judge in his charge goes on also to point out circumstances which would justify the jury in disbelieving the wrongly admitted evidence, does not make the misdirection less a misdirection.—R. v. WAMAN SHIVRAM DAMLE (1903), 1 L. R. 27 Bom. 626.—IND.

r. —.]—Transfer of witnesses—Failure to acquaint jury.]—The omission by the judge in his charge to the jury, to mention the fact of the original witnesses named in the first information having been abandoned by expressly ask jury to deal with question.]—When the gist of the offence is intent, the jury should be expressly asked to deal with that point.—R. v. SHEVILL (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 12, A. & B.]

3138. Mistake in summing up—Should be corrected by counsel.]—If a mistake is made in summing-up, counsel ought to correct it.—R. v. KAMS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Landow* (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 218.

3139. ———.]—If a judge makes a misstatement in summing up counsel may interrupt to correct him.—R. v. MOWBRAY (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

B. Necessary Contents.

3140. Must put case for defence to jury—As well as case for prosecution.]—It is most important that the judge who is trying a case should put to the jury in his summing up the case for the defence set up by or on behalf of prisoner as well as the case for the prosecution. If that is not done there is sometimes a miscarriage of justice where the conviction is quashed (per cur.).—R. v. KEATING (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 61; 73 J. P. Jo. 112, C. C. A.

3141. ———.]—A judge in summing up is bound to put the defence, however weak, before the jury.—R. v. DINNICK (1909), 74 J. P. 32; 26 T. L. R. 74; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Expld. R. v. Trueman* (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 20. Refd. R. v. Hill (1911), 105 L. T. 751; R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 26 Cox, C. C. 186.

the prosecution, of two of them having given evidence for the defence, & of the witnesses actually examined for the prosecution being entirely new witnesses, is a sufficient misdirection to justify the setting aside of the conviction.—DASARATH MANDAL v. R. (1907), 1 L. L. R. 34 Calc. 325.—IND.

h. ———. Instructing jury to consider statements not amounting to confessions against co-accused.]—It is a misdirection which must have misled the jury to instruct them to take into consideration statements not amounting to confessions by an accused as against the co-accused.—AMIRUDDIN AHMED v. R. (1917), 1 L. L. R. 45 Calc. 557.—IND.

i. ———. Admissibility of confessions.]—It is a misdirection to put to the jury & to leave it to them to determine whether a confession to a magistrate, & how much of a confession to the police are admissible.—AMIRUDDIN AHMED v. R. (1917), 1 L. L. R. 45 Calc. 557.—IND.

a. ———. Recommendation to mercy.]—Prisoner was tried for murder. Prosecutor informed the jury that it was competent for them to bring in verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation to mercy.

Application for prisoner was made for an order reserving for the opinion of the Ct. of Appeal the question whether the fact that the ct. at the trial did not direct the jury that a recommendation to mercy would not necessarily be given effect to & might be disregarded by the ct., constituted a misdirection in law:—Held: non-direction did not vitiate the verdict.—R. v. PARKINSON (1915), 34 N. Z. L. R. 636.—N.Z.

b. Comment of judge.]—Under the criminal law of Canada the failure of accused at the preliminary hearing to disclose his defence must not be a matter of comment by the judge in his instructions to the jury. A conviction was quashed & a new trial directed on the ground that what was said in the instructions to the jury amounted to such comment.—R. v. MAH HONG (1920), 3 W. W. R. 314; 53

D. L. R. 356.—CAN.

c. Undue prominence to certain evidence—Counsel's duty to call judge's attention to.]—As to certain threats alleged to have been uttered by prisoner:—Held: they were clearly admissible, & if undue prominence was given to them in the charge, the attention of the judge should have been called to it by prisoner's counsel.—R. v. JONES (1868), 28 U. C. R. 416.—CAN.

d. Illegal evidence—Subsequent ruling out.]—R. v. FRASER (1870), 14 L. C. J. 245.—CAN.

e. Whole charge not delivered in open court—Effect of.]—A trial judge did not deliver the whole of his charge to the jury in open ct., but, having been requested by message from the jury after they had retired, proceeded to the jury room with plff. in charge of the sheriff, & in the absence of both counsel for the Crown, who elected to be absent, & counsel for plff., gave further instructions to the jury, plff. not objecting:—Held: the facts as to this did not properly form part of the record: that it was a question which could have been recovered, & therefore, not raisable in error: while it is inexpedient for a judge to communicate with the jury otherwise than in open ct., yet his doing so is not necessarily a ground of error.—GREER v. R. (1892), 2 B. C. R. 112.—CAN.

f. Proper evidence only to go to jury—Mistake by counsel.]—Even if a mistake is made by counsel at a trial, that does not relieve the judge in a criminal case from the duty to see that proper evidence only is before the jury.—R. v. BROOKS (1906), 11 O. L. R. 525; 7 O. W. R. 533; 11 Can. Crim. Cas. 188.—CAN.

g. Necessity for specific direction—Where principle made obvious in other language.]—On a conviction for murder being affirmed by the Supreme Ct.:—Held: the trial judge was justified in refusing to direct the jury specifically that "besides being satisfied that the facts proven were consistent with prisoner's guilt, they must also be with 3142. ———.]—Conviction quashed on the ground that the defence was not properly put to the jury.—R. v. RICHARDS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 161, C. C. A.

3143. ———.]—It is a misdirection not to put a substantive defence raised by deft. to the jury although the judge suggests another defence.—R. v. HILL (1911), 105 L. T. 751; 76 J. P. 49; 28 T. L. R. 15; 22 Cox, C. C. 625; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Immer*, R. v. Davis (1917), 26 Cox, C. C. 186.

3144. ———.]—If the Ct. of Criminal Appeal considers that deft.'s case was not fully put to the jury, it may quash a conviction.—R. v. WILSON (alias WHITTINGDALE) (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

3145. ———.]—R. v. FRAMPTON, No. 3132, ante.

3146. ———. Although not raised by defence.]—Whatever may be the line of defence adopted by counsel for a prisoner at the trial, the judge is bound to put to the jury such questions as appear to him properly to arise upon the evidence even although counsel may not himself have raised some point.

At the trial of applt. for murder his counsel relied substantially on the defence that the killing was accidental, but he indicated that in the event of the jury not accepting that view he would ask them to find that the crime was manslaughter & not murder. The judge directed the jury that it was impossible for them to find a verdict of manslaughter, & that if they did not come to the conclusion that the killing was accidental they

any other rational explanation, theory or hypotheses," if the charge made this principle sufficiently obvious to the jury in other language.—R. v. COOK (1914), 14 E. L. R. 471; 18 D. L. R. 706; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 50.—CAN.

h. Necessity for calling attention to matters of prime importance—If favouring accused.]—A judge, in summing up, is entitled to have regard to the elaboration & skill with which the rival contentions have been placed before the jury by the advocates on both sides, but he should not in doing so omit pointedly to call the attention of the jury to matters of prime importance, especially if they favour accused, merely because they have been discussed by the advocate.—R. v. MALGOWDA BASGOWDA (1902), 1 L. R. 27 Bom. 644.—IND.

k. Objections to charge—When & how made.]—I look upon it as a principle, that if an objection exists, whether to the charge of the judge or to the reception of evidence, the objection must be taken at the time, & taken in a specific, tangible shape, so that it may not be misunderstood. The reason is, because, if thus so made, it may be easy, by additional evidence or otherwise, to supply or correct what was supposed defective; or, if the objection lay to the charge of the judge, he might, on the supposed error being pointed out, retract or qualify, or explain what he had said. On that ground the principle seems to apply equally in misdemeanours as in civil cases.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1844), 7 I. L. R. 261, 332.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 12. —B.

3140 i. Must put case for defence to jury—As well as case for prosecution.]—It is the duty of the judge to call the attention of the jury to the different elements constituting the offence & to deal with the evidence by which it is proposed to make accused liable.—TAJU PRAMANIK v. R. (1898), 1 L. R. 25 Calc. 711.—IND.

must find a verdict of murder. The jury returned a verdict of murder:—Held: the judge ought to have left to the jury the question whether the crime was manslaughter only, & that as he had omitted to do so, the Ct. would enter a verdict of manslaughter, which the jury might have found if they had been directed upon the point.—R. v. HOPPER, [1915] 2 K. B. 431; 84 L. J. K. B. 1371; 113 L. T. 381; 79 J. P. 335; 31 T. L. R. 360; 59 Sol. Jo. 478; 25 Cox, C. C. 34; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 136, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Clinton (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 215. Refd. R. v. Beard (1920), 84 J. P. 129.

3147. — Especially where accused is undefended.—In summing up the judge should take care to point out all that there is to be said for the defence, especially when prisoner is undefended by counsel.—R. v. TOTTY (1914), 111 L. T. 167; 24 Cox, C. C. 227; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 26 Cox, C. C. 186.

3148. ——The rule that a summing up must carefully put the defence is especially strict when deft. is not represented by counsel.—R. v. IMMER, R. v. DAVIS (1917), 118 L. T. 416; 26 Cox, C. C. 186; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

3149. — Need not discuss defence.—A judge in summing up is not bound to discuss the defence raised.—R. v. NICHOLLS (1908), 73 J. P. 11; 25 T. L. R. 65; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 167, C. C. A.

3150. — Need not state defence in terms.—Omission in a summing up to tell the jury in terms what the defence is does not amount to misdirection if the issues in the case are in substance put to the jury in the summing up.—R. v. BRADSHAW, ETC. (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 280, C. C. A.

3151. — When dealt with exhaustively by counsel.—A summing up need not go through the evidence, especially where counsel on both sides have dealt with it exhaustively.—R. v. McDOUGALL (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 130, C. C. A.

3152. Need not go into every detail of evidence.—Omissions in summing up not necessarily misdirection. Summings up were not intended to be a minute examination into all the details of a case, though in this case the summing up might have been fuller. There not being a miscarriage of justice the Ct. could not interfere.—R. v. FARINGTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

3153. ——Unimportant omissions in a summing up do not amount to misdirection. A conviction cannot be quashed because a judge, in summing up, does not go through every detail of the case.—R. v. HAYES (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 70, C. C. A.

3154. — Provided defence is clearly put.—The substantial defence must be put to the jury, but not every part or particular of it.—R. v. TRUEMAN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 20, C. C. A.; subsequent proceedings, 9 Cr. App. Rep. 45, C. C. A.

3155. Only necessary to put main defence fully before jury.—In cases of indecent assault & cases of the same kind where consent is a defence, if the facts of the case are such that the jury may reasonably infer that prosecutrix consented to the acts alleged, there ought to be a direction to the jury by the judge both as to the onus which is on the prosecution to prove non-consent, & also as to the evidence given on the question of consent. But if the facts are not such as that the jury may reasonably infer consent, & particularly if the case has been conducted by counsel so as to make the question of consent an entirely secondary issue, there is no necessity for such a direction.—R. v. MAY, [1912] 3 K. B. 572; 82 L. J. K. B. 1; 108 L. T. 351; 77 J. P. 31; 29 T. L. R. 24; 23 Cox, C. C. 327; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Hopper (1915), 79 J. P. 335.

3156. ——Applt. was indicted for murder. The defences set up were accident, & that the circumstances reduced the crime to manslaughter, of which the jury convicted him. The defence substantially relied on was the second defence. The judge in directing the jury did not deal fully with the defence of accident:—Held: as the defence had been substantially that the case was one of manslaughter, & the defence of accident, though not abandoned, was not strongly relied on, it could not be said that the judge had misdirected the jury.—R. v. GORGES (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 1049; 114 L. T. 77; 25 Cox, C. C. 218; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 259, C. C. A.

3157. Second trial before same jury—Clear direction essential—Same defendant.—When a prisoner has already been tried in the same Ct. before the same judge & by the same jury, it is essential that a proper & careful direction should be given them, on the trial of a later indictment, that it is not affected by the former charge.—R. v. BRERETON (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 201, C. C. A.

3158. — Different defendants.—When the same jury has tried different defts. on charges arising out of the same facts there is especial need of a careful direction in the subsequent case.—R. v. YATES (1920), 15 Cr. App. Cas. 15, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Young (1923), 129 L. T. 64.

3159. Joint indictment of several accused—Evidence by one accused against another—Separate summing up.—Where prisoners are jointly indicted, & a statement is put in evidence in which one implicates the other, the judge will sum up the cases separately, requesting the jury to consult & come to a decision upon the one case, but not to deliver their verdict, & then he will sum up the case of the other, & take the verdict against both.—R. v. CLOTHIER & TILER (1844), 4 L. T. O. S. 196; 1 Cox, C. C. 113.

3160. — Cases must be clearly distinguished.—The only evidence on which B. was convicted of receiving a gun, well knowing that it was stolen, was that of G., who said that S. & B. together sold him the stolen gun for 5s. G. admitted previous convictions. The judge who tried the case against S. & B. together, told the jury that 5s. was a ridiculous price for the gun; but he omitted to caution the jury that if that were so, it was as much evidence of guilty knowledge on the part of G., who bought the gun, as it was on the part of B., who sold it, & that the sole evidence against B. was that of G., who might be an accomplice. There was abundant evidence against S., but the judge did not properly distinguish between the cases against the two prisoners. On these grounds the conviction of B. was quashed.—R. v. BEAUCHAMP (1909), 73 J. P. 223; 25 T. L. R. 330; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 40, C. C. A.

3161. ——When defts. are tried together & set up different defences, the direction to the jury must state clearly the difference.—R. v. ROWAN (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 279, C. C. A.

3160 i. Joint indictment of several accused—Cases must be clearly distinguished.—A distinct instruction that the evidence of a witness upon one point affects only one of two persons jointly accused, emphasises the necessity for giving an equally distinct instruction as to any other evidence on other points, which is not applicable to both accused.—R. v. MURRAY &

MAHONEY (No. 2), [1917] 1 W. W. R. 404; 10 Alta. L. R. 275; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 247; 33 D. L. R. 702.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 12, B.]

3162. ———.]—When two or more persons are jointly indicted the direction must carefully distinguish between the case of each, & it is a grave misdirection to suggest wrongly that if one is guilty another must also be guilty.—R. v. GRAHAM (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

3163. ———.]—When there is more than one deft., the direction must distinguish carefully between each case.—R. v. MATTHEWS (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 23, C. C. A.

3164. ———.]—When defts. are jointly indicted but not all on all charges, the jury must be directed to discriminate carefully between the respective allegations.—R. v. TWIGG (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

3165. ———.]—In the case of co-defts. the must, if necessary, be carefully charged to distinguish between their cases.—R. v. LOVETT & FLINT (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

3166. Whether necessary to inform jury of power to convict of lesser offence.—A judge is not bound in every case to tell the jury that they are at liberty to convict of a lesser offence, unless that point is substantially raised by the evidence (per CUR.).—R. v. VAUGHAN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A.

3167. ———.]—Where by statute a lesser verdict can be returned on an indictment than that charged in the indictment, a judge, in summing up the case to the jury, need not tell the jury of their right to return the lesser verdict, if the evidence in the case is inconsistent with the return of such a verdict.—R. v. NAYLOR (1910), 74 J. P. 460; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

3168. ———.]—It does not follow that because it is open to the jury to find a verdict to convict of a lesser offence than that charged the judge must so direct them.—R. v. PARROTT (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 186, C. C. A.

3169. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm but was indicted for wounding with intent to murder:—Held: on such an indictment the jury should have been directed that they were entitled to find a verdict of unlawful wounding.—R. v. PARKS (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 50, C. C. A.

3170. Defence unsupported by facts—Whether necessary to put before jury.—On the trial of an indictment for murder, the judge is not bound to suggest to the jury that they can find a verdict of not guilty, unless the facts require it.—R. v. LYONS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

3171. ———.]—Hypothetical suggestion of insanity.—A judge is not bound to put to a jury a defence resting merely on a hypothesis of impulsive insanity.—R. v. THOMAS (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 36, C. C. A.

3172. ———.]—A judge is not bound in law to put a particular defence to the jury if he takes the view that that defence has not been made out & that the facts do not amount in law to proof of the defence which is suggested.—R. v. HONEYANDS (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 60, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Public Prosecutions Director v. Beard (1920), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 158.

3173. Direction as to manslaughter on charge of murder.—A judge is not bound in every trial

3166 i. Whether necessary to inform jury of power to convict of lesser offence.—

—Dft. was charged with carnal knowledge of a girl under the age of ten years. The judge directed the jury that they might find dft. guilty of an assault with intent to commit the offence charged:—Held: he was not bound to tell them that they might also find dft. guilty of an attempt to commit the offence.—R. v. KEOGH (1878), 1 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 136.—AUS.

3166 ii. ———.]—If on a criminal trial the judge correctly instructs the jury on the essential ingredients of the crime charged, & fully & fairly puts to the jury the defence set up by prisoner, a verdict of guilty amounts to a finding by the jury of every essential element of that crime, & it cannot be disturbed by a suggestion that the jury, or one part of the evidence, might have found him guilty of a lesser offence, not referred to by counsel for the defence, if the judge had informed them that they were at liberty to do so.—Ross v. R., [1922] V. L. R. 329.—AUS.

3166 iii. ———.]—Prisoner, being indicted for highway robbery & assault, the ct. is not bound to tell the jury that they may acquit prisoner on the count for robbery, & find him guilty on the count for assault; it is discretionary in the ct. to do so or not.—R. v. CROWAN (1842), Arn. M. & O. 321.—IR.

1. —Necessity for drawing distinction between offences.—Dft. was tried on an information which charged him with having committed an indecent assault on a female child under the age of twelve years. The judge, in summing up, told the jury they might find prisoner guilty of common assault, but he did not draw a distinction between the offences, nor tell the jury that an assault must be either without or against consent. The jury found dft. guilty of a common assault. The facts showed that there was no consent:—Held: verdict of common assault was admissible under the information, but as the attention of the jury was not called to the question of consent, the conviction ought to be quashed.—R. v. BRADY (1876), 14 N. S. W. S. C. R. 468.—AUS.

m. ———.]—It is the duty of the judge in a criminal trial with a jury to define to the jury the crime charged & to explain the difference between it & any other offence of which it is open to the jury to convict accused. Failure to so instruct the jury is good cause for granting a new trial, & the fact that counsel for accused took no exception to the judge's charge is immaterial.—R. v. WONG ON & WONG GOW (1904), 10 B. C. R. 555.—CAN.

3173 i. Direction as to manslaughter on charge of murder.—Prisoner was charged with the murder of a girl. The medical evidence was that the girl had been violated & had died of strangulation. The main evidence for the Crown was that of three witnesses who deposed to confessions made by prisoner. Prisoner's defence was an alibi. No suggestion was made at the trial by prisoner's counsel that it was open to the jury to return a verdict of manslaughter. The trial judge directed the jury that if they were satisfied that prisoner caused the girl's death with the intention of bringing that death about, or that in the course of having sexual connection with her he caused her death, or that he caused her death in furtherance of that purpose, he would be guilty of murder. The jury found prisoner guilty of murder. On motion for special leave to appeal it was argued that in view of the evidence of one of the confessional witnesses, it would have been open to the jury to find prisoner guilty of manslaughter & that the judge should have so directed them:—Held: the effect of the direction was that the jury should acquit prisoner unless they found that he caused the girl's death in one of the three ways declared by the judge, to amount to murder; the direction was proper; & the judge was in the circumstances under no duty to tell the jury that it was open to them to find prisoner guilty of manslaughter.—Ross v. R., [1922] V. L. R. 329.—AUS.

3173 ii. ———.]—Where the judge in a trial for murder concludes his trial thus: "the verdict of the jury is generally resumed in a few words, in the solemn words of guilty or not guilty," he is not supposed to direct the jury to bring in but one of the two verdicts of guilty or not guilty of the murder, if in other parts of his charge he has sufficiently pointed out the distinction between murder & manslaughter, & instructed them as to their duty to find whether prisoner acted with or without intent to kill.—It. v. FOUQUET (1905), Q. R. 14 K. B. 87.—CAN.

3173 iii. ———.]—R. v. BARRETT (1907), 1 Sask. L. R. 373; 8 W. L. R. 877.—CAN.

3173 iv. ———.]—On the trial of an indictment for murder the evidence was that deceased had been killed by a gunshot wound inflicted through the discharge of a gun in the hands of accused, & the defence was that the gun had been discharged accidentally:—Held: in view of the character of the defence & the evidence in support of it, there could be no objection to a charge by the trial judge to the jury that the offence could not be reduced by them from murder to manslaughter, but that their verdict should be either for acquittal or one of guilty of murder.—GILBERT v. IT. (1907), 38 S. C. R. 284.—CAN.

3173 v. ———.]—On a trial for the murder of a police officer, there was evidence that E. & J. had set out from their home, during the night when deceased was killed, with the intention of committing theft; J. & his wife testified that, on returning home, E. had told them that a man, whom he supposed to be a secret-police constable, had pointed a pistol at him & that he had shot him. The defence for murder to direct the jury that they may find manslaughter.—R. v. FAIRBROTHER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 233, C. C. A.

3174. —[—]—On an indictment for murder the judge is entitled to withdraw a defence of manslaughter from the jury.—R. v. FOY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

3175. —[—]—R. v. SCHOLEY, No. 3128, ante.

3176. —[—]—On a trial for murder there need not necessarily be a direction that it is open to the jury to find manslaughter.—R. v. FLETCHER (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

3177. — Where defence of manslaughter is not raised.—[—]—R. v. HOPPER, No. 3146, ante.

3178. — [—]—On an indictment for murder if deft.'s counsel does not suggest a possible verdict of manslaughter but only an acquittal on the ground of accident the judge is not bound to suggest that verdict.—R. v. CLINTON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 215, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. ROBINSON (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 140.

was rested entirely upon alibi, & accused testified on his own behalf, stating that he had been at home during the whole of the night in question, but making no mention of any facts concerning the shooting. In his charge, the trial judge reviewed the evidence, in a general way, & told the jury that, upon the evidence adduced, they must either convict or acquit of the crime of murder; that they could not return a verdict of manslaughter; that, if they believed J.'s account of what happened to be substantially true, they should convict of murder; & he did not instruct the jury as to what, in law, constituted manslaughter nor as to circumstances on which the verdict might be reduced to manslaughter. Held: the charge of the trial judge was right, & the omission to instruct the jury in respect to manslaughter did not occasion any substantial wrong or miscarriage which could justify the setting aside of the conviction nor a direction for a new trial.—R. v. EBBERTS (1912), 22 W. L. R. 901; 3 W. W. R. 37; 7 D. L. R. 530.—CAN.

3173 vi. —[—]—On the trial of an accused on a charge of murder, when the evidence shows that the jury may reasonably infer a case of manslaughter, there must be a direction on that point, but the judge ought to be slow to arrive at the conclusion that there are no circumstances that would justify a verdict of manslaughter.—R. v. JAGAT SINGH (1915), 32 W. L. R. 637; 9 W. W. R. 514.—CAN.

3173 vii. —[—]—R. v. OLKHOVIV, [1920] 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 56 D. L. R. 499.—CAN.

3173 viii. —[—]—On a trial for murder defence adduced evidence to show that accused did not intend to shoot his gun. After the judge's charge accused's counsel took objection to its sufficiency & requested that the judge tell the jury that "If the jury believes accused's evidence that he did not point his gun at M. or did not point it at Q. & he had no intent—no intention of shooting anybody & in the scuffle the gun was discharged & M. was unfortunately killed, then accused is not guilty of the crime with which he is charged." The judge refused so to do.—Held: the charge had failed to fully present the defence to the jury, that the facts deposed to on behalf of accused were, if believed, open to the inference that the shots had been fired in the scuffle by misadventure in some unexplained way by one of the participants therein, & such being the case that whole aspect of the occurrence, constituting, if true, a good defence to the charge of murder, should have been presented to the jury, & that there should be a new trial.—R. v. DEAL, [1923] 1 W. W. R. 615; [1923] 3 D. L. R. 201; 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 105; 32 B. C. R. 219.—CAN.

3181 i. Should direct jury as to point of law.—[—]—It is the duty of a judge to give a direction upon the law to the jury so far as to make them understand the law as bearing upon the facts; & if he does not give them an explanation of the law sufficiently comprehensive to enable them to decide the particular issue, it is a misdirection.—Re JIUBROO MAITON, R. v. JIUBROO MAITON (1882), 1 L. R. 8 Cal. 739.—IND.

3181 ii. —[—]—In charging a jury it is incumbent on the judge to explain the law to them in order to assist them in applying the law to the facts of the case. Mere reference to sections of the Penal Code defining the offences is not sufficient.—ABBAS PEADA v. R. (1898), 1 L. R. 25 Cal. 736.—IND.

3181 iii. —[—]—Where a judge, in charging a jury, said: "The law bearing on the case has been placed before you more than once in the addresses delivered by the learned pleaders on either side. I need not go into detail as to the law"—Held: it was immaterial how much or how often the jury might have been addressed by the pleaders on both sides upon the law. The responsibility of laying down the law for the guidance of the jury rested entirely with the judge, & a verdict arrived at by the jury in the absence of any such direction on the law by which they should be guided could not be accepted as a valid verdict in the case.—MANGAN DAS v. R. (1902), 1 L. R. 29 Cal. 379.—IND.

3181 iv. —[—]—It is not only desirable but necessary that a charge should be recorded in an intelligible form & with sufficient fulness to satisfy the Appeal Ct. that all points of law arising in the case were clearly & correctly explained to the jury.—PANCHU DAS v. R. (1907), 1 L. R. 34 Cal. 698.—IND.

n. Evidence denied by prisoner admitted—Caution as to effect to be given to such evidence.—[—]—The Crown tendered in evidence a conversation between a detective officer & prisoner in which the officer told prisoner that P. had made a statement regarding prisoner's whereabouts at a certain time. Prisoner denied P.'s statement. After objection the conversation was admitted. In his summing up, the judge cautioned the jury that as prisoner had denied the truth of what P. was alleged to have said it was no evidence against him of the fact:—

3179. — [—]—The rule about the judge's direction on manslaughter in a trial for murder is correctly laid down in R. v. CLINTON, No. 3178, ante.

"Where there is no evidence of manslaughter the question should not be left to the jury"—(LORD HEWART, C.J.)—R. v. ROBINSON (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 140, C. C. A.

3180. Direction as to intent to defraud—Charge of obtaining by false pretences.—[—]—A summing up on an indictment for obtaining by false pretences must contain an express direction on intent to defraud; if it does not, the ct. will quash a conviction.—R. v. BAKER (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 190, C. C. A.

3181. Should direct jury as to point of law.—[—]—R. v. VASSILEVA (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 228, C. C. A.

3182. Although not referred to by defence.—[—]—The omission by counsel of taking a point of law does not affect the duty of the judge to call the attention of the jury to it.—R. v. SMITH (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 42, C. C. A.

Held: the judge had sufficiently cautioned the jury as to the effect to be given to the evidence.—R. v. EYLES (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 377.—AUS.

o. Caution to disregard questions suggesting similar offences to that charged.—[—]—Accused was tried before a judge & jury & convicted on a charge of theft of money from a passenger in a sleeping-car on a specified day. Having testified on his own behalf, he was cross-examined by counsel for the Crown, & asked questions relating to money which had been lost in sleeping-cars on other occasions when he had been, as suggested, in such cars. The questions were not objected to, & were answered by accused, who denied all knowledge of such losses. The Crown made no attempt to prove the facts suggested. The trial judge directed the jury to disregard these questions & answers & any inferences suggested by them.—Held: full justice was done to accused by the trial judge's direction, & it was his duty to give such direction, independently of whether the questions were properly asked or not; & it was not necessary to decide whether they were properly asked.—R. v. HURD (1913), 23 W. L. R. 812; 10 D. L. R. 475; 4 W. W. R. 185; 21 Can. Crim. Cas. 98.—CAN.

p. Bearing of facts in evidence upon questions to be determined.—[—]—In charging the jury in an action for assault & battery, the trial judge ought to point out to the jurors the bearing of the facts of evidence upon each of the questions which they must determine, & which of the facts are, in his judgement, in dispute.—McKENNA v. CUMMISKEY (1913), 13 E. L. R. 229.—CAN.

q. Caution as to admissibility of evidence of complaints.—[—]—A victim of rape complained thereof immediately thereafter to certain persons. She did not then know the offender but recognised him subsequently & identified him at the trial. Evidence was given by witnesses for the Crown of the victim's said complaints as to the commission of the offence, but it was only on cross-examination of these witnesses that details, which were general in character, of the offender's description as given in such complaints, were elicited. There was no doubt, on the evidence, as to the commission of the offence, & the only real issue before the jury was that of identity.—Held: under such circumstances the trial judge's omission to charge the jury that the complaints were only admissible to show consistency of the victim's conduct with her evidence at trial & as negating consent & were not evidence of the facts complained

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 12, C.]C. Powers of Judge.

3183. To make independent suggestions as to facts.—A judge is entitled to make an independent suggestion on the facts not made by the prosecution or the defence.—R. v. RYDER (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

3184. —.]—It is not a misdirection to make a suggestion as to the facts of a case different from that made by the prosecution & by the defence.—R. v. BENTLEY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. C. A.

3185. —.]—If prisoner elects not to take advantage of the provisions of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, & does not offer himself as a witness on his own behalf, it is entirely in the discretion of the judge to comment on that fact in whatever way & to whatever extent he thinks fit.

It is undesirable that the judge should suggest in his charge to the jury a theory of the mode of death not previously put forward at such trial.—R. v. SMITH (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2153; 114 L. T. 239; 31 T. L. R. 617; 25 Cox, C. C. 271; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 229, C. C. A.

3186. To make comments—On accused not giving evidence.—Prisoner applied for special leave to appeal in a criminal matter on the ground that the judge misdirected the jury in commenting upon prisoner having refrained from giving evidence in a case in which he was a competent but not compellable witness:—Held: the comment was according to law, & not precluded by the Criminal Law Amendment Act (55 Vict. No. 5), s. 6).—KOPS v. R., Ex p. KOPS, [1894] A. C. 650; 64 L. J. P. C. 34; 70 L. T. 890; 58 J. P. 668; 10 T. L. R. 525; 6 R. 522, P. C.

3187. — Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36).—A judge at the trial has the right to comment on a prisoner's failure to give evidence on his own behalf under the above Act, but the right of comment rests solely on the judge's discretion, & its exercise depends upon the circumstances of each particular case, & is one as to which no general rule can be laid down.—R. v. RHODES, [1899] 1 Q. B. 77; 68 L. J. Q. B. 83; 79 L. T. 360; 62 J. P. 774; 47 W. R. 121; 15 T. L. R. 37; 43 Sol. Jo. 45; 19 Cox, C. C. 182, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Saunders (1898), 63 J. P. 24; R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389; R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336.

3188. — — — —.]—R. v. BERNARD, No. 330, ante.

3189. — — — —.]—R. v. HAMPTON, No. 3127, ante.

3190. — — — —.]—R. v. SMITH, No. 3185, ante.

3191. — — — — Or not calling particular witness.]—The ct. will not review a judge's comment on deft.'s not giving evidence nor on his not calling a particular person.—R. v. VOISIN, [1918] 1 K. B.

of, could not be said to have misled the jury.—R. v. SCHIRABA (1921), 62 D. L. R. 308; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 402; 31 Man. L. R. 275; [1921] 3 W. W. R. 107.—CAN.

r. Caution not to be prejudiced by previous knowledge or public opinion.—

R. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 12.

—C.

3183 i. To make independent suggestions as to facts.—A judge has a right to express his opinion on a question of fact in charging the jury.—R. v. HOO SAM (1912), 20 W. L. R. 571; 1 W. W. R. 1049.—CAN.

3183 ii. —.]—A trial judge in a criminal case has an absolute right to express any opinion of his own upon the facts on which the jury has to pass; the question in each case is whether, reading the charge as a whole, he has made an improper use of his right.—R. v. MOKE, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 575.—CAN.

3183 iii. —.]—R. v. SPELLMAN (1921), 69 D. L. R. 649; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 390; 49 N. B. R. 200.—CAN.

3183 iv. —.]—Accused was charged with stealing one post letter containing money. His counsel in addressing the jury attacked severely the testimony of witnesses for the prosecution whose efforts to detect crime had led to the charge against accused. The judge in charging the jury expressed a strong opinion that there was no justification for such a charge against these witnesses as he deemed was made in counsel's address, & in connection therewith said: "Under our system of law counsel are given great latitude. It is realised that for the purpose of protecting their clients' interests they must not be harassed by fear of anything that might be stated & they are absolutely free of liability for anything they say for the protection of their client."—Held: while the statement of the law was correct for him to express his own opinion upon the facts, while making it clear that the jury was to decide the facts, yet the words above quoted, in the circumstances & taken together with his other remarks, were such as to likely prejudice the accused & constituted in law a misdirection.—R. v. SHANDRO, [1923] 1 W. W. R. 405; [1923] 1 D. L. R. 722; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 337; 19 Alta. L. R. 129.—CAN.

3183 v. —.]—The expression by a judge of his opinion as to the facts of the case, without submitting them exclusively to the jury, is no ground for setting aside a verdict for misdirection, such being a matter resting with the discretion of the judge.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; 9 Jur. 25.—IR.

3186 i. To make comments—On accused not giving evidence.—A constable gave evidence of admission of guilt made to him by prisoner in a conversation when no one else was present. Prisoner did not give evidence. The judge referred to the constable's evidence as "uncontradicted":—Held: this was not a comment within Crimes Act, 1900, s. 407 (2).—R. v. DUFFY (1901), 1 S. R. N. S. W. 20; 18 N. S. W. N. 28.—AUS.

3186 ii. — — — —.]—R. v. TEMPLETON, [1922] St. R. Qd. 165.—AUS.

3186 iii. — — — —.]—Prisoner, who was tried & convicted of murder, although he had ample time & opportunity to tell all he knew concerning the crime both to the authorities & others, maintained a complete silence respecting it with the exception of some bald assertions of his innocence, until he went upon the witness stand at the trial to give evidence on his own behalf, when he admitted being present at the doing of the deed, but charged it upon one G., a young companion, who was with him, & who, before & at the trial, had alleged prisoner's guilt. The judge, in charging the jury, told them that they were entitled to take this continued silence of prisoner into consideration, & after deciding whether or not such silence proceeded from a consciousness of guilt & a desire to spring a defence upon the Crown, which it might not be able to meet,

they might therefrom draw an inference as to his guilt or innocence. He further instructed them that this continued silence of prisoner was an element that might assist them in determining the amount of credence that ought to be given by the story told by prisoner in the witness box:—Held: the charge was correct in both respects.—R. v. HIGGINS (1902), 36 N. B. R. 18.—CAN.

3186 iv. — — — —.]—There can be no question that the judge in a criminal case tried before a jury is justified in commenting upon the fact that accused has not given evidence; it is not possible to lay down any general rule as to when this should be done or as to the extent to which comments should go; the justification for such comment depends in each case on its circumstances; it is a discretion in the ct. which should be used with a due regard to the interests of justice.—R. v. DUBE (1915), App. D. 557.—S. AF.

3186 v. — — — —.]—The failure of an accused to give evidence on his own behalf is a circumstance which may properly be taken into consideration by a ct. of law. It should not be pressed too far. But where there is evidence, entitled to credence, which directly implicates an accused person, the fact that he refrains from going into the box to contradict that evidence may well be regarded as an element to be weighed in connection with all the others in the case, bearing in mind always that the onus remains upon the Crown.—R. v. NYATI (1916), App. D. 324.—S. AF.

3186 vi. — — — —.]—Where a prisoner refrains in a criminal trial from giving evidence a judge in charging the jury is debarred by the above sect. from commenting adversely on prisoner's so refraining.—R. v. BROWN & MCCANN (1909), 29 N. Z. L. R. 846.—N. Z.

s. — What amounts to.]—At a criminal trial accused made a statement not on oath. In reference to that statement the judge, in his summing up to the jury, said: "That statement is something which the law requires you to take into consideration together with the evidence, but it is

531; 87 L. J. K. B. 574; 118 L. T. 654; 34 T. L. R. 263; 62 Sol. Jo. 423; 26 Cox, C. C. 224; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Cook (1918), 34 T. L. R. 515.

3192.—On what punishment will ensue on conviction.]—Semble: when prisoner's counsel hints in his speech at the maximum of punishment, the judge may tell the jury that the punishment on conviction will be mild & lenient.—R. v. HARRINGTON (1862), 26 J. P. 793.

3193.—As to the improbability of capital sentence being carried out.]—Whether the judge in summing up should refer to the improbability of a capital sentence being carried out depends on the way counsel for the defence deals with the question of punishment.—R. v. VISICK (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 277, C. C. A.

3194.—On effect of successful defence of insanity.]—R. v. REYNOLDS (1843), Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence, 5th ed., Vol. I., 870.

3195.—To read depositions—Though not put in evidence.]—Upon the trial of a prisoner at assizes or quarter sessions it is competent for the presiding judge to lay before the jury, when summing up the case to them, matter which, though not put in evidence previously, would have been admissible in evidence had it been tendered.

not in itself evidence in the same sense as the statement of a witness given upon oath; it is not subject in any way to test by cross-examination":—Held: what was said by the judge was not a comment upon the fact that accused had refrained from giving evidence on oath on his own behalf.—JACKSON v. R., [1918] 25 C. L. R. 113.—AUS.

t. ————.]—A direction to the jury that an accused has failed to account for a particular occurrence, when the onus has been cast upon him to do so, does not amount to a comment on his failure to testify, within the above sub-sect.—R. v. AHO (1904), 25 C. L. T. 50; 11 B. C. R. 114; 8 Can. Crim. Cas. 453.—CAN.

a. ————.]—A statement made by a judge, in charging the jury in a criminal case, that the evidence of a witness for the Crown is wholly uncontradicted, is not a comment on the failure of a person charged to testify.—R. v. GUERIN (1909), 18 O. L. R. 425; 14 O. W. R. 5, 14.—CAN.

b. ————.]—It is the duty of the judge in a criminal case carefully to protect the accused from damaging insinuations which may not in terms invite a consideration of the accused's failure to testify but make indirect & covert allusions to his silence.—R. v. GALLAGHER, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 1183; 63 D. L. R. 629; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 83; 17 Alta. L. R. 519.—CAN.

Statement by accused.]—Prisoner made a statement from the dock amounting merely to a general denial that he was the man who had committed the offence charged. The judge told the jury, "You may take as much notice of that as you like":—Held: not an invitation to the jury to disregard prisoner's statement in favour of sworn evidence.—R. v. MANSFIELD (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 187; 33 N. S. W. W. N. 56.—AUS.

d. — Unsworn statement.]—Where a trial judge improperly permits an accused to make an unsworn statement on his own behalf at the trial & then directs the jury to pay no attention to it because it was not sworn, this is a direction which is an indirect violation of the Canada Evidence Act.—R. v. KELLY (1916), 35 W. W. L. R. 46; 11 W. W. R. 46.—CAN.

When made.]—Accused has always been allowed to make an unsworn statement as part of his defence, the only question being at what stage of the proceedings it should be made, & some weight may be given by the jury to such a statement, but the judge should direct them that it is not legal evidence.—R. v. PERRY & PLEDGER, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 21.—N.Z.

f. — On evidence.]—A judge is entitled to make in his summing up such observations on the evidence as he thinks fit.—JEFFRIES v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 143.—AUS.

g. — That witness under undue influence.]—On a trial for murder prisoner's daughter, a girl of 14, was called on his behalf:—Held: if from her manner the judge derived the impression that she was under some undue influence, it was not improper to call the attention of the jury to it in his charge.—R. v. JONES (1868), 28 U. C. R. 416, 424.—CAN.

h. — On accused not calling certain witnesses.]—Prisoner & F. were jointly indicted, & a true bill found against them. It was ordered that prisoner should be tried separately & apart from F., as to whom the indictment was traversed to another sittings. At the trial of prisoner the judge commented on the fact that F. was not called as a witness:—Held: the judge had the right to comment as he did.—R. v. BLAIS (1906), 11 O. L. R. 345; 7 O. W. R. 380; 10 Can. Crim. Cas. 354.—CAN.

k. ————.]—On the trial of deft. on an indictment charging him with the forgery of two promissory notes, deft. having been found guilty, a reserved case was applied for on the ground that in the course of his address to the jury the trial judge commented upon the failure of the deft. to produce a witness, S., & said that in the interests of truth & justice he should have done so. The reserved case applied for having been refused & an appeal taken:—Held: there having been no substantial wrong or miscarriage which would be ground for a new trial, the appeal should not be allowed.—R. v. MCLEAN (1906), 39 N. S. R. 147; 1 E. L. R. 334.—CAN.

— On motive.]—R. v. LEW 7 B. C. R. 77.—CAN.

m. — To refuse to direct—Where no evidence.]—M., on his trial for the murder of S., a constable, made a statement which he reduced to writing to the effect that S., in attempting to arrest him, had used unnecessary violence, & that in order to protect himself he had shot the constable. Counsel for prisoner asked the judge to direct the jury that if the arrest, though legal, was made with unnecessary violence, amounting to an assault, prisoner was only guilty of manslaughter. The judge refused so to direct the jury, on the ground that there was no evidence that the arrest was made with unnecessary violence:—Held: the judge was right in refusing so to direct the jury, inasmuch as prisoner's statement not being evidence, there was no evidence that the arrest was made with unnecessary violence.—R. v. MORRISON (1889), 10 N. S. W. L. R. 197.—AUS.

Upon the cross-examination of one of a prisoner's witnesses in a trial before a ct. of quarter sessions, such witness admitted that her evidence differed materially from the evidence she had given when before the committing magistrates. The depositions of the witness were not put in by the counsel for the prosecution nor by the counsel for the prisoner. But the chairman, in the course of his summing up of the case to the jury, at the request of one of the jurors read the depositions. Prisoner having been found guilty, upon a case reserved:—Held: it was competent for the chairman to read the depositions when he did read them, inasmuch as they would have been admissible in evidence had they been tendered by either the counsel for the prosecution or the counsel for the prisoner at any time previously; it being the duty of the presiding judge at a criminal trial to decide what evidence, within reasonable bounds, should be placed before the jury, the mere fact that the depositions had not been put in previously to the summing up did not prevent their being put in subsequently; & the reading of them by the chairman to the jury when he was summing up the case, did not amount to a misreception of evidence.—R. v. GARNER (1889), 61 L. T. 699; 54 J. P. 424; 6 T. L. R. 110, C. C. R.

n. — To instruct jury—As to inference possible as to intent.]—It is lawful for the judge, in charging the jury in a trial for an attempt to murder, to instruct them that they may draw an inference as to prisoner's intent to kill from the circumstances of his being a stranger loitering in a street or park, between four & five o'clock in the morning, with a loaded revolver & burglar's tool in his possession.—R. v. MOONEY (1905), Q. R. 15 K. B. 57.—CAN.

o. — To withdraw from consideration verdict for lesser offence.]—If the judge allows the indictment to go generally to the jury, it is not competent for him to withdraw from their consideration a verdict for any lesser offence which may be included in the indictment.—R. v. SCHERF (1908), 13 B. C. R. 407.—CAN.

p. — Withdrawal of direction.]—Where a prisoner was indicted for larceny & for receiving the judge directed the jury to acquit prisoner on the count for receiving, but the jury notwithstanding acquitted prisoner on the count for larceny but convicted her of receiving & the judge did not insist on the direction he had previously given:—Held: whether the judge withdrew his direction as to the count for receiving or not, the evidence being sufficient in law to sustain the conviction, the conviction must stand.—R. v. McMAHON (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 275.—IR.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sects. 13 & 14, A.]

SUB-SECT. 13.—VIEW BY JURY.

3196. Power to order.]—There can be no view in a criminal prosecution without consent, & the practice was so before the 4 Ann. c. 16 (per cur.).—R. v. REDMAN (1756), 1 Keny. 384; Say. 303; 96 E. R. 888.

3197. —.]—The ct. will only in particular circumstances grant a view in an indictment for perjury; a view will be refused, if there be any risk of its misleading the jury.—ANON. (1815), 2 Chit. 422.

3198. —.]—Where, on the trial of a case of rape, it was wished on the part of the prisoner that the jury should see the place at which the offence was said to have been committed, & the place was so near to the ct. that the jury could have a view without inconvenience, the judge allowed a view, although the prosecutor did not consent to it.—R. v. WHALLEY (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 376; 8 L. T. O. S. 559; 2 Cox, C. C. 231.

3199. — After summing up.]—(1) It is no irregularity to allow the jury to have a view of premises after the judge has summed up the case.

(2) Where it is alleged that the jury have received evidence in the absence of the judge & of the prisoners, it is for the ct. before which the trial takes place to investigate the facts, & ascertain whether the alleged irregularity has occurred.

(3) Qu.: whether if such irregularity be so found to have occurred, the ct. has jurisdiction to order a venire de novo, as for a mistrial.—R. v. MARTIN (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 378; 41 L. J. M. C. 113; 26 L. T. 778; 36 J. P. 549; 20 W. R. 1016; 2 Cox, C. C. 204, C. C. R.

Annotation:—As to (3) Rejd. Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3200. Where view is in different county—Removal of indictment by certiorari.]—When at a criminal trial it is necessary for the jury to have a view of the premises which are situated in a different county an appln. will be granted to change the place of trial into such county.—R. v. SHELDON (1875), 32 L. T. 27; 39 J. P. 232.

3201. —.]—A rule nisi for a certiorari was obtained in order to remove from the Central Criminal Ct. into the High Ct. an indictment by were jointly who might become debenture holders in the North Wales Quarries, Ltd., & the Welsh Slate Quarries, Ltd.

The appct. desired to have a special jury, & that the jury should view the premises, these advantages not being available to deft. at the Central Criminal Ct. Appct. also alleged that for certain reasons there would be a prejudice against him among Central Criminal Ct. jurors:—Held: (1) a special jury was unnecessary; (2) a view was not required; (3) the allegations of prejudice had not

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 13.

3196 i. Power to order.]—There is a right inherent in all the common law cts. to grant a "view" at any time during the progress of a criminal cause.—R. v. SULLIVAN (1869), 8 S. R. N. S. W. 131.—AUS.

3196 ii. —.]—The authority given to the judge to direct that the jury shall have a view of any place, thing or person does not make a view, when had, evidence; the purpose of a view by the jury is in order to better their understanding the evidence.—R. v. KAPLANSKY, SACHUK & SENILOFF (1922), 69 D. L. R. 625; 51 O. L. R. 587.—CAN.

3200 i. Where view is in different county—Removal of indictment by certiorari.]—The fact of a view of the locus in quo being necessary for the fair trial of a prisoner is not sufficient ground for removing the indictment into the Q. B. Div. by certiorari, when the locus in quo is situate in a different county from the Winter Assize County.—R. v. MCNAMARA (1878), 14 Cox, C. C. 229.—IR.

q. View by the judge—Trial without jury.]—Prisoner was tried without a jury by a county ct. judge exercising jurisdiction under the Speedy Trials Act, upon an indictment for feloniously been made out.—R. v. GYDE, Ex p. GYDE (1908), 72 J. P. 504, D. C.

See, further, CROWN PRACTICE, Vol. XVI., pp. 411, 412, Nos. 2686–2692.

SUB-SECT. 14.—ADJOURNMENT AND POSTPONEMENT.

A. In General.

3202. General rule—No adjournment.]—It is undoubtedly a general rule that there should be no adjournment & no separation for the jury after the evidence is entered upon, until the jury have given their verdict. This is a rule which I should never willingly depart from . . . but in a case of extreme necessity (EYRE, L.C.J.).—R. v. HARDY (1794), 24 State Tr. 199, 414.

Annotations:—Rejd. R. v. Edwards (1812), 4 Taunt. 309; Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458. Mentd. R. v. Stone (1796), 25 State Tr. 1155; R. v. Watson (1817), 2 Stark. 116; Redford v. Birley (1822), 3 Stark. 110, n.; R. v. Barber & Dorey (1844), 8 J. P. 644; R. v. Blake (1844), 6 Q. B. 126; R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Richards (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 142; A.-G. v. Briant (1846), 15 M. & W. 169; R. v. Garbett (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 448; R. v. Grant, Ranken & Hamilton (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507; R. v. Smith O'Brien (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; R. v. Poteherini (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 79; R. v. McCafferty (1867), 15 W. R. 1022; R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082; Mulcahy v. R. (1867), 15 W. R. 446; Marks v. Beyfus (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 494.

3203. —.]—It undoubtedly is so far established that there never ought to be an adjournment or separation in any degree of the jury if it can be avoided; but there may arise a necessity so urgent that all those principles of justice which originally demanded that there should be no adjournment would loudly call for an adjournment; because the true principle upon which it is required that there should be no adjournment is for the furtherance of justice that it may be quite sure that justice will be done both to the Crown & to prisoner; that there should be no opportunity of having intercourse with the jury. The ct. is bound to take upon itself the responsibility that does belong to directing an adjournment in a case so circumstanced (EYRE, L.C.J.).—R. v. HORNE TOOKE (1794), 25 State Tr. 1, 127.

Annotations:—Rejd. Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458. Mentd. R. v. Stone (1796), 25 State Tr. 1155; Eagleton v. Kingston (1803), 8 Ves. 438; R. v. . . . (1810), 10 State Tr. 1155; R. v. . . . (1812), 4 Taunt. 309; R. v. Smith (1828), 8 B. & C. 341; R. v. Parry (1837), 7 C. & P. 836; R. v. Frost (1839), 4 State Tr. N. S. 85; R. v. Zulueta (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 215; R. v. Grant, Ranken, & Hamilton (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507; Mansell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 54; R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082.

3204. — Absence of prosecutor & witnesses.]—The judge, in a case of felony, has no authority to order an adjournment on account of the mere absence of the prosecutor & his witnesses.—R. v. PARR (1862), 2 F. & F. 861.

3205. — After evidence called—Absence

displacing a railway switch. After hearing the evidence & the addresses of counsel, the judge reserved his decision. Before giving it, having occasion to pass the place, he examined the switch in question, neither prisoner nor any one on his behalf being present. Prisoner was found guilty:—Held: there was no authority for the judge taking a view of the place, & his so doing was unwarranted; & even if he had been warranted in taking the view, the manner of his taking it, without the presence of prisoner, or of any one on his behalf, was unwarranted.—R. v. PETRIE (1890), 20 O. R. 317.—CAN.

of witness.]—A prisoner's trial may be adjourned, if the case has only been opened by counsel for the prosecution, but not after evidence called. If the witnesses do not appear, prisoner is entitled to be acquitted for want of evidence.—R. v. ROBSON (1864), 4 F. & F. 360.

3206. Exceptions to rule—Jury exhausted.]—R. v. STONE (1796), 25 State Tr. 1155; 6 Term Rep. 527; 101 E. R. 684.

*Annotations:—Refd. Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 210. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082.

3207. — Court of Queen's Bench sitting at bar.]—Remarks of great severity upon the conduct of deff.'s counsel, made by a judge in summing up to a jury, although calculated to influence them unfavourably to deff., do not constitute an undue influence, if intended to counteract the evil effect which what the judge considers to be the improper conduct of the counsel might have upon the jury. The Ct. of Q. B. sitting at bar may for sufficient reason adjourn a trial either in or out of term.

It was then contended that the adjournment of the ct. vitiated the whole proceedings. It is scarcely possible to suppose that this objection was seriously made. The ct. was sitting on a day which for the purpose of the trial, was to be taken as part of the then preceding term. It is incident to a trial that the ct. may for sufficient reason adjourn it, & there is nothing either in the words of the enactment or the object of the Legislature to take away this power from the Queen's Bench sitting on a trial at bar in what is by legislative enactment to be taken as part of the term (BLACKBURN, J.).—R. v. CASTRO (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 350; 43 L. J. Q. B. 105; 30 L. T. 320; 38 J. P. 342; affd. (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490, C. A.; sub nom. CASTRO v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229, H. L.

*Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Cox & Raiton (1884), 1 T. L. R. 181; Dixon v. Farrer (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 658; R. v. Poole Corp. (1887), 19 Q. B. D. 683; R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 14.— A.

3208 i. Exceptions to rule—Absence of witnesses.]—At the trial of an indictable offence the judge has the power to order the ct. to be adjourned to a place in the county other than the ct. house, for the purpose of allowing the jury to hear the evidence of a witness who was unable through illness to leave his home.—R. v. ROGERS (1902), 36 N. B. R. 1.—CAN.

3208 ii. —.—R. v. —.—On an application to grant a postponement of a trial on the ground of absence of witnesses, the ct. must be satisfied by affidavit, that the persons are material witnesses; that there has been no neglect in omitting to apply to them & endeavouring to procure their attendance; & that there is reasonable expectation of counsel being able to procure their attendance at the future date, if granted.—R. v. MULVHILL (1914), 19 B. C. R. 197; 49 S. C. R. 587.—CAN.

r. — Absence of senior counsel — Illness.]—Prisoner was indicted for murder. Application was made to have the case adjourned on account of the absence through illness of the senior counsel for deff. & his consequent inability to address the jury. The trial was adjourned for that day only.—R. v. MURPHY (1875), 2 Q. L. R. 383.—CAN.

s. — Engaged elsewhere.]—The one counsel who had been consulted about the case & had given it the careful consideration it called for & for that reason the only counsel who, without a reasonable time for the study of the case, could represent deff. that he would be in a position to make full answer & defence & be afforded a fair trial of the charge against it; & furthermore, that the circumstances from the commencement of the proceedings were such that he might reasonably take it for granted that counsel appearing in his stead would have no difficulty in procuring an adjournment from Saturday to any following day on the ground of counsel's absence elsewhere, are good reasons for granting an adjournment.—R. v. EDMONTON BREWING & MALTING CO., [1923] 2 W. W. R. 1107, 1121; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 236.—CAN.

t. — Discretion of judge — For convenient view by jury.]—When the locus in quo is situate in a different county from the Winter Assize County. The judge at the trial should in the exercise of his judicial discretion postpone the case, to enable the trial to take place in the county where a view could conveniently be had.—R. v. —., 14 Cox, C. C. 229.—IR.

a. — Trial still proceeding.]—The ct. has power to adjourn a criminal trial after evidence has been given from one day to any other day.—R. v. HALL (1890), 16 V. L. R. 650.—AUS.

b. — To change venue — Jury panel biased.]—Accused were members of a trades' union which was engaged in a strike, in the course of which the occurrences forming the subject of the criminal charge had taken place. A great number of those upon the jury panel were either members of, or otherwise connected with, an employers'

3208. — Absence of witnesses.]—R. v. LEWIS, No. 3228, post.

3209. — Discretion of judge.]—A judge has a discretion, even after the close of the defence, whether he will adjourn the trial for the attendance of witnesses for the Crown.—R. v. JACKSON (1919), 83 J. P. 196; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

3210. Postponement—For production of property.]—In a case of larceny, where, after all the witnesses for the prosecution had been examined, it was discovered, that the stolen property was not immediately forthcoming, in consequence of its having been deposited at a neighbouring inn, the ct. allowed a messenger to be sent for it, & in the meantime proceeded with the trial of other cases, the first prisoner remaining in a corner of the dock until the return of the messenger.—R. v. WENBORN (1842), 6 Jur. 267.

*Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3211. — Witness not in attendance.]—After a trial for murder had commenced, it was ascertained that a witness had not arrived, but was expected by a railway train. The judge ordered the jury to be locked up until the arrival of the witness, had another jury called, & proceeded with another case.—R. v. FOSTER (1848), 3 Car. & Kir. 201.

3212. —.—R. v. —.—The ct. has no power to adjourn a criminal trial when once the jury are sworn.—R. v. TEMPEST (1858), 1 F. & F. 381.

3213. —.—R. v. FERNANDEZ (1861), 2 F. & F. 862, n.

3214. Period of trial considered as one legal day.]—Although in contemplation of law the whole time during which assizes continue at one place is considered for some purposes as one legal day, yet the particular day on which a conviction actually took place may be proved when necessary. Therefore, where a convicted felon made a bona fide assignment of goods after the commission-day of the assizes, but before the day on which he was actually federation, which had been formed to resist the operations of the strikers :—Held: the trial of the indictment should be adjourned upon the application of accused to enable accused, if they thought fit, to move for a change of venue.—R. v. FEARON (1909), 43 I. L. T. 228.—IR.

c. — To obtain better evidence.]—An adjournment of a trial to procure better evidence of the witness being out of Canada refused, as contrary to the spirit of the Speedy Trials Act.—R. v. MORGAN (1893), 2 B. C. R. 329.—CAN.

d. Postponement of judgment — Several charges—Judgment withheld till completion of trials.]—A judge may adjourn the trial from time to time until finally terminated under Criminal Code, s. 777. Semble: the object of this provision is only to empower the judge to adjourn the particular trial for such necessary purposes as receiving further evidence, etc., but it does not enable him, where several charges are to be heard against the same party, to postpone his decision on the first charge until he has heard the evidence on the other charges, & then decide all.—R. v. MCBERNY (1897), 29 N. S. R. 327.—CAN.

e. Custody of accused.]—Accused person on trial should during an adjournment be committed to the gaoler for custody & not left to the charge of the sheriff's officers.—R. v. BROWN (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 290.—AUS.

f. Waiver.]—R. v. HAZEN (1893), 20 A. R. 633.—CAN.

g. Same judges for adjourned hearing.]—It is a general rule, governing convicted:—Held: the assignee could prove the actual day of the conviction, although the record mentioned only the commission-day, & the assignment was valid.—WHITAKER v. WISBEY (1852), 12 C. B. 44; 21 L. J. C. P. 116; 19 L. T. O. S. 156; 16 Jur. 411; 6 Cox, C. C. 109; 138 E. R. 817.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 14, A. & B.; sub-sect. 15, A.]

Annotations:—Refd. Preston v. Peeke (1858), 31 L. T. O. S. 162. Mentd. R. v. Roberts (1873), L. R. 9 Q. B. 77.

B. Separation of Jury.

See Juries Detention Act, 1897 (c. 18), s. 1.

3215. Misdemeanour.]—R. v. CANNING (1754), 19 State Tr. 283.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Kinnear (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 462. Mentd. R. v. Dowlin (1793), 5 Term Rep. 311.

3216. —.]—Upon the trial of an indictment for a misdemeanour, which continued more than one day, the jury, without the knowledge or consent of defts., separated at night:—Held: the verdict was not, therefore, void; & it formed no ground for granting a new trial, it not appearing that there was any suspicion of any improper communications having taken place.

The practice has been of late years for the jury to separate on the trials of misdemeanour. In Canning's Case, No. 3215, ante, which continued for fifteen days, the jury separated each night (ABBOTT, C.J.).—R. v. KINNEAR (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 462; 106 E. R. 434; sub nom. R. v. WOOLF, 1 Chit. 401.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 323; Winsor v. R. (1866), 6 B. & S. 143; R. v. Ketteridge, [1915] 1 K. B. 467; Panshaw v. Knowles, [1916] 2 K. B. 538. Mentd. Ex p. Kinning (1847), 4 C. B. 507; Douglas v. R. (1848), 12 Jur. 974.

3217. Trial for murder.]—The rule that the jury must not separate during a trial for murder does not mean that in no circumstances must they physically part from one another. The rule is subject to the qualification that upon an emergency, or where it is necessary, a juror may leave the rest of his fellows.

On the second day of a trial for murder a juror became ill & was taken out of ct., but not out of the building, accompanied by two medical men & a ct. usher, to a space at the bottom of the building at the back of the ct. where there was open air & to which the public had no access. After a consultation between the medical men, one of them returned into ct. & gave an opinion as to when the juror would probably recover. The ct. then adjourned for a short time, & the medical man was sworn to take charge of the juror during the adjournment. He then returned to the juror, & the two medical men, a constable, & the usher remained with him in the open air for about three-quarters of an hour. The juror then rejoined his fellows, the usher having been with him the whole time he was absent from the rest of the jury. The usher had been sworn on the first day of the trial to take charge of the jury during the adjournment for that night, but was not sworn for the particular purpose of taking charge of the juror who became ill on the second day. During the whole time the juror was absent no one spoke to him about the trial. The medical men only spoke to him, & no one else had an opportunity of doing so. On the way to the open air less than a dozen persons had to be passed, & the juror was in a state of collapse & was in such a condition as to be quite unable to communicate with any one:—Held: it was not necessary that the usher who conducted the juror to the open air should be sworn as a ct. bailiff to take charge of him upon that occasion; nothing was done which was not justified in law, & therefore there was no ground for quashing the conviction.

Whether or not rebutting evidence on the part of the prosecution ought to be admitted at a criminal trial after the close of the evidence for the defence is a matter for the discretion of the judge at the trial.

Semble: where the judge at the trial allows rebutting evidence to be given the C. C. A. will not quash a conviction upon the ground that it does not agree with the way in which the judge at the trial exercised his discretion, unless there is something in the rebutting evidence in the nature of a trap, which results in an injustice to the prisoner.—R. v. CRIPPEN, [1911] 1 K. B. 149; 80 L. J. K. B. 290; 103 L. T. 704; 75 J. P. 141; 27 T. L. R. 69; 22 Cox, C. C. 289; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Sullivan, [1923] 1 K. B. 47. Mentd. R. v. Foster (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 196; R. v. Wilson, Lewis & Havard (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 125.

See Nos. 3202, 3203, 3211, ante.

See, further, JURIES.

SUB-SECT. 15.—DISCHARGE OF JURY IN THE COURSE OF A TRIAL.

A. In General.

3218. Right of judge to discharge jury.]—R. v. WHITEHEAD (1879), 7 State Tr. 311.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Kinloch (1746), Fost. 22, 28, 30; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; Winsor v. R. (1866), 6 B. & S. 143.

3219. — Withdrawal of juror—Consent of parties.]—In criminal cases, not capital, a juror may be withdrawn, if both parties consent, but not otherwise.—R. v. PERKINS (1698), Cited in Carth. at p. 465; 90 E. R. 868.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Kinloch (1746), 18 State Tr. 395; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460. Refd. Winsor v. R. (1866), 6 B. & S. 143.

3220. — — —.]—R. v. JEFFS (1734), all judicial procedure, recognised by statute & authority, that the judges before whom a case begins are the ct. to complete the hearing & determination; & that whether there be an adjournment of the hearing or not, no judge other than the judge before whom the proceedings began can, without the consent of such latter judges, intervene to hear or adjudicate.—R. (AGRICULTURE & TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION FOR IRELAND DEPARTMENT) v. LONDONDERRY CITY J.J., R. (MEEHAN) v. HARDY, [1917] 2 I. R. 283.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 14.—B.

h. General rule.]—R. v. DERRICK

(1879), 2 L. N. 214; 23 L. C. J. 239.—CAN.

k. —.]—There is no difference between capital felonies and felonies not capital, so far as regards the practice respecting adjournments of trials. In both classes of cases the jury must be kept together all night & cannot be allowed to separate.—DAMERY'S CASE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 371.—IR.

l. —.]—A county juror, even in a capital case, & after the judge has commenced his charge, may be brought in the custody of the sheriff into the adjoining city ct. as a witness, without vitiating the trial.—R. v. LYNCH (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 23.—IR.

3217i. Trial for murder.]—On a trial for murder lasting some days, the jury were placed in charge of officers of the ct. One day eleven went for a drive under escort & the other spent some hours at home with an officer & had no communication with any one except in the officer's presence. Other jurors on different occasions went under escort to the hairdressers & some communicated by telephone, but the latter, though known to accused's counsel, was not known to the judge:—Held: there had been no separation of the jury; separation to amount to a mistrial must be the mingling of the jury amongst others without being in charge of an officer of the ct.—R. v. LANGMAID (1910), 8 Tas. L. R. 10.—AUS.

2 Stra. 984; cited in Fost. at p. 24; 93 E. R. 984.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3221. — Consent of defendant.—R. v. WILKINSON (1733), cited in Fost. at p. 26.

3222. ——R. v. KINLOCH (1746), 18 State Tr. 395; 1 Wils. 157; Fost. 16; 95 E. R. 547.

Annotations:—Consd. Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; R. v. Winsor (1865), 10 Cox, C. C. 276. Refd. R. v. Newton (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 201; R. v. Davison (1860), 2 F. & F. 250. Mentd. R. v. Grainger (1765), 3 Burr. 1617; R. v. Johnson (1805), 6 East, 583; R. v. Fitzgerald (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 201; R. v. O'Connell (1843), 2 L. T. O. S. 193; R. v. Duffy (1846), 7 L. T. O. S. 9.

3223. — Application of accused—Absence of witness.—In a case of manslaughter, after the jury were charged, it was ascertained that the surgeon who examined the body was absent. Prisoner's counsel asked that the jury should be discharged:—Held: if prisoner asked that the jury should be discharged, the judge had authority to order it to be done.—R. v. STOKES (1833), 6 C. & P. 151.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1860), 2 F. & F. 326.

3224. — By consent.—A jury may be discharged by consent, after having been charged.—R. v. DEANE (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 501.

3225. Discretion of judge.—R. v. FERRAR (1663), Fost. 31; T. Raym. 84; 83 E. R. 46.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Kinloch (1746), 18 State Tr. 395; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3226. ——R. v. KINLOCH, No. 3222, ante.

3227. ——Semble: the discharge of the jury is a matter of practice in the discretion of the judge.

Information by the A.-G. for bribery at an election of a member of Parliament. Plea, not guilty. At the trial, a material & necessary witness for the Crown refused to give evidence, & was committed for contempt, whereupon, at the application of counsel for the Crown, deft. objecting, the judge discharged the jury from giving any verdict. Qu.: whether he was right in so doing. The ct. refused to allow deft. to add a plea mis darrein continuance stating the above facts, on the ground that this would be to allow double pleading, & also, as the facts would be set out on the record, deft. could take advantage of them.—R. v. CHARLESWORTH (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; 31 L. J. M. C. 25; 5 L. T. 150; 25 J. P. 820; 8 Jur. N. S. 1091; 9 W. R. 842; 9 Cox, C. C. 44; 121 E. R. 786.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722. Refd. Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; R. v. Richardson (1913), 108 L. T. 384. Mentd. R. v. Hoytesbury (1863), 8 L. T. 315.

3228. — Is final.—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no power to review the decision of the judge at the trial of a prisoner that a necessity has arisen for discharging the jury without giving a verdict & adjourning the case to be heard before another jury. Such a decision is entirely within the discretion of the judge, & even if the discretion has been wrongly exercised, no objection can be taken in respect thereof at the second trial.

Where a prisoner has been put upon his trial, given in charge to the jury, & after the case has been opened, some of the witnesses are found not to be present owing to some unforeseen accident, it may be proper to adjourn the trial generally, but where the witnesses are absent owing to some mistake, e.g. as to the date of trial, the proper practice is to adjourn the case for a reasonable time for prisoner to be tried by the same jury, & if that cannot be done, a verdict should be taken on the evidence as it stands. The jury should not be discharged & the case adjourned merely to enable the prosecution to establish a stronger case against prisoner.—R. v. LEWIS (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722; 100 L. T. 976; 73 J. P. 346; 25 T. L. R. 582; 22 Cox, C. C. 141; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Richardson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 159.

3229. Grounds for discharge—Interference with jurors.—If pltf. or any one in his behalf say to a jurymen after his departure from the bar & before verdict given, the case is clear for pltf., & the verdict be given for pltf.:—Held: sufficient to justify a venire de novo, for it is new evidence.—ATHIL v. BULWER (1625), 2 Hale, P. C. 308.

3230. — Departure of juror.—R. v. HANSCOM (1639), 2 Hale, P. C. 295.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Mellor (1858), Dears. & B. 468.

3231. ——In the course of the trial, & during the examination of witnesses, one of the jurors had, without leave, & without it being noticed by any one, left the jury box & also the ct. house, whereupon the ct. discharged the jury without giving a verdict, & a fresh jury was empanelled. Prisoner was then tried anew & convicted before the fresh jury:—Held: the course pursued was right.—R. v. WARD (1867), 17 L. T. 220; 31 J. P. 791; 16 W. R. 281; 10 Cox, C. C. 573, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Ketteridge, [1915] 1 K. B. 467.

3232. ——If a juror, after the summing up by the judge in a criminal trial, leaves his colleagues &, without being under the control of the ct. converses or is in a position to converse with other persons, the irregularity makes the whole trial abortive, & the only course open to the judge is to discharge the jury & proceed to a fresh trial.—R. v. KETTERIDGE, [1915] 1 K. B. 467; 84 L. J. K. B. 352; 112 L. T. 783; 79 J. P. 216; 31 T. L. R. 115; 59 Sol. Jo. 103; 24 Cox, C. C. 678; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 54, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Fanshawe v. Knowles, [1916] 2 K. B. 538. Distd. R. v. Twiss, [1918] 2 K. B. 853.

3233. — Separation of jurymen.—R. v. MACRAE (1892), Roscoe's Criminal Evidence, 14th ed. at p. 301.

3234. — Access to newspaper reports of case.—Respt. was tried for murder at a sessions of oyer & terminer & gaol delivery in New South Wales, & convicted & sentenced to death. Afterwards the Supreme Ct. of that colony made a rule absolute for a venire de novo, on the ground that the jury had before giving their verdict, been allowed access to newspapers containing reports of the case:—Held: the Supreme Ct. had no power to order a venire de novo in such a case.

The cases in which a verdict upon a charge of felony has been held to be a nullity & a venire de novo awarded have not been classified in digests; there are cases of defect of jurisdiction in respect of time, place, or person, cases of verdicts so insufficiently expressed, or so ambiguous, that a judgment could not be founded thereon (per CUR.).

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 15.—A.

3224 i. Right of judge to discharge jury—By consent.—R. v. WYLLIE (1880), 3 L. N. 139.—CAN.

3228 i. Discretion of judge—Is final.—Where the judge on a criminal trial has, for any reason, discharged the jury, without verdict, the ct. will not review his discretion by quashing a conviction upon a second trial.—R. v. McNAMARA (1878), 4 V. L. R. 19.—AUS.

3228 ii. ——JONES v. R. (1880), 3 L. N. 309.—CAN.

3228 iii. ——The discharge of a jury during the course of a trial is a matter solely within the jurisdiction of the trial judge, & his discretion is not open to review on appeal.—R. v. BORDENINK, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 968; 45 D. L. R. 470.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 15, A. & B.]

—R. v. MURPHY (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; 6 Moo. P. C. C. N. S. 177; 38 L. J. P. C. 53; 17 W. R. 1047; 16 E. R. 693; sub nom. A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES v. MURPHY, 21 L. T. 598; 11 Cox, C. C. 372, P. C.; previous proceedings, sub nom. R. v. MURPHY (1868), L. R. 2 P. C. 35,

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Martin (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 378; R. v. Crippen (1910), 27 T. L. R. 69; R. v. Dickman (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 135; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3235. — Absence of juror through illness.—R. v. GOULD (1763), 3 Burn's Justice, 30th ed. 98; 18 State Tr. 415, n.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3236. — Juror substituted.—If a juror be taken ill during the trial of a prisoner for felony, the jury may be discharged, & the remaining eleven, together with a new juror, re-sworn to try the prisoner.—R. v. SCALBERT (1794), 2 Leach, 620.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3237. — ——————If a jurymen is taken ill so as to be incapable of attending through the trial, the jury may be discharged & the prisoner tried de novo, or another jurymen may be added to the eleven; but in that case the prisoner should be offered his challenges over again, as to the eleven, & the eleven should be sworn de novo.—R. v. EDWARDS (1812), 3 Camp. 207; Russ. & Ry. 224; 4 Taunt. 309; cited in 2 Leach, 621, n.; 128 E. R. 348.

Annotations.—Refd. Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 210; Re Newton (1849), 13 Q. B. 716; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3238. — ——————Where a jurymen on a criminal trial is taken so ill as to be unable to continue, another jurymen may be sworn with the eleven already on the trial, & the case proceed, the witnesses already heard being recalled.—R. v. BEERE (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 472, N. P.

3239. — ——————Where during the process of discharge the juror. He will then cause each witness to be re-sworn, & having read over to him his former evidence, both in chief & on cross-examination, & having asked him "if it be true" will give prisoner again the opportunity of cross-examining.—R. v. COWLEY & SPACKMAN (1843), 7 J. P. 132.

3235 i. Grounds for discharge—Absence of juror through illness.—After the jury had been given in charge, one of the jurymen was taken with a fit & removed, in charge of the sheriff & his physician, to his residence. The remainder of the jury subsequently adjourned to the sick man's house, where, upon his recovery, a verdict of guilty was rendered.—Held: after the verdict had been recorded, it could not be disturbed.—R. v. PETER (1869), 1 B. C. R., pt. 1, 2.—CAN.*

m. — Juror from infected house.—R. v. CONSIDINE (1885), 8 L. N. 307.—CAN.

n. — Indictment for attempt—Alteration to complete offence.—Where a prisoner is indicted for an attempt to steal, & the proof establishes that the offence of larceny was actually committed, the jury may convict of the attempt, unless the ct. discharges the jury & directs that prisoner be indicted for the complete offence.—R. v. TAYLOR, [1895] Q. R. 4 Q. B. 226.—CAN.

o. — Evidence ruled inadmissible volunteered again.—Although a witness at a trial before a jury volunteers evidence which the trial judge has already ruled to be inadmissible & which might have weight with the jury in arriving at a verdict, yet the judge should not for that reason immediately discharge the jury & empanel a new jury to try the issue.—R. v. GROBB (1907), 6 W. L. R. 727; 17 Man. L. R. 191.—CAN.

p. — Prosecution questioning as to prior conviction—Where no evidence of good character brought.—R. v. ATLAS (1910), 16 Can. Crim. Cas. 35.—CAN.

q. — Juror professing prejudice after oath.—Where on the second day of the trial the foreman of the jury informed the judge that one of the jury stated that he was prejudiced, the judge refused to take any action other than directing the trial to proceed.—Held: the course adopted was right; a jurymen ought not to volunteer a statement of that kind; jurors after being sworn expected to live up to their oaths.—R. v. MAH HUNG (1912),

3240. — ——————Where a jurymen is suddenly taken ill, & obliged to leave the ct. in the midst of a trial, the jury will be discharged, & a new jury sworn, comprising the eleven remaining jurymen, & the evidence gone through de novo.—R. v. ASHE (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 475; 1 Cox, trial, one of the jurors is compelled by illness to leave the box, the proper practice is to re-swear the remaining eleven with the substituted juror.—R. v. SALMON (1849), 13 J. P. 237.

3242. — ——————R. v. MONSON, VERONICA CASE (1903), 38 L. Jo. 261; Times, May 15.

3243. — ——————In the course of a trial for murder, & after several witnesses had been examined, one of the jurymen became ill, & medical evidence was given that he would not be able to serve again for several days. The judge thereupon discharged the jury, called the original eleven jurors & one other, & after they had been sworn, read over to them his notes of the evidence, the witnesses being sworn & put into the box and asked to alter or add to their evidence if it seemed to them necessary to do so.—R. v. LAWRENCE (1909), 25 T. L. R. 374.

3244. — Witness tampered with by accused.—R. v. D—(1670), 1 Vent. 69; 86 E. R. 460. Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3245. — Illness of accused.—R. v. MEADOW (1750), Fost. 76.

Annotation.—Mentd. Winsor v. R. (1866), 6 B. & S. 143.

3246. — ——————If a prisoner, indicted for a felony, with whom the jury are charged, be by sudden illness during the trial, rendered incapable of remaining at the bar, the jury may be discharged from the trial of that indictment, & prisoner, on his recovery, tried before another jury.—R. v. STEVENSON (1791), 2 Leach, 546.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

& is obliged to be assisted out of ct., the judge will discharge the jury.

By consent, evidence of prosecutrix, as far as it had gone was read over to her, & she stated it to be true. The trial then proceeded as in other cases.—R. v. STREEK (1826), 2 C. & P. 413.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1860), 2 F. & F. 326.

17 B. C. R. 56.—CAN.

3245 i. — Illness of accused.—Prisoner becoming ill during the progress of the trial, the jury was discharged, & prisoner remanded for the purpose of taking his trial at the next assizes.—R. v. FLYNN (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 293.—IR.

s. — Longer confinement endangering lives of jurors.—When the jury could not agree, & after remaining a long time shut up were discharged by the ct., no consent being given by the counsel on either side, in consequence of the physician's report that a longer confinement would endanger the lives of some of them.—Held: they were properly discharged.—R. v. BARRETT (1829), Jebb Cr. & Pr. Cas. 103.—IR.

t. — ——————When the judge took it upon himself to discharge the jury, in consequence of a statement upon oath by one of the jurors, without the examination of a medical man, that his life would be endangered by a longer confinement.—Held: the judge

3248. — Accused unable to understand proceedings.]—If it is found at the trial of a prisoner that he cannot understand the proceedings, the judge ought to discharge the jury & put an end to the trial, or order a verdict of not guilty (KELLY, C.B.).—R. v. BERRY (1876), 1 Q. B. D. 447; 45 L. J. M. C. 123; 34 L. T. 590; 40 J. P. 484; 13 Cox, C. C. 189, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Stafford Prison, Ex p. Emery, [1909] 2 K. B. 81.

3249. — When indictment is bad in law.]—A jury sworn on an indictment, clearly bad in point of law, may be discharged by the judge from giving a verdict. R. v. DEACON (1824), Ry. & M. 27, N. P.

3250. — Incompetency of witness—As to nature of oath.]—It is not a sufficient ground for discharging a jury, that the material witness against the prisoner is not sufficiently acquainted with the nature, & obligation of an oath, though this appears as soon as the jury is charged, & before any evidence is given.—R. v. WADE (1825), 1 Mood. C. C. 86, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Reff. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; R. v. Hollinrake Whitehead (1866), 14 W. R. 677.

3251. — Relative of accused serving on jury.]—If during the trial of a case of felony it be discovered that prisoner has a relation on the jury, this is no ground for discharging the jury, & the case must proceed.—R. v. WARDLE (1842), Car. & M. 617.

3252. — Wrong juror sworn.]—If a jurymen on calling over the names of the panel answer to a wrong name the trial is a mistrial, for prisoner has not had his opportunity of challenging the jurymen misnamed. The judge offered to discharge the jury if counsel desired.—R. v. METCALFE & SLATER (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 220.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Mellor (1858), 7 Cox, C. C. 454.

3253. — —.]—A juror was summoned in error, but not returned in the panel, & in mistake was sworn to try a case, during the progress of which these facts were discovered. The jury were discharged, & a fresh jury constituted by taking another jurymen in the place of the one who had served in error.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1868), 11 Cox, C. C. 142; 32 J. P. 328.

3254. Effect of discharge of jury—Not a discharge of prisoner.]—R. v. KINLOCH, No. 3222, ante.

B. Procedure on Second Trial.

3255. Challenge of jury.]—R. v. EDWARDS, No. 3237, ante.

3256. Recall of witnesses.]—R. v. BEERE, No. 3238, ante.

3257. — Re-examination of witnesses.]—R. v. STREEK, No. 3247, ante.

3258. — —.]—R. v. ASHE, No. 3240, ante.

3259. — Evidence read over to witness.]—Where there are two prosecutions against the same person for felony, the judge will not, even by consent, take the evidence of the first trial, as given in the second, but the witnesses may be re-sworn in the second case, & their evidence read over to them from the judge's notes.—R. v. FOSTER (1836), 7 C. & P. 495.

3260. — Further cross-examination.]—R. v. COWLEY & SPACKMAN, No. 3239, ante.

3261. — —.]—A prisoner was tried by the ct. in New South Wales for felony. The jury not agreeing, were discharged, & a fresh had acted rightly.—R. v. DELANY (1829), Jebb Cr. & Pr. Cas. 106.—IR.

a. — Jury unable to follow evidence.]—Where in a criminal case, a jury, through pre-possession or want of intelligence, are unable to follow the evidence, the judge may, if he considers it necessary in the interests of justice, discharge the jury & cause a new jury to be empanelled & accused to be put upon trial before it. This jurisdiction should only be exercised in a clear case.—R. v. KIRKE (1909), 43 I. L. T. 130.—IR.

b. — Illness of material witness.]—At a trial for forgery a material witness, while under examination, had an apoplectic fit, & a medical practitioner gave evidence that it would be dangerous to his health to continue the examination the same day or next day, whereupon the judge discharged the jury.—Held: there was a sufficient necessity to justify the judge in discharging the jury, in the exercise of his discretion.—R. v. HENNESSEY (1873), 2 C. A. 243.—N.Z.

c. — Misconduct & partiality of foreman.]—During an adjournment in a criminal trial the foreman of the jury visited & conversed with accused, & also discussed the case with members of the public outside the ct., showing bias in favour of accused. He acted upon his own volition, & accused were in no way responsible for the occurrence. On prosecutor reporting the matter to the judge, the judge examined on oath the responsible officers, & satisfied himself of the truth of the matters, & came to the conclusion that the foreman was not capable of doing justice in the case between the Crown & accused.—Held: the proper course was to discharge the jury.—R. v. BINLEY & WALSH (1912), 31 N. Z. L. R. 949.—N.Z.

3254 i. Effect of discharge of jury—Not a discharge of prisoner.]—JONES v. R. (1880), 3 L. N. 309.—CAN.

d. Jury discharged of prisoner —

Illness of prosecutrix—Whether prisoner liable to another trial.]—The jury having been discharged of a prisoner on account of the illness of the prosecutrix, prisoner cannot again be put upon his trial for the offence.—R. v. KEIL (1809), 1 Craw. & D. 151.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 15.—B.

3255 i. Challenge of jury.]—Upon a trial for felony, a juror having been taken ill during the trial, a new jury must be sworn, & prisoners are entitled to their challenges anew. By the consent of prisoners, the eleven jurors who had sat with the juror who had been taken ill were re-sworn, & another juror added & sworn, & the trial recommenced & was gone through de novo.—R. v. DUNNE (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 535.—IR.

3259 i. Recall of witnesses—Evidence read over to witness.]—On trial by a jury, after two witnesses had been examined, one of the jurors was discovered to be deaf & was discharged & another juror sworn in his place. The trial, however, was not commenced afresh, but the evidence given by the two witnesses was read over to & admitted by them.—Held: this procedure was inadmissible, & the trial was invalid.—R. v. NARAIN (1914), 1 L. R. 36 All. 481.—IND.

3260 i. — Further cross-examination.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. McNAMARA (1848), Arkley, 521.—SCOT.

e. — Duty of prosecutor—Where witness originally called by court.]—It is not the duty of the public prosecutor to call, or put in the box, for cross-examination, a witness, called at a previous trial by the ct. itself, & not the Crown, whose evidence he believes to be false.—R. v. REED (1921), 1 L. R. 49 Calc. 277.—IND.

f. Judge's power to exclude jurors before challenge.]—The judge has power of his own motion without waiting for a challenge or notwithstanding that neither party has exercised his right of challenge to exclude men discharged because of their inability to agree, & the same issue is tried again at the same session of the ct. Such jurymen are not "indifferent" within Jury Act, 1862, s. 29, from the second jury.—R. v. GILLEN (1914), S. A. L. R. 196.—AUS.

g. Disclosure of happenings in jury room—Exception to rule—Condition of exhibit.]—The rule of law forbidding the disclosure of what took place in the jury room at the trial will not prevent a jurymen at a trial which proved abortive from giving evidence at a second trial before another jury as to the condition of an exhibit when examined in the jury room at the first trial, e.g. to show that there were at that time barley ends in a purse which prosecutor identified as one which had been stolen from him after he had been engaged in threshing barley & which was, after the theft, found in the possession of accused, who had claimed it to be his own.—R. v. ROSS (1909), 15 W. L. R. 17; 17 Can. Crim. Cas. 278.—CAN.

h. Evidence of witness at former trial—Conditions of admissibility.]—The evidence of a witness at a former trial, if otherwise properly admissible, may be admitted upon the trial of an accused person for a criminal offence, upon authentication of the stenographer's transcript of it by the judge who presided at the former trial, although not so authenticated at the time when, or immediately after, it was taken, & not until after objection to the receipt of it was made at the second trial.—R. v. BAUGH (1917), 38 O. L. R. 559; 28 Can. Crim. Cas. 146; 33 D. L. R. 191.—CAN.

k. — —.]—Prisoner indicted for murder, having been put upon trial, the jury did not agree. A witness who had been examined at the trial on behalf of prisoner died; prisoner trial had. On the second trial, at the same sittings, before another jury, some of the witnesses having been re-sworn, the evidence given by them at the first trial was read over to them from the judge's notes, liberty being given both to the prosecution & to prisoner to examine & cross-examine:—Held: the course adopted by the judge at the fresh trial was irregular, & could not be cured even by the consent of the prisoner.—R. v. BERTRAND (1867), L. R. 1 P. C. 520; 16 L. T. 752; 31 J. P. 531; 10 Cox, C. C. 618; sub nom. A.-G. OF NEW SOUTH WALES v. BERTRAND, 4 Moo. P. C. C. N. S. 460; 36 L. J. P. C. 51; 16 W. R. 9; 16 E. R. 391, P. C.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 15, B.; sub-sect. 16, A.]

Annotations:—Consd. Re Guerin (1888), 58 L. J. M. C. 42; Ex p. Bottomley [1909] 2 K. B. 14. Refd. R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535. Mentd. R. v. Murphy (1868), L. R. 2 P. C. 35; R. v. Duncan (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 198; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

3262. ————]—R. v. MONSON, VERONICA CASE, No. 3242, ante.

3263. ————]—R. v. LAWRENCE, No. 3243, ante.

SUB-SECT. 16.—VERDICT.

A. In General.

3264. Jury must be unanimous—Not compromise.]—WATTS v. BRAINS (1600), Cro. Eliz. 778; 78 E. R. 1009.

Annotations:—Mentd. Bushel's Case (1670), T. Jo. 13; R. v. Mawbridge (1706), Kol. 119; Smith v. Bowen (1709), 2 Ld. Raym. 1288.

3265. ————]—A jury must be sure beyond reasonable doubt, & they ought to be unanimous & clear in their belief in the identity of the man charged before convicting. A compromise verdict is a very undesirable thing in any circumstances. In a criminal case involving the liberty of the subject it is not only undesirable; it is wrong (LORD COLERIDGE, J.).—R. v. FLOOD (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 227, C. C. A.

was subsequently again put upon trial before the same judge, upon the same indictment:—Held: the judge's note of the testimony of deceased witness, taken at the first trial, could not be read at the second trial, save on consent by the Crown; the proper course, under the circumstances, was to produce a person who was present at the former trial, & who could depose specifically to the testimony of deceased witness.—R. v. MCCARRON (1834), 1 Craw. & D. 533.—IR.

1. Same indictment & plea.]—Where a prisoner is unanimously acquitted of some of the charges, & the jury are divided as to the rest, & discharged, & he is retried before a different jury, his retrial is on the original indictment & plea, & the ct. continues the trial before another jury, & the process may continue till a verdict is passed on all the counts.—R. v. NIRMAL KANTA ROY (1914), 1 L. L. R. 41 Cal. 1072.—IND.

m. ————]—At a trial for forgery a material witness, while under examination, had an apoplectic fit, & a medical practitioner gave evidence that it would be dangerous to his health to continue the examination the same day or next day, whereupon the judge discharged the jury. At a later day in the same sittings, the witness being sufficiently recovered to be examined, the prisoner was again arraigned on the same indictment, pleaded "Not guilty," & was convicted & sentenced:—Held: the second trial & the conviction were regular.—R. v. HENNESSEY (1873), 2 C. A. 243.—N.Z.

3266. Incapacity of jurymen—Unfit to take part in deliberations or verdict—Proof by affidavit of co-jurymen.]—On an application for a rule nisi for certiorari or alternatively for a venire de novo a solr. swore on affidavit that his client was tried for indecent assault at quarter sessions, & being convicted of a common assault was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labour; that during the trial he noticed one of the jurymen was sitting in a huddled position in the back row of the jury box; that he was informed by one of the other eleven jurymen, who was sitting next but one to the jurymen aforesaid, that the latter appeared during the trial to be very tired & sleepy, gave some indication of having taken drink earlier in the day, took no part whatever in the deliberation of the jury, & did not join in the verdict. His informant also stated that in the next case it was found impossible to proceed, the aforesaid jurymen having fallen fast asleep, & only being roused by repeated shakings. The jury did not leave the box between the two cases:—Held: on these materials the ct. would not grant a rule, but that they would give leave to renew the application on further & better materials. The ct. was of opinion that if the application was to succeed, there should be an affidavit as to the circumstances from one of the other eleven jurymen.—Ex p. MORRIS (1907), 72 J. P. 5.

3267. Must be arrived at upon the evidence alone.]—R. v. NEWTON (1912), 28 T. L. R. 362; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 214; 76 J. P. Jo. 184, C. C. A.

3268. Must be accepted by judge.]—A verdict is never complete until it is accepted as such by the judge.—R. v. AMOS (1851), 2 Den. 65; T. & M. 422; 4 New Sess. Cas. 580; 20 L. J. M. C. 103; 15 J. P. 70; 15 Jur. 90; 5 Cox, C. C. 222, C. C. R.

3269. May be against judge's direction—Judge not to dictate verdict.]—R. v. HENDRICK (1921), 37 T. L. R. 447; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

3270. Must not be inconsistent or ambiguous.]—On an information for riotously diverting a water-course, a verdict finding deft. guilty of diverting

n. Same commission—Discretion of judge.]—When on a trial at a special commission, the jury could not agree, & after remaining a long time shut up, were discharged by the ct., no consent being given by the counsel on either side, in consequence of the physician's report that a longer confinement would endanger the lives of some of them:—Held: they were properly so discharged, & prisoners were triable again; & they might have been tried at the same commission if the judge had thought proper.—R. v. BARRETT (1829), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 103.—IR.

o. Charge of sedition—Evidence of concurrent circumstances.]—On a charge of sedition contained in a speech, evidence of the concurrent circumstances necessary for understanding of the speech can be proved on a new trial of an accused after a disagreement on a former trial.—R. v. YOUNG (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 1191.—N.Z.

p. Whether re-arraignment necessary.]—On a new trial it is unnecessary to re-arraign accused & call upon him to plead afresh before empanelling the jury.—R. v. YOUNG (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 1191.—N.Z.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—A.

3269 i. May be against judge's direction—Judge not to dictate verdict.]—Where a prisoner was indicted for larceny of certain goods & also for receiving, & the evidence against her consisted of the fact of the stolen property having been found concealed on her person at about 10 o'clock on the morning after the night on which the goods were stolen, & prisoner made a voluntary statement asserting she had found the goods, the judge directed the jury to acquit prisoner on the count for receiving, but the jury notwithstanding, acquitted prisoner on the count for larceny, but convicted her of receiving, & the judge did not insist on the direction he had previously given but reserved the question as to whether the evidence was sufficient in law to sustain the conviction on the count for receiving:—Held: whether the judge withdrew his direction as to the count for receiving or not, the evidence being sufficient in law to sustain the conviction, the conviction must stand.—R. v. McMAHON (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 275.—IR.

3270 i. Must not be inconsistent or ambiguous.]—Prisoner, being indicted for stealing & receiving certain horses, was acquitted of the stealing but found guilty of receiving. After the verdict of guilty had been pronounced & minuted by the clerk the jury said they recommended prisoner to mercy on the ground that they thought that she believed herself to have some claim to the property:—Held: the verdict was wrong, & prisoner ought not to have been convicted.—R. v. DICKSON (1865), 4 N. S. W. S. C. R. 298.—AUS.

3270 ii. ————]—A., being charged with obtaining money by false pretences, it appeared that A. had drawn & passed at G. a cheque on the O. Bank at Y. The jury found A. was "guilty of drawing the cheque but intended to have provided funds to meet it if he had had sufficient time." The judge a watercourse, & not guilty of the riot, is repugnant & void.—R. v. COLSON (1685), 3 Mod. Rep. 72; 87 E. R. 47.

3271. —.]—R. v. KEITE (1696), 1 Ld. Raym. 138; 91 E. R. 95; sub nom. R. v. KEAT, 5 Mod. Rep. 287; Holt, K. B. 481; Skin. 667; 1 Com. 13.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Huggins (1729), 17 State Tr. 309; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460. Mentd. R. v. Burridge (1735), 3 P. Wms. 439; Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 289.

3272. —.]—R. v. WOODFALL (1770), 5 Burr. 2661; 20 State Tr. 895; 98 E. R. 398.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Shipley (1784), 4 Doug. K. B. 73; R. v. Topham (1791), 4 Term Rep. 126; R. v. Phillips (1805), 6 East, 464; Mouson v. Tussaud, Monson v. Tussaud (1894), 63 L. J. Q. B. 454; R. v. Morris (1907), 71 J. P. Jo. 520.

3273. —.]—R. v. MURPHY, No. 3234, ante.

3274. —.]—A prisoner was found guilty of obtaining food & money under false pretences, but the jury added that they considered there was not sufficient evidence of any intent to defraud:—Held: as it was necessary to allege an intent to defraud in the indictment, & the jury had found that it was not proved in the evidence, a conviction on the above findings of the jury could not be sustained.—R. v. GRAY (1891), 7 T. L. R. 477; 17 Cox, C. C. 299, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Farnborough (1895), 64 L. J. M. C. 270; R. v. Fairbrother (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 233.

3275. —.]—Good if intention of jury clear.—When the words of a verdict are not clear or are confused, but the intention of the jury is plain, the ct. will give effect to it, under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).—R. v. RAWLINGS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

3276. —.]—The verdict & recommendation of a jury must be considered as a whole. If they find specifically guilty, the verdict cannot be set aside because they express doubts on points of detail. If a verdict is on its face inconsistent, this ct. can refuse to allow it to stand.—R. v. CHARLTON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

3277. —.]—Applt. was convicted of being accessory before the fact to a burglary & of receiving the stolen goods:—Held: there was no inconsistency in the verdict.—R. v. GOODSPEED (1911), 75 J. P. 232; 27 T. L. R. 255; 55 Sol. Jo. 273; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 133, C. C. A.

3278. May be partial—Guilty on one count & not guilty on another.—A verdict of not guilty refused to accept this as verdict of not guilty & insisted on an unambiguous verdict. The jury retired, & presently returned a verdict of guilty:—Held: the first finding was sufficiently ambiguous to justify the judge in the course he pursued, & the conviction was sustained.—R. v. SHADFORTH (1866), 5 N. S. W. S. C. R. 337.—AUS.

3270 iii. —.]—Where the jury in a criminal trial add to a verdict of guilty & objection is taken to the conviction on the ground that the rider is a rider finding special facts which are alleged to be inconsistent with guilt, the ct. must look at the whole finding, including the rider, & if it then appears reasonably doubtful whether the jury have found the facts necessary to establish the offence charged accused is entitled to the benefit of the doubt & the conviction should be quashed.—MYERSON v. R. (1907), 5 C. L. R. 596.—AUS.

3270 iv. —.]—Accused charged with breaking & entering a dwelling-house with intent to steal, & being in the said dwelling-house stealing certain articles. The jury found him guilty of burglary, but not guilty of stealing, & recommended that he be treated as a first offender on the ground that he was too drunk to know what he was doing:—Held: taking the whole finding together & considering it with the evidence, & summing up it was reasonably doubtful whether the jury had found the facts necessary to establish the offence of burglary, & the conviction was quashed.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 374; 30 N. S. W. N. 103.—AUS.

3270 v. —.]—Where, on an indictment for murder, the jury returned a verdict in the following words: "Guilty of murder, with a recommendation to mercy, as there is no evidence to show malice aforethought & premeditation":—Held: it was too ambiguous & uncertain to allow the ct. to pronounce any judgment on it.—R. v. HEALEY (1856), 3 N. S. R. (2 Thom.) 331.—CAN.

3270 vi. —.]—Indictment for forging a promissory note & uttering a forged endorsement on a promissory note. The grand jury returned a bill with a special finding, viz. "We find prisoner guilty of having & uttering the forged promissory note knowing it to be forged":—Held: such finding being a nullity, the jury impanelled to try prisoner was discharged, & prisoner held to bail to stand his trial at the ensuing assizes.—R. v. DILLON (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 291.—IR.

3270 vii. —.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. TIERNEY (1875), 3 Couper, 152.—SCOT.

3275 i. —.]—Good if intention of jury clear.—A. was tried on an information charging him with stealing £300, the property of a bank. The jury returned a verdict of guilty but with the intention of returning the amount:—Held: the verdict was a verdict of guilty, & the conviction was sustained.—R. v. JOHNSON (1867), 6 N. S. W. S. C. R. 201.—AUS.

3275 ii. —.]—Upon the trial of deft. upon an indictment for obtaining money by false pretences, the jury found deft. "guilty of obtaining money by false pretences without intent to defraud":—Held: the finding was in law a verdict of "not guilty" & it should have been so recorded.—R. v. WEBER (1921), 61 D. L. R. 601; 36 Can. Crim. Cas. 33; 51 O. L. R. 218.—CAN.

3275 iii. —.]—An indictment charged an attempt to poison by mixing a certain noxious & destructive thing called sugar of lead with flour, & administering the said poison so mixed with flour. The jury found prisoner guilty, but stated that they could not say what particular kind of poison had been mixed up with the flour:—Held: the conviction was good.—R. v. SHANNON (1837), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 209.—IR.

3275 iv. —.]—In a trial for murder the jury returned a verdict of guilty but recommended the panel to mercy on the ground of want of malice aforethought:—Held: this was a good verdict of murder.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MACDONALD (1867), 5 Irv. 525; 40 Sc. Jur. 92.—SCOT.

3275 v. —.]—Accused was indicted for the crime of theft, in that he did wrongfully & unlawfully steal ten head of cattle. The jury found him "guilty of theft of two cattle by fraudulent sale thereof, which cattle had been entrusted to him for safe keeping." On a question reserved as to whether the verdict could be sustained as a verdict of guilty under the indictment, the conviction was confirmed.—R. v. MATTHEOS JAN (1890), 16 S. C. 361; 9 C. T. R. 378.—S. AF.

3275 vi. —.]—On an indictment for forging & uttering a promissory note the jury first returned a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy on the ground that prisoner did not intend to defraud. The judge told them to reconsider their verdict, & said if they thought there was no intention at all to defraud they ought to find him not guilty. The jury reconsidered their verdict, & found prisoner guilty, but recommended him to mercy on various grounds set out in writing, the first being that there was no intent to defraud, as prisoner believed he would receive money in time to meet the bill:—Held: the recommendation to mercy did not qualify the verdict, & that the conviction was good.—R. v. WARNE (1875), 3 C. A. 1.—N.Z.

3275 vii. —.]—Prisoner was indicted for arson. In summing up the judge directed the jury that there was no evidence before them as to prisoner's mental condition to justify them in finding that prisoner was incapable of understanding the nature & quality of the act & of knowing it was wrong. The jury said they found prisoner guilty & handed to him the following document: "We find prisoner guilty of setting fire to P.'s house, & wish to add a rider that we think accused was not responsible for his actions at the time":—Held: this verdict was one of guilty, the rider being simply a statement to induce the ct. to deal leniently with prisoner.—R. v. ALDRED (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 926.—N.Z.

3278 i. May be partial—Guilty on one count & not guilty on another.—Where a prisoner is charged with an offence consisting of a felony & a misdemeanour, the jury may convict him of the felony, though they acquit him of the misdemeanour.—R. v. STEWART & SULLIVAN (1886), 12 V. L. R. 507.—AUS.

3278 ii. —.]—Deft., who was employed by a co. in the capacity of clerk & servant, was tried on an indictment charging him with theft of moneys paid to him on account of goods supplied by the co. Certain counts of the indictment charged the payment of moneys to deft. with instructions that the same should be paid to the co., & the fraudulent conversion by deft. of such moneys to his own use. The evidence of guilt was conclusive, but the trial judge, while charging strongly against prisoner, without attempting to find facts, stated the effect of the evidence to the jury & left it to them to say whether prisoner was guilty or not guilty of the offence charged. The jury having returned a general verdict

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, A. & B.]

can be entered on one count, & of guilty on another.—R. v. CRADDOCK (1850), 2 Den. 31; T. & M. 361; 4 New Sess. Cas. 400; 20 L. J. M. C. 31; 16 L. T. O. S. 514; 15 J. P. 20; 14 Jur. 1031; 4 Cox, C. C. 409, C. C. R.

3279. ———.]—Finding prisoner guilty on the first count is perfectly consistent with finding him not guilty on the second.—R. v. HALLIDAY (1860), Bell, C. C. 257; 29 L. J. M. C. 148; 2 L. T. 254; 24 J. P. 341; 6 Jur. N. S. 514; 8 W. R. 423; 8 Cox, C. C. 298, C. C. R.

3280. ———.]—Each count equivalent to a separate indictment.]—Where an indictment contains several counts it is not ground of error that no verdict has been given on some of them, provided a verdict has been found on one good count, & judgment given generally. Each count is a separate indictment.—LATHAM v. R. (1864), 5 B. & S. 635; 4 New Rep. 329; 33 L. J. M. C. 197; 10 L. T. 571; 28 J. P. 727; 10 Jur. N. S. 1145; 12 W. R. 908; 9 Cox, C. C. 516; 122 E. R. 968.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202.

3281. Effect of general verdict of guilty—Indictment containing several counts.]—R. v. J. P. (1583), Co. Ent. 352 b.

Annotation:—Refd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 10 L. T. O. S. 396.

3282. ———.]—Accused charged both as principal & as accessory.]—A general conviction of a prisoner, charged both as principal in the first degree, & as an aider & abettor of other men in rape, is valid on the count charging him as principal. On such an indictment evidence may be given of several rapes on the same woman at the same time, by the prisoner & other men, each assisting the other in turn, without putting the prosecutor to elect on which count to proceed.—R. v. FOLKES & LUDDS (1832), 1 Mood. C. C. 354.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Mitchel (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 1.

3283. ———.]—Where an indictment charged A. with shooting B., & C. with being present, aiding & abetting him, in one count, & in the second charged C. with having afterwards shot the said B., & A. with being present, aiding & abetting him, & the jury found both guilty, but were unable to say which fired the gun:—Held: such general finding was good, & both prisoners were properly convicted of the whole offence thereunder, each of them being equally guilty in law on each count, & the verdict returned by the jury supporting each count.—R. v. DOWNING & POWYS (1845), 2 Car. & Kir. 382; 1 Den. 52; 9 J. P. 166; 1 Cox, C. C. 156, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. Campbell & Haynes v. R. (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 463.

3284. ———.]—Same offence charged differently in different counts.]—CAMPBELL v. R., No. 3532, post.

3285. ———.]—When the same act is differently charged in various counts the ct. may construe a verdict of guilty upon all as if it was limited to the least offence alleged.—R. v. JOHNSTON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 262, C. C. A.

3286. ———.]—Verdict of guilty on alternative counts for stealing & receiving same articles.]—Where an indictment charges several prisoners in separate counts with stealing & receiving the same property, & all prisoners are found guilty, both of stealing & of receiving, & the facts necessary to support a conviction on both charges are the same & the maximum punishment is the same in respect of both offences, the conviction, though irregular in form, ought to be construed as a general verdict of guilty on an indictment containing these two counts.—R. v. LOCKETT, GRIZZARD, GUTWIRTH & SILVERMAN, [1914] 2 K. B.

of guilty:—Held: the conviction should be affirmed; assuming that certain counts of the indictment were defective for want of an allegation of directions to pay the money over to the co., it was open to the ct. to give directions in relation to the entry of judgment on the counts which were good & to pass sentence upon them.—R. v. McDONALD (1915), 49 N. S. R. 245.—CAN.

3278 iii. ———.]—An indictment, in the first count, charged that S. with a leaden ball & shot, out of a gun by force of gunpowder shot & sent forth, D. feloniously did strike, penetrate & wound with intent, in so doing, the said D. feloniously to kill & murder; & that W. was present, aiding & abetting. Another count charged W. as principal & S. as present, aiding & abetting; & in other counts they were charged as principals & accessories respectively in the like wounding of D. with intent to disable him, & to do him grievous bodily harm. The record stated that prisoners were found guilty upon the first count, & sentenced to death; & that the jury were discharged from giving any verdict upon the other counts:—Held: the discharge of the jury from giving any verdict upon the issues joined on the other counts did not render the judgment upon the first count erroneous.—SHEA v. R., DWYER v. R. (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 141.—IR.

3278 iv. ———.]—A father was charged with neglect of his imbecile son. The first count of the indictment averred not only wilful neglect but also assault. There was a second count for assault. The only evidence of assault was that the imbecile was deprived of his liberty by the door of his room being fastened. The jury found prisoner guilty of wilful neglect, but acquitted

him of assault:—Held: the conviction should stand.—R. v. WATSON (1896), 30 I. L. T. 135.—IR.

3278 v. ———.]—Two persons were indicted for assaulting & putting prosecutor in bodily fear, & stealing money from his person, & immediately afterwards feloniously wounding him. The jury returned a verdict of assault, but the judge sent them back to reconsider it:—Held: he was right in doing so, & in directing the jury that they could find the prisoners guilty of an assault with intent to rob, or stealing from the person, or an unlawful wounding, but not of common assault.—R. v. WILLIAMS & FERGUSON (1877), 3 C. A. 370; 2 J. R. N. S. 42.—N.Z.

3281 i. Effect of general verdict of guilty—Indictment containing several counts.]—Prisoner was charged on an indictment containing two counts, obtaining money partly by a false pretence & partly by a wilfully false promise, & obtaining money by false pretences. He gave a cheque on a bank where he had no account in part payment of a buggy:—Held: there was no inconsistency in a general verdict of guilty on these two counts.—R. v. ROWE (1909), 9 S. R. N. S. W. 747.—AUS.

3281 ii. ———.]—R. v. BAIN (1877), 23 L. C. J. 327.—CAN.

3281 iii. ———.]—Deft. was charged with four distinct & separate offences. On the conclusion of the trial for the first offence deft.'s solr. asked for a verdict, but the judge, not being prepared to determine the case, proceeded with the trial of the other charges, & when all had been heard, rendered verdicts of guilty in all four cases:—Held: the judge had no power to so withhold his verdicts, & having done so, prisoner was wrongly convicted in all four cases, & the verdicts must be set aside & new trials ordered.—R. v. McBERNY (1897), 29 N. S. R. 327.—CAN.

3286 i. ———.]—Verdict of guilty on alternative counts for stealing & receiving same articles.]—A prisoner was charged with stealing a cornet & in a second count of the indictment with receiving "the said cornet well-knowing, etc." The jury returned a general verdict of guilty:—Held: the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. MITCHELL (1904), 4 S. R. N. S. W. 317.—AUS.

3286 ii. ———.]—Prisoner was charged with stealing three steers & in a second count with receiving the same three steers. The jury returned a general verdict of guilty:—Held: conviction must be quashed.—R. v. PRATT (1904), 4 S. R. N. S. W. 573; 21 N. S. W. W. N. 140.—AUS.

3286 iii. ———.]—Prisoners were charged with larceny of certain goods & in a second count with receiving the same goods. The jury found both prisoners guilty of larceny & receiving & were discharged. Objection was then taken on behalf of one of prisoners that the verdict was irregular. The jury who had not left precincts of ct. were recalled by the judge & returned a verdict of larceny against each prisoner upon which prisoners were sentenced:—Held: the first verdict was illegal & the second verdict a nullity & the conviction must be set aside.—R. v. ATKINSON & CLUTTON (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 713.—AUS.

3286 iv. ———.]—When on an indictment charging prisoner with stealing, & also receiving goods knowing them to be stolen, the jury found a general verdict of guilty, not specifying on which count the verdict was found,

720; 83 L. J. K. B. 1193; 110 L. T. 398; 78 J. P. 196; 30 T. L. R. 233; 24 Cox, C. C. 114; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 268, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Mentd. R. v. Starkie, [1922] 2 K. B. 275.

3287. Must state amount of damage—Conviction under Malicious Injury to Property Act, 1827 (c. 30), s. 24.]—Semble*: the above sect. is inapplicable to growing trees. But, neither under that nor any other sect., is a committal or conviction good, which states the offence to be wilfully & maliciously cutting up & destroying fruit trees in a garden, or wilfully & maliciously committing damage, injury & spoil to real property, to wit fruit trees, without a finding as to the amount of damage.—CHARTER v. GREAME (1849), 13 Q. B. 216; 3 New Mag. Cas. 106; 3 New Sess. Cas. 382; 18 L. J. M. C. 73; 12 L. T. O. S. 471; 13 J. P. 232; 13 Jur. 208; 116 E. R. 1245.

Annotations.—Mentd. Fuller v. Brown (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 301; Ex p. Austin (1880), 50 L. J. M. C. 8.

B. Special Verdict.

3288. Jury may find.]—On an indictment of murder for killing a serjeant of the mace in London, the jury found a special verdict, & upon argument before all the judges, upon exceptions being made to the indictment:—Held: (1) the verdict was good, although the indictment averred that the sheriff made a precept to deceased, & the verdict found an arrest made according to the custom without any precept. Because it was sufficient if the substance of the matter was found, & the indictment might have been general, that he feloniously & of his malice prepense killed the deceased; & because, besides the special matter which implies malice, it was expressly averred in the indictment that he feloniously & of malice aforethought killed the deceased.

(2) The custom of London, that after the plaintiff entered, deft. might be arrested without being first summoned, was good.

(3) If a minister of justice was killed in the execution of process, it was murder, although such process was apparently erroneous. If a sheriff, justice of peace, chief constable, petit constable, watchman, or any other, be killed in the execution of their office, it was murder. If an officer or minister of the law was resisted or assaulted in the execution of his office, he is not bound to fly to the wall as others were.

(4) An officer making an arrest ought to show at whose suit, out of what ct., & for what cause he made the arrest, when the party arrested submits himself to the arrest, but not where the party resists. If an officer having process to arrest a party is killed by the party before any arrest made in order to prevent the arrest, it was murder.

(5) Where the jury doubted, whether the facts proved amount in law to murder, they might find a special verdict, stating the facts as proved, & leaving the inference to the judges, who might give judgment of death, if they thought the offence was murder, though the killing was not found to be felonious.

(6) One indicted of murder might be found guilty of manslaughter.—MACKALLEY'S CASE (1611), 9 Co. Rep. 61 b; Cro. Jac. 279; 79 E. R. 239.

Annotations.—Mentd. Hodges v. Marks (1615), Cro. Jac. 485; R. v. Cary (1616), 3 Bulst. 206; Holloway's Case (1629), W. Jo. 198; Gwinne v. Poole (1689), 2 Lut. App. 1560; R. v. Plummer (1701), Kel. 107; Jackson v. Humphreys (1707), 1 Salk. 273; R. v. Tooley (1709), 2 Ld. Raym. 1296; Smith v. Boucher (1733), Kel. W. 144; Swann v. Broome (1764), 3 Burr. 1595; O'Brian's Case (1844), 1 Den. 9; R. v. Davies (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 486; Galliard v. Laxton (1862), 2 B. & S. 363; Barnacott v. Passmore (1887), 51 J. P. 821.

3289. — Sufficient to enable court to give judgment.]—R. v. ROYCE (1707), 4 Burr. 2073; 98 E. R. 81.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. O'Brien (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 1. Mentd. Thellusson v. Woodford (1798), 4 Ves. 227.

3290. — To enable legal point to be decided.]—R. v. WESTBEER (1739), 2 East, P. C. 596; Sess. Cas. K. B. 233; 2 Stra. 1133; 93 E. R. 235; 1 Leach, 12.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Walker (1827), 1 Mood. C. C. 155. Refd. R. v. Morrison (1859), 28 L. J. M. C. 210.

3291. — — —.]—R. v. STAINES LOCAL BOARD (1880), 52 J. P. 215; 4 T. L. R. 307.

3292. Jury cannot be compelled to find.]—In a case of felony, the judge will not direct the jury to find special facts, & the jury may, if they think proper, find a general verdict, instead of finding special facts, with a view to raise a question of law.—R. v. ALLDAY (1837), 8 C. & P. 136, N. P.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Nott (1843), 7 Jur. 621; R. v. Hendrick (1921), 37 T. L. R. 447.

3293. Court to decide judgment.]—MACKALLEY'S CASE, No. 3288, ante.

3294. — Only on facts actually found.]—R. v. PLUMMER (1701), Kel. 109; Fost. 352; 12 Mod. Rep. 627; 84 E. R. 1103.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Higgins (1730), 1 Barn. K. B. 396; R. v. Burridge (1735), 3 P. Wins. 439; R. v. Francis (1735), Cunn. 165. Mentd. R. v. Pemberton (1874), 22 W. R. 553.

3295. — — —.]—A taking in the presence is a taking from the person & felony, but in special verdicts it must be expressly found that the party robbed was present at the taking up.—R. v. FRANCIS (1735), 2 Stra. 1015; Cunn. 165; Lee temp. Hard. 113; 2 Com. 478; 93 E. R. 1104.

Annotations.—Mentd. R. v. Borthwick (1779), 1 Doug. K. B. 207; Thompson v. Gibson (1841), 8 M. & W. 281; Grace v. Clinch (1843), 4 Q. B. 606.

3296. — — —.]—R. v. GREY (1735), 2 East, P. C. 708.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Farnborough (1895), 73 L. T. 351.

3297. — — —.]—R. v. CONNOR, No. 2143, ante.

3298. — On facts as found.]—R. v. FARNBOROUGH, No. 3123, ante.

3299. — Intention of accused stated as excuse.]—On indictment against N. for obtaining goods by false pretences, the jury found that N. made a false statement, that he intended it to, & that it actually did, induce the prosecutor to part the ct. set aside this verdict for uncertainty, & awarded a verdict de novo.—R. v. EVANS (1856), 6 I. C. L. R. 500.—IR.

g. Must be no reasonable doubt.]—R. v. GREEN (1918), 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 425.—CAN.

r. Verdict returned on Sunday.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. ROSENBERG (1842), 1 Broun. 367.—SCOT.

s. Several accused—Verdict against some.]—On an indictment against several persons for jointly receiving goods knowing them to have been feloniously stolen:—Held: although there was no evidence against some of the prisoners, the others might be convicted.—HANLON'S CASE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 364.—IR.

t. Indictment for full offence—Plea of guilty of attempt.]—Where a prisoner pleads not guilty of rape, & offers a plea of guilty of attempt to rape, which is accepted, but there is no count in the indictment for such an attempt, the procedure is to direct the jury to find him guilty of an attempt to rape on his own confession.—R. v. MAULEY (1911), 46 I. L. T. 103.—IR.

a. Recommendation to mercy—Statement of grounds—Whether part of verdict.]—Semble*: the terms in which a jury recommend a prisoner, whom they have found guilty, to mercy are not to be taken as part of the verdict.—R. v. WARNE (1875), 3 C. A. 1.—N.Z.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—B.

3299 i. Court to decide judgment—On facts as found—Intention of accused stated as excuse.]—Prisoner was indicted under Criminal Code Act, 1893, ss. 269, 271, upon a charge of forging with the goods; but that N. intended, when he could, to pay for the goods:—Held: this was a verdict of guilty, & the last finding did not qualify the former findings, nor negative the fraudulent intent.—R. v. NAYLOR (1865), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 4; 35 L. J. M. C. 61; 13 L. T. 381; 30 J. P. 6; 11 Jur. N. S. 910; 14 W. R. 58; 10 Cox, C. C. 149, C. C. R.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, B.]

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Gray (1891), 17 Cox, C. C. 299.

3300. ——— Extreme necessity stated as excuse.]—The two prisoners were indicted for wilful murder, & on the trial the jury returned a special verdict, stating the facts, & referred the matter to the ct. The facts stated in the special verdict were substantially as follows: The prisoners, able-bodied English seamen, & the deceased, an English boy between seventeen & eighteen years of age, the crew of an English yacht, were cast away in a storm on the high seas 1,600 miles from land, & were compelled to put into an open boat. The food they took with them was all consumed in twelve days, & having been for eight days without food, & for six days without water, the prisoners killed the boy. The boy when killed was lying at the bottom of the boat quite helpless & weak, & unable to make any resistance, & did not assent to his being killed. The prisoners, & another man who was with them, fed upon the body & blood of the boy for four days, when they were picked up by a passing vessel. The verdict went on thus: "That, if the men had not fed upon the body of the boy, they would probably not have survived to be so picked up & rescued, but would within the four days have died of famine; that the boy, being in a much weaker condition, was likely to have died before them; that at the time of the act in question there was no sail in sight nor any reasonable prospect of relief; that, under the circumstances, there appeared to the prisoners every probability that unless they then fed, or very soon fed, upon the boy or one of themselves, they would die of starvation; that there was no appreciable chance of saving life except by killing some one for the others to eat; that, assuming any necessity to kill anybody, there was no greater necessity for killing the boy than any of the other three men." On the special verdict:—Held: the facts as found afforded no justification for the killing of the boy, & the prisoners were guilty of wilful murder.—R. v. DUDLEY & STEPHENS (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 273; 54 L. J. M. C. 32; 52 L. T. 107; 49 J. P. 69; 33 W. R. 347; 1 T. L. R. 118; 15 Cox, C. C. 624, D. C.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Staines L. B. (1888), 4 T. L. R. 364; R. v. Jameson (1896), 60 J. P. 662. Mentd. R. v. Steventon Parish (1885), 1 T. L. R. 395; R. v. Brooke (1894), 59 J. P. 6; Allen v. Flood, [1898] A. C. 1.

3301. ——— Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1904, c. 15, s. 1.]—The prisoner was indicted for the manslaughter of a child under the age of 16. During the trial the judge told the jury that they could, under above Act, instead of finding the prisoner guilty of manslaughter, find him guilty of wilful neglect. When the jury were asked for their verdict they said "Guilty." They were then asked, "Guilty of manslaughter or wilful neglect?" & they replied "of wilful neglect," & after an appreciable pause they added, "Through ignorance."—Held: there was a distinct finding of guilty, & the addition of the words "through ignorance" did not negative that finding.—R. v. PETCH (1909), 25 T. L. R. 401; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

3302. ——— May enter verdict of acquittal—If facts found do not justify conviction.]—Where the jury in an indictment for murder bring in a special verdict, & the facts so found by them do

& uttering an acknowledgment of the receipt of money. Prisoner as agent for M. had incurred a debt of £5, & the creditor G. demanded payment from him. He thereupon made & signed in G.'s name a receipt for £5 from himself. Prisoner then sued M. for the £5 which he alleged he had paid to G., & produced the false receipt in support of his claim. He recovered judgment. G. swore that he had not authorised prisoner to sign the receipt. The jury found the following verdict: "We find accused guilty of forging & using a receipt, but do not consider "was done with any criminal intent."

Held: the verdict was ambiguous, for it might have meant that the jury thought prisoner had no intent to defraud, in which case, as that was not a necessary ingredient of the offence, it was a verdict of guilty; or it might have meant that they believed he honestly thought he had authority to sign & use the receipt, in which case it was probably equivalent to a verdict of not guilty; & under the circumstances a new trial should be ordered.—R. v. STEWART (1908), 27 N. Z. L. R. 682.—N.Z.

3302 i. ——— May enter verdict of acquittal—If facts found do not justify verdict.]—Prisoners were charged with having feloniously killed with intent to steal the carcasses thereof one bull, one steer, one cow. The evidence was conclusive that they killed one animal of the ox kind, but no evidence what was its particular kind, whether bull, steer or cow. The judge directed the jury that if satisfied of the guilt of prisoners in killing a grown animal of the ox kind they might find them guilty, & although it was certain that a bull & steer & cow were in point of fact not so killed. The jury found prisoners guilty accordingly, but added that they could not say what was the sex of the beast killed:—Held: the direction was right but the verdict could not be sustained.—R. v. CHRISTIAN (1869), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 294.—AUS.

3302 ii. ——— ]—When the jury in a criminal trial add to a verdict of guilty & objection is taken to the conviction on the ground that the rider is a rider finding special facts which are alleged to be inconsistent with guilt, the ct. must look at the whole finding including the rider, & if it then appears reasonably doubtful whether the jury have found the facts necessary to establish the offence charged, accused is entitled to the benefit of the doubt and conviction should be quashed.—MYERSON v. R. (1907), 5 C. L. R. 596.—AUS.

3302 iii. ——— ]—Accused was charged with breaking & entering a dwelling house with intent to steal & being in the said dwelling house stealing certain articles. The jury found him guilty of burglary but not guilty of stealing, & recommended that he be treated as a first offender on the ground that he was too drunk to know what he was doing:—Held: taking the whole finding together & considering it with the evidence & summing up it was reasonably doubtful whether the jury had found the facts necessary to establish the offence of burglary & the conviction was quashed.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 374; 30 N. S. W. W. N. 103.—AUS.

3302 iv. ——— ]—On an indictment for wounding with intent a verdict of guilty without malicious intent is an acquittal.—SLAUGHENWHITE v. R. (1904), 35 S. C. R. 607.—CAN.

3302 v. ——— ]—R. v. SNYDER (1915), 34 O. L. R. 318; 8

O. W. N. 594; 25 D. L. R. 1.—CAN.

3302 vi. ——— ]—Where a verdict finds certain facts specially, & concludes with a finding of guilty, in order that it should be treated as anything else than a general verdict of guilty, it should be shown that the jury in the rest of their finding have negatived a component part of the offence, or that there is something inconsistent with a verdict of guilty, or that the jury have proceeded on a wrong assumption as to the law.—IT. v. BEN (1895), 14 N. Z. L. R. 321.—N.Z.

3302 vii. ——— ]—In a trial of a trainway motorman for manslaughter caused by accused letting his car collide with a lighted car standing stationary on the line, which was about to be coupled to a broken-down car, such collision causing a person about to couple the cars to be crushed to death between the buffers, the jury returned the following written answer to the question whether prisoner was guilty or not guilty: "We consider accused guilty of neglect of duty caused by extenuating circumstances, but not gross neglect, & strongly recommend him to mercy."—Held: the verdict was a general verdict of guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy.—R. v. DAWE (1911) 30 N. Z. L. R. 673.—N.Z.

3302 viii. ——— ]—Prisoner was tried upon an indictment containing four separate counts, charging him with stealing a sum of money; with stealing a cheque; with receiving the money; & with receiving the cheque. The judge directed the jury in the usual way as to the meaning of & the reason for the several counts. The jury handed to the judge the following answers or findings on the counts: "Prisoner did not steal the not justify a conviction, the ct. may enter a judgment of acquittal.—R. v. HUGGINS (1730), 2 Raym. 1574; 17 State Tr. 309; 1 Barn. K. B. 358, 396; Fitz-G. 177; 2 Stra. 882; 92 E. R. 518.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Burrill (1735), 3 P. Wms. 439; R. v. Francis (1735), Cunn. 165; Campbell v. R. (1846), 11 Q. B. 799; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 289. Mentd. Scott v. Shepherd (1773), 3 Wils. 403; Jones v. Nicholls (1829), 3 Moo. & P. 12; R. v. Lea, Parry, Rea, Jones & Wright (1837), 2 Mood. C. C. 9; May v. Burdett (1846), 16 L. J. Q. B. 64; R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; Manton v. Brocklebank (1923), 92 L. J. K. B. 624.

3303. — Effect of finding of facts on part of offences charged.—If a special verdict upon an indictment for three offences finds facts which prove deft. guilty of two & refers it to the opinion of the ct. whether he is guilty of the facts charged in the indictment, they will adjudge him guilty of these two & not guilty of the rest.—R. v. HAYES (1729), 2 Stra. 843; 1 Barn. K. B. 48; 2 Ld. Raym. 1518; 93 E. R. 888.

Annotations.—Consd. Latham v. R. (1864), 5 B. & S. 635. Refd. Bank of England v. Morrice (1736), Lee temp. Hard. 219; Shea v. R., Dwyer v. R. (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 141. Mentd. R. v. Gibson (1734), Cunn. 29; R. v. Atkinson (1784), 1 Wms. Saund. 249; Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814.

3304. — Effect of variance between verdict & indictment.—DOWDALE'S CASE (1605), 6 Co. Rep. 46 b; 77 E. R. 323; sub nom. RICHARDSON v. DOWDALE, Cro. Jac. 55.

Annotations.—Refd. Orde v. Moreton (1611), 1 Bulst. 129. Mentd. Calvin's Case (1609), 7 Co. Rep. 1 a; Wey v. Rally (1704), 6 Mod. Rep. 194; British South Africa Co. v. Companhia de Mocambique, [1893] A. C. 602; Re Scott, Scott v. Scott, [1916] 2 Ch. 268.

3305. — ——R. v. DAWSON (1716), 1 Stra. 19; 93 E. R. 358.

3306. — ——R. v. MORGAN (1610), 1 Bulst. 84, n.; 80 E. R. 783.

Annotations.—Mentd. Wilson v. Law (1694), 4 Mod. Rep. 290; R. v. Yandell (1792), 4 Term Rep. 521; R. v. Middlesex (1804), 4 East, 604; Re Bartholemey & Morney (1852), 1 E. & B. 8.

3307. — ——Where an indictment charged defts. with conspiring falsely to indict B. with intent to extort money, & the jury found them guilty of conspiring to indict with that intent, but not falsely:—Held: enough of the indictment was found to enable the ct. to give judgment.—R. v. HOLLINGBERRY (1825), 4 B. & C. 329; 6 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 345; 3 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 245; 3 L. J. O. S. K. B. 226; 107 E. R. 1081.

Annotations.—Consd. Boulter v. R. (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 284. Refd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; It. v. O'Brien (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 108.

notes & money; on a certain date he took the cheque in trust; not guilty of receiving the money; the jury cannot agree as to receiving the money":

—Held: the findings amounted to an acquittal on the first & third counts; the verdict on the second count was inconclusive, as prisoner might have converted the cheque subsequently to that date, & therefore there should be a new trial on that & the fourth count.—It. v. CREAMER (1912), 32 N. Z. L. R. 449.—N.Z.

3302 ix. — ——Accused was indicted for theft of four cows & three heifers; for theft of three cows; & that he did receive & have five cows before then stolen, he, when he received the said five cows, then well knowing that the same had been dishonestly obtained. To each of these counts he pleaded not guilty. The jury returned the following verdict in writing: "We find prisoner guilty of receiving stolen cattle & being a party to sale of same, but respectfully ask for leniency, as there is not sufficient evidence to show prisoner actually stole the cattle":—Held: the verdict was one of not guilty on the first & second counts; & one of guilty on the third count.—R. v.

BOURKE (1913), 32 N. Z. L. R. 821.—N.Z.

3302 x. — ——Accused was indicted for the manslaughter of her illegitimate child. The medical evidence was to the effect that the child died as the result of throttling. The jury found that the death of the child was caused by the mother when she was not in a mental condition to realise the effect of her act:—Held: the verdict was not ambiguous, but was a finding of guilty, the jury not having found that accused was incapable of understanding the nature & quality of the act, but only that she was not in a mental condition to realise the effect of the act.—R. v. HOLDEN, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 458.—N.Z.

3304 i. — Effect of variance between verdict & indictment.—Appets. were charged with stealing cattle & also with feloniously receiving cattle knowing them to have been stolen. The judge explained to the jury the verdict which they were entitled to return, describing the offence as "illegally using." The jury acquitted prisoners of the offences charged & found them guilty of "illegally using." The ct. having on a special case stated sustained the 3308. — ——A party was indicted for a highway robbery, accompanied by violence, under 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 87, s. 3. The jury pronounced the following verdict: "We find the prisoner guilty of an assault, but without any intention to commit any felony":—Held: such special finding did not take the case out of the operation of 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 85, s. 11.—R. v. ELLIS (1838), 8 C. & P. 654, C. C. R.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Bird (1851), 2 Den. 94.

3309. — Amendment of indictment.—On an indictment alleging an offence on a specific date the jury is entitled to find "Not Guilty" on that date, & if the indictment covers other dates "Guilty," the ct. is thereupon entitled to amend the date in the indictment to "some day in" the month in question.—R. v. DOSSI (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1024; 34 T. L. R. 498; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 158, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. James (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 116.

3310. — Procedure where wrong verdict entered.—Upon the trial of an indictment at quarter sessions, that ct. is the sole judge of the propriety of the entry of the verdict. Where, therefore, upon a special finding by the jury, amounting to an acquittal, the chairman directs a verdict of guilty to be entered, the Ct. of K. B. will not grant a mandamus requiring the minute of the verdict to be altered according to the fact. The only course open to the prisoner is to apply to the Crown for a pardon.—R. v. SUFFOLK JJ. (1835), 5 Nev. & M. K. B. 139; 3 Nev. & M. M. C. 221.

3311. — Appeal against decision of court.—On a trial for larceny of goods laid by the indictment in the high sheriff, the jury found that the prisoner had taken certain goods which were in the possession of the sheriff, & that the goods taken were the prisoner's own property, & that the sheriff had seized them in an execution against the prisoner's wife, being under the impression that they were her goods:—Held: on these findings the verdict was one of not guilty.—R. v. KNIGHT (1908), 73 J. P. 15; 25 T. L. R. 87; 53 Sol. Jo. 101; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 186, C. C. R.

3312. — ——R. v. MURHEAD (1908), 73 J. P. 31; 25 T. L. R. 88; 53 Sol. Jo. 164; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 189, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Mentd. R. v. Brownlow (1910), 74 J. P. 240; Morison v. London County & Westminster Bank, [1914] 3 K. B. 356.

conviction on the ground that the verdict returned was a substantially accurate description of the offence, the High Ct. being of opinion that that decision was obviously right refused to grant special leave to appeal.—LILLICRAP v. R. (1905), 2 C. L. R. 681.—AUS.

3304 ii. — ——It. v. HIGGINS (1905), 38 N. S. R. 328.—CAN.

3304 iii. — ——Accused was indicted for the crime of theft, in that he did wrongfully & unlawfully steal ten head of cattle. The jury found him guilty of theft of two cattle by fraudulent sale thereof, which cattle had been entrusted to him for safe keeping. On a question reserved as to whether the verdict could be sustained as a verdict of guilty under the indictment, the conviction was confirmed.—R. v. MATTHEWS JAN (1899), 16 S. C. 361; 9 C. T. R. 378.—S. AF.

b. Benefit of doubt to accused.—R. v. WALKER (1893), 1 Terr. L. R. 482.—CAN.

c. Indictment for murder by poison.—Whether jury need be satisfied as to kind of poison.—On an indictment for murder by poison, if it appear

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, B., C. & D. (a).]

3313. — [—]—A verdict of "negligence" on an indictment under the Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 17, is a verdict of not guilty, as mere negligence is not an offence within that section. Applt. was convicted of causing or encouraging the unlawful carnal knowledge of a girl under sixteen years of age. On the jury being asked their verdict the foreman said: "The man we find guilty of negligence with a recommendation to mercy, & the woman guilty of criminal neglect on all counts." The Recorder said: "Do you find that the man had the care of this child & caused or encouraged unlawful carnal knowledge? I don't think you ought to say simply neglect." The jury after further deliberation found a verdict of "Guilty of criminal neglect with a strong recommendation to mercy." The Recorder asked "Do you mean to say having the custody of this daughter, he, by his neglect, caused her unlawful carnal knowledge?" & the foreman assented. The girl consorted with bad characters. Applt. was warned of this. There was no evidence of the girl having been out on any specific night when applt. was at home, but he admitted that he took no steps beyond reproving the girl. Applt.'s wife was constantly in drink, & as applt. knew, often sent the girl to public-houses for drink. He was an engine-driver, & his work took him away at night during alternate weeks:—Held: there was no sufficient evidence on which the case could be submitted to the jury; no sufficient evidence on which applt. could be convicted, no sufficient evidence in proof of the crime, & the jury never found a verdict which was meant to convict him.—R. v. CHAINEY, [1914] 1 K. B. 137; 83 L. J. K. B. 306; 109 L. T. 752; 78 J. P. 127; 30 T. L. R. 51; 23 Cox, C. C. 620; 9 Ct. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

C. Joint Indictment—Separate Verdicts.

3314. Either may be found guilty.]—One offender only may be found guilty on a joint charge against three.—R. v. GIBSON, MUTTON & WIGGS (1785), 1 Leach, 357.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Young (1788), 1 Leach, 505.

3315. — Two cannot be found guilty separately of separate parts of charge.]—On an indictment against two, charging them with a joint offence, either may be found guilty; but they cannot be found guilty separately of separate parts of the charge.—R. v. HEMPSTEAD (1818), Russ. & Ry. 344, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; Latham v. R. (1864), 5 B. & S. 635.

3316. Verdict differing as to each—Must not involve finding of two offences under one count.]—

(1) Where a count in an indictment contains only one charge against several defts., the jury cannot find any one of the defts. guilty of more than one charge. Where therefore, a count in an indictment charged several defts. with conspiring together to do several illegal acts, & the jury found one of them guilty of conspiring with some of the defts. to do one of the acts, & guilty of conspiring with others of the defts. to do another of the acts, such finding is bad, as amounting to a finding that one deft. was guilty of two conspiracies, though the count charged only one.

(2) An indictment against different defts., consisted of several counts charging them with various illegal acts. Some of the counts were bad, & on some of the good counts there were bad findings. The judgment against each of the defts. was stated to be in respect of "his offences aforesaid":—Held: each count must be considered as charging a separate offence, & the expression "his offences aforesaid," must be treated as extending to all the offences of which each deft. had been found guilty; & as some of the counts & some of the findings were bad, such judgment could not be supported.—O'CONNELL v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; 3 L. T. O. S. 429; 9 Jur. 25; 1 Cox, C. C. 413; 8 E. R. 1061, H. L.

Annotations:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Mitchel (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 1; Latham v. R. (1864), 5 B. & S. 635. As to (2) Consd. R. v. Gompertz (1846), 9 Q. B. 824; Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229; Enraght v. Penzance (1882), 7 App. Cas. 240. Refd. R. v. Downing & Powys (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 153; Gregory v. Brunswick (1846), 3 C. B. 481; A.-G. v. Warren (1848), 10 L. T. O. S. 445; Campbell v. R. (1848), 11 Q. B. 799; Gregory v. R. (1848), 15 Q. B. 957; Shea v. R., Dwyer v. R. (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 141; Ryalls v. R. (1849), 11 Q. B. 781; Irvine (or Douglas) v. Kirkpatrick (1850), 17 L. T. O. S. 32; Ex p. Purdy (1850), 9 C. B. 201; Holloway v. R. (1851), 17 Q. B. 317; R. v. Eagleton (1855), 24 L. J. M. C. 158; Burton v. Low (1867), 16 L. T. 385; Mackonochie v. Penzance (1881), 6 App. Cas. 424; Combe v. De la Bere (1882), 22 Ch. D. 316; R. v. Bradlaugh (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 217; R. v. Pierce (1887), 3 T. L. R. 586; R. v. Stephens (1888), 4 T. L. R. 479. Generally, Mentd. R. v. Ramsden & Verity (1844), 2 L. T. O. S. 288, n.; King v. R. (1845), 9 Jur. 833; Hayes & Rice v. R., Foragay v. R. (1846), 8 L. T. O. S. 50; Re Dunn (1847), 5 C. B. 215; Douglas v. R. (1848), 17 L. J. M. C. 176; Dunn v. R. (1848), 13 Jur. 233; R. v. Duffly (1848), 4 Cox, C. C. 294; Wright v. R. (1849), 14 Q. B. 148; R. v. Rowlands (1851), 2 Den. 364; Ex p. Rose (1852), 18 Q. B. 751; Kendall v. Wilkinson (1855), 24 L. J. M. C. 89; New River Co. v. Hertford Land Tax Comrs. (1857), 2 H. & N. 129; A.-G. v. Sillem (1864), 2 H. & C. 581; R. v. Heane (1864), 4 B. & S. 947; Irwin v. Grey (1867), L. R. 2 H. L. 20; Mulcahy v. R. (1868), L. R. 3 H. L. 306; R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; Brown v. Esmonde (1870), 18 W. R. 711; Anderson v. Morice (1876), 1 App. Cas. 713; White v. R. (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 318; R. v. Parnell (1881), 14 Cox, C. C. 508; R. v. Manning (1883), 12 Q. B. D. 241; Mogul S.S. Co. v. McGregor, Gow (1885), 15 Q. B. D. 476; Mogul S.S. Co. v. McGregor, Gow (1889), 23 Q. B. D. 598; R. v. Quinn (1898), 19 Cox, C. C. 79; R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339; Sykes v. Barraclough, [1904] 2 K. B. 675.

3317. — Verdict of guilty as to some only.]—If two defts. are indicted for jointly making a corrupt contract with a third person, for the procuring an East India cadetship, one of defts. may be convicted, though the other is acquitted.—R. v. TAGGART & BASKCOMB (1824), 1 C. & P. 201, N. P.

3318. — —.]—On a joint count in an indictment charging two prisoners with larceny, one may be convicted alone.—R. v. RENDLE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.

3319. Verdict of greater offence as to some & of minor offence as to others.]—Upon an indictment for burglary & larceny against two, one may be found guilty of the burglary & larceny, & the other of the larceny only.—R. v. BUTTERWORTH (1823), Russ. & Ry. 520, C. C. R.

3320. — —.]—On an indictment for feloniously wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm, some of the prisoners may be convicted of that death was occasioned by some kind of poison, it is not necessary that the jury should be satisfied as to what the poison was.—M'CONKEY'S CASE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 77.—IR.

d. Need not be as technical as an indictment.]—Scmble: a special verdict need not be as technical as an indictment; it need not negative every possible fact.—R. v. BOURKE (1843),

5 J. L. R. 549.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—C.

3317 i. Verdict differing as to each—Verdict of guilty as to some only.]—A. & C. were indicted for having a pistol in their possession on a certain day within a proclaimed district:—Held: though prisoners were jointly indicted, yet the jury might, after the acquittal of one of them, find the other guilty.—R. v. HOY & LARKIN (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 288.—IR.

3319 i. — Verdict of greater offence as to some & of minor offence as to others.]—Three persons being joined in an indictment for robbery, one cannot be found guilty of robbery & the rest of larceny.—R. v. QUAIL (1833), 1 Craw. & D. 191.—IR.

the felony, & another of them of an assault.—R. v. ARCHER (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 174; 2 Mood. C. C. 283, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Burns & Smith (1849), 13 J. P. 138.

3321. ———.]—If several prisoners are jointly indicted for a felony, which includes an assault against the person, the jury are at liberty to find some guilty of the felony & others of an assault only.—R. v. ELLIOTT (1844), 1 Cox, C. C. 36.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Burns & Smith (1849), 13 J. P. 138.

3322. ———.]—B. was indicted with three others, for an assault with intent to do some grievous bodily harm. It was proved that he, with the other prisoners, had assaulted the prosecutor, & afterwards they had returned together & picked up some stones. Then B. withdrew, & the other prisoners threw the stones & wounded the prosecutor. The jury found the three prisoners who threw the stones, guilty of the felony, & B. guilty only of a common assault:—Held: B. was rightly convicted.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 225.

3323. ———.]—Upon a count of an indictment of three prisoners for feloniously wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm, two were convicted of the felony, & the third of misdemeanour of unlawfully wounding:—Semle: it was competent to the jury to do so.—R. v. CUNNINGHAM (1859), Bell, C. C. 72; 28 L. J. M. C. 66; 32 L. T. O. S. 287; 23 J. P. 55; 5 Jur. N. S. 202; 7 W. R. 179; 8 Cox, C. C. 104, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Mentd. The Ida (1860), Lush. 6; Whitstable Free Fishers v. Gann (1861), 11 C. B. N. S. 387; R. v. Keyn (1876), 2 Ex. D. 63; Direct United States Cable Co. v. Anglo-American Telegraph Co. (1877), 2 App. Cas. 394; The Mecca (1894), 71 L. T. 711.

3324. ——— Verdict of guilty as to some & disagreement as to others.]—R. v. EVANS, [1920] W. N. 392, C. C. A.

3325. Joint charge of receiving—One act of receiving subsequent to other—Verdict against first receiver only.]—R. v. GRAY (1851), T. & M. 411, C. C. R.

3326. Offence which cannot be committed by one alone—Conspiracy.]—An indictment for conspiracy charged that A., B. & C. did conspire together, & with divers other persons to the jurors unknown,

3324 i. ——— Verdict of guilty as to some & disagreement as to others.]—H. & W. were jointly indicted & tried for stealing. On the trial H. was found guilty, but the jury were unable to agree upon the verdict as to W., & were discharged from giving a verdict as to him:—Held: the verdict warranted the conviction of H.—R. v. HAMILTON & WALSH (1884), 23 N. B. R. 540.—CAN.

3324 ii. ———.]—A juror being ill & the jury having agreed as to one of the two prisoners:—Held: a verdict as to that one might be received & the jury might be discharged as to the other prisoner.—R. v. LEARY & COOKE (1844), 3 Craw. & D. 212.—IR.

3326 i. Offence which cannot be committed by one alone—Conspiracy.]—Several persons, who were railway officials, were indicted in one indictment with one count, with several other persons, for conspiring to defraud a railway co.:—Held: the jury having acquitted two of the prisoners & convicted six, there was no repugnance on the face of the record sufficient to justify the judge in arresting judgment. In an indictment for conspiracy it is sufficient to sustain the verdict as good if more than two are found guilty.—R. v. QUINN (1898), 33 I. L. T. 154.—IR.

etc. No evidence was offered affecting any other persons than A., B. & C. The jury found A. guilty, but acquitted B. & C. being of opinion that either B. or C. was guilty, but not being able to determine which of the two:—Held: the verdict was inconsistent, & A. was entitled to an acquittal.—R. v. THOMPSON (1851), 16 Q. B. 832; 20 L. J. M. C. 183; 17 L. T. O. S. 72; 15 J. P. 484; 15 Jur. 654; 5 Cox, C. C. 166; 117 E. R. 1100.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Manning (1883), 12 Q. B. D. 241. Refd. R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339; R. v. Stoddart (1909), 25 T. L. R. 612.

3327. ———.]—Upon an indictment for conspiracy, where two defts. are indicted & tried together, either both must be convicted or both must be acquitted.—R. v. MANNING (1883), 12 Q. B. D. 241; 53 L. J. M. C. 85; 51 L. T. 121; 48 J. P. 536; 32 W. R. 720, D. C.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339. Refd. Mogul SS. Co. v. McGregor, Gow (1889), 58 L. J. Q. B. 465.

3328. ———.]—R. v. PLUMMER, No. 2582, ante.

See Part XXXIV., Sect. 25, post.

3329. ——— Riot.]—On an indictment for riot, alleged to be by three persons at least at common law, less than three persons may be convicted.—R. v. BEACH & MORRIS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 189, C. C. A.

See Part XVIII., Sect. 9, post.

D. Verdict differing from Offence charged.

(a) In General.

3330. General rule—At common law—Conviction of less aggravated offence.]—Applt. & ten others were indicted for that they “unlawfully, riotously, & routously did assemble & gather together to disturb the peace of the King, & being so assembled in & upon B., then & there being, unlawfully, riotously, & routously did make & assault,” etc.:—Held: on this indictment the jury could convict applt. of an assault.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1911), 104 L. T. 113; 75 J. P. 192; 27 T. L. R. 204; 55 Sol. Jo. 219; 22 Cox, C. C. 374; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 108, C. C. A.

3331. ——— Direction of jury by judge.]—R. v. NAYLOR, No. 3167, ante.

e. Husband & wife—Acquittal of wife—Effect of.]—A. & B. were jointly indicted for receiving stolen goods. B. was acquitted, because it appeared that she was the wife of A.:—Held: prisoners being jointly indicted, the acquittal of B. operated as a discharge of A.—R. v. CONNOLLY (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 280.—IR.

f. ———.]—Indictment charging husband & wife jointly with a felonious taking. The wife was acquitted, as being under the control of the husband:—Held: the husband was not entitled to an acquittal on the ground that the indictment charged the taking to be joint.—COLLINS' CASE (1841), Ir. Cir. Rep. 313.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—D. (a).

3330 i. General rule—At common law prisoner with having feloniously caused guilty of common assault in the absence of any enactment giving a jury liberty so to find, the verdict cannot stand.—R. v. LONGMUIR (1869), 6 W. W. & A. B. 237.—AUS.

3330 ii. ———.]—If the judge allows the indictment to go generally to the jury, it is not competent for him to withdraw from their consideration a verdict for any lesser offence which may be included in the indictment.—R. v. SCHERF (1908), 13 B. C. R. 407.—CAN.

3330 iii. ———.]—Where on an indictment for murder a prisoner, by virtue of Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 39, pleads not guilty to the offence charged, but guilty of manslaughter, of which he could be lawfully convicted on the indictment, the A.-G., representing the Crown, on refusing to ask for judgment on such special plea, is entitled to have the trial for murder proceed.—R. v. CLIFFORD (1914), 49 I. L. T. 28.—IR.

3331 i. ——— Direction of jury by judge.]—If on a criminal trial the judge correctly instructs the jury on the essential ingredients of the offence be disturbed by a suggestion that the jury, on one part of the evidence, might have found him guilty of a lesser offence, not referred to by counsel for the defence, if the judge had informed them that they were at liberty to do so.—Ross v. R., [1922] V. L. R. 329.—AUS.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, D. (a) & (b).]

3332. ————.]—R. v. PARKS, No. 3169, ante.
See, further, Sub-sect. 9, B., C.; sub-sect. 12, ante.

3333. Indictment for full offence—Conviction of attempt—Murder—Prevention of Offences Act, 1851 (c. 19), s. 9.]—R. v. CONNELL (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 178.

Annotation:—Distd. R. v. White, [1910] 2 K. B. 124.

3334. ————.]—A person who upon an indictment charging him with murder is convicted under s. 9 of the Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 9, of an attempt to murder, may be sentenced to penal servitude for life by virtue of the provisions of Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), ss. 11–15.—R. v. WHITE, [1910] 2 K. B. 124; 79 L. J. K. B. 854; 102 L. T. 784; 74 J. P. 318; 26 T. L. R. 466; 54 Sol. Jo. 523; 22 Cox, C. C. 325; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 257, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Robinson (1915), 79 J. P. 303.

3335. ———— House-breaking—Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 57.]—Upon an indictment, under the above Act, for breaking & entering a house with intent to commit a felony therein, prisoner may be convicted of the misdemeanour of attempting to commit a felony.—R. v. BAIN (1862), L. E. & Ca. 129; 31 L. J. M. C. 88; 5 L. T. 647; 26 J. P. 84; 8 Jur. N. S. 418; 10 W. R. 236; 9 Cox, C. C. 98, C. C. R.

3336. ———— Rape.]—H. was indicted for rape & W. for aiding & abetting. Both were acquitted of felony, but H. was found guilty of attempting to commit the rape, & W. of aiding H. in the attempt:—Held: W. was properly convicted.—R. v. HAPGOOD & WYATT (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 221; 39 L. J. M. C. 83; 21 L. T. 678; 34 J. P. 181; 18 W. R. 356; 11 Cox, C. C. 471, C. C. R.

3337. ———— Carnal knowledge.]—Under an indictment for unlawfully assaulting & having carnal knowledge of a girl between ten & twelve years of age, contrary to the statute, etc., prisoner may be convicted of the attempt to commit that offence.—R. v. RYLAND (1868), 18 L. T. 538; 16 W. R. 941; 11 Cox, C. C. 101, C. C. R.

3338. ———— Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 9.]—A prisoner was charged under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 5, with having had unlawful intercourse with a girl under the age of fourteen years. When before the

3333 i. Indictment for full offence.
*Conviction of attempt—Murder.]—*On an information for murder, the prisoner can be found guilty of the attempt to commit murder.—R. v. MATTHEWS (1863), 2 N. S. W. S. C. R. 227.—AUS.

3336 i. ———— Rape.]—On the trial of prisoner for rape prosecutrix swore positively that the offence was fully completed. The jury found a verdict of attempting to commit the offence. On objection being taken that there was no legal evidence to support the finding as it did not appear that prisoner according to the evidence ought to have been charged with attempting to commit the offence & not with the actual commission thereof:—Held: it was competent for the jury on the evidence before them to find a qualified verdict.—R. v. MITCHELL (1870), 9 N. S. W. S. C. R. 282.—AUS.

3336 ii. ————.]—R. v. WEBSTER (1858), 9 L. C. R. 196.—CAN.

3337 i. ———— Carnal knowledge.]—Prisoner was tried on an information charging him with having carnal knowledge of a girl under the age of 10 years. The jury found he was guilty of an assault with intent to have carnal knowledge of the girl,

& that the girl was over 10 years of age & under 14:—Held: prisoner was not on his trial for the offence of carnally knowing a girl between the ages of 10 & 14, & he could not be convicted of an assault with intent carnally to know such girl.—R. v. BUZZART (1884), 5 N. S. W. L. R. 419; 1 N. S. W. W. N. 73.—AUS.

—.]—Applt. was charged under Criminal Code, s. 188, with having had carnal knowledge of a girl under 16 years of age. He was convicted of having attempted to have unlawful carnal knowledge of the girl & was sentenced.—ABERNETHY v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 108.—AUS.

g. ———— False pretences.]—R. v. GORF* (1860), 9 C. P. 438.—CAN.

h. ————.]—On an indictment for the offence of having obtained money by false pretences, defts. cannot be convicted of the full offence when it is proved that by the discount of their promissory note they had only obtained a credit in account, such credit in account being a thing not capable of being stolen; but they might, if the evidence should establish an attempt to obtain the money, be convicted of such attempt.—R. v. BOYD, [1896] Q. R. 5 Q. B. 1.—CAN.

justices he gave evidence on oath:—Held: on the charge above mentioned prisoner might be found guilty of an attempt to commit the offence, the case being within the provisions of Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 9.—R. v. ADAMS (1886), 50 J. P. 136.

3339. ———— Although full offence impossible.]—On an indictment charging a person with breaking & entering a house & stealing certain specified chattels, he cannot, though he broke into the house with an intent to steal whatever he might find, be convicted of breaking & entering the house & attempting to steal, under Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 9, if the chattels in question had been removed from the house before the prisoner went to it.—R. v. M'PHERSON (1857), Dears. & B. 197; 26 L. J. M. C. 134; 29 L. T. O. S. 129; 21 J. P. 325; 3 Jur. N. S. 523; 5 W. R. 525; 7 Cox, C. C. 281, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Collins (1864), 9 Cox, C. C. 497.

3340. ————.]—R. v. COLLINS, No. 772, ante.

3341. ————.]—A conviction for an attempt at an offence may be supported, although the attempt could not possibly have culminated in the full offence in the manner intended.—R. v. BROWN (1880), 24 Q. B. D. 357; 59 L. J. M. C. 47; 61 L. T. 594; 54 J. P. 408; 38 W. R. 95; 16 Cox, C. C. 715, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Ring, Atkins & Jackson (1892), 61 L. J. M. C. 116. Consd. R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339.

3342. ————.]—In order to prove that an attempt to commit felony has been committed, it is necessary to prove that had the attempt not been frustrated the felony could have been committed.—R. v. RING, ATKINS & JACKSON (1892), 61 L. J. M. C. 116; 66 L. T. 300; 56 J. P. 552; 8 T. L. R. 326; 17 Cox, C. C. 491, C. C. R.

See, further, Part 1, Sect. 6, sub-sect. 6, ante.

3343. Indictment as principal—Conviction as accessory before the fact—Accessories & Abettors Act, 1861 (c. 94), ss. 1, 2.]—On an indictment under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 91, there may be a conviction as an accessory before the fact by virtue of Accessories & Abettors Act, 1861 (c. 94), ss. 1, 2.—R. v. GOODWIN (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 276, C. C. A.

3344. ———— Conviction as accessory after the fact.]—A prisoner indicted for larceny only cannot,

k. ———— Grievous bodily harm.]—Upon an indictment for doing grievous bodily harm, the jury may find a verdict of attempt to do grievous bodily harm.—R. v. MCCARTHY (1917), 41 O. L. R. 153; 13 O. W. N. 310; 11 Can. Crim. Cas. 448.—CAN.

1. Conviction of minor charge—On charge for graver offence.]—Deft. was indicted for that he "unlawfully poison, with intent thereby to endanger the life of the said B." The judge, being of opinion that there was no evidence to support the charge, amended the indictment so that it read, "did cause to be administered to or taken by B. certain poison, with intent thereby to injure, aggrieve, or annoy the said B." The jury found the deft. guilty of the offence charged in the amended indictment. Upon a case stated by the judge:—Held: deft. if not proved guilty of the offence charged in the original indictment, might, without any amendment, have been convicted of the offence of administering poison with intent to injure, aggrieve, or annoy; &, as the grand jury assented to the indictment for the major offence, they must be found to have approved of an indictment for the minor offence.—R. v.

on such an indictment alone, be acquitted of the felony, & convicted of being an accessory after the fact.—R. v. FALLON (1862), Le. & Ca. 217; 32 L. J. M. C. 66; 7 L. T. 471; 27 J. P. 5; 8 Jur. N. S. 1217; 11 W. R. 74; 9 Cox, C. C. 242; sub nom. R. v. FELLON, 1 New Rep. 68, C. C. R.
Annotation :—Consd. R. v. Watson, [1916] 2 K. B. 385.

3345. ———.]—On an indictment for murder a man cannot be convicted of manslaughter as an accessory after the fact.—RICHARDS v. R. (1897), 61 J. P. 389; 13 T. L. R. 254, D. C.
Annotation :—Consd. R. v. Watson, [1916] 2 K. B. 385.

3346. ———.]—Deft. & one T. were indicted as principals for a misdemeanour. The jury convicted T. & returned a verdict against deft. of being an accessory after the fact:—Held: a verdict of guilty ought not to have been entered against deft. on that finding by the jury.—R. v. BUBB (1906), 70 J. P. 143, C. C. R.

3347. ———.]—On an indictment for receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge there cannot be a conviction for being an accessory after the fact.—R. v. WATSON, [1916] 2 K. B. 385; 85 L. J. K. B. 1142; 115 L. T. 159; 80 J. P. 391; 32 T. L. R. 580; 25 Cox, C. C. 470; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 62, C. C. A.

(b) In Particular Cases.

3348. Indictment for murder—Verdict of manslaughter.]—MACKALEY'S CASE, No. 3288, ante.

3349. ———.]—BROMLEY'S CASE (1630), Het. 66; 124 E. R. 347.

Annotation :—Refd. Gray v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 427.

3350. ———.]—R. v. GREENWOOD (1857), 7 Cox, C. C. 404.

VOLL (1920), 48 O. L. R. 437; 57 D. L. R. 440; 19 O. W. N. 270.—CAN.

m. ———.]—When a person is charged with an offence consisting of parts, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence, he may be convicted of the latter without being specifically charged, but only when the graver charge gives notice of all the circumstances going to constitute the minor offence. Where a man charged with murder was convicted of abetment of it, the ct. annulled the conviction & sentence, & ordered him to be retried on the latter charge.—R. v. CHAND NUR (1874), 11 Bom. 240.—IND.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—D. (b).

3348 i. Indictment for murder—Verdict of manslaughter.]—Prisoner was charged in the presentment with murder. The crime was attempting to procure abortion. The judge held there was no evidence of murder to go to the jury, but left it to them to say if she was guilty of manslaughter by criminal negligence. The jury convicted her:—Held: prisoner was rightly convicted.—R. v. TAYLOR (1886), 12 V. L. R. 845.—AUS.

3348 ii. ———.]—On a charge of murder the jury are entitled to return a verdict of manslaughter, though on the facts the case is one of murder or nothing. On the trial of prisoners for murder the jury after it had been in deliberation for some hours, returned into ct., & asked the judge whether it was competent for them to find a verdict of manslaughter. The judge replied that it was, but gave no direction on the law of manslaughter:—Held: he was not bound to give them any direction on that point, as the case was one of murder or nothing, & he had so directed the jury in his original summing up.—R. v. GRIMES & LEE (1894), 15 N. S. W. L. R. 209; 10 N. S. W. W. N. 211.—AUS.

3348 iii. ———.]—On a trial for murder the jury are entitled to bring in verdict of manslaughter even though on the evidence the case is one of murder or nothing, & therefore where in answer to a question by the jury whether they were at liberty to find any other verdict than guilty or not guilty, the judge told them they were not:—Held: this was a misdirection.—BROWN v. R. (1913), 17 C. L. R. 570.—AUS.

3348 iv. ———.]—R. v. DI FRANCESCO (1918), 44 O. L. R. 75; 45 D. L. R. 488.—CAN.

n. ———.]—Verdict of concealment of birth.—On the trial of a mother & daughter for the murder of the infant child of the latter, the evidence which equally implicated both prisoners failed to establish the capital charge but was clear as to concealing the birth. The jury acquitted prisoner of murder & found the daughter guilty of concealing the birth of her child & the mother of being an accessory by aiding & assisting her daughter:—Held: mother was wrongly convicted.—R. v. HARRISON (1870), 9 N. S. W. S. C. R. 58.—AUS.

o. ———.]—On the trial of a prisoner for concealing the birth, on an indictment for the murder of an infant child, a verdict of the jury, "not guilty of the murder, but guilty of endeavouring to conceal the birth of the infant, which we find was prisoner's":—Held: bad, & judgment arrested.—BUNION'S CASE (1842), 1 Ir. Clr. Rep. 719.—IR.

p. ———.]—Verdict of assault.—On an indictment for murder, the jury found prisoner guilty of an assault only, & that such assault did not conduce to the death of deceased:—Held: on this finding prisoner could not be convicted of an assault.—R. v. CREGAN (1867), 1 Han. 36.—CAN.

q. ———.]—On an indictment for murder in the statutory form, not charging an assault, prisoner cannot be convicted of an assault; & his acquittal of the felony is therefore no bar to a subsequent indictment

3351. ———.]—Verdict of concealment of birth—Coroner's inquisition.]—Upon a trial on the coroner's inquest for the murder of a bastard child, a woman may be found guilty of concealment.—R. v. MAYNARD (1812), Russ. & Ry. 240, C. C. R.
Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Cole (1813), 3 Camp. 371.

3352. ———.]—A woman tried on the coroner's inquest for the murder of her bastard child may be found guilty under 43 Geo. 3, c. 58, s. 4, of endeavouring to conceal the birth.—R. v. COLE (1813), 3 Camp. 371; 2 Leach, 1095.

3353. ———.]—43 Geo. 3, c. 58, which authorised the jury on an indictment for the murder of a child to find that the accused had endeavoured to conceal the birth, applies as well to proceedings under a coroner's inquisition, as under an indictment found by the grand jury (HOLROYD, J.).—R. v. DOBSON (1824), 1 Lew. C. C. 43.

3354. Indictment for manslaughter—Verdict of cruelty to child—Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 12 (4).]—By sect. 12, sub-sect. 4, of above Act, "Upon the trial of any person over the age of sixteen indicted for the manslaughter of a child or young person of whom he had the custody, charge or care, it shall be lawful for the jury, if they are satisfied that the accused is guilty of an offence under this sect. in respect of such child or young person, to find the accused guilty of such offence."—R. v. TONKS, [1916] 1 K. B. 443; 85 L. J. K. B. 396; 114 L. T. 81; 80 J. P. 165; 32 T. L. R. 137; 60 Sol. Jo. 122; 25 Cox, C. C. 228; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 284, C. C. A.

3355. Indictment for wounding with intent to

for the assault.—R. v. SMITH (1874), 34 U. C. R. 552.—CAN.

r. ———.]—On an indictment for murder in the short form, a prisoner cannot be convicted of an assault.—R. v. MULHOLLAND (1881), 20 N. B. R. 512.—CAN.

s. Indictment for infanticide—Verdict of concealment of birth.]—R. v. NORDEN (1873), 12 N. S. W. S. C. R. 160.—AUS.

t. *Indictment for manslaughter—Verdict of assault.]—There can be no conviction for an assault unless the indictment charges an assault in terms, or a felony necessarily including it, which manslaughter is not. Where, therefore, the indictment was for manslaughter, charging that defts. "did feloniously kill & slay" one D.:—Held: a conviction for assault could not be sustained.—R. v. DINGMAN (1863), 22 U. C. R. 283.—*CAN.

a. ———.]—On an indictment charging manslaughter by wounding, prisoner if acquitted of the felony cannot be convicted of an assault.—R. v. SIROIS (1887), 27 N. B. R. 610.—CAN.

b. ———.]—A prisoner having been arraigned upon two indictments, the one for manslaughter, the other for an aggravated assault, including a count for a common assault, & the latter indictment having been abandoned by counsel for the Crown, who had been put to their election, the jury may find prisoner guilty of a common assault, under the indictment for manslaughter.—DORAN'S CASE (1841), 1 Ir. Clr. Rep. 111.—IR.

3355 i. Indictment for wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm—Verdict of unlawful wounding.]—Two persons were indicted for assaulting & putting the prosecutor in bodily fear, & stealing money from his person, & immediately afterwards feloniously wounding him. The jury returned a verdict of assault, but the judge sent them back to reconsider it:—Held: he was right in doing so, do grievous bodily harm—Verdict of unlawful wounding.]—R. v. CUNNINGHAM*, No. 3323, ante.

Sect. 7.—The

3356. ———.]—Upon an indictment charging a felonious shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm, & doing grievous bodily harm, it is not competent for the jury to convict of unlawfully wounding.—R. v. MILLER (1879), 14 Cox, C. C. 356.

3357. ———.]—R. v. WAUDBY*, No. 708, ante.

3358. Indictment for wounding with intent to murder—Verdict of unlawful wounding.]—R. v. PARKS*, No. 3169, ante.

3359. Indictment for unlawful wounding—Verdict of assault.]—Upon a count for assaulting, beating, wounding, & occasioning actual bodily harm against the statute prisoner may be convicted of a common assault.—R. v. OLIVER (1860), Bell, C. C. 287; 30 L. J. M. C. 12; 3 L. T. 311; 24 J. P. 742; 6 Jur. N. S. 1214; 9 W. R. 60; 8 Cox, C. C. 384, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Guthrie (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 241.

3360. ———.]—Upon an indictment charging defts. in the first count with inflicting grievous bodily harm; in the second count with unlawfully & maliciously cutting, stabbing & wounding, & in the third count with assaulting & occasioning actual bodily harm; the jury returned a verdict of guilty of a common assault. The

& in directing the jury that they could find prisoners guilty of an assault with intent to rob, or stealing from the person, or an unlawful wounding, but not of common assault.—R. v. WILLIAMS & FERGUSON (1877), 3 C. A. 370; 2 J. R. N. S. 42.—N.Z.

c. — Verdict of assault.]—An indictment charging prisoner with having maliciously assaulted M. & cut him with a knife, with intent to do him grievous bodily harm, concluding contra formam statuti:—Held: bad, the means used to manifest the design to commit a felony not being set out with sufficient particularity. A conviction could not stand for an assault. If the indictment does not charge a felony including an assault, prisoner cannot be convicted of an assault.—R. v. MAGEE (1850), 2 All. 14.—CAN.

d. — Verdict of wounding without intent.]—An indictment charged accused with wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The wounding was by a shot from a revolver. The jury were directed that if they thought that the revolver had been fired in a spirit of general bravado, not aiming at the injured person, but in a grossly careless & reckless manner, they might, though they should acquit of the crime charged, convict of wounding. No amendment of the indictment was applied for or made. The jury found a verdict of "wounding without intent." It was contended that this verdict could be supported as a verdict of guilty on the grounds that the indictment necessarily meant a charge of unlawfully wounding with intent, & that unlawfully wounding was a sufficient description of an offence:—Held: both these propositions were so doubtful that a verdict of not guilty ought to be entered.—R. v. LOONEY (1897), 16 N. Z. L. R. 269.—N.Z.

3359 i. Indictment for unlawful wounding—Verdict of assault.]—L. was tried on an indictment containing four counts. The first charged that he did unlawfully, etc., kick, strike, wound & do grievous bodily harm to W., with intent, etc., to maim; the second charged the assault as in first with intent to disfigure; the third charged the intent to disable; the fourth charged the intent to do some grievous bodily harm. Prisoner was found guilty of a common assault:—Held: he was rightly convicted.—R. v. LACKEY (1877), 1 P. & B. 194.—CAN.

e. Indictment for unlawful & malicious wounding—Verdict of unlawful wounding.]—Prisoner was charged with unlawfully & maliciously wounding & was found guilty of unlawfully wounding:—Held: as prisoner was charged with a statutory offence he could be convicted of that offence only, & the words "& maliciously" necessary to uphold the conviction could not be inserted.—R. v. ROTHE (1873), 12 N. S. W. S. C. R. 164.—AUS.

f. — Verdict of assault.]—Deft. was charged in the information with unlawfully & maliciously wounding B. The jury were told that deft. might upon that information be found guilty of an assault occasioning bodily harm, & they found a verdict accordingly:—Held: conviction must be set aside as information did not contain a special count for an assault occasioning actual bodily harm.—R. v. JENKINS (1877), Knox, 295.—AUS.

g. — Verdict of malicious wounding.]—The conviction charged that prisoner did "unlawfully & maliciously cut & wound one K. with intent to do her grievous bodily harm":—Held: if not sufficient to charge a felony, it was a good conviction for a misdemeanour, the necessary statement of the intent being immaterial.—Re BOUCHER (1879), 4 A. R. 191.—CAN.

h. Indictment for malicious wounding—Verdict of unlawful wounding.]—On the trial of prisoner with unlawfully wounding with intent the judge told the jury that it was competent for them if they negatived the intent to find a verdict of maliciously wounding. The jury, however, in the place of finding prisoner guilty of maliciously wounding found him guilty of unlawfully wounding:—Held: the verdict did not amount to chairman declined to take that verdict, on the ground that a common assault was not included in the indictment, & told the jury to reconsider their verdict. The jury then found defts. guilty, & a verdict was entered of guilty of an assault occasioning bodily harm, whereupon the chairman sentenced prisoners:—Held: the first verdict ought to have been taken, & the second ought not, & prisoners ought not to undergo the sentence; there had been a mistrial, & a venire de novo should issue.—R. v. YEADON & BIRCH (1861), Le. & Ca. 81; 31 L. J. M. C. 70; 5 L. T. 329; 26 J. P. 148; 7 Jur. N. S. 1128; 10 W. R. 64; 9 Cox, C. C. 91, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Taylor (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 194; R. v. Guthrie (1870), 39 L. J. M. C. 95; Crane v. Public Prosecutor [1921] 2 A. C. 299. Reid. R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339.

3361. ———.]—An indictment charged prisoner in the first count with "unlawfully & maliciously wounding," & in the second count with "unlawfully & maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm." The jury found prisoner guilty of an assault:—Held: prisoner could be properly convicted of an assault on the indictment.—R. v. TAYLOR (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 194; 38 L. J. M. C. 106; 20 L. T. 402; 33 J. P. 358; 17 W. R. 623; 11 Cox, C. C. 261, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Guthrie (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 241. Consd. R. v. Day & Cox (1870), 22 L. T. 452; R. v. Clarence (1888), 22 Q. B. D. 23. Reid. Bousler v. R. (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 284; R. v. Bostock (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 700. Mentd. R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423.

one of maliciously wounding & the conviction was set aside.—R. v. LEE (1894), 15 N. S. W. L. R. 445.—AUS.

k. Indictment for wounding with intent—Verdict of guilty without malicious intent.]—Upon an indictment for wounding by shooting with intent to disable, the jury is properly instructed that if such intent is negatived accused may still be convicted of the simple offence of wounding, if the jury find that accused pointed a loaded gun at another & fired it, & either knew, or ought to have known, that it was loaded. A verdict upon such indictment of "guilty without malicious intent" is a verdict of guilty of such lesser offence.—SLAUGHERWHITE v. R. (1904), 35 S. C. R. 607.—CAN.

l. Indictment for shooting with felonious intent—Verdict of assault.]—Upon an indictment for shooting with a felonious intent prisoner, if acquitted of the felony, may be convicted of common assault.—R. v. CRONAN (1874), 24 C. P. 106.—CAN.

m. Indictment for shooting with intent to murder—Verdict of shooting with intent to maim, etc.]—Upon an indictment for shooting with intent to murder, a verdict of guilty of shooting with intent to maim, disfigure, or disable, or to do some other grievous bodily harm, may be found.—R. v. KERR (1912), 21 W. L. R. 652; 3 D. L. R. 720.—CAN.

n. — Verdict of assault.]—Deft. was charged with shooting with intent to kill:—Held: upon his trial for that offence he might be convicted of a common assault.—R. v. CHARTLAND (1912), 21 W. L. R. 850; 20 Can. Crim. Cas. 116; 2 W. W. R. 773.—CAN.

o. ———.]—Upon the trial of accused upon an indictment for shooting with intent to kill or do grievous bodily harm, the judge refused to convict accused of the offence charged; but, a common assault being admitted, convicted the accused of that offence.—R. v. JOHNSON (1913), 24 W. L. R. 468; 10 D. L. R. 822.—CAN.

p. Indictment for unlawfully inflicting grievous bodily harm—Verdict

3362. S. P.—R. v. CANWELL & DUNN (1869), 20 L. T. 402, 403; 33 J. P. 358; 17 W. R. 623; 11 Cox, C. C. 261, 263, C. C. R.

3363. Indictment for robbery with violence—Verdict of assault.—If, on the trial of an indictment for a robbery with violence, the robbery be not proved, prisoner cannot be found guilty of the assault only, unless it appear that such assault was committed in the progress of something which, when completed, would be, & with intent to commit, a felony.—R. v. GREENWOOD (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 330.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Auty (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 282.

3364. ————]—Under Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 11, if a robbery under aggravated circumstances be charged in the indictment :—Held : the jury may find an aggravated felonious assault with intent to rob.—R. v. MITCHELL (1852), 3 Car. & Kir. 181; 2 Den. 468; 21 L. J. M. C. 135; 19 L. T. O. S. 221; 16 J. P. 377; 16 Jur. 506; 5 Cox, C. C. 541, C. C. R.

See, now, Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 44.

3365. Indictment for assault with intent to rob—Verdict of assault—Not subsequent assault.—On an indictment for an assault with intent to rob, prisoner cannot be convicted of a common assault for an assault committed subsequently to that in which the felonious intent is charged.—R. v. SANDYS (1844), 1 Cox, C. C. 8.

3366. ————]—Prisoners were indicted for feloniously assaulting prosecutor with intent to rob him. The jury found them guilty of an assault, but negatived the intent charged :—Held : prisoners could not, upon this indictment & finding, be convicted of a common assault.—R. v. WOODHALL & WILKES (1872), 12 Cox, C. C. 240.

3367. Indictment for assault on gamekeepers—Verdict of assault—Separate count for assault abandoned.—D. & E. were charged on an indictment for assaulting persons lawfully authorised to seize prisoners, who were found on land at night, armed with a gun for the purpose of taking game. At the trial prosecutor's counsel abandoned the count for a common assault :—Held : a verdict of guilty of a common assault could not be given on the first count after the other count was abandoned.—R. v. DAY & COX (1870), 22 L. T. 452; 34 J. P. 355; 11 Cox, C. C. 505, C. C. R.

3368. Indictment for riot & assault—Verdict of assault.—On an indictment for a riot & an assault, defts. may be found guilty of the assault, & acquitted of the riot.—R. v. HEMINGS (1680), 2 Show. 93; 89 E. R. 816.

3369. ————]—Indictment for a riot & assault, acquittal of the riot is so of the assault.—R. v. HEAPS (1699), 2 Salk. 593; 91 E. R. 502; sub nom. R. v. SUDBURY, HEAPES, ETC., 1 Ld. Raym. 484; 12 Mod. Rep. 262.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. O'Brien (1911), 104 L. T. 113. Refd. R. v. Kinnersley & Moore (1719), 1 Stra. 193; R. v. Nicols (1742), 13 East, 412, n.; R. v. Crispin (1848), 17 L. J. M. C. 128; R. v. Plummer, [1902] 2 K. B. 339.

3370. ————]—R. v. O'BRIEN, No. 3330, ante.

3371. Indictment for rape—Verdict of assault.—Where a man is indicted for rape upon a child under the age of 12 years under 38 & 39 Vict. (c. 94), s. 3, he cannot upon that indictment be found guilty of an assault, indecent or otherwise.—R. v. CATHERALL (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 109.

3372. ———— Verdict of unlawful carnal knowledge—Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 9.—By sect. 9 of the above Act, where a prisoner is charged with rape, if the jury shall be satisfied that he is guilty of an offence under sect. 5 of that Act, & are not satisfied that he is guilty of the felony, the jury may acquit him of the felony, & find him guilty of such offence.—R. v. COTTON (1896), 60 J. P. 824.

3373. ———— Verdict of indecent assault—Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 9.—The

for assault.—R. v. CARVERY (1920), 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 117.—CAN.

q. Indictment for felonious stabbing—Verdict of assault.—A prisoner having pleaded not guilty to an indictment for feloniously stabbing, cannot withdraw that plea, & submit to a common assault; but the jury may acquit of the felony, & find him guilty of the assault.—MOORE'S CASE (1842), 1r. Cir. Rep. 653.—IR.

3363 i. Indictment for robbery with violence—Verdict of assault.—Where prisoner acted in the bona fide belief that he had been swindled, & in the belief that he was entitled to retake the money, committed an assault for that purpose alone, & did retake the money, or a portion of it, in that sole & bona fide belief, the jury, on consideration of the facts, would be justified in acquitting him on a charge of robbery, although it was open to them, on the same facts, to convict for assault.—R. v. FORD & ARMSTRONG (1907), 13 B. C. R. 109.—CAN.

r. ———— Verdict of larceny.—Three persons being joined in an indictment for robbery, one cannot be found guilty of robbery & the rest of larceny.—R. v. QUAIL (1833), 1 Craw. & D. 191.—IR.

s. ————]—Upon an indictment for robbery, prisoner may be acquitted of the robbery, & convicted of the larceny.—R. v. M'KENNA (1826), 1 Craw. & D. 192, n.—IR.

3366 i. Indictment for assault with intent to rob—Verdict of assault.—Prisoners were indicted for assault with intent to rob. The jury found a verdict of assault. A motion in arrest of judgment on the part of prisoners on the ground that under the indictment they could not be convicted of common assault was rejected :—Held : sustaining the verdict, a prisoner indicted for assault with intent to rob, may be convicted of simple assault.—It. v. O'NEIL (1881), 8 Q. L. R. 3.—CAN.

t. Indictment for felonious assault—Verdict of assault.—On an indictment for felonious assault, prisoner may be found guilty of an assault only.—R. v. RYAN (1868), 1 Han. 116.—CAN.

a. ————]—7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 85, s. 11, was enacted for the purpose of enabling juries to find prisoners guilty of an assault in cases where the indictment being for felony, the evidence had established an assault only, but not the felony, & did not apply to cases where it appeared that a felony had been committed.—R. v. EVERS (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 284.—IR.

b. ————]—A prisoner may be found guilty of a common assault upon an indictment framed under 10 Geo. 4, c. 34, s. 29, & which did not contain a count for a common assault.—R. v. STANLEY (1841), Arm. M. & O. 199.—IR.

c. Indictment for aggravated assault—Verdict of assault.—When the evidence must sustain an indictment for an aggravated assault, it is improper to insert a count for a common assault. When the indictment is for aggravated assault only, the jury may find the prisoner guilty of a common assault; but semble, not without the express direction of the judge to that effect.—R. v. SHORT (1842), Arm. M. & O. 322.—IR.

d. Indictment for riot & assault—

Verdict of riot.—Deft. was indicted for a riot & assault, & the jury found him guilty of a riot, but not of the assault charge :—Held : a conviction for riot could not be sustained, the assault, the object of the riotous assembly, not having been executed, although deft. might have been guilty of riot or joining in an unlawful assembly.—R. v. KELLY (1857), 6 C. P. 372.—CAN.

e. Indictment for demolishing house—Verdict of riot.—R. v. CASEY (1874), 1 R. 8 C. L. 408.—IR.

3371 i. Indictment for rape—Verdict of assault.—R. v. JOHN (1886), 11 L. N. 313.—CAN.

3371 ii. ————]—A prisoner indicted for rape may be found guilty of common assault.—R. v. EDWARDS (1898), 29 O. R. 451.—CAN.

3371 iii. ————]—On an indictment for rape a conviction for assault with intent to commit rape is valid.—JOHN v. R. (1888), 15 S. C. R. 384.—CAN.

3371 iv. ————]—On a trial for rape the jury is at liberty to find prisoner guilty of an assault with intent to commit a rape, although the evidence of prosecutrix goes to show that the offence, if any, is that of rape.—R. v. LOVEGROVE (1885), 4 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 72.—N.Z.

f. Verdict of minor offence—Under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69).—A jury may by virtue of the provisions of sect. 9 of the above Act, convict a panel of an offence under sect. 5, notwithstanding that the indictment does not set forth that Act.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. WATSON (1885), 13 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 6; 23 Sc. L. R. 267.—*SCOT.

g. ————]—H.M. ADVOCATE

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, D. (b).]

effect of the above Act is to set aside R. v. Flattery (2 Q. B. D. 410, C. C. R.), & it is a good defence to an indictment for rape that the carnal knowledge alleged in the indictment was had with the consent of the woman, even though such consent had been obtained by fraud, but the prisoner may be convicted of an indecent assault.—R. v. O'SHAY (1898), 19 Cox, C. C. 76.

Annotation:—Dtd. R. v. Williams, [1923] 1 K. B. 340. The decision in R. v. O'Shay was given under a misapprehension; it is not a binding authority (LORD HEWART, C.J.).

3374. Indictment for assault & carnal knowledge—Verdict of assault.]—Indictment, that prisoner "in & upon one D., a girl above the age of ten years, & under the age of twelve years, unlawfully did make an assault, & her, the said D., did then unlawfully & carnally know & abuse, against the form of the statute," etc. The offence of carnally knowing the girl was disproved, but the jury found prisoner guilty of a common assault:—Held: prisoner might be properly convicted of a common assault, on the ground that the indictment charged two distinct misdemeanours, viz. of assaulting & also of carnally knowing D., & prisoner might be found guilty of either of them.—R. v. GUTHRIE (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 241; 39 L. J. M. C. 95; 22 L. T. 485; 34 J. P. 501; 18 W. R. 792; 11 Cox, C. C. 522, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bostock (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 700. Refd. R. v. Coney (1882), 8 Q. B. D. 534; Boaler v. R. (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 284.

3375. ———.]—Upon an indictment the first count of which charged prisoner under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 5, with unlawfully & carnally knowing a girl between the ages of thirteen & sixteen years, & the second count

CATE v. BARBOUR (1887), 1 White, 466.—SCOT.

h. ———.]—Under an indictment libelling only a common law charge of rape, it is competent, by virtue of sect. 9 of the above Act, where the girl assaulted is proved to be under thirteen years of age, for the jury to bring in a verdict of unlawfully defiling, or attempting to defile, under sect. 4 of that Act.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. McLAREN (1897), 2 Adam, 395; 25 R. (Cl. of Sess.) 25; 35 Sc. L. R. 52; 5 S. L. T. 170.—SCOT.

k. ———.]—Sect. 9 of the above Act provides that on any indictment charging the crime of rape, the jury may convict of any of the offences in sects. 3, 4, & 5, of that Act & acquit the panel of the charge of rape.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. HENDERSON (1888), 2 White, 157.—SCOT.

l. ———.]—In the course of the trial of an accused on a complaint which only libelled a common law charge of attempt to ravish, prosecutor withdrew the charge, & asked for, & obtained from the jury, a verdict of guilty of a contravention of sect. 5 of the above Act:—Held: while the power created by sect. 9 of the Act was available to a prosecutor although the Act had not been libelled in the complaint or indictment, it was not so available where accused was not charged with committing one of the specified crimes, but only with attempting to do so, & where the original charge had been withdrawn from the jury with the result that they could not, as required by sect. 9, acquit accused of that charge before finding him guilty of the minor offence; in any event, the verdict could not stand in respect that sect. 5 of the Act created more than one offence, & that it was impossible to tell from the verdict of the jury of which of these offences accused had been found guilty.—TOWNSEND v. H.M. ADVOCATE, [1914] S. C. (J.) 85.—SCOT.

m. Indictment for unlawful carnal knowledge—Verdict of indecent assault.]—Indictment that prisoner "in & upon one R., a girl under the age of fourteen years, feloniously did make an assault, & her, the said R., then & there feloniously did unlawfully & carnally know & abuse," etc. The evidence showed that the girl was between the age of eight & nine years, & that the acts complained of were committed with her tacit consent, which consent was not procured by force or intimidation. The jury acquitted the prisoner of the felony, but found him guilty of indecent assault:—Held: the conviction was right.—R. v. BRUCE (1891), 7 Man. L. R. 627.—CAN.

n. ———.]—Verdict of assault.]—*Prisoner was indicted for carnally knowing a child under ten years of age, & being acquitted by the jury on this charge, was found guilty of a common assault, without the child's consent:—Held: the conviction was wrong, since an assault on the person is no legal ingredient in the offence charged.—R. v. WELDON (1845), 1 Legge, 250.—AUS.

o. ———.]—Deft. was charged with carnal knowledge of a girl under the age of ten years. The judge directed the jury that they might find deft. guilty of an assault with intent to commit the offence charged:—Held: he was not bound to tell them that they might also find deft. guilty of an attempt to commit the offence.—R. v. KROGH (1878), 1 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 136.—AUS.

p. Indictment for indecent assault—Verdict of assault.]—Deft. was tried on an information which charged him with having committed an indecent assault on a female child under the of which charged him with an indecent assault upon the girl:—Held: prisoner could be convicted of a common assault.—R. v. BOSTOCK (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 700.

3376. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted under the statute for carnally knowing a child under the age of ten years:—Held: in default of proof of actual connection, prisoner might be convicted of an assault under 7 Will. 4 & 1 Vict., c. 85, s. 11.—R. v. NICHOLLS (1851), 15 J. P. 357.

3377. Indictment for unlawful carnal knowledge—Verdict of indecent assault—Though accused incapable of committing full offence.]—R. v. WILLIAMS*, No. 204, ante.

3378. Indictment for incest—Verdict of indecent assault—Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 9—Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), s. 4 (3).]—S. was charged on an indictment with incest, contrary to Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), s. 1. The particulars of the offence alleged that he had had carnal knowledge of a female person who was to his knowledge his daughter, she then being a girl under the age of thirteen years, to wit, of the age of nine years. The jury convicted S. of indecent assault:—Held: by virtue of above Acts & since the offence was charged in respect of a girl under the age of thirteen years, the conviction was good.—R. v. SIMMONITE, [1916] 2 K. B. 821; 86 L. J. K. B. 15; 115 L. T. 616; 81 J. P. 80; 25 Cox, C. C. 544; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

3379. Indictment for burglary & larceny—Verdict of larceny.]—On an indictment of burglary, prisoner may be acquitted of the breaking & found guilty of stealing in the dwelling-house to the amount of forty shillings.—R. v. WITHAL (1772), 1 Leach, 88, C. C. R.

age of twelve years. The judge in summing up told the jury they might find prisoner guilty of common assault, but he did not draw a distinction between the offences nor tell the jury that an assault must be either without or against consent. The jury found deft. guilty of a common assault. The facts showed that there was no consent:—Held: the verdict of common assault was admissible under the information, but as the attention of the jury was not called to the question of consent the conviction ought to be quashed.—R. v. BRADY (1876), 14 N. S. W. S. C. R. 468.—AUS.

q. ———.]—In support of a prosecution against deft. for having committed an indecent assault upon a girl of the age of thirteen years, deft. was acquitted of indecent assault, but convicted of simple assault:—Held: the conviction was valid.—R. v. GRANTYERS, [1893] Q. R. 2 Q. B. 376.—CAN.

r. Indictment for unnatural offence—Verdict of assault.]—Deft., a boy, under the age of fourteen years, was tried & convicted of the offence of committing an unnatural offence upon the person of a younger boy:—Held: deft. was incapable of committing the offence charged, & the conviction must, therefore, be set aside; if the act was committed against the will of the other party deft. could be punished for an assault.—R. v. HARTLEN (1893), 30 N. S. R. 317.—CAN.

3379 i. Indictment for burglary & larceny—Verdict of larceny.]—Prisoners, being armed, forcibly entered a dwelling-house, put the persons being therein in fear, & carried away the property specified in the indictment:—Held: although it appeared that a robbery had been committed, there might, nevertheless, be a conviction for

3380. — Form of verdict.—R. v. HUNGERFORD (1790), 2 East, P. C. 518.

3381. — ——R. v. BUTTERWORTH, No. 3319, ante.

3382. — Or of housebreaking.—On an indictment for burglary, by breaking into a house in the night time, & stealing to the value of £5 or more, prisoner may be convicted of burglary, or of housebreaking, or of stealing in a dwelling-house to the value of £5.—R. v. COMPTON (1828), 3 C. & P. 418.

3383. Indictment for housebreaking—Verdict of larceny.—R. v. BULLOCK (1825), 1 Mood. C. C. 3 24, n., C. C. R.

3384. Indictment for warehouse breaking—Verdict of larceny.—An indictment for breaking into a warehouse & stealing goods, stated the offence to have been committed in the parish of St. Peter the Great, in the county of W. It appeared that only part of the parish of St. Peter the Great was in the county of W.:—Held: the indictment could not be supported for the breaking into the warehouse, but it was sufficient for the larceny.—R. v. BROOKES (1842), Car. & M. 543.

3385. Indictment for horse-stealing—Verdict of simple larceny.—An indictment for horse-stealing must give the animal one of the descriptions mentioned in the statute. Therefore an indictment for stealing a colt, not saying whether it was horse or mare, will not be sufficient to take away clergy; but prisoner may be convicted for simple larceny.—R. v. BEANEY (1820), Russ. & Ry. 416, C. C. R.

3386. Indictment for larceny—Verdict of cheating.—On an indictment for felony, if the jury find a special verdict that the money was obtained by playing with false dice, the ct. may give judgment for the trespass & misdemeanour.—LEESER'S CASE (1618), Cro. Jac. 497; 79 E. R. 424.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Westbeer (1739), 1 Leach, 12.

3387. — In dwelling-house—Verdict of larceny.—Prisoners were indicted for stealing in a dwelling-house, persons being therein & put in fear:—Held: prisoners were properly convicted of larceny.—R. v. ETHERINGTON (1795), 2 Leach, 671; 2 East, P. C. 635, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. Peake v. Carrington (1821), 5 Moore, C. P. 176.

3388. — Of lead, fixtures, etc.—Verdict of simple larceny.—A person on a count, in the usual form, for stealing lead affixed to a building, cannot be convicted of larceny.—R. v. GOOCH & DEVONSHIRE (1838), 8 C. & P. 293.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Molloy, [1921] 2 K. B. 364.

larceny.—R. v. BLACKBURN (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 188.—IR.

s. — Verdict of minor offence.—On a trial for offences, although the alleged intention, viz. to commit theft has failed, the ct. can convict accused of a minor offence if he has not been prejudiced thereby.—KARALI PRASAD GURU v. R. (1916), 1 L. R. 44 Cal. 358.—IND.

t. Indictment for burglary—Verdict of recel.—Pltf. was tried on an indictment found against him for a charge of burglary, & the jury rendered a verdict of guilty of recel, upon which verdict pltf. in error was sentenced to be confined for two years in the penitentiary:—Held: no such verdict could be rendered on the charge of burglary for which pltf. in error was tried, & no judgment be pronounced on such verdict, which was accordingly set aside.—ST. LAURENT v. R. (1881), 7 Q. L. R. 47.—CAN.

a. Indictment for larceny—Verdict of embezzlement of proceeds of sale.—Prisoner was indicted for larceny of bottles belonging to his master who had commissioned him to sell them, but did not return to his employment or give up the proceeds:—Held: he could not be convicted of embezzling the proceeds.—R. v. MOHOMET (1881), 2 N. S. W. L. R. 89.—AUS.

b. — Verdict of false pretences.—A deft. indicted for a misdemeanour for obtaining money under false pretences, cannot under C. S. C. c. 99, s. 62, be found guilty of larceny. That clause only authorises a conviction for the misdemeanour though the facts proved amount to larceny. Where a deft. on such an indictment had been found guilty of larceny:—Held: the ct. had no power under C. S. U. C. c. 112, s. 3, to direct the verdict to be entered as one of guilty, without the additional words.—R. v. EWING (1862), 21 U. C. R. 523.—CAN.

c. — ——R. v. BERTLES (1863), 13 C. P. 607.—CAN.

d. — Verdict of recel.—K. was tried on an indictment libelling two charges of sheep-stealing. The jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty under the first charge, & under the second charge find accused guilty of reset":—Held: this verdict was

3389. — —— Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 8 (1).—On an indictment under above Act, for stealing fixtures prisoner cannot be convicted of simple larceny.—R. v. MOLLOY, [1921] 2 K. B. 364; 90 L. J. K. B. 862; 85 J. P. 233; 37 T. L. R. 611; 65 Sol. Jo. 534; 27 Cox C. C. 34; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 170, C. C. A.

3390. — As a servant—Verdict of simple larceny.—An indictment charged that prisoner whilst servant of A. stole the money of A. It appeared that prisoner was not the servant of A. but the servant of B.:—Held: prisoner might be convicted of simple larceny.—R. v. JENNINGS (1858), Dears. & B. 447; 30 L. T. O. S. 292; 22 J. P. 97; 4 Jur. N. S. 146; 6 W. R. 231; 7 Cox, C. C. 397, C. C. R.

3391. — As bailee—Whether verdict of obtaining by false pretences good—If offence is in fact larceny.—Applt. was tried on an indictment which charged her with larceny as a bailee. The jury acquitted applt. on the charge of larceny but convicted her of obtaining by false pretences:—Held: the conviction must be quashed. Under Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 44, the jury can find prisoner guilty of obtaining the goods by false pretences, but only in circumstances which amount to an acquittal of the larceny.—R. v. FISHER (1921), 91 L. J. K. B. 145; 86 J. P. 29; 66 Sol. Jo. 109; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

3392. Indictment for receiving—Verdict good though property embezzled & not stolen.—On a charge for receiving goods knowing them to have been feloniously stolen & carried away, prisoner may be convicted if the goods have been embezzled, & he received them knowing them to have been embezzled.—R. v. FRAMPTON (1858), Dears. & B. 585; 27 L. J. M. C. 229; 31 L. T. O. S. 137; 22 J. P. 338; 4 Jur. N. S. 560; 6 W. R. 514; 8 Cox, C. C. 16, C. C. R.

3393. — Knowing goods to be "feloniously stolen"—Verdict of common law misdemeanour of receiving.—An indictment which alleges that prisoner unlawfully received certain good well knowing them to have been feloniously stolen, against the form of the statute, etc., but not containing the words "& feloniously" after unlawfully, is a good indictment for the common law misdemeanour of receiving.—R. v. GARLAND, [1910] 1 K. B. 154; 79 L. J. K. B. 239; 102 L. T. 254; 74 J. P. 135; 26 T. L. R. 130; 22 Cox, C. C. 292; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 199, C. C. A.

3394. Indictment for uttering counterfeit coin

competent, & contained sufficient specification of the crime of which the jury convicted accused.—KENNEY v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1896), 2 Adam. 51; 23 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 28; 33 Sc. L. R. 265; 3 S. L. T. 236.—SCOT.

e. — Verdict of misdemeanour.—Prisoner having picked up certain goods that had floated away from the wreck of a steamer, appropriated them to his own use. He was indicted for larceny, the property in the goods being laid in the captain of the steamer, but at the trial the judge instructed the jury that they could not convict him of larceny. The prosecution then claimed a conviction for a misdemeanour, & the jury found accordingly:—Held: the conviction must be sustained.—R. v. MARTIN (1872), 9 N. S. R. 124.—CAN.

f. Indictment for stealing & receiving—Verdict of illegally using.—Appets. were charged with stealing cattle & also with feloniously receiving cattle knowing them to have been stolen. The judge explained to the jury the verdict which they were entitled to return describing it as

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, D. (b), E. & F.]

after previous conviction—Verdict of uttering only.]

—Prisoner was indicted for the felony of uttering counterfeit coin after a previous conviction for a like offence. The jury found him guilty of the uttering, but negatived the previous conviction:—Held: he could not be convicted of the misdemeanour of uttering.—R. v. THOMAS (1875), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 141; 44 L. J. M. C. 42; 31 L. T. 849; 39 J. P. 212; 23 W. R. 344; 13 Cox, C. C. 52.—C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Russell (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 78.

3395. Indictment for perjury—Verdict of swearing false oath.]—A false oath, sworn in an affidavit for the purpose of procuring the registration of a bill of sale, is a misdemeanour at common law, of which a person may be found guilty upon an indictment for setting out the facts, & concluding with the usual averment of "wilful & corrupt perjury," which concluding words may be rejected as surplusage.—R. v. HODGKISS (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 212; 39 L. J. M. C. 14; 21 L. T. 564; 34 J. P. 104; 18 W. R. 150; 11 Cox, C. C. 365, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. Boaler v. R. (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 284. Refd. R. v. Thomas (1875), 31 L. T. 849.

3396. Indictment for composing, printing, & publishing libel—Verdict of publishing only.]—Deft. may be found guilty upon a count in an information which charges him with having composed, printed & published a libel, if he is proved to have published without having composed it.—R. v. HUNT (1811), 2 Camp. 583; 31 State Tr. 367.

Annotation:—Mentd. Darby v. Ouseley (1856), 1 H. & N. 1.

3397. Indictment for publishing defamatory libel "knowing the same to be false"—Verdict of publishing only.]—On an indictment for publishing a defamatory libel "knowing the same to be false" deft. may be convicted of merely publishing a defamatory libel.—BOALER v. R. (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 284; 57 L. J. M. C. 85; 59 L. T. 554; 52 J. P. 791; 37 W. R. 29; 4 T. L. R. 565; 16 Cox, C. C. 488; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. R. v. BOALER (1892), 67 L. T. 354, D. C.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Munslow (1895), 11 T. L. R. 213.

"illegally using." The jury acquitted prisoner of the offences charged & found them guilty of "illegally using." The ct. having on a special case stated sustained the conviction on the ground that the verdict returned was a substantially accurate description of the offence, the High Ct. being of opinion that that decision was obviously right refused to grant special leave to appeal.—LILLICRAP v. R. (1905), 2 C. L. R. 681.—AUS.

g. Indictment for forgery—Verdict of uttering forged paper.]—R. v. PAXTON (1867), 3 C. L. J. N. S. 117.—CAN.

h. Indictment for fraudulent conversion—Verdict of unlawful appropriation.]—A conviction for unlawfully appropriating money so as to deprive of the advantage, etc., thereof, is good, although accused might, upon the evidence, have been convicted of a fraudulent conversion as trustee.—R. v. MCINTOSH, [1893] Q. R. 3 Q. B. 287; 23 S. C. R. 180.—CAN.

k. Indictment for administering poison with intent to endanger life—Verdict of with intent to injure.]—Deft. was indicted for that he "unlawfully did cause to be taken by B. certain poison, with intent thereby to endanger the life of the said B." The judge amended the indictment so that it read, "did cause to be administered to or taken by B. certain poison, with intent thereby to injure, aggrieve, or annoy the said B." The jury found deft. guilty of the offence charged in the amended indictment:—Held: an act of one person which is intended to endanger the life of another person includes an act to injure, aggrieve, or annoy such other person; & deft.

in the original indictment, might, without any amendment, have been convicted of the offence of administering poison with intent to injure, aggrieve, or annoy.—R. v. VARTY (1898), 42 Q. B. D. 127. 52 D. L. R. 440; 19 O. W. N. 270.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—E.

3398 i. "Guilty but insane"—Must be specific.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. SMITH & CAMPBELL (1855), 2 Irv. 1.—SCOT.

3398 ii. ———.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. TIERNEY (1875), 3 Couper, 152.—SCOT.

3398 iii. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted for arson. In summing up judge directed jury that there was no evidence before them as to prisoner's mental condition to justify them in finding that prisoner was incapable of understanding the nature & quality of the act & of knowing it was wrong. The jury said they found prisoner guilty & handed to him the following document: "We find prisoner guilty of setting fire to P.'s house & wish to add a rider that we think accused was not responsible for his actions at the

E. Special Verdict of Insanity.

3398. "Guilty but insane"—Must be specific.]—The special verdict of "Guilty, but insane" must be found in unequivocal language.—R. v. HARDING (1908), 25 T. L. R. 139; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 219, C. C. A.

3399. Whether right of appeal—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 3.]—When a special verdict is returned under Trial of Lunatics Act, 1883 (c. 38), s. 2 (1), to the effect that accused was guilty of the act or omission charged against him in the indictment as an offence, but was insane at the time when he did the act or made the omission, & an order for his detention is thereupon made under that Act, s. 2 (2), accused is a person convicted on indictment within the meaning of sect. 3 of the above Act, & therefore has the right of appeal given by that sect.—R. v. IRELAND, [1910] 1 K. B. 654; 79 L. J. K. B. 338; 102 L. T. 608; 74 J. P. 206; 26 T. L. R. 267; 54 Sol. Jo. 543; 22 Cox, C. C. 322; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Machardy, [1911] 2 K. B. 1144; Felstead v. R., [1914] A. C. 534. Mentd. Oaten v. Auty, [1919] 2 K. B. 278.

3400. ———.]—Where upon the trial of an indictment a special verdict is returned under Trial of Lunatics Act, 1883 (c. 38), s. 2 (1), that accused was guilty of the act or omission charged against him, but was insane so as not to be responsible according to law for his actions at the time when he did the act or made the omission, & an order for his detention is thereupon made under that Act, s. 2 (2), the accused is a person convicted on indictment within the meaning of sect. 3 of the above Act, & the finding that accused was guilty of the act or omission charged against him being a conviction, he has a right of appeal against the conviction.—R. v. MACHARDY, [1911] 2 K. B. 1144; 80 L. J. K. B. 1215; 105 L. T. 556; 76 J. P. 6; 28 T. L. R. 2; 55 Sol. Jo. 757; 22 Cox, C. C. 614; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 272, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hill (1911), 105 L. T. 751; Felstead v. R., [1914] A. C. 534.

3401. ———.]—Upon an indictment for felonious wounding, applt. was found guilty, but insane. At the trial applt., who was undefended, pleaded that what he did was done in self-defence.

time":—Held: this verdict was one of guilty, the rider being simply a statement to induce the ct. to deal leniently with prisoner.—R. v. ALDRED (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 926.—N.Z.

for theft was that he was too drunk to form a criminal intent. Tl admitted the theft & did not drunkenness. There was no evidence of plea of insanity on the part of either of prisoners. The jury returned a verdict "Guilty with no criminal intent. Act committed while under the influence of temporary insanity":—Held: verdict was ambiguous & uncertain, & a new trial was ordered.—R. v. ADAMS & CARR, [1916] 35 N. Z. L. R. 356.—N.Z.

3398 v. ———.]—Accused was indicted for the manslaughter of her illegitimate child. The medical evidence was to the effect that the child died as the result of throttling. The jury found that the death of the child was caused by the mother when she was not in a mental condition to realise the effect of her act:—Held: the verdict was not ambiguous, but was a finding of guilty, the jury not having found that accused was incapable of understanding the nature & quality of the act, but only that she was not in a mental condition to realise the effect of the act.—R. v. HOLDEN, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 458.—N.Z.

The only question the judge left to the jury was whether the applt. was insane:—Held: applt.'s defence, however weak, should have been left to the jury; failure to so leave it amounted to a miscarriage of justice; & therefore, the conviction must be quashed.

We have no means of going into the question of insanity since the decision in R. v. Machardy, No. 3400, ante (DARLING, J.).—R. v. HILL (1911), 105 L. T. 751; 78 J. P. 49; 28 T. L. R. 15; 22 Cox, C. C. 625; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 26 Cox, C. C. 186.

3402. ———.]—A special verdict given under Trial of Lunatics Act, 1883 (c. 38), s. 2 (1), is one & indivisible & is a verdict of acquittal. Therefore accused who by the special verdict is found guilty of the act charged but insane at the time is not a convicted person within sect. 3 of the above Act, & cannot appeal from that part of the verdict which finds that he was insane at the time of doing the act.—FELSTEAD v. R., [1914] A. C. 534; 83 L. J. K. B. 1132; 111 L. T. 218; 78 J. P. 313; 30 T. L. R. 469; 58 Sol. Jo. 534; 24 Cox, C. C. 243; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 129, H. L.; affg. sub nom. R. v. FELSTEAD (1913), 30 T. L. R. 143, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Taylor, [1915] 2 K. B. 709. Refd. Re Houghton, Houghton v. Houghton, [1915] 2 Ch. 173. Mentd. Oaten v. Auty, [1919] 2 K. B. 278; Public Prosecutions Director v. Beard, [1920] A. C. 479.

3403. ———.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no jurisdiction, either under the above Act, or on a case stated under Crown Cases Act, 1848 (c. 78), s. 1, to entertain an appeal by a person against whom a special verdict has been found that he was guilty of the act charged against him, but that he was insane at the time, inasmuch as he is not a convicted person within the above-mentioned statutes.—R. v. TAYLOR, [1915] 2 K. B. 709; 84 L. J. K. B. 1671; 113 L. T. 513; 79 J. P. 439; 31 T. L. R. 449; 59 Sol. Jo. 530; 25 Cox, C. C. 84; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 198, C. C. A.

F. Verdict of Not Guilty.

3404. Effect of—No appeal lies.—A new trial cannot be had on an acquittal in criminal cases.—R. v. READ (1660), 1 Lev. 9; 83 E. R. 271.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bear (1697), 2 Salk. 646. Mentd. Smith v. Dormer v. Parkhurst (1738), Andr. 315.

3405. — Accused entitled to immediate discharge—Liability for detention.]—Pltf. was tried & acquitted at quarter sessions, & the chairman directed that he should be discharged. He was, however, taken by the prison warders to the cells below the ct. & was there detained until a warder had questioned him as to his name, parentage, & other particulars, & had taken a note of his answers & of his personal & physical characteristics. He was then allowed to go. He then brought an action against the gaoler of the prison for damages for this unlawful detention:—Held: the gaoler was liable.—MEE v. CRUICKSHANK (1902), 86 L. T. 708; 66 J. P. 89; 18 T. L. R. 271; 20 Cox, C. C. 210.

3406. — Debars reference to previous convictions.]—A judge has no right to make public a prisoner's previous convictions after that prisoner has been tried & acquitted.—R. v. SMITH (1917), 87 L. J. K. B. 676; 118 L. T. 179; 34 T. L. R. 9; 26 Cox, C. C. 153; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 9, C. C. A.

3407. Second indictment to be tried—Right of prosecution to trial by another jury.—Where a prisoner has been acquitted on one indictment the prosecution have no right to claim that a second indictment should be tried before another jury.—R. v. SIMS (1904), 69 J. P. 8.

3408. Whether accused entitled to copy of the record.—If A. be indicted of felony, & acquitted, & he has a mind to bring an action, the judge will not permit him to have a copy of the record, if there was probable cause of the indictment & he cannot have a copy without leave (HOLT, C.J.).—GROENVELT v. BURRELL (1697), as reported in 1 Ld. Raym. 252; 91 E. R. 1064;

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Green (1714), Gilb. 231; R. v. Dublin (Dean & Chapter) (1722), 1 Stra. 536; R. v. Scarborough Bailiffs (1728), 1 Barn K. B. 113; R. v. Preston, Cheshire (1735), 2 Stra. 1040; Evans v. Harrison (1762), Wilm. 130; Crowther v. Ramsbottom (1798), 7 Term Rep. 654; R. v. Despard (1798), 7 Term Rep. 736; Brittain v. Kinnaird (1819), 1 Brod. & Bing. 432; R. v. Rogers (1822), 1 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 156; Scott v. Bye (1824), 2 Bing. 344; Basten v. Carew (1825), 3 B. & C. 649; Tingle v. Roston (1825), 3 L. J. O. S. C. P. 100; Garnett v. Ferrand (1827), 6 B. & C. 611; Lucas v. Nockolls (1833), 10 Bing. 157; Bristol Grdns. v. Wait (1834), 1 Ad. & El. 264; Daniell v. Phillips (1835), 1 Cr. M. & It. 662; Ridgway v. Hungerford Market Co. (1835), 4 Nev. & M. K. B. 797; Baillie v. Kell (1838), 4 Bing. N. C. 638; R. v. Thomas (1838), 8 Ad. & El. 183; Ex p. Bartlett (1843), 7 Jur. 649; Lindsay v. Leigh (1848), 12 Jur. 286; R. v. Hallett (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 238; Ex p. Napton Overseers (1856), 20 J. P. 581; Hooper v. Lane (1857), 6 H. L. Cas. 443; Phillips v. Whitsea (1860), 2 F. & E. 804; Ex p. Fernandez (1861), 9 W. R. 832; Kemp v. Neville (1861), 10 C. B. N. S. 523; R. v. Saddlers' Co. (1863), 10 H. L. Cas. 404; Wildes v. Russell (1866), L. R. 1 C. P. 722; Grinwood v. Moss (1872), L. R. 7 C. P. 360; R. v. Nicholson, etc., Bolton JJ., R. v. Greenhalgh, etc., Bolton JJ., Ex p. Bamber (1899), 81 L. T. 257; Serjeant v. Nash (1903), 89 L. T. 112.

3409. —.]—A prisoner upon his acquittal is not entitled ex debito justitiæ to a copy of his indictment.—R. v. BRANGAN (1742), 1 Leach. 27.

3410. —.]—Qu.: whether a person tried for felony, & acquitted, has a right to have a copy of the record of his acquittal.—BROWNE v. CUMMING (1829), 10 B. & C. 70; 5 Man. & Ry. K. B. 118; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 614; 8 L. J. O. S. K. B. 89; 109 E. R. 377.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16. — F.

3404 i. Effect of—No appeal lies.—Qu.: whether it is proper to grant a new trial, where an individual or a corp. has been once acquitted on an indictment, even in cases of misdemeanour.—R. v. GRAND TRUNK RY. Co. (1857), 15 U. C. R. 121.—CAN.

1. Preferring new charge.—Deft. was committed for trial on a charge of larceny. He was tried & acquitted. After the acquittal, & while deft. was still in custody, the prosecuting attorney applied for leave to prefer another charge. Leave was given, & the prosecuting attorney preferred a charge upon which deft. had not been committed. Deft. consented to be tried on the second charge & was tried & convicted. A case was reserved for the opinion of the ct. as to whether the judge of the county ct. was justified in allowing the second charge to be preferred:—Held: inasmuch as prisoner was tried & acquitted on the only charge on which he was committed, & inasmuch as that matter was completely disposed of, the judge had no further jurisdiction, & deft. was entitled to his discharge.—R. v. (1893), 25 N. S. R. 124.—CAN.

m. —.]—Deft. was committed for trial charged with an assault upon L. He was tried & acquitted. The prosecuting attorney thereupon preferred a charge of an assault upon M. Objection was taken to the jurisdiction of the ct. to try deft. upon this charge, but the objection having been overruled, deft. consented to be tried, & was tried & convicted:—Held: the judge had no jurisdiction to try deft.

for the offence for which he was convicted.—R. v. SMITH (1893), 25 N. S. R. 138.—CAN.

n. —.]—When the ct. held that an indictment for forgery, on which prisoner had been tried, could not be sustained, it refused to with forging the name of one M. as maker of the promissory note in question.—R. v. DEACON (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 245.—IR.

3408 i. Whether accused entitled to copy of the record.—After an acquittal no copy of an indictment should be furnished without the order of the judge or the fiat of the A.-G.—HEANEY v. LYONS (1835), Ber. 55.—CAN.

3408 ii. —.]—R. v. SENEAL (1862), 8 L. C. J. 286.—CAN.

7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, G., H. & I.G. Retirement of Jury to consider Verdict.

3411. Jury must not separate—Nor converse with strangers.]—The record, in a case of felony at the quarter sessions, after stating the indictment, plea of not guilty, & verdict of guilty thereon, added, that, because it appeared to the justices, that after the jury had retired, one of them had separated from his fellows, & conversed respecting his verdict with a stranger, it was considered that the verdict was bad, & it was therefore quashed, & a venire de novo awarded to the next sessions:—Held: the judgment was right.—R. v. FOWLER (1821), 4 B. & Ald. 273; 106 E. R. 937.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Ketteridge, [1915] 1 K. B. 467. Refd. R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299. Mentd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 289; R. v. Berger (1894), 63 L. J. Q. B. 529.

3412. ———. ]—R. v. KETTERIDGE, No. 3232, ante.

3413. Necessity for privacy.]—The presence of a stranger in the room with a jury for a substantial time while they are considering their verdict is of itself sufficient to invalidate their verdict.—GOBY v. WETHERILL, [1915] 2 K. B. 674; 84 L. J. K. B. 1455; 113 L. T. 502; 79 J. P. 346; 31 T. L. R. 402, D. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Fanshaw v. Knowles, [1916] 2 K. B. 538.

PART VII. SECT. 7. SUB-SECT. 16.—G.

3411 i. Jury must not separate—Nor converse with strangers.]—The verdict of the jury is vitiated by the mere fact of one of them having, without the leave of the ct. & after their retirement to consider their verdict, spoken to or held any communication with a person not a juror. It is not necessary for the ct. to inquire into the nature of the subject matter of the conversation or communication.—BENI MADAB KUNDU v. R. (1918), 1 L. R. 46 Calc. 207.—IND.

3411 ii. ———. ]—A jury cannot, in a criminal case, be allowed to separate after the delivery of the judge's charge until they are finally discharged; nor, except by consent, can they, even in custody of the sheriff, be removed to any place outside the precincts of the ct. for their better accommodation. Where the jury, although agreed upon their verdict, were not able to draw it up in proper form before 12 o'clock upon Saturday night, the ct., in the absence of any arrangement for the reception of their verdict by consent, directed them to be locked up until Monday, with permission to go to church on Sunday, in the custody of the sheriff.—It. v. O'CONNELL (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 410.—IR.

3413 i. Necessity for privacy.]—Deft. was indicted & tried for the crime of rape, committed upon the person of a girl a few weeks over the age of fourteen years. The jury found prisoner guilty, & he was sentenced to imprisonment for the term of one year. Before sentence there was a motion on behalf of prisoner to reserve a case, upon affidavits of two of the jurors to the effect that while they were deliberating in their room they called the sheriff in & asked him "whether they could report that there had been sexual connection, but with consent, & recommend prisoner to mercy," to which the sheriff replied, "No, that they would be obliged to report deft. guilty or not guilty, & that if they found him guilty with a recommendation to mercy, the judge would give him a light sentence." This was denied by the sheriff, who swore that all he said in reply to the question asked him was: "Whatever your verdict is, bring it into ct."—Held: as the case as reserved called upon the ct. to first decide the question of fact whether anything was said to the jurors by the sheriff to which objection could be taken, the ct. for this reason had no jurisdiction to deal with the question, & the conviction should be quashed.—R. v. BARNES 42 N. S. R. 55; 4 E. L. R. 234.

3413 ii. ———. ]—The fact that the constable in charge of a jury was in the room with them for a considerable time while they were considering their verdict:—Held: not to necessitate the discharging of the jury & trying accused over again, it being evident that the judge was of opinion, agreed with by the ct., that as the constable did not speak to the jurors or in any way seek to influence their verdict during the time he was in the room, his mere presence there could not lead to any miscarriage of justice.—R. v. CORRIGAN, [1919] 2 W. W. R. 81.—CAN.

3414 i. Questions by jury—Must be asked publicly.]—A prisoner was charged with perjury. After the jury had retired to consider their verdict & after they had been absent several hours, they sent a message to the judge, who had also left the ct., asking a question on a matter material to one of the issues being tried. The judge without communicating with prisoner or his counsel, sent an answer in writing by the sheriff to the jury. This answer was merely a repetition of what the judge had said in his direction & contained no new matter. The jury brought in a general verdict of guilty. Some days afterwards prisoner's attorney on discovering that a communication had taken place between the judge & jury asked the judge to state a special case upon the ground that the trial was rendered a nullity by reason of this communication:—Held: the communication between judge & jury being on a matter material to the issue should have taken place in open ct. in the presence of prisoner or his counsel, & as it had taken place in the absence of prisoner & his counsel the trial was a nullity.—

3414. Questions by jury—Must be asked publicly.]—If a jury, after retiring to consider their verdict, address a question in writing to the bench, it should be asked publicly.—R. v. LENTON (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 105, C. C. A.

3415. ———. Must not be answered by an official of the court.]—After a jury had retired to consider their verdict the clerk of assizes went to their room in order to ascertain if they had agreed or were likely to agree. While there he answered questions put to him by jurymen & gave them certain advice. The jury convicted applt. who sought to prove the above facts by the evidence of three of the jurymen:—Held: the evidence was inadmissible; but the ct., acting on the report of the clerk himself, quashed the conviction on the ground that the procedure was irregular & the interference with the jury substantial, so they were unable to say that the jury, in the absence of such interference, would have convicted applt.—R. v. WILLMONT (1914), 78 J. P. 352; 30 T. L. R. 499; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Goby v. Wetherill (1915), 113 L. T. 502. Refd. Ellis v. Decheer (1922), 127 T. L. R. 431.

3416. Illness of juror—Attendance of doctor.]—Where a prisoner is tried for a capital offence, & the jury after the lapse of a reasonable time are unable to agree on a verdict, it is in the discretion of the presiding judge to discharge them, if he thinks a case of necessity for so doing is made out;

R. v. FITZGERALD (1889), 15 V. L. R. 11. 40.—AUS.

3414 ii. ———. ]—R. v. GRIMES & LEE (1894), 15 N. S. W. L. R. 209; 10 N. S. W. W. N. 211.—AUS.

3414 iii. ———. ]—At the trial of deft. on a charge of rape, there was evidence after the offence, prosecutrix & her husband consulted a solr. who gave them a letter addressed to one of them & enclosed in an unsealed envelope addressed to deft. The letter was shown to deft. & returned to the solr. but it was not produced at the trial nor was evidence of its contents given. While the jury were deliberating the judge received a request from the foreman, asking to see the letter. The judge instructed the Registrar to inform the foreman that the letter was not available. The jury found deft. guilty. Counsel asked the judge to state a case whether he was right in giving instructions to the jury in the way he did:—Held: application should be refused.—R. v. BATTERMAN (1915), 34 O. L. R. 225; 8 O. W. N. 554.—CAN.

o. ———. After retirement—To witness already examined & cross-examined.]—On a trial for murder, the jury, who had retired to consider of their verdict, returned to the box, & desired to put a question to a witness who had been examined & cross-examined already:—Held: such re-examination was not allowable.—R. v. LEARY & COOKE (1844), 3 Craw. & D. 212.—IR.

p. Illness of juror—Separation of jury—Attendance of doctor.]—After the jury had been given in charge, one of the jurymen was taken with a fit & removed, in charge of the sheriff & his physician, to his residence. The remainder of the jury subsequently adjourned to the sick man's house, where upon his recovery a verdict of guilty was rendered:—Held: after the verdict had been recorded, it could not be disturbed.—R. v. PETER (1869), 1 B. C. R. pt. 1, 2.—CAN.

Agreement as to prisoner.]—A juror being ill & the jury having agreed as to one of two prisoners:—Held: a verdict as to that one might be received & the jury discharged as to the other prisoner.—

& the fact of the jury having been locked up for eighteen hours, & there being no prospect of their agreeing, & the duty of the presiding judge requiring his presence at the next circuit town, is a sufficient case of necessity to justify the discharge of the jury. But if at the next assizes prisoner wishes to object to his being then tried, on the ground that the first jury were improperly discharged, he should plead the facts that will show this by a plea in the nature of a plea puis darrein continuance.

If after a jury are locked up to consider their verdict in a capital case, one of them is ill, the judge will allow a medical man to see him, & anything which the medical man in his discretion will give him bonâ fide as medicine, he may have, but not sustenance; but if it be proved by the medical man that if one of the jurors is further confined to deliberate, it will be dangerous to his life, & the jury state that they are not likely to agree on their verdict, the judge will discharge them, but the judge will not discharge the jury from any consideration of the time during which they have been locked up.—R. v. NEWTON (1849), 3 Car. & Kir. 85; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. Re NEWTON, 13 Q. B. 716.

Annotation:—Refd. Winsor v. R. (1866), 30 J. P. 374.

See, further, JURIES.

H. Announcing the Verdict.

3417. Whether prisoner must be present.]—R. v. LADSLINGHAM (1670), T. Raym. 193; 83 E. R. 101; sub nom. R. v. LEGINGHAM, 2 Keb. 687; sub nom. R. v. LEDGINGHAM, 1 Vent. 97.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Carlile (1831), 9 L. J. O. S. K. B. 250; Winsor v. R. (1866), 12 Jur. N. S. 91.

3418. — In misdemeanour.]—R. v. WOODFALL, No. 3272, ante.

3419. By foreman of jury—Whether assent of jury presumed.]—In general the assent of all the jury to the verdict pronounced by the foreman in their presence & hearing, is to be conclusively inferred & no affidavit can in any case be admitted to the contrary. But if all the jury were not present when a verdict of guilty was delivered, & it is therefore uncertain whether they all heard the verdict pronounced by the foreman the ct. will with the consent of deft. grant a new trial.—R. v. WOOLER (1817), 6 M. & S. 366; 2 Stark. 111; 105 E. R. 1280.

Annotation:—Fold. Ellis v. Deheer, [1922] 2 K. B. 113.

3420. — Affidavits by jurymen that they did not hear or assent to verdict—Ground for new trial.]—On an application for a new trial of an action tried before a jury, on the ground that the verdict as delivered by the foreman was not the verdict of the whole jury, the ct. admitted affidavits of certain of the jurors that they did not hear the verdict delivered & did not assent to it, & accepting those statements to be true:—Held: they were not precluded from granting a new trial by the fact that the objection to the verdict was not taken until after the jury had been discharged.—ELLIS v. DEHEER, [1922] 2 K. B. 113; 91 L. J. K. B. 937; 127 L. T. 431; 86 J. P. 169; 38 T. L. R. 605; 66 Sol. Jo. 537; 20 L. G. R. 625, C. A.

I. Reconsidering the Verdict.

3421. Judge may refuse to accept verdict.]—R. v. SMITH (1804), 1 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 8th ed. 726.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Meany (1862), Le. & Ca. 213.

3422. —At sessions the jury gave a special verdict, which was, in fact, a verdict of not guilty, & it was entered in the books of the clerk of the peace. Afterwards the chairman told the jury they must reconsider their verdict; & they gave a verdict of guilty generally, & the verdict was then altered in the book of the clerk of the peace:—Held: the ct. would refuse to interfere by mandamus to cancel the alterations.—R. v. HEWES (1835), 3 Ad. & El. 725; 5 L. J. M. C. 45; 111 E. R. 589; sub nom. R. v. HUGHES, 1 Har. & W. 313.

Annotations:—Mentd. Rochester Corpn. v. R. (1858), E. B. & F. 1024; Coombe v. Edwards (1878), 42 J. P. 820.

R. v. LEARY & COOKE (1844), 3 Craw. & D. 212.—IR.

r. Right of jury to take indictment with it.]—The jury may be allowed to take the indictment with it when it retires to consider its verdict.—It. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

s. Discovery of new witness for defence—After retirement of jury—Whether jury recalled.]—R. v. WYLLIE (1880), 3 L. N. 139.—CAN.

t. Failure to supply refreshments to jury—Effect of.]—No substantial miscarriage of justice is occasioned by failure to supply a jury with refreshment during a period of eight hours.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY (No. 2), [1917] 1 W. W. R. 404; 10 Alta. L. R. 275; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 247; 33 D. L. R. 702.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—H.

3419 i. By foreman of jury—Whether assent of jury presumed.]—R. v. FORD (1853), 3 C. P. 209.—CAN.

3420 i. — Affidavits by jurymen that they did not hear or assent to verdict—Ground for new trial.]—Where the jury have given their verdict through their foreman, & such verdict has been entered up, the judge cannot subsequently grant a new trial upon affidavits of some of the jurors stating that the verdict so given was not the verdict of the jury.—R. v. CARROLL (1886), 12 V. L. R. 859.—AUS.

a. — Adding material words to verdict.]—Where, after the delivery of a unanimous verdict of the jury, convicting accused of the charge of rioting in connection with certain land & the crops thereon, possession of which was claimed by the complainant as well as by accused, the foreman of the jury attempted to add that "the land & the crops are all theirs," meaning that they belonged to accused, but was stopped by the judge on the ground that the verdict was quite clear in its terms, & it was therefore unnecessary to hear anything further from them:—Held: it was undesirable to stop the jury at such a stage of the proceedings; the words the foreman attempted to add to the verdict were very material, & accused having been seriously prejudiced by the procedure adopted by the judge, there should be a new trial.—NARAYAN CHANGA v. R. (1902), 1 L. R. 30 Calc. 485.—IND.

b. Interpretation.]—On the trial of defts. on an indictment charging them with robbery with violence & wounding, on the jury bringing in a finding of "guilty of assault," the chairman questioned the Crown attorney as to its meaning, when he replied: "Assault as charged in the indictment." The chairman then asked the foreman, when he replied: "We mean inflicting the blow with a bottle as described, but not guilty of robbery," & on being questioned as to which prisoner, replied: "Both," whereupon the chairman indorsed the verdict on the record as follows: "Guilty of assault as charged, but not guilty of robbery," he so interpreting the finding:—Held: the verdict was not properly interpreted & acted upon by the chairman, & was not rightly recorded, & a new trial was directed.—R. v. EDMONSTONE (1907), 10 O. W. R. 1065; 15 O. L. R. 325.—CAN.

c. Guilty of crime "as laid before them."]—In a trial before a sheriff & a jury, the jury returned a verdict of guilty of the crime charged "as laid before them." In a suspension:—Held: there was no sufficient objection to the verdict in point of form.—LLOYD v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1899), 1 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 31.—SCOT.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—I.

3421 i. Judge may refuse to accept verdict.]—A., being charged with obtaining money by false pretences, it appeared that A. had drawn & passed at G. a cheque on the O. Bank at Y. The jury found A. was "guilty of drawing the cheque but intended to have provided funds to meet it if he had had sufficient time." The judge refused to accept this as verdict of not guilty & insisted on an unambiguous verdict. The jury retired, & presently returned a verdict of guilty:—Held: the first finding was sufficiently ambiguous to justify the judge in the course he pursued, & conviction was sustained.—It. v. SHADFORTH (1866), 5 N. S. W. S. C. R. 337.—AUS.

3421 ii. —Where prisoner was charged with arson, the jury, after an hour's deliberation, came into ct. with a verdict of not guilty; the judge refused to receive the verdict, & having read over certain portions of the evidence to the jury sent them back to reconsider their verdict. The jury returning into ct. a few minutes after with the same verdict. Prisoner was

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 16, I., J. & K.; sub-sect. 17, A. & B. (a).]

3423. — Unless jury insist—Second verdict the final one.]—Where a jury return what the judge considers to be an improper verdict, he may direct them to reconsider it, & is not bound to record it unless they insist upon his doing so. Where the jury reconsider their verdict & alter it, the second is the real verdict of the jury.—R. v. MEANY (1862), Le. & Ca. 213; 1 New Rep. 66; 32 L. J. M. C. 24; 7 L. T. 393; 26 J. P. 822; 8 Jur. N. S. 1161; 11 W. R. 41; 9 Cox, C. C. 231, C. C. R.

3424. — Disclosure of document containing refused verdict.]—A judge is not bound to disclose a document from the jury purporting to contain a verdict which he does not accept.—R. v. ROBINSON (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 140, C. C. A.

3425. Effect of refusal to accept verdict—Misconception of law by judge.]—R. v. YEADON & BIRCH, No. 3360, ante.

3426. Ground for reconsideration—First verdict found on evidence of unsworn witness.]—On an indictment for felony, after the jury had delivered a verdict of guilty, it was discovered that one of the witnesses for the prosecution had given his evidence without having been previously sworn:—Held: the proper course to pursue was to direct the jury to reconsider the case, dismissing from their minds the evidence of that particular witness.—R. v. JAMES (1852), 6 Cox, C. C. 5.

3427. — First verdict not clear.]—Where part of the finding of a jury is not clear in law, though another part of the finding is an acquittal on certain counts, the judge is entitled to direct them to reconsider their verdict.—R. v. HUTCHINSON (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

3428. — —.]—The ct. will not entertain a case for the appt. inconsistent with the defence set up at the trial. A verdict that the prisoner "killed" the deceased "without intending" to do so, is incomplete, & the judge may properly direct the jury to reconsider it.—R. v. PHILPOT (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 140, C. C. A.

3429. — —.]—In this case a jury had given their verdict in a somewhat ambiguous form, but it appeared to be one of not guilty. On the suggestion of the judge they reconsidered it, & did not insist on their first verdict being recorded as one of not guilty, but, having been referred to the evidence, brought in a second verdict of guilty:—Held: the verdict of guilty was rightly recorded.—R. v. CRISP (1912), 76 J. P. 304; 28 T. L. R. 296; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

J. Amending the Verdict.

3430. Surplusage may be rejected.]—Surplusage shall be rejected in a verdict in an indictment.—R. v. URYLN (1671), 2 Saund. 308; 85 E. R. 1107.

3431. Amendment not allowed—From judge's notes.]—R. v. KEITE, No. 3271, ante.

3432. — From clerk's notes.]—Verdict general or special may be amended by the clerk's notes in civil cases, but not in criminal.—R. v. BOLD (1708), 1 Salk. 53; 91 E. R. 52.

Annotation:—Mentd. Selwood v. Methlyn (1729), 1 Barn. K. B. 254.

remanded.—R. v. CUNNINGHAM (1859), 4 Nfld. L. R. 398.—NFLD.

d. Ground for reconsideration — Dissent of juror.]—The jury in a criminal trial may be sent back for further deliberation when, upon being polled, one of the jurors dissents from the verdict of guilty announced by the foreman; & a subsequent unanimous verdict of guilty may properly be accepted.—R. v. BURDELL (1906), 11

O. L. R. 440; 7 O. W. R. 164.—CAN.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—J.

e. Amendment not allowed.]—Prisoners were charged with larceny of certain goods, & in a second count with receiving the same goods. The jury found both prisoners guilty of larceny & receiving, & were discharged. Objection was then taken

3433. Amendment allowed.]—Special verdict amended in a criminal prosecution.—ANON. (1706), 11 Mod. Rep. 84; 88 E. R. 910.

3434. — From minutes.]—If there be minutes to amend a special verdict by, it may be amended even in capital cases (LORD MANSFIELD).—R. v. HAZEL (1785), 1 Leach, 368.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Dudley (1884), 49 J. P. 69. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 323.

3435. — Judge's notes.]—Perjury was assigned on the following averments in evidence given by deft.: that A. promised V. £6 for his vote, & gave V.'s wife a sovereign. The jury after retiring found a verdict of not guilty on the first assignment, for want of sufficient evidence, & guilty on the second assignment. The verdict was so entered. The judge did not, at the time, make any note of his summing-up, but did so afterwards; & having a distinct remembrance of it, & no doubt of the jury's intention, he on summons allowed the postea to be amended by entering a verdict of guilty on the first & third assignments, & not guilty on the second:—Held: (1) the amendment ought not to have been made, there being no note of a judge, or other document to amend by; (2) where there is such note or other document, the verdict may, on proper grounds, be amended in a criminal as well as in a civil case.—R. v. VIERER (1840), 12 Ad. & El. 317; 4 Per. & Dav. 161; 9 L. J. M. C. 120; 4 Jur. 628; 113 E. R. 833.

Annotation:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Fall (1841), 10 L. J. Q. B. 145.

3436. — Mistake in announcing verdict.]—Though a verdict is recorded, yet if it appear promptly that it is not according to the intention of the jury, it may be vacated & set right.—R. v. PARKIN (1824), 1 Mood. C. C. 45, C. C. R.

3437. — —.]—On the trial of an indictment for larceny, one of the jurors delivered a verdict of not guilty, which was entered in the minutes of the clerk of the peace, according to the usual practice. Prisoner was discharged out of the dock. Immediately he was discharged, & before the jury had left the box, others of the jury interfered, & said the verdict was guilty. Prisoner was brought back to the dock, & the jury was again asked what their verdict was. They all answered guilty, & the person who delivered the first verdict said, that he had said guilty. The chairman, thereupon, ordered a verdict of guilty to be recorded:—Held: the verdict of guilty was rightly recorded.—R. v. VODDEN (1853), Dears. C. C. 229; 23 L. J. M. C. 7; 22 L. T. O. S. 107; 17 J. P. 744; 17 Jur. 1014; 2 W. R. 55; 6 Cox, C. C. 226, C. C. R.

K. Disagreement of Jury.

3438. Minority may give way to substantial majority.]—A judge is entitled to suggest that the minority of a jury may subordinate their view to that of a substantial majority.—R. v. QUARTERMAINE (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. C. A.

3439. Discretion of judge to discharge jury.]—R. v. COBBETT (1831), 2 State Tr. N. S. 789.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Winsor (1866), 10 Cox, C. C. 276. Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

on behalf of one of prisoners that the verdict was irregular. The jury who had not left precincts of ct. were recalled by the judge & returned verdict of larceny against each prisoner upon which prisoners were sentenced:—Held: the first verdict was illegal, & second verdict a nullity & conviction must be set aside.—R. v. ATKINSON & CLUTTON (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 713.—AUS.

3440. — What is sufficient ground for discharge.—R. v. NEWTON, No. 3416, ante.

3441. — Not subject to review.—Discharge of jury at a former trial no bar to a second trial, although the cause of discharge of jury does not appear upon the record, & they were not discharged from any real necessity:—Held: the judge presiding at the trial was sole judge as to whether a necessity for such a proceeding as discharging the jury had arisen; a discretionary power was vested in him, he must exercise his discretion, & there was no appeal to any other tribunal as to whether in exercising that discretion he had done so rightly.—R. v. DAVISON (1860), 2 F. & F. 250; 8 Cox, C. C. 360.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460. Refd. Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722; R. v. Richardson (1913), 108 L. T. 384.

3442. — ——Held: The record of a conviction for felony showed that on the trial of the indictment, the jury being unable to agree, the judge discharged them; that prisoner was given in charge of another jury at the next assizes, & a verdict of guilty returned, & judgment & sentence passed. On writ of error:—Held: the judge had a discretion to discharge the jury, which a ct. of error could not review.—WINSOR v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; 7 B. & S. 490; 35 L. J. M. C. 161; 14 L. T. 567; 30 J. P. 374; 12 Jur. N. S. 561; 14 W. R. 695; sub nom. R. v. WINSOR, 10 Cox, C. C. 327, Ex. Ch.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722. Refd. R. v. Richardson, [1913] 1 K. B. 395. Mentd. Droege v. Stuart, The Karnak (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 505; R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; R. v. Littlechild, R. v. Heslop (1871), 40 L. J. M. C. 137; R. v. Payne (1872), 41 L. J. M. C. 65; R. v. Bradlaugh (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 217; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3443. — May be exercised by justices at quarter sessions.—Where at quarter sessions two cts. are constituted for the trial of prisoners, & at a trial in one ct. the jury disagree, the jurisdiction to discharge the jury is not vested in the chairman of the ct. of trial alone, but may lawfully be exercised by other justices.

Qu.: if it is necessary condition of a valid discharge of the jury at a criminal trial that prisoner should be present, when the discharge is ordered.—R. v. RICHARDSON, [1913] 1 K. B. 395; 82 L. J. K. B. 333; 108 L. T. 384; 77 J. P. 248; 29 T. L. R. 228; 57 Sol. Jo. 247; 23 Cox, C. C. 332; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

3444. — Whether presence of accused necessary.—R. v. RICHARDSON, No. 3443, ante.

See Nos. 3264, 3265, ante.

SUB-SECT. 17.—JUDGMENT.

A. The Allocutus.

3445. Necessity for—In treason.—R. v. SPEKE (1689), 3 Salk. 358; Comb. 144; 91 E. R. 872.

Annotation:—Refd. O'Brien v. R., etc. (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 360.

3446. — ——R. v. GEARY (1689), 2 Salk. 630; 1 Show. 131; 91 E. R. 532.

B. Respite and Arrest of Judgment.

(a) Respite.

3447. Grounds for respite—Illness of accused.—Convict for a libel being ill, was bailed before judgment.

The offence is so great that an adequate punishment may endanger his life, & to lessen the judgment would be an ill precedent; therefore bail him for the present & we will give judgment when ponement to enable him to consider his course, & subsequently intimated that he did not intend to proceed with the prosecution:—Held: accused was not entitled to a formal verdict of acquittal.—R. v. PAIZEE (1917), S. R. 15.—S. AF.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.—A.

m. Necessity for—In capital felonies.—In capital felonies, the allocutus is an essential formality, the omission of which renders the sentence void; & accordingly where, prior to sentence, it has been omitted to inquire of prisoner, if he have anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, a writ of error will lie; but in such case, accused is not entitled to an order that "he may depart without delay," but will be sent back to the ct. ofoyer & terminer to be sentenced anew.—CAYOTTE v. R. (1887), 13 Q. L. R. 214.—CAN.

n. Omission of words "against him"—Effect of.—The allocutus "why the ct. here should not proceed to judgment & execution," omitting the words "against him," is sufficient when, looking to the record of the previous proceedings, it may reasonably be intended that prisoner was addressed, & that the verdict had been pronounced in his case.—O'NEILL IN ERROR v. R. (1854), 24 L. T. O. S. 35.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.—B. (a).

o. Grounds for respite—Error in sentence.—W. & L. were charged on information with robbery. They were found guilty & sentenced to imprisonment & to a whipping & flogging respectively. Prisoner's counsel took no objection to the sentence. The sect. under which they were charged

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 16.—K.

3440 i. Discretion of judge to discharge jury.—What is sufficient ground for discharge.—A juror being ill, & the jury having agreed as to one of two prisoners:—Held: a verdict as to that one might be received & the jury might be discharged as to the other prisoner.—R. v. LEARY & COOKE (1844), 3 Caw. & D. 212.—IR.

3440 ii. — ——Held: In a capital case, in the absence of any fatality or evidence necessity, a judge has no discretionary power of discharging a jury without their giving a verdict, because, after a long deliberation, they state that they cannot agree. It is no sufficient reason, per se, for their discharge, that, in the judge's opinion, more than a reasonable & sufficient time has elapsed to enable them, if they could at all, to agree.—CONWAY & LYNCH v. R. (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 458.—IR.

1. Jury discharged—Necessity for return of names of jurors.—Sect. 29 of Jury Act, 1862, does not imperatively require that the names of jurymen should be returned to the box after verdict, when the jury have been discharged because of their inability to agree, & the same issue is tried again at the same session of the ct.—R. v. GILLEN (1914), S. A. L. R. 196.—AUS.

g. Ground for new trial—By whom obtained.—Where, on the trial of prisoners indicted for breaking & entering a bank, the jury disagreed, & there was no time left for a second trial during the then sittings of the ct.:—Held: a trial could be obtained by the issue of a commission by the Govt., & the ct. could not order a new trial of the cause, or discharge the prisoners on their own recognisances.—R. v. WATSON (1876), 11 N. S. R. (2 R. & C.) 1.—CAN.

h. — Retrial on original indictment & plea.—Sect. 403 of the Criminal Procedure Code protects an accused against a subsequent trial for the same offences, & on the same facts, for any other offences for which a different charge from the one made against him "might have been made," but was not made, & not when such different charge was made at the previous trial, & the jury disagreed as to it. Where a prisoner is unanimously acquitted of some of the charges, & the jury are divided as to the rest & discharged, & he is "retried" under sect. 308 of the Criminal Procedure Code before a different jury, he is not being "tried again" within sect. 403, but his retrial is on the original indictment & plea, & the ct. continues the trial before another jury, & the process may continue till a verdict is passed on all the counts.—R. v. NIRMAL KANTA ROY (1914), 1 L. R. 41 Calc. 1072.—IND.

k. — Accused released.—In a trial for murder the jury disagreed & accused was remanded under custody. The A.-G. thereupon ordered prisoner to be liberated, & he was discharged from custody. Two years later he was re-arrested on the same charge & brought to trial. A plea of autrefois acquit was raised, & the judge directed a verdict of acquittal to be entered, but suspended the order pending an application to have the order set aside or amended. On appeal:—Held: prisoner was not liable to be retried. Qu.: whether the judge presiding at the second trial had the power to suspend the order for acquittal.—R. v. KELIJANA (1909), 30 N. L. R. 437.—S. AF.

l. — Withdrawal of indictment—Whether accused entitled to acquittal.—Accused had been put upon his trial, & the jury disagreed & were discharged. The A.-G. thereupon asked for a post-

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 17, B. (a) & (b) & C.]

he is better (LORD PARKER, C.J.).—R. v. BISHOP (1716), 1 Stra. 9; 93 E. R. 351.

3448. — Plea of pregnancy—Application of plea.]—Where the death sentence is respited until a woman is delivered of her child & before execution she is found to be with child again, there shall not be a further respite of sentence.—ANON. (1536), Bro. N. C. 48; 73 E. R. 868.

3449. — —.]—R. v. BAYNTON (1702), 14 State Tr. 597.

3450. — —.]—R. v. WYCHERLEY (1838), 8 C. & P. 262.

3451. — —.]—Where a woman who had been condemned to death did not, when called upon to say why execution should not be done upon her, plead her pregnancy, the ct. would not permit that question to be formally inquired into, at the suggestion of her counsel that she was in fact with child.—R. v. HUNT (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 261.

3452. — —.]—R. v. THOMAS (1906), 70 J. P. Jo. 316.

3453. By court of quarter sessions.]—A ct. of quarter sessions has power to respite a judgment from one session to another, without adjourning the session.—KEEN v. R. (1847), 10 Q. B. 928; 2 New Mag. Cas. 271; 3 New Sess. Cas. 25; 16 L. J. M. C. 180; 9 L. T. O. S. 313; 12 J. P. 4; 11 Jur. 1060; 2 Cox, C. C. 341; 116 E. R. 352.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Westmoreland JJ.* (1868), L. R. 3 Q. B. 457. Refd. Campbell & Haynes v. R. (1848), 2 New Mag. Cas. 356; R. v. Belton (1848), 12 J. P. 232; R. v. Staffordshire JJ. (1857), 3 Jur. N. S. 1148; R. v. McLain, R. v. Barr (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 562.

(b) Arrest of Judgment.

3454. Motion in arrest of judgment—Necessity for presence of accused.]—A motion cannot be made in arrest of judgment, or mitigation of punishment, on a conviction for a misdemeanour, unless deft. be present.—R. v. BUCKERIDGE (1683), 2 Show. 297; Skin. 159; 89 E. R. 950.

3455. — —.]—When a man is convicted of forgery or perjury, the ct. said they never allowed of any motion to be made in behalf of him, but upon his being brought into ct., though upon a conviction for a trespass or riot they did.—R. v. ROWSE (1729), 1 Barn. K. B. 148; 94 E. R. 102.

3456. — —.]—Deft., after conviction must be in ct. to move for a new trial.—R. v. GIBSON (1734), 2 Barn. K. B. 412; Cunn. 29; 7 Mod. Rep. 205; Ridg. temp. II. 50; Sess. Cas. K. B. 123; 2 Stra. 968; 94 E. R. 587.

Annotation:—Mentd. O'Neill v. Fitzgerald* (1829), 3 BH. N. S. 24.

3457. — —.]—When conviction is removed does not authorise whipping or flogging although the sect. dealing with robbery in company does so. The error was not discovered until the sittings had been closed. When the judge, discovering the error, reopened the ct., respited the sentences & stated a case:—Held: the sentence must be amended by striking out so much as directed the whipping & flogging.—R. v. WISNER (1896), 7 Q. L. J. 52.—AUS.

p. — Doubt as to admissibility of evidence—& jurisdiction.]—Prisoner was found guilty at the assizes, but the judge who presided at the trial, having entertained some doubts as to the admissibility of part of the evidence for the prosecution, did not pronounce or record sentence, but bound prisoner by recognisance to appear & receive sentence at the ensuing assizes, reserving the question of the admissibility of the evidence for the consideration of the twelve judges. A majority of the twelve judges having decided that the evidence was properly received, the conviction was held good. The next judge of assize entertaining doubts as to his jurisdiction, the offence not being a capital felony, declined to pronounce sentence. Prisoner was, thereupon, bound by recognisance to

The proceedings having been removed by certiorari:—Held: had

R. v. CHARLETON (1839), 2 Jebb & S. 54; 2 L. L. R. 50; 1 Craw. & D. 315.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.—B. (b).

g. Grounds for arrest of judgment—Charge not sustained—Evidence proving offence of different character.]

by certiorari, no motion can be in arrest of judgment, unless deft. be personally present.—R. v. SPRAGG (1760), 2 Burr. 930; 97 E. R. 637.

3458. — May be made after judgment by default.]—Upon an indictment deft. may move in arrest of judgment after a judgment by default.—R. v. DEMAN (1706), 2 Ld. Raym. 1221; 92 E. R. 306.

3459. Grounds for arrest of judgment—Court satisfied no offence committed.]—R. v. WADDINGTON (1800), 1 East, 143; 102 E. R. 56.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Plummer*, [1902] 2 K. B. 339. Mentd. Mogul SS. Co. v. McGregor, Gow (1889), 23 Q. B. D. 598.

3460. — Repeal of statute.]—R. v. M'KENZIE (1820), Russ. & Ry. 429, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Denton* (1852), Dears. C. C. 3. Consd. R. v. Ellis, Ex p. Amalgamated Engineering Union (1921), 125 L. T. 397.

3461. — —.]—A rule in arrest of judgment was made absolute on the ground that the conviction being founded on a process subsequently made void by statute, could not be supported.—R. v. MAWGAN (INHABITANTS) (1838), 8 Ad. & El. 496; 3 Nev. & P. K. B. 502; 1 Will. Woll. & H. 438; 7 L. J. M. C. 98; 2 J. P. 517; 2 Jur. 841; 112 E. R. 927.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Denton* (1852), 18 Q. B. 761. Distd. R. v. McLain, R. v. Barr (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 562. Refd. Barrow v. Arnaud (1846), 8 Q. B. 595; Spencer v. Hooton, Spencer v. Newton & Pycroft, Briggs v. G. N. Ry., Parkinson v. Wigan Coal & Iron Co., Harrison v. Wigan Coal & Iron Co. (1920), 37 T. L. R. 280.

3462. — —.]—After a statute has been repealed it cannot be acted upon in respect of a proceeding under it, commenced before its repeal, & in this respect there is no valid distinction between matters of form & substance. Where, therefore, between the finding of an indictment for non-repair of a road & plea pleaded, the statute upon which alone the indictment could be supported was repealed, & afterwards the indictment was proceeded with & a conviction obtained, the ct. arrested the judgment.—R. v. DENTON (INHABITANTS) (1852), Dears. C. C. 3; 18 Q. B. 761; 21 L. J. M. C. 207; 19 L. T. O. S. 216; 16 J. P. 471; 17 Jur. 453; 118 E. R. 287, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. McLain, R. v. Barr* (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 562. Mentd. R. v. Houghton (1853), 1 E. & B. 501.

3463. — Defective indictment—Effect of arrest of judgment.]—VAUX'S CASE (1590), 4 Co. Rep. 44 a; 76 E. R. 992.

Annotations:—Refd. Willmott v. Tiler* (1701), 12 Mod. Rep. 448; Jones v. Givin (1712), Gilb. 185; R. v. Aylett (1785), 1 Term Rep. 63; R. v. Willey (1813), 1 M. & S. 183; R. v. Drury (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 189. Mentd. Wrote v. Wiggles (1591), 4 Co. Rep. 45 b; R. v. Rhodes & Cole (1703), 2 Ld. Raym. 886; Gray v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 427.

Where a prisoner was convicted on an indictment containing two counts, charging separate offences, & sentenced, & the evidence did not sustain the charge in one of the counts, but proved an offence of a different character, the judgment was arrested.—It. v. HATHWAY (1866), 6 All. 382.—CAN.

not guilty.]—where three persons have been jointly indicted for a conspiracy to murder, & severally pleaded not guilty, but have severed in their challenges, & the Crown has, consequently, proceeded to try one of such prisoners:—Held: upon conviction of such prisoner, judgment must follow, although the others have not been tried, & the possibility of the other prisoners being found not guilty, although such a verdict would be a ground for reversing the judgment, is not a sufficient reason for holding

3464. —[R. (1660), 5 State Tr. 947; Kel. 7; 84 E. R. 1056. Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Kinloch (1746), Fost. 16, 25. Mentd. Crosthwaite v. Gardner (1852), 18 Q. B. 640.

3465. —[Judgment will not be arrested if the ground of objection does not appear clearly upon the record.—FRANCE v. WHITE (1840), 1 Man. & G. 731; 1 Scott, N. R. 604; 4 Jur. 746; 133 E. R. 526; sub nom. FRAME v. WHITE, 9 L. J. C. P. 337.

3466. —[The want of a scierter is an objection to an indictment for false pretences. But many objections fatal on demurrer are not available in arrest of judgment as in that stage of the case it is considered that everything put in issue was proved on the trial (WIGHTMAN, J.).—R. v. BOWEN (1849), 13 Q. B. 790; 4 New Sess. Cas. 62; 19 L. J. M. C. 65; 13 L. T. O. S. 282; 13 Jur. 1045; 3 Cox, C. C. 483; 13 J. P. Jo. 394; 116 E. R. 1465.

3467. —[After verdict it cannot be objected in arrest of judgment that the name of the parish in which the house was situated, & the name of the owner of the house were not proved.—R. v. TIDD (1849), 13 J. P. 556.

3468. —Civil proceedings instituted.]—Deft. being brought up for judgment for an assault, & it appearing that the prosecutor had commenced an action, which was still depending, for the same assault, the ct. refused to pass any judgment except that deft. should give security for his good behaviour, he having used violent language towards the prosecutor in addressing the ct., & this, although, at the time of deft. being brought up, the prosecutor offered to discontinue the action.—R. v. MAHON (1836), 4 Ad. & El. 575; 111 E. R. 903.

3469. —Alleged perjury by witnesses at trial.]—Deft. was convicted upon the testimony of two witnesses upon an information for being concerned in unshipping uncustomed goods; it was moved on behalf of deft. that the ct. would stay entering judgment on the postea, because the witnesses were perjured & were intended to be prosecuted for perjury; the ct. refused to stay judgment on this allegation, there being no precedent of any such thing. But the chief baron seemed to think it might be done, if there had been an indictment of perjury actually found.—R. v. BELLING (1728), Bunb. 256; 145 E. R. 665.

3470. —[Indictment of witness for perjury no reason why the judgment should be postponed against the person convicted.—R. v. HAYDON (1763), 3 Burr. 1387; 97 E. R. 888.

3471. —[The ct. will not, after verdict, arrest a judgment on affidavit that a bill has been found against a witness indicted for perjury on a material point of evidence given by him on the trial.—A.-G. v. WOODHEAD (1815), 2 Price, 3; 146 E. R. 2.

Annotation:—Refd. Thurtell v. Beaumont (1823), 1 Bing. 339.

C. Whether Presence of the Accused Necessary.

3472. Where sentence of corporal punishment involved.]—Sentence of corporal punishment not such judgment, & all the legal consequences of such conviction of such prisoner, irregular.—R. v. AHEARNE (1852), 6 Cox, C. C. 6.—IR.

a. Discretion of Crown.—Deft. was convicted of libel, & released from custody upon entering into a recognisance with sureties to appear & receive judgment when called upon. The private prosecutor obtained a rule nisi calling on deft. to show cause why he should not be ordered to appear at the assizes to receive judgment, on the ground that he had failed to be of good behaviour since entering into the recognisances, by reason of his having published further libels:—Held: it is only upon motion of the Crown in such cases that the recognisance of deft. & his bail are estreated, or judgment moved against the offender.—R. v. YOUNG (1901), 21 C. L. T. 463; 2 O. L. R. 228.—CAN.

t. After verdict.—Must be by court's own motion.—Defts. at their trial upon indictments for murder to be pronounced on a person in his absence.—ANON. (1774), Lofft, 400; 98 E. R. 715.

3473. —[R. v. BITHELL (1695), 1 Ld. Raym. 47; 91 E. R. 928; sub nom. R. v. BETHEL, 5 Mod. Rep. 19.

Annotations:—Refd. Re Hammond (1846), 9 Q. B. 92. Mentd. R. v. Mount (1875), 1 L. R. 6 P. C. 283.

3474. —[Judgment which involves corporal punishment cannot be given against any man in his absence.—R. v. DUKE (1697), Holt, K. B. 399; 1 Salk. 400; 90 E. R. 1120; sub nom. R. v. HARRIS & DUKE, 1 Ld. Raym. 267; Skin. 684; Comb. 447; 12 Mod. Rep. 156.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Templeman (1702), 1 Salk. 55.

3475. —[After pleading guilty to an indictment, deft. may give evidence that justifies the fact in mitigation of punishment.

Judgment for a fine may be given in deft.'s absence upon an undertaking by a stranger but not for any corporal punishment.

Upon submitting to a fine after confessing indictment, affidavits may be read to prove that the prosecutor made the assault; otherwise after conviction.—R. v. TEMPLEMAN (1702), 7 Mod. Rep. 40; 1 Salk. 55; 87 E. R. 1081.

3476. —[Personal appearance will not be dispensed with on giving judgment, where the sentence may possibly be a corporal punishment.—R. v. HANN (1765), 3 Burr. 1786; 97 E. R. 1099.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Davie (1781), 2 Doug. K. B. 588.

3477. Where sentence of corporal punishment not involved.]—It is not a matter of course to dispense with deft.'s presence upon giving judgment, where no corporal punishment is to be inflicted.—R. v. HARWOOD (1738), Andr. 152; 2 Stra. 1088; 95 E. R. 340.

3478. Where fine only inflicted.]—R. v. TEMPLEMAN, No. 3475, ante.

3479. —[R. v. WOODWARD (1831), 4 C. & P. 540, n.

3480. —[We do not think it necessary to postpone sentence because this is not a case for imprisonment; a moderate fine will meet the justice of the case (per Cur.).—R. v. KINGLAKE (1870), 34 J. P. Jo. 327.

3481. Felony.]—R. v. HALES, No. 3090, ante.

3482. In misdemeanour—Special causes for absence.]—The ct. cannot compel a prosecutor to pay the expense of bringing deft. in custody up to receive judgment for a misdemeanour; but if deft. is too poor to come up at his own expense, they will pass judgment upon him in his absence.—R. v. BOLTZ (1826), 5 B. & C. 334; 8 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 65; 4 L. J. O. S. K. B. 262; 108 E. R. 125.

3483. —[A justice convicted of a misdemeanour in his office, must attend in person to receive the judgment of the ct.; but upon an affidavit of age & infirmity, the ct. will dispense with his personal attendance.—R. v. CONSTABLE (1826), 3 B. & Ad. 659, n.; 7 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 663; 3 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 488; 110 E. R. 241.

3484. —[R. v. RYDER BURTON (1874), 38 J. P. Jo. 758.

3485. Indictment removed to Queen's Bench Division—Judgment for abatement of nuisance.]— made application to the judge to reserve & state cases for the opinion of the ct. No objection was taken to the charge to the jury. Verdict of guilty in each case. After verdict but before sentence in the case of L. counsel for accused stated he wished to move for a reserved case & also leave to appeal:—Held: after verdict any reservation of a case must be of the ct.'s own motion.—R. v. PERTELLA, R. v. LEE CHUNG (1908), 9 W. L. R. 241.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 17, C., D., E. & F.]

Where deft. indicted for a nuisance in obstructing a navigable river, allows judgment to go by default, & is under no recognisances to appear in the Queen's Bench for judgment, the ct. will not in his absence give judgment that the nuisance be abated, though notice has been left at his residence of the intention of the Crown to pray for judgment; the proper course being to sue out a writ of capias & proceed to outlawry.—R. v. CHICHESTER (1851), 17 Q. B. 504; 2 Den. 458; 18 L. T. O. S. 138; 15 J. P. 784; 15 Jur. 1131; 117 E. R. 1375, C. C. R.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Williams (1870), 18 W. R. 806.

3486. — Discretion of court.]—R. v. WILLIAMS* (1870), 18 W. R. 806; 34 J. P. Jo. 307.

D. Evidence to aid Determination of Sentence.

3487. Whether admissible—On plea of guilty.]—When prisoner pleads guilty the judge may before passing sentence, in order to form an opinion as to the degree of culpability, hear evidence as to the motive which induced prisoner to commit the offence; but where the offence is, by statute, punishable by a more severe sentence if accompanied by circumstances of aggravation, such circumstances may be taken into account in passing sentence only if they have been charged in the indictment & be proved to the satisfaction of the jury or admitted by a plea of guilty.—R. v. BRIGHT, [1916] 2 K. B. 441; 85 L. J. K. B. 1638; 115 L. T. 488; 80 J. P. 407; 32 T. L. R. 600; 25 Cox, C. C. 540; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Wheeler, [1917] 1 K. B. 283.

3488. — —.]—Where prisoner pleads guilty to a misdemeanour at sessions of oyer & terminer, such as those of the Central Criminal Ct., he cannot be heard either by himself or his counsel in mitigation of punishment. Any facts which it is wished to convey to the ct. with that object must be in the form of affidavits. If in such affidavits irrelevant & scandalous matter be contained, the ct. will order them to be removed from the files of the ct.—R. v. GREGORY (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 228; 2 L. T. O. S. 193; 1 Cox, C. C. 31.

3489. — —.]—When prisoner pleads guilty to an offence, the circumstances of which are not fully disclosed in the indictment, the ct. will require them to be proved before passing sentence.—R. v. GUMBRECHT (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 623.

3490. — Police evidence—Written report.]—After conviction, the judge may receive from a police officer a written report of prisoner's antecedents.—R. v. M'GARRY (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

3491. — — Strictness of proof—Aggravation of offence.]—An officer of the ct. ought not to give informal information to the ct. in aggravation of deft.'s offence.—R. v. KENDRICK (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

3492. — — Challenge of statement—Prevention of Crimes Act, 1903 (c. 59), s. 10 (5).]—The practice of the police giving the ct., when about to pass sentence, all the information they possess about deft., though it may be hearsay or not strictly proved, is legal, & is recognised by the above Act.

If prisoner challenges any statement it is the duty of the judge to inquire into it; if necessary he should adjourn the matter, & if it is of sufficient importance he may require legal proof of it. Or he may ignore it, & if he does so he should state that he is not taking it into consideration. If prisoner does not challenge the statements, the ct. may take them into consideration (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. CAMPBELL (1911), 75 J. P. 216; 27 T. L. R. 256; 55 Sol. Jo. 273; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

3493. — — —.]—Applt. applied for leave to appeal against sentence, & the application was referred to the full ct. because of a statement made by a police sergeant to which attention had been drawn by applt.

Police officers ought to be most careful in their statements, but this statement went further than anything for which justification could be found in the documents. A statement made to the ct. by the police should be precise & accurate (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. STRATTON (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 35, C. C. A.

3494. — — —.]—When police officers give evidence after conviction for the information of the ct. as to the antecedents of prisoner, it is their bounden duty to exercise the most scrupulous care to ensure the accuracy of their statements.—R. v. ELLEY (1921), 85 J. P. 144; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 143, C. C. A.

3495. — Sentence must be limited to charge proved or admitted—Acts subsequent to the trial may be taken into consideration.]—Where deft. is brought up for judgment, his acts subsequent to the trial may be considered, either by way of aggravating or mitigating the punishment. But in such cases the ct. will take care not to inflict a greater punishment than the principal charge itself will warrant.—R. v. WITHERS (1789), 3 Term Rep. 428; 100 E. R. 657.

3496. — — —.]—R. v. BRIGHT*, No. 3487, ante.

3497. Counsel on both sides may be heard.]—When any deft. shall be brought up for sentence on any indictment or information after verdict, the affidavits produced shall be first read & then any affidavits produced on the part of the prosecution shall be read, after which counsel for deft. shall be heard, & lastly counsel for the prosecution.

When any deft. shall be brought up for sentence after judgment by default the prosecutor's affidavits shall be first read then the deft.'s affidavits; after which counsel for the prosecution shall be heard, & lastly counsel for deft.

If no affidavits shall be produced, counsel for deft. shall be first heard, & then counsel of the prosecution (LORD KENYON, C.J.).—R. v. BUNTS (1788), 2 Term Rep. 683; 100 E. R. 368.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Despard (1828), 6 L. J. O. S. M. C. 102.

3498. — —.]—Where some defts. suffer judgment by default, & others are convicted, after trial, all defts. must begin in addressing the ct. touching the punishment; & the prosecutor has the reply.—R. v. DESPARD (1828), 2 Man. & Ry. K. B. 406; 1 Man. & Ry. M. C. 444; 6 L. J. O. S. M. C. 102; sub nom. R. v. SUTTON, 7 Ad. & El. 594, n.; 112 E. R. 594.

*Annotation:—*Mentd. Mansell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 54.

3499. — —.]—Where deft., having pleaded guilty to an indictment, is brought up for judgment, counsel for the Crown is to be heard before counsel for the deft.; & the affidavits in aggravation are to be read before the affidavits in mitigation.—

R. v. DIGNAM (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 593; 112 E. R. 593.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Holbeck Overseers (1851), 16 Q. B. 404.

3500. Whether evidence by affidavit admissible.—R. v. BUNTS, No. 3497, ante.

3501. ———.]—R. v. ELLIS (1826), 6 B. & C. 145; 9 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 174; 5 L. J. O. S. M. C. 25.

Annotations :—Mentd. R. v. Salisbury (1831), 5 C. & P. 155; R. v. Westwood (1831), 4 C. & P. 547; R. v. Holden (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 347; R. v. Mansfield (1841), Car. & M. 140; R. v. Palmer (1856), 2 Jur. N. S. 235; R. v. Wright (1858), 7 Cox, C. C. 413; R. v. Ball, R. v. Ball, [1911] A. C. 47.

3502. ———.]—R. v. DIGNAM, No. 3499, ante.

3503. ——— Deponent under control of defendant.]

—R. v. ARCHER (1788), 2 Term Rep. 205, n.; 100 E. R. 112.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Wilson (1791), 4 Term Rep. 487. Distd. R. v. Pinkerton (1802), 2 East, 357. Mentd. R. v. Willett (1795), 6 Term Rep. 294.

3504. ———.]—R. v. PINKERTON (1802), 2 East, 357; 102 E. R. 405.

3505. ——— In mitigation of punishment.]

R. v. TEMPLEMAN, No. 3475, ante.

3506. ——— When facts should have been proved at the trial.]

—R. v. ROCH (1755), Say. 233; 96 E. R. 863.

3507. ———.]—R. v. WILSON (1791), 4 Term Rep. 487; 100 E. R. 1134.

3508. ———.]—R. v. HALPIN (1829), 9 B. & C. 65; 4 Man. & Ry. K. B. 8; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 63; 7 L. T. O. S. M. C. 75; 109 E. R. 25.

3509. ———.]—R. v. COX (1831), 4 C. & P. 538.

3510. ———.]—R. v. LLOYD (1832), 4 B. & Ad. 135; 2 L. J. K. B. 214; 110 E. R. 406.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Nott (1843), 4 Q. B. 768. Mentd. R. v. Castro (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 350.

3511. ———.]—R. v. GREGORY, No. 3488, ante.

3512. ——— Affidavit in aggravation of offence.]

—R. v. TURNER (1718), 1 Stra. 139; 93 E. R. 435.

3513. ———.]—R. v. SHARPNESS (1786), 1 Term Rep. 228; 99 E. R. 1066.

3514. ———.]—R. v. ARCHER, No. 3503, ante.

3515. ———.]—R. v. WILSON, No. 3507, ante.

3516. ———.]—R. v. MORGAN (1809), 11 East, 457; 103 E. R. 1080.

E. By whom Judgment pronounced.

3517. Death of judge since trial.—R. v. SHIPTON (1730), 1 Barn. K. B. 401; 94 E. R. 270.

3518. ———.]—Prisoner was convicted at borough quarter sessions, but sentence was postponed pending the hearing of an appeal to the C. C. A. The appeal was dismissed. The recorder having died before the next quarter sessions :—Held : the new recorder had jurisdiction to pass sentence upon prisoner.—R. v. PEPPER, R. v. PLATT, [1921] 3

K. B. 167; 90 L. J. K. B. 1152; 85 J. P. 264; 37 T. L. R. 863; 65 Sol. Jo. 715; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Hales (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 193.

3519. High treason—Hostilities outside realm.]

—R. v. LYNCH (1903), as reported in 67 J. P. 41; 19 T. L. R. 163.

Annotations :—Mentd. R. v. Casement, [1917] 1 K. B. 98; R. v. Middlesex Regiment Commanding Officer, 30th Battalion, Ex p. Freyberger, [1917] 2 K. B. 129; Tingley v. Müller, [1917] 2 Ch. 144; Re Chamberlain's Settlement, [1921] 2 Ch. 533; Fasbender v. A.-G., Kramer v. A.-G., [1922] 2 Ch. 850.

F. Form and Record of Judgment.

3520. Time & place of punishment—Not part of sentence.]

—The time & place of execution of a convicted felon is no part of the sentence.—DOYLE & VALLINE'S CASE (1768), 1 Leach, 67.

3521. ———.]—It is not the ordinary practice of any ct. of criminal jurisdiction, to make the day upon which execution of any corporal punishment is to be done, a part of the original sentence. The time of inflicting such punishment is usually left either to the discretion of the officer to whom the execution of the sentence belongs, or is appointed by a particular rule of the ct. or statute which awards the punishment.—ATKINSON v. R. (1785), 3 Bro. Parl. Cas. 517; 1 E. R. 1471.

Annotations :—Mentd. R. v. Holt (1793), 5 Term Rep. 436; R. v. Gregory (1847), 16 L. J. Q. B. 281.

3522. ———.]—In murder it is not essential to award the day of execution in the sentence, the statute in that respect being only directory; & if a wrong day is awarded it will not vitiate the sentence if the mistake is discovered & set right during the assizes.—R. v. WYATT (1812), Russ. & Ry. 230, C. C. R.

3523. Consecutive sentences may be awarded—General rule.]

—Consecutive sentences should be imposed sparingly.—R. v. CLARKE (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 116, C. C. A.

3524. Accused already serving one term.]

—A judgment of imprisonment against a deft. to commence from & after the determination of an imprisonment to which a prisoner has been already sentenced for another offence is good in law.—WILKES v. R. (1769), 4 Bro. Parl. Cas. 360; Wilm. 322; 2 E. R. 244; sub nom. R. v. WILKES, 4 Burr. 2527; 19 State Tr. 1075, H. L.

Annotations :—Consd. Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229.

Refd. Butt v. Conant (1820), 1 Brod. & Bing. 548; O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; R. v. Cuthbush (1807), L. R. 2 Q. B. 379; R. v. Martin, [1911] 2 K. B. 450.

Mentd. Entick v. Carrington (1765), 2 Wils. 275; Barrington v. R. (1789), 3 Term Rep. 499; Steel v. Sowerby (1795), 6 Term Rep. 171; Thellusson v. Woodford (1798), 4 Ves. 227; Wood v. Plant (1807), 1 Taunt. 44; Beauchamp v. Tomkins (1810), 3 Taunt. 141; Moody v. Stracey (1812), 4 Taunt. 588; Stockdale v. Hansard (1839), 2 Per. & Dav. 1; Gray v. R. (1844), 6 State Tr. N. S. 117; Re Reay (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 476; Douglas v. R. (1848), 12 Jur. 974; Wray v. Toke (1848), 17 L. J. M. C. 183; Wright v. R. (1849), 14 Q. B. 148; Eastern Archipelago Co. v. R. (1853), 2 E. & B. 856; Ex p. Newton (1855), 4 E. & B.

judge at a subsequent assizes has jurisdiction to pronounce sentence upon a assizes, as well in misdemeanours.—
R. v. CHARLETON (1839), 2 Jebb & S. 54; 2 L. L. R. 50.—IR.

e. Court of Criminal Appeal.]

—In a case where a prisoner pleaded guilty to an indictment for larceny, which set forth a previous conviction for felony, & the judge, feeling doubts as to his power to pass sentence of transportation, reserved the question for the consideration of the Ct. of Criminal Appeal, without sentencing prisoner :—Held : that the ct. of criminal appeal had no jurisdiction to entertain such a case.—R. v. BYRNE (1850), 1 I. C. L. R. 100.—IR.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.— E.

b. Capital sentence—Court of King's Bench.]

—A criminal convicted at a ct. of oyer & terminer of a capital felony may be brought up to the Ct. of K. B. for sentence.—R. v. KENNEY (1836), 5 O. S. 317.—CAN.

c. Another judge of same court.]

—Whereas an accused is convicted before one judge of the Sessions with jurisdiction to try indictable offences under Criminal Code, Part XVIII., & before sentence is pronounced, the judge becomes incapacitated or unable for any reason to pronounce sentence, another judge of the same court within the same territorial district, may impose the sentence.—R. v.

DESMARAIS (1922), Q. R. 34 S. C. 513; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 214.—CAN.

d. Next judge of assize.] —Prisoner was found guilty at the assizes, but the judge who presided at the trial did not pronounce or record sentence, but bound the prisoner by recognisance to appear & receive sentence at the ensuing assizes. The next judge of assize entertaining doubts as to his jurisdiction, the offence not being a capital felony, declined to pronounce sentence. Prisoner was, thereupon, bound by recognisance to appear in the Ct. of Q. B., & receive sentence. The proceedings having been removed by certiorari :—Held : next going judge of assize had jurisdiction to pronounce sentence; a

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 17, F. & G.]

869; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; Castro v. Murray (1875), 32 L. T. 675; Bradlaugh v. R. (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 607; Hines v. Hines & Burdett, [1918] P. 364; Gibbs v. Gibbs & Heathcote (1920), 123 L. T. 206.

3525. — Accused found guilty on more than one charge.]—R. v. WILLIAMS* (1790), 1 Leach, 529, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Castro (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490.

3526. — —.]—In an indictment for perjury, C. was charged in one count with committing the offence in an action in the Ct. of Common Pleas, & in another count with the like offence in a Chancery suit brought by him to prevent the setting up of certain defences. C. was tried at bar, & the jury found him guilty of the offences "charged in & by both counts of the indictment," whereupon he was sentenced to the maximum term of seven years' penal servitude on each count, the second term to commence at the expiration of the first:—Held: (1) the verdict was a sufficient finding of guilty on each count; (2) 2 Geo. 2, c. 25, does not necessarily require the infliction of a sentence under the previous law as well as that authorised by the Act; (3) the perjury committed in the Chancery suit was a separate & distinct offence from that committed in the action at common law; (4) separate judgments might be awarded upon several counts in one indictment charging distinct misdemeanours; & successive maximum terms of penal servitude might be inflicted in respect of each count.—CASTRO v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229; 50 L. J. Q. B. 497; 44 L. T. 350; 45 J. P. 452; 29 W. R. 669; 14 Cox, C. C. 546, H. L.; affg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. CASTRO (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490, C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99. Mentd. R. v. Cox & Railton (1884), 1 T. L. R. 181; Dixon v. Farrer (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 658.

3527. — — Effect of reversal of judgment as to one charge.]—Judgment was given that on each of four counts of an information deft. be imprisoned; on the first count "for the space of two months now next ensuing;" on the second count, "for the further space of two months, to be computed from & after the end & expiration of his imprisonment" for the offence mentioned in the first count; on the third count, for the further space of two months, to be computed in like manner from the end of the imprisonment on the second count; & on the fourth count, for the further space of two months, to be computed in like manner from the end of the imprisonment on the third count. The third count was adjudged on error to be insufficient:—Held: the sentence on the fourth count was not thereby invalidated, & the imprisonment on it was to be computed from the end of the imprisonment on the second count.—GREGORY v. R. (1850), 15 Q. B. 974; 19 L. J. Q. B. 766; 15 Jur. 79; 5 Cox, C. C. 252; 117 E. R. 326, Ex. Ch.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Castro (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490.

3528. Judgment should be for each separate charge.]—On a conviction of two separate offences of uttering counterfeit coin, in two counts, one judgment for two years' imprisonment under 2 Will. 4, c. 34, s. 7, is bad.—R. v. ROBINSON (1834), 1 Mood. C. C. 413, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229. Refd. R. v. Clarke (1853), 22 L. J. M. C. 135.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.—
F.

1. Effect of general judgment on several charges—Where all except one withdrawn.]—At the trial of prisoner on an indictment charging in separate counts burglary & larceny, the former charge was withdrawn. The jury returned a general verdict of guilty, which was entered up:—Held: as the judge had a note of the withdrawal of the count for burglary, & of a direction by him to the jury that the 3529. — Identical concurrent sentences.]—An indictment contained four counts for extortion, & three counts for uttering forged licences. The jury having returned a verdict of guilty upon all the counts, the ct. passed sentence of the same identical term of imprisonment upon each count separately.—R. v. CARTER (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 352; 9 Jur. 178; 9 J. P. Jo. 100.

3530. Effect of general judgment on several charges—Where some counts are not good counts.]—O'CONNELL v. R.*, No. 3316, ante.

3531. — —.]—Where upon an indictment containing nine counts, the ct. of quarter sessions gave a general judgment that deft. be transported beyond the seas for the term of fourteen years; & a writ of error was brought on the ground that some of the counts were bad:—Held: the fourteen years must be taken to be the same fourteen years upon each count, & under 11 & 12 Vict. c. 78, s. 5, the Ct. of Error, if there were one good count in the indictment, would be bound either to pronounce the judgment which ought to have been pronounced in the ct. below, or to remit the record to the sessions, in order that that ct. should pronounce the proper judgment.—HOLLOWAY v. R. (1851), 17 Q. B. 317; 2 Den. 287; 17 L. T. O. S. 182; 15 J. P. 629; 117 E. R. 1300; sub nom. R. v. HOLLOWAY, 15 Jur. 825.

Annotations:—Refd. Latham v. R. (1864), 5 B. & S. 635; R. v. Noel (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 255.

3532. — — In felony.]—The first count of an indictment charged a stealing in the dwelling-house of D., above the value of £5. The second count charged simple larceny of the monies of D., on the day & year aforesaid. The jury process was to try "whether the prisoners are guilty of the felony aforesaid," & the verdict was "that they are guilty of the felony aforesaid." The ct. adjudged the prisoners to be transported for ten years:—Held: (1) the indictment charged two felonies, & in that respect was good; (2) if the two counts necessarily charged the same offence, the indictment would have been bad in arrest of judgment; (3) the word "felony" is not nomen collectivum; (4) by the verdict the prisoners were found guilty upon one count only, not saying which; (5) the verdict was, therefore, bad for uncertainty; (6) the judgment was also erroneous, not being warranted by the last count, & the ct. not being at liberty to apply the judgment to that part of the record, viz. the first count, which would support it.—CAMPBELL v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814; 2 New Mag. Cas. 354; 17 L. J. M. C. 89; 10 L. T. O. S. 396; 12 Jur. 117; 2 Cox, C. C. 463; 116 E. R. 680, Ex. Ch.; affg. (1846), 11 Q. B. 799.

Annotations:—Refd. Ryalls v. R. (1848), 11 Q. B. 781; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 289; It. v. Castro (1880), 49 L. J. Q. B. 747; R. v. Pierce (1887), 56 L. J. M. C. 85; R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3533. — — In misdemeanour.]—The first count of an indictment charged an assault with intent to ravish; the second a common assault. The jury found deft. guilty of the misdemeanour & offence in the indictment specified, & the ct. adjudged him for the misdemeanour, to be imprisoned two years, & kept to hard labour:—Held: the word "misdemeanour" was nomen collectivum, & the finding of the jury, therefore, only question for them was whether prisoner was guilty of larceny, he could subsequently order the entry of the verdict to be amended by adding the words "of larceny."—It. v. O'CONNOR (1883), 1 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 274.—N.Z.

was in effect that deft. was guilty of the whole matter charged by the indictment, & consequently, that the judgment was warranted by the verdict.—R. v. POWELL (1831), 2 B. & Ad. 75; 9 L. J. O. S. M. C. 71; 109 E. R. 1071.

Annotations.—Consd. O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155. Refd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814; Ryalls v. R. (1849), 11 Q. B. 795; Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229.

3534. ————Ryalls v. R., No. 2006, ante.

3535. Record of sentence—Reference to statute unnecessary.—It is not necessary in recording sentence to refer to the statute which gives the punishment.—MURRAY v. R. (1845), 7 Q. B. 700; 14 L. J. Q. B. 357; 5 L. T. O. S. 241; 10 J. P. 21; 9 Jur. 596; 1 Cox, C. C. 202; 115 E. R. 653.

G. Alteration of Judgment.

3536. Alteration of sentence by court of trial—Before termination of sessions or term.—Sessions may alter and set aside their own orders the same sessions.—ST. ANDREWS, HOLBORN (INHABITANTS) v. ST. CLEMENT DANES (INHABITANTS) (1704), 2 Salk. 606; Holt, K. B. 511; 91 E. R. 514; sub

3535 i. Record of sentence—Reference to statute unnecessary.—An indictment for subornation of perjury concluding "against the peace," does not render erroneous a sentence awarding a statutable punishment, subornation of perjury remaining a common law offence, & the statute merely regulating the punishment.—R. v. ROWE (1830), 3 Ir. T. Rec. 1st ser. 153.—IR.

g. Fine & imprisonment in alternative.—A conviction adjudging deft. to be imprisoned for twenty days, or pay £5 & costs, is bad.—R. v. WORTMAN (1858), 4 All. 73.—CAN.

h. ————Plif. was charged with lewd conduct & keeping a room or house of prostitution, & was fined $50, & in event of non-payment, ordered to be imprisoned two months. There was evidence that the magistrate ordered him into custody, where he remained till the fine was paid, but this was not put to the jury.—Held: the conviction in the alternative was bad, & the imprisonment thereunder unlawful.—MARTER v. PRYOR (1883), 16 N. S. R. (4 R. & G.) 498.—CAN.

k. Ownership of property not specified.—A conviction for fraudulently taking away lumber, describing it as "the property of another," is defective; it should state the name of the owner.—Ex p. HOLDER (1866), 6 All. 338.—CAN.

l. Offence incorrectly described.—The conviction charged that prisoner did "unlawfully & maliciously cut & wound one Mary Kelly, with intent then & there to do her grievous bodily harm:—Held: the addition of the words "with intent to do grievous bodily harm" did not vitiate the conviction, & prisoner might be lawfully convicted of the statutory misdemeanour of malicious wounding.—R. v. BOUCHER (1879), 8 P. R. 20; 4 A. R. 191.—CAN.

m. Venue of crime not stated.—Prisoner was convicted of keeping a house of ill-fame.—Held: the conviction was bad on its face for uncertainty in not naming a place where the offence was committed.—R. v. CYR (1887), 12 P. R. 24.—CAN.

n. Omission of adjudication of forfeiture of fine imposed.—Prisoner was convicted of keeping a house of ill-fame.—Held: it was defective because it did not contain an adjudication of forfeiture of the fine imposed.—R. v. CYR (1887), 12 P. R. 24.—CAN.

o. Right of accused to copy of record of acquittal.—The books, indictments, & records of the ct. of quarter sessions, which are in the hands of the clerk of the peace, are public documents which every one who is interested has a right to see; & a deft. who has been tried & acquitted at the sessions is entitled to a copy of the record of acquittal, & it is not necessary to obtain the fiat of the A.-G. therefor.—R. v. SCULLY, SCULLY v. PETERS (1901), 21 C. L. T. 432; 4 O. L. R. 394.—CAN.

p. Warrant of commitment—Certified copy of sentence sufficient.—The certified copy of sentence is sufficient warrant for the imprisonment of a convict in the penitentiary, & it is not necessary that it should contain every essential averment of the conviction.—SMITHMAN v. R. (1904), 35 S. C. R. 490.—CAN.

q. ————Necessity for statement of time from which imprisonment runs.—A warrant of commitment need not state the time from which the term of imprisonment shall begin to run, as terms of imprisonment commence on & from the day of the passing of the sentence.—Ex p. SMITHMAN (1904), 35 S. C. R. 189.—CAN.

r. ————Necessity for description of venue.—Where the venue is mentioned in the margin of a commitment, in the case of an offence which does not require local description, it is not necessary that the warrant should describe the place where the offence was committed.—Ex p. SMITHMAN (1904), 35 S. C. R. 189.—CAN.

s. ————Incomplete.—The warrant of commitment stated that the deft. "did steal a certain waggon," etc., without alleging the absence of colour of right, & without laying in any person the property in the waggon:—Held: that the warrant contained a sufficiently definite statement of the alleged crime of theft.—R. v. LEET (1900), 20 C. L. T. 46.—CAN.

t. Insufficient description of those convicted.—A conviction of "Roske & Messenger," even if meant to be of two individuals named, is bad because of insufficiency of description of those convicted.—Re ROSKE & MESSENGER, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 341.—CAN.

a. Ownership of property incorrectly stated.—Semble: a conviction is not invalid because it convicts accused for stealing goods, "the property of Sheldon's Store," the goods being stolen on the premises called nom. ST. CLEMENT PARISH v. ST. ANDREW, HOLBORN PARISH, 6 Mod. Rep. 287.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. General Assessment Sessions JJ. (1887), Ryde Rat. App. 268. Mentd. Whitaker v. Wisbey (1852), 12 C. B. 44.

3537. ————R. v. PRICE (1805), 6 East, 323; 2 Smith, K. B. 525; 102 E. R. 1310.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Castro (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490.

3538. ————The justices at sessions may alter their judgment during the continuance of the sessions.—R. v. LEICESTERSHIRE JJ. (1813), 1 M. & S. 442; 105 E. R. 165.

Annotations.—Mentd. Penney v. Slade (1839), 5 Bing. N. C. 319; R. v. Grant (1849), 13 Jur. 1026; R. v. Walsall Overseers (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 457; Ex p. Evans, [1894] A. C. 16.

3539. ————A record will not be amended after the term in which it has been filed.—ANON. (1824), M'Cle. 251; 148 E. R. 106.

3540. ————Clerical error in record.—ANON. (1837), 1 J. P. 187, n.

3541. ————The ct. of trial has power to amend a clerical error in the order of commitment.—R. v. WOOLLEY (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 57, C. C. A.

3542. Alteration of sentence by superior court—Erroneous judgment.—A sentence depending upon

Sheldon's Store but being owned by Sheldon's Storage & Commission Co., Ltd.—IT. v. PAISCH (1920), 2 W. W. R. 80; 32 Can. Crim. Cas. 316.—CAN.

b. Alternative conviction—Doubt as to guilt of several offences accused is guilty of.—Judgment in the alternative cannot be passed in cases in which it is doubtful whether accused is guilty of any one of the several offences charged, but where it is doubtful of which of those offences he is guilty, such an alternative conviction is illegal.—R. v. JAMURHA (1875), 7 N. W. 137.—IND.

c. Solitary confinement—Only when authorised by statute.—Sentence of solitary confinement cannot be pronounced upon a prisoner, except in a case where it is expressly authorised by statute.—HOLLAND v. R. (1840), 2 Jebb & S. 357; 2 I. L. R. 335; 1 Cr. & Dix 545.—IR.

d. Omission of word "unlawfully."—The omission of the word "unlawfully" is no objection to a conviction where the word is not used as part of the description of the offence in the statute creating it.—R. v. MELLISH, Re REID, 2 J. R. 127.—N.Z.

e. Date of offence not specifically stated.—Semble: where the offence is a continuing one a conviction is not bad merely because it does not state specifically the date of the offence.—Re WHITE (1907), 26 N. Z. L. R. 1268.—N.Z.

PART VII. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 17.—G.

3536 i. Alteration of sentence by court of trial—Before termination of sessions or term.—When the judge omitted, in pronouncing judgment on a conviction for murder, to order that the bodies of prisoners should be buried within the precincts of the gaol as directed by the 4 & 5 Will. IV. c. 26, s. 2; but, on a subsequent day, on ruling the book at the close of the same assizes, in the absence of prisoners, ordered the clause in question to be inserted.—Held: the sentence was illegal, notwithstanding 6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 30, s. 2.—R. v. HARTNETT & CASEY (1840), Jebb Cr. & Pr. Cas. 302.—IR.

3542 i. Alteration of sentence by superior court—Erroneous judgment.—F. was indicted for a previous conviction & subsequent felony, convicted, & sentenced to five years' penal servitude. Upon writ of error by the time, passed for a period longer than the law authorises, cannot be reduced so as to carry it into effect for the prescribed legal time.

Sect. 7.—The hearing: Sub-sect. 17, G. & H. Part VIII. Sect. 1: Sub-sect. 1.]

Nor can the judgment in such a case, when impeached upon error, be remitted to the inferior ct. to amend; it must be reversed.—R. v. ELLIS (1826), 5 B. & C. 395; 8 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 173; 4 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 29; 5 L. J. O. S. M. C. 1; 108 E. R. 147.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Bourne (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 58; R. v. Silversides (1842), 3 Q. B. 406; Drury v. R. (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 252. Refd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814.

3543. ———.]—An erroneous judgment cannot be remitted by the Ct. of K. B. to the sessions to be corrected, nor can the former ct. pronounce another.—R. v. BOURNE (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 58; 6 L. J. M. C. 129; 112 E. R. 393; sub nom. BOURNE v. R., 2 Nev. & P. K. B. 248; Nev. & P. M. C. 339; Will. Woll. & Dav. 455; 1 J. P. 186; 1 Jur. 542.

Annotations:—Consd. Holloway v. R. (1851), 17 Q. B. 317. Refd. O'Connell v. R. (1844), 1 Cox, C. C. 413; Gregory v. Brunswick (1846), 3 C. B. 481; Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814; R. v. Drury (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 544. Mentd. Pollitt v. Forrest (1847), 11 Q. B. 962; Douglas v. R. (1848), 12 Jur. 974.

3544. ———.]—A ct. of quarter sessions having, on conviction under the first mentioned Act, passed sentence of imprisonment with hard labour, this ct., on error, reversed the judgment & discharged deft.—R. v. SILVERSIDES (1842), 3 Q. B. 406; 11 L. J. M. C. 82; 6 J. P. 584; 114 E. R. 563; sub nom. SILVERSIDES v. R., 2 Gal. & Dav. 617; 6 Jur. 805.

Annotation:—Refd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814.

3545. ———.]—H. was convicted of obtaining goods by false pretences, & also pleaded guilty to a charge of having been previously convicted of a like offence. He was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude:—Held: the term of seven years was wrong, & ought to have been for five years.—R. v. HORN (1883), 48 L. T. 272; 47 J. P. 344; 15 Cox, C. C. 205, C. C. R.

3546. ———.]—Where, though the prosecution has abandoned a count in the indictment, a general verdict has been returned, the ct. may amend the record of the verdict.—R. v. PROCTOR (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

3547. ———.]—Offence by undischarged bankrupt.—The punishment to which by Bkpey. Act, 1883 (c. 52), s. 31, an undischarged bkpt. who obtains credit without disclosing the fact that he is an undischarged bkpt. is liable, is imprisonment with hard labour for one year under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 13, not imprisonment for two years under sect. 13 of that statute. If a statute provides two degrees of punishment & it is doubtful which is the proper punishment for an offence, the ct. will apply the lighter.—R. v. TURNER, [1904] 1 K. B. 181; 73 L. J. K. B. 46; 89 L. T. 676; 68 J. P. 15; 52 W. R. 214; 20 T. L. R. 67; 48 Sol. Jo. 85; 20 Cox, C. C. 590, C. C. R.

3548. ———.]—Clerical error in record.—Prisoner was found guilty of an attempted larceny, but the record as drawn up stated that he was guilty of the felony:—Held: if this mistake had not been made a sentence of three years' penal servitude could not have been passed. The sentence was accordingly reduced to one of twenty months' imprisonment with hard labour, & the record amended to accord with the verdict.—R. v. MALOY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

See Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23).

H. Place of Judgment.

3549. Trial in one county.—Sentenced in another county.—R. v. HALES, No. 3090, ante.

Part VIII.—Special Pleas.

SECT. 1.—PLEA OF AUTREFOIS ACQUIT AND AUTREFOIS CONVICT.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

3550. May be joined with plea of not guilty.—To an appeal of manslaughter, a plea of autrefois convict & not guilty of the felony & murder aforesaid, is not bad.—BRADLEY v. BANKS (1611), Cro. Jac. 283; 1 Bulst. 141; Yelv. 204; 79 E. R. 243.

Annotations:—Mentd. Wilson v. Law (1694), 1 Ld. Raym. 20; R. v. Tuchin (1704), 2 Ld. Raym. 1061; Billingsley v. Taps (1732), 2 Barn. K. B. 137.

3551. ———.]—R. v. WELSH (1828), MS. Car. Supp. 56, cited in Archbold's Criminal Pleading, 28th ed. p. 159.

3552. Issue of autrefois acquit & not guilty—

Crown for the purpose of amending the sentence, seven years being the minimum under the circumstances, neglect of the provisions of the statute regulating the procedure upon indictment for subsequent felony, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 116, was inferable from the record:—Held: these provisions were material, & the ct. quashed the conviction & discharged the prisoner.—R. v. FOX (1866), 15 W. R. 106.—IR.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.

1. May be joined with plea of not guilty.—At "speedy trial."—Before pleading either "guilty" or "not guilty," to a charge of stealing at a "speedy trial," deft. filed a special plea of autrefois convict, alleging that he had, on Sept. 24, 1913, been convicted by two justices of the same offence. Evidence in support of the plea was tendered, & argument heard. The judge decided against deft.: & thereupon he pleaded "not guilty." Deft. was convicted.—Held: at a speedy trial accused, upon pleading "not guilty," has the right to raise as a defence the fact of a previous conviction for the same offence.—R. v. TAYLOR (1914), 26 W. L. R. 652.—CAN.

3553. Cannot be pleaded after plea of not guilty.—Where, on an indictment for murder, prisoner, by virtue of

Not triable at the same time.]—The jury cannot be charged at the same time to try the two issues of autrefois acquit, & not guilty.—R. v. ROCHE (1775), 1 Leach, 134.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Sawyer (1815), 2 Car. & Kir. 101.

3553. Cannot be pleaded after plea of not guilty.—Applt. & another person were charged upon a coroner's inquisition with the murder of a child, & applt. was also charged alone upon an indictment with the manslaughter of the child, to both of which they pleaded respectively not guilty. Counsel for the prosecution offered no evidence upon the coroner's inquisition for murder, & the jury by direction of the judge found a verdict of not guilty upon the inquisition. Before the jury

Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914, s. 39 (1), pleads not guilty to the offence charged, but guilty of manslaughter, of which he could be lawfully convicted on the indictment, A.-G., on refusing to ask for judgment on such special plea, is entitled to have the trial for murder proceed. Such plea, of itself, does not place the prisoner in peril, & accordingly, does not entitle him before sentence to tender a second plea of autrefois convict.—R. v. CLIFFORD (1914), 49 L. L. T. 28.—IR.

3553 ii. ———.]—The only cases in which a plea of autrefois acquit or autrefois convict can now be established were sworn to try the indictment applt. handed in an additional plea of autrefois acquit, & the jury having been sworn, applt. was first tried upon that plea. By direction of the judge, the jury found against applt. on that plea, & he was then tried upon his plea of not guilty & was convicted. Upon appeal against the conviction on the ground that the judge ought to have held that the plea of autrefois acquit was good:—Held: applt., after having pleaded not guilty to the indictment, was not entitled to plead autrefois acquit in addition thereto so long as the plea of not guilty stood upon the record, & therefore he could not rely upon that plea as a ground for quashing the conviction.—R. v. BANKS, [1911] 2 K. B. 1095; 81 L. J. K. B. 120; 106 L. T. 48; 75 J. P. 567; 27 T. L. R. 575; 55 Sol. Jo. 727; 22 Cox, C. C. 653; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 276, C. C. A.

3554. Effect of informality.]—R. v. CHAMBERLAIN, No. 2402, ante.

3555. —[At the trial for manslaughter of prisoner who was undefended, a discussion took place between the judge & counsel for the prosecution as to whether a plea of autrefois convict could be established. The judge decided that the plea could not be established & proceeded with the trial, & the jury convicted prisoner. Prisoner having appealed:—Held: the mere technicality that there had been no formal plea of autrefois convict, & no certificate drawn up did not prevent the Ct. of Criminal Appeal from doing what was right, & prisoner was therefore entitled to appeal as if there had been a plea of autrefois convict, & the judge had held there was no case to go to the jury upon the plea.

Applt. was summarily convicted under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 12 (1), of wilfully neglecting her children in a manner likely to cause injury to their health. One of the children having subsequently died, applt. was thereupon indicted for manslaughter of the child, & was convicted:—Held: under sect. 12 (4) it is not open to a jury, if they come to the conclusion on the facts that accused is guilty of manslaughter, to return a verdict of wilful neglect, & therefore, applt. had not been put in peril twice for the same offence, & could not sustain a plea of autrefois acquit.—R. v. TONKS, [1916] 1 K. B. 443; 85 L. J. K. B. 396; 114 L. T. 81; 80 J. P. 165; 32 T. L. R. 137; 60 Sol. Jo. 122; 25 Cox, C. C. 228; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 284, C. C. A.

3556. Record must prove plea.]—Indictment charged that deft. on, etc., in the second year of the reign of the present King, kept a gaming house. Plea, that on, etc., in the fourth year of the reign of the present King, deft. was arraigned upon an indictment, which charged that deft. on Jan. 18, in the fifty-seventh year of the reign of the late King, & on divers other days & times between that day & the day of taking the inquisition, kept a gaming house, etc., to the nuisance of the subjects of our lord the King, & against the peace of our lord the King, etc. The plea then averred the identity of the offences described in the two indictments, & the acquittal of deft. Upon demurrer to this plea, concluding with a prayer of judgment of respondeas ouster:—Held: (1) the plea was bad, because the indictment upon which the acquittal was alleged to have taken place, on the face of it, charged an offence committed in the reign of the late King, & it was not competent to deft. to show by averment that it was for the same offence as that charged in the indictment before the ct. because that would be in effect to contradict the record; (2) the Crown was entitled to final judgment, notwithstanding the form in which the demurrer concluded.

A plea of autrefois acquit must show that deft. was legitimo modo acquietatus, viz. that he was acquitted upon an indictment sufficient to induce punishment if he had been convicted, & charging the same offence (ABBOTT, C.J.).—R. v. TAYLOR (1824), 3 B. & C. 502; 5 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 422; 2 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 487; 3 L. J. O. S. K. B. 68; 107 E. R. 820.

Annotations:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Jennings (1844), 4 L. T. O. S. 233. Generally, Mentd. Ex p. Bartlett (1843), 7 Jur. 649; Gray v. R. (1844), 6 State Tr. N. S. 117.

3557. —[A plea of autrefois convict stated that prisoner was indicted, convicted, & sentenced at a session of the peace held by adjournment on Friday, July 5. The record produced in support of the plea stated that the indictment was found at a session commenced & held on Monday, July 1; that the ct. was adjourned till Tuesday, July 2; & that the ct. having re-assembled on Thursday, July 4, was adjourned to Friday, July 5, when prisoner was tried & convicted:—Held: the plea of autrefois convict was not proved by the record, inasmuch as, for want of an adjournment from Tuesday to Thursday, the proceedings on the Friday were coram non judice, & therefore a nullity.—R. v. BOWMAN (1834), 6 C. & P. 337.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Hughes (1835), 1 Har. & W. 313.

3558. Verdict of jury final.]—Four persons were tried for a rape, upon an indictment containing counts charging each as principal, & the others as aiders & abettors. They were acquitted, & it being proposed on the following day to try three of them for another rape upon the same person, the second indictment being exactly the same as the first, with the omission only of the fourth prisoner, they pleaded autrefois acquit to the second indictment, averring the identity of the offences. To this plea there was a replication that the offences were different. Prisoners' counsel put in the commitment & the former indictment, & also the minutes of the former acquittal, written are those provided for in Crimes Act, 1908, s. 403. An accused who desires to plead autrefois acquit or autrefois convict may lose his right to do so by pleading "not guilty" when arraigned on the indictment.—R. v. HOLLAND (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 931.—N.Z.

g. Cannot be pleaded after plea of guilty.]—If prisoner wishes to plead autrefois convict or autrefois acquit he must do so by special plea. It is too late to claim to set up such plea after the plea of guilty.—R. v. CAMPBELL (1913), 33 N. Z. L. R. 804.—N.Z.

h. Cannot be raised on appeal.]—A plea of autrefois convict cannot be raised for the first time on appeal.—R. v. BURNS (1902), 19 S. C. 477; 12 C. T. R. 882.—S. AF.

k. Identity of offences—Onus of J.—VOL. XIV.

proof.]—T. was convicted on May 16 for selling liquor between Jan. 21 & Apr. 18 preceding. He was subsequently convicted for unlawfully keeping liquor for sale between Feb. 14 & Mar. 24, in the same year:—Held: the onus was on him to prove that the two charges were identical.—R. v. MARSH, Re TENNANT (1886), 25 N. B. R. 371.—CAN.

l. —[Where a person is convicted of an offence committed at a time falling within the period covered by a previous information upon which he was acquitted, in order to sustain a plea of autrefois acquit he must show that the offence for which he was convicted & that for which he was acquitted were identical.—Ex p. FLANAGAN (1899), 34 N. B. R. 577.—CAN.

m. —[The burden of establishing the plea of autrefois acquit is upon accused.—R. v. CARVER, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 1170.—CAN.

n. Available in extradition proceedings.]—Pltf. having been imprisoned under the warrant of a police magistrate as a fugitive criminal who had been convicted of an extradition crime in the Philippine Islands, was discharged on a writ of habeas corpus. Subsequently, at the instigation of defts., he was again arrested on the same charge under the warrant of another police magistrate:—Held: the principle underlying the plea of autrefois acquit is common to both indictable offences, & extradition proceedings.—VICENTE SOTTO v. WELCH (1913), 9 Hong Kong L. R. 1.—HONG KONG.

Sect. 1.—Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sects. 1, 2 & 3, A. & B.]

on the indictment. On this evidence the jury found that the offences were the same, & it being referred for the opinion of the judges, whether there was any evidence to justify & support the verdict, & if not, whether such verdict was final, & operated as a bar to any further proceedings by the Crown upon the second indictment:—Held: the verdict of the jury was final, & prisoners must be discharged.—R. v. LEA (1837), 2 Mood. C. C. 9; sub nom. R. v. PARRY, 7 C. & P. 836, C. C. R.

3559. Withdrawal of plea.—(1) When, by reason of some defect in the record, prisoner has not been lawfully liable to suffer judgment for the offence charged, he has not been in jeopardy in the sense which entitles him to plead the former proceeding in bar to a subsequent indictment.

(2) The plea [of autrefois acquit] has not concluded with pleading over to the felony, which is the usual & proper form. In strictness, therefore, prisoners are left without defence, & the judgment might be final; but upon the whole I think they should now be allowed to withdraw the plea, & plead not guilty, which course may be better than to allow them to amend by adding the usual conclusion in bar, as that may lead to a second demurrer (per Cur.).—R. v. DRURY (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 189; 3 Cox, C. C. 544; previous proceedings, sub nom. DRURY v. R., 3 Cox, C. C. 252.

Annotations.—As to (2) Refd. R. v. Barron, [1914] 2 K. B. 570; R. v. Simpson, [1914] 1 K. B. 66.

SUB-SECT. 2.—PREVIOUS TRIAL OUTSIDE

3560. Bar to trial within jurisdiction for same offence—Provided foreign court had competent jurisdiction.—R. v. HUTCHINSON (1677), 3 Heb. 785; 84 E. R. 1011; sub nom. HUTCHINSON'S CASE, cited in 1 Show. at p. 6; sub nom. ANON., cited in Mos. at p. 2.

Annotations.—Consd. Burrows v. Jemino (1726), 2 Eq. Cas. Abr. 525, pl. 7. Refd. R. v. Kimberley (1729), 2 Stra. 848; Gage v. Bulkeley (1744), Ridg. temp. H. 263.

3561. — Effect of difference in law of two countries.—Applt., a Belgian soldier, wounded another Belgian soldier by shooting him with a revolver in London. He was handed over to the Belgian military authorities & tried & acquitted by ct.-martial sitting at Calais. He was afterwards indicted at the Central Criminal Ct. on a charge of unlawful wounding:—Held: by virtue of a convention entered into between the English

& Belgian govts., the ct.-martial was a ct. of competent jurisdiction, & applt. was entitled to rely upon a plea of autrefois acquit.—R. v. AUGHER (1918), 118 L. T. 658; 82 J. P. 174; 34 T. L. R. 302; 26 Cox, C. C. 232; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 101, C. C. A.

See, generally, CONFLICT OF LAWS, Vol. XI., pp. 444 et seq.

SUB-SECT. 3.—WHEN PLEA ADMITTED.

A. In General.

3562. Validity of first indictment—Second indictment on same charge.—ANON. (1367), Jenk. 45; 145 E. R. 34.

3563. — ——R. v. HOLME (1584), 1 Hale, P. C. 491.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Dudley & Stephens (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 273.

3564. Conviction on former indictment—Sufficiency of evidence at first trial.—If a prisoner could have been legally convicted on the first indictment, upon any evidence that might have been adduced, his acquittal on that indictment may be successfully pleaded to a second indictment, & it is immaterial whether the proper evidence was adduced at the trial of the first indictment or not.—R. v. SHEEN (1827), 2 C. & P. 634.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Plant (1836), 7 C. & P. 575; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795. Mentd. R. v. Evans (1839), 8 C. & P. 765.

3565. — ——Where a prisoner, indicted singly for receiving stolen goods, pleaded autrefois acquit under an indictment against him & four others, on which one was convicted & prisoner & the three others were acquitted:—Held: it was good. The plea of autrefois acquit is founded upon an ancient maxim of the common law of England, that no one ought to be brought into jeopardy of his life twice for the same offence. The question is whether prisoner could have been convicted on the former indictment, for if he could, he must be acquitted on the second (GASELEE, J.).—R. v. DANN (1835), 1 Mood. C. C. 424, C. C. R.

3566. — ——Applt. was acquitted on a charge of sodomy. He was then indicted for committing an act of gross indecency with the same male person, to which he pleaded autrefois acquit:—Held: as the verdict of acquittal on the charge of sodomy did not involve an acquittal on the charge of gross indecency, because neither the act of penetration which is an essential element of the charge of sodomy, nor the intention to penetrate,

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2.

o. Whether bar to trial within jurisdiction for same offence—Effect of difference in law of two countries.—A person was convicted in England of obtaining goods by false pretences, & was allowed to plead guilty to a further offence of the same nature for which a warrant was out for his arrest in Scotland, but in which no complaint had yet been served upon him. The English ct., in passing sentence, declared they had taken into consideration the offence committed by accused in Scotland. Subsequently he was charged in Scotland with the further offence above mentioned & the relevancy of the complaint was objected to on the ground that he had already tholed an assize:—Held: the proceedings in England could not be regarded as a trial of accused for the offence charged in the complaint; he had consequently not tholed an assize.—HILSON v. EASSON (1914), 51 Sc. L. R. 392.—SCOT.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

p. Test of admissibility of plea.—The exact test is whether the evidence necessary to support the second indictment would have been sufficient to procure a legal conviction on the first.—R. v. FOGG (1864), 3 N. S. W. S. C. R. 215.—AUS.

q. ——The test to be applied when the plea of autrefois convict is raised is to consider whether the evidence that was necessary to support the second charge would have been sufficient to procure a legal conviction on the first charge.—Ex p. SPENCER (1905), 2 C. L. R. 250.—AUS.

r. ——The true test whether a plea of autrefois acquit is a sufficient bar in any particular case, is whether the evidence necessary to support the second indictment would have been sufficient to procure a legal conviction upon the first.—R. v. LEVI, [1906] E. D. C. 272.—S. AF.

3564 i. Conviction on former indictment—Sufficiency of evidence at first trial.—Where a person has been convicted of an offence, & that conviction has been quashed upon the ground of the wrongful admission of evidence, the Crown cannot put him upon his trial again for the same offence.—R. v. O'KEEFE (1894), 15 N. S. W. L. R. 1.—AUS.

3564 ii. ——Accused was convicted of perjury, but the conviction was quashed on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence. The accused was retried & convicted for the same perjury, notwithstanding a plea of autrefois acquit:—Held: the quashing of the conviction on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence amounted to an acquittal, & as the evidence necessary to support a conviction on the second charge would have been sufficient to procure a legal conviction on the first, the plea of autrefois acquit was good.—R. v. NOMADADER, [1918] E. D. L. 270.—S. AF.

which is an essential element of an attempt to commit that offence, is an essential element of the offence of gross indecency, & as it was conceded that applt. could not in law have been convicted of gross indecency on the more serious charge, the plea of autrefois acquit was not proved.—R. v. BARRON, [1914] 2 K. B. 570; 83 L. J. K. B. 786; 78 J. P. 311; 30 T. L. R. 422; 58 Sol. Jo. 557; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 81, C. C. A.; previous proceedings (1913), 24 Cox, C. C. 83, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Refd. Haynes v. Davis, [1915] 1 K. B. 332; Bannister v. Clarke, [1920] 3 K. B. 598.

3567. Conviction for different offences—Based on same facts.—WENTWORTH v. MATHIEU, [1900] A. C. 212; 69 L. J. P. C. 11; 82 L. T. 161; 16 T. L. R. 223, P. C.

3568. —]—R. v. BARRON, No. 3566, ante.

3569. Act charged coincident with but not incidental to act previously charged.—The plea of autrefois acquit is bad when the criminal act alleged later, though coincident with that of which there has been an acquittal, is in no way incidental to the latter.—R. v. NORTON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 197, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Tonks (1915), 114 L. T. 81.

3570. Previous conviction for misdemeanour—Cannot be pleaded to indictment for felony.—R. v. RUSSELL, No. 4671, post.

B. Offences against the Person.

3571. General rule—Murder or manslaughter.—

—If a man commits murder & is indicted & convicted on acquitted of manslaughter, he shall never answer to any indictment of the same death.—R. v. HOLCROFT (1578), 4 Co. Rep. 46 b; 2 Hale, P. C. 33; 3 Co. Inst. 214; 76 E. R. 996.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Tancock (1876), 34 L. T. 455. Mentd. R. v. Taylor (1824), 3 L. J. O. S. K. B. 68; O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155.

3572. —]—R. v. HOLME (1584), 1 P. C. 491.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Dudley & Stephens (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 273.

3567i. Conviction for different offences—Based on same facts.—R. v. WEBSTER (1858), 9 L. C. R. 196.—CAN.

3567ii. —]—Where there has been an acquittal de ft. may be again prosecuted on a charge setting up another legal aspect of the same facts—the principle is, that he must not be punished more than once for the same acts or omissions.—R. v. WEISS & WILLIAMS (1913), 25 W. L. R. 286.—CAN.

3567iii. —]—Where accused was tried under Penal Code, s. 408, for criminal breach of trust of three sums of money alleged to have been dishonestly misappropriated on three dates, & it was part of the prosecution case at the trial that he had made three false entries to conceal the acts of misappropriation, & he was acquitted but was subsequently charged on the same evidence under Penal Code, s. 447a, in respect of said three entries:—Held: he should not be tried again for what were virtually the same offences charged in a different form.—R. v. JHABUR MULL LAKKAR (1922), 1 L. R. 49 Calc. 924.—IND.

a. Information for offence previously subject of indictment—Entry of nolle prosequi to indictment.—Two indictments had been found against a traverser, on which A.-G. entered a nolle prosequi, & thereupon, filed ex officio informations. The traverser pleaded, to the first information, that the ct. ought not to take cognisance of the offences therein specified, because an indictment was found in this ct. for the same offences on which he was, at the request of A.-G., arraigned,

& A.-G. said he would not further prosecute J. M., that he was the person who was so indicted & arraigned, & that the offences in the indictment & information were the same, & that he ought to be exempt from being compelled to answer for the offences in the information before any justice in any court, except on an indictment found, or presentment made, on the oath of twelve lawful men of the body of the county; concluding with a verification & prayer of judgment if the court ought to take cognisance of the information, & that he (the traverser) might be discharged:—Held: this plea of an indictment pending was no bar to an information for the same matter, & if the plea of a former prosecution pending could be pleaded, the entry of a nolle prosequi would be an answer to it.—R. v. MITCHELL (1848), 12 L. L. R. 217; 1 Ir. Jur. 4.—IR.

t. Effect of nolle prosequi.—In a summons case, the Public Prosecutor withdrew from the prosecution before accused had been served & accused was acquitted under Criminal Procedure Code, s. 494:—Held: the rule of English law, requiring accused to have been tried as well as acquitted in order to bar further proceedings, which is embodied in the present Code, is inapplicable to the statutory enactments subsequently introduced into the Code which are intended to bar further proceedings whether accused can be said to have been tried or not.—Re DUDEKULA LAL SAHIB (1917), 40 Mad. 976.—IND.

a. Two pleas of "guilty" for the same offence under misapprehension—

3573. Indictment for murder—Previous acquittal of same murder—Second indictment in different form.—Prisoner pleaded that he had been acquitted on an indictment for murdering a child, by administering a certain deadly poison, to wit, oil of vitriol, & by forcing the child to take, drink, & swallow down, a large quantity of the oil, knowing it to be a deadly poison, whereby the child became sick & distempered in his body, & by that sickness languished & died:—Held: a good bar to an indictment the first count of which was for murdering the same child by administering a large quantity of oil of vitriol, & forcing the child to take into his mouth & throat a large quantity of the oil, knowing that the oil would occasion the death of the child, whereby he became disordered in his mouth & throat, & by the disorder, choking, suffocating, & strangling, occasioned thereby, languished & died, & of which the second count was for murdering the child by administering a certain acid called oil of vitriol, & forcing the child to take a large quantity of the acid into his mouth & throat, by means whereof he became disordered in his mouth & throat, & incapable of swallowing his food, & died of the inflammation, injury, & disorder, occasioned thereby.—R. v. CLARK (1820), 1 Brod. & Bing. 473; 129 E. R. 804.

Annotation.—Consd. R. v. Tonks, [1916] 1 K. B. 443.

3574. — Previous conviction of manslaughter.—(1) Autrefois convict of manslaughter, & clergy thereupon allowed, is a good bar in an appeal of murder.

(2) Where the indictment upon which the party was convicted, but upon which no judgment had been given, was insufficient:—Held: the party may be indicted & arraigned again, or appealed of the same offence.—WROTE v. WIGGES (1591), 4 Co. Rep. 45 b; 76 E. R. 994.

Annotations.—Generally, Refd. Penryn v. Corbet (1595), Cro. Eliz. 464; R. v. Drury (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 189. Mentd. Case of Marshalsea (1613), 10 Co. Rep. 68 b; Hudson v. Parker (1844), 1 Rob. Eccl. 14; Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458.

Jurisdiction of court to amend by entering plea of "autrefois convict."—Two prisoners, under the misapprehension that they were merely repeating the confession they made when they pleaded guilty before the magistrate, pleaded guilty in the Supreme Ct. to a count in an indictment charging them with the same offence to which they had previously pleaded. This was discovered prior to sentence:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction, as sentence had not been pronounced, to amend by entering pleas of "autrefois convict," & to record judgment on those pleas for accused.—R. v. SMITH, R. v. KING (1911), 31 N. Z. L. R. 352.—N.Z.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—B.

b. Indictment for murder—Previous acquittal for grievous hurt.—K., P. M., N., & O., applts., were convicted by the ct. of session of attempt at murder. They had previously been tried by a deputy magistrate on a charge of voluntarily causing grievous hurt founded on same facts, & K., P., & M. were then acquitted, while N. & O. were convicted. N. & O. appealed to the ct. of session, & that ct., considering that the evidence showed that they had been guilty of an attempt at murder, forwarded the record to the High Ct. when the conviction was quashed & a new trial ordered. The order referred expressly only to N. & O., but proceedings were commenced de novo against all the five persons, & they were committed to the ct. of session for trial on a charge of attempt at murder, & convicted, as stated —Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sect. 3, B.

3575. — — —.]—Prisoner was tried for the manslaughter of A., & found guilty & sentenced. Shortly after his trial the coroner's jury returned an inquisition for wilful murder upon the same facts. At the next assizes prisoner was arraigned upon such inquisition, when he pleaded autrefois convict. The facts of identity of prisoner & deceased having been given in evidence, & the judge having read the depositions which, as he thought, disclosed a case of manslaughter:—Held: the plea was proved.—R. v. Tancock (1876), 34 L. T. 455; 13 Cox, C. C. 217.

3576. — — —.]—Of another person by the same act.—Prisoner was convicted of manslaughter, in Feb., & had his clergy. In Apr. following he was indicted for the murder of another person, but again found guilty of manslaughter. The stroke in both cases was on the same day & at the same time:—Held: the former allowance of clergy protected him against any punishment on the second verdict.—R. v. Jennings (1819), Russ. & Ry. 388, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Brettell (1842), Car. & M. 609.

3577. — — —.]—Previous acquittal of wounding with intent to murder—Previous conviction of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm.—R. v. Salvi (1857), 10 Cox, C. C. 481, n.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Morris (1867), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 90.

3578. Indictment for manslaughter—Previous conviction of assault.—A conviction for assault by justices in petty sessions, at the instance of the person assaulted, & imprisonment consequent thereon, is not, either at common law, or under Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), s. 45, a bar to an indictment for manslaughter of the person assaulted, should he subsequently die from the effects of the assault.—R. v. Morris (1867), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 90; 36 L. J. M. C. 84; 16 L. T. 636; 31 J. P. 516; 15 W. R. 999; 10 Cox, C. C. 480, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Friel (1890), 17 Cox, C. C. 325. Refd. Wemyss v. Hopkins (1875), L. R. 10 Q. B. 378; R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423; R. v. Dyson (1908), 77 L. J. K. B. 813; R. v. Tonks, [1916] 1 K. B. 443.

above, by that et. The pleas of autrefois convict & autrefois acquit could not be urged as an answer to the charge, on which appts. were convicted, by any of them.—R. v. Panna (1875), 7 N. W. 371.—IND.

Previous acquittal for assault.—A panel who had been acquitted in a police ct. on a charge of assault, having, in consequence of the death of the injured party been afterwards indicted for murder, the plea of res judicata founded on the former trial repelled.—H.M. Advocate v. Cobb (or Fairweather) (1836), 1 Swin. 354.—SCOT.

d. — — —.]—A panel was tried in police ct. for assault. The person assaulted thereafter died; he was charged with murder. Plea of res judicata repelled.—H.M. Advocate v. Stewart (1866), 5 Ir. 310.—SCOT.

e. — — —.]—A person convicted of assault may subsequently be tried for murder on the supervening death of the person injured by the assault.—H.M. Advocate v. O'Connor (1882), 10 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 40.—SCOT.

1. Indictment for manslaughter—Previous conviction for malicious wounding.—Where prisoner was indicted for manslaughter & it appeared that before the death she had been convicted of malicious wounding in respect of same act which afterwards resulted in the death:—Held: that a plea of autrefois convict could not be supported.—R. v. Woodman (1873), 2 C. A. 255.—N.Z.

g. Indictment for shooting with intent to murder—Previous acquittal for murder.—When to an indictment for firing at A. with intent to murder him, prisoner insisted, by a plea of autrefois acquit, that he had been indicted for the murder of B., & that the murder of B. & the firing at A. were perpetrated at one & the same time & place, upon one & the same occasion, & with one & the same felonious purpose & object, & by one & the same person, & thereby became & constituted one entire transaction & felonious crime:—Held: this plea was bad.—R. v. Gray (1843), 5 I. L. R. 524.—IR.

h. Indictment for assault with intent to commit murder—Previous summary conviction for assault inflicting bodily injury.—In an indictment for a felonious assault with intent to commit murder, a former conviction, before two justices of the peace, for an assault so as to inflict bodily injury upon prosecutrix, may be pleaded in bar.—R. v. Curran (1867), 9 Ir. Jur. 235.—IR.

k. Indictment for inflicting grievous bodily harm—Previous acquittal for manslaughter.—Def. was charged with the manslaughter of S. & acquitted. It was contended that he could not be subsequently tried on a charge of unlawfully inflicting grievous bodily harm upon S.:—Held: def. could not, on the original charge, have been convicted of the lesser offence, & the acquittal was not a bar to a prosecution

3579. — — —.]—Where there has been a summary conviction under Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (c. 49), for assault, & the person assaulted subsequently dies of injuries caused by the acts constituting the assault, a plea of autrefois convict is not a good answer by the person so summarily convicted to an indictment for the manslaughter of the person assaulted.—R. v. Friel (1890), 17 Cox, C. C. 325.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Tonks, [1916] 1 K. B. 443.

3580. — — —.]—Previous acquittal of assault.—R. v. Hilton (1895), 59 J. P. Jo. 778.

3581. — — —.]—Previous conviction of wilful neglect under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 12.—R. v. Tonks, No. 3555, ante.

3582. Indictment for administering poison with intent to murder—Previous acquittal for murder—Of person poisoned at same time.—Where a man had been tried & acquitted of the murder of his son by poison, & he was afterwards arraigned on a charge of attempting to poison his wife, & it

Held: the two offences were separate & distinct & though acquitted of the murder of the son, prisoner might be tried for the attempt of the life of the wife.—R. v. Dagnes (1839), 3 J. P. 293.

3583. — — —.]—Upon an indictment under 7 Will. 4, & 1 Vict. c. 85, ss. 3 & 5, for administering poison with intent to murder, a previous acquittal on an indictment for murder founded on the same facts cannot be pleaded in bar.—R. v. Connell (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 178.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. White, [1910] 2 K. B. 124.

3584. Indictment for assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm—Previous acquittal for murder.—R. v. Bird, No. 2398, ante.

3585. Indictment for inflicting grievous bodily harm & unlawful wounding—Previous conviction of common assault.—Prisoner was indicted at quarter sessions on counts charging him with unlawfully inflicting grievous bodily harm, unlawfully wounding, unlawfully assaulting, occasioning actual bodily harm, & common assault. The jury found him guilty of common assault, & were unable to agree as to the other counts. The for the lesser offence.—R. v. Shea (1909), 14 Can. Crim. Cas. 319.—CAN.

1. Indictment for causing hurt—Previous acquittal for assault.—A person who is tried & discharged for the offence of assault under Penal Code, s. 312, cannot again, upon the same complaint, be tried for "causing hurt."—Kahtan v. Smith (1871), 7 B. L. R. App. 25; 16 W. R. 3.—IND.

m. Indictment for assault & robbery—Previous conviction of unlawful wounding.—Two persons were indicted for assaulting & putting prosecutor in bodily fear, & stealing money from his person, & immediately afterwards feloniously wounding him. One prisoner pleaded autrefois convict, & evidence was given that he had been summarily convicted of stealing a dice-box, which it appeared was stolen from prosecutor on the same night & in the same room when & where prosecutor was assaulted & had money taken from his person:—Held: there was no evidence of the identity of the offences to go to the jury on the plea.—R. v. Williams & Ferguson (1877), 3 C. A. 370; 2 J. R. N. S. 42.—N.Z.

n. Indictment for unlawful assembly—Previous conviction for being armed with a bludgeon at night.—Prisoner was charged & convicted for being armed with a bludgeon at night. He was then charged for taking part in an unlawful assembly. Counsel asked leave to plead autrefois convict:—Held: the plea was of no validity as recorder then discharged the jury & sent prisoner for trial at the assizes:—Held: judgment must be entered for prisoner on the plea of autrefois convict.—R. v. GRIMWOOD (1896), 60 J. P. 809; 13 T. L. R. 70.

3586. Indictment for burglary with violence—Previous acquittal for murder.—If a party charged with the crime of murder committed in the perpetration of a burglary, be generally acquitted on that indictment, he cannot afterwards be convicted of the burglary with violence, as the general acquittal in the charge of murder would be an answer to that part of the indictment containing the allegation of violence.—R. v. GOULD (1840), 9 C. & P. 364.

3587. Indictment for assault—Previous acquittal of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm.—An acquittal on an indictment for a rape could not be successfully pleaded to a subsequent indictment for an assault with intent to commit a rape, nor could an acquittal on the indictment for feloniously stabbing with intent to do grievous bodily harm be successfully pleaded to an indictment for an assault, although, in each case, the transaction was the same, & accused might have been convicted of an assault, under 7 Will. 4, & 1 Vict. c. 85, s. 11.—R. v. GISSON (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 781.

3588. ————Where a person is acquitted on a charge of feloniously stabbing, with intent to do grievous bodily harm, such person may be subsequently indicted & convicted for an assault.—R. v. GOADBY (1817), 2 Car. & Kir. 782, n.

3589. — Previous conviction under Highway Act, 1835 (c. 50), s. 78.—Appl. was convicted upon an information under sect. 78 of the above Act for striking a horse ridden by H., & causing damage to H., then being upon the highway. Subsequently, H. laid an information under Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 104), s. 42, for an assault, in respect of the same matter:—Held: applt. could not be convicted under the last summons.—WEMYSS v. HOPKINS (1875), L. R. 10 Q. B. 378; 44 L. J. M. C. 101; 33 L. T. 9; 39 J. P. 549; 23 W. R. 691.

Annotations:—Apprvd. R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423. Apld. Welton v. Taneborne (1908), 99 L. T. 668. Mentd. It. v. South Shields Licensing JJ., [1911] 2 K. B. 1.

3590. — Previous summary acquittal of assault on same day.—Where an assault charged in an indictment, & that referred to in a certificate of dismissal by a magistrate, under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 44, appear to have been on the same day, it is prima facie evidence that they are one & the same assault, & if the prosecutor alleges the contrary, it is incumbent on him to show that there was a second assault on the same day. Deft.

the offences were not identical.—It. v. CAMPBELL (1913), 33 N. Z. L. R. 804.—N.Z.

o. Indictment for seduction—Previous acquittal for abduction.—Prisoner was convicted under R. S. C., c. 162, s. 44, relating to "offences against the person," for unlawfully taking an unmarried girl under the age of sixteen years out of the possession & against the will of her father. On same day prisoner was again tried & convicted under R. S. C., c. 157, s. 3, relating to "offences against public morals," for the seduction of the girl, being previously of chaste character, & between the ages of twelve & sixteen years of age:—Held: the offences were several & distinct, & a conviction on the first indictment did not preclude a conviction on the second one.—It. v. SMITH (1890), 19 O. R. 714.—CAN.

p. Indictment for indecent assault

—Previous acquittal of attempt to have carnal knowledge of female idiot.—Prisoner, who has been acquitted of an attempt to have unlawful carnal knowledge of a female idiot, cannot plead that acquittal as a bar to a further prosecution for indecent assault.—It. v. BURKE (1912), 47 I. L. T. 111.—IR.

q. — Previous acquittal for assaulting & carnally knowing a girl under 10.—A person had been tried & acquitted on an indictment in one count for assaulting & carnally knowing a girl under ten, & was subsequently put on his trial for same offence upon an indictment for an indecent assault:—Held: the plea of autrefois acquit was a good plea.—It. v. LEMEN (1888), 6 N. Z. L. R. 329.—N.Z.

r. Indictment for gross indecency—Previous acquittal of indecent assault.—A male person who had been achaving appeared before the magistrate, the recital in the certificate of the fact of a complaint having been made, & of a summons having been issued, is sufficient evidence of those facts.—R. v. WESTLEY (1868), 32 J. P. 487; 11 Cox, C. C. 139.

3591. Indictment for felonious wounding—Previous summary conviction for assault.—A plea of autrefois convict of an assault before justices under 9 Geo. 4, c. 31, is a bar to an indictment for felonious stabbing, etc., in the same transaction.—R. v. WALKER (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 446; 7 J. P. 212.

Annotations:—Apld. It. v. Eltrington (1861), 1 B. & S. 688. Consd. It. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423. Refd. R. v. Reid (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 104; Wemyss v. Hopkins (1875), L. R. 10 Q. B. 378. Mentd. Hancock v. Somes (1859), 33 L. T. O. S. 105; Re Thompson (1860), 30 L. J. M. C. 19.

3592. ————Semble: a conviction for an assault under 9 Geo. 4, c. 31, followed by payment of the fine or endurance of the imprisonment, may be pleaded in bar of an indictment for felony in respect of the same assault, charging an assault, & wounding with intent to murder, etc.—R. v. STANTON (1851), 17 L. T. O. S. 280; 5 Cox, C. C. 324.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Eltrington (1861), 1 B. & S. 688; R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423. Refd. Wemyss v. Hopkins (1875), L. R. 10 Q. B. 378.

3593. — Previous summary acquittal for assault.—Where, under 9 Geo. 4, c. 31, ss. 27–29, a complaint of assault or battery has been made to two justices of the peace, who dismiss the complaint & give the party a certificate accordingly, the certificate may be pleaded in bar to an indictment, founded on the same facts, charging assault & battery, accompanied by malicious cutting & wounding so as to cause grievous or actual bodily harm.—R. v. ELINGTON (1861), 1 B. & S. 688; 31 L. J. M. C. 14; 5 L. T. 284; 8 Jur. N. S. 97; 10 W. R. 13; 9 Cox, C. C. 86; 121 E. R. 870; sub nom. It. v. ELINGTON, 26 J. P. 117.

Annotations:—Apprvd. R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423; R. v. Grimwood (1896), 60 J. P. 809. Refd. Wilkinson v. Dutton (1863), 3 B. & S. 821; Wemyss v. Hopkins (1875), L. R. 10 Q. B. 378.

2594. Indictment for felonious wounding & unlawful wounding—Previous summary conviction for assault.—A person who has been convicted of an assault by a ct. of summary jurisdiction, but has been discharged, without any sentence of fine or imprisonment, on giving security for good behaviour, cannot afterwards be convicted for the same assault, on an indictment charging him with felonious wounding, & unlawful wounding.—R. v. MILES (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423; 59 L. J. M. C. 56; 62 L. T. 572; 54 J. P. 549; 38 W. R. 334; 6 T. L. R. 186; 17 Cox, C. C. 9, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Apld. Ryley v. Brown (1890), 62 L. T. 458. Refd. R. v. Friel (1890), 17 Cox, C. C. 325; Reed v. Nutt (1890), 59 L. J. Q. B. 311. Mentd. Haynes v. Davis, [1915] 1 K. B. 332.

quitted on a charge of indecent assault on other male persons was thereafter charged on the same facts with being a party to gross indecency with other male persons:—Held: he was not entitled to plead autrefois acquit, as he could not when charged with indecent assault have been convicted of gross indecency, nor could he as charged under that section be convicted of indecent assault.—It. v. PETERSEN, [1910] T. P. D. 859.—S. AF.

s. Indictment for rape—Previous acquittal for murder.—An acquittal on a charge of murder is no bar to a subsequent trial for rape, even though the evidence on both charges would to a large extent be the same.—It. v. KERR [1907] E. D. C. 324.—S. AF.

t. Indictment for assault—Previous acquittal of wounding with intent to murder.—An acquittal on a charge of feloniously wounding with intent

Sect. 1.—Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sect. 3, B. & C.]

3595. Indictment for assault with intent to commit rape—Previous acquittal of rape.]—R. v. GISSON, No. 3587, ante.

3596. Indictment for assault—Previous acquittal of rape—Not by acquittal of assault with intent to commit rape.]—After an acquittal upon an indictment for rape, & assault with intent to commit a rape, prisoner may be indicted for a common assault.—R. v. DUNGEY (1864), 4 F. & F. 99.
Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758.

3597. Indictment for gross indecency—Previous

C. Offences against Property.

3598. Larceny—Previous acquittal of larceny of different goods—At the same time.]—Where prisoner had been before tried for the same stealing, though of different goods:—Held: he could not be again put upon his trial, the larceny being the same.—R. v. PYNE (1842), 6 J. P. 508.

3599. ———.]—When a person stole two pigs belonging to the same person at the same time, & after being convicted & punished for stealing one of the pigs, was again indicted at a subsequent assize for stealing the other:—Held: this might legally be done. Semble: in such a case the second prosecution ought not to be proceeded with.—R. v. BRETTET (1842), Car. & M. 609.

3600. ——— Where act of taking is the same.]—I do not think it necessary in a plea of autrefois convict to allege the identity of the specific chattel charged to be taken. Suppose the first charge to be taking a coat; autrefois convict pleaded; parol evidence showing that the pocket-book was in the pocket of the coat. I think that would support the plea, because it would show a previous conviction for the same act of taking (ERLE, J.).—R. v. BOND (1850), 1 Den. 517; T. & M. 242; 4 New Mag. Cas. 133; 4 New Sess. Cas. 143; 19 L. J. M. C. 138; 14 J. P. 288; 14 Jur. 399; 4 Cox, C. C. 231, C. C. R.
Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Faderman (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 359; R. v. Thomas (1850), 14 J. P. 513.

3601. ——— From the same person at subsequent date.]—Prisoner was tried on Apr. 6, 1863, upon an indictment which charged him with having, on Jan. 22, 1863, stolen 25 lbs. of copper, the property of A., & was acquitted. He was again tried on June 29, 1863, upon an indictment which charged him, in the first count, with having, on Sept. 20, 1862, stolen a riddle, the property of A., & in the second count with having, on Jan. 16, 1863, stolen five shovels, also the property of A.:—Held: prisoner was not entitled to be acquitted upon the second trial on the ground that the charge of stealing the riddle & shovels ought to have been included in the first indictment, & on these facts a verdict was rightly found against him upon a plea of autrefois acquit.—R. v. KNIGHT (1864), Le. & Ca. 378; 9 L. T. 808; 28 J. P. 149; 9 Cox, C. C. 437, C. C. R.

3602. ——— Previous acquittal of stealing where

Prisoner was indicted the property of A. & acquitted. She was then indicted again for stealing the same boots laid as the property of B. & pleaded autrefois acquit. It appeared that A. was a boy 14 years of age living with & assisting B., who was his father, & that the boots were the property of B., but that, at the time they were stolen by prisoner, A. had temporarily in his father's absence the charge of the stall from which they were stolen:—Held: A. was not a bailee, & the ownership of the boots could not properly be laid in him, & the plea of autrefois acquit could not be sustained notwithstanding the power of amendment given by Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100).—R. v. GREEN (1856), Dears. & B. 113; 26 L. J. M. C. 17; 28 L. T. O. S. 108; 20 J. P. 742; 2 Jur. N. S. 1146; 5 W. R. 52; 7 Cox, C. C. 186, C. C. R.

3603. ——— Previous conviction for obtaining credit by false pretences.]—A debt, who has been convicted upon an indictment charging him with obtaining credit for goods by false pretences cannot be afterwards convicted upon a further indictment charging him with larceny of the same goods.—R. v. KING, [1897] 1 Q. B. 214; 66 L. J. Q. B. 87; 75 L. T. 392; 61 J. P. 329; 13 T. L. R. 27; 41 Sol. Jo. 49; 18 Cox, C. C. 447, C. C. R.
Annotation:—Expld. R. v. Barron, [1914] 2 K. B. 570.

3604. ——— Previous conviction of uttering counterfeit coin given in payment for the stolen goods.]—On the trial of an indictment for larceny it appeared that prisoner having given prosecutor an order for certain goods, they were sent by a servant with directions not to part with them without the money. On the way the servant was met by prisoner, who said the goods were for him, & took them, giving two counterfeit half-crowns in payment:—Held: he was properly indicted for

to murder is not a bar to an information for a common assault & battery.—R. v. DOUGLASS (1865), 4 N. S. W. S. C. R. 157.—AUS.

a. ——— Previous acquittal for murder.]—On an indictment for murder in the statutory form, not charging an assault, prisoner, under 32 & 33 Vict. c. 29, s. 51 (1), cannot be convicted of an assault; & acquittal of the felony is therefore no bar to a subsequent indictment for the assault.—R. v. SMITH (1874), 34 U. C. R. 552.—CAN.

b. ——— Previous summary acquittal for same offence.]—Where a charge under Criminal Code, 1892, s. 262, of assault causing actual bodily harm is brought under Part 55 by the election of debt, to be tried summarily, a conviction releases from further criminal proceedings.—NEVILLS v. BULLARD (1897), 28 O. R. 588.—CAN.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—C.

c. Larceny—Previous conviction for interference with goods.]—Upon trial for larceny, prisoner pleaded autrefois convict & proved that he had pre- viously been convicted under Commonwealth Customs Act, 1901-1914, s. 23, upon a charge of interfering with the goods which were the subject-matter of the charge of larceny. The evidence given upon both occasions so far as it related to prisoner's acts in connection with the goods was the same:—Held: as prisoner, when charged with the interference, was not in peril of being convicted of larceny the plea was bad.—R. v. McNICOL [1916] V. L. R. 350.—AUS.

d. ——— Theft of package of post letters—Conviction before justices for theft of cheque contained in one letter.]—Deft., a railway mail clerk, stole a package containing 4 registered letters. He was arrested & committed by a magistrate for trial upon a charge of stealing 4 post letters. Before being arraigned at the assizes on this charge, he was brought before the same magistrate & another justice & charged with & convicted by the two justices of stealing a cheque for $10, the property of a private individual, which was one of the documents contained in one of the letters making up the package, & he was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour. When debt was brought before the ct. for trial on his previous commitment, a charge containing eight counts was laid against him. He pleaded "autrefois convict," & gave evidence of his conviction by the two justices. There was no question about the identity of accused or about the fact that the $10 cheque was contained in the package. The trial judge decided against accused on his plea of "autrefois convict," in respect of the first seven counts, & in his favour on the eighth count, which was for stealing the sum of $1,345, the aggregate amount of three sums of money contained in the letters. Debt then pleaded "guilty" on the first six counts & "not guilty" on the seventh. No trial took place on the seventh count; & a case was reserved as to the correctness of the judge's decision against debt, on a plea of "autrefois convict." The six counts on which debt pleaded guilty were for stealing three separate post letters, the property of the Postmaster-General, containing each a specified sum of money, & for stealing the same three sums of money without reference to the letters larceny, & he might be convicted of the larceny notwithstanding he had been previously arraigned on & pleaded guilty to a charge of knowingly uttering the two counterfeit half-crowns.—R. v. WEBB (1850), 14 J. P. 689; 5 Cox, C. C. 154.

3605. Larceny of fixtures—Previous acquittal of simple larceny.—In one indictment prisoners were charged with larceny at common law & for feloniously receiving "the goods aforesaid." They were acquitted on the ground that the alleged goods were a fixture in a building. They were then charged upon a second indictment under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 31, for stealing the fixture, to which charge they pleaded autrefois acquit. The presiding chairman at sessions held that plea not to be proved, & prisoners then pleaded not guilty, but were convicted:—Held: the ruling of the chairman was right, & prisoners had not been in peril on the count for receiving in the first indictment.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1882), 46 L. T. 177; 15 Cox, C. C. 29, C. C. R.

3606. Receiving stolen goods—Previous acquittal of receiving where different thief alleged.—In an indictment for receiving stolen goods knowing them to have been stolen by a person named, the stealing by that person must be proved, or the receiver must be acquitted.—R. v. WOOLFORD & LEWIS (1834), 1 Mood. & R. 384.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Craddock (1850), 2 Den. 31.

3607. — Previous joint indictment with others for the same offence.—R. v. DANN, No. 3565, ante.

3608. Obtaining by false pretences—Previous acquittal of larceny.—An acquittal of an offence charged as a larceny cannot be pleaded in bar to an indictment for the same offence charged as a false pretence.—R. v. HENDERSON (1841), Car. & M. 328; 2 Mood. C. C. 192; 5 J. P. 195.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Bowen (1849), 13 Q. B. 790.

containing them, the property being again laid in the Postmaster-General:—Held: the conviction of debt. by the justices was not a bar to his subsequent conviction upon the six counts in respect of which he first pleaded "autrefois convict" then "guilty."—R. v. POPE (1914), 26 W. L. R. 659.—CAN.

e. Unlawful possession—Previous acquittal for theft.—Accused was charged under Act 48 of 1882, s. 58, before the special ct., Kimberley, with the theft of diamonds, but, the evidence showing that he was not a servant in terms of the sect., he was discharged. Thereafter he was charged with contravening sect. 2 of the Act by having in his possession certain rough & uncut diamonds without being able to give a satisfactory account of, or to prove his right to, such possession. He pleaded autrefois convict, but was found guilty & sentenced:—Held: he had been properly convicted, as the second charge had been for a different offence, requiring evidence distinct from the first.—R. v. SMITH (1898), 15 S. C. 361.—S. AF.

f. Receiving stolen goods—Previous summary acquittal of being in possession of same goods reasonably suspected of being stolen.—Prisoner was charged before justices with having goods in his possession suspected to have been stolen, & acquitted. He was subsequently indicted for receiving same goods knowing them to have been stolen, & he pleaded acquittal by the justices:—Held: the plea was no answer to the indictment.—R. v. WRIGLEY (1897), 18 N. S. W. L. R. 160; 13 N. S. W. L. N. 227.—AUS.

g. ——The offence of having possession of property suspected of being stolen or unlawfully obtained & not giving a satisfactory account of how it was come by, is not substantially the same offence as that of receiving stolen property knowing it to be stolen:—Held: an acquittal on a charge of the former offence is no bar to a conviction of the latter offence.—R. v. CLEARY, [1914] V. L. R. 571.—AUS.

h. — Nolle prosequi entered on previous indictment for larceny & receiving.—Prisoner was convicted of receiving stolen goods, on an indictment containing two counts, one for stealing the goods & the other for receiving them, knowing them to have been stolen. Prisoner had, on a former day, in the same circuit, been indicted for stealing the same goods as those which he was charged with stealing by the first count of the present indictment. A jury was impanelled & the trial of prisoner begun, but in consequence of it appearing from the testimony that prisoner could not be convicted for larceny, the clerk of the Crown, who was conducting the prosecution by direction of the Attorney-General, entered a nolle prosequi, & then sent another bill before the grand jury, containing a count for receiving, the indictment on which the conviction took place, & on the trial he consented, that prisoner should be acquitted of the charge accordingly:—Held: a nolle prosequi being entered, prisoner could be again indicted for same offence.—R. v. THORNTON (1878), 2 P. & B. 140.—CAN.

k. Killing a cow—Previous acquittal for stealing & receiving the cow.—Prisoner was indicted for feloniously & maliciously killing a cow. He pleaded autrefois acquit, & proved that he had been acquitted of stealing & also of receiving the same animal:—Held: evidence did not support plea.—R. v. FOGG (1864), 3 N. S. W. S. C. R.

3609. Indictment under Prevention of Crime Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 7—Previous acquittal of larceny from the person.—There is no objection in law to trying a prisoner who has been acquitted of larceny, on an indictment, supported by exactly the same evidence of fact, under sect. 7 of the above Act.—R. v. MILES (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 13; 73 J. P. Jo. 516, C. C. A.

3610. Illegal pawning—Previous conviction for larceny.—The conviction of a person for larceny of a chattel is no bar to his subsequent prosecution, under Pawnbrokers Act, 1872 (c. 93), s. 33, for illegally pawning the chattel which he had stolen.—PICKFORD v. CORSI, [1901] 2 K. B. 212; 70 L. J. K. B. 710; 84 L. T. 627; 65 J. P. 628; 49 W. R. 537; 45 Sol. Jo. 540; 19 Cox, C. C. 712, D. C.

3611. Burglary & felony—Previous acquittal of burglary with intent to commit felony.—A plea of autrefois acquit of a burglary where the felony is laid as actually committed, cannot be pleaded to an indictment for the same burglary laid with intent to commit the felony, for they are two distinct & different offences.—R. v. VANDERCOMB & ABBOTT (1796), 2 Leach, 708; 2 East, P. C. 519, Ex. Ch.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Birchenough (1836), 1 Mood. C. C. 477. Mentd. R. v. Reid (1851), 2 Den. 88.

3612. Housebreaking—Previous acquittal for burglary.—Qu.: whether an acquittal for burglary is sufficient to bar an indictment for housebreaking on the same facts.—R. v. SEGAR & POTTER (1696), Comb. 401; 90 E. R. 554.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Newton (1849), 13 Q. B. 716.

3613. Bankruptcy offence—Omitting goods from schedule—Previous charge of omitting other goods from the same schedule.—An insolvent debtor acquitted on a former indictment for omitting goods out of his schedule, may be again indicted for

215.—AUS.

l. Robbery & conspiracy to rob—Previous conviction for receiving.—Prisoner, having been convicted of unlawfully receiving stolen money knowing it to have been stolen, was subsequently found guilty of conspiracy to rob & robbery. Money received by him in respect of which he was first convicted was part of the fruits of the robbery, which he was afterwards found guilty of conspiring to commit & committing:—Held: his conviction for receiving was not a bar to his conviction of robbing & of conspiracy to rob. The test was not whether the facts before the ct. at the first trial were the same as at the second, but whether prisoner could have been properly convicted on the first of the offences of conspiracy & robbery. At the first trial he was not in peril in respect of either of these offences.—R. v. HORNING (1922), 69 D. L. R. 530; 51 O. L. R. 504.—CAN.

m. Arson—Previous acquittal of arson with intent to injure.—To an information charging him with fire to a stack of grain, the property of A. B., prisoner pleaded to a previous acquittal on a charge of having set fire to a barn, the property of A. B. with intent to injure A. B. It was admitted that the setting fire in both cases was the same act:—Held: the evidence did not support the plea.—R. v. BINGHAM (1881), 2 N. S. W. L. R. 90.—AUS.

n. Attempting to cheat—Previous conviction for cheating.—As long as a conviction for actual cheating remains in force, a plea of autrefois convict is a complete defence to a charge of attempting to cheat.—R. v. WEISS & WILLIAMS (1913), 25 W. L. R. 351.—CAN.

o. Procuring forgery—Previous con-

Sect. 1.—Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sect. 3, C. & D.]

omitting other goods not specified in the former indictment, but such a course ought not to be taken except under very peculiar circumstances.—R. v. CHAMPNEYS (1837), 2 Mood. & R. 26.

3614. Malicious damage endangering safety of persons—Acquittal on charge of felony—Subsequent indictment for misdemeanour—Malicious Damage Act, 1861 (c. 97), s. 36, & Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), s. 34.]—An acquittal upon an indictment charging prisoner with a felony under Malicious Damage Act, 1861, s. 35, & Offences against the Person Act, 1861, s. 32, is no bar to a subsequent indictment being preferred upon the same facts for a misdemeanour under Malicious Damage Act, 1861, s. 36, & Offences against the Person Act, 1861, s. 34.—R. v. GILMORE (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 85.

3615. Uttering counterfeit coin—Previous conviction for felony—Subsequent indictment for misdemeanour—Coinage Offences Act, 1861 (c. 99).]—Applt. was indicted, together with two other prisoners, for three utterings of counterfeit coin on July 30, which is a misdemeanour under sect. 10 of the above Act. Then applt. was tried singly on a second indictment for one of the same three utterings of counterfeit florins at C. on July 30, after having been convicted of uttering counterfeit coins at N. in Feb. 1909, which was a felony by sect. 12, because there was a second offence of uttering. The whole of the second indictment was read out to prisoner, who pleaded not guilty. Not quite the same evidence was given as in the previous trial, because he was being tried alone. Evidence was then at once called as to a previous conviction at N. in Feb. 1909, without waiting for the verdict of the jury on the subsequent offence:—Held: an irregularity had been committed in contravention of the words in sect. 37 of the Act, which say that on an indictment for felony under that sect. prisoner must in the first instance be arraigned upon so much only of the indictment as charges the subsequent offence, & then afterwards the previous conviction may be inquired into.

A prisoner cannot plead autrefois convict to a felony indictment by pleading that he has just been convicted for the misdemeanour.—R. v. RUSSELL (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

violation for false pretences.]—H. was indicted for fraudulently procuring in Queensland the commission in N. S. W. of the offence of forging a document. He pleaded that he had been already convicted & punished for the acts charged against him on a former indictment for obtaining money by false pretences:—Held: the offences charged in the indictments respectively were distinct & the offence of procuring a forgery had been completed before the offence of obtaining money by false pretences, & therefore punishment for the former offence was not barred by the punishment for the latter offence.—R. v. HALL (No. 2), [1902] S. R. Q. 53.

a. Separate charges of embezzlement.]—Deft. was brought to trial charged with having between certain dates, while acting as cashier in the office of the H. Ry., received various sums of money for which he was bound to account, & pay over, but which he fraudulently converted to his own use. Objection was taken on the part of deft., that each taking constituted a separate offence, & the prosecuting counsel thereupon, by leave of the judge, amended by substituting separate charges covering the amount specified in the original charge. Deft. pleaded not guilty to each of said charges, & was tried upon the first charge & found guilty of fraudulently not accounting, but acquitted as to so much of the charge as related to failure to pay. Prisoner was sentenced on the first charge, & the hearing of the remaining charges were adjourned until Nov. 27, when the judge directed prisoner to be tried at the same time upon charges 16, 29, & 38:—Held: as the charges numbered 16, 29, & 38, showed on their face that they were in no respect identical with the first charge upon which prisoner was tried & convicted, but were for the theft of a different sum at a different date, the pleas of autrefois acquit & autrefois convict, which were disallowed by the judge, could not have in any way prevailed prisoner.—R. v. CROSS (1909), 43 N. S. R. 320; 6 E. L. R. 414; 14 Can. Crim. Cas. 171.—CAN.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—D.

q. Sedition—Previous conviction for inciting persons to resist police—Arising out of same subject-matter.]—Prisoner during a strike made a speech for which he was convicted by the

D. Other Cases.

3616. Conspiracy to raise rebellion—Conviction as to harbouring rebels.]—A conviction by the privy council for refusing to take an oath as to harbouring rebels cannot be pleaded as res judicata on an indictment for conspiracy to raise the same rebellion.—R. v. BAILLIE (1684), 10 State Tr. 617, P. C.

3617. Accessory before fact to felony—Previous acquittal as principal.]—A person who is tried for felony as a principal, & acquitted, cannot plead that acquittal, in bar of another indictment which charges him with being an accessory before the fact to the same felony.—R. v. PLANT (1836), 7 C. & P. 575; sub nom. R. v. BIRCHENOUGH, 1 Mood. C. C. 477, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758.

3618. Aiding & abetting—Previous acquittal of conspiracy to commit same offence.]—The fact that a person has been acquitted of conspiracy to commit a crime does not entitle him to plead autrefois acquit on a charge of aiding & abetting the commission of the crime.—R. v. KUPFERBERG (1918), 34 T. L. R. 587; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 166, C. C. A.

3619. Perjury—Previous acquittal of same perjury differently laid.]—Deft. was indicted in Middlesex for perjury committed in an affidavit, which indictment, after setting out so much of the affidavit as contained the false oath, concluded with a proul patet by the affidavit affiled in the Ct. of K. B. at Westminster, etc., & on this he was acquitted: after which he was indicted again in Middlesex for the same perjury, with this difference only, that the second indictment set out the jurat of the affidavit, in which it was stated to have been sworn in London, which was traversed, by an averment that in fact deft. was so sworn in Middlesex & not in London:—Held: he was entitled to plead autrefois acquit, for the jurat was not conclusive as to the place of swearing, & the same evidence as to the real place of swearing the affidavit might have been given under the first as under the second indictment, & therefore deft. had been once before put in jeopardy for the same offence.—R. v. EMDEN (1808), 9 East, 437; 103 E. R. 640.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Silkstone (1842), 2 Gal. & Dav. 396; R. v. Ratcliffe Culey (1846), 9 Q. B. 18; R. v. Crondall (1847), 10 Q. B. 812; Re Wenham (1848), 10 L. T. O. S. 444; Curtis v. Stovin (1889), 22 Q. B. D. 513.

stipendiary magistrate at Wellington on a charge under Police Offences Act, 1908, s. 6, of inciting persons to resist the police. The magistrate in hearing the case admittedly heard evidence of the whole speech, though only certain words, not appearing in the present indictment for sedition, were stressed before him. Prisoner pleaded "autrefois convict" to the charge of sedition:—Held: the plea was no answer; the one speech being two distinct offences.—R. v. YOUNG (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 1191.—N.Z.

3617 i. Accessory before fact to felony—Previous acquittal as principal.]—An acquittal of a man upon an indictment against him as principal in a felony, is a bar to an indictment against him as accessory to same felony before the fact.—R. v. FOY (1788), Vern. & Scr. 540.—IR.

r. Previous acquittal for conspiring to commit the offence.]—It is immaterial to a charge under Commonwealth Maternity Allowance Act, 1912 (No. 8), s. 10, that accused had been tried & acquitted on an indictment for having conspired with others to do acts unlawful by the statute & the facts, or some of the facts, relied on in support of such charge were given —Neglect to have child vaccinated.—Where a parent has once been convicted under 16 & 17 Vict. c. 100, ss. 2 & 9, for neglecting to have his child vaccinated within three months of its birth, he cannot, although he still neglects to get the child vaccinated, be a second time convicted.—PILCHER v. STAFFORD (1864), 4 B. & S. 775; 3 New Rep. 463; 33 L. J. M. C. 113; 28 J. P. 88; 10 Jur. N. S. 651; 12 W. R. 407; 122 E. R. 651; sub nom. STAFFORD v. PILCHER, 9 L. T. 759.

3620. Continuing offences not again chargeable

Annotations:—Distd. Allen v. Worthy (1870), L. R. 5 Q. B. 163. Refd. Milnes v. Bale, Milnes v. Lea (1875), L. R. 10 C. P. 591; R. v. Portsmouth JJ., [1892] 1 Q. B. 491.

3621. — Effect of Vaccination Act, 1867 (c. 84), s. 31.—On Mar. 30, 1869, A. was convicted for disobeying an order of a justice to cause his child to be vaccinated within seven days from the date of such order. Subsequently the registrar of births & deaths gave him notice to procure the vaccination of the child, which he failed to do; & on Apr. 29, another information came on to be heard against him, when he was ordered to have the child vaccinated within seven days from the date of such order. At the hearing he produced a certificate in the form given in schedule B. to the above Act, & signed by a medical practitioner, certifying that the child was not in a fit state to be vaccinated, & postponing the vaccination until June 20. He did not obey the order made upon him, & on May 13, 1869, another information under above Act, s. 31, came on to be heard against him for disobedience of such order. He again produced the certificate above mentioned, but he was convicted:—Held: (1) the justices were not deprived of the jurisdiction to convict him, by reason of the former conviction; (2) the certificate was not a bar to the proceeding but the justices had jurisdiction to consider whether it was given bonâ fide or not, & if they thought it was not, they might consider that A. had shown no reasonable ground for his omission to carry the order into effect.—ALLEN v. WORTHY (1870), L. R. 5 Q. B. 163; 39 L. J. M. C. 36; 21 L. T. 665; 34 J. P. 263.

Annotations:—As to (1) Consd. Knight v. Halliwell (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 412; Kennard v. Simmons (1884), 15 Cox, C. C. 397. Refd. Tebb v. Jones (1877), 37 L. T. 576; R.

v. Brocklehurst (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 48; R. v. Portsmouth JJ., [1892] 1 Q. B. 491. As to (2) Refd. Hinds v. Elsam (1903), 88 L. T. 867.

3622. — Neglect to keep dog under control.—Applt. was charged with non-compliance, on Aug. 21, 1889, & ten days thereafter, with an order made by justices under Dogs Act, 1871 (c. 56), s. 2, requiring him to keep a dangerous dog under proper control. No evidence was given to support the charge except as to Aug. 21, & the charge was dismissed on the ground that the offence had not been made out. Subsequently applt. was charged with not keeping the dog under proper control on Aug. 21, simply. This charge was proved & applt. was convicted:—Held: as applt. was put in peril & might have been convicted on the first hearing, the matter was res judicata on the second hearing, & the maxim nemo bis vexari debet applied.—RYLEY v. BROWN (1890), 62 L. T. 458; 54 J. P. 486; 17 Cox, C. C. 79, C. C. R.

3623. — Leaving children chargeable.—On Oct. 1, 1898, the three children of prisoner became chargeable to the parish of P., & had ever since remained chargeable. On Nov. 13, 1900, prisoner was convicted under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83), s. 4, for running away & leaving the children chargeable, & was sentenced to imprisonment. On Jan. 22 a warrant was issued for his arrest in respect of a like offence, & on Dec. 14, 1903, he was arrested thereunder:—Held: on the ground that there had been a continuous chargeability of the children, there could be but one offence, & for that prisoner had already suffered punishment.—PADDINGTON GUARDIANS v. SULLIVAN (1903), 68 J. P. 23.

3624. Information for driving car at speed exceeding twenty miles—Previous conviction for dangerous driving—Motor Car Act, 1903 (c. 36), ss. 1, 9.—The driver of a motor-car was convicted under above Act, s. 1, of driving his motor-car in a manner which was dangerous to the public.

Evidence was given as to speed, & the question of speed, besides other circumstances, was taken into consideration on such conviction. He was then charged on a second information with driving his car at a speed exceeding twenty miles an hour, contrary to sect. 9 of the Act:—Held: (JELF, J. diss.), as the question of speed had been taken in proof of conspiracy.—R. v. ERSON, [1914] V. L. R. 144.—AUS.

s. Conspiracy to commit an offence—Previous trial for offence.—The plea of autrefois acquit is not available in respect of a charge of conspiracy; the offence of conspiring to commit an indictable offence is quite distinct from the offence itself.—R. v. WEISS & WILLIAMS (1913), 25 W. L. R. 351.—CAN.

—Where a person has been tried for a specific offence & acquitted, & he is subsequently charged with conspiracy of which that offence is alleged to form a part:—Held: an acquittal is conclusive; & it would be a very dangerous principle to regard a judgment of not guilty as not fully establishing the innocence of the person to whom it relates.—R. v. LALIT MOHAN CHUCKERBUTTY (1911), 1 L. R. 38 Cal. 559.—IND.

a. Assault on police constable—Previous acquittal for resisting another constable in execution of his duty.—The dismissal of a charge of resisting constable A. in the execution of his duty is no bar to a charge of assaulting constable B. in the execution of his duty even though the two charges arise out of the same set of facts, & the evidence on both is substantially the same.—McLINEY v. MINSTER, [1911] V. L. R. 347.—AUS.

b. — Previous conviction of being drunk & disorderly.—A person convicted of being “drunk & disorderly” was upon same evidence convicted subsequently of assaults upon the police:—Held: the first conviction was a bar to the second on the ground that no person shall be convicted twice for the same offence.—R. (FLYNN) v. COUNTY CORK JJ. (1909), 43 I. L. T. 154.—IR.

c. Assisting in keeping a gaming house—Previous conviction for betting there.—Applt. was charged under Games, Wagers & Betting Houses Act, 1902 (No. 18), s. 19 (2), with being found in a betting house & convicted, the evidence showing that he was not only there but was assisting the keeper thereof.

He was then charged with assisting the keeper, & the deposition in the former case being put in by consent as the evidence in the case, was convicted:—Held: as he had not been convicted a second time upon the same facts within the meaning of the maxim nemo debet bis puniri pro uno delicto since though the same evidence was given in each case the facts necessary & material to the proof of each charge were distinct.—Ex p. SPENCER (1905), 5 S. R. N. S. W. 250.—AUS.

d. Election offences.—Prisoner was indicted for having applied for & voted on a ballot in another person's name at a Dominion election, on which charge he was acquitted. He was subsequently indicted & convicted for perjury in having on same occasion taken the oath of identity:—Held: the offences were distinct; the personation being complete under Dominion Election Act, 1900, s. 114, when he applied for the ballot; while the perjury, which was an offence under Criminal Code, was not committed until, on being challenged, he took the false oath; & therefore, a plea of autrefois acquit could not be set up as an answer to the subsequent indictment.—R. v. QUINN (1905), 11 O. L. R. 242; 6 O. W. R. 1011.—CAN.

e. Prosecution as British subject—Previous acquittal as foreign citizen.—Prisoner being charged as a citizen of the U.S., was acquitted on proving himself to be a British subject. He was then indicted as a subject of Her Majesty, & pleaded autrefois acquit:—Held: the plea was not proved, for that the offence in the case of a foreigner & a subject is substantially different, the evidence, irrespective of national status, which would convict a foreigner, being insufficient as against a subject; & prisoner, therefore, was not in legal peril on the first indictment.—R. v. MAGRATH (1867), 26 U. C. R. 385.—CAN.

f. Recognisance to keep peace.—To act. fa. on a recognisance to keep the peace towards H.M., charging an

Sect. 1.—Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sect. 3, D.; sub-sect. 4.]

into consideration on the conviction under sect. 1, the conviction was a bar to a conviction under sect. 9 for driving at a speed exceeding twenty miles an hour.—WELTON v. TANEBORNE (1908), 99 L. T. 668; 72 J. P. 419; 24 T. L. R. 873; 21 Cox, C. C. 702; 6 L. G. R. 891, D. C.

See, further, STREET & AERIAL TRAFFIC.

SUB-SECT. 4.—MATTERS NOT GIVING GROUNDS FOR PLEA.

3625. Discharge of jury on previous trial—Discharge during trial.]—R. v. WHITEHEAD (1679), 7 State Tr. 311.

Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460. Refd. R. v. Kinloch (1746), Fost. 16, 28; Winsor v. R. (1866), 6 B. & S. 143.

3626. ———.]—R. v. KINLOCH, No. 3222, ante.

3627. ———.]—R. v. GOULD (1763), 18 State Tr. 415, n.

Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3628. ———.]—Where, in a case of misdeemeanour, the jury are improperly, & against the will of deft., discharged by the judge from giving a verdict after the trial has begun, this is not equivalent to an acquittal, nor does it entitle deft. to judgment quod eat sine die. At the trial, a material & necessary witness for the Crown refused to give evidence, & was committed for contempt, whereupon, at the application of counsel for the Crown, deft. objecting, the judge discharged the jury from giving any verdict. The ct. in that case refused to allow deft. to add a plea puis darrein continuance, stating the above facts on the ground that this would be to allow double pleading, & also, as the facts would be set out on the record, deft. could take advantage of them.—R. v. CHARLESWORTH (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; 31 L. J. M. C. 25; 5 L. T. 150; 25 J. P. 820; 8 Jur. N. S. 1091; 9 W. R. 842; 9 Cox, C. C. 44; 121 E. R. 786.

Annotations:—*Folld. R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722. Refd. R. v. Heytesbury (1863), 8 L. T. 315; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; R. v. Richardson (1913), 108 L. T. 384.

3629. ——— Discharge on failure to agree.]—Prisoner was indicted for an indecent assault. Upon his trial at the Middlesex sessions the jury, not being able to agree upon their verdict, were, after being locked up five hours, discharged from assault & breach of the peace, deft. pleaded that he had been summarily convicted before a magistrate for the assault & paid the fine imposed:—Held: no defence.—R. v. HARMER (1854), 17 U. C. R. 555.—CAN.

PART VIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 4.

3625 i. Discharge of jury on previous trial—Discharge during trial.]—At a trial for forgery a material witness, while under examination, had an apoplectic fit, & a medical practitioner gave evidence that it would be dangerous to his health to continue the examination same day or next day, whereupon the judge discharged the jury. At a later day in same sittings, the witness being sufficiently recovered to be examined, prisoner was again arraigned on same indictment, pleaded "not guilty," & was convicted & sentenced:—Held: there was a sufficient necessity to justify the judge in discharging the jury, in the exercise of his discretion, & the second trial & conviction were regular, even if the judge had erroneously exercised his discretion as a plea of autrefois convict or autrefois acquit could not have been supported.—R. v. HENNESSEY (1873), 2 C. A. 243.—N.Z.

3629 i. ——— Discharge on failure to agree.]—Where prisoner is unanimously acquitted of some charges, & the jury are divided as to the rest & discharged, & he is "retried" under Criminal Procedure Code, s. 308, before a different jury, he is not being "tried again" within the meaning of sect. 403, but his retrial is on the original indictment & plea, & the ct. continues the trial before another jury, & the process may continue till a verdict is passed on all the counts.—R. v. NIRMAL KANTA ROY (1914), 1 L. R. 41 Calc. 1072.—IND.

g. ——— Intimation of withdrawal of proceedings by Crown.]—Accused was arraigned on an accusation of murder. The jury disagreed. The judge's note of what occurred read as follows: "After an absence of two hours & ten minutes the jury returned giving a verdict. Upon his second trial at the Central Criminal Ct. it was objected, upon his arraignment, that prisoner could not be tried again, the judge having discharged the jury from giving their verdict of his own caprice, & not from any illness of the jurors, or any real necessity having arisen for their discharge:—Held: the judge presiding at the trial was sole judge as to whether a necessity for such a proceeding as discharging the jury had arisen, & a discretionary power was vested in him. He must exercise that discretion & the discharge of jury was no bar to a second trial.—R. v. DAVISON (1860), 2 F. & F. 250; 8 Cox, C. C. 360.

Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; Winsor v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722; R. v. Richardson (1913), 108 L. T. 384.

3630. ———.]—Where a trial has proved abortive, & no verdict has been given, there is no rule of law to prevent prisoner being again put on a second trial, the maxim that a man is not to be put in peril twice for the same offence applying only to cases where verdicts have been given.—WINSOR v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 390; 7 B. & S. 490; 35 L. J. M. C. 161; 30 J. P. 374; 12 Jur. N. S. 561; 14 W. R. 695; sub nom. R. v. WINSOR, 10 Cox, C. C. 327, Ex. Ch.

Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Murphy (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 535; A.-G. for New South Wales v. Murphy (1870), 21 L. T. 598; R. v. Payne (1872), 41 L. J. M. C. 65; R. v. Bradlaugh (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 217; R. v. Lewis (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722; R. v. Richardson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 159; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299. Mentd. Droege v. Suart, The Karnak (1869), L. R. 2 P. C. 505; R. v. Littlechild, R. v. Heslop (1871), 40 L. J. M. C. 137.

3631. Acquittal on ground of defective indictment.]—*ANON. (1484), Jenk. 162; 145 E. R. 104.

3632. ———.]—The plea of autrefois acquit is a good plea only when the acquittal is upon an indictment sufficient in law.—R. v. VAUX (1591), 4 Co. Rep. 44 a; 2 Hale, P. C. 251; 76 E. R. 992.

Annotations:—*Refd. Wrote v. Wiggles (1591), 4 Co. Rep. 45 b; Gardiner v. Spurdant (1617), Cro. Jac. 438; Willmott v. Tiler (1701), 12 Mod. Rep. 448; R. v. Rhodes & Cole (1703), 2 Ld. Raym. 886; Jones v. Givins (1713), Gilb. 185; R. v. Aylett (1785), 1 Term Rep. 63; Gray v. R. (1844), 6 State Tr. N. S. 117; Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458; R. v. Drury (1848), 3 Car. & Kir. 190, 193; R. v. Drury (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 189.

3633. ———.]—*WROTE v. WIGGES, No. 3574, ante.

3634. ———.]—R. v. CARTER (1704), 6 Mod. Rep. 167; Holt, K. B. 347; 87 E. R. 924.

3635. ———.]—When an indictment is preferred, there may be, & frequently are, three cases, wherein there can be no acquittal which can be pleaded into ct. & on being asked by the Registrar if they are agreed on a verdict the foreman replied, "We are not agreed, & there is no likelihood of our agreeing if we retire for a week." The judge thereupon dismissed the jury. The Solr.-General intimates that he does not intend to proceed with the case against prisoner, & withdraws the indictment; prisoner is thereupon discharged.

Subsequently the A.-G. again indicted accused on a charge of murder. Before pleading to the merits accused pleaded a previous acquittal:—Held: in the absence of any verdict either acquitting or convicting accused of the charge of murder, the plea of previous acquittal could not be sustained.—R. v. KERR, [1907] E. D. C. 324; 25 S. C. 91; 18 C. T. R. 32.—S. AF.

h. ———.]—In a trial for murder the jury disagreed & accused was remanded under custody. The A.-G. thereupon ordered prisoner to be liberated & he was discharged from custody. Two years later he was in bar, viz., if the bill be returned ignoramus, if it be coram non Judice, there not being a complete authority, & if the indictment be insufficient.—JONES v. GIVIN (1713), Gilb. 185; 10 Mod. Rep. 214; 93 E. R. 300.

Annotations.—Refd. Chambers v. Robinson (1726), 2 Stra. 691; Smith v. Hickson (1734), 2 Barn. K. B. 465; Chapman v. Pickersgill (1762), 2 Wils. 145; Sutton v. Johnstone (1786), 1 Term Rep. 493; Wicks v. Fentham (1791), 4 Term Rep. 247; Dawkins v. Paulet (1869), 18 W. R. 336.

3636. — Unless second indictment contains same defect.]—Prisoner acquitted of forgery, on a variance between the instrument produced in evidence & that recited in the indictment, cannot plead autrefois acquit to another indictment for the same offence except the instrument be again misrecited in the same manner.—R. v. COOGAN (1787), 1 Leach, 448; 2 East, P. C. 948.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Ritson (1869), 39 L. J. M. C. 10; R. v. Riley, [1896] 1 Q. B. 309; R. v. Cade, [1914] 2 K. B. 209.

3637. —.]—This blunder which makes the indictment absurd & repayment is, in the opinion of all the Judges of England, a sufficient reason for arresting judgment. But as the opinion is founded, not on any proof of the prisoner's innocence, but merely on the informality of the record, he may be again indicted for the offence (per cur.).—R. v. READING (1793), 2 Leach, 590.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Edsall (1798), 2 Leach, 662, n.; R. v. Faderman (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 359.

3638. —.]—The consequence is that the indictment is repugnant & defective, & prisoner must be discharged from it. But as the objection goes only to the form of the indictment & not to the merits of the case, he must be remanded to prison until the end of the session, to afford prosecutor an opportunity, if he thinks fit, of preparing another & better indictment against him (per cur.).—R. v. GILCHRIST (1795), 2 Leach, 657.

R. v. Reeves (1798), 2 Leach, 808; R. v. Faderman (1850), Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Edsall (1798), 2 Leach, 662, n. 4 Cox, C. C. 361.

3639. —.]—R. v. TAYLOR, No. 3556, ante.

3640. —.]—The first count of an indictment charged prisoners with having in their possession a mould intended to impress the stamp of the reverse side of a shilling, the second stated, that the mould was intended to impress the obverse side; the third stated that it was intended to impress part or parts of the reverse side, & the fourth stated the same as to the obverse side. A general verdict of guilty having been recorded, a motion was made in arrest of judgment on the ground that the two last counts were bad for uncertainty, whereupon the judge directed another indictment to be preferred. The second indictment contained the two first counts of the previous one, a third & fourth stated, that the mould was intended to impress parts of the obverse & parts of the reverse sides, & a fifth & sixth used the word "part" instead of parts. Prisoner pleaded autrefois convict.—Held: the plea was bad & the second conviction must be confirmed.—R. v. PHILLIPS & BRUNSDEN (1837), 1 Jur. 427, Ex. Ch.

3641. —.]—A judgment for a prisoner on demurrer in a case of felony, on the ground that the indictment does not sufficiently charge the felony, is no bar to a subsequent good indictment for the same felony.—R. v. RICHMOND (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 240; 2 L. T. O. S. 230; 1 Cox, C. C. 9.

3642. — Except in case of immaterial misnomer.]—Prisoner was indicted for stealing the goods of William Carr. It appeared in evidence that the proper name of the owner was John Wilson, & an acquittal was directed. Prisoner was again indicted for stealing the goods of "John Wilson, otherwise called William Carr." Prisoner pleaded autrefois acquit, with an averment that "the said William Carr was known as well by the name of William Carr as John Wilson":—Held: the plea was good.—R. v. AUSTIN (1846), 7 L. T. O. S. 432; 2 Cox, C. C. 59.

3643. Acquittal on ground of error in time of arraignment.]—ANON. (1420), Jenk. 72.

3644. Acquittal through defect in record.]—R. v. DRURY, No. 3559, ante.

3645. Defect in proceedings before grand jury—Witness not sworn.]—R. v. BITTON, No. 2441, ante.

3646. —.]—A person who has pleaded to an indictment which was invalid, on account of its having been found upon the testimony of witnesses not duly sworn to give evidence, may be required to plead to another indictment for the same offence, without the first indictment being quashed by the ct.—ANON. (1833), 6 C. & P. 95.

3647. —.]—R. v. BRESLAUER (1904), 68 J. P. Jo. 341.

3648. Acquittal on summary charge of assault alleged—Where trial not on the merits.]—Prisoner was charged with common assault before a stipendiary magistrate, & the charge was dismissed, but the magistrate declined to grant a re-arrested on same charge & brought to trial. A plea of autrefois acquit was raised:—Held: prisoner was not liable to be retried.—R. v. KELIJANA (1909), 30 N. L. R. 437.—S. AF.

k. Conviction quashed on ground of defective indictment.—M. was charged with buying a rough diamond, not being duly licensed or authorised, but the indictment did not allege where the sale had taken place. He was convicted before the Special Ct. of K., but on appeal the indictment was quashed, the record being as follows: "Indictment & conviction quashed." M. was subsequently charged again with the same offence on a proper indictment, & pleaded "autrefois acquit":—Held: the ct. could take cognisance of the grounds upon which the former indictment had been quashed, & could therefore go behind the record, & the plea of autrefois acquit was bad, as prisoner had never been in jeopardy.—R. v. MYERS (1882), 2 S. C. 219.—S. AF.

l. —.]—The conviction of prisoner found guilty of the theft of horses, the property of some persons unknown, was set aside on the ground that at the trial the owners of the horses appeared to give evidence & no amendment of the charge had taken place. Prisoner was subsequently tried again for stealing same horses, the property of certain persons set out in the charge. He pleaded autrefois acquit:—Held: the plea of autrefois acquit was bad.—R. v. TWALATUNGA (1903), 20 S. C. 425.—S. AF.

3644 i. Acquittal through defect in record.—Prisoner had been charged with maliciously wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The jury found a verdict of guilty of "unlawfully wounding." On a Crown case reserved the ct. decided that this did not amount to a verdict of maliciously wounding with intent, but was in reality no verdict at all; the conviction was quashed on the ground of error on the record:—Held: prisoner was properly tried afterwards & convicted on a charge of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm, arising out of the same facts.—R. v. LEE (1895), 16 N. S. W. L. R. 6.—AUS.

m. Acquittal on technical grounds.—The quashing of a conviction on technical grounds will not support a plea of autrefois acquit.—R. v. CARVER, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 1170.—CAN.

n. Acquittal of some in joint charge.—An acquittal of some of the accused on charges of rioting armed with deadly weapons, grievous hurt & murder is no bar to the trial of others concerned in same offences.—KOKAI SARDAR v. MEHER KHAN (1910), 1 L. R. 37 Calc. 680.—IND.

o. Discharge at preliminary hearing before magistrates.—Accused was charged with theft before two justices, & they, after preliminary inquiry directed by sect. 577, discharged him, being "of opinion that no sufficient case was made out to put accused on his trial." Subsequently another information on same charge was laid against him, & after a preliminary inquiry he was committed for trial. It was objected that there is no jurisdiction in any magistrate to hear such a charge twice, & as the same magistrates dismissed it, & in any event the indictment should be quashed because depositions laid before grand jury & on which indictment was founded certificate of dismissal. Prisoner was subsequently indicted for the assault along with three alleged acts of intimidation. At the trial, it was objected that the charge of assault had already been dealt with:—Held: the charge had not been heard on the merits, & the objection was overruled.—R. v. EDMONDES (1895), 59 J. P. 776.

Sect. 1.—Plea of autrefois acquit and autrefois convict: Sub-sect. 4. Sects. 2 & 3. Parts IX. & X. Sects. 1 & 2: Sub-sect. 1.]

3649. Informality in proceedings—Betting House Act, 1853 (c. 119)—Licensing Act, 1872 (c. 94)—Dismissal on technical grounds.]—W. appeared before a ct. of summary jurisdiction in answer to a summons which was being treated as being, & intended to be, a summons under Betting Houses Act, 1853 (c. 119). On a technical ground this summons was dismissed, but another summons was immediately granted under Licensing Act, 1872 (c. 94), & upon this summons deft. was convicted. On appeal to quarter sessions:—Held: the conviction on this second summons was bad, as, on the first summons, as drawn, deft. might have been convicted of the offence of which he was convicted on the second summons.—WOOD v. NAIRN (1897), 61 J. P. 184.

3650. ——— Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910 (c. 24), s. 79—Erroneous committal for trial.]—By s. 79 of the Licensing Act, 1910, it is an offence punishable on summary conviction by a fine not exceeding £20 for the holder of a justices' licence to suffer his premises to be used in contravention of the Betting Act, 1853.

By ss. 1 & 3 of the Betting Act, 1853, it is an offence punishable by fine or imprisonment not exceeding six months for the occupier of premises to use them for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto.

By s. 17 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (c. 49), a person charged before a ct. of summary jurisdiction with an offence punishable with imprisonment exceeding three months may claim to be tried by a jury.

Applt. was the licensee of the Gate Inn at Matlock. On Apr. 30, 1919, six informations were laid against him. Five of them charged that he, being the licensee of the Gate Inn, had on Apr. 21, 1919, & other dates respectively, suffered the premises to be used by certain persons for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto in contravention of the Betting House Act, 1853 (c. 49), contrary to the form of the statute in such case made & provided. The sixth information charged that applt. on Apr. 21, 1919, he then being the occupier of the Gate Inn, unlawfully did use the same for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto. The six informations were heard together by justices sitting as a ct. of summary jurisdiction. Applt. claimed to be tried by a jury, & he was committed for trial on all the informations. At quarter sessions he was indicted & tried for the offence under the Betting Act, 1853, alleged to have been committed at the Gate Inn on Apr. 21, & was acquitted. The justices subsequently heard the first five informations, & convicted applt. on each of them. Applt. appealed to quarter sessions. The appeal as to the offence alleged on Apr. 21 was allowed, & the other appeals were dismissed:—Held: (1) the offence under the Betting Act, 1853, is not the same offence as that created by s. 79 of the Licensing (Consolidation) Act, 1910, & applt. had not been twice placed in jeopardy for the same offence; (2) as a person charged with an offence under s. 79 has no right to claim to be tried by a jury, the act of the justices in purporting to commit applt. for trial on the five informations which alleged offences under s. 79 was a mere nullity & did not deprive the justices of jurisdiction to hear those informations summarily at a subsequent date.—BANNISTER v. CLARKE, [1920] 3 K. B. 598; 90 L. J. K. B. 256; 124 L. T. 28; 85 J. P. 12; 36 T. L. R. 778; 26 Cox. C. C. 641, D. C.

3651. ——— Omission to inform accused of right to be tried by jury.]—Upon the hearing of an information preferred by resp. against applt. under the above Act, it was discovered, when the third of resp.'s witnesses was being examined, that applt. had not, through inadvertence, been informed before the charge was proceeded with, as required by Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (c. 49), s. 17, of his right to be tried by a jury, & thereupon the solt. for resp. withdrew the summons with the consent of the justices, although the solt. for applt. contended that there was no power to withdraw it. A further information was subsequently preferred by the resp. under the same Act against the applt. The evidence given on the hearing of both informations was substantially the same:—Held: the withdrawal of the first summons in consequence of the technical informality was not equivalent to a dismissal which could be pleaded in bar of the subsequent proceedings.—DAVIS v. MORTON, [1913] 2 K. B. 479; 82 L. J. K. B. 665; 108 L. T. 677; 77 J. P. 223; 29 T. L. R. 466; 23 Cox, C. C. 359.

Annotation:—Mentd. Hopkins v. Hopkins, [1914] P. 282.

3652. ——— Evidence unsworn.]—Appet. convicted by a metropolitan magistrate of assaulting a police constable in the execution of his duty, but by some inadvertence the constable who was assaulted gave his evidence at the hearing of the charge without being sworn. Upon the attention of the magistrate being called to the irregularity, he, later in the same day, reheard the case, all the evidence being then given upon oath. The magistrate again convicted applt. A rule having been obtained to quash the second conviction upon the ground that it was bad in that appet. at the only included those taken at first hearing, not second:—Held: preliminary inquiry is not final in its nature, & at common law a dismissal by magistrates is not tantamount to an acquittal upon indictment. All proceedings have been regular, & there is no ground for quashing this indictment.—R. v. HANNAY (1905), 2 W. L. R. 543.—CAN.

p. Withdrawal of summons.]—An order of justices permitting a summons for an offence punishable on summary conviction to be withdrawn does not amount to an acquittal, & a fresh summons may subsequently be issued for same offence.—R. (McDONNELL) v. TYRONE JJ., [1912] 2 I. R. 44.—IR.

q. Dismissal without prejudice.]—A "dismissal without prejudice" of a previous summons for an alleged violation of secrecy under Ballot Act is not a bar to a subsequent conviction for same offence.—R. v. UNKLES (1874), 1 I. R. 8 C. L. 50.—IR.

r. ————Resp. was charged before justices at Petty Sessions with larceny of property not exceeding in value five shillings & conceded to the justices hearing the case. The justices made an order dismissing the charge "without prejudice," & gave resp. a certificate under their hands of such dismissal:—Held: the dismissal, although expressed to be without prejudice, was a bar to a subsequent prosecution for same offence.—GREAT

SOUTHERN & WESTERN IRY. CO. v. GOODING, [1908] 2 I. R. 429.—IR.

s. Informality in proceedings—Justices having no jurisdiction.]—The withdrawal of a charge before justices in the case of an indictable offence where the justices have no summary jurisdiction & before prisoner has pleaded, is not a bar to a subsequent presentment for the same alleged offence.—R. v. WOODHOUSE, [1919] V. L. R. 736.—AUS.

t. ——— Conviction quashed.]—Where a conviction by justices is quashed on the ground that it is bad on its face by reason of the sentence pronounced being one which the justices had no jurisdiction to award, time of the conviction had previously been put in peril in respect of the same offence:—Held: the rule must be discharged inasmuch as appt. had not been legally convicted on the first hearing & had therefore not been in peril at the time of the second hearing, & the second conviction was therefore good.—R. v. MARSHAM, Ex p. PETHICK LAWRENCE, [1912] 2 K. B. 362; 81 L. J. K. B. 957; 107 L. T. 89; 76 J. P. 284; 28 T. L. R. 391; 23 Cox, C. C. 77, D. C.

Annotations:—Distd. Davis v. Morton, [1913] 2 K. B. 479. Apld. Bannister v. Clarke, [1920] 3 K. B. 598.

3653. — Sale of Food & Drugs Act, 1899 (c. 51) — Omission to serve certificate of analysis.—An information was preferred against applt. for having sold milk which was deficient in natural fat & also contained a certain percentage of added water. When the case came on for hearing the magistrate was informed that no certificate of analysis had been served with the summons in accordance with sect. 19 (2) of the above Act, whereupon he dismissed the summons. No evidence as to the facts was given. A second summons was then taken out in respect of the same alleged offence, & with it was served a copy of the analyst's certificate:—Held: applt. had been in peril of being convicted on the first summons & therefore was entitled to plead autrefois acquit to the second summons.—HAYNES v. DAVIS, [1915] 1 K. B. 332; 84 L. J. K. B. 441; 112 L. T. 417; 79 J. P. 187; 24 Cox, C. C. 533; 13 L. G. R. 497, D. C.

SECT. 2.—PLEA TO THE JURISDICTION.

See COURTS, Vol. XVI., p. 125, Nos. 233–240.

SECT. 3.—PLEA OF PARDON.

See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, Vol. XI., pp. 516 et seq.

Part IX.—The Jury.

Grand jury.]—See Part VI., Sect. 5, ante.

Petty jury.]—See JURIES.

Part X.—Informations.

SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

3654. Former practice.—Informations at common law were filed by the coroner, who did it upon any application, as a matter of course, 4 & 5 Will. & Mar., c. 18, was therefore made to limit it, & other grounds there are by which the ct. has limited itself (LORD MANSFIELD, C.J.).—R. v. ROBINSON (1765), 1 Wm. Bl. 541; 96 E. R. 313. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Casey (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 310.

3655. By private person & by attorney-general.—There are two kinds of “information” applicable to perjury, & one being a proceeding by the Q. B. Div. on the relation of a person who thinks he is entitled to set the extraordinary power of the ct. in motion, the other being the well-known proceeding by the Crown through the A.-G. (DENMAN, J.).—R. v. SLATOR (1881), 8 Q. B. D. 267; 51 L. J. Q. B. 246; 46 J. P. 694; 30 W. R. 410, D. C.

Quo warranto.—See CROWN PRACTICE, Vol. XVI., pp. 353 et seq.

Revenue proceedings.—See CROWN PRACTICE, Vol. XVI., pp. 214 et seq.

SECT. 2.—INFORMATIONS FILED BY THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

n.—A suggestion upon record on behalf of the King.—WILKES v. R. (1770), 4 the case is to be treated as if the conviction had not been made. Accused may be put on trial again on same charge, & he cannot successfully avail himself of the objection of autrefois convict or autrefois acquit, either of which must have for its basis an adjudication in fact within jurisdiction.—CONLIN v. PATTERSON, [1915] 2 I. R. 169.—IR.

a. —.—.—.]—Accused was charged with selling liquor without a licence to A., & convicted. The conviction was quashed, on the ground that the evidence disclosed a sale not to A., but to B. through the agency of A. Accused was then charged on same facts with selling to B., & pleaded autrefois acquit, but was convicted:—Held: the plea of autrefois acquit was bad.—R. v. LEVI, [1906] E. D. C. 272.—S. AF.

b. Verdict of coroner's jury.—The fact that the coroner's jury brought in

Bro. Parl. Cas. 360; 2 E. R. 244; sub nom. R. v. WILKES, 4 Burr. 2527; 19 State Tr. 1075, H. L.

Annotations:—Refd. Moody v. Stracey (1812), 4 Taunt. 588. Mentd. Entick v. Carrington (1765), 2 Wils. 275; Steel v. Sowerby (1795), 6 Term Rep. 171; Thellusson v. Woodford (1798), 4 Ves. 227; Wood v. Plant (1807), 1 Taunt. 44; Beauchamp v. Tomkins (1810), 3 Taunt. 141; Butt v. Conant (1820), 1 Brod. & Bing. 548; Stockdale v. Hansard (1839), 2 Per. & Dav. 1; Gray v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 427; O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; R. v. O'Connell (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 376; Douglas v. R. (1848), 12 Jur. 974; Wray v. Toke (1848), 17 L. J. M. C. 183; Eastern Archipelago Co. v. R. (1853), 2 E. & B. 856; Ex p. Newton (1855), 4 E. & B. 869; R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460; R. v. Cutbush (1867), L. R. 2 Q. B. 379; R. v. Paine (1867), 16 L. T. 282; Bradlaugh v. R. (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 607; Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229; R. v. Martin, [1911] 2 K. B. 450; Hines v. Hines & Burdett, [1918] P. 364; Gibbs v. Gibbs & Heathcote (1920), 123 L. T. 206.

3657. Who may file information—Solicitor-general during vacancy of attorney-general's office.—WILKES v. R., No. 3656, ante.

3658. — Not Attorney-General for Duchy of Lancaster.—It is not competent to the A.-G. of the Duchy of Lancaster to exhibit an information in the High Ct. of Justice, & the ct. will order an information exhibited by him to be taken off the file on the application of deft. even after answer put in by deft.—A.-G. OF DUCHY OF LANCASTER v. DEVONSHIRE (DUKE) (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 195; 54 L. J. Q. B. 271; 33 W. R. 367; 1 T. L. R. 185, D. C.

Annotations:—Mentd. A.-G. of Duchy of Lancaster v. L. & N. W. Ry., [1892] 3 Ch. 274.

a verdict of accidental death in the case of a person accused of homicide, does not justify the pleading of d'autrefois acquit.—R. v. LABELLE (1892), Q. R. 2 Q. B. 289.—CAN.

PART X. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.

c. Who may file information—Crown prosecutor for Attorney-General.—A prosecutor for the Queen has power to file in the name of the A.-G. a presentment against any person for

Sect. 2.—Informations filed by the Attorney-General:
Sub-sects. 1 & 2. Sect. 3: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

3659. For what offences—Misdemeanour.]—R. v. WILKES, ante. 3656, ante.

3660. — Of a serious nature.]—HORNE v. R. (1778), 4 Bro. Parl. Cas. 368; sub nom. R. v. HORNE, 2 Cowp. 672; 20 State Tr. 651; 98 E. R. 1300, H. L.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Philipps (1805), 6 East, 464; Bradlaugh v. R. (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 607. Mentd. R. v. Griffin (1733), Kel. W. 292; R. v. Topham (1791), 4 Term Rep. 126; Hawkes v. Hawke (1807), 8 East, 427; R. v. Marsden (1815), 4 M. & S. 164; Churchill v. Hunt (1819), 1 Chit. 480; R. v. Burdett (1821), 4 B. & Ald. 314; May v. Brown (1824), 3 B. & C. 113; R. v. Morley (1827), 1 Y. & J. 221; Adams v. Meredew (1828), 2 Y. & J. 417; Goldstein v. Foss (1828), 2 Y. & J. 146; Tuam Archbp. v. Robeson (1828), 5 Bing. 17; Harvey v. French (1832), 1 Cr. & M. 11; Gompertz v. Levy (1838), 9 Ad. & El. 282; R. v. Virrier (1840), 12 Ad. & El. 317; R. v. Bidwell (1847), 17 L. J. M. C. 99; R. v. Duffy (1849), 4 Cox, C. C. 294; White v. R. (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 318; Davies v. Lloyd (1901), 17 T. L. R. 678; Clack v. Clack, [1906] 1 K. B. 483; Jones v. Hulton, [1909] 2 K. B. 444.

3661. — ]—R. v. CATE & TARRY (1887), Archbold's Criminal Pleading, 26th ed. p. 127.

3662. Cannot be quashed.]—Information filed by A.-G. not quashed.—R. v. GREGORY (1697), 1 Salk. 372; 91 E. R. 323.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Joakam (1733), Sess. Cas. K. B. 70.

3663. — ]—An information by A.-G. cannot be quashed; but if an information can be quashed, it must be for something that appears on the record, & not for a matter extrinsic (per cur.).—R. v. JOAKAM (1733), Sess. Cas. K. B. 70; 2 Barn. K. B. 323; 93 E. R. 71; sub nom. WHITEHAM v. JOKEHAM, Kel. W. 143.

3664. — Proceedings may be stopped by nolle prosequi.]—The ct. will not quash an ex officio information at the instance of the prosecutor, for the A.-G. if he sees fit, may enter a nolle prosequi without the interference of the ct.—R. v. STRATTON (1779), 1 Doug. K. B. 239; 21 State Tr. 1045; 99 E. R. 156.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Mitchel (1848), 6 State Tr. N. S. 545. Mentd. R. v. Duffy (1848), 4 Cox, C. C. 123; R. v. Dudley & Stephens (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 273.

3665. — ]—Another case is that of a criminal information at the suit of the A.-G., a practice which has, I am sorry to say, fallen into disuse. The issue, if such an information is entirely in the discretion of the A.-G., & no one can set such an information aside (A. L. SMITH, L.J.).—R. v. COMPTROLLER-GENERAL OF PATENTS, [1899] 1 Q. B. 909; 17 W. R. 567; R. v. COMPTROLLER-GENERAL OF PATENTS, Ex p. TOMLINSON, 68 L. J. Q. B. 568; 80 L. T. 777; 15 T. L. R. 310; 16 R. P. C. 233, C. A.

*Annotations:—*Mentd. Re A. & B.'s Appln. for a Patent (1810), 28 R. P. C. 454; R. v. Patents Comptroller-General, Ex p. Muntz (1922), 38 T. L. R. 652.

3666. Effect of death of Attorney-General.]—WALLER v. HANGER (1614), 2 Bulst. 261; 80 E. R. 1107.

3667. Delay in filing—Privilege of Crown.]—ANON. (1564), Moore, K. B. 58; 72 E. R. 439.

3668. — ]—In an information at the suit of the Crown, in which notice of trial was given in Trinity term, 1838, & afterwards countermanded, the ct. discharged a rule obtained by defts., in Easter term, 1842, for setting down the cause for trial, at the sittings after that term.—R. v. RAY (1842), 9 M. & W. 760; 2 Dowl. N. S. 232; 11 L. J. Ex. 317; 152 E. R. 322.

an indictable offence even though there has been no preliminary investigation with the matter.—R. v. CAME- & CRACKNELL (1896), 22 V. L. R. —AUS.

SUB-SECT. 2.—PARTICULAR CASES.

NOTE.—Prosecutions by information being seldom resorted to the names of cases are given for reference to former practice.

3669. Conspiracy to impair King's revenue.]—R. v. STARLING (1663), 1 Sid. 174; 1 Keb. 675, 682; 1 Lev. 125; 82 E. R. 1039; sub nom. A.-G. v. STARLING, 1 Keb. 650.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Daniell (1704), 6 Mod. Rep. 99; Mogul S.S. Co. v. McGregor, Gow (1889), 58 L. J. Q. B. 465. Refd. R. v. Eccles (1783), 1 Leach, 274.

3670. Conspiracy to issue false balance sheets.]—The directors of a joint stock bank, knowing it to be in a state of insolvency, issued a balance sheet showing a profit & thereupon declared a dividend of 6 per cent. They also issued advertisements inviting the public to take shares upon the faith of their representations that the bank was in a flourishing condition. On an ex officio information filed by the A.-G., they were found guilty of a conspiracy to defraud.—R. v. BROWN (1858), 7 Cox, C. C. 442.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Charlesworth (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3671. Riot.]—R. v. STROUDE (1681), 2 Show. 149; R. v. BERCHET (1690), 1 Show. 106; PRYNN'S CASE (1690), 5 Mod. Rep. 459; R. v. HUNT (1754), 1 Keny. 108; A.-G. v. THANET (EARL) (1799), 27 State Tr. 821.

3672. Subverting government.]—R. v. STRATTON, No. 333, ante.

3673. Disobedience to order in council.]—R. v. HARRIS (1791), 2 Leach, 549; 4 Term Rep. 202; 100 E. R. 973.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Hall, [1891] 1 Q. B. 747. Refd. R. v. Crawshaw (1860), 30 L. J. M. C. 58. Mentd. Boynton v. Anchoine Drainage & Navigation Comrs., [1921] 2 K. B. 213.

3674. Receipt of bribes by official in India.]—R. v. STEVENS & AGNEW (1804), 5 East, 244; DOUGLAS v. R. (1848), 13 Q. B. 74.

3675. Bribery of electors.]—R. v. LEATHAM (1861), 25 J. P. 468; R. v. BOYES (1861), 1 B. & S. 311; R. v. CHARLESWORTH (1861), 1 B. & S. 460.

3676. Misconduct by public officers.]—SAVAGE'S CASE (1558), 2 Dyer, 151 b; R. v. PURNELL (1748), 1 Wils. 239; R. v. LEDIARD (1755), Say. 242; R. v. PINNEY (1832), 3 State Tr. N. S. 11.

3677. Perjury.]—AGAR'S CASE (1601), Moore, K. B. 627; 72 E. R. 801.

3678. Blasphemous libel.]—R. v. EATON (1812), 31 State Tr. 927; R. v. CARLISLE (1819), 1 Chit. 451; R. v. WADDINGTON (1822), 1 State Tr. N. S. 1339.

3679. Obscene libel.]—R. v. CURLI (1727), 17 State Tr. 153; R. v. WILKES (1770), 19 State Tr. 1075.

3680. Seditious libel.]—SEVEN BISHOPS' CASE (1688), 3 Mod. Rep. 212; R. v. TUTCHIN (1704), 14 State Tr. 1095; R. v. SMITH (1713), Gilb. 57; R. v. CLERK (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 304; R. v. FRANKLIN (1731), 17 State Tr. 625; R. v. OWEN (1752), 18 State Tr. 1203; R. v. WILKES (1770), 19 State Tr. 1075; HORNE v. R. (1778), 4 Bro. Parl. Cas. 368; R. v. GORDON (1787), 22 State Tr. 175; R. v. REEVES (1796), Peake, Add. Cas. 84; R. v. WAKEFIELD (1799), 27 State Tr. 679; R. v. COBBETT (1804), 29 State Tr. 1; R. v. WHITE (1808), 1 Camp. 359, n.; R. v. LAMBERT & PERRY (1810), 31 State Tr. 335; R. v. HUNT (1811), 31 State Tr. 367; R. v. SUTTON (1816), 4 M. & S.

PART X. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 2.

d. Smuggling of goods.]—On an information filed by the A.-G. for the Queen for goods smuggled, costs will not be allowed to deft. against the Crown.—R. v. MAINWARING (1837), 5 O. S. 670.—CAN.

532; R. v. BURDETT (1820), 3 B. & Ald. 717; R. v. HARVEY (1823), 2 B. & C. 257.

3681. Libels on foreign sovereigns & ambassadors.]—R. v. D'EON* (1764), 1 Wm. Bl. 510; R. v. GORDON (1787), 22 State Tr. 175; R. v. VINT (1799), 27 State Tr. 627; R. v. PELTIER (1803), 28 State Tr. 529.

SECT. 3.—INFORMATION AT INSTANCE OF PRIVATE PERSON.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

3682. Jurisdiction.]—R. v. PAXTON* (1731), 2 Barn. K. B. 62, 66; 94 E. R. 357, 360; sub nom. R. v. BAXTER, 2 Stra. 918.

3683. —.]—Information for a battery in Newfoundland denied, being a local offence.—R. v. HOOPER (1734), Kel. W. 190; Sess. Cas. K. B. 246; 25 E. R. 562; sub nom. R. v. HOOKER, Ridg. temp. H. 31; 7 Mod. Rep. 193.

3684. An extraordinary remedy—Issue discretionary—Alternative remedy sufficient.]—Ex p. GREER* (1855), 4 W. R. 50; 19 J. P. Jo. 755.

3685. —.]—R. v. BELL* (1862), 26 J. P. Jo. 308.

3686. —.]—Ex p. BAXTER* (1864), 28 J. P. Jo. 326.

3687. —.]—The ct. declined to grant a rule for a criminal information against a superintendent of police, being of opinion that the affidavits did not establish any personal connection of the superintendent with assaults alleged to have been committed by police officers under his control, & that as there was nothing to show that ordinary proceedings for assault would be an insufficient remedy, there was no prima facie case made out for the granting of a criminal information.—Ex p. BOWEN (1911), 27 T. L. R. 179, D. C.

3688. —.]—Matters of aggravation.]—Ex p. LITTLE (1865), 29 J. P. Jo. 742.

3689. —.]—Ex p. GREENWELL* (1870), 34 J. P. Jo. 406.

3690. —.]—Ex p. CUTHBERT* (1875), 39 J. P. Jo. 356, D. C.

3691. —.]—Libel of person in public office or position.]—A criminal information does not lie against a party who has accused by letter a post-mistress of opening letters, & tampering with them. There must be some special circumstances to entitle the applicant to that extraordinary remedy. The proper remedy is by indictment.—Ex p. LITTLETON (POSTMISTRESS) (1888), 52 J. P. 264, D. C.

3692. —.]—A criminal information for libel can only be granted at the suit of persons who are in some public office of position, & not at the suit of private persons.—R. v. LABOUCHERE (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 320; 53 L. J. Q. B. 362; 50 L. T. 177; 48 J. P. 165; 32 W. R. 861; 15 Cox, C. C. 415, D. C.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Yates (1884), 1 T. L. R. 193; Re Appln. for an Attachment for Contempt of Court (1886), 2 T. L. R. 351; R. v. Ensor (1887), 3 T. L. R. 366; Wood v. Cox (1888), 4 T. L. R. 652; R. v. Masters (1889), 6 T. L. R. 44; R. v. Russell, Ex p. Morris (1905), 21 T. L. R. 749; Ex p. Freeman-Mitford (1914), 30 T. L. R. 693. Mentd. Weid-Blundell v. Stephens, [1919] 1 K. B. 520.

3693. —.]—R. v. MASTERS* (1889), 6 T. L. R. 44, D. C.

3694. —.]—The remedy of criminal information for a libel is not confined to cases of libel upon persons acting in a judicial capacity while discharging judicial duties, but the ct. can in its discretion grant a criminal information for the protection of persons who are discharging public duties imposed upon them by statute, in respect of a libel published of them in the exercise of those duties.—R. v. RUSSELL, Ex p. MORRIS (1905), 93 L. T. 407; 69 J. P. 450; 21 T. L. R. 749; 49 Sol. Jo. 735, D. C.

3695. —.]—The ct. will not grant a rule nisi for a criminal information for libel on the application of a private person who does not hold a public office or position.—Ex p. FREEMAN-MITFORD (1914), 30 T. L. R. 693, D. C.

See, further, LIBEL.

3696. —.]—Not available to poor person.]—In the case of a very poor person proceeding by information is not the proper manner.—ANON. (1773), Loft, 155; 98 E. R. 584.

SUB-SECT. 2.—GROUNDS FOR REFUSAL.

3697. Remedy by indictment more appropriate—Breach of public statute.]—This ct. will not grant a criminal information for breach of a public statute creating a state offence on the application of a private person, but only on the information of the law officers of the Crown. If a private person desires to punish an infraction of such a statute he must do so by the ordinary machinery for the administration of justice, the preferring of an indictment.—Ex p. CRAWSHAY v. LANGLEY (1860), 3 L. T. 320; 24 J. P. 805; 8 Cox, C. C. 356.

3698. —.]—Publishing obscene divorce reports.]—Re EVENING NEWS (1886), 3 T. L. R. 255, D. C.

3699. Remedy by indictment more appropriate.]—R. v. DUMMER* (1699), 1 Salk. 374; R. v. PROBY & TAYLOR (1756), 1 Keny. 250; R. v. JENNINGS (1845), 2 Dow. & L. 741; R. v. PEPPER CORN (1855), 26 L. T. O. S. 74; R. v. HODGSON (1856), 26 L. T. O. S. 239;

3700. Civil remedy open to applicant.]—R. v. WESTON* (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 56; ANON. (1732),

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 1.

3682 i. Jurisdiction.]—In applications for a criminal information, the ct. has a more extensive jurisdiction than a grand jury, inasmuch as it can take into account the conduct & character of prosecutor, & the circumstances of the act complained of.—R. v. BLAND (1849), 1 Legge, 534.—AUS.

3684 i. An extraordinary remedy—Issue discretionary.]—The grant of a criminal information is not a matter of course, but in the discretion of the ct., & although a prima facie case may have been made, on showing cause both sides must be heard, & if satisfied of the innocence of accused, the ct. is bound to discharge the rule nisi.—R. v. M'INNIS (1846), 1 Legge, 351.—AUS.

3684 ii. —.]—If it appears to the ct. that an information is applied for from malice, it will be refused, though, otherwise, the fact would warrant the granting it.—R. v. GOING, WHITE & MAGRATH (1801), Rowe, 563.—IR.

e. —.]—Motive of prosecutor immaterial.]—A case being such as in the circumstances, to call for the issue of a criminal information, the particular object or motive of prosecutor is immaterial.—R. v. ABBOTT (1848), 1 Legge, 467.—AUS.

f. —.]—Libel of person in public office or position.]—A criminal information will not be granted except in case of a libel on a person in authority, in respect of the duties pertaining to his office.—R. v. BIGGS (1884), 2 Man. L. R. 18.—CAN.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 2.

g. Accused committed for trial by magistrate—Refusal by Attorney-General to prosecute.]—Where a person has been committed for trial by a magistrate & the A.-G. has afterwards refused to prosecute, the full ct. will not act as a Ct. of Appeal from his decision by directing a criminal information to be filed, unless very special circumstances are shown.—R. v. MCKAYE (1885), 6 N. S. W. L. R. 123; 1 N. S. W. W. N. 58.—AUS.

h. Party seeking information must be free from blame.]—A party seeking a criminal information against another must himself be free from blame.—R. v. WHELAN (1863), 1 P. E. I. 223.—CAN.

k. —.]—Plea of justification in libel not proved.]—Appct. for a criminal

Sect. 3.—Information at instance of private person: Sub-sects. 2 & 3, A., B., C. & D.]

2 Barn. K. B. 198; R. v. COTTEN (1733), 1 Kcl. W. 125; ANON. (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 279; R. v. GROSVENOR (1743), 1 Wils. 18; ANON. (1773), Lofft, 184; R. v. WATSON (1788), 2 Term Rep. 199; R. v. FRIAR (1819), 1 Chit. 702.

3701. Summary remedy provided by statute.]—R. v. HILL* (1729), 1 Barn. K. B. 296; 94 E. R. 202.

3702. Charge denied by defendant.]—R. v. HAMPDEN* (1844), 2 L. T. O. S. 367; R. v. MARTIN & SWAYNE (1853), 21 L. T. O. S. 102; R. v. BARNWELL (1857), 29 L. T. O. S. 107; R. v. BELL (1862), 26 J. P. Jo. 308.

3703. Where applicant has sought other means of redress—Explanation of libel asked for.]—Ex p. HAVILAND* (1877), 41 J. P. Jo. 789.

3704. —Apology asked & action threatened.]—Where a magistrate has been libelled in the discharge of his duties as a magistrate & has demanded an apology & threatened an action for damages, he cannot afterwards apply for a criminal information for libel.—Ex p. POLLARD (1901), 17 T. L. R. 773, D. C.

3705. When applicant has sought other means of redress.]—ANON.* (1723), 8 Mod. Rep. 187; Ex p. (1836), 4 Ad. & El. 576, n.; R. v. DOHERTY (1840), Arn. & H. 16; R. v. GWILT (1840), 11 Ad. & El. 587; R. v. LAWSON (1841), 1 Q. B. 486; R. v. NOTTINGHAM JOURNAL (PROPRIETORS) (1841), 9 Dowl. 1042; Ex p. BEAUCLEER (1843), 7 Jur. 373; Re ALDRED, Ex p. YARMOUTH CORPN. (1844), 8 J. P. Jo. 757; R. v. UPTON ST LEONARD'S INHABITANTS (1847), 10 Q. B. 827; Ex p. ROE (1852), 20 L. T. O. S. 115; R. v. MARSHALL (1855), 4 E. & B. 475; Ex p. HARRY (1856), 28 L. T. O. S. 84.

3706. When civil action is pending.]—R. v. COSINS* (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 140; R. v. PHILLIPS (1736), Lee temp. Hard. 241; R. v. FIELDING (1758), 2 Keny. 386; R. v. SPARROW (1788), 2 Term Rep. 198; R. v. MAHON (1836), 4 Ad. & El. 575.

3707. Where applicant is at fault.]—R. v. PORTER* (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 52; R. v. SYMONDS (1736), Lee temp. Hard. 240; R. v. HANKEY (1757), 1 Burr. 316; R. v. PEACH (1758), 1 Burr. 548; R. v. JACKSON (1773), Lofft, 147; R. v. LARRIEU (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 277; R. v. GREGORY (1838), 8 Ad. & El. 907; R. v. HALL (1846), 7 L. T. O. S. 136.

information must rely wholly upon the ct. for redress, & must come there entirely free from blame. Where there is a foundation for a libel, though it fall far short of justification, an information will not be granted.—R. v. BIGGS (1884), 2 Man. L. R. 18.—CAN.

1. —Prosecutor having given provocation.]—An application for a criminal information refused, prosecutor having given previous provocation. The misconduct of the party making the application has always been held a sufficient reason for allowing the cause shown on behalf of the principal as well as the second.—R. v. EDGEWORTH (1827), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 8.—IR.

m. —.—[On an application for a criminal information, the conduct of appt. in the transaction is open to the scrutiny of the ct., & it will inquire into the provocation he may have given.—BUTT v. JACKSON (1846), 10 L. L. R. 120.—IR.

n. —Misconduct of bailiff.]—Upon an application for an information against a person for resisting the execution of a warrant issued by a judge to bind him over to keep the peace, it is sufficient cause shown against its going, that the bailiff behaved outrageously, insulted persons in the house, had gone at an unreasonable hour, had stated he was searching for stolen goods, & had refused to show his warrant.—R. v. SOUTHWELL (1749), Rowe, 727.—IR.

o. —Prosecutor chosen another remedy —Not renounced it before applying for information.]—When prosecutor has chosen another remedy, which he has not expressly renounced, he cannot obtain leave to file a criminal information.—Ex p. O'FARRELL (1887), 13 Q. L. R. 270.—CAN.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—A. p. Undue influence at a parliamentary election.]—R. v. DUGGAN* (1873), 1 R. 7 C. L. 94.—IR.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—B. q. Preventing proper inquiry by coroner.]—Deft., not being a duly qualified medical practitioner, dissected & removed parts of the body of deceased, with the intent, according to 3708. When applied for by the Crown not through Attorney-General.]—R. v. PHILLIPS, LUCAS & GIBSON* (1764), 3 Burr. 1564; 97 E. R. 983.

3709. When a previous rule has been discharged on merits.]—R. v. SMITHSON* (1833), 4 B. & Ad. 861; 1 Nev. & M. K. B. 775; 110 E. R. 679.

3710. When application is unduly delayed.]—R. v. SCHOOL* (1728), 1 Wils. 19, n.; R. v. ROBINSON (1765), 1 Wm. Bl. 541; PRIDEAUX v. ARTHUR (1774), Lofft, 393; R. v. TAYLOR (1793), Nolan, 204; R. v. SMITH (1796), 7 Term Rep. 80; R. v. HARRIES (1811), 13 East, 270; R. v. MARSHALL & GRANTHAM (1811), 13 East, 322; R. v. BISHOP (1822), 5 B. & Ad. 612; R. v. BARRY O'MEARA (1823), 2 L. J. O. S. K. B. 34; R. v. JOLLIE (1833), 4 B. & Ad. 867; R. v. HEXT (1840), 4 J. P. 283; R. v. HARRIS (1844), 13 L. J. M. C. 162; R. v. ANDREWS (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 75; R. v. WAKLEY (MIDDLESEX CORONER) (1847), 11 J. P. Jo. 405; Ex p. HOPPER (1854), 23 L. T. O. S. 164; R. v. CALTHORPE (1863), 27 J. P. 581.

SUB-SECT. 3.—FOR WHAT OFFENCES GRANTED.

A. Bribery and Corruption.

3711. Bribery.]—R. v. TIVERTON CORPN.* (1724), 8 Mod. Rep. 186; R. v. PLYMPTON (1725), 2 Ld. Raym. 1377; ANON. (1731), 2 Barn. K. B. 47; R. v. ISHERWOOD (1758), 2 Keny. 202; R. v. PITT & MEAD (1762), 3 Burr. 1335; R. v. ROBINSON (1765), 1 Wm. Bl. 541; R. v. VAUGHAN (1769), 4 Burr. 2494; R. v. JOLLIFFE (1791), cited in 1 East, at p. 154; R. v. YOUNG (1801), cited in 2 East, at p. 14; R. v. CASSANO (1805), 5 Esp. 231; R. v. STEWARD (1831), 2 B. & Ad. 12.

B. Offences against Administration of Justice.

3712. Embracery.]—R. v. OPIE* (1670), 1 Wms. Saund. 301.

3713. Interfering with witness.]—R. v. CHAMBERLAYN* (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 112; R. v. LAWLEY (1731), 2 Stra. 904; R. v. PHILLIPS (1736), Lee temp. Hard. 241.

3714. Abusing judge or magistrate.]—R. v. COTTON* (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 313; Ex p. CHAPMAN (1836), 4 Ad. & El. 773; Ex p. MARLBOROUGH (DUKE) (1844), 5 Q. B. 955; R. v. ROBERTS (1857), 29 L. T. O. S. 197; Ex p. HOSKYNs (1869), 33 J. P. Jo. 68.

3715. Prejudicing criminal trial.]—R. v. WILLIAMS* (1823), 2 L. J. O. S. K. B. 30; R. v. GRAY

the information, of preventing due inquiry into the cause of death. This act is a criminal misdemeanour, as tending to defeat the objects of the coroner's inquest, & being contra bonos mores.—R. v. RUSSELL (1839), 1 Legge, 110.—AUS.

r. Advising resistance to execution of writ.]—R. v. MORRISON & PAGNUELO* (1872), 3 R. L. O. S. 525.—CAN.

s. False return to writ of certiorari.]—R. v. ARNOLD* (1888), 8 C. L. T. Occ. N. 271.—CAN.

t. Soliciting grand jury to throw out indictments.]—An information granted against one soliciting a grand jury to throw out bills of indictment, which they accordingly did.—ANON. (Undated), Rowe, 644.—IR.

a. —.—[Information granted because two grand juries had thrown out two bills of indictment against defts., under the influence of defts.—ANON. (Undated), Rowe, 727.—IR.

b. Dropping proceedings to obtain pardon.]—An information will be granted for offering to drop proceedings on a certiorari, if a pardon was granted

(1865), 10 Cox, C. C. 184; Ex p. SMITH (1869), 21 L. T. 294.

3716. Pretence of reading Riot Act.]—R. v. SPRIGGINS (1746), Wm. Bl. 2.

3717. Misappropriation by member of corporation.]—R. v. WATSON (1788), 2 Term Rep. 199.

3718. Printing report of House of Commons.]—R. v. WRIGHT (1799), 8 Term Rep. 293.

3719. Publishing evidence before coroner's jury with comments.]—R. v. FLEET (1818), 1 B. & Ald. 379.

3720. Abusing public officer.]—R. v. SMITH (1822), 1 L. J. O. S. K. B. 31.

3721. Personating juror.]—R. v. MAY (1857), 29 L. T. O. S. 196.

C. Misconduct by Judicial Officers.

3722. Magistrate.]—R. v. NEWTON (1720), 1 Stra. 413; R. v. HEBER (1731), 2 Barn. K. B. 77; R. v. AUSTIN (1732), 2 Barn. K. B. 203; R. v. MATHER (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 249; R. v. EYRES (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 250; R. v. SHREWSBURY JJ. (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 272; R. v. DE VEIL (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 379; R. v. WYKES (1738), Andr. 238; R. v. SOANE (1738), Andr. 272; R. v. JONES (1742), 1 Wils. 7; R. v. RYE CORPN. JJ. (1752), Say. 25; R. v. NOTTINGHAM JJ. (1755), Say. 216; R. v. CORBETT & COULSON (1756), Say. 267; R. v. PHELPS (1757), 2 Keny. 570; R. v. FIELDING (1758), 2 Keny. 386; R. v. YOUNG (1758), 1 Burr. 556; R. v. ATHAY (1758), 2 Burr. 653; R. v. PALMER (1761), 2 Burr. 1162; R. v. WILLIAMS, R. v. DAVIS (1762), 3 Burr. 1317; R. v. BAYLIS (1762), 3 Burr. 1318; R. v. SEAFORD JJ. (1763), 1 Wm. Bl. 432; R. v. HANN (1765), 3 Burr. 1716; R. v. WALLIS (1772), Lofft, 38; R. v. COZENS (1780), 2 Doug. K. B. 426; R. v. DAVIE (1781), 2 Doug. K. B. 588; R. v. JACKSON

(1787), 1 Term Rep. 653; R. v. HOLLAND & FORSTER (1787), 1 Term Rep. 692; R. v. BROOKE (1788), 2 Term Rep. 190; R. v. WEBSTER (1789), 3 Term Rep. 389; R. v. BARKER (1801), 1 East, 186; R. v. HOSEASON (1811), 14 East, 605; R. v. STAFFORDSHIRE JJ. (1819), 1 Chit. 217; R. v. BORRON (1820), 3 B. & Ald. 432; R. v. SOMERSETSHIRE JJ. (1822), 1 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 443; R. v. LANCASHIRE JJ. (1822), 1 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 485; R. v. WHATELY (1829), 4 Man. & Ry. K. B. 431; Ex p. FENTIMAN (1834), 2 Ad. & El. 127; R. v. PYRKE (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 150; R. v. BADGER (1843), 4 Q. B. 468; Re GRIFFITHS (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 75; R. v. SAUNDERS (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 249; Ex p. SMERDON (1850), 15 L. T. O. S. 141; R. v. HOLE (1850), 14 J. P. Jo. 352; R. v. BARTON (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 353.

3723. Mayor.]—R. v. HALFORD (1734), 7 Mod. Rep. 193; R. v. NOTTINGHAM CORPN. (1773), Lofft, 185; Ex p. CARTER v. HARWICH CORPN. (1851), 16 J. P. 23.

3724. County Court Judge.]—Re ANON., No. 7148, post.

3725. Vice-Chancellor of Oxford.]—R. v. HOLMES (1734), 1 Cunn. 129.

3726. Sheriffs.]—ANON. (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 227.

3727. Attorney.]—R. v. NORMAN (1743), 1 Wils. 7.

See PUBLIC AUTHORITIES & PUBLIC OFFICERS.

D. Misconduct by Ministerial Officers.

3728. Churchwardens.]—ANON. (1730), 1 Barn. K. B. 327; ANON. (1732), 2 Barn. K. B. 166.

3729. Sheriff.]—R. v. SHACKLINGTON (1735), Andr. 201, n.; R. v. GROSVENOR (1743), 1 Wils. 18; R. v. WOODROW (1788), 2 Term Rep. 731.

to two men convicted of treasonable practices.—R. v. GOING, WHITE & MAGRATH (1801), Rowe, 563.—IR.

c. Preventing prisoners standing their trial.]—An information will be granted for withdrawing prisoners, out on bail, from abiding their trial.—R. v. GOING, WHITE & MAGRATH (1801), Rowe, 563.—IR.

d. Disputing counsel's right to be heard.]—Conditional order granted for an information against the magistrates of a corporate city, who had disputed the right of counsel to be heard for or against a party at petty sessions.—ANON. (1829), 3 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 44.—IR.

e. Conspiracy by attorneys.]—R. (AT THE PROSECUTION OF ELLIOT) v. MAHER (1845), 6 L. T. O. S. 132.—IR.

f. Threatening letter to mayor & corporation.]—R. wrote a notice to L., Mayor of B., & certain members of the town council, saying that in a certain event he would use the letter to charge them with the felony of manslaughter, " & take further notice that as regards those whom with the mayor, I intend to have returned for trial at the next assizes for the conspiracy alleged to have been carried out on Dec. 13, last, I will if they again conspire illegally to exclude the said burgesses, etc., use this notice to charge the said persons accused as conspirators with the felony of murder." It, being convicted in a criminal information moved in arrest of judgment:—Held: this letter disclosed a good ground for a criminal information.—R. v. REA (1865), 17 L. C. L. R. 584.—*IR.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—C.

3722 i. Magistrate.]—If the conduct of prosecutor has been blamable the ct. will not grant a criminal information against a magistrate at his instance;

J.—VOL. XIV.

but if the conduct of the magistrate is not justifiable, the rule will be discharged without costs.—R. v. MUNRO (1831), (1825–1897), N. B. Dig. 226.—CAN.

3722 ii. —.]—A magistrate is entitled to six days' notice of a motion for a criminal information against him for a violation of his duty.—R. v. HEUSTIS (1853), James, 101.—CAN.

3722 iii. —.]—On an application for an attachment or criminal information against a justice of the peace for misconduct in the exercise, or under the authority of, his office, it must be shown that six clear days' previous notice in writing had been given to such magistrate.—R. v. RAE (1874), 1 L. R. 8 C. L. 524.—IR.

3722 iv. —.]—Re McMICKEN (1912), 8 D. L. R. 550.—CAN.

3722 v. —.]—The ct. refused to grant an information against a magistrate for an offence which amounted to a felony, would grant it for extortion; but would not grant it in any case where the Crown prosecuted.—R. v. MAGEE (Undated), Rowe, 416.—IR.

3722 vi. —.]—An information granted against a magistrate for destroying a house, on not finding the men he was in search of.—ANON. (Undated), Rowe, 645.—IR.

3722 vii. —.]—The ct. granted an information against a magistrate who, in the exercise of his office, abused prosecutor.—R. v. MANLY (Undated), Rowe, 646.—IR.

3722 viii. —.]—The Ct. of King's Bench refused to grant an attachment against a magistrate for maliciously convicting one for offending against the game laws, & fining him & levying the fine; but granted a criminal information.—R. v. MARTIN (Undated), Rowe, 726.—IR.

g. Judge — Recorder's Court.]—Ap- plication for leave to file an information against a judge of a recorder's ct. upon the grounds that he had falsified the records of the ct. & maliciously condemned appet. as guilty of a felony upon the verdict of his peers, when, as alleged, no verdict whatever was found by the jury. The facts were that the jury came into ct. & the foreman pronounced a verdict of guilty. Counsel of accused then questioned, not through the ct., some of the jury as to the grounds of their verdict, when one stated that he did not concur in it. The attention of the ct. was not drawn to this dissent, nor did it appear the ct. was aware of it. A verdict of guilty was recorded by the presiding judge; & when formally read to the jury by the clerk, no objection was made. The ct. refused the information.—R. v. FORD (1853), 3 C. P. 209.—CAN.

h. — Division Court.]—On ap- plication for leave to file a criminal information against a division ct. judge for his conduct in imposing a fine for contempt upon a barrister employed to conduct a case before him:—Held: such leave should never be granted unless the ct. see plainly that dishonest, oppressive, vindictive, or corrupt motives influenced the mind, & prompted the act complained of, which in this case was clearly not shown.—Re TORONTO DIVISION COURT RECORDER & JUDGE (1864), 23 U. C. R. 376.—*CAN.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—D.

3729 i. Sheriff.]—Where a sheriff, duly appointed, refuses to act or take the oath of office, the appropriate remedy is by information ex officio or indictment, & a mandamus will not be granted.—R. v. HUTCHINSON, R. v. GERRARD (1893), 32 L. R. Ir. 142.—IR.

Sect. 3.—Information at instance of private person : Sub-sect. 3, D., E., F. (a), (b), (c), (d) & (e), G. to P.; sub-sect. 4.]

3730. Clerk of Market.—ANON. (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 310.

3731. Overseers.—R. v. WATSON (1743), 1 Wils. 41; R. v. HERBERT (1759), 2 Keny. 460; R. v. TARRANT (1767), 4 Burr. 2106; R. v. COX & CASYTOR (1837), 1 Jur. 52.

3732. Parish officer.—R. v. BARRAT (1780), 2 Doug. K. B. 465; R. v. COMPTON (1783), Cald. Mag. Cas. 246.

3733. Commissioners.—R. v. ROGERS (1758), 2 Keny. 373.

3734. Road surveyor.—R. v. FRIAR (1819), 1 Chit. 702.

3735. Guardian.—R. v. BRIGHTMAN (1848), 11 L. T. O. S. 126.

3736. Sheriff's officer.—ANON. (1730), 1 Barn. K. B. 381.

See PUBLIC AUTHORITIES & PUBLIC OFFICERS.

E. Libel.

See LIBEL & SLANDER.

F. Breach of the Peace.

(a) Assault.

3737. Assault.—R. v. WINGFIELD (1632), Cro. Car. 251; R. v. HOLLOWAY (1724), 8 Mod. Rep. 283; JENNINGS v. MOTT (1727), 1 Barn. K. B. 16; R. v. MOUSELEY & SYMS (1728), 1 Barn. K. B. 123; ANON. (1731), 2 Barn. K. B. 27; ANON. (1731), 2 Barn. K. B. 87.

(b) Provocation to Breach of the Peace.

3738. Writing abusive letter.—Ex p. PARKER v. WATTE (1838), 2 J. P. 57.

3739. Conduct & language.—R. v. HINCKLEY, Ex p. HALL (1847), 11 J. P. Jo. 37.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—F. (b).

k. Threatening letter.—To member of Legislative Council.—It is nisi for a criminal information which had been obtained for sending a letter to prosecutor with intent to provoke a breach of the peace, etc. R., a member of Legislative Council, applied to ct. to file criminal information against defts., one for sending & the other for bringing to him a threatening letter with intent, first, to intimidate R. in the performance of his duties as member of Legislative Council, & secondly, to provoke & stir him up to fight a duel:—Held: rule would be discharged without costs as regards both defts. as intimidation could not be inferred from the letter.—R. v. MACDERMOTT & MACFARLANE (1844), Res. & Eq. Jud. 14.—AUS.

3738 i. Abusive letter.—It is not sufficient cause against an application for an information for writing an abusive letter to the proprietor of a newspaper, that prosecutor was the proprietor of a paper in which reflections were inserted against deft.; & on deft.'s application to him, that he refused to interfere, referring him to the printer.—R. v. GOLD (Undated), Howe, 580.—IR.

3738 ii.—[An order for a criminal information for writing to the prosecutor a letter, tending to provoke him to commit a breach of the peace, made absolute, although it was not sworn by prosecutor, or conveyed by the words in his affidavit, that deft. intended to provoke him to commit a breach of the peace.—MALONE v. PIERS (1831), 4 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 102.—IR.

3739 i. Conduct & language.—R. v. O'CONNELL (Undated), Rowe, 610.—IR.

3739 ii.—[A conditional order for liberty to file a criminal information granted, although prosecutor did not swear that he believed deft.'s language was used with an intention to provoke him to fight a duel; a third party, who was present on the occasion out of which the prosecution arose, having made an affidavit to that effect.—R. v. MAUNSELL (1839), 1 I. L. R. 257.—IR.

1. Threat to horsewhip.—Conditional order granted for a criminal information against deft., for shaking a horsewhip over prosecutor, & desiring him to consider himself horsewhipped.—R. v. ARMSTRONG (1827), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 7.—IR.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—F. (c).

m. Challenge to duel.—Applicant must be blameless.—The ct. will not grant the extraordinary remedy of a criminal information for a challenge to a duel, unless appet. be himself wholly blameless.—THORN v. FAITHFUL (1856), 2 Legge, 966.—AUS.

n.—[Conditional order for a criminal information granted against deft., for attempting to provoke prosecutor to fight a duel.—R. v. STAUNTON (1827), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 7.—IR.

—[R. v. HOLMES (circa 1800–1803), Rowe, at pp. 267, 268, 283, 284.—IR.

p.—[R. v. JACKSON (1846), 7 L. T. (O. S.) 237, 323.—IR.

q.—[Where a conditional

(c) Challenge to Fight.

3740. Challenge.—R. v. HANKEY (1757), 1 Burr. 316; R. v. CHAPPEL (1757), 1 Burr. 402; PRIDEAUX v. ARTHUR (1774), Loftt, 393; R. v. WILLETT (1795), 8 Term Rep. 294; R. v. YOUNGHUSBAND (1835), 4 Nev. & M. K. B. 850; R. v. LARRIEU (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 277; Ex p. ELGIE (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 39; Ex p. LANGDON (1850), 14 J. P. Jo. 301.

(d) Going Armed.

3741. Bearing arms.—R. v. KNIGHT (1686), 3 Mod. Rep. 117.

(e) Riot and Incitement to Riot.

3742. Rioting.—R. v. BEAMOND (1732), 2 Barn. K. B. 138; R. v. SMITH (1831), cited in Grady & Scotland's Crown Practice, at p. 8; R. v. MUNTZ, PARE, PEARCE & TROW (1837), 1 J. P. 386; Ex p. LICENSED VICTUALLERS' SOCIETY (1872), 36 J. P. 359.

G. Blasphemy.

3743. Libelling Christianity.—R. v. WOOLSTON (1729), Fitz-G. 64.

H. Immorality.

3744. Apprenticing girl to prostitute.—R. v. DELAVAL (1763), 3 Burr. 1434.

I. Abduction.

3745. Inveigling word.—SKELES' CASE (1639), Cro. Car. 557; R. v. BLACKET & ROBINSON (1702), 7 Mod. Rep. 39; R. v. LYNN (1733), 2 Barn. K. B. 242; R. v. PIERSON (1739), Andr. 310; R. v. GREEN (1781), 3 Doug. K. B. 36.

J. Rescue.

3746. Rescue.—JOURDAN'S CASE (1698), 12 Mod. Rep. 256.

order for liberty to file a criminal information for sending a letter provoking to fight a duel has been granted, although it might be good cause against making such order absolute, that prosecutor, who had spoken injuriously of deft. in addressing a jury had so spoken maliciously, & not bona fide in the discharge of his duty as counsel; yet, where the ct. is not satisfied that such injurious expressions of prosecutor were irrelevant, malicious, & not bona fide, they will make absolute the order.—R. (ON THE PROSECUTION OF ARMSTRONG) v. KIERNAN (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 6.—IR.

r. Affidavits showing prosecutor had fought duel.—Attorney-General ordered to prosecute information against him.—[If on an application for an information, it appears on the face of the affidavits of deft., that prosecutor has fought a duel; the ct. will grant an information against him, & will order the A.-G. to prosecute it.—R. v. O'CONNELL (Undated), Rowe, 610.—IR.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—F. (e).

s. Obstructing justice of peace in execution of duty.—Riot.—[Information for speaking opprobrious, malicious, & contemptuous words of a justice of the peace, in the execution of his office in dispersing rioters, for questioning & denying his authority, & for obstructing & hindering him from dispersing them & preserving the peace.—Held: to be too general, the obstruction being imperfectly set forth.—R. v. GRIFFITH (1788), Vern. & Scr. 612.—IR.

K. Impressment of Seamen.

3747. Impressment.]—R. v. WEBB* (1747), 1 Wm. Bl. 19.

L. Demanding Money with Menaces.

3748. Threats.]—R. v. HALLINGBY* (1734), Cunn. 93.

M. Attempting to obtain Execution of Will.

3749. Undue influence.]—R. v. WRIGHT* (1760), 2 Burr. 1099.

N. Cheating.

3750. Using untrue dice.]—ANON. (1702), 7 Mod. Rep. 40.

O. Conspiracy.

3751. Trade combination to fix price.]—R. v. NORRIS* (1758), 2 Keny. 300.

P. Giving Credit to Wife with a view to charge Husband.

3752. Invelgling wife to obtain credit—With view to charge husband.]—POCOCK v. THORNICROFT (1701), 12 Mod. Rep. 454.

SUB-SECT. 4.—PROCEDURE.

See Crown Office Rules, 1906, rr. 36, 37.

3753. Motion must be made by counsel.]—The motion for a criminal information must be made by the law officers of the Crown or by a barrister, & not by a private individual.—R. v. LANCASTER J.J. (1819), 1 Chit. 602.

—Attachment.]—See CONTEMPT OF COURT, ATTACHMENT & COMMITTAL, Vol. XVI., p. 61, Nos. 690, 691.

3754. Joinder of defendants.]—ANON. (1731), 1 Barn. K. B. 450; 94 E. R. 302.

3755. —.]—A joint information against several on distinct rules will not be granted.—R. v. HEYDON (1762), 3 Burr. 1270; 97 E. R. 826; subsequent proceedings, 3 Burr. 1359.

3756. — Default of one not to prejudice others.]—In a criminal information against several the default of one shall not prejudice the others.—R. v. WINGFIELD (1632), Cro. Car. 251; 79 E. R. 819.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Prynne (1689), 5 Mod. Rep. 459.

3757. Motion must be made on affidavit—Contents of affidavit.]—An affidavit by A., stating that B. had brought him a challenge from C. & that B. had refused to make an affidavit that C. sent him with it, is not evidence on which this ct. will grant a rule nisi for a criminal information against C. for sending the challenge.—R. v. WILLETT (1795), 6 Term Rep. 294; 101 E. R. 560.

*Annotation:—*Consd. R. v. Stanger (1871), L. R. 6 Q. B. 352.

3758. — —.]—Where only circumstances of strong suspicion are stated in affidavits, on which a rule for a criminal information is moved, it is not sufficient unless the deponents also add their belief that the party against whom the application is made acted from corrupt motives.—R. v. WILLIAMSON (1820), 3 B. & Ald. 582; 106 E. R. 774.

*Annotation:—*Refd. Ex p. Munster (1869), 20 L. T. 612.

3759. — —.]—In moving for a criminal information for libel, a prosecutor need not adopt the statutory mode of proof (see 38 G. 3, c. 78; 6 & 7 W. 4, c. 76); but it is not sufficient to produce an affidavit, stating merely that deft., printed & published a libel in a newspaper, called, etc., a copy of which libel is hereunto annexed, & to annex such copy.

The prosecutor cannot use a statement in deft.'s affidavits to supply a defect in his own, where the latter are so imperfect that the ct., if aware of their defectiveness, would not have granted a rule nisi.—R. v. BALDWIN (1838), all the circumstances connected with the transaction out of which the complaint has arisen, as the suppression of any of them will be ground of cause against making the rule nisi absolute.—KNOX v. ANDERSON (1840), 2 L. L. R. 262.—IR.

3757 iv. — —.]—The affidavit to ground a criminal information, for procuring a party to commit a breach of the peace by fighting a duel, should, in all cases, state that such was the intention of the party.—R. v. KELLY (1847), 11 L. L. R. 217.—IR.

3757 v. — —.]—An application for an order to have informations returned in order to ground a motion for admitting prisoners to bail is not a motion of course, some ground must be stated in the affidavit.—R. v. CORBETT (1840), 2 L. L. R. 265.—IR.

e. — Particulars of abusive language—Omission cured by defendant's plea.]—Informations for using profane or abusive language are defective if they do not set out the language used; but where no objection is raised it may be said to have been cured by deft.'s appearance & plea.—R. v. BALLANTINE (1914), 14 F. L. R. 278; 22 Can. Crim. Cas. 385.—CAN.

f. — Whether supplemental affidavits may be filed.]—Supplemental affidavits may be filed by prosecutor in a criminal information, in reply to those of deft., if such refer exclusively to new matter introduced in deft.'s affidavit.—R. v. BIRCH (1844), 7 L. L. R. 386.—IR.

g. — —.]—On showing cause against a rule for a criminal information, supplemental affidavits, even t. Playing with loaded dice—Prisoner defrauded—Demanding return of money unfairly won.]—Prisoner was tried on an information charging him with having sent a letter to M. demanding money of him with menaces & without reasonable or probable cause. It appeared from the letter that prisoner & M. had been playing at some game with dice, & that prisoner having afterwards ascertained, as he alleged, that the dice used was loaded, demanded back the money which he had lost, threatening a prosecution for fraud if the demand was not complied with:—Held: prisoner on his trial for the offence of sending the letter was entitled to show that the demand itself was made in good faith, & for that purpose to prove that he had been so defrauded or that at least he had probable grounds for so believing.—R. v. NICHOLSON (1868), 7 N. S. W. S. C. R. 155.—AUS.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—N.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 3.—O.

a. To hinder removal of potatoes from one county to another.]—An information granted against a person for combining with several others to hinder the removal of potatoes from one part of the country to another.—R. v. MASSEY (Undated), Rowe, 731.—IR.

PART X. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 4.

3753 i. Motion must be made by counsel.]—An application for a criminal information cannot be made by the party in person, but must be made by counsel.—ANON. (1829), 2 Ir. L. Rec.

1st ser. 479.—IR.

b. Applicant must apply at earliest opportunity.]—When a party means to apply for a criminal information he must do so at the earliest opportunity. If he allows a term to elapse he is to late, & the ct. will not afterwards grant the application.—R. O'REILLY (1841), 2 Leg. Rep. 110.—IR.

c. —.]—It is a settled rule of the ct. that a party applying for the special interposition of the ct. must make his application promptly, & without unnecessary delay.—R. v. CONWAY (1850), 2 Ir. Jur. 124.—IR.

d. Who may sign information—Master of Crown Office.]—A criminal information must be signed by the master of the Crown Office.—R. v. CROOKS (1837), 5 O. S. 733.—CAN.

3757 i. Motion must be made on affidavit—Contents of affidavit.]—An affidavit to ground a criminal information for applying abusive terms to prosecutor, must state prosecutor's belief that the words were used with an intention to provoke him to fight a duel, & must state the rank or situation in life of the parties.—R. v. BYRNE (1827), 1 Hud. & B. 16.—IR.

3757 ii. — —.]—The absence of a statement of the rank in life of the parties in the affidavits, to ground a motion for a criminal information, is a substantial defect, & may be taken advantage of upon showing cause against the conditional order.—R. v. HARRISON (1839), 1 Jebb & S. 422.—IR.

3757 iii. — —.]—In motions for leave to file criminal informations, the parties applying are bound to disclose

Sect. 3.—Information at instance of private person:
Sub-sect. 4. Part XI.]

8 Ad. & El. 168; 3 Nev. & P. K. B. 342; 1 Will. Woll. & H. 158; 2 Jur. 856; 112 E. R. 801.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Stanger (1871), L. R. 6 Q. B. 352.

3760. ———.]—The affidavits in support of an application for a criminal information against a party for writing letters provoking a breach of the peace, stated the belief of the deponents that the letters were in the handwriting of the party, not from their own knowledge of his handwriting, but from the information of other persons. The ct. refused a rule to show cause, on the ground that such evidence would not warrant a grand jury in finding a true bill. The ct. also refused leave to renew the application upon affidavits supplying sufficient evidence of the handwriting.—Ex p. WILLIAMS (1841), 5 Jur. 1133.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Stanger (1871), L. R. 6 Q. B. 352.

3761. ———.]—A rule nisi for a criminal information for libel having been obtained against J. on affidavits which stated that a copy of a newspaper had been purchased from a salesman in the office of the newspaper, & that by a footnote to the newspaper J. was stated to be the printer & publisher of the newspaper, & that the deponent believed J. to be the printer & publisher, the ct. discharged the rule on the ground that the affidavits contained no legal evidence of publication, which was necessary in order to obtain leave to file a criminal information.—R. v. STANGER (1871), L. R. 6 Q. B. 352; 40 L. J. Q. B. 96; 24 L. T. 266; 35 J. P. 580; 19 W. R. 640.

3762. ———.]—Misleading affidavits.—R. v. WROUGHTON (1765), 3 Burr. 1683; 97 E. R. 1045.

3763. ———.]—Imperfect affidavits.—Affidavits sworn before commissioners must state in the jurat the place where sworn; & on showing cause against a rule for a criminal information, on its appearing that the affidavits in support of the rule were defective in that respect, the ct. refused time to amend, & discharged the rule.—R. v. COCKSHAW (1833), 2 Nev. & M. K. B. 378; 3 L. J. M. C. 10.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Burn (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 190.

3764. ———.]—A magistrate applying for a criminal information for slanderous words addressed to him in the execution of his duty, made an affidavit as to the subject of complaint, in which he stated deft. to be a litigious & shuffling person, & related a former dispute between him & his son, involving circumstances discreditable to deft. The latter statement was made, professedly, in explanation of some words used by deft. on the occasion when he spoke those more particularly complained of, but it did not bear upon the merits of the complaint:—Held: the above statements were impertinent & censurable, but the ct. did not, therefore, reject the affidavit.—R. v. BURN (1837), 7 Ad. & El. 190; 6 Dowl.

though merely in confirmation, ought not to be used, unless the leave of the ct. had been obtained for that purpose; but if the party showing cause observe upon such affidavits, he thereby opens it to the other side to read them.—R. v. SHEEHAN (1829), 2 Hud. & B. 214.—IR.

h. ———.]—Misleading affidavits.—An application for an information against deft. for grossly abusing prosecutor, a magistrate, in the discharge of his duty, calling him coward, etc., was refused, because it appeared that he had suppressed several material facts in his affidavits grounding the application.—R. v. KEARNEY (Undated), Rowe, 621.—IR.

k. ———.]—How entitled.—To support a motion for leave to file a criminal information against a justice of the peace, the affidavits should not be entitled as in a suit pending.—BUSTARD v. SCHOFIELD (1835), 4 O. S. 11.—CAN.

l. Affidavit in reply—Too general in its terms.—The affidavit in denial on such an application must, as a rule, be full, clear, & as specific as possible; & all the circumstances must be laid before the ct. fully & candidly, in order

36; 2 Nev. & P. K. B. 152; 1 J. P. 310; 1 Jur. 657; 112 E. R. 443.

3765. ———.]—Title of.—The affidavits produced on showing cause against a rule for a criminal information need not be entitled.—R. v. HARRISON (1794), 6 Term Rep. 60; 101 E. R. 435.

Annotation:—Refd. Whitehead v. Firth (1810), 12 East, 166.

3766. ———.]—The affidavits on a motion for leave to file a criminal information ought not to be entitled, & if they are, they cannot be read; the affidavits produced on showing cause against the rule may or may not be entitled; all affidavits made after the rule is made absolute must be entitled.—R. v. ROBINSON (1765), cited in 6 Term Rep. at p. 642; 2 Stra. 704, n.; 101 E. R. 748.

Annotations:—Apld. King v. Cole (1796), 6 Term Rep. 640. Consd. Yates v. R. (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 648.

3767. ———.]—KING v. COLE (1796), 6 Term Rep. 640; 101 E. R. 747.

Annotation:—Refd. Yates v. R. (1885), 14 Q. B. D. 648.

3768. When exculpatory affidavits necessary.]

It is an invariable rule not to grant an information for a libel, without an exculpatory affidavit, unless where the party libelled is abroad at a great distance, or the subject matter of the charge is general imputation, or an accusation of criminal language held in Parliament.—R. v. HASWELL, R. v. BATE (1780), 1 Doug. K. B. 387; 99 E. R. 249.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Webster (1789), 3 Term Rep. 388; R. v. Wright (1815), 2 Chit. 162; R. v. Aunger (1873), 28 L. T. 630.

3769. ———.]—An affidavit to found a motion for a criminal information for a libel must distinctly negative the charge, unless the party libelled be abroad, or the charge be general.—R. v. WRIGHT (1815), 2 Chit. 162.

3770. ———.]—The ct. will not grant an information against a magistrate for having improperly convicted a person, unless the party complaining makes an exculpatory affidavit denying the fact.—R. v. WEBSTER (1789), 3 Term Rep. 388; 100 E. R. 636.

3771. ———.]—Where newspaper articles charged the relator with partiality from political motives, in the manner in which he discharged his duties as presiding officer at an election for members of a school board, & mentioned a specific instance where he had rejected the vote of a duly qualified female voter, who was politically opposed to him, though the relator in his affidavit denied generally the truth of all the charges, & also denied that he refused any voter on political or improper or illegal considerations, or prevented directly or indirectly any voter who was legally qualified to vote & who observed the prescribed regulations from voting, or put any obstacles in the way, or did anything, at any time, calculated improperly to affect the election of any particular candidate, the ct. discharged a rule nisi for a criminal information which had been obtained against the

that they may deal with the matter.—R. v. WILKINSON (1877), 41 U. C. R. 1.—CAN.

m. ———.]—Insulting to prosecutor.—Though the matters charged in the affidavit of prosecutor be answered so that the ct. would not grant an information thereon, yet if deft. will introduce other matters in his affidavit, reflecting on prosecutor, showing a manifest intention of insulting him thereby, the ct. will, on that ground, grant the information.—R. v. ROWE (Undated), Rowe, 418.—IR.

n. Time limit between teste & return

publisher, because the relator had not negatived specifically the charge made against him as to the rejection of the female voter's vote.—R. v. AUNGER (1873), 28 L. T. 630; 37 J. P. 645; 12 Cox, C. C. 407.

3772. Information against judicial officer—Necessity for notice.—A party who applies to the ct. for a criminal information against deft. for breach of duty as a magistrate as well as an individual must before motion give notice to deft. of his intended application.—R. v. HEMING (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 666; 2 Nev. & M. K. B. 477; 1 Nev. & M. M. C. 445; 3 L. J. M. C. 3; 110 E. R. 936.

3773. ———.]—Justices are entitled to six days' notice of motion for a criminal information against them.—Ex p. FENTIMAN (1834), 2 Ad. & El. 127; 4 Nev. & M. K. B. 126; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 427; 111 E. R. 49.

Annotation :—Refd. Re Pyrke (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 253.

3774. Withdrawal of proceedings—Sanction of court necessary.—The ct. was of opinion that applications for contempt of ct. being in the nature of criminal informations are incapable of settlement & must not be withdrawn without the sanction of the ct.—R. v. NEWTON (1903), 67 J. P. 453; 19 T. L. R. 627, D. C.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Parke, [1903] 2 K. B. 432.

3775. Rule nisi need not be made absolute.—When a person has obtained a rule nisi, for a criminal information, the ct. of K. B. will not compel him to make it absolute.—R. v. SHERWOOD (1824), 2 L. J. O. S. K. B. 78.

3776. Rule may be discharged on payment of costs.—On a rule for an information, though the ct. may think a ground is laid, yet, if, under the circumstances, the payment of the prosecutor's costs appears an adequate punishment, they will discharge the rule on deft.'s undertaking so to do.—R. v. MORGAN (1780), 1 Doug. K. B. 314; 99 E. R. 203.

3777. When rule granted after first rule discharged.—R. v. WARBURTON (1699), 12 Mod. Rep. 319; 88 E. R. 1349.

3778. ———.]—R. v. SMITHSON, No. 3709, ante.

3779. ———.]—D. obtained a rule nisi for a criminal information against the publishers of a libel, on his affidavit that the imputation in the libel was false. The ct. discharged the rule, on the sole affidavit of S., who deposed that the imputation was true. Afterwards S. made declarations, & depositions in an ecclesiastical suit, but not, apparently, material to such suit, contradicting his affidavit in all particulars. D. then indicted S. for perjury, & the bill was found, but S. left the country. In the term after S. had made the declarations & depositions, & after he had gone away, D. obtained another rule for a criminal information against the publishers, on affidavit of the above facts, & of his innocence as before.—R. v. EVE (1836), 5 Ad. & El. 780; 2 Har. & W. 450; 1 Nev. & P. K. B. 229; 111 E. R. 1361.

Annotations :—Refd. Ex p. Munster (1869), 20 L. T. 612. Mentd. Taylor v. Slingo (1836), 2 Har. & W. 327.

3780. ———.]—The ct. will not permit a second application to be made for a rule for a criminal information unless leave was reserved for the purpose on the first application from very special circumstances, such as being met by affidavits which afterwards turned out to be based on perjury.—Ex p. MUNSTER (1869), 20 L. T. 612.

3781. When rule enlarged.—Where a rule nisi for a criminal information, though served before, reached the hands of deft. only the day before it was to be argued :—Held : it must be enlarged.—R. v. HEELY (1846), 10 Jur. 1009.

3782. When information quashed.—FOUNTAIN'S CASE (1663), 1 Sid. 152; 82 E. R. 1027.

Annotation :—Folld. Garland v. Burton (1738), Andr. 174.

3783. ———.]—GARLAND v. BURTON (1738), Andr. 174; 2 Stra. 1103; 95 E. R. 350.

3784. ———.]—R. v. NIXON (1719), 1 Stra. 185; 93 E. R. 462.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Wilkes (1770), 4 Burr. 2527.

3785. ———.]—Information quashed by consent.—R. v. GREEN, R. v. ROPER (1737), 2 Stra. 1072; 93 E. R. 1039.

Part XI.—Inquisitions.

See CORONERS, Vol. XIII., pp. 247–259.

of subpoena—Venue laid in home district.—It is not necessary that there should be fifteen days between the teste & return of a subpoena on a criminal information, where the venue is laid in the home district.—R. v. CROOKS (1840), (1823–1900), 1 Ont. Dig. 1583.—CAN.

o. Imputation on third person's character.—In affidavit showing cause—Whether affidavit answering charges may be filed.—In showing cause against an information, a third person, whose character is involved, has no right to answer the charges relative to himself, or to file an affidavit relative thereto; nor will the ct. give him leave to do so, unless some of the parties desire it.—R. v. ROWE (1804), Rowe, 275.—IR.

p. Application for information—When made.—A criminal information must be applied for the term immediately succeeding the act complained of, or a very satisfactory account given why this has not been done.—R. v. BELLINGHAM (1828), 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 32.—IR.

q. ———.—In special circumstances, the ct. will allow a motion for a criminal information to be made within the last four days of term, although the cause did not arise within the term.—EVATT v. KELLY (1838), 1 Jebb & S. 28.—IR.

r. Amendment of—Time for.—Application to amend an information refused, it being too late, owing to the operation of Stat. Limitations to file a new one.—A.-G. v. MATHEWS (1829), 2 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 397.—IR.

s. Failure to serve conditional order on deft.—A conditional order for a criminal information was granted against deft. when he was absent from Ireland, & it was served upon his wife at his residence in this country, but it did not appear that the order had ever reached his hands or that he attempted to conceal his place of residence abroad :—Held : the conditional order would not be made absolute.—R. v. DICKENSON (1875), 1 R. 10 C. L. 91.—IR.

t. Plea of justification not set aside on motion.—The ct. refused to set aside on motion a plea of justification pleaded to counts of a criminal information for words spoken of & to a person acting magisterially, leaving the party to demur if he thought fit.—R. v. REA (1863), 9 Cox, C. C. 401.—IR.

Part XII.—Evidence and Proof.

SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

3786. Sufficiency of.]—A mere scintilla of evidence, not sufficient to justify a verdict, ought not to be left to the jury.—R. v. SMITH (1865), 1 Le. & Ca. 607; 6 New Rep. 168; 34 L. J. M. C. 153; 12 L. T. 608; 29 J. P. 532; 11 Jur. N. S. 695; 13 W. R. 816; 10 Cox, C. C. 82, C. C. R.

Annotation.—Mentd. R. v. Chattaway & Chattaway (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 7.

3787. — To satisfy jury.]—In a criminal case the jury, in order to convict, ought to be satisfied that by the evidence, affirmatively, as a conviction created in their minds beyond all reasonable doubt that the guilt of the prisoner is established, & if there is only an impression of probability, they ought to acquit him. So far as the case rests on direct testimony, they should, if there be any circumstances to impeach the credibility of the witnesses, look carefully to those circumstances as elements of doubt in the case.—R. v. WHITE (1865), 4 F. & F. 383.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Beal (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 95.

3788. — —.]—You ought to have the highest degree of certainty which the practical business of life admits of (POLLOCK, C.B.).—R. v. KOHL (1865), 4 F. & F. 930, n.

3789. — —.]—Where prima facie evidence has been given for the Crown, which, if unanswered, would raise a presumption that might justify a jury in bringing in a verdict of guilty, & prisoner has called evidence to rebut that presumption, the proper direction for the jury is, that if the evidence in rebuttal raises in their minds a reasonable doubt as to prisoner's guilt, they should acquit him, as the onus of proof still lies upon the prosecution. If upon the whole evidence the jury are left in a real state of doubt the prosecution have failed to satisfy the onus of proof which lies upon them.—R. v. STODDART (1909), 73 J. P. 348; 25 T. L. R. 612; 53 Sol. Jo. 578; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 217, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Refd. R. v. Norton, [1910] 2 K. B. 496; R. v. Ellsom (1911), 76 J. P. 38; R. v. Savidge (1911), 76 J. P. 32; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Schama, R. v. Abramovitch (1914), 112 L. T. 480. Mentd. R. v. Bradshaw, Edwards & Jones (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 280; R. v. Brownlow (1910), 74 J. P. 240; R. v. Pratley (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 159; R. v. Hill (1911), 76 J. P. 49; R. v. Vassileva (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 228; R. v. Horn (1912), 76 J. P. 270; R. v. Monk (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 119; R. v. Finch (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575; R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 146; R. v. Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194; R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11.

3790. — Evidence consistent with innocence

PART XII. SECT. 1.

3786 i. Sufficiency of.]—Evidence of the behaviour of police dogs is inadmissible in a criminal case, & no presumption of guilt on the part of an accused person can be deduced by the behaviour of such dogs towards him.—R. v. ADONIS, [1918] T. P. D. 411.—S. AF.

3786 ii. — —.]—R. v. KOTCHO, R. v. BARLEY, [1918] E. D. L. 91.—S. AF.

a. Circumstantial evidence—Must be inconsistent with anything but guilt of accused.]—When circumstantial evidence is relied on to prove the guilt of any person accused of a criminal offence the circumstances & facts proved to the satisfaction of the jury must be not only such as are consistent with the guilt of that accused person but must be such as are inconsistent with any other reasonable conclusion except the guilt of that accused person.—R. v. TURNBULL

(1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 598; 37 N. S. W. W. N. 176.—AUS.

b. — —.]—Prisoner was tried before the judge of the county ct. for the crime of incest & was convicted. There was no direct proof of guilt but there were many circumstances from which an inference of guilt could be drawn, & which, if the case had been tried with a jury, could not properly have been withdrawn from them.—Held: the conviction must be affirmed.—R. v. WARD (1914), 48 N. S. R. 204; 24 Can. Crim. Cas. 75.—CAN.

c. Evidence must relate to particular charge.]—It is a well-established & well-known principle of the criminal law that each case ought to stand on its own merits & should be decided on the evidence given in relation to that particular charge.—R. v. LAPOINTE (1912), 22 O. W. R. 601; 3 O. W. N. 1469; 4 D. L. R. 210.—CAN.

or guilt.]—H. was the holder of a six-day licence. On a certain Sunday morning the police observed a number of persons being admitted to the licensed premises, & leaving after an interval of from three to twelve minutes. The only one of these persons who was called as a witness stated in evidence that when he entered the premises he called for intoxicating liquor, but that H. refused to serve him. The justices held that a prima facie case had been made out against H. of keeping open the premises for the sale of intoxicating liquors during part of the time at which the premises were directed to be closed, but H. refused to give or to call any evidence.—Held: the evidence was equally consistent with innocence as with guilt, & therefore a prima facie case had not been established against H., & the justices were not entitled to draw any inference of guilt from his refusal to give evidence.—HARRIES v. THOMAS (1917), 86 L. J. K. B. 812; 117 L. T. 123; 81 J. P. 172; 25 Cox, C. C. 753, D. C.

3791. Circumstantial evidence — Exclusion of other causes.]—Where a criminal charge depends on circumstantial evidence, it ought not only to be consistent with the prisoner's guilt but inconsistent with any other rational conclusion.—HODGE'S CASE (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 227.

3792. — —.]—On an indictment for manslaughter by causing a fire, it is necessary in order to sustain the case by an exhaustive process of proof, to show that the fire could not have arisen from any other cause than that charged.—R. v. GARDNER (1859), 1 F. & F. 669.

SECT. 2.—IDENTIFICATION OF ACCUSED.

3793. Necessity for.]—If two men are indicted, & one of them appear to be innocent & the other guilty, but the prosecutor cannot identify them respectively, both must be acquitted.—R. v. RICHARDSON (1785), 1 Leach, 387.

3794. Procedure at identification—Witness must act independently.]—Identification of a debt, by a witness must be absolutely independent.—R. v. DICKMAN (1910), 74 J. P. 449; 26 T. L. R. 640; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Mentd. Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

3795. — —.]—The identification of a suspected person must be carefully conducted; it is wrong to point out the suspected person & ask,

PART XII. SECT. 2.

d. General rule.]—Evidence of belief as to a prisoner's identity is admissible although a belief on circumstantial grounds would be of little, & might be of no value.—R. v. CORCORAN (1865), 4 N. S. W. S. C. R. 83.—AUS.

3794 i. Procedure at identification—Witness must act independently.]—Police ought not either directly or indirectly to do anything which may prevent the identification of an accused person from being absolutely independent, & they should be most scrupulous in seeing that it is so.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY (No. 2), [1917] 1 W. W. R. 404; 10 Alta. L. R. 275; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 247; 33 D. L. R. 702.—CAN.

e. Proof of identification—Evidence of peculiarities of accused—Loss of finger of left hand.]—On the trial of a prisoner for murder evidence was given that he had lost one finger of

"Is that the man?"—R. v. CHAPMAN (1911), 28 T. L. R. 81; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

3796. ———.]—Where the sole defence is an alibi identification by a single witness must be conducted with great care, & the summing up must deal carefully with the facts of the identification.—R. v. MILLICAMP (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 83, C. C. A.

3797. ——— Suspected person should not be presented alone.]—It is improper, in order to identify prisoners, to invite proposed witnesses to see them apart from other persons.—R. v. SMITH & EVANS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 203, C. C. A.

3798. ———.]—For the purpose of identification the suspected person should not be presented alone.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 84, C. C. A.

3799. ——— Suspected person should not be in dock.]—It is improper to identify a deft. only when he is in the dock.

The Ct. of Cr. App. will not interfere with a sentence unless further facts are brought to its notice, but if further facts are brought to its notice which justify a reduction of sentence, will err on the side of mercy.—R. v. CARTWRIGHT (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 219, C. C. A.

3800. ——— Preliminary description should not be given to witness.]—A., the driver of a cart, left his pony & cart outside a public-house. On leaving it he saw two men loitering near, S. & another man. On returning to the place the pony & van had disappeared. On the trial of B. for the theft, the evidence for the Crown consisted of the identification of B. by A. & S. Both A. & S. had picked B. out of a line of men at the police-station, A. as a man he had seen loitering at the place & S. as a man he had seen drive off with the pony & cart. A., in the course of his evidence, said: "I did not take particular notice of him; I just caught his eye at the minute I brought the van round." S. said he had only seen the back of the man who drove off with the van, but he identified the man at the police-station from his front. When asked how it was he was able to identify B., he said: "Because they said he very much resembled the man they had suspicion of"; & in answer to the foreman of the jury, he said that a detective officer had given him a description of the man. The vice in the evidence of S. was not pointed out to the jury by the judge in his summing up, although he pointed out to them that S. said he had not seen his face until he saw it at the police-station. B. was convicted:—Held: the conviction must be quashed on the ground that the evidence of identification was very unsatisfactory & the case had not been properly left to the jury.—R. v. BUNDY (1910), 75 J. P. 111; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 270, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Finch (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575.

3801. ——— Photographs of suspected persons should not be shown previously.]—Photographs of persons about to be put up for identification ought not to be shown previously to those who are invited to identify such persons.—R. v. GOSS (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.

his left hand, & on the application of counsel for the Crown Judge ordered him to hold up his left hand, & the jury saw it.—Held: the order was right.—R. v. HARTLEY (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 306.—AUS.

3807 i. ——— Finger-prints may be sufficient.]—The resemblance between the finger-print of an accused person & the finger-print found on an article may be sufficient evidence to justify a jury in finding that the finger-print found on the article was made by accused.—R. v. PARKER, [1912] V. L. R. 152.—AUS.

3807 ii. ———.]—During the absence of the occupants of a dwelling-house, the house was entered, & property stolen therefrom. Finger-prints were found on an article in the house. These finger-prints exactly corresponded to the prints of the right thumb of the person accused of breaking into the house:—Held: there

3802. Question to witness.]—In order to identify a person in ct. with one whom the witness has described, the attention of the witness may be directed to the person in ct., & he may be asked whether that is the person of whom he has spoken.—R. v. WATSON (1817), 2 Stark. 116; 32 State Tr. 1, N. P.

Annotations:—Refd. A.-G. v. Briant (1846), 15 M. & W. 169; Mulcahy v. R. (1867), 15 W. R. 446; R. v. McCafferty (1867), 15 W. R. 1022; Marks v. Beyfus (1890), 63 L. T. 733. Mentd. Bedford v. Birley (1822), 1 State Tr. N. S. 1071. Tooth v. Bagwell (1825), 2 C. & P. 187; R. v. Blake (1844), 6 Q. B. 126; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795.

3803. ———.]—A witness called to prove that he had seen a prisoner at a particular spot at a certain time added that he had since seen a number of men in gaol & had pointed out one:—Held: the following was a proper form of question to put to the witness: "Who did you point him out as being?"—R. v. BLACKBURN (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 333.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Godinho (1911), 76 J. P. 16.

3804. Proof of identification—Evidence of peculiarities of accused—Left-handedness.]—R. v. PATCH (1806), Wills' Circumstantial Evidence, 6th ed. p. 442.

3805. ——— Footmarks insufficient.]—Evidence of footmarks of highway robbers held per se insufficient evidence on which to convict of a felony.—R. v. BUTTON (1858), 1 F. & F. 354.

3806. ——— Handwriting insufficient on charge of perjury in an affidavit.]—B. was indicted for perjury committed in an affidavit alleged to have been made by him, in order to obtain a marriage licence. The evidence showed that some person went to the vicar general's office, & gave certain instructions in accordance with which an affidavit was filled up by one of the clerks, which, after having been read over to appet., was signed by him. B.'s father proved that the signature to the affidavit was in his son's handwriting. The custom of the vicar general's office is, for the clerk who fills up the affidavit to go with appet. & get him to swear to it before a surrogate. Neither the clerk in the vicar general's office nor the surrogate could identify B. as having sworn to the present affidavit; & although the clergyman who married B. recognised him as being the person who was married under the licence granted on the strength of the affidavit signed by him, yet he did not receive the licence from him on the day of the marriage, but on the previous day from the verger of his church:—Held: further proof of the identity of the person who swore to the affidavit with the person who signed it was necessary before B. could be convicted of perjury assigned on a false statement contained in it.—R. v. BARNES (1867), 31 J. P. 408; 10 Cox, C. C. 539.

3807. ——— Finger-prints may be sufficient.]—The ct. may accept the evidence of finger-prints though it be the sole ground of identification.—R. v. CASTLETON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

3808. ——— Voice sufficient.]—There may be sufficient identification of a person by his was evidence identifying the accused person with the person who committed the crime, & the judge was right in not withdrawing the case from the jury.—R. v. MORRIS (No. 2), [1914] S. R. Q. 274.—AUS.

3807 iii. ———.]—R. v. KRAUSCH (1913), 32 N. Z. L. R. 1229.—N.Z.

1. ——— Enlarged photographs admissible.]—Upon the trial of voice.—R. v. KEATING (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 61, C. C. A.

Sect. 2.—Identification of accused. Sect. 3: Subsect. 1, A.]

3809. ——— Telephone conversation.]

—Telephone conversations in which a prisoner is alleged to have taken part may be given in evidence.—R. v. LEWIS & HICKMAN (1920), 84 J. P. 64.

3810. — Denial of identity on charge of gross indecency—Evidence of possession of lewd pictures.]

—On the trial of a man on a charge of gross indecency the prosecution tendered evidence to prove that at the time the accused was carrying powder puffs & that in his rooms he had indecent photographs of nude boys. The defence was that the accused was not the man who committed the alleged offence, & he adduced evidence to prove an alibi:—Held: the evidence was admissible on the issue as to identity.—THOMPSON v. R., [1918] A. C. 221; 87 L. J. Q. B. 478; 118 L. T. 418; 82 J. P. 145; 34 T. L. R. 204; 62 Sol. Jo. 266; 26 Cox, C. C. 189; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 61, H. L.; affg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. THOMPSON, [1917] 2 K. B. 630, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Foll. R. v. Twiss, [1918] 2 K. B. 853. Reid, R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555; R. v. Manning (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 85.

3811. — By prosecutor—In presence of other witnesses—Demeanour of accused when accusation made in his presence.]—(1) There is no rule of law that evidence of a statement made in the presence & hearing of the accused is not admissible as having a bearing on his conduct unless he accepts the statement; but where the accused denies the truth of the statement the presiding judge, in the absence of special circumstances, should intimate to counsel for the prosecution that, inasmuch as the evidence, though admissible, would have little value & might unfairly prejudice the jury against the accused, it ought not to be admitted.

Resp. was convicted of an indecent assault upon a little boy. At the trial the boy's mother stated in evidence that, as she & her son came up to resp. shortly after the act complained of, the little boy said in resp.'s hearing: "That is the man," & described what resp. did to him, & that resp. replied, "I am innocent." The Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction upon the authority of R. v. Norton, No. 4137, post, on the ground that evidence of a statement, made in the presence of the accused was not admissible against him unless he acknowledged the truth of the statement:—Held: the evidence was admissible in law in reference to the demeanour of resp., & as part of the act of identification.

a prisoner photographs of a thumb-print found on a box alleged to be that of the prisoner, & a photo of prisoner's thumb-print, were put in evidence. The Crown also tendered enlarged photographs of these prints which, however, did not show the whole of the print found on the box or the whole of prisoner's thumb-print, but did show the characteristics of the thumb-print relied upon for purposes of identification:—Held: the enlarged prints were admissible in evidence.

BLACKER v. R. (1910), 10 C. L. R. 604; 27 N. S. W. N. 76.—AUS.

E. ——— Accused cannot be compelled to give his finger-prints in court.]—Evidence obtained by compelling an accused to give his finger-prints in ct. is improperly obtained, & a conviction resulting therefrom must be quashed.—GOORPURSHAD v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 87.—S. AF.

Foot-prints — Plaster casts.]—To prove certain foot-prints had been made by accused evidence was given that one of his had been pressed into the soil beside the foot-prints & had made a similar impression. Plaster casts were produced in ct.:—Held: evidence properly procured & admissible.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 243.—AUS.

K. — Previous identification — Evidence admissible to show person identified was accused.]—Upon the trial for murder, a witness stated that he could not then identify prisoner as the person who had struck the blow, but added that on a former occasion he had so identified him:—Held: evidence was admissible to show that the person so identified was the prisoner.—R. v. TOBIN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 298.—IR.

L. ———.]—A witness who

(2) The principles of the laws of evidence are the same whether applied at civil or criminal trials, but they are not enforced with the same rigidity against a person accused of a criminal offence as against a party to a civil action. There are exceptions to the law regulating the admissibility of evidence which apply only to criminal trials, & which have acquired their force by the constant & invariable practice of judges when presiding at criminal trials. They are rules of prudence & discretion, & have become so integral a part of the administration of the criminal law as almost to have acquired the full force of law (LORD READING).

(3) By virtue of the Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, Christie could not be convicted unless the boy's testimony was "corroborated by some other material evidence in support thereof implicating the accused." There was no sufficient direction, & there was misdirection to the jury of the requisites of corroboration under this statute. Such direction as was given by the deputy chairman was erroneous inasmuch as it treated the statement by the boy, given in evidence by the mother & the constable, as corroboration of the boy's evidence implicating the accused. This is manifestly wrong. It was for the deputy chairman to satisfy himself that there was evidence of corroboration fit to be submitted to the jury within the meaning of the statute, & then to direct them not to convict unless they accepted the evidence of corroboration (LORD READING).

(4) It is not a rule of law that the evidence of an accomplice must be corroborated in order to render a conviction on his evidence valid; but it is a general rule of practice that judges should advise juries not to convict on the evidence of an accomplice unless it be corroborated, & this is a matter entirely for the discretion of the judge before whom a case is tried (LORD ATKINSON).

(5) The boy's statement was so separated by time & circumstance from the actual commission of the crime that it was not, I think, admissible as part of the res gestae (LORD ATKINSON).—R. v. CHRISTIE, [1914] A. C. 545; sub nom. PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR v. CHRISTIE, 83 L. J. K. B. 1097; 111 L. T. 220; 78 J. P. 321; 30 T. L. R. 471; 58 Sol. Jo. 515; 24 Cox, C. C. 249; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 141, H. L.; affg. (1913), 109 L. T. 746, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (1) Apld. Chantler v. Bromley (1921), 14 B. W. C. C. 14. Reid, R. v. Curmoke (1914), 111 L. T. 816; Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702; R. v. Smith (1915), 114 L. T. 239; R. v. Feigenbaum, [1919] 1 K. B. 431; R. v. Adams (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 77. As to (4) Reid, R. v. Boyv (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 15. Generally, Mentd. R. v. Altschuler (1915), 11 Cr. A. v. Hall (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 221.

3812. — Statement by person when accused

had, two days after the occurrence, identified one of a party who had robbed him, when asked if he saw the person in ct., pointed to a prisoner, & said that he thought he was one of the men, but he was not sure; but he had identified a man two days after the robbery; that at the time he was sure that it was the right man, & that he thought prisoner, K., was the man whom he had identified, but he had very different clothes on then:—Held: the Crown were entitled to show by other witnesses that prisoner, K., was the man who had been previously identified by the former witness.—L. v. BURKE & KELLY (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 514.—IR.

m. ——— Evidence admissible to rebut.]—Upon a trial for stabbing with intent to kill, evidence having been given that the offence was committed by the prisoner, A. & B. being not present—Inadmissible.]—R. v. TAYLOR (1874), 13 Cox, C. C. 77.

Annotation.—Reid. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

3813. By photograph—In general.—On an indictment for bigamy, a photographic likeness of the first husband allowed to be shown the witnesses present at the first marriage, in order to prove his identity with the person mentioned in the marriage certificate.

The photograph was admissible because it is only a visible representation of the image or impression made upon the minds of the witnesses by the sight of the person or the object it represents; &, therefore is, in reality, only another species of the evidence which persons give of identity, when they speak merely from memory (WILLES, J.).—R. v. TOLSON (1864), 4 F. & F. 103.

3814. — Effect of showing photograph to identifying witness.—Evidence of identification is weakened if the identifying witness has previously been shown a photograph of the accused for the express purpose.—R. v. CHADWICK, MATTHEWS & JOHNSON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 247, C. C. A.

3815. — To obtain evidence.—The police are justified in showing photographs of a person whom they suspect with a view of getting information, & evidence that they had a photograph of deft. may be given at his trial.—R. v. KINGSLAND (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

3816. — Effect of production at trial by police.—R. v. PALMER (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

3817. — — — — ——R. v. VARLEY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 125, C. C. A.

SECT. 3.—AS TO CHARACTER.

SUB-SECT. 1.—OF ACCUSED.

A. Good Character.

3818. General rule.—A.-G. v. BOWMAN (1791), 2 Bos. & P. 532, n.; 126 E. R. 1423.

3819. What is evidence of good character.—A general examination on behalf of a prisoner as to the surrounding circumstances is not evidence of good character so as to entitle the prosecution to prove or to cross-examine as to other offences or convictions. Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii.) is intended to apply to cases where witnesses to character are called, or where evidence of the good character of prisoner is sought to be elicited from the witnesses for the prosecution.

present, proof was admitted of an alibi of A. & B. Identification of a prisoner at the trial effected by showing that he is the same person, whom the witnesses had previously identified.—R. v. NASH (1832), 1 Craw. & D. 178.—IR.

n. — Sufficiency of—Question for jury.—At the trial of prisoner, an official stenographer from the Province of Quebec verified the deposition of D. taken in a civil action before the Superior Ct., at M., & stated that the prisoner resembled the person whose deposition he had taken in M., but, as this took place over six months previously, he could not sufficiently remember his face to swear positively that the prisoner was really the same man, but stated, however, that to the best of his knowledge he was the same man, & that he had no doubt that he was the same man.—Held: there was sufficient evidence of the identity of prisoner with the person whose deposition was put in to warrant the judge in submitting the deposition to the jury, the question of identity being one entirely for them.—R. v. DOUGLAS

(1896), 11 Man. L. R. 401.—CAN.

o. — — — — ——Defts. were tried by a judge without a jury upon a charge of conspiring to defraud the complainant. At the trial the complainant, in the witness-box, would not swear positively that deft., H., then present in ct. as a prisoner in the dock, was the man, or one of the men, who had defrauded him, although he had identified the same man at the preliminary hearing in the police ct. The complainant said: "To the best of my knowledge, he was the man. . . . There is another man here to-day, & I am undecided which it is." The judge thought the evidence of identity sufficient, & convicted defts.—Held: the conviction could not be disturbed, there being some evidence to sustain it.—R. v. HARVEY & TAYLOR (1918), 42 O. L. R. 187; 13 O. W. N. 455.—CAN.

p. — Witness unable to identify—Though able to identify accused at former trial.—A witness produced on the part of the Crown, who swears that he cannot positively identify the

It is to this class of evidence that the statute refers, not to mere assertions of innocence or repudiation of guilt on the part of prisoner, nor to reasons given by him for such assertion or repudiation.

Applt. was convicted upon an indictment for obtaining from D. cheques by false pretences. The indictment alleged that he sold various articles of virtu to D. under an agreement that he was to charge D. the cost price plus 10 per cent. profit; that applt. represented to D. that the cost was much in excess of the real cost; & that by this means he had obtained from D. much larger sums than he was entitled to. Applt. gave evidence on his own behalf, & in cross-examination questions were put to him suggesting that in other transactions he had obtained money from D. by alleging that certain china figures were genuine pieces of old Dresden china, whereas he knew that they were not.—Held: the alleged false pretences in representing the articles to be genuine old Dresden china when they were not so were entirely distinct from those with which prisoner was charged, &, as upon that ground evidence of the false representations with regard to the articles being genuine old Dresden china was not admissible to show that he was guilty of the false pretences with which he was charged, the questions put in cross-examination were improperly allowed, inasmuch as they tended to show that applt. had committed an offence other than that with which he was charged, & that the conviction must be quashed, as the jury must have been influenced by the questions & answers.—R. v. ELLIS, [1910] 2 K. B. 746; 79 L. J. K. B. 841; 102 L. T. 922; 74 J. P. 388; 26 T. L. R. 535; 22 Cox, C. C. 330; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Starkie, [1922] 2 K. B. 275; Jenkins v. Feit (1923), 129 L. T. 95. Reid. Barker v. Arnold, [1911] 2 K. B. 120; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336; R. v. Baird (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785; R. v. Ratcliffe (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 135.

3820. — Not voluntary statement by witness.—Applt., who was tried for housebreaking & robbery, called a witness for the purpose of producing certain letters. This witness, without any question being put to him by applt., voluntarily made a statement as to applt.'s good character. Counsel for the prosecution then claimed that as evidence of applt.'s good character had been given he was entitled to cross-examine the witness as to applt.'s real character, & he thereupon proceeded to ask the witness as to the number of prisoners, may be examined by the Crown as to his having identified them on a former trial.—R. v. CURTAIN (1840), 1 Leg. Rep. 166.—IR.

3814 i. By photograph—Effect of showing photograph to identifying witness.—At the hearing of a trial for assault in which the defence was an alibi, witnesses for the Crown stated, in their evidence in chief, that a fortnight after the assault the police showed them several photographs from which they had picked out accused's photograph, & that they had subsequently identified the accused when lined up with several others at the police station.—Held: the evidence relating to the photographs was admissible.—R. v. FANNON (1922), 22 S. R. N. S. W. 427.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

3818 i. General rule.—In criminal cases evidence of good character of prisoner is to be taken into consideration only in cases of doubt.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1868), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 54.—AUS.

Sect. 3.—As to character: Sub-sect. 1, A. & B.]

times applt. had been convicted:—Held: applt. was not under the circumstances endeavouring to establish a good character by calling a witness who voluntarily made a statement as to applt.'s good character, & therefore the questions as to applt.'s previous convictions were not admissible.—R. v. REDD, [1923] 1 K. B. 104; 92 L. J. K. B. 208; 128 L. T. 30; 87 J. P. 43; 67 Sol. Jo. 171; 27 Cox, C. C. 318; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 36, C. C. A.

3821. Elicited by cross-examination.]—If a prisoner's counsel elicit, by his cross-examination of the witnesses for the prosecution, a statement that the prisoner has borne a good character, evidence may be given of a previous conviction just the same as if witnesses to character had been called on his behalf.—R. v. GADBURY (1838), 8 C. & P. 676.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Redd [1923] 1 K. B. 104.

3822. —[—]—On a trial for a felony after a prisoner's conviction, if prisoner's counsel obtain evidence of good character by cross-examination, this entitles prosecutor to go into evidence of the previous conviction before the jury find a verdict on the new charge, the same as if prisoner had obtained evidence of good character by calling a witness.—R. v. SHRIMPTON (1851), 3 Car. & Kir. 373; 2 Den. 319; T. & M. 628; 21 L. J. M. C. 37; 18 L. T. O. S. 175; 15 J. P. 801; 15 Jur. 1089; 5 Cox, C. C. 387, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 13 W. R. 436.

3823. —[—]—R. v. REDD, No. 3820, ante.

—[—]—See, further, Sect. 12, sub-sect. 2, C., post.

3824. How material—To show unlikelihood of accused committing offence.]—Indictment for publishing a seditious libel alleging an intent to create discontent, & to incite to violence:—Held: evidence by persons acquainted with deft. as to his general character, & as to his opinions on subjects connected with the alleged libel was admissible in his favour to show the general character of his publications & opinions on such subjects. Evidence of a report of a speech made by deft. in 1822, & published at that time, was also admissible in his favour on the same grounds.—R. v. COBBETT (1831), 2 State Tr. N. S. 789.

3825. —[—]—On the trial of an indictment for perjury, the witnesses to character were asked, "What is the character of deft. for veracity & honour?" & "Do you consider him a man likely to commit perjury?"—R. v. HEMP (1833), 5 C. & P. 468, N. P.

3826. —[—]—The object of laying evidence of character before the jury is to induce them to believe, from the improbability that a person of good character should have conducted himself as alleged, that there is some mistake or misrepresentation in the evidence on the part of the prosecution, & it is strictly evidence in the case (PATTESON, J.).—R. v. STANNARD (1837), 7 C. & P. 673.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194.

3827. —[—]—The nature of evidence given to character is to show that prisoner who is of a peaceable disposition & averse from mixing himself up in such quarrels & affrays & tumults as are now laid to his charge, is not a person likely to be guilty of a crime of High Treason by levying war on the Queen (TINDAL, C.J.).—R. v. FROST (1840), 9 C. & P. 129; 2 Mood. C. C. 140; 4 State Tr. N. S. 85; 1 Town. St. Tr. 1; Gurney's Rep. 749.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194. Mentd. Redford v. Birley (1822), 1 State Tr. N. S. 1071; R. v. Tyrrell (1843), 2 L. T. O. S. 175; O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; R. v. Cuffey (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 467; R. v. Smith O'Brien (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; R. v. Bird (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 20; Munsell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 54; R. v. Bernard (1858), 8 State Tr. N. S. 887; R. v. Burke (1867), 10 Cox, C. C. 519; Dillon v. O'Brien & Davis (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 245; R. v. Crippen, [1911] 1 K. B. 149.

3828. When material—In cases of doubt.]—The witnesses he called in point of reputation, that I must leave to you. Few men that come to be questioned, but shall have some come & say, he is a very honest man; but is this anything against the evidence of the fact? (HYDE, L.C.J.).—R. v. TURNER (1864), 6 State Tr. 565; 1 Sid. 171; 82 E. R. 1038.

3829. —[—]—R. v. SWENSDEN (1702), 14 State Tr. 559; Holt, K. B. 319; 7 Mod. Rep. 101; 90 E. R. 1076.

3830. —[—]—R. v. DAMMAREE (1710), 15 State Tr. 521.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Horne Tooke (1794), 25 State Tr. 1; R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1.

3831. —[—]—If the fact of publication were doubtful & if it referred to a man who had such a character given to him this would be evidence to go to the jury in answer to the charge & in that way it would be most material (ELLENBOROUGH, C.J.).—R. v. DRAPER (1807), 30 State Tr. 959.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Burdett (1820), 1 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Halpin (1829), 7 L. J. O. S. M. C. 75.

3832. —[—]—This is the whole evidence on the subject of character. As I have already stated to you, if the evidence were in even balance, character should make it preponderate in favour of a deft.; but in order to let character have its operation, the case must be reduced to that situation (ELLENBOROUGH, C.J.).—R. v. DAVISON (1809), 31 State Tr. 99.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 10 Cox, C. C. 25; R. v. Bliss Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194.

3833. —[—]—If the evidence leaves it a matter of fair & reasonable doubt whether a party is guilty or not; in common cases, if you prove that a prisoner up to that time has always maintained a good character, it will apply & balance in his favour; but if the evidence of guilt is satisfactory to the minds of a jury, evidence of previous good character cannot & ought not to have any avail (LE BLANC, J.).—R. v. HAIGH (1813), 31 State Tr. 1092.

3834. —[—]—Where evidence of the good character of a prisoner in a criminal trial is given it is a correct direction for the judge to tell the jury that, if the remaining evidence left them in doubt whether the charge had been brought home to prisoner, they should take into consideration the evidence of good character, but that, if the other evidence satisfied them of prisoner's guilt, the previous good character which he had borne afforded no answer to the charge.—R. v. BLISS HILL (1918), 82 J. P. 194; sub nom. R. v. BROADHURST, MEANLEY & BLISS HILL, 13 Cr. App. Rep. 125, C. C. A.

3828 i. When material—In cases of doubt.]—Evidence of a good character of an accused is of value only in cases where the other evidence leaves the jury in doubt as to what its findings should be.—R. v. LETAIN, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 595; 29 Can. Crim. Cas.

389.—CAN.

q. Effect of—Direction of judge.]—At the trial of a person charged with stealing from the person, evidence was given as to the inexceptional character of the accused prior to the charge.

When summing up judge used expressions which Ct. of Appeal considered carried a strong suggestion that accused had been guilty of previous similar misconduct:—Held: accused had been deprived of that benefit to which evidence as to character entitled 3835. Confined to general reputation.]—When prisoner calls evidence of good character, the prosecutor may call evidence to rebut it.

Evidence of the general character of a prisoner must be confined to evidence of reputation & not of disposition; & the personal judgment of a witness as to prisoner's disposition cannot be received in evidence.—R. v. ROWTON (1865), Le. & Ca. 520; 5 New Rep. 428; 34 L. J. M. C. 57; 11 L. T. 745; 29 J. P. 149; 11 Jur. N. S. 325; 13 W. R. 436; 10 Cox, C. C. 25, C. C. R.

3836. Time for calling.]—In general, witnesses to character cannot be examined after verdict & before sentence, where deft. might have examined them upon the trial.

A person employed by govt. to mix with conspirators, & pretend to aid their designs for the purpose of betraying them, does not require corroboration as an accomplice.—R. v. MULLINS (1848), 12 J. P. 776; 3 Cox, C. C. 526.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bickley (1909), 73 J. P. 239; R. v. Wilson, Lewis & Havard (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 126; R. v. Watson (1913), 109 L. T. 335; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

3837. Cross-examination of witnesses to character.]—It is not usual to cross-examine witnesses to character, except the counsel cross-examining have some distinct charge to which to cross-examine them.—R. v. HODGKISS (1836), 7 C. & P. 298.

3838. — Extent of.]—In cross-examining a witness to character, it is competent to ask whether he has heard of a particular felony having been committed some years previous; & on his answering in the affirmative, to ask whether prisoner was not suspected of having been the perpetrator of it.—R. v. WOOD & PARKER (1841), 5 Jur. 225.

3839. — —.]—A witness to the good character of a prisoner cannot be cross-examined as to circumstances of suspicion against prisoner, which occurred upon the same day as the alleged offence was committed.—R. v. ROGAN & ELLIOTT (1846), 1 Cox, C. C. 291.

3840. Evidence in rebuttal.]—No witnesses should be asked how deft. stands affected; but if deft. give evidence of a general reputation, it may be answered by particular instances on the other side for the King.—R. v. HAINS (1695), Comb. 337; 90 E. R. 513.

Annotations:—Mentd. Cox v. Allingham (1822), Jac. 514; R. v. Smith (1828), 8 B. & C. 341; Police Comr. v. Donovan, [1903] 1 K. B. 895.

3841. —.]—R. v. GADBURY, No. 3821, ante.

3842. —.]—Where witnesses to character are called by prisoner, the prosecutor may call others to contradict them, though, except in the case of a previous conviction, it is very uncommon to do so.—R. v. HUGHES (1843), 2 L. T. O. S. 247; 1 Cox, C. C. 44.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 34 L. J. M. C. 57.

3843. —.]—Semble: if witnesses to character are called for prisoner, witnesses may be called in reply on behalf of the prosecution, to show general or specific acts of bad conduct.—R. v. LOVEJOY (1850), 14 J. P. 592.

3844. —.]—Where witnesses are called on the part of prisoner to give evidence of his general good character, it is not competent to the prosecution to call witnesses to give evidence of prisoner's general bad character.—R. v. BURT (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 284.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rowton (1865), 13 W. R. 436.

3845. —.]—R. v. SHRIMPTON, No. 3822, ante.

3846. —.]—R. v. GERARD (1852), T. & M. 631.

3847. —.]—R. v. ROWTON, No. 3835, ante.

B. Bad Character.

3848. Whether admissible.]—R. v. COLE (1810), 3 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 6th ed. p. 251; 1 Phillips on Evidence, 10th ed. p. 508.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389; Thompson v. R., [1918] A. C. 221.

3849. —.]—On the trial of a prisoner for wounding a constable who had arrested him on suspicion of felony, the following question, in order to assist in showing that there were reasonable grounds for the arrest, was put to the constable on the part of the prosecution, "What do you know had been prisoner's previous character?" The answer was, "I know prisoner to be a very bad character":—Held: this question ought not to have been put in the examination-in-chief, although it was open to prisoner to have cross-examined the constable as to the grounds of his suspicion.—R. v. TURBERFIELD (1864), Le. & Ca. 495; 34 L. J. M. C. 20; 13 W. R. 102; 10 Cox, C. C. 1; sub nom. R. v. TURBERFIELD, 11 L. T. 385; 29 J. P. 4; 10 Jur. N. S. 1111, C. C. R.

3850. — Previous caution against commission of offence.]—Evidence of a previous caution against committing an offence of a certain kind is not admissible on the trial of an indictment for an offence of that kind.—R. v. MULLINS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

3851. When evidence of bad character wrongfully given—Caution by judge.]—On an appeal against the verdict of a jury convicting a prisoner of having feloniously uttered a counterfeit coin where the only evidence of guilty knowledge was

him.—R. v. MURPHY (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 646.—AUS.

r. —.]—Where positive evidence of good character is called by the accused, the judge, if he refers to it, ought to direct the jury that they are entitled to consider it as evidence on the question of guilt or innocence. A direction that such evidence may amount to no more than that the accused has not been found out may have a misleading effect.—R. v. MALOUF (1918), 18 S. R. N. S. W. 142.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

3848 i. Whether admissible.]—Evidence of police constables that a prisoner is known to them as a bad character & associate of thieves is not admissible as evidence of general bad character.—R. v. PEARCE (1877), 3 V. L. R. 125.—AUS.

3848 ii. —.]—If a judge upon the evidence, uninfluenced by any extrinsic thereto, has found & adjudged the accused guilty of the offence with which he was charged & upon which he was being tried, it is then proper for him to permit either the Crown or the accused or both to give evidence, not only respecting the character, good or evil, of the accused, but also of any other relevant circumstances or conditions with the view of enabling him to form an opinion as to what would be a suitable & proper sentence to impose.—R. v. PINDER, [1923] 2 W. W. R. 997; [1923] 3 D. L. R. 707; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 272.—CAN.

3848 iii. —.]—It is improper to allow witnesses for the prosecution to state that the accused is not of good character.—R. v. TIMMI (1864), 2 Bom. 131.—IND.

3848 iv. —.]—Evidence of bad character should not be put before the jury, but is only for consideration of the judge in determining the sentence to be awarded.—R. v. MAHIMA CHANDRA DAS (1871), 6 B. L. R. App. 108.—IND.

3848 v. —.]—The character of accused not being a fact in issue in the offence of belonging to a gang of persons associated for the purpose of habitually committing theft, punishable under sect. 401 of the Penal Code, evidence of bad character or reputation of the accused is inadmissible for the purpose of proving the commission of that offence.—MANKURA PARI v. R. (1899), 1 L. R. 27 Calc. 139; 4 C. W. N. 97.—IND.

3848 vi. —.]—A man's guilt is to be established by proof of the facts alleged & not by proof of his character; such evidence might create a prejudice but not lead a step towards substantiation of guilt.—AMRITA LAL the fact that prisoner had run away when followed by a policeman & where prisoner had proved conclusively that he had not uttered another counterfeit coin to the same person a fortnight before—as was alleged—for he was in prison at the time, the Ct. allowing the appeal on the ground that the judge had not expressly warned the jury that they must disregard the fact that prisoner had been in prison before.—R. v. LEE (1908), 72 J. P. 253; 24 T. L. R. 627; 52 Sol. Jo. 518; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

Sect. 3.—As to character: Sub-sect. 1, B.; sub-sect. 2.]

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Warner (1908), 73 J. P. 53. Refd. R. v. Joyce (1908), 72 J. P. 483. Mentd. R. v. Laws (1908), 72 J. P. 271.

3852. ——— Accused may cross-examine.]

—On a trial for larceny, where a witness, put forward by the prosecution as an accomplice, gave evidence which suggested that prisoner had been previously concerned with him in coining offences, & the judge, who tried the case, prevented prisoner, who was not defended by counsel, from cross-examining on the point, & stopped him in the middle of his explanation of the matter, in his address to the jury, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction.

If evidence of a previous conviction is accidentally given at the trial, the jury must be emphatically directed to disregard it.—R. v. WARNER (1908), 73 J. P. 53; 25 T. L. R. 142; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 227, C. C. A.

3853. ———.]—The judge ought emphatically to caution a jury against being influenced by the unfounded suggestion of a previous conviction.—R. v. EVISON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 75, C. C. A.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Stratton (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 255.

3854. Evidence of previous conviction—By accused—Effect on jury.]—If a prisoner chooses to talk about his convictions, it cannot be said that the jury may not take them into consideration.—R. v. HORSEFALL & JONES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A.

3855. ———.]—Where deft. has unnecessarily let in evidence of a previous conviction, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will take into account its effect on the jury.—R. v. FRANKS (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

3856. Publication of evidence of previous conviction—By newspaper—Hearing before magistrate—Case committed for trial.]—Where evidence of previous convictions is given at a police Ct. in a case which is committed for trial, such evidence ought not to be referred to by a newspaper in its report of the proceedings.—R. v. SANDERSON (1915), 31 T. L. R. 447; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 197, C. C. A.

Identification of accused—By photograph.]—See Part XII., Sect. 2, ante.

See, also, Part VII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 8, D., ante.

HAZRA v. R. (1915), 1 L. R. 42 Calc. 957.—IND.

s. Evidence of previous conviction—Whether relevant as to character of accused.]—In charging the jury upon the trial of a prisoner for being dishonestly in the possession of stolen goods, the judge directed the jury to consider the proof of previous convictions for theft as evidence from which inference might fairly be drawn as to the character of accused:—Held: this amounted to a misdirection; for, the fact that prisoner has a bad character is irrelevant.—ROSHUN DOOSADH v. R. (1880), 1 L. R. 5 Calc. 768; 6 C. L. R. 219.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 2.

3859 i. Charge of rape—Evidence of of the prosecutrix for want of chastity, is admissible.—R. v. MCCLURE (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 244.—IR.

3859 ii. ———.]—In a trial

SUB-SECT. 2.—OF PERSON PROSECUTING—MOTIVE.

3857. Whether motive material.]—R. v. COYLE (1851), Wills' Circumstantial Evidence, 5th ed. p. 211.

3858. ———.]—R. v. ROBERTS (1886), Wills' Circumstantial Evidence, 5th ed. p. 211.

3859. Charge of rape—Evidence of general bad character admissible—Not as to specific acts.]—

(1) The prosecutrix of an indictment for an assault with intent to commit a rape, having been cross-examined as to crimes committed by her several years before the alleged offence, evidence may be adduced to show that her character has since been good. Deft. in such case may impeach her character for chastity, by general, but not by particular evidence.

(2) The fact of her making complaint of the outrage, & the state in which she was at the time of making the complaint are evidence, although the particulars of her statement are not evidence to prove the truth of her statement.—R. v. CLARKE (1817), 2 Stark. 241.

*Annotations:—*As to (1) Folld. R. v. Tissington (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 458. Refd. R. v. Clay (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 146. As to (2) Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167. Generally, Mentd. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334.

3860. ———.]—On the trial of an indictment for a rape:—Held: (1) prisoner's counsel might ask the prosecutrix the following questions, with a view to contradict her: "Were you not on ———, since the time of the alleged offence, walking in the High Street at Oxford, to look out for men?" "Were you not on ———, since the time of the alleged offence, walking in the High Street, with a woman reputed to be a common prostitute?" (2) Evidence might be adduced by prisoner to show the general light character of the prosecutrix, & general evidence might be given of her being a street walker; but semble: evidence of specific acts of criminality by her would not be admissible.—R. v. BARKER (1829), 3 C. & P. 589.

*Annotations:—*As to (2) Folld. R. v. Clay (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 146. Refd. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334. Generally, Mentd. R. v. Gibbons (1862), 26 J. P. 149.

3861. ———.]—On a trial for rape, witnesses may be called on prisoner's behalf to prove general indecency of the prosecutrix, & witnesses for the prosecution may then be called to rebut their testimony.—R. v. TISSINGTON (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 458; 1 Cox, C. C. 48.

3862. ———.]—On a trial of rape, evidence of the general character of the prosecutrix, as that she had been a reputed prostitute, is admissible.—R. v. CLAY (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 146.

3863. ——— Cross-examination as to specific acts with other persons—Not compellable to answer—Evidence of acts not admissible.]—Upon an indictment for a rape, the woman is not compellable to answer, whether she has not had connection with other men or with a particular person named; nor is evidence of her having had such connection for rape or assault with intent to ravish, while it is competent on due notice being given to attack the woman's character for chastity by putting questions to herself, or to prove her general bad repute at the time of the alleged offence, or to prove that she had recently yielded her person to accused, it is not in to prove individual on her part with other men.—DICKIE v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1897), 24 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 82; 35 Sc. L. R. 5; 5 S. L. T. 120.—SCOT.

admissible.—R. v. HODGSON (1812), Russ. & Ry. 211, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Barker (1829), 3 C. & P. 589; R. v. Martin (1834), 6 C. & P. 562. Foll. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334. Mentd. R. v. Gibbons (1862), 26 J. P. 149.

3864. — — — — —.]—The prosecutrix in a case of rape may be asked, on cross-examination, whether she had not allowed another man than prisoner to take liberties with her, in the interval between the commission of the alleged offence & the first complaint of it.

The question may be asked, but the witness is not bound to answer it (GURNEY, B.).—R. v. MERCER (1842), 6 Jur. 243.

3865. — — — — —.]—Denial of prosecutrix—Whether evidence to rebut denial admissible.—On a trial for rape, the prosecutrix having on cross-examination denied that she had had connection with other men than prisoner, those men may be called to contradict her.—R. v. ROBINS (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 512; 1 L. T. O. S. 505; 1 Cox, C. C. 55.

Annotations:—N.F. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334. Refd. R. v. Gibbons (1862), 26 J. P. 149.

3866. — — — — —.]—Prosecutrix, on a charge of rape, having, on cross-examination, said that she herself had been charged with stealing money, & on that occasion had accounted to a police constable for the possession of the money, by stating that it was given her for not complaining of a person who had insulted her by solicitations against her chastity, but denied that she had said the money was given her for having connection with him:—Held: prisoner could not call the constable as a witness, to contradict the prosecutrix, by proving that she had said that the money was given her for that purpose.—R. v. DEAN (1852), 6 Cox, C. C. 23.

3867. — — — — —.]—Although you may cross-examine the prosecutrix as to particular acts of connection with other men, you may not, if she deny it, call witnesses to contradict her.—R. v. COCKCROFT (1870), 11 Cox, C. C. 410.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334.

3868. — — — — —.]—H. having been indicted for an indecent assault on P., & P. being cross-examined as to whether she had not had connection with a third party:—Held: that on T. denying the imputation, such third party could not be called to contradict her, & that this rule applied to indictments for rape, & attempts at rape, & all indecent assaults.—R. v. HOLMES (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334; 41 L. J. M. C. 12;

3864 i. — — — — —.]—Cross-examination as to specific acts with other persons—Not compellable to answer.—On the trial of an indictment for aiding & abetting the commission of rape, the evidence showed that, prior to the commission of the offence, prosecutrix & B. had been together all the evening, & early in the morning were for some time together in a room in an hotel with the door closed & the gas turned out. On leaving the hotel they were met by the prisoner & another man, who attacked B. & caused him to leave, whereupon the offence was committed. The prosecutrix & B. were called as witnesses for the Crown, & on cross-examination were questioned as to what took place in the room, which they refused to answer:—Held: while prosecutor could properly be asked the question as going to her credit she was not bound to answer.—R. v. FINNESSEY (1906), 11 O. L. R. 338; 7 O. W. R. 383.—CAN.

3864 ii. — — — — —.]—The charge of rape is easily made, & most difficult to be repelled. The evidence required is, that resistance had been made;

25 L. T. 669; 36 J. P. 564; 20 W. R. 123; 12 Cox, C. C. 137, C. C. R.

3869. — — — — —.]—Cross-examination as to previous acts with accused.—R. v. ASPINALL (1827), 3 Starkie on Evidence, 3rd ed. p. 952.

Annotations:—Apprvd. R. v. Riley (1887), 18 Q. B. D. 481. Mentd. A.-G. v. Hitchcock (1847), 11 Jur. 478.

3870. — — — — —.]—On the trial of an indictment for a rape the prosecutrix may be asked, whether, previously to the commission of the alleged offence, prisoner had not had intercourse with her by her own consent.—R. v. MARTIN (1834), 6 C. & P. 562.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Holmes (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 334; R. v. Riley (1887), 56 L. T. 371. Refd. R. v. Clay (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 146.

3871. — — — — —.]—Denial of prosecutrix—Whether evidence to rebut denial admissible.—On the trial of an indictment for assault with intent to commit a rape, the prosecutrix may be asked whether previously to the commission of the alleged offence prisoner has not had sexual intercourse with her by her own consent, & if she denies the fact, evidence on behalf of prisoner may be called to contradict her.—R. v. RILEY (1887), 18 Q. B. D. 481; 56 L. J. M. C. 52; 56 L. T. 371; 35 W. R. 382; 16 Cox, C. C. 191, C. C. R.

3872. — — — — —.]—Cross-examination as to bad character—Evidence in rebuttal admissible.—R. v. CLARKE, No. 3859, ante.

3873. — — — — —.]—Evidence called as to bad character—Evidence in rebuttal admissible.—R. v. TISSINGTON, No. 3861, ante.

3874. Charge of unlawful carnal knowledge—Cross-examination as to specific acts with other men—Denial of prosecution—Whether evidence to rebut denial admissible—Questions affecting credit.—At the trial of a prisoner for an offence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 5, sub-s. 1, counsel for the prosecution stated in his opening speech that prisoner upon the occasion when he committed the offence had seduced the girl, & in her examination-in-chief she gave evidence to that effect. No objection to the opening statement of counsel for the prosecution or to the questions put by him to the girl in her examination-in-chief was taken by counsel for prisoner. She was cross-examined by counsel for prisoner as to whether she had previously had connection with other men whose names were mentioned & also as to whether she was a loose & abandoned girl. She answered these questions in the negative. Counsel for prisoner tendered evidence to prove that the female had called for assistance, & had discovered the injury she sustained to the first person she met. It is no defence to give in evidence that the female had slept with other men; nor is there any right to put a question to her, upon her cross-examination, except what relates to the transaction in question.—R. v. MADDERS (1822), Rowe, 343, 354.—IR.

t. — — — — —.]—Evidence of previous voluntary connection with accused—& specific acts with other men.—Proof tending to show in terms of a special defence, which had been lodged that the girl on whom a rape was said to have been committed had shortly before had voluntary connection with the panel:—Held: admissible.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. BLAIR (1844), 2 Broun, 167.—SCOT.

a. — — — — —.]—Evidence of good character admissible—Not at commencement of trial.—In a trial for rape, it is competent for the Public Prosecutor to lead evidence of the good character of the woman alleged to have been ravished, although the panel has not lodged special defences impugning her character; but this evidence ought not to be brought forward at the commencement of the trial.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. M'MILLAN (1846), Arkley, 209.—SCOT.

c. — — — — —.]—Cross-examination as to previous general character—Before character impeached.—On a trial for rape, counsel for the prosecution was not permitted to examine as to the previous general character of the prosecutrix, before her character had been impeached.—R. v. ALEXANDER (1841), 2 Crawl. & D. 126.—IR.

e. Charge of unlawful carnal knowledge—Cross-examination as to specific acts with other men.—R. v. MCPHERSON, [1922] 2 W. W. R. 723; 69 D. L. R. 301; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 315.—CAN.

d. Charge under Merchandise Marks Act, 1887—Cross-examination as to committal of similar offence.—At the trial upon a complaint by a private prosecutor alleging a contravention of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, the prosecutor was, in cross-examination, asked whether he had committed a similar offence to the previous specific acts of connection by the prosecutrix & to show generally that she was of bad & light character & therefore not to be believed. The judge rejected this evidence as going to credit only. The jury convicted prisoner. Upon an appeal by prisoner against his conviction:—Held: the judge at the trial had rightly rejected the evidence inasmuch as the allegation that prisoner had seduced the girl was not relevant to the issue, & therefore no evidence could be given to contradict it. Nor could the evidence be given for the purpose of contradicting the witness in order to show that she was unworthy of belief, as the rule that the answers of a witness to questions put in cross-examination which merely go to credit cannot be contradicted applied.—R. v. CARGILL, [1913] 2 K. B. 271; 82 L. J. K. B. 655; 108 L. T. 816; 77 J. P. 347; 29 T. L. R. 382; 23 Cox, C. C. 382; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 224, C. C. A.

Sect. 3.—As to character: Sub-sect. 2. Sect. 4: Sub-sect. 1.]

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Bottomley (1922), 87 J. P. 26.

SECT. 4.—RELEVANT FACTS—ADMISSIBILITY OF EVIDENCE.

1.—MOTIVE OR MALICE.

3875. Evidence for prosecution—Expressions of ill-will—Motive.—A. was indicted for the murder of H. It was opened that A., having malice against P., hired H. to murder him, & that H. did so, but that H. being detected, A. had murdered H. to prevent a discovery of his, A.'s, guilt respecting the murder of P. Evidence was given of expression of malice used by A. towards P.:—Held: the prosecutor might also give evidence to show that H. was, in fact, the person by whom P. had been murdered.

A., a prisoner charged with murder, was visited by B., who was both a magistrate & a clergyman; B. told him, that if he was not the person who struck the fatal blow, & he would tell all he knew, he, B., would use his endeavours & influence to prevent anything from happening to him; & that if he, A., did not make a disclosure, some one else would probably do so. After this B. wrote to the Secretary of State, who returned an answer that mercy could not be extended to A.; which answer was communicated by B. to A. After this, A. sent that charged in the complaint:—Held: the question had rightly been disallowed.—JENKINSON & INGLIS v. NEILSON BROTHERS (1899), 2 F. (Cl. of Sess.) 13; 37 Sc. L. R. 100; 7 S. L. T. 56.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.

3880 I. Evidence for prosecution—Antecedent threats.—On the trial of prisoner for murder, the evidence was clear that the death of deceased was caused by gun-shot wound inflicted by the prisoner. Deceased & prisoner were neighbouring farmers, & there had been quarrels between them. A few days before the fatal occurrence accused shot a pig, property of deceased. On hearing of this act deceased ran in great passion unarmed towards the house of prisoner, who was standing alone at his door with a gun in his hand. He called out to deceased to stop—which he did—being within a few yards of the door, & prisoner then, without further words on either side, fired, & the shot eventually proved fatal. Prisoner was a quiet & inoffensive & deceased a violent & dangerous person. The judge directed jury that previous quarrels of the parties were no part of the res gesta, & they were to disregard the evidence of peaceable character of the prisoner & violent character of deceased, unless there were any doubt as to prisoner's act, when evidence of his general good conduct might be taken into consideration:—Held: jury ought to have been directed to take into consideration evidence of previous threats & quarrels & of character & habits of both parties, with the view of finding quo animo the act was committed.—R. v. GRIFFIN (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 91.—AUS.

3880 II. —.—.]—Evidence of threats uttered by the accused that he would shoot any person who took land formerly his held admissible against him on his trial for the murder of a person who had occupied an allotment of such land & had been shot dead, though such threats had been uttered several years before & for the coroner, & wished to make a statement. The coroner told him that if he did so, it would be used as evidence against him. Prisoner made a confession:—Held: this confession was admissible.—R. v. CLEWES (1830), 4 C. & P. 221.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Richardson (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 448. Mentd. R. v. Oddy (1851), 2 Den. 264.

3876. —.—.]—R. v. FOWKES (1856), Times, Mar. 8.

3877. —.—.]—Expressions denoting a bad feeling toward deceased made use of some time before the crime is committed are admissible in evidence, but the jury must receive them with great caution.—R. v. HAGAN (1873), 12 Cox, C. C. 357.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3878. —.— Depositions in previous charge.—Where deceased person, a constable, in the course of his duty made shortly before his death & in the absence of the accused a verbal statement in the nature of a report to his superior officer as to where deceased was going & what he was going to do; such report being material to the case for the Crown:—Held: such statement & report were admissible in evidence for the prosecution.

In order to prove malice or motive against the accused, the deposition of deceased against him taken before the magistrates on another charge & for which he was afterwards convicted was tendered in evidence:—Held: it was admissible.—R. v. BUCKLEY (1873), 13 Cox, C. C. 293.

3879. —.— Antecedent acts.—Prisoner was indicted for murder. The same took place at night in a churchyard. Previous to the mortal wound being inflicted, prisoner & two others had been seen lurking near the spot. The prosecution proposed to tender evidence that they were lurking there clandestinely with a bundle of cloth, the object being to raise a presumption that they were there with an evil intent, & therefore that they must have had malice against all persons coming in their way, & likely to interrupt them:—Held: the evidence was not admissible.—R. v. WILSON (1829), 1 Lew. C. C. 112.

3880. —.— Antecedent threats.—On the trial of an indictment for murder, it is not a misdirection to call the jury's attention to the evidence that deft. threatened to kill the person in respect of whom he is charged, though it be proved that he was intoxicated at the time he made the threat.—R. v. MASON (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

3881. —.— Unexplained acts of violence in

with special reference to another allotment.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1884), 10 V. L. R. 242.—AUS.

3880 III. —.—.]—Prisoner was convicted of the murder of P. The facts deposed to at the trial were that on May 1 prisoner had been standing in the streets at F. & had been ordered to move on by a constable. He returned to his ship, procured a revolver & shot P., with whom it was claimed he was unknown. Evidence was given by A. of certain statements made to him by prisoner when returning to the ship before the murder: "Prisoner, when we were walking, seemed to be offended at being moved on & said if he had had a gun he would shoot the constable or some one else. He asked me to return with him, saying, 'If you don't I will shoot you.'"

The evidence was objected to:—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. CARLSEN (1904), 6 W. A. L. R. 154.—AUS.

e. —.— Evidence of what accused said shortly before assault.—On a trial

admissible.]—Prisoner was indicted for the murder of his wife:—Semble: evidence of an act of violence committed by him towards deceased some days previously, unaccompanied by any declaration, is not receivable.—R. v. MOBBES (1853), 17 J. P. 712; 6 Cox, C. C. 223.

3882. — Of motive in other similar deaths.]—Upon an indictment for murder by poison of S. in Oct. 1877, evidence is admissible of the previous & subsequent deaths of J. & L., under like circumstances & from similar symptoms, to show that the poisoning was not accidental; & where it was proved that a motive for the death of S. might exist, by the fact of prisoner having insured the life of S. in a benefit & insurance society, evidence may also be given upon the same indictment that there might be an equal motive for the deaths of J. & L. by showing that they were also each of them insured by prisoner in the same or kindred societies.—R. v. HEESON (1878), 14 Cox, C. C. 40.

3883. Evidence for defence—In rebuttal of suggested motive.]—R. v. HORNE TOOKE (1794), 25 State Tr. 1; 1 East, P. C. 60.

*Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Lambert & Perry (1810), 31 State Tr. 335. Mentd. R. v. Stone (1796), 25 State Tr. 1155; Eagleton & Coventry v. Kingston (1803), 8 Ves. 438; R. v. Watson (1817), 32 State Tr. 1; Redford v. Birley (1822), 3 Stark. 76; R. v. Smith (1828), 8 B. & C. 341; R. v. Parry (1837), 7 C. & P. 836; R. v. Frost (1840), 4 State Tr. N. S. 85; R. v. Lulueta (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 215; Conway & Lynch v. R. (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 458; R. v. Grant, Ranken, & Hamilton (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507; Mansell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 54; R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082.

3884. — —.]—In a case of burning, it had been opened by the counsel for the prosecution that evidence would be given of expressions of ill-will used by prisoner towards the prosecutor:—Held: prisoner's counsel might cross-examine the prosecutor, to show that other persons besides prisoner had used expressions of ill-will towards him.—R. v. STALLARD (1835), 7 C. & P. 263.

3885. — —.]—On an indictment for arson, one count laying an intent to defraud, & it being opened for the prosecution that the motive might have been to realise the money insured by prisoner upon her goods; evidence was received that she was in easy circumstances, with a view to show that she was at all events under no pecuniary temptation to commit such an act.—R. v. GRANT (1865), 4 F. & F. 322.

for assault, & after the offence was fully proved, a witness who had not seen the assault was called for the prosecution & questioned whether he had seen deft. shortly before the assault was committed & what then took place between them. An objection was taken to the question on the ground that the answer might tend to aggravate the offence by showing malicious deliberation, of which deft. might have repented. Judge disallowed the objection & admitted evidence of a conversation between witness & deft. respecting the prosecutor.—R. v. KENNEDY (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 57.—AUS.

1. — Previous acts of violence—Where connected with act complained of.]—Acts of violence committed by accused some time before the act complained of are admissible to explain the later act, if accompanied by declarations or circumstances connecting them with the act complained of.—R. v. CHOMATSU YABU (1903), 5 W. A. L. R. 35.—AUS.

2. — Evidence of previous crime—To show motive.]—Evidence of one crime may be given to show a motive for committing another.—R. v. CHASSON

(1876), 3 Pug. 546.—CAN.

h. — —.]—Prisoner was tried, in 1858, for the murder of C., in 1857. In 1856, C. had sworn informations against the prisoner for rape. The informations were sworn by her, & subscribed by her in the presence of the prisoner, & a recognisance was executed for prisoner to appear at the spring assizes in 1856. Prisoner married C. before the assizes, & consequently the charge was not proceeded with. At the trial in 1858, the information so sworn & the recognisances were offered in evidence by the Crown. The judge received them, telling the jury that they were to regard them, not as evidence of the truth or falsehood of the charge so made, but as evidence of the fact of a charge having been so made, & that the facts evinced by the mere existence of these documents, might be taken into their consideration upon the question of the existence of a motive:—Held: the documents were properly admitted in evidence for that purpose.—R. v. LYDANE (1858), 10 Ir. Jur. 362.—IR.

k. — Motive not made clear by Crown witnesses—No ground for dis-

3886. — Motive against commission of offence.]—R. v. BINGHAM (1811), Wills' Circumstantial Evidence, 5th ed. p. 217.

3887. — —.]—R. v. DOWNING (1822), Wills' Circumstantial Evidence, 6th ed. p. 289.

3888. — Justification in self-defence.]—To show the nature of the assault by the wife that prisoner had reason to apprehend at the time, evidence of former attacks of this sort was allowed to be given. Prisoner was sensitive about the neck from old sores. Deceased used to seize his handkerchief, twist it round so tightly as almost to strangle him & his handkerchief had to be cut to release him from his wife's violence.—R. v. HOPKINS (1866), 31 J. P. 105; 10 Cox, C. C. 229.

3889. — —.]—On an indictment for murder, the death having been caused by shot from a gun in the hands of prisoner, evidence of former threats by deceased of deadly violence, with words & circumstances on the occasion in question likely to provoke similar threats, received as evidence of danger to life, or serious violence or reasonable apprehension of it, on the occasion, such as might excuse or justify recourse to a loaded firearm in self-defence.—R. v. WESTON (1879), 14 Cox, C. C. 346.

3890. — In libel—Evidence as to other passages in same paper.]—On the trial of an information for a libel in a newspaper, deft. has a right to have read in evidence any extract from the same paper connected with the subject of the passage charged as libellous, although disjoined from it by extraneous matter & printed in a different character.

Passages of the same paper tending to show the intention & mind of defts. with respect to this specific paragraph must be very material for the consideration of the jury (LORD ELLENBOROUGH, C.J.).—R. v. LAMBERT & PERRY (1810), 2 Camp. 298; 31 State Tr. 335.

*Annotations:—Reid. Thornton v. Stephen (1837), 2 Mood. & R. 45. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1; R. v. Grant, Ranken & Hamilton (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507.

3891. Depositions of witness against accused—On distinct charge—Whether admissible.]—R. v. BUCKLEY, No. 3878, ante.

belief.]—The fact of the evidence of motive not being clear is no reason for disbelieving a plain straightforward case made out by the prosecution witnesses.—R. v. BALAVAM DAS (1921), 1 L. R. 49 Cal. 358.—IND.

3882i. — Of motive in other similar deaths.]—Evidence of motive for a crime is admissible even though its tendency is to show that all members of a class or even persons generally, would have an inducement to commit the crime in question. Two accused were charged with the murder of a child who had been found lying on its back with its throat cut, & the body also cut open in front. The heart had been cut out & the left ventricle containing the fatty portion removed. In order to supply proof of a motive for the crime evidence was led for the Crown to the effect that it was a practice amongst Zulu tribes, & especially on the part of witch-doctors, to kill & mutilate young persons & use portions of the body, & particularly fat, as a charm against ill-luck, & that the first accused was a Baqora, an offshoot from the Zulu tribe:—Held: the evidence was admissible against the first accused.—R. v. KUMALO & NKOSI, [1918] App. D. 500.—S. AF.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, A.]

SUB-SECT. 2.—ACTS OF ACCUSED.

A. Forming part of same Transaction.

3892. General rule.]—To prove the guilty knowledge of an utterer of a forged banknote, evidence may be given of his having previously uttered other forged notes knowing them to be forged.

If several & distinct offences do so intermix & blend themselves with each other, the detail of the party's whole conduct must be pursued (LORD ELLENBOROUGH, C.J.).—R. v. WYLIE (1804), 1 Bos. & P. N. R. 92; 127 E. R. 393; sub nom. R. v. WHILEY, 2 Leach, 983.

*Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3893. —.]—Where several felonies are so connected together as to form part of one entire transaction, evidence of them all may be given in order to prove a party indicted guilty of one.—R. v. ELLIS (1826), 6 B. & C. 145; 9 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 174; 4 Dow. & Ry. M. C. 268; 5 L. J. O. S. M. C. 25; 108 E. R. 406.

*Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Salisbury (1831), 5 C. & P. 155; R. v. Westwood (1831), 4 C. & P. 517; R. v. Mansfield (1841), Car. & M. 140; R. v. Wright (1858), 7 Cox, C. C. 413. Mentd. R. v. Holden (1833), 5 B. & Ad. 347; R. v. Palmer (1856), 2 Jur. N. S. 235; R. v. Ball, [1911] A. C. 47.

3894. —.]—Upon an indictment against principal & receiver, where it appears that goods are found on the receiver's premises which have been taken from the prosecutor's premises, it is competent to the prosecutor to give evidence of the finding of other goods at the house of the principal, notwithstanding there is no evidence to connect the receiver with them, & the judge will not, under such circumstances, put the prosecutor to his election, either at the opening or the close of his case.

It is in the discretion of the judge whether he will allow several felonies to be given in evidence under one indictment; where they are in fact so mixed as not to be separated without inconvenience, it will be allowed.—R. v. HINLEY (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 524; 2 L. T. O. S. 287; 1 Cox, C. C. 12.

3895. — Effect of interval of time.]—Transactions of the same class extending over a long period may have a material relation to each other. Whether there was a nexus between the earlier & later transactions is a question for the jury.—R. v. MOHR (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 39, C. C. A.

3896. — Similar acts done at same time.]—When two similar acts, separately charged on two indictments, are done at practically the same time, on the trial of the former evidence of the latter may be admissible as part of the res gestæ.—R. v. GREENLEY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 273, C. C. A.

3897. What is part of same transaction—Larceny—At intervals of time.]—R. v. RICKMAN (1789), 2 East, P. C. 1034, 1035.

3898. — — —.]—A prisoner was indicted for stealing three articles. It appeared that, having taken the first article, he returned in about two minutes & took the second, & then returned in half an hour & took the third:—Held: the last taking was a distinct felony, & could not be given in evidence with the other two. But, the interval of time between the first & second takings was so short, that they must be considered as parts of the same transaction.—R. v. BIRDSEYE (1830), 4 C. & P. 386.

3899. — — — & poaching.]—Prisoner was indicted for night poaching, & it was proposed to show that, on the occasion in question, one of the prosecutor's game-keepers had lost his coat, & that it was found in prisoner's house. There was another indictment against prisoner for stealing the coat:—Held: this evidence was inadmissible, unless the prosecutor consented to an acquittal on the indictment for the larceny.—R. v. WESTWOOD (1831), 4 C. & P. 517; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 509.

*Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758.

3900. — — — From post-office.]—R. v. SALISBURY (1831), 5 C. & P. 155.

3901. — Arson.]—A. was charged with setting fire to the ricks of B., C., & D., upon the oath of E., an accessory before the fact, & a warrant to apprehend A. was granted, mentioning all the three charges, & stating them to be made on the oath of E. The person who apprehended A. told her that "a very serious oath had been made against her by E." on these three charges. After this A. made a statement, which was received in evidence.

A. set fire to the ricks of B., C., & D., one immediately after the other. There were three indictments, one for each fire. The rick burnt last was the subject of the indictment first tried. An accessory before the fact was called, & was allowed to give evidence of the whole transaction as to the three ricks.—R. v. LONG (1833), 6 C. & P. 179.

3902. — — —.]—In a case of arson, the indictment contained five counts, each of which charged a firing of a house of a different owner. It was opened that the five houses were in a row, respecting the prosecutor.—R. v. KENNEDY (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 57.—AUS.

m. — Cattle stealing—Conversations of accused—Before search for alleged lost cattle.]—F. & W. were charged with stealing a bullock, & they found the bullock running on a reserve, they took him to their own place, & finding the brand undecipherable, sold him after keeping him three weeks. Prisoners' case was that F. had lost a bullock out of a mob he was driving, that he sent W. to look for it, & that W. brought back the bullock in question by mistake thinking it was the one F. had lost:—Held: what F. said to W. when giving him instructions to look for the lost bullock was admissible as part of res gestæ & to show the animus of W. when he took the bullock.—R. v. SMITH (1897), 18 N. S. W. L. R. 366; 14 N. S. W. N. N. 110.—AUS.

n. — Malicious wounding—& larceny.]—Prisoner was charged with

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—A.

3892 i. General rule.]—Where several felonies are all parts of the same transaction, evidence of all is admissible upon the trial of an indictment for any of them, but where a prisoner indicted for murder committed while resisting constables about to arrest him, had with others, been guilty of riotous acts several days before, it is doubtful if evidence of such riotous conduct is admissible, even for the purpose of showing prisoner's knowledge that he was liable to be arrested, & therefore had a motive to resist the officers.—R. v. CHASSON (1876), 3 Pug. 546.—CAN.

3892 ii. —.]—It is the general rule, in justice to a person accused of an offence, that evidence of an unconnected offence be given merely to prove his vicious character, or his readiness to commit such a crime as he is upon trial for; but evidence of facts relevant to the immediate charge against him is not the less admissible because it necessarily discloses several grounds upon which the attack upon D. was relevant to the charge of having murdered R.; as the existence & accomplishment of a scheme of robbery of which the prisoner's conduct towards the two men was a part; as indicating a motive for the murder of R., as proof of an attempt by prisoner to get rid of part of the evidence of his crime; & as accounting for the otherwise unexplained possession by prisoner of more money than he could have taken from R.—R. v. GIBSON (1913), 28 O. L. R. 525; 4 O. W. N. 1167.—CAN.

1. What is part of same transaction—What accused said shortly before offence committed.]—On a trial for assault, & after the offence was fully proved, a witness who had not seen the assault was called for the prosecution & questioned whether he had seen deft. shortly before the assault was committed & what then took place between them, & gave evidence of a conversation between witness & deft.

& that one fire burnt them all. Upon this opening, the judge would not put the prosecutor to elect, as it was all one transaction.—R. v. TRUEMAN (1839), 8 C. & P. 727.

3903. — Robbery of two persons with violence.—A. & B., when riding in a gig together, were robbed at the same time, A. of his money, & B. of his watch, & violence used towards both. There was an indictment for the robbing of A., & another for the robbing of B.:—Held: on the trial of the first indictment, evidence might be given of the loss of the watch by B., & that it was found on one of the prisoners, but no evidence ought to be given of any violence offered to B. by the robbers.—R. v. ROONEY (1836), 7 C. & P. 517.

3904. ——]—An indictment for robbery, which charges prisoners with having assaulted G. & H. & stolen 2s. from G., & 1s. from H., is correct, if the robbing of G. & H. was all one act, & if it were so, counsel for the prosecution will not be put to elect.—R. v. GIDDINS (1842), Car. & M. 634.

3905. — Conspiracy—Similar acts done on different days.—An indictment for a misdemeanour, containing several counts, alleging several misdemeanours of the same kind on the same day, prosecutor may give evidence of such misdemeanours on different days.—R. v. LEVY (1819), 2 Stark. 458, N. P.

3906. — Separate act of one accused.—A. was charged with having conspired with J. & others unknown, to raise insurrection & obstruct the laws. It was proved that A. & J. were members of a Chartist lodge, & that A. & J. were at the house of the latter on a certain day, on the evening of which A. directed people assembled at the house of J. to go to the race-course at P., whither J. & other persons had gone:—Held: (1) on the trial of A. evidence was receivable that J. had at an earlier part of the same day, directed other persons to go to the race-course; & (2) it being proved that J. & an armed party of the persons assembled, went from the race-course to the New Inn, evidence might be given of what J. said at the New Inn it being all one transaction.—R. v. SHELLARD (1840), 9 C. & P. 277; 4 State Tr. N. S. App. 1386.

3907. — And receiving stolen property.—Prisoner was to be tried on three indictments, for receiving stolen tin, for stealing iron, for receiving stolen brass. It appeared that a constable went with a search-warrant, to search prisoner's premises for stolen iron, & that, having read the warrant to prisoner, the latter made a statement:—Held: on the trial of the first indictment, the whole of this statement was receivable in evidence, although part of it related to the charge respecting the iron; and also evidence might be given, that, at the time of the search, prisoner endeavoured to conceal some brass; & also, almost immediately after prisoner was taken away from the premises, at the conclusion of the search, his wife carried some tin under her cloak, from a warehouse on the premises.—R. v. MANSFIELD (1841), Car. & M. 140; 5 Jur. 661.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Oddy (1851), 15 Jur. 517.

3908. — False pretences.—Where an untrue statement was made for the purpose of obtaining money, but did not then succeed, & a month afterwards a true statement relating to the same matter was made, upon which money was obtained:—Held: the matters which happened on the two occasions were connectable, & it was a question for the jury whether they were connected so as to amount to a false pretence; also that the case was within the statute.—R. v. WELMAN (1853), Dears. C. C. 188; 22 L. J. M. C. 118; 17 J. P. 311; 17 Jur. 421; 1 W. R. 361; 6 Cox, C. C. 153, C. C. R.; sub nom. R. v. WELLMAN, 1 C. L. R. 201.

3909. — Breaking & entering.—Upon a trial for breaking into a booking-office at a railway station, evidence was admitted that prisoners had, on the same night, broken into three other booking-offices belonging to three other stations on the same railway, the four cases being all mixed up together.—R. v. COBDEN (1862), 3 F. & F. 833.

3910. — Procuring prostitution.—Applts. were convicted of living on the earnings of prostitution on an indictment which charged the living on such earnings on a day named & not on divers days:—Held: on such an indictment evidence is admissible of anything done on days other than the day named. It is clearly relevant to ascertain what prisoner's relations with the woman in question had been either before or after the day named in the indictment in order to determine whether he was or was not living on the earnings of her prostitution on that particular day.—R. v. HILL, R. v. CHURCHMAN, [1914] 2 K. B. 386; 83 L. J. K. B. 820; 110 L. T. 831; 78 J. P. 303; 24 Cox, C. C. 150; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 56, C. C. A.

3911. — Continuing offence—Larceny—Of coal from separate mines.—Where prisoner was indicted in one count, for stealing from the mine of one G., coal, the property of the said G. &, in the same count, for stealing from the mines of thirty other proprietors coal, the property of each the offence of maliciously wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. At the trial it was proved that a constable saw the prisoner with a bag, stopped him & asked him where he was going, & that prisoner thereupon ran away but was caught by the constable & brought back. When the constable began to examine the contents of the bag prisoner ran away again & on being pursued struck the constable on the head. The bag contained 19 pigeons & a claw-hammer. The prisoner escaped, but was afterwards arrested. A question of identity of the prisoner was raised at the trial. For the prosecution a witness gave evidence that he had been robbed of 19 pigeons & a claw-hammer the night before the offence charged, that the pigeons were returned to him, but that he could not identify the prisoner nor the claw-hammer. Jury found prisoner guilty of unlawfully wounding.—Held: evidence of the theft of the pigeons & claw-hammer was admissible.

J.—VOL. XIV.

—R. v. LUDLOW (1898), 24 V. L. R. 93.
—AUS.

o. — Murder of wife—Accumulating insurances on her life.—On a charge of wife murder, the Crown sought to prove that prisoner had been with evil design accumulating insurance on his wife's life:—Held: evidence of various applications for insurance, though in some cases resulting in rejection of the risk, was admissible, all being made practically at the same time & forming part of one transaction which could be properly given in evidence as a whole.—R. v. HAMMOND (1898), 29 O. R. 211.—CAN.

p. — Threats.—R. v. JONES (1868), 28 U. C. R. 416.—CAN.

q. — Rape—Not statement made after offence committed—Reasonable opportunity afforded before.—On the trial of deft. on an indictment containing a count for rape statements made to the aunt of prosecutrix the morning after the afternoon on which the rape was alleged to have been committed, disclosing that accused had had illicit intercourse with her, but not claiming that she had been assaulted or that accused had committed violence, where she might have disclosed the offence to a stranger immediately after the outrage, & to her father on the evening of the same afternoon, & again to her father on the following morning, prior to the disclosure to the aunt, were not made at the earliest reasonable opportunity, & should not have been admitted.—R. v. AKERLEY (1919), 46 N. B. R. 195.—CAN.

r. — Robbery & Murder.—Persons convicted of robbery by a judge & a jury, & of murder, by the sessions judge with assessors, appealed against the conviction on the charge of murder. The two offences constituted parts of the same transaction:—Held: recent & unexplained possession of the stolen property which of such other proprietors, & it appeared that all the coal so alleged to have been stolen had been raised at one shaft:—Held: (1) although, for the sake of convenience in trying prisoner, the judge might direct the jury to confine their attention to one particular charge, yet the prosecutor was entitled to give evidence in support of all the charges laid in the indictment; (2) proof of such charges might be relied on, in order to show a felonious intent. As long as coal is gotten from one shaft, it is continuous taking, though the working is carried on by means of different levels & cuttings, & into the lands of different people.—R. v. BLEASDALE (1848), 2 Car. & Kir. 765.

B B

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, A. & B. (a).]

Annotations:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Rearden (1864), 4 F. & F. 76. As to (2) Consd. R. v. Firth (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 172. Refd. R. v. Henwood (1870), 22 L. T. 486.

3912. ——— Of gas.]—F., by an underground pipe connected with the main, which was always filled with gas, supplied his mill; the consumption of such gas was unknown to the company for some years:—Held: on an indictment for stealing 1,000 cubic feet of gas, the evidence of using gas during all the years was admissible, the whole being one entire act.—R. v. FIRTH (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 172; 38 L. J. M. C. 54; 19 L. T. 746; 33 J. P. 212; 17 W. R. 327; 11 Cox, C. C. 234, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Henwood (1870), 22 L. T. 486; It. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Mentd. Erie County Natural Gas & Fuel Co. v. Carroll, [1911] A. C. 105.

3913. ——— ]—An indictment charged an assistant to a photographer with stealing divers articles belonging to his employer. It did not appear when the articles were taken, whether at one or more times, but only that one particular article could not have been taken before a given month:—Held: this was not a case in which prosecutor should be put to elect upon which articles to proceed under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 6.

To make the statute applicable it must appear that the different articles enumerated in the indictment were stolen at different times, but there is nothing in this case inconsistent with all having been taken at one time, or in such a way as to form one continuous taking (BOVILL, C.J.).—R. v. HENWOOD (1870), 22 L. T. 486; 34 J. P. 580; 11 Cox, C. C. 526, C. C. R.

3914. ——— Rape.]—On an indictment for rape on a child under ten years of age, evidence admitted of subsequent perpetrations of the same offence on different days previous to complaint to the mother, it appearing that prisoner had threatened the child on the first occasion:—Held: virtually it was in such a case all one continuous offence.—R. v. REARDEN (1864), 4 F. & F. 76.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Ball, [1911] A. C. 47. Refd. It. v. Harris (1864), 4 F. & F. 342; It. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389; It. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89.

3915. ——— Malicious damage to property.]—Indictment for cutting eight trees with an intent to steal.

The question for us is, whether there was any evidence to go to the jury upon which they could would be presumptive evidence against prisoners on the charge of robbery was similarly evidence against them on the charge of murder.—It. v. SAMI (1890), L. R. 13 Mad. 426.—IND.

s. ——— Importation of contraband—Intercepted letters & telegram.]—A letter written by an accused is prima facie evidence against him if it relates distinctly to a relevant point. It is not necessary that it should be signed; it is enough if it is traced to the writer, & it is admissible though it may have been intercepted or surreptitiously detained & opened. An unsigned letter, proved to have been written by accused addressed to a firm in London, which had shipped certain contraband cocaine which the accused was charged with importing into Bengal, is admissible in evidence, though intercepted under the order of the magistrate at the post office during the course of transit. A letter written find that prisoner had cut the trees down at one time, or so continuously as to form one transaction (COCKBURN, C.J.).—R. v. SHEPHERD (1868), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 118; 37 L. J. M. C. 45; 17 L. T. 482; 32 J. P. 116; 16 W. R. 373; 11 Cox, C. C. 119, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Firth (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 172; R. v. Henwood (1870), 22 L. T. 486.

3916. ——— Permitting licensed premises to be used as a brothel.]—Motion ex p. on behalf of B. the licensed occupier of a public house, for a certiorari to bring up to be quashed a conviction of the said B. for having on Jan. 26, 28, 29 & 31, Feb. 1, 4, 5 & 6, 1901, permitted his premises to be used as a brothel. The objection to the conviction was that it was bad on the face of it as being one conviction for eight separate offences committed upon eight separate & discontinuous days whereas Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848 (c. 43), s. 10 provides that every information "shall be for one offence only & not for two or more offences":—Held: notwithstanding that the days mentioned in the conviction were not continuous, the offence stated was one continuing offence.—Ex p. BURNBY, [1901] 2 K. B. 458; 45 Sol. Jo. 579; sub nom. R. v. BURNBY, 70 L. J. K. B. 739; 85 L. T. 168; 20 Cox, C. C. 25, D. C.

3917. ——— Subornation of evidence by accused.]—On the trial of an action by pltf. & wife for injuries sustained by the wife owing to deft.'s negligence, pltf.'s case was proved by the evidence of the wife & other witnesses; & defts. having called evidence to prove that the wife was in fault, tendered the following evidence, which was received, subject to objection. W. deposed that he, pltf., & C., a clerk of pltf.'s attorney, were together at pltf.'s house; that pltf. said that if W. would give evidence as to the accident he should share the compensation; pltf. knew that W. was not present at the accident, & W. said he was not, & C. said if W. would not come forward he, C., would get other witnesses. Two other witnesses deposed to similar proposals made to them by C., but not in pltf.'s presence, to give false evidence. Pltf. was not present at the accident; & neither he nor C. had been called as witnesses:—Held: the evidence was rightly received, as amounting to evidence of an admission, by conduct, of pltf. that he had a bad case. C. having been shown to be acting in concert with pltf. to suborn false witnesses, what C. did in furtherance of that object in the absence of pltf. might be inferred to have been done with pltf.'s privity.—MORIARTY v. LONDON, CHATHAM & DOVER RY. CO. (1870), L. R. 5 Q. B. 314; 39 L. J. Q. B. 109; 22 L. T. 163; 34 J. P. 692; 18 W. R. 625.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Watt (1905), 70 J. P. 29.

3918. ——— ]—The conduct in a litigation of a party to it, if such as to lead to the reasonable inference that he disbelieves in his own case, may be proved & used as evidence against him. So, where deft. was indicted for endeavouring to persuade certain other persons to kill & murder another person, evidence of a witness who had

by the exporter of certain contraband cocaine, the subject of the charge against accused, containing a reference to a telegram signed in a different name but bearing the same business address as that of the accused, is relevant as showing that the accused was the sender of the telegram, though the letter was intercepted at the post office under an order of the magistrate before delivery.—BOOTH v. R. (1913), L. L. R. 41 Calc. 545.—IND.

given evidence at the police ct. for the defence, but who now swore that such evidence was false, & that he had been induced to give such evidence by deff. was admitted.—R. v. WATT (1905), 70 J. P. 29; 20 Cox, C. C. 852.

3919. Admissible to rebut alibi.—In answer to an alibi set up on a trial for felony, the prosecutor may show the circumstances in which prisoner was seen near the spot in question, though those circumstances involve the commission of another felony by him.—R. v. BRIGGS (1839), 2 Mood. & R. 199, N. P.

B. Not forming part of same Transaction.

(a) In General.

3920. General rule.—Upon the trial of an indictment for murder by stabbing, it appeared that prisoner when arrested, about an hour after the alleged crime, had in his possession a blood-stained knife :—Held : admissible to give evidence of the stabbing of another person by prisoner immediately before his arrest.

Evidence relating to facts entirely disconnected from the charge before the ct. are inadmissible (CHARLES, J.)—R. v. CRICKMER (1889), 16 Cox, 701.

—[Prisoner, a medical man, was indicted for feloniously using certain instruments on a certain woman with intent to procure her miscarriage. At the trial evidence was tendered on behalf of the prosecution to show that some nine months previously prisoner had used similar instruments upon another woman with the avowed intention of bringing about her miscarriage, & that he had then used expressions tending to show that he was in the habit of performing similar operations for the same illegal purpose. The evidence was admitted, & prisoner was convicted :—Held : the evidence was rightly admitted, & the conviction must be upheld.

Evidence of this kind has been admitted in cases which may be grouped under three heads : Where the prosecution seeks to prove a system or course of conduct ; where the prosecution seeks to rebut a suggestion on the part of prisoner of accident or mistake ; & where the prosecution seeks to prove the knowledge by prisoner of some fact (BRAY, J.)—R. v. BOND, [1906] 2 K. B. 389 ; 75 L. J. K. B. 693 ; 95 L. T. 296 ; 70 J. P. 424 ; 54 W. R. 586 ; 22 T. L. R. 633 ; 50 Sol. Jo. 512 ; 21 Cox, C. C. 252, C. C. R.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Ball, [1911] A. C. 47. Apld. v. Thomson (1912), 76 J. P. 431. Consd. R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468 ; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339 ; Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702. Refd. R. v. Chitson, [1909] 2 K. B. 945 ; R. v. Charlesworth (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 167 ; R. v. Ellis, [1910] 2 K. B. 746 ; R. v. Shellaker (1913), 110 L. T. 351 ; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336 ; Thompson v. R., [1918] A. C. 221 ; R. v. Lovegrove, [1920] 3 K. B. 643 ; R. v. Starkie, [1922] 2 K. B. 275. Mentd. R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89 ; R. v. Price (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 15.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (a).

3920 i. General rule.—Evidence of the commission of one crime entirely unconnected with the offence charged is inadmissible to prove the offence charged ; but, where the commission of one act, criminal or otherwise, is in itself circumstantial evidence of the commission of another act, it is perfectly proper evidence to establish the commission of the latter act.—R. v. MINCHIN (1913), 26 W. L. R. 633 ; 18 D. L. R. 340 ; 6 W. W. R. 800.—CAN.

3920 ii.—[In a criminal trial evidence otherwise admissible is not rendered inadmissible by the fact that it discloses the commission of an offence other than that in respect of which the trial is being held.—R. v. MULUA (1892), 1 L. R. 14 All. 502.—IND.

3923 i. To show general disposition to commit offence.—When intention, knowledge, good or bad faith, malice or any other state of mind is relevant to the issue, evidence of acts or words of a similar character on other occasions may be admitted to show the intention of the person so acting or speaking on the occasion in question. Husband & wife were charged with assaulting one of their minor children on certain specific occasions.—Held : evidence of other assaults by the accused on the child, of its continued ill-treatment prior to the alleged assaults & of its general physical condition was admis-

3922.—[On the trial of a prisoner for forgery of a will two accomplices were called for the prosecution, who deposed that the will was forged by prisoner in pursuance of a scheme by which they were to endeavour fraudulently to obtain an advance from third persons to a legatee under the will of the faith of his legacy. One of the accomplices was to figure as the legatee & the other as an exor.

They said that prisoner told them that he objected to appearing as exor. himself because he had forged a will under a similar scheme some years before, that on that occasion he had played the part of exor., & that if he did it again suspicion might be directed to him. Prisoner gave evidence in his own defence, & denied, amongst other things, the accomplices' statement that he had admitted the earlier forgery. In cross-examination counsel for the prosecution went into details of that earlier forgery & asked questions tending to show that prisoner had in fact committed it :—Held : the cross-examination was rightly admitted. If prisoner had in fact been guilty of a similar forgery in connection with the earlier will, the probability was that the accomplices' story that he told them so & gave that as his reason for not being exor. under the later will was true, & therefore the answers to the questions might afford corroboration of their evidence. The cross-examination was consequently relevant to the issue at the trial, & was not open to objection under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36).

Evidence otherwise admissible can be given against an accused person notwithstanding that it may show that he had committed an offence other than that with which he was charged, or was of bad character.—R. v. KENNAWAY, [1917] 1 K. B. 25 ; 86 L. J. K. B. 300 ; 115 L. T. 720 ; 81 J. P. 99 ; 25 Cox, C. C. 559 ; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 147, C. C. A.

3923. To show general disposition to commit offence.—R. v. COLE, No. 3848, ante.

3924.—[Evidence tending to show guilt of criminal acts other than those charged is not admissible except upon the issue whether the acts charged were designed or accidental, or unless to rebut a defence otherwise open. M. & his wife were convicted of the murder of an infant, received from its mother on representations as to their willingness to adopt it on payment of a sum inadequate to its support beyond a very limited time, & whose body was found buried in the garden of a house occupied by them :—Held : evidence of other infants having been received from their mothers on like representations & terms, & that bodies of infants had been found buried in the gardens of several houses occupied by prisoners, was relevant to the issue which had been tried by the jury.

Evidence is not admissible to show that the

sible to show that the alleged assaults were in excess of legal chastisement.—R. v. JANKE (1913), T. P. D. 382.—S. AF.

t.—Subsequent conduct.—[The accused was charged with carnally knowing a girl in his employ who at the date of the offence charged was 15 years & 10 months old. At the trial the admission of evidence as to his conduct with the girl subsequently to the date of the offence charged was objected to :—Held : the evidence was admissible.—R. v. LANGDON, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 495.—N.Z.

a.—Not charge in foreign indictment.—[Evidence against prisoner of having uttered a forged instrument not being otherwise sufficient, the ct.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (a).]

accused has been guilty of criminal acts other than those covered by the indictment for the purpose of leading to the conclusion that the accused is a person likely, from his criminal conduct or character, to have committed the offence for which he is being tried.—MAKIN v. A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES, [1894] A. C. 57; 63 L. J. P. C. 41; 69 L. T. 778; 58 J. P. 148; 10 T. L. R. 155; 17 Cox, C. C. 704; 6 R. 373, P. C.

*Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188. Apld. R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208. Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Apld. R. v. Ball, [1911] A. C. 47. Consd. R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; R. v. Smith (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2153; Thompson v. R., [1918] A. C. 221. Distd. R. v. Lovegrove, [1920] 3 K. B. 643. Consd. R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555. Refd. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; R. v. Mean (1904), 69 J. P. 27; R. v. Chitson, [1909] 2 K. B. 945; R. v. Schani Yousey (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1272; Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702. Mentd. R. v. Dyson, [1908] 2 K. B. 454; R. v. Westacott (1908), 25 T. L. R. 192; Arnold v. King-Emperor, [1914] A. C. 644.

3925. — Or bad character.—On an indictment for obtaining by false pretences or other frauds, evidence of similar offences to that charged committed by deft. is only admissible, a prima facie case being made, to negative a defence of mistake or accident, or to prove a systematic course of fraudulent conduct, but not to prove general bad character.

At the trial of a prisoner on an indictment charging him with obtaining a pony & cart by false pretences on June 4, 1909, evidence was admitted that on May 14, 1909, and on July 3, 1909, prisoner had obtained provender from other persons by false pretences different from those alleged in the indictment. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: the evidence was wrongly admitted, as it did not show a systematic course of fraud, but merely that prisoner was of a general fraudulent disposition, & therefore it did not tend to prove the falsity of the representations alleged in the indictment.—R. v. FISHER, [1910] 1 K. B. 149; 79 L. J. K. B. 187; 102 L. T. 111; 74 J. P. 104; 26 T. L. R. 122; 22 Cox, C. C. 270; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Ellis, [1910] 2 K. B. 746. Consd. R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468. Apld. R. v. Kurusch, [1915] 2 K. B. 749; R. v. Wilson (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 251. Refd. R. v. Ball (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 238; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Baird (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785.

3926. When related to distinct offence.—An indictment for a conspiracy charged deft. with conspiring, with other persons unknown, to cheat & defraud D. & others, & laid as overt acts that deft. did falsely pretend to D. that he was a merchant named G., & did under colour of a pretended contract with D., for the purchase of certain goods of D. & others, obtain a large quantity of the goods of D. & others, with intent to defraud D. & others:—Held: on the trial of this indictment evidence was not admissible to show that deft. attempted to defraud other persons wholly unconnected with D.—R. v. STEEL (1841), Car. & M. 337; 2 Mood C. C. 246; 5 J. P. 500, C. C. R.

3927. ——A. was indicted for stealing a could not look at an indictment against him found by the grand jury of an American criminal case.—R. v. HOVEY (1880), 8 P. R. 345.—CAN.

3926 i. When relating to distinct offence.—The mere fact that evidence tends to show the commission of crimes other than the one charged in the indictment does not render it inadmissible if it be relevant to an issue before the jury, & it may be so relevant if it bears upon the question whether the acts alleged to constitute the crime charged were designed or accidental, or to rebut a defence which would otherwise be open to the accused.—R. v. LEVIN, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 505; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 389.—CAN.

shilling which had been previously marked & put into a till. A constable found the shilling in his possession, & asked him if he had any more money of S.'s about him. Prisoner produced some half-crowns, & then made a statement:—Held: this statement was not receivable in evidence, on the ground that it related to another & distinct felony.—R. v. BUTLER (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 221; 2 Cox, C. C. 132.

*Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3928. ——On an indictment for arson in setting fire to a rick the property of A., evidence may be given of prisoner's presence & demeanour at fires of other ricks the property respectively of B. & C., occurring the same night, although those fires are the subject of other indictments against prisoner, such evidence being important to explain his movements & general conduct before & after the fire of A.'s rick; but evidence is not admissible of threats, statements or particular acts pointing alone to the other indictments, & not tending to implicate or explain the conduct of prisoner in reference to that fire.—R. v. TAYLOR (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 138.

3929. ——Prisoner was charged with obtaining a specific sum from W. by false pretences. It appeared that he was employed by his master to take orders, but not to receive moneys, & he was proved to have obtained the specific sum from W. by representing that he was authorised by his master to receive it. Evidence was then admitted of prisoner's having obtained another sum of money from another person by a similar false pretence, such obtaining not being mentioned in the indictment in any way:—Held: such evidence was not admissible for the purpose of proving the intent of prisoner when he committed the acts charged in the indictment.—R. v. HOIT (1860), Bell, C. C. 280; 30 L. J. M. C. 11; 3 L. T. 310; 24 J. P. 757; 6 Jur. N. S. 1121; 9 W. R. 74; 8 Cox, C. C. 411, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Rhodes, [1899] 1 Q. B. 77. Consd. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758. Expld. R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208. Refd. R. v. Francis (1874), 43 L. J. M. C. 97; R. v. Stephens (1874), 43 L. J. M. C. 97; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3930. ——Deft. was indicted for obtaining a cheque by falsely pretending that another cheque, which he then gave to prosecutor, was a good & valid order for the payment of money. Prosecutor deposed that he gave his cheque to deft. on the faith of deft.'s statement that a cheque which deft. then gave to prosecutor, was a good cheque. The cheque given by deft. was dishonoured. Deft. stated that when he gave the cheque he expected a payment which would have enabled him to meet it. Deft. was acquitted. He was then tried on a second indictment, charging him with obtaining from other persons three sums of money on three cheques which were dishonoured. To prove guilty knowledge prosecutor in the first case was called & gave the same evidence as in the first case. Deft. was convicted, & the question as to the admissibility of the evidence was reserved:—Held: the evidence which had been given on the first indictment, upon which deft. had been tried & acquitted, was legally admissible upon the trial of the second indictment, for the purpose of proving guilty knowledge, & the conviction was right.—R. v. OLLIS, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; 69 L. J. Q. B. 918; 83 L. T. 251; 64 J. P. 518; 49 W. R. 76; 16 T. L. R. 477; 44 Sol. Jo. 593; 19 Cox, C. C. 554, C. C. R.

3926 ii. ——In a charge of murder by the panel of his wife & her mother it was proposed by the prosecutor to ask a witness, a female servant in the house, whether during a time stated the wife had seen the panel use any familiarities with witness. Question objected to as leading to a separate line of inquiry, of which no notice had

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; It. v. Shellaker, [1914] 1 K. B. 414. Refd. R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208; It. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389; It. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702; It. v. Thompson, [1917] 2 K. B. 630; R. v. Lovegrove, [1920] 3 K. B. 643.

3931. —.]—Deft. was indicted for obtaining certain furniture by false pretences from a furniture dealer in Brighton between Oct. 14 & 17. Evidence was given that deft. a few days afterwards obtained other goods from another Brighton tradesman by means of false pretences the same as, or similar to, those charged in the indictment:—Held: the evidence was admissible as it appeared that it really related to one transaction & was all part of the same system of fraud.—R. v. SMITH (1905), 92 L. T. 208; 69 J. P. 51; 49 Sol. Jo. 261; 20 Cox, C. C. 804, C. C. R.

3932. —.]—R. v. FISHER, No. 3925, ante.

3933. —.]—R. v. ELLIS, No. 3893, ante.

3934. —.]—Conviction quashed on the ground that a witness had been allowed to depose to the admission by prisoner that he had committed offences unconnected with the pending charge.—R. v. COULTER (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 147, C. C. A.

3935. —.]—Applt. was indicted for having in the night time broken & entered a dwelling-house with intent to ravish a woman. The evidence for the prosecution was to the effect that applt. broke into the house between midnight & 1 a.m., that the prosecutrix, hearing a noise, came downstairs, when applt. seized her, & pulled up her clothes, & that upon the woman's father coming downstairs he went away. The defence at the trial was that the evidence for the prosecution was not true, that applt. went to the house for the purpose of courting the prosecutrix with her consent, & that he did not break into the house & did not intend or attempt to ravish her. The prosecution tendered evidence that applt. at about 2 a.m. on the same morning went to the house of another woman, about three miles from the prosecutrix's house, & gained access to her bedroom down the chimney, & with her consent had connection with her. It was contended that this evidence was admissible to show the state of the applt.'s mind & body at the time when he broke into the prosecutrix's house, & coupled with the evidence of what happened when he was in the house was admissible to show the intent with which he broke in. The evidence was admitted & applt. was convicted:—Held: the evidence was not relevant to any of the issues in the case, & was not admissible.—R. v. RODLEY, [1913] 3 K. B. 468; 82 L. J. K. B. 1070; 109 L. T. 476; 77 J. P. 465; 29 T. L. R. 700; 58 Sol. Jo. 51; 23 Cox, C. C. 574; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Burelson (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 39; R. v. Kurasch, [1915] 2 K. B. 749. Refd. R. v. Jones (1922), 127 L. T. 160.

3936. When not related to offence of similar nature—Obtaining credit by fraud.—Applt. was charged for obtaining credit by fraud. Evidence was given of two previous occasions upon which he had obtained credit & had not paid:—Held:

as the ct. thought that those transactions could not properly have been the subject of a criminal charge, they were not transactions of a similar nature with the transaction in question, & therefore could not be given in evidence to show fraud on the latter occasion.—R. v. BAIRD (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785; 113 L. T. 608; 25 Cox, C. C. 86; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 186, C. C. A.

3937. To prove suspicion of subsequent felony.]—On an indictment against prisoner for the murder of her husband by arsenic, in Sept. 1848, evidence was tendered on behalf of the prosecution of arsenic having been taken by prisoner's two sons, one of whom died in Dec. & the other in Mar. subsequently, & also by a third son, who took arsenic in Apr. following, but did not die. Proof was given of a similarity of symptoms in the four cases. Evidence was also tendered that prisoner lived in the same house with her husband & sons, & that she prepared their tea, cooked their victuals & distributed them to the four parties:—Held: (1) this evidence was admissible for the purpose of proving, first, that the deceased husband actually died of arsenic; secondly, that his death was not accidental; & (2) it was not inadmissible by reason of its tendency to prove or create a suspicion of a subsequent felony.—R. v. GEERING (1849), 18 L. J. M. C. 215; 8 Cox, C. C. 450, n.

Annotations.—As to (1) Consd. R. v. Richardson (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 448. Fold. It. v. Cotton (1873), 12 Cox, C. C. 400; R. v. Heeson (1878), 14 Cox, C. C. 40; R. v. Flannagan & Higgins (1884), 15 Cox, C. C. 403. Apprvd. Makin v. A.-G. for New South Wales, [1894] A. C. 57. Consd. It. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Appld. It. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555. Refd. It. v. Salt (1862), 3 F. & F. 834; R. v. Harris (1864), 4 F. & F. 342; R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; Blake v. Albion Life Assoc. Soc. (1878), 48 L. J. Q. B. 169. As to (2) Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3938. To prove motive.]—F. & H. were jointly charged, on indictment for the murder of the husband of H., with causing his death by the administration of arsenic.

Evidence having been given that deceased had died from arsenic, & had been attended by prisoners:—Held: it was competent for the prosecution to tender evidence of other cases of persons who had died from arsenic, & to whom prisoners had access, exhibiting exactly similar symptoms before death to those of the case under consideration, for the purpose of showing that this particular death arose from arsenical poisoning—not accidentally taken, but designedly administered by some one.

Such evidence, however, is not admissible for the purpose of establishing motives; though the fact that the evidence offered may tend indirectly to that end is no ground for its exclusion.—R. v. FLANNAGAN & HIGGINS (1884), 15 Cox, C. C. 403.

3939. Evidence in previous charge—Acquittal.—R. v. OLLIS, No. 3930, ante.

3940. Charge abandoned.]—On the hearing of a charge of sodomy with a boy, evidence was admitted which had reference to a previous charge of the same nature, but which was abandoned:—Held: the evidence given could not be made use of to rebut the defence of innocent assocn., & was wrongly admitted.—R. v. BARRON (1913), 110 L. T. 350; 78 J. P. 184; 30 T. L. R. 187; 24 Cox, C. C. 83; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 236, C. C. A.

3941. When admissible—Not until defence of

been given but allowed in the circumstances.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. PRITCHARD (1865), 5 Irv. 88.—SCOT.

b. When not related to offence of similar nature.]—On the trial of an indictment for riot & unlawful assembly on Jan. 15, evidence was given on the part of the prosecution of the conduct of prisoners on the day previous, for the purpose of showing as was alleged that B., in whose office one act of riot was committed, had reason to be alarmed when prisoners came to his office. Prisoners thereupon claimed the right to show that they had met on Jan. 14 to attend a school meeting, & claimed the right to give evidence of what took place at the school meeting, but the evidence was rejected:—Held: the evidence was properly rejected, because the conduct of the prisoners on Jan. 14 could not qualify or explain their conduct on the following day.—R. v. MAILLOUX (1876), 3 Pug. 493.—CAN.

*Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence :
Sub-sect. 2, B. (a), (b), (c) & (d).]*

accident, mistake, or absence of intent raised.]—Resp. was charged under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83), s. 4, with having on July 16, 1914, exposed his person in Small Heath Park, Birmingham, with intent to insult a certain female, T. In her evidence T. stated that on July 16, she saw resp. in Small Heath Park, & that he exposed his person to her; she also said she had seen him in the early part of May 1914. Resp. when arrested said, "They have made a mistake; they have got the wrong man." In giving evidence on his own behalf resp. denied having been guilty of the offence, & in cross-examination he said, "I do not remember seeing her on first or second week in May, 1914"; he was then asked, also in cross-examination, "Do you deny exposing yourself to the same young lady in Small Heath Park in the first or second week in May last?" Resp. replied, "I do deny it." The justices ruled that this question should not have been put, on the ground that it was not relevant to the issue they had to determine & was contrary to the provisions of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1. The solr. for the prosecution intimated that to rebut resp.'s denial he desired to recall T. to prove that resp. had been guilty of the same conduct to her at the same time & place on May 16, 1914; he also desired to call other witnesses to show that resp. had been guilty of a systematic course of conduct by indecently exposing himself with intent to insult females on other occasions at the same place & about the same hour. The justices refused to hear such evidence:—Held: (1) the question put to resp. in cross-examination, which the justices ruled should not have been put, & the evidence tendered of T. to show that resp. had been guilty of the same conduct to her at the same place in May, 1914, were admissible relevant for the purpose of showing that T. was not mistaken in her identification; (2) what was done by resp. was done wilfully & not accidentally, & that it was done to insult her; (3) but the evidence tendered of other witnesses was not admissible, unless & until the defence of accident or mistake, or an absence of intention to insult, was definitely put forward; & (4) it appeared that the other occasions on which it was said that resp. indecently exposed himself were sufficiently proximate to the alleged offence to show a systematic course of conduct.—PERKINS v. JEFFERY, [1915] 2 K. B. 702; 84 L. J. K. B. 1554; 113 L. T. 456; 79 J. P. 425; 31 T. L. R. 444; 25 Cox, C. C. 59, D. C.

Annotations:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Thompson, [1917] 2 K. B. 630. As to (3) Consd. R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555.

3942. — After prima facie case established.]—R. v. SMITH, No. 3992, post.

(b) To show System or Design.

3943. General rule.]—Upon an indictment for maliciously shooting, if it be questionable, whether the shooting was by accident or design, proof may be given that the person at another time intentionally shot at the same person.—R. v. VOKE (1823), Russ. & Ry. 531, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Dossett (1846), 2 Cox, C. C. 243. Distd. R. v. Oddy (1851), 2 Den. 264.

3944. —.]—R. v. FLANNAGAN & HIGGINS, No. 3938, ante.

3945. —.]—MAKIN v. A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES, No. 3924, ante.

3946. —.]—R. v. BOND, No. 3921, ante.

3947. —.]—R. v. FISHER, No. 3925, ante.

3948. What is systematic course of conduct—Not general fraudulent disposition.]—R. v. FISHER, No. 3925, ante.

3949. — Proximity of offences.]—PERKINS v. JEFFERY, No. 3941, ante.

(c) To show Guilty Knowledge.

3950. General rule.]—R. v. WYLIE, No. 3892, ante.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (b).]

3943 i. General rule.]—Evidence of the commission of similar acts is relevant to the offence charged where the essence of the offence consists not only of the overt act done but also of the intention or design with which the act was done. Such evidence is not admissible to show a propensity to commit offences of the kind charged.—R. v. HERBERT, [1916] V. L. R. 343.—AUS.

3949 i. What is systematic course of conduct—Proximity of offences—Murder by abortion—Not discovery of three buried fetuses.]—During trial, evidence was admitted, subject to objection, of the fact that three infants fœtus had been found buried at the back of accused's house:—Held: evidence should not have been admitted.—R. v. SMITH (1898), 1 W. A. L. R. 43.—AUS.

3949 ii. —.]—Upon the trial of a person charged with unlawfully using an instrument with intent to procure the miscarriage of a woman, another woman gave evidence that the prisoner had on the same day & at the same place made to her the same statement as to the fee, & performed upon her acts similar to those proved as to the offence charged:—Held: evidence was admissible to prove systematic pursuit of the same criminal object.—R. v. GRAHAM, [1915] V. L. R. 402.—AUS.

3949 iii. —.]—Where accused was charged with fraudulently transferring three properties to three different persons on a certain day in order to prevent their being seized in execution of a decree, & the prosecution tendered evidence of five other fraudulent transfers of property effected by accused on the same day & apparently with the same object:—Held: this evidence was admissible to prove either that all those transfers were parts of one entire transaction or that the particular transfers which were specified in the charge were made with a fraudulent intent.—R. v. VAJIRAM (1892), 1 L. R. 16 Bom. 414.—IND.

3949 iv. —.]—On a trial for murder of A. by poison, evidence that the prisoner administered poison to B. is not, per se, admissible to prove the administration by the prisoner to A. It may be admissible generally where the poisonings are so linked together in a series of occurrences as to form part of one & the same transaction. It may also be admissible where both crimes are committed in pursuance of a common design.—R. v. HALL (1887), 5 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 93.—N.Z.

d. — Not conduct subsequent to date of charge in indictment.]—At the trial of A. & B., father & son, indicted for conspiracy to charge C. & D. with having posted threatening notices on Oct. 16, 1911, it was sought to give evidence for the prosecution against A. & B., that on Nov. 17, 1911, after the grand jury at quarter sessions had thrown out the bill charging C. & D. with having posted the threatening notices on said date, another threatening notice was produced to the police by B. in the presence of A. as having been found on A.'s lands wrapped up in part of a torn newspaper, which was found to fit in exactly with the rest of the paper which was discovered by the police in a concealed position in A. & B.'s house:—Held: as the indictment set out only one specific date on which the offence charged against C. & D. was alleged to have been committed the proposed evidence against A. & B. was not admissible.—R. v. QUINTER (1913), 47 L. L. T. 264.—IR.

*Arson—Previous attempt twelve months before—Whether admissible.]—*In support of a charge of arson the Crown tendered evidence that about twelve months prior to the date of the alleged offence accused was found in an unoccupied house; that when discovered he appeared agitated, gave no satisfactory explanation of his presence, & left immediately; & that preparations for setting the house on fire were discovered on the premises being searched. The Crown also proposed to tender evidence that the accused had been noticed at other fires occurring some twelve to fifteen months previously:—Held: (1) the first evidence was inadmissible, being an isolated instance of suspicious conduct on the part of the accused some twelve months prior to the date of the alleged arson, not in any way connected with the fire in question in the case, & as such being too remote to show system or to negative the defence of accident; (2) that the latter evidence was also clearly inadmissible.—R. v. WILLOUGHBY (1913), 32 N. Z. L. R. 1295.—N.Z.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (c).]

3950 i. General rule.]—Evidence which tends to show that accused is 3951. —.]—R. v. OLLIS, No. 3930, ante.

3952. —.]—R. v. BOND, No. 3921; ante.

3953. Letter written by accused.—In a case of forging & uttering a forged bill, a letter written by prisoner to a third person, saying that that person's name is on another bill, & desiring him not to say that that bill is a forgery, is receivable in evidence, to show guilty knowledge; but the jury ought not to consider it as evidence that that other bill is forged, unless such bill is produced, & the forgery of it proved in the usual way.—R. v. FORBES (1835), 7 C. & P. 224.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Francis (1874), 22 W. R. 663. Mentd. R. v. Parish (1837), 8 C. & P. 94.

3954. Conversations with accused.—On indictments for uttering forged Polish notes:—Held: conversations with prisoners respecting the forgery & circulation of forged Austrian notes were admissible in evidence to prove the scienter.—R. v. HARRIS (1836), 7 C. & P. 429.

3955. —.]—Appl., who had been convicted under Official Secrets Act, 1911 (c. 28), ss. 1 (1), & 4, of attempting, for a purpose prejudicial to the safety or interests of the State, to obtain information calculated to be useful to an enemy, appealed against his conviction on the grounds, (1) that evidence of a conversation, which he had had after the date of the offence, had been wrongly admitted; (2) that the trial was prejudiced by a suggestion as to the contents of a document which was not put in evidence; & (3) that the judge had unfairly questioned prisoner & misunderstood his answers. The Ct. dismissed the appeal on all three grounds.—R. v. OLSSON (1915), 31 T. L. R. 559, C. C. A.

Receiving stolen property.—See Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) v., post.

Coinage offences.—See Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) x., post.

guilty of some offence not charged in the indictment is admissible where it shows a guilty knowledge & establishes the fraudulent nature of some of the acts with which he is charged.—R. v. RORKE (1915), App. D. 145.—S. AF.

f. Previous conviction for same offence.—Evidence that accused had been previously convicted of the same offence was admissible to show guilty knowledge or intention.—R. v. ALLOMIYA HUSAN (1904), 1 L. R. 28 Bom. 129.—IND.

g. Previous issues of forged stamps.—Prisoner, who was the stamp distributor of the Q. B. Div., was indicted for uttering three law forms with forged stamps impressed thereon. The forms which were the subject of the indictment were those ordinarily, used by the stamp distributor of the Exch. Div., & bore his particular mark. It sometimes happens that in the process of stamping a second sheet of paper is inadvertently placed under the sheet which is brought into contact with the die; this second sheet receives an impression but of a fainter character, & one which can be distinguished from the impression made on the outer sheet. These second sheets are called "blinds," & are never supposed to be issued by the Stamping Department, nor are they regarded as genuine dies. The principal defence was that when prisoner sent to purchase genuine stamps his messenger, either deceived by the guilty party or in collusion with him, brought back "blinds," which were then innocently sold by prisoner. To meet this defence counsel for the Crown proposed to give in evidence several documents from the files of the Q. B. Div., which were on forms bearing prisoner's particular mark, & the stamps on which were, in the opinion of the expert, forgeries of a similar character as those the subject of the indictment. Counsel for the prisoner objected to these documents being given in evidence, as there was not sufficient evidence to connect the prisoner with them; but the judge received them in evidence, but reserved the question for the Ct. whether he was warranted in permitting the jury to regard these documents as having been uttered by the prisoner, & having been so uttered as evidence of guilty knowledge:—Held: there was sufficient evidence to connect the prisoner with the documents on the file of the Q. B. Div., & of these having been uttered by him; & they were rightly submitted to the jury as evidence of guilty knowledge.—R. v. CONCLOUGH (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 92.—IR.

h. Previous attempts by accused.—To sell glass as diamonds.—Accused were convicted of the crime of theft by means of false pretences in selling pieces of glass as diamonds. Evidence was admitted of their having on a previous occasion endeavoured to sell glass as diamonds:—Held: such evidence was rightly admitted, though it tended to prove a fraudulent transaction other than the one with which the prisoners were charged, as it was relevant on the question of guilty knowledge.—R. v. KELLER & PARKER (1915), App. D. 98.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—B. (d).

k. Attempt to murder.—Administering similar poison.—On dates subsequent to date charged.—Prisoner was indicted for administering poison to her husband with intent to murder him. At the trial evidence that prisoner's husband had at other times subsequent to the date of the offence charged suffered from the effects of similar poison was tendered. This evidence after objection was admitted. On a special case reserved as to its admissibility:—Held: although there

(d) To show Intent.

3956. General rule.—Fraud.—R. v. HOLT, No. 3929, ante.

3957. —.]—When it is material to prove an intent to defraud, evidence may be given of similar offences by deft.—R. v. SIMMONDS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 303, C. C. A.

3958. —.]—R. v. WEST (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 145, C. C. A.

3959. —.]—Incest.—Defts., who were brother & sister, were indicted under the Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), for having had carnal knowledge of each other during stated periods in 1910. Evidence was given on behalf of the prosecution to the effect that, at the times specified in the indictment, defts. were seen together at night in the same house, which contained only one furnished bedroom, & that there was in the bedroom a double bed which bore signs of two persons having occupied it. The witnesses for the prosecution were not cross-examined. The prosecution then tendered evidence of previous acts of defts. with the view of showing what were the relations between them. The evidence was objected to, but was admitted. The evidence was to the effect that the male deft. in Nov. 1907, took a house to which he brought the female deft. as his wife; that they lived there as husband & wife for about sixteen months; that at the end of Mar. 1908, the female deft. gave birth to a child, & that she registered the birth, describing herself as the mother & the male deft. as the father. Defts. having been convicted, they appealed, & the C. C. A. quashed the conviction & directed a "judgment & verdict of acquittal to be entered," on the ground that the evidence objected to was not in the first instance admissible, was no direct proof that the other poisons had been administered by prisoner, the evidence was properly admitted to prove the intent alleged in the indictment.—R. v. DAVIS (1872), 3 V. R. (Law) 95.—AUS.

l. —.]—Loitering with loaded revolver.—& burglar's tools in his possession.—R. v. MOONEY (1905), Q. B. 15 K. B. 57.—CAN.

m. Wounding with intent to murder.—Previous attempt on another person same day.—In a count framed charging prisoner with wounding K., with intent to murder, the felonious intention against K. must be proved; a felonious intention against a third person cannot be transferred.

Evidence that, two hours previously on the same day, prisoner had come to the same place, & had fired two shots at T., with a felonious intention:—Held: to be admissible as part of the res gestæ, & as explaining the circumstances connected with the commission of the offence.—R. v. COOK (1886), 12 V. L. R. 650.—AUS.

n. Performing similar operation on same day.—Upon the trial of a person charged with unlawfully using an instrument with intent to procure the miscarriage of a woman, another woman gave evidence that the prisoner had on the same day & at the same place made to her the same statement as to the fee & performed upon her acts similar to those proved as to the offence charged:—Held: the evidence was admissible to show the intention or design with which the act constituting the offence was done.—R. v. GRAHAM, [1915] V. L. R. 402.—AUS.

o. Arson.—Murder committed by another.—Attempted concealment of body by accused.—Prisoner being indicted for unlawfully & maliciously attempting to burn his own house by setting fire to a bed in it, it appeared in evidence that the dead body of a woman

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (d), (e), (f), (g) & (h) i.]

& that nothing had occurred in the conduct of the defence to render it admissible as evidence in rebuttal:—Held: the evidence objected to was admissible on the issue; for the object of that evidence was to establish that defts. had a guilty passion towards each other & to rebut the defence of innocent assocn. as brother & sister.—R. v. BALL, R. v. BALL, [1911] A. C. 47; 75 J. P. 180; sub nom. PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR v. BALL (No. 2), 80 L. J. K. B. 691; 103 L. T. 738; 55 Sol. Jo. 139; 22 Cox, C. C. 366; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 31, II. L.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bloodworth* (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 80. Refd. R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89; R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468; R. v. Thompson (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 252; R. v. Shellaker, [1914] 1 K. B. 414; R. v. Thompson, [1917] 2 K. B. 630. Mentd. R. v. Curtis (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 9; R. v. Cooper (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 195.

(e) To rebut Defence of Accident or Mistake.

3960. General rule.]—R. v. VOKE*, No. 3943, ante.

3961. —.]—R. v. GEERING*, No. 3937, ante.

3962. —.]—R. v. FLANNAGAN & HIGGINS*, No. 3938, ante.

3963. —.]—MAKIN v. A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES*, No. 3924, ante.

3964. —.]—R. v. BOND*, No. 3921, ante.

3965. —.]—R. v. FISHER*, No. 3925, ante.

was in the bed at the time; that her death had been caused by violence; that she had been recently delivered of a child, whose body had been found in the kitchen; & that she had lived in the house since it had been rented by the prisoner, who frequently went there at night. It was also shown that the prisoner had been indicted for the murder of this woman & acquitted, & the record of his acquittal was put in. This evidence was objected to as tending to prejudice prisoner's case:—Held: admissible, for the house being prisoner's, it was necessary to show that his attempt to set fire to it was unlawful & malicious, & these facts might satisfy the jury that the murder being committed by another, the prisoner's act was intended to conceal v. GREENWOOD (1864), 23 R. 250.—CAN.

p. Fraud—Previous fraudulent removal of goods.]—Accused were convicted by the jury at the trial on a count for concealing certain household goods for the purpose of defrauding the insurance co. by which they had been insured by representing that they had been destroyed by fire & collecting the insurance money upon them, also on a count which alleged a removal of said goods on or about Sept. 11, 1900, for a like fraudulent purpose. Evidence was given at the trial showing the removal of some of the goods in question on Aug. 13, 1900, & of others on Sept. 11, & in his charge to the jury, the trial judge did not distinguish between the goods removed on Aug. 13 & those removed on Sept. 11, but left the case to them in such a way that they could convict on both counts or on either of them as to both sets of goods:—Held: the evidence of the removal in Aug. was admissible for the purpose of showing a criminal intent in the Sept. removal.—R. v. HURST (1901), 13 Man. L. R. 584.—CAN.

q. Previous issues of requisitions for potable liquor for balking purposes.]—Deft., a practising physician, was convicted by a magistrate of an offence against the Ontario Temperance Act, 1916, as amended by the Ontario Temperance Amendment Act, 1917, by giving to M. a prescription for one pint of alcohol, in evasion & violation of the Act, & for the purpose of enabling & assisting him to evade the Act & to obtain intoxicating liquor for use as a beverage:—Held: evidence tending to establish that deft. had issued a great number of requisitions for potable liquor for bathing purposes, was properly admitted by the magistrate. Where the question of motive is involved, such evidence is admissible.—R. v. WELFORD (1918), 42 O. L. R. 359; 14 O. W. N. 20.—CAN.

r. Sedition—Previous statements by accused.]—Evidence of previous statements of a similar character was properly admitted to prove intention.—R. v. BARRON, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 262; 44 D. L. R. 332.—CAN.

s. Murder—Subsequent killing by accused of another person—Attempt to escape arrest.]—On a trial for murder, evidence that the subsequent killing by accused, while trying to escape arrest, of another person, was murder, is admissible in evidence as evidence of conduct from which an inference as to a state of mind may be drawn of value in determining the guilt of the accused.—R. v. CAMPBELL, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 1076.—CAN.

t. Theft of bonds from employer—Fraudulent scheme of obtaining money from employer.]—Prisoner was convicted of the theft of certain bonds, his employer's property. Upon a trial before a jury it was proved that prisoner had taken the bonds & placed them in his sister's custody. The testimony of a witness who swore to a conversation with prisoner in which the latter had suggested a means of obtaining a large sum of money from his employer by a fraudulent scheme was admitted:—Held: that the evidence was admissible to show the intent.—R. v. DOUGHTY (1921), 64 D. L. R. 423; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 83; 50 O. L. R. 360.—CAN.

u. Obtaining by false pretences—Uttering worthless cheque—Similar acts by accused.]—The external act of an accused person in obtaining property in exchange for a worthless cheque must be proved without reference to evidence of similar acts arising about the same time, but the external act having been proved, evidence of similar

(f) To corroborate, explain, or rebut Evidence.

3966. By prosecution—To explain fact—Elicited on cross-examination.]—Evidence of a distinct felony may be given in re-examination where it will serve to explain an apparently contradictory fact elicited by cross-examination. A statement of a prisoner is admissible in evidence, although he was previously told that whatever he said would be used against him.—R. v. CHAMBERS (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 92.

3967. — To rebut—Alibi set up by accused.]—R. v. BRIGGS*, No. 3919, ante.

3968. — Defence of innocent association—Charge of incest.]—R. v. BALL, R. v. BALL*, No. 3959, ante.

3969. — Charge of sodomy.]—R. v. BARRON*, No. 3940, ante.

3970. — To corroborate—By cross-examination.]—R. v. KENNAWAY*, No. 3922, ante.

3971. — Witness in charge of abortion.]—Applt. was indicted for unlawfully killing, & for feloniously using certain instruments to procure the miscarriage of, a certain woman. At the trial evidence was given for the prosecution by the husband of the woman that, having obtained applt.'s name & address from another woman, he went to her for his wife to go there in order that applt. might perform an operation on her which would procure a miscarriage, & that his wife subsequently went to applt.'s house & afterwards acts, proximate in point of time & of the same specific kind as that in question, is then admissible, for the limited purpose, however, of showing accused's intent in performing the act on which the charge is founded.—It. v. LEVINE, [1922] 3 W. W. R. 428; 1 D. L. R. 739; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 182.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (e).

b. Misappropriation o.

post office, having failed to account for moneys received by him in the course of his duty as a servant of the Commonwealth, was charged with misappropriation of public moneys. At the trial evidence was admitted that a few months before the discovery of the deficiency prisoner had received moneys on behalf of the Savings Bank for which he failed to account. It was his duty to render an account of his dealings in connection with those latter moneys to the State:—Held: the evidence was properly admitted, the earlier transaction being sufficiently similar to & connected with the defalcations in respect of which prisoner was charged to render evidence of them relevant to the defence of mistake or accident that might have been set up.—HARDGRAVE v. R. (1906), 4 C. L. R. 232.—AUS.

c. Manslaughter of child—Previous harsh treatment.]—A mother was indicted for the manslaughter of her child:—Held: evidence of previous harsh treatment of the child was admissible to show that the killing was not accidental.—It. v. MARTIN (1841), Arm. M. & O. 110.—IR.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (f).

d. By prosecution—To explain meaning of publications.]—Indictment under the 11 & 12 Vict. c. 12:—Held: (1) publications were overt acts, & the word "publication," as laid in the indictment, might be taken to mean a compassing in one day, & the expression of it on subsequent days; (2) the parting with the control of printings or writings, so that they might be read, had a miscarriage & died of septic abortion. The evidence of the other woman was tendered by the prosecution to show that applt. had performed a similar operation on her some months previously. The evidence was objected to on the ground that the defence was a denial of the husband's evidence & that applt. had never seen the deceased woman. The evidence was admitted, & applt. was convicted:—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted, as it tended to corroborate the husband's evidence & was, therefore, relevant to an issue before the jury.—R. v. LOVEGROVE, [1920] 3 K. B. 643; 90 L. J. K. B. 285; 124 L. T. 288; 85 J. P. 75; 26 Cox, C. C. 683; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 50, C. C. A.

3972. By defence—To rebut—Charge of negligence.—R. v. WILLIAMSON (1807), 3 C. & P. 635.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Long (1830), 4 C. & P. 398; R. v. Webb (1834), 2 Lew. C. C. 196; R. v. Whitehead (1848), 3 Car. & Kir. 202; R. v. Elliott (1889), 16 Cox, C. C. 710; R. v. Burdee (1916), 86 L. J. K. B. 871.

3973. — Charge of false pretences.—Prisoner was charged with having obtained goods by false pretences. The false pretence alleged in the indictment was that he had pretended that he was carrying on a genuine & bona fide business as a manufacturers' agent & merchant:—Held: receipts sworn to by prisoner as having been given to him as acknowledgments of payments for goods purchased by him other than those the subject of the charge, & entries in his bank pass-books showing payments made by him for goods supplied to him, were admissible as evidence on his behalf that he was in fact carrying on a genuine & bona fide business.—R. v. SAGAR, [1914] 3 K. B. 1112; 84 L. J. K. B. 303; 112 L. T. 135; 79 J. P. 32; 24 Cox, C. C. 500; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 279, C. C. A.

(g) To identify Accused or Exhibit.

3974. To identify accused—Arson.—Upon an indictment for arson, with intent to injure the person in occupation of the premises, prisoner may be found guilty, although his intent is proved to have been to obtain a reward for giving the earliest information of a fire at the engine station. Upon such an indictment it is not competent for was a publication; (3) speeches delivered prior to the commission of the offence charged, might be given in evidence for the purpose of explaining the meaning of the publications alleged to be felonious.—R. v. DUFFY (1849), 1 Ir. Jur. 188.—IR.

e. — To rebut.—Upon a prosecution for being in the street for the purposes of betting evidence was admitted of the accused having a fortnight previously made a bet in the same street, & of a conversation on that occasion as to being able to find him there between 7 & 8 in the evening:—Held: the evidence was properly received to show the purpose for which the accused was in the street & as negating the suggestion that he was there for another purpose.—O'DONNELL v. BOLAND (1904), 29 V. L. R. 655.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—B. (g).

1. To identify exhibit—Article found on accused—Similar to article alleged to be stolen—Larceny.—On a charge of larceny, similarity of goods found in possession of accused with goods alleged to have been stolen, may be evidence both of the identity of the goods.—R. v. ROCHE (1887), 13 V. L. R. 150.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—B. (h) i.

g. Act affecting person murdered—Previous abortion procured by accused prosecutors to show that other fires, of which notice was given by prisoner, were of a similar nature to the one in question, & different from those of which notice was given by other parties.—R. v. REGAN (1850), 14 J. P. 467; 4 Cox, C. C. 335.

3975. ——On a charge of arson, the case turning on identity, evidence was rejected that, a few days previous to the fire in question, another building of the prosecutor's was found on fire, & prisoner was seen standing by, with a demeanour which showed indifference or gratification.—R. v. HARRIS (1864), 4 F. & F. 342, N. P.

3976. — False pretences.—Qu.: whether on the trial of an indictment for obtaining by false pretences evidence of exactly similar conduct by deft. at a date subsequent to that charged is admissible as evidence of identity.—R. v. BURLISON (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 39.

3977. — Indecent behaviour.—PERKINS v. JEFFERY, No. 3941, ante.

3978. To identify instrument used—Stabbing.—A. was indicted for stabbing B., there being another indictment against him for stabbing C.:—Held: on the trial of the indictment for stabbing B., both C. & the surgeon might be asked as to what kind of wound C. received with a view to identifying the instrument used.—R. v. FURSEY (1833), 6 C. & P. 81; 3 State Tr. N. S. 543.

(h) Particular Offences.

i. Murder.

3979. Act affecting person murdered—Poisoning.—On a charge of murder by arsenic poison administered in tea in Nov., evidence that deceased in the previous Oct. suffered from arsenic poisoning after drinking tea with prisoner is admissible.—R. v. DONNALL (1817), 2 Car. & Kir. 308, n.

3980. ——R. v. TAWELL (1845), 2 Car. & Kir. 309, n.

3981. — & other means of killing.—On a trial for murder by violence, evidence that deft. had conspired to murder deceased by other means is admissible.—R. v. THOMPSON (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

3982. Act affecting person other than person on deceased.—On a trial of a prisoner for manslaughter, death being caused by the use of instruments for the purpose of procuring abortion, evidence that on a former occasion prisoner had procured abortion on the deceased is admissible.—R. v. WALLACE (FORMERLY CLEAVE) (1898), 19 N. S. W. L. R. 155; 14 N. S. W. N. 167.—AUS.

h. — Acts of violence.—Prisoner was convicted of manslaughter in killing his wife, who died Nov. 10, 1881. The immediate cause of death was acute inflammation of the liver, which might be occasioned by a blow or a fall against a hard substance. On Oct. 17 preceding her death, prisoner had knocked his wife down with a bottle; she fell against a door, & remained on the floor insensible for some time. Evidence was given of frequent acts of violence by prisoner upon his wife within a year of her death, by knocking her down & kicking her in the side:—Held: the evidence was properly received.—THEAL v. R. (1882), 7 S. C. R. 397.—CAN.

k. Act affecting person other than person murdered—Committal of felonies—Where proof of motive.—On a trial of a prisoner for murder evidence is admissible of other felonies committed by him where they prove a motive for the commission of the crime or form part of res gestæ.—R. v. GRIFFIN (1868), 1 Q. S. C. R. 176.—AUS.

l. — Shooting.—Prisoner quarrelled with L. in the street; L.

knocked prisoner down. Prisoner drew a revolver & fired, killing L. A constable who saw the shooting followed the prisoner & called on him to surrender. Prisoner turned & fired a shot at the constable, hitting him in the face. At the trial prisoner said that other men besides L. were attacking him, that he had been knocked down & brutally kicked, that he drew & pointed the revolver at L. to frighten him, but that in his nervous & exhausted state he pulled the trigger without any intention to kill:—Held: evidence that prisoner shot at the arresting constable although such shooting constituted another & distinct offence than that charged was admissible & that judge rightly directed the jury that it might help to show what was the state of the prisoner's mind when he shot L.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 486; 37 N. S. W. N. 154.—AUS.

m. — Life insurance.—On a trial for murder, the alleged motive being the obtaining of insurance moneys on policies effected by prisoner on the life of deceased, evidence of a previous attempt by prisoner to insure another person for his own benefit cannot be given in evidence against him.—R. v. HENDERSHOTT (1895), 26 O. R. 678.—CAN.

3982 i. — Poisoning.—Upon the trial of prisoner for the murder of her husband, who was living with & attended by her in his last illness, it was proved that his death was due to

*Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence :
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) i. & ii.]*

murdered—Poisoning.]—R. v. GEERING*, No. 3937, ante.

3983. ———.]—On an indictment against prisoner for murdering J. evidence is not admissible that three others in the same family died of similar poison, & that prisoner was present at all the deaths, & administered "something" to two of these patients.—R. v. WINSLOW (1860), 8 Cox, C. C. 397, N. P.

Annotations :—Distd. R. v. Flannagan & Higgins (1884), 15 Cox, C. C. 403. Consd. Makin v. A.-G. for New South Wales, [1894] A. C. 57. N.F. It. v. Armstrong (1922), 127 L. T. 221. Refd. It. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3984. ———.]—Upon the trial of a husband & wife for the murder of the mother of the former by the administration of arsenic to her, for the purpose of rebutting the inference that the arsenic had been taken by accident, evidence was admitted that the male prisoner's first wife had been poisoned with arsenic nine months previously; that the woman who waited upon her, & occasionally tasted her food, showed symptoms of having taken poison; that that food was always prepared by the female prisoner; & that the two prisoners, the only other persons in the house, were not affected with any symptoms of poison.—It. v. GARNER (1864), 3 F. & F. 681; 4 F. & F. 346, N. P.

Annotations :—Folld. R. v. Harris (1864), 4 F. & F. 342. Refd. R. v. Rearden (1864), 4 F. & F. 76; R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; Blake v. Albion Life Assoc. Soc. (1878), 48 L. J. Q. B. 169; R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555.

3985. ———.]—Where a prisoner was charged with the murder of her child by poison, & the defence was that its death resulted from an accidental taking of such poison, evidence to prove that two other children of hers & a lodger in her house had died previous to the present charge from the same poison was held to be admissible.—R. v. COTTON (1873), 12 Cox, C. C. 400.

Annotations :—Apld. R. v. Roden (1874), 12 Cox, C. C. 630. Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3986. ———.]—R. v. HEESON, No. 3882, ante.

3987. ———.]—R. v. FLANNAGAN & HIGGINS, No. 3938, ante.

3988. ———.]—Applt. was indicted for the murder of his wife by administering arsenic to her. The defence set up was that deceased had died by arsenical poisoning, but that applt. had nothing to do with her death; but that deceased had herself taken arsenic by accident or had committed suicide by taking arsenic; applt. explaining his possession of arsenic by saying that he bought it to destroy weeds in the garden. At the trial

arsenical poisoning. In order to show that the poisoning was designed & not accidental, the Crown offered evidence to prove that a former husband of prisoner had been taken suddenly ill after eating food prepared by her, & that the circumstances & symptoms attending his illness & death were similar to those attending the illness & death of the second husband, & that such symptoms were those of arsenical poisoning.—Held: the evidence was admissible.—R. v. STERNAMAN (1897), 29 O. R. 33.—CAN.

3982 ii. ———.]—Where on the trial for murder of A. by antimonial poisoning evidence that the prisoner, six months subsequently to the alleged murder of A. administered antimony to B. was tendered & admitted, & the judge directed the jury that they might make any use of such evidence, & draw any inference they thought fit from it:—Held: as there was not sufficient proof that the two poisonings formed part of the same transaction, or were effected in pursuance of a common design, the conviction must be quashed.—It. v. HALL (1887), 5 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 93.—N.Z.

n. — Murderous assault.]—Upon the trial of prisoner for the murder of R., the testimony of D. as to a murderous assault alleged by him to have been made upon him by prisoner near to the building where prisoner falsely said that R. was, & within a few yards of the spot where R.'s body was afterwards found, & within about an hour after prisoner had, under false pretences, induced R. to leave D. & go alone with him to that locality:—Held: such evidence was properly admitted in evidence.—R. v. GIBSON (1913), 28 O. L. R. 525; 4 O. W. N. 1167.—CAN.

o. — Murder & theft.]—Where P. introduced himself as a raja's or evidence was admitted which tended to show that applt., some eight months after the death of his wife, attempted to poison another person by administering arsenic in a buttered scone at tea. At the time applt. was arrested arsenic was found on him, & there was evidence of the purchase of arsenic by applt. shortly before the occasions when the prosecution alleged that he administered the arsenic to his wife. There was also evidence that, on the occasions in question, applt. was the only person who had the opportunity of administering arsenic to his wife:—Held: the evidence in question was properly admitted; it being an essential part of the case for the prosecution to prove that arsenic was designedly administered by applt. to his wife, any evidence tending to prove design must tend to rebut the suggestion of accident or suicide: the evidence was also admissible to rebut the suggestion that applt. kept the arsenic for an innocent purpose, namely, to destroy weeds.—R. v. ARMSTRONG, [1922] 2 K. B. 555; 91 L. J. K. B. 904; 127 L. T. 221; 86 J. P. 209; 38 T. L. R. 631; 66 Sol. Jo. 540; 27 Cox, C. C. 232; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

3989. — Suffocation of infants.]—Upon the trial of a prisoner for the murder of her infant by suffocation in bed:—Held: evidence tendered to prove the previous death of her other children at early ages was admissible, although such evidence did not show the causes from which such children died.—R. v. RODEN (1874), 12 Cox, C. C. 630.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3990. — Bodies of infants buried in premises occupied by accused.]—MAKIN v. A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES, No. 3924, ante.

3991. — Stabbing.]—R. v. CRICKMER, No. 3920, ante.

3992. — Dead bodies found in bath.]—Evidence of a confidential communication between a prisoner & his solr. is admissible if the consultation with the solr., in the course of which such communication was made, was sought by prisoner for the purpose of ascertaining how to commit the offence charged against him, or whether it was necessary or expedient to commit it in order to obtain a desired end.

Applt. was convicted of the murder of B., a woman with whom he had contracted a bigamous marriage. She was found dead in her bath at a time when applt. was in the house, & it was proved that he benefited pecuniarily by her death. Evidence was admitted at the trial that two other women with whom he had subsequently contracted bigamous marriages had also been found dead in their baths in very similar circumstances & that zamindar's son to a prostitute who passed into his keeping & he then introduced G. as his darwan, & both afterwards visited her till the night of Dec. 9, 1914, when she was found next morning to have been murdered & robbed, & accused were tried on charges of murder, conspiracy to rob, theft & abetment of each other in the commission of the theft & murder:—Held: evidence that P. had similarly introduced himself as a wealthy Babu, successively in 1915 & 1918 to three other prostitutes who each became his mistress, that he introduced G. as his darwan, that both visited the women & suddenly disappeared, & that their disappearance was followed by the women in each case losing their money or ornaments was not admissible.—It. v. PANCHU DAS (1920), I. L. R. 47 Calc. 671.—IND.

p. — Statements made by accused.]—Where an accused was in each of these cases also applt. benefited pecuniarily by the woman's death:—Held: as there was prima facie evidence, apart from that of the deaths of the other women, that applt. committed the act with which he was charged, the evidence in question was admissible to show that the act charged had been committed, that is, had been designed.

Qu.: whether the evidence in question would have been admissible in the absence of prima facie evidence.—R. v. SMITH (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2153; 114 L. T. 239; 80 J. P. 31; 31 T. L. R. 617; 59 Sol. Jo. 704; 25 Cox, C. C. 271; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 229, C. C. A.

ii. Abortion.

3993. Procured by drugs—Administration of drugs at other times to same woman.—The intent with which poison is administered for the purpose of procuring abortion may be shown by evidence of similar medicines administered subsequently to the felony charged.—R. v. CALDER (1844), 2 L. T. O. S. 518; 1 Cox, C. C. 348.

3994. ———.—R. v. PERRY (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 539; 2 Cox, C. C. 223.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Cramp (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 307.

3995. ———.—On the trial of an indictment under Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), s. 58, for administering "a noxious thing to the jurors unknown," evidence of the nature of a noxious thing administered to the same individual after the date charged in the indictment, but containing a common ingredient with that charged, is admissible to prove the nature of that administered on the earlier date.

Where there had been a series of attempts to procure abortion, evidence of these is admissible to prove that a drug administered on a certain occasion was administered with that intent.—R. v. PALM (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 253, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Starkie, [1922] 2 K. B. 275.

3996. ———.—Use of instruments on other women.—Applt., a medical man, was charged upon an indictment containing separate counts—(a) for having used instruments with intent to procure the miscarriage of three women, & (b) for having administered & supplied poison or other noxious thing to a fourth woman with the like intent. All four charges were tried together, & upon counts (a) applt. was acquitted, but upon counts (b) he was convicted:—Held: the evidence against applt. upon counts (a) was admissible upon the trial of counts (b), & vice versa, not to prove the use of the instrument or the administration of the drug, but to rebut the defence of innocent intention; & that the judge at the trial was right in allowing all the counts to be tried together.—R. v. STARKIE, [1922] 2 K. B. 275; 91 L. J. K. B. 663; 86 J. P. 74; 38 T. L. R. 181; 66 Sol. Jo. 300; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 61, C. C. A.

3997. Procured by instruments—Evidence of use of instruments at other times on same woman.—At the trial of applt. upon a charge of having used an instrument upon a woman in order to procure miscarriage, his defence was that he had done nothing to her, but that she had performed such an operation upon herself. His counsel, in cross-examination, sought to ask questions of a witness for the prosecution as to statements made by the woman, who was dead, some time before her miscarriage that she intended to operate upon herself, & shortly after her miscarriage that she had operated upon herself; but the learned judge refused to permit these questions:—Held: these statements, being mere hearsay, were not admissible in evidence for the defence.

After objection taken applt. was asked questions in cross-examination to show that he had performed an illegal operation on deceased in Sept. 1911:—Held: these questions in cross-examination were admissible.—R. v. THOMSON, [1912] 3 K. B. 19; 81 L. J. K. B. 892; 107 L. T. 464; 76 J. P. 431; 28 T. L. R. 478; 23 Cox, C. C. 187; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 276, C. C. A.

3998. ———.—Use of instruments on other women.—Upon the trial of an indictment under Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), s. 58, for "feloniously & unlawfully using a certain instrument, to wit, a quill, with intent to procure a miscarriage," it is relevant, in order to prove the intent, to show that at other times, both before & after the offence charged, prisoner had caused miscarriages by similar means.—R. v. DALE (1889), 16 Cox, C. C. 703.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

3999. ———.—R. v. BOND, No. 3921, ante.

4000. ———.—R. v. LOVEGROVE, No. 3971, ante.

4001. ———.—Administration of drugs at other times to same woman.—Deft. was indicted for using a certain instrument with intent to procure miscarriage:—Held: the fact of his having administered savine & ergot of rye, with the same intent, was admissible in evidence.—R. v. WARD (1840), 4 J. P. 587.

charged with the murder of an Indian storekeeper, & evidence had been given of the fact that such a crime had been committed & of the connection of the accused therewith:—Held: evidence of statements made by the accused at various dates prior to the alleged murder to the effect that he intended to rob & kill Indian storekeepers in general, or the deceased man in particular, in the manner in which it was alleged by the Crown that the latter had actually been robbed & murdered, was admissible against accused.—R. v. MPANZA (1915), App. D. 348.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) ii.

q. Procured by instruments.—Upon an indictment of defts. P. & T., for procuring an abortion, the case for the Crown was that defts. had performed an unlawful operation upon a certain woman, for the purpose of procuring a miscarriage. Of this there was evidence to go to the jury. The defence was then entered upon, & the deft., P., swore that the operation was performed for a lawful purpose, & without any criminal intent. He was cross-examined as to whether he had not, some few weeks previously, performed an operation upon a person then in ct. He denied having done so, & all knowledge of having treated her at all. This person & the man whom she had subsequently married were, against objection, called in reply, & gave evidence that P. had been employed to operate & had operated upon her so as to procure a miscarriage. It was contended that this evidence was admissible, as tending to rebut the evidence of P., or, in other words, to prove the unlawful intent:—Held: the testimony was inadmissible.—R. v. POLLARD & TINSLEY (1909), 19 O. L. R. 96; 14 O. W. R. 399; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 74.—CAN.

r. ———.—Whether letters found on accused's premises admissible—To show accused an abortionist.—On a trial for murder where death was alleged to have been caused by an illegal operation performed by prisoner, counsel for prisoner objected to the production in evidence of two letters found in prisoner's shop, & to other evidence, all of which tended to show that prisoner's house was known as a place where abortion might be procured. The anticipated defence as shown by prisoner's depositions was that prisoner did no nursing, & that deceased had come into prisoner's house without her knowledge or sanction & as an intruder, & it was suggested the operation must have been performed on deceased prior to her arrival at the house. The judge presiding at the trial admitted the evidence as anticipating & negating the defence that deceased had come into the house as an intruder:—Held: the letters were properly admitted.—R. v. O'SHAUGHNESSY, R. v. HASSELL & CAMPBELL (1912), 31 N. Z. L. R. 928.—N. Z.

s. Undertaking to procure abortion on another woman.—In a trial on a charge of procuring abortion:—Held: competent to lead proof to show that some months before the act charged the accused had undertaken to procure abortion in the case of another woman.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence: Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) ii., iii., iv. & v.]

4002. — Administration of drugs to other women.—R. v. STARKIE, No. 3996, ante.

iii. Rape, Incest and Carnal Knowledge.

4003. Rape—Other rapes on same person.—On an indictment for rape evidence may be given of several rapes on the same woman at the same time.—R. v. FOLKES & LUDDS (1832), 1 Mood. C. C. 354, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. MITCHEL (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 1.

4004. ——R. v. REARDEN, No. 3914, ante.

4005. Assault with intent to commit rape—Previous attempts.—On an indictment for an assault with intent to commit a rape, evidence that prisoner on a prior occasion had taken liberties with the prosecutrix, is not receivable to show prisoner's intent.—R. v. LLOYD (1836), 7 C. & P. 318.

4006. — Other similar assault.—On an indictment charging a misdemeanour for an assault in attempting to commit a rape on B., with a count for an assault of the same nature on a different day on D., it is competent to the prosecutor, not only in law, but by ordinary practice, to give evidence of both assaults.—R. v. DAVIES (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 328.

4007. Offences against Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69)—Limit of time.—When the prosecution is bound by statute to be commenced within three months of the offence charged evidence of similar prior offences by prisoner is not admissible either in chief or to rebut prisoner's denial of those prior offences on cross-examination.—R. v. BEIGHTON (1897), 18 Cox, C. C. 535.

Annotation:—Dtd. R. v. SHELLAKER, [1914] 1 K. B. 414.

4008. ——On an indictment for carnal knowledge on a given date, the jury must be distinctly directed to disregard any evidence of a similar offence on another previous date which may have been given.

Qu.: whether such evidence may be given in respect of an occasion not within the statutory period of six months prescribed in the second proviso of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 5 as amended by Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1904 (c. 15), s. 27.—R. v. PROBERTS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

—H.M. ADVOCATE v. RAE (1888), 15 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 80.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) iii.

t. Rape—Previous familiar acts.—On the trial of a prisoner charged with rape, evidence may be given to show previous acts of familiarity between the prosecutrix & accused.—R. v. FITZGIBBON (1885), 11 V. L. R. 232.—AUS.

a. — Other rapes on other women.—On an indictment for rape upon one woman, evidence by the Crown of a rape committed upon another woman, some few minutes after the rape charged in the indictment was committed, when the two women & accused were working in the field together, & the second woman had made an attempt to assist & defend the first, is not admissible, either as part of the res gestæ or otherwise; nor is evidence of an assault upon the second woman many months before, admissible.—R. v. PAUL (1912), 21 W. L. R. 699; 2 W. W. R. 616; 5 D. L. R. 347.—CAN.

b. Carnally knowing girl under sixteen—Similar acts by accused—Prior to date charged.—On a charge of carnally knowing a girl under 16 years of age, evidence of a continuous series of similar acts with the same girl during the 6 months prior to the date on which the act charged was committed & continuing up to the date charged:—Held: to have been rightly admitted.—R. v. GELLIN (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 27.—AUS.

c. Carnal knowledge of girl under fourteen—Indecent assault—Similar acts.—R. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

d. Carnal knowledge of girl under sixteen—Subsequent acts with same girl.—Accused was charged with carnally knowing a girl in his employ who at the date of the offence charged was 15 years & 10 months old. At the trial the admission of evidence as to his conduct with the girl subsequently to the date of the offence charged was objected to. The prisoner was convicted, & a case was stated for the opinion of the Ct. of Appeal:—Held: the evidence was admissible.—R. v. LANGDON, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 495.—N.Z.

4011 i. Incest.—Prisoner was pre-

4009. ——R. v. SHELLAKER, [1914] 1 K. B. 414; 83 L. J. K. B. 413; 110 L. T. 351; 78 J. P. 159; 30 T. L. R. 194; 21 Cox, C. C. 86; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 240, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. ROGERS (1914), 111 L. T. 1115; R. v. LOVEGROVE, [1920] 3 K. B. 643.

4010. ——On the trial of prisoner charged with having had carnal knowledge of a girl aged fourteen, the prosecutrix stated in her examination-in-chief that on the day after the connection had taken place prisoner told her that he had previously done the same thing to another girl, who was alleged by the prosecution to have been under sixteen at the time. Prisoner gave evidence, & he was asked in cross-examination, & the questions were allowed by the judge, whether he had made the statement attributed to him by the prosecutrix & whether it was true. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: prisoner was bound to answer the questions, because, although they tended to show that he had committed another offence or was of bad character, the questions were admissible to show that he was guilty of the offence wherewith he was then charged.—R. v. CHITSON, [1909] 2 K. B. 945; 79 L. J. K. B. 10; 102 L. T. 224; 73 J. P. 491; 25 T. L. R. 818; 53 Sol. Jo. 746; 22 Cox, C. C. 286; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 325, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. ELLIS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 41; R. v. BALL, R. v. BALL, [1911] A. C. 47; R. v. KURASCH, [1915] 2 K. B. 749.

See, now, Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1922 (c. 56).

4011. Incest.—On indictments under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), evidence of similar offences to that charged is admissible.—R. v. ALLEN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

4012. ——In an indictment under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), if there is evidence to go to the jury, that the female was a consenting party, they must be clearly cautioned that, if they come to that conclusion, her evidence must be corroborated, as she then becomes an accomplice.

sented & found guilty on a charge of incest with his daughter. Prisoner made a written statement that on a previous occasion some months before he had committed a grossly indecent act on the person of his daughter & had attempted to do so on another occasion. Prisoner's counsel raised as a defence that in all the circumstances of the case it was impossible & incredible for a man to commit the offence with which prisoner was charged:—Held: to meet this defence the statement of his former conduct was properly admissible in evidence against prisoner at the trial.—R. v. BECHAZ (1899), 24 V. L. R. 639.—AUS.

4011 ii. ——Prisoner was charged, in three counts of one indictment, with having committed incest with his daughter on three separate occasions. In such case, where the proof of the offence on one occasion is inferential only, evidence of misconduct of accused with the same person on other occasions, & generally, evidence of a relationship between accused & that person, is admissible in support of the charge of misconduct on the particular occasion.—R. v. HONE MAAKA MOKOMOKO (1904), 23 N. Z. L. R. 829.—N.Z.

Semble: evidence of acts of incest subsequent to the date charged is admissible on the trial of such an indictment.—R. v. STONE (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

4013. —[—]R. v. BALL, R. v. BALL, No. 3959, ante.

4014. —[—]The rule as to the corroboration of the evidence of accomplices applies to female witnesses who may be liable to prosecution under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45).

Where such corroboration exists, the evidence of such a witness of other incestuous acts between the same parties, not charged in the indictment, is, on the authority of R. v. Ball, R. v. Ball, No. 3959, ante, admissible, but if such evidence is uncorroborated the jury should be warned against it.—R. v. BLOODWORTH (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

iv. Other Offences against the Person.

4015. Indecent exposure.—[—]PERKINS v. JEFFERY, No. 3941, ante.

4016. Sodomy.—[—]R. v. COLE, No. 3848, ante.

4017. —[—]R. v. BARRON, No. 3940, ante.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (i) iv.

e. Sodomy—Previous acts with same person.—[—]Upon an indictment for sodomy evidence is not admissible of the commission by the same offence with the same person on other occasions prior to the date alleged in the indictment.—R. v. ROBINSON (1909), 9 S. R. N. S. W. 728; 6 N. S. W. W. N. 10.—AUS.

f. —[—]R. v. IMAN DIN (1910), 15 B. C. R. 476.—CAN.

g. —[—]Previous act with other boy—Subsequent acts with boy charged.—[—]Prisoner being charged with having carnal connection with a boy on a certain day, evidence that he had on previous occasions had connection with another boy, & that he had on certain days following the date of the alleged offence had connection with the boy in relation to whom the offence is charged is inadmissible.—R. v. HERBERT, [1918] V. L. R. 343.—AUS.

4016 i. —[—]Prisoner indicted on 3 counts in one indictment; (1) indecently assaulting boy G. in Dec. 1914; (2) indecently assaulting boy R. in Feb. 1915; (3) indecently assaulting boy M. in Mar. 1915.

Prisoner's relation to each boy was master & pupil. First two offences alleged to have taken place in prisoner's room at industrial school, of which prisoner was attendant & boys inmates, third in boys' dormitory at same school.

Before trial counsel for prisoner applied to have counts in indictment severed, & said defence was absolute denial of presence of the boys in prisoner's room except in two instances, as to which innocent explanation of medical treatment was offered, & absolute denial of alleged acts at boys' beds.

Judge refused to sever counts in indictment & admitted evidence of conduct of accused towards six boys. Prisoner was convicted on first count & acquitted on other two:—Held: evidence of 5 other boys was admissible, & conviction should be upheld.—R. v. ROGAN, [1915] 35 N. Z. L. R. 265.—N.Z.

h. Assault on children—Previous assaults.—[—]Husband & wife were charged with assaulting one of their minor children on certain specific occasions:—Held: evidence of other assaults by the accused on the child, of its continued ill-treatment prior to the alleged assaults, & of its general physical condition was admissible to show that the alleged assaults were in excess of legal chastisement.—R. v. JANKE (1913), T. P. D. 382.—S. AF.

k. Indecent assault on child—Indecent assault on previous day.—[—]Prisoner was charged with indecently assaulting a child on May 22 & June 5. The child gave evidence describing her first meeting with prisoner about May 18 & his indecently assaulting her on that day. She then proceeded to describe the assaults upon the dates mentioned in the presentment:—Held: the evidence of what occurred at the first meeting was properly admitted although it disclosed an offence committed on a day not charged in the presentment, & was not necessary for the purpose of explaining any equivocal act on the days charged.—R. v. WHITEHEAD (1897), 23 V. L. R. 239.—AUS.

l. —[—]Subsequent acts.—[—]Upon the trial of prisoner, a school teacher, for an indecent assault upon one of his scholars, it appeared that he forbade prosecutrix telling her parents what had happened, & they did not hear of it for two months. After prosecutrix had given evidence of the assault, evidence was tendered of the conduct of prisoner towards her subsequent to the assault:—Held: the evidence was admissible, as tending to show the indecent quality of the assault, & as being in effect a part or continuation of the same transaction as that with which the prisoner was charged.—R. v. CHUTE (1882), 46 U. C. R. 555.—CAN.

m. Manslaughter of child—Previous treatment of child by accused.—[—]Where a mother was charged with manslaughter in causing the death of her child, & the question was whether what was done was done bona fide by way of correction, or whether mother had been actuated by malice or ill-will towards the child:—Held: evidence of the previous treatment of the child by the accused & the history of the relationship between them had been rightly admitted.—R. v. DRAKE (1902), 22 N. Z. L. R. 478.—N.Z.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) v.

n. Larceny—Articles found in possession of accused—Similar to articles alleged stolen.—[—]On a charge of larceny, similarity of goods found in possession of the accused with goods alleged to have been stolen, may be evidence both of the fact of the theft & of the identity of the goods.—R. v. ROCHE (1887), 13 V. L. R. 150.—AUS.

o. —[—]Evidence of similar acts—Proof of fraudulent intent.—[—]Fraudu-

4018. Wounding.—[—]R. v. VOKE, No. 3943, ante.

4019. —[—]Under an indictment for feloniously wounding, a blow subsequent to that by which the injury was inflicted may be proved, in order to show the intent with which the first was given.—R. v. MAHONY (1848), 12 J. P. 377.

4020. Neglect of children.—[—]Defts. were indicted for neglecting their children between Nov. 9, 1900, & Apr. 9, 1901. Evidence was tendered on behalf of the prosecution of neglect before the above-mentioned dates, but was not admitted.—R. v. MILLER (1901), 65 J. P. 313.

v. Larceny and Receiving Stolen Property.

4021. Larceny.—[—]R. v. MAY (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 434; 1 Cox, C. C. 236.

4022. —[—]Attempt to incite to commission of offence.—[—]R. v. HILL & LANE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 158, C. C. A.

4023. —[—]Applt. was convicted of stealing £30. A girl had been sent to get money from a bank. A man named Alexander, by pretending that there was something irregular about the cheque, induced her to part with the money.

lent intent is an essential element of the offence of stealing under Criminal Code, 1902, W. A., s. 369. On a prosecution for such offence evidence may be given tending to prove the commission by prisoner of other acts similar to those which form the basis of the offence charged for the purpose of proving that that offence is part of a fraudulent scheme or system, & to rebut an anticipated defence that the acts constituting the offence charged if done by the prisoner were done innocently, accidentally, or inadvertently, & not intentionally. Such evidence having been rightly admitted does not afterwards become irrelevant merely because the only defence actually presented to the jury is a denial of the acts constituting the offence charged.—R. v. FINLAYSON (1912), 14 C. L. R. 675.—AUS.

p. —[—]Evidence of similar offences by accused.—[—]Deft. was convicted on a charge that he did unlawfully steal one Ford motor-car of the value of $400 or thereabouts, the property of R. The evidence showed that R. gave another car to deft. to sell, who disposed of it for the sum of $300 in cash & a Ford car; that deft. appropriated the cash received to his own use & made use of the Ford car for his own purposes, & that R. after fruitless attempts extending over some months, & being unable to get either car or money, caused deft. to be arrested on the charge:—Held: evidence was given of a similar offence committed by deft., as no substantial wrong or miscarriage had been occasioned by the introduction of the evidence referred to, the conviction must stand.—R. v. EATON (1920), 54 N. S. R. 99; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 31.—CAN.

q. —[—]Proof of fraudulent intent—Possession & pawning of stolen tie-pin.—[—]Accused was charged with stealing a tie-pin on Nov. 15 from B., who was unable to say when he last saw the tie-pin. A witness testified that accused pawned the pin which B. identified on Nov. 8 & released it on Nov. 15. The evidence was objected to as implicating the accused in an offence other than offence charged:—Held: the evidence was relevant to the issue & therefore admissible.—R. v. PERKINS, [1920] App. D. 307.—S. AF.

r. —[—]Evidence of previous conviction to prove knowledge of premises.—[—]On a trial for larceny, evidence that the prisoner had been previously convicted, given incidentally to show his acquaintance with the premises

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) v. & vi.]

Applt. was clearly acting with Alexander & the main ground of this appeal is that evidence was admitted to show that a week later applt. was assisting Alexander in the same way. In our opinion that evidence was admissible (PICKFORD, J.).—R. v. ADAMSON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 205, C. C. A.

4024. Receiving stolen property—Proof of guilty knowledge.]—On an indictment against a receiver for receiving several articles, if it appear that they were received at different times, the prosecutor may be put to his election.

But evidence may be given of all the receipts, for the purpose of proving guilty knowledge in the receiving, at least, of all prior to that on which the prosecutor elects to proceed.—R. v. DUNN (1826), 1 Mood. C. C. 146, C. C. R.

4025. ———.]—If prisoners be charged by several indictments with receiving stolen goods:—Semble: in strict law, any receiving that was before the one in the indictment which is being tried may be given in evidence, although itself the subject of another indictment.

When, before the committing magistrate, one of the prisoners was examined as a witness against the other, & after being examined was charged as a prisoner:—Held: what prisoner said before the magistrate as a witness could not be given in evidence against her on her trial for the offence.—R. v. DAVIS (1833), 6 C. & P. 177.

Annotations:—Reffd. R. v. Laurent, Barrett & Weekes (1898), 62 J. P. 250. Mentd. R. v. Wiley (1850), 2 Den. 37.

4026. ———.]—R. v. HINLEY, No. 3894, ante.

4027. ———.]—R. v. SIRRELL (1851), cited in 2 Den. at p. 267.

Annotation:—Apprvd. R. v. Oddy (1851), 2 Den. 264.

4028. ———.]—R. v. ODDY, No. 4619, post.

4029. ———.]—On an indictment against A. for stealing, & B. for receiving goods, evidence that on various former occasions portions of the commodity stolen have been missed, & that prisoners have, after such occasion, been found selling such a commodity; & that on the last occasion it was part of what was stolen:—Held: sufficient to fix the receiver with a guilty knowledge.—R. v. NICHOLLS & CLARK (1858), 1 F. & F. 51.

4030. ——— Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 19.]—Upon the trial of an indictment for larceny & receiving certain stolen goods, evidence may be given under the above Act that there was found in the possession of prisoner other property stolen within the preceding period of twelve months, although such other property is the subject of another indictment against him, to be subsequently tried at the same assizes.—R. v. JONES & HAYES (1877), 14 Cox, C. C. 3.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Bromhead (1906), 71 J. P. 103.

4031. ———.]—In order to show guilty knowledge under the above Act, it is not sufficient merely to prove that "other property stolen within the preceding period of twelve months" had at some time previously been dealt with by prisoner; it must be proved that such "other property" was found in the possession of prisoner at the time when he is found in possession of the property which is the subject of the indictment.—R. v. DRAGE (1878), 14 Cox, C. C. 85.

Annotations:—Follid. R. v. Carter (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 522; R. v. Hardy (1910), 74 J. P. 396.

4032. ———.]—Upon the trial of a prisoner for receiving stolen property with a guilty knowledge, evidence was admitted that shortly before the stealing of the property in question, he had been in possession of other stolen property of a similar character, though he had parted with the possession of such other property before the date of the stealing of the property charged in the indictment:—Held: such evidence was inadmissible, & did not fall within the words of sect. 19 of the above Act.—R. v. CARTER (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 522; 53 L. J. M. C. 96; 50 L. T. 596; 48 J. P. 456; 32 W. R. 663; 15 Cox, C. C. 448, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Follid. R. v. Hardy (1910), 74 J. P. 396. Reffd. R. v. Bond (1906), 75 L. J. K. B. 693.

4033. ———.]—Where a person is indicted for feloniously stealing & receiving certain property, evidence, under the above Act, that there was found in the possession of such person other property, stolen within the preceding period of twelve months, ought not to be admitted if the real offence charged is stealing & not receiving. Such evidence, if properly admitted in the first instance either under the above Act, or to negative the defence of accident, ought to be withdrawn by the judge from the consideration of the jury if the prosecution fails to prove that such property so found was stolen property.—R. v. GIRON & GIRON (1906), 70 J. P. 514; 22 T. L. R. 720; 50 Sol. Jo. 651, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Smith, [1918] 2 K. B. 415.

4034. ———.]—Upon the trial of a prisoner for receiving stolen property, evidence having been given that the stolen property was found in the possession of pawnbrokers with whom prisoner had pawned them, evidence was admitted, with a view of showing guilty knowledge, that prisoner had been convicted within the preceding five years of an offence involving fraud or dishonesty:—Held: (1) the evidence of such previous conviction was admissible under the above Act; (2) a prisoner who refuses to give evidence

where the larceny was committed is admissible.—R. v. FOWLER (1884), 3 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 64.—N.Z.

s. — Stealing cattle — Obliterating branding marks — Possession of branding irons capable of causing such obliteration.]—R. v. COLLYNS (1898), 3 Terr. L. R. 82.—CAN.

4024 i. Receiving stolen property—Proof of guilty knowledge—Sheep—Stealing & receiving stolen lambs before that date.]—On a presentment for feloniously receiving a sheep knowing it to have been stolen, evidence that accused a few days before the date of the alleged receiving stole certain lambs belonging to a different owner, & that a few days after the date of the alleged receiving he had in his possession not only the sheep but the stolen lambs & also another stolen sheep belonging to a third owner, is not admissible.—R. v. ENNETT, [1905] V. L. R. 718.—AUS.

4024 ii. ———.]—On an indictment for receiving goods knowing them to have been stolen, in order to show a guilty knowledge on the part of prisoner, evidence was admitted that the stolen property was found in prisoner's house; & this although distinct indictments were found against prisoner for receiving these last-mentioned goods. Finding stolen plate in the prisoner's house six days after it had been stolen:—Held: to raise a presumption against prisoner by the possession of it; aliter, as to goods five or six months stolen.—R. v. COOTE (1842), Arm. M. & O. 337.—IR.

4024 iii. ———.]—Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 262, sub-s. 2 (a), is not confined either to cases where the other property, evidence of the finding of which in deft.'s possession is sought to be given, is property obtained by means of the same crime as that by means of which the property which is the subject of the charge was obtained, or to cases where the other property is found in deft.'s possession at the same time as that which is the subject of the charge, but applies to all cases where any other property obtained by means of any such crime or act as is mentioned in above sub-sect. has been found in deft.'s possession at any time within twelve months of the charge on which he is being tried being first made against him.—R. v. WILKINSON (1898), 17 N. Z. L. R. 1.—N.Z.

a. ——— Evidence of previous conviction within five years.]—Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (c. 112), on his own behalf, but who gives evidence on behalf of a fellow-prisoner, is liable under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (e), to be cross-examined in order to show that he himself is guilty of the offence charged.—R. v. ROWLAND, [1910] 1 K. B. 458; 79 L. J. K. B. 327; 102 L. T. 112; 74 J. P. 144; 26 T. L. R. 202; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 277, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (1) Reid. R. v. Hardy (1910), 74 J. P. 396.

4035. ———.—[.]—On a trial for receiving stolen property the evidence of the thief that he has sold stolen property to deft. at any previous time is admissible to prove guilty knowledge; it is not affected by the time limitation of the above Act.—R. v. POWELL (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Carter (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 192.

4036. ———.—[.]—R. v. HARDING (1909), 53 Sol. Jo. 762; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

4037. ———.—[.]—On the trial of a prisoner for receiving goods knowing them to be stolen, it was proposed, under the authority of the first paragraph of sect. 19 of the above Act, to call evidence that there was found in the possession of prisoner other property stolen by the same thief within the preceding period of twelve months, but parted with by prisoner by selling it or pawning it before the property the subject of the indictment had been found in his possession:—Held: the proposed evidence was inadmissible, as it was necessary, as a preliminary to calling such evidence, to prove that the property stolen within the preceding twelve months had been found in the actual physical possession of prisoner at the time of his arrest, or at the time when it was alleged the other stolen property was found upon him.—R. v. HARDY (1910), 74 J. P. 396.

See, now, Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 43 (1).

4038. ———.—Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 43 (1).—[.]—The evidence which may be given under the above section by the prosecution as to the finding of stolen property in prisoner's possession is not limited to the fact of its having been so found, but includes evidence as to the circumstances in which it was found & as to statements made at the time by prisoner in explanation of the property being found in his possession, & further, that the evidence as to its being stolen property need not be given before, but may be given after, the evidence as to its being found in prisoner's possession, & in the event of a failure by the prosecution to prove, with regard to a portion of it, that it was stolen property, such failure will not, if substantially all the property is proved to have been stolen, be a ground for quashing the conviction.—R. v. SMITH, [1918] 2 K. B. 415; 87 L. J. K. B. 1023; 119 L. T. 584;

s. 19, enacts that where proceedings are taken against any person for having received goods knowing them to be stolen, or for having in his possession stolen property, & "evidence has been given that the stolen property has been found in his possession," then evidence of previous convictions within five years against accused of any offence involving fraud or dishonesty may be given at any stage of the proceedings, in order to prove guilty knowledge:—Held: under this enactment previous convictions may be proved if evidence has been given that accused had the stolen goods in his possession, actually or constructively, at any time after they had been stolen.—WATSON v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1894), 21 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 26; 31 Sc. L. R. 339; 1 S. L. T.

468.—SCOT.

b. ———.—Possession of notes unaccounted for—Similar to notes stolen.—[.]—In a case of theft of notes of large value, possession of similar notes unaccounted for three weeks after the date of the theft was evidence from which complicity in the theft might be inferred by the jury.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. BROWNE, BURNS & WILLIAMS (1903), 6 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 24; 41 Sc. L. R. 136; 11 S. L. T. 353.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (h) vi.

4039 i. Similar defalcations or entries in books.—[.]—Prisoner, a clerk in a post office, having failed to account for moneys received by him in the course

34 T. L. R. 480; 26 Cox, C. C. 321; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 151, C. C. A.

vi. Embezzlement.

4039. Similar defalcations or entries in books.—[.]—Prisoner was indicted for embezzlement; the evidence being that it was prisoner's duty to make out weekly accounts of the payments made by him, by entering them in a book, & adding them up at the end of each week. On three several occasions within six months prisoner entered the payments made by him correctly, but in adding up the items made the totals £2 greater than they really were, & took credit with his employers for the larger amount. These were the cases on which the indictment was founded. At the trial evidence was tendered that on a series of occasions before & after those mentioned in the indictment, precisely similar errors had been made by prisoner, & advantage taken of them by him, & was objected to:—Held: to explain motives & intentions this evidence was admissible.—R. v. RICHARDSON (1861), 2 F. & F. 343; 8 Cox, C. C. 448.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Stephens (1888), 58 L. T. 776. Reid. R. v. Balls (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 328; R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

4040. ———.—[.]—Prisoner, a member of a Friendly Soc., was employed to receive the weekly payments made by the members. He gave correct receipts to the members, but omitted to enter in the contribution & cash books a large number of the sums so received. On being called for an explanation, he admitted that he had received the sums so omitted:—Held: he was guilty of embezzlement.

Upon the trial these books were tendered generally in evidence, & received; although it was objected that the evidence ought to be confined to the entries forming the subject of the indictment:—Held: they were rightly admitted.—R. v. PROUD (1861), L. C. & Ca. 97; 31 L. J. M. C. 71; 5 L. T. 331; 25 J. P. 772; 10 W. R. 62; 9 Cox, C. C. 22; sub nom. R. v. BOND, 8 Jur. N. S. 142, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Balls (1871), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 328. Mentd. R. v. Bruen (1863), 9 Cox, C. C. 398; R. v. Tyne (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 177; Gordon v. Jennings (1882), 46 L. T. 534.

4041. ———.—[.]—An indictment charged a prisoner with having as a booking clerk of certain steamship owners embezzled the moneys of his masters on three separate occasions, the charges being contained in three counts of the same indictment. In support of the first count it was proved, amongst other things, that prisoner received money for the carriage of animals by steamer which it was his duty to pay over to his masters' cashier; in support of the second count, that he was supplied with a number of tickets for issue to passengers by his masters' steamers, which purported to be numbered of his duty as a servant of the Commonwealth, was charged with misappropriation of public moneys. At the trial evidence was admitted that a few months before the discovery of the deficiency prisoner had received moneys on behalf of the Savings Bank for which he failed to account. It was his duty to render an account of his dealings in connection with those latter moneys to the State:—Held: the evidence was properly admitted, the earlier transaction being sufficiently similar to & connected with the defalcation in respect of which prisoner was charged to render evidence of them relevant to the defence of mistake or accident that might have been set up.—HARDGRAVE v. R. (1906), 4 C. L. R. 232.—AUS.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) vi., vii. & viii.]

consecutively, but were not examined before they were delivered to him. The tickets were tied up in bundles, & were in prisoner's charge, he alone having a key of the case in which they were kept. Certain tickets, bearing numbers corresponding to the numbers of certain of the tickets in one of the bundles delivered to prisoner, assuming such bundle to have been complete, were put in evidence, which tickets were stamped in a manner similar to other tickets which prisoner had issued to passengers by one of the steamers, & which were notched as they would have been had they been used by passengers on board such steamer, & evidence was given that prisoner had not handed over to the cashier any money in respect of such tickets. Evidence was also given in support of the third count, but upon this count the jury found prisoner not guilty, while they convicted him upon the first & second counts. The jury were directed, as to the first count, that they might take into consideration the evidence given as to prisoner's conduct in relation to the matters charged in the second & the third counts; & as to the second count, that, if they were of opinion from the whole of the evidence that prisoner had issued the tickets for money in the ordinary way, & taken the money he had received for his own use, making false entries in his books to conceal it, they might find him guilty:—Held: the jury were justified in presuming from the evidence in support of the second count that prisoner had issued tickets & received money for them, which he had appropriated; & they were at liberty, in order to arrive at a conclusion upon any one of the charges, to take into consideration the evidence given in support of the other charges, notwithstanding the fact that upon one of such charges they found a verdict of not guilty.—R. v. STEPHENS (1888), 58 L. T. 776; 52 J. P. 823; 4 T. L. R. 479; 16 Cox, C. C. 387, C. C. R.

4042. Forged testimonials at entry into service.]—In an indictment for embezzlement, evidence may be given on the part of the prosecution to show that prisoner entered into the service of the prosecutor by means of forged testimonials to explain the animus with which the non-accounting may have taken place; but they should not be gone into till after the receipt & non-accounting has been proved.—R. v. SYMONDS (1850), 14 J. P. 500.

vii. Robbery, Menaces and Burglary.

4043. Robbery—Demand made by one of a mob—Evidence of demands made by mob elsewhere.]—If persons who had formed part of a mob, obtain money from a party by advising him to give money to the mob, & be indicted for this as a robbery, the prosecutor, to show that this was not bona fide advice, may give evidence of demands of money made by before & afterwards in the course of the same day, if any of the prisoners were present on those occasions.—R. v. WINKWORTH (1830), 4 C. & P. 444.

4044. Demanding with menaces.]—R. v. EGER-TON (1819), Russ. & Ry. 375, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Distd. Hollingham v. Head (1858), 4 C. B. N. S. 388. Refd. R. v. Ellis (1826), 6 B. & C. 145.

4045. Threatening letter—Evidence of other letters.]—R. v. ROBINSON (1796), 2 East, P. C. 1110; 2 Leach, 749.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Studer (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 1017.

4046. ———.]—R. v. WARD (1864), 10 Cox, C. C. 42.

4047. ———.]—On an indictment for sending a threatening letter demanding money, evidence of the contents of similar letters, themselves the subjects of untied indictments, is admissible.—R. v. GRAHAM (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 252, C. C. A.

4048. Verbal threat to accuse of unnatural crime—Evidence of other declarations.]—On the trial of an indictment for accusing a person of an unnatural crime with intent to extort money—prisoner being a soldier & the accusation having been made while he was on duty as sentry:—Held: evidence of declaration made by him on a former occasion, on coming off guard, that he had obtained money from a gentleman by threatening to take him to the guard-house & accuse him of an unnatural crime, was admissible.—R. v. COOPER (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 547.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Refd. R. v. McDonnell (1850), 5 Cox, C. C. 153.

4049. Threats in newspaper article—Evidence of other threats.]—R. v. BOYLE & MERCHANT, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; 83 L. J. K. B. 1801; 111 L. T. 638; 24 Cox, C. C. 406; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 180; sub nom. R. v. BOYLE, R. v. MERCHANT, 78 J. P. 390; 30 T. L. R. 521; 58 Sol. Jo. 673, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702. Refd. R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555.

4050. Burglary—Possession of goods stolen previously.]—In an indictment for burglary with intent to steal, it cannot be shown, with a view of proving the intent, that prisoner was in possession of other goods stolen from the house at a previous time.—R. v. ORIEL (1845), 9 J. P. 170, 171.

4051. Burglary with intent to commit rape—Subsequent immoral conduct.]—R. v. RODLEY, No. 3935, ante.

viii. False Pretences and obtaining Credit by Fraud.

4052. Obtaining property by false pretences—Other similar misrepresentations.]—In an indictment for obtaining goods under false pretences,

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (h) viii.

4052 i. Obtaining property by false pretences—Other similar representations.]—Prisoner was charged with obtaining 19s. from R. by falsely pretending that a worthless piece of paper (a tailor's advertisement) presented & delivered by him to her was a one-pound note. At the trial eight other similar pieces of paper were admitted in evidence. As to five of these R. swore that she received them from prisoner as good notes, the other three had been found on another person not before the ct., & they could not be traced to prisoner. It could not pick out the five pieces of paper she had received from prisoner from others:—Held: these three pieces of paper were wrongly received in evidence.—R. v. ALLEN (1872), 11 N. S. W. S. C. R. 23.—AUS.

4052 ii. ———.]—Prisoner was charged with having on Apr. 23, 1888, unlawfully falsely pretended that he was proprietor of an organised theatrical troupe, that the troupe were ready to travel, & that they had done good paying business up-country, & he had by these false pretences unlawfully obtained a sum of money from F. He was also charged on a second count with having on Sept. 6, 1889, falsely pretended that he was possessed of the goodwill of a theatrical business, & that he had a troupe organised & ready to start, & that by means of this false pretence he had obtained a sum of money from S.

The constable who arrested him gave evidence of searching prisoner's boxes, & stated in effect that prisoner tried to conceal the contents of one of the boxes which contained three agreements. These agreements were signed with prisoner's name with one exception which, though in the same handwriting, was signed in another name. The agreements all contained recitals that he, the prisoner, was the proprietor of a theatrical troupe, & of an advertising agency & of the goodwill of a theatrical business, & were intended to be made between prisoner & any one he could get to join him in the enterprise. The chairman of General Sessions directed a verdict of not guilty on the second count on the grounds that as to the first pretence there was evidence of previous misrepresentations to show the fraudulent course of dealing of prisoner is inadmissible.—R. v. RIDGEWAY (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 622.

4053. ———.]—A false & fraudulent statement to a pawnbroker that a chain offered as a pledge is of silver is indictable as a false pretence under 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 29: & upon the trial of such an indictment evidence is admissible of similar misrepresentations made to others about the same time, & of the possession of a considerable number of chains of the same kind.—R. v. ROEBUCK (1856), Dears. & B. 24; 25 L. J. M. C. 101; 27 L. T. O. S. 143; 20 J. P. 325; 2 Jur. N. S. 597; 4 W. R. 514; 7 Cox, C. C. 126, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Bryan (1857), 7 Cox, C. C. 312. Refd. R. v. Gardner (1856), Dears. & B. 40; R. v. Sherwood (1857), 7 Cox, C. C. 270; R. v. Goss, R. v. Itagg (1860), 29 L. J. M. C. 86; R. v. Light (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 865.

4054. ———.]—R. v. Holt, No. 3929, ante.

4055. ———.]—S. & H. were jointly indicted on counts for false pretences & a general count for conspiracy. S. was convicted on the counts for false pretences & both on the count for conspiracy. The evidence was that they were ostensibly carrying on business as publishers under the name of H. & Co., & that A. was the author of a book published by them. To force the sale of this book S. procured M. to write letters, purporting to come from a titled lady ordering a copy of the book & to address them to country booksellers. These letters were delivered by M. to S. & found their way by post to different country booksellers, & inclosed with them was a printed circular from the firm offering reduced terms for an order of seven copies or more. At the trial two witnesses produced a number of such letters some of which had been given to them by booksellers, other than those named in the indictment, who received them & some came to them from booksellers by post. There were no counts in the indictment alleging any intent to defraud by false pretences these particular booksellers but the count for conspiracy charged generally a conspiracy to defraud B. & others. It was also proved that H., after the frauds charged, had represented himself as H. & Co.:—Held: (1) evidence of attempts to defraud other booksellers than those named in the indictment was admissible under the count for conspiracy: (2) the representations of H., after the frauds charged, were admissible in evidence.—R. v. STENSON & HITCHMAN (1871), 25 L. T. 660; 36 J. P. 532; 12 Cox, C. C. 111, C. C. R.

4056. ———.]—(1) On the trial of an indictment for endeavouring to obtain an advance from a pawnbroker upon a ring by the false pretence that it was a diamond ring, evidence was admitted that two days before the transaction in no evidence that it was false, & as to the second alleged pretence that there was no evidence that it was made. Chairman left the evidence of the constable to the jury as evidence of fraudulent intent on the first count. Jury found prisoner guilty on first count:—Held: evidence of the constable was not admissible as evidence of fraudulent intent on the first count.—R. v. MOORE (1890), 16 V. L. R. 129.—AUS.

4052 iii. ———.]—On a charge of obtaining money by false pretences after evidence had been given of the alleged false representations, further evidence was admitted to show that the accused had on other occasions, to other people, made similar representations. It was not disputed that the representations if made were untrue:—Held: the evidence of similar acts was admissible on the question of accused's intent.—R. v. LUTHERBORROW (1912), 12 S. R. N. S. W. 289; 29 N. S. W. W. N. 46.—AUS.

4052 iv. ———.]—Accused was charged with falsely pretending to an hotel-keeper that the front sheet of a £5 note which had been separated from the back sheet was a genuine bank-note, by means of which false pretence he unlawfully attempted to obtain from the hotel-keeper the sum of £5. Expert evidence was given, without objection, that the front sheet by itself was not a valid note. Evidence of facts connected with another charge, in respect of the back of the note of which the accused had been acquitted was, after objection, also admitted:—Held: expert evidence & the evidence of the facts connected with the previous charge was rightly admitted.—R. v. Wilson (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 295; 33 N. S. W. W. N. 103.—AUS.

4052 v. ———.]—Accused was charged on three counts with having obtained money from the Naval Dept. by false pretences. In the cross-examination of one of the witnesses for the Crown evidence was elicited to the effect that the accused had repaid to the Dept. a certain sum of money. Crown called evidence to show that the repayment in question was in respect of alleged defalcations other than those charged:—Held: evidence objected was properly admitted on the ground that where one party introduces in evidence part of a transaction the other party may answer that evidence by proving the balance of the transaction, so as to show that the complexion sought to be given is not the right one.—R. v. DONOGHUE, [1917] V. L. R. 449.—AUS.

4052 vi. ———.]—R. v. DUROCHER (1882), 12 L. R. O. S. 697.—CAN.

4052 vii. ———.]—Deft. was indicted for obtaining from one H. a promissory note with intent to defraud. The evidence showed that on May 4, 1887, deft.'s agent called on H., & obtained from him an order addressed to deft. to deliver to H., at R., thirty bushels of Blue Mountain improved Seneca fall wheat, which H. was to put out on shares, & to pay deft. $240 when delivered, & to equally divide the produce thereof with the holder of the order, after deducting said amount. On May 23, deft. called, produced the order, & by false & fraudulent representations as to the quality of the wheat, & his having full control of it, its growth & yielding qualities, & that a note deft. requested him to sign was not negotiable, induced H. to sign the note. Evidence was received, under objection, of similar frauds on others, showing that deft. was at the time engaged in practising a series of systematic frauds on the community:—Held: the evidence objected to was properly receivable.—R. v. HOPE (1889), 17 O. R. 463.—CAN.

4052 viii. ———.]—R. v. McCULLOUGH & MCGILLIS (1901), 21 C. L. T. 306.—CAN.

4052 ix. ———.]—On an indictment charging accused with having obtained goods by false pretences from a co. with intent to defraud, so soon as it has been proved that he did the act charged, evidence of false representations made to persons other than the president & general manager of such co., on other & distinct occasions, is admissible to show that accused, at the time he made the false representations to the president & general manager of the co. on whose information the prosecution was brought, was pursuing a course of similar acts.—R. v. KOMIENSKY (1903), Q. R. 12 K. B. 463.—CAN.

4052 x. ———.]—On a charge against accused of cheating by falsely representing that he was the devan of an estate & could procure for the complainant appointment to the vacant post of manager to the estate, & thereby obtaining a sum of money as a pretended security deposit, evidence of instances of similar but unconnected transactions with other persons, before & after the date of the offence charged, is admissible not to establish the factum of the offence but to show that the transaction in issue was one of a systematic series of frauds, & that the intention of the accused on the particular occasion in question was dishonest & fraudulent.—R. v. DEBENDRA PRASAD (1909), 1 L. R. 36 Calc. 573.—IND.

4052 xi. ———.]—S., Y. & W. were charged with having cheated B. & P., & thereby obtained from them various sums of money:—Held: evidence was admissible that the same three persons had on other occasions made proposals of much the same kind to other persons to whom they told a story, similar in all essential details down to the name of the proposed lender of the money.—R. v. YAKUB ALI (1916), 1 L. R. 39 All. 273.—IND.

4052 xii. ———.]—At a trial of a charge of obtaining money by false representations, evidence was admitted of similar representations having been made by the accused to other persons on the same day:—Held: the evidence had been competently admitted.—GALLAGHER v. PATON, [1909] S. C. (J.) 50; 46 Sc. L. R. 654; 1 S. L. T. 399.—SCOT.

4052 xiii. ———.]—Where accused were charged with theft by means of false pretences in that they represented to one M. that certain pieces of glass were rough & uncut diamonds & thereby induced him to purchase them, & a witness was called who deposed that shortly prior to such representation the accused represented to him that they were selling diamonds:—Held: that as evidence of similar transactions was admissible to show guilty knowledge the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. KELLER & PARKER (1914), C. P. D. 791.—S. AF.

c. — Facts subsequent to false
C C

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) viii. & ix.]

question prisoner had obtained an advance from a pawnbroker upon a chain which he represented to be a gold chain, but which was not so, & endeavoured to obtain from other pawnbrokers advances upon a ring which he represented to be a diamond ring, but which, in the opinion of the witnesses, was not so. This ring was not produced:—Held: the evidence was properly admitted.

(2) The law of evidence is the same in criminal & civil suits (LORD COLERIDGE, C.J.).—R. v. FRANCIS (1874), 1 L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; 43 L. J. M. C. 97; 30 L. T. 503; 38 J. P. 469; 22 W. R. 663; 12 Cox, C. C. 612, C. C. R.

Annotations:—As to (1) Apld. R. v. Rhodes, [1899] 1 Q. B. 77; R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758. Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Refd. R. v. Cooper (1875), 1 Q. B. D. 19; Blake v. Albion Life Assce. Soc. (1876), 45 L. J. Q. B. 663; R. v. Stephens (1888), 58 L. T. 776; R. v. Mean (1904), 69 J. P. 27; R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; R. v. Charlesworth (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 167; R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336.*

4057. ———.]—(1) The Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), does not enable a deft. to give evidence before the grand jury.

(2) On the trial of an indictment for obtaining goods by false pretences, if the case for the prosecution is that deft. carried on a sham business, evidence of acts by deft. subsequent, as well as anterior, to the act charged in the indictment is admissible.—R. v. RHODES, [1899] 1 Q. B. 77; 68 L. J. Q. B. 83; 79 L. T. 360; 62 J. P. 774; 47 W. R. 121; 15 T. L. R. 37; 43 Sol. Jo. 45; 19 Cox, C. C. 182, C. C. R.

Annotations:—As to (2) Consd. R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Refd. R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208; R. v. Charlesworth (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 167; R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336. Generally, Mentd. R. v. Saunders (1898), 63 J. P. 24.*

4058. ———.]—R. v. SMITH, No. 3931, ante.

4059. ———.]—R. v. ELLIS, No. 3819, ante.

4060. ———.]—Upon the trial of an indictment for obtaining money by false pretences by means of worthless cheques, evidence of other & similar frauds by prisoner, given in support of an indictment for a similar fraud upon another person in respect of which prisoner was acquitted, is relevant & admissible as illustrating a course of conduct showing an intention to defraud.—R. v. OLLIS, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; 69 L. J. Q. B. 918; 83 L. T. 251; 64 J. P. 518; 49 W. R. 76; 16 T. L. R. 477; 44 Sol. Jo. 593; 19 Cox, C. C. 554, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Apld. R. v. Shellaker, [1914] 1 K. B. 414. Refd. R. v. Wyatt, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; Perkins v. Jeffery, [1915] 2 K. B. 702; R. v. Thompson, [1917] 2 K. B. 630; R. v. Lovegrove, [1920] 3 K. B. 643.*

4061. ———.]—On a charge of obtaining by false representations, evidence of other earlier false statements is admissible to negative a defence of belief that the later representations were true.—R. v. CHARLESWORTH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 167, C. C. A.

4062. ———.]—R. v. FISHER, No. 3925, ante.

4063. ———.]—On a charge of obtaining by false pretences evidence of exactly similar conduct by deft. on a previous occasion when a similar offence was alleged, though no charge was made, to that alleged at the trial is admissible.—R. v. WILKS (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 16, C. C. A. 4064. ———.]—R. v. BURLISON, No. 3976, ante.

— Obtaining money on forged instrument.]—See No. 4089, post.

4065. ———.] Reiteration of same false pretence.]

—Evidence is admissible of false pretences distinct from & made prior to those charged. A reiteration by deft. of the false pretence alleged, made subsequently to obtaining the money, & to persons other than prosecutor may be proved in evidence.—R. v. HAMILTON (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 244.

4066. ———.] Same false pretence made to other persons.]—Prisoner inserted an advertisement in a newspaper offering employment to persons who would transmit him one shilling's worth of postage stamps, & giving an address. The advertisement contained false statements, & upon his being apprehended six envelopes addressed to him & containing a reply to the advertisement, & a shilling's worth of postage stamps were found upon him. 281 other letters contained in a sealed bag were produced on the trial by a clerk from the post office, & on the bag being opened the letters were taken out & read, & appeared to be addressed to prisoner replying to his advertisement, & enclosing each one shilling's worth of postage stamps. These 281 letters had been stopped & opened by the post office authorities before delivery to prisoner, & had never been in his possession, or their contents brought to his knowledge; nor was there any proof as to their authenticity or otherwise:—Held: they were admissible against prisoner on an indictment charging him with obtaining, & attempting to obtain, money by false pretences from four persons other than the writers of the letters.—R. v. COOPER (1875), 1 Q. B. D. 19; 45 L. J. M. C. 15; 33 L. T. 754; 40 J. P. 150; 24 W. R. 279; 13 Cox, C. C. 123, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Silverlock (1894), 63 L. J. M. C. 233.

4067. Obtaining credit by fraud—Other fraudulent obtainings.]—Upon an indictment for obtaining credit by means of fraud, it was proved that deft. hired furnished apartments from prosecutrix & occupied them for three days, when he left without paying for them or for the food supplied to him. Evidence was admitted that a short time previously to the particular transaction deft. had gone to several houses & hired apartments & left without paying, & that he still owed the money when he went to the house of prosecutrix:—Held: the evidence, being evidence of similar acts committed by deft. at a period immediately preceding the commission of the alleged offence, was admissible as tending to establish a systematic course of conduct, & as negating any accident or mistake or the existence of any reasonable or honest motive on his part.—R. v. WYATT, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; 73 L. J. K. B. 15; 48 J. P. 31; 52 W. R. 285; 20 T. L. R. 68; 48 Sol. Jo. 85; 20 Cox C. C. 462, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Foll. R. v. Walford (1907), 71 J. P. 215. Refd. R. v. Smith (1905), 92 L. T. 208; R. v. Charlesworth (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 167.

4068. ———.]—Deft. was charged that he in incurring a debt & liability to a person who hired apartments, unlawfully did obtain credit for the amount of the debt & liability by means of fraud other than false pretences. Evidence was ad-representations—Proof of knowledge of falsity.]—Evidence is admissible of facts which are subsequent to the false representation, to prove the insolvency of defts. & a very short time after the false representation had been made, as an evidence of their knowledge of falsity when they made it.—R. v. BOYD, [1896] Q. R. 5 Q. B. 1.—CAN.

mitted of other cases in which deft. had shortly before obtained credit from persons letting houses or apartments, & also from a tradesman for goods supplied:—Held: the evidence was admissible as tending to establish a system & to negative accident or mistake.—R. v. WALFORD (1907), 71 J. P. 215, C. C. R.

4069. ———. Must be criminal offences.]—R. v. BAIRD, No. 3936, ante.

ix. Forgery.

4070. Forgery—Other forgeries.]—On an indictment under Forgery Act, 1830 (c. 66), s. 19, for engraving or uttering notes of a foreign prince, evidence of a recent engraving or uttering notes of another foreign prince is admissible, in proof of a guilty knowledge.—R. v. BALLS (1836), 1 Mood. C. C. 470, C. C. R.

4071. ———.]—R. v. KENNAWAY, No. 3922, ante.

4072. Uttering forged document—Uttering of other forged documents.]—R. v. TATTERSALL (1801), cited in 1 Bos. & P. N. R. at p. 93; 2 Leach, at p. 984; 127 E. R. 394.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Wylie (1804), 1 Bos. & P. N. R. 92; R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128.

4073. ———.]—R. v. WYLIE, No. 3892, ante.

4074. ———.]—Upon an indictment for uttering a forged bank-note knowing it to be forged: to show prisoner's knowledge of the note mentioned in the indictment being a forgery, evidence is admissible of his having a short time before uttered another forged bank-note of the same manufacture & of a number of others likewise of the same manufacture with his handwriting on the back of them, having been in circulation.—R. v. BALL (1808), 1 Camp. 324; Russ. & Ry. 132.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Gibson (1887), 18 Q. B. D. 537. Refd. R. v. Foster (1855), 24 L. J. M. C. 134; R. v. Colclough (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 91.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) ix.

4070 i. Forgery—Other forgeries.]—Prisoner, the cashier in the Registrar General's office, was charged with forging a receipt. It was prisoner's duty to pay daily into the bank the moneys received in the office, & a deposit book was kept showing the amounts paid in & purporting to be receipted by the bank teller. This book was signed by prisoner with a fictitious name, there being no such person in the bank. It was proved by the bank deposit slip that prisoner had paid in less amount than that shown in the book, which was the correct amount received in the office. To prove that the deficiency was not accidental, a number of bank slips & similar forged receipts in the book were put in evidence, showing deficient amounts paid into the bank on the days immediately before & after the date of the forgery charged:—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. HINDLSTON (1889), 10 N. S. W. L. R. 280.—AUS.

4070 ii. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted along with W.; the first count charging W. with forging a circular note of the National Bank of Scotland; & the second with uttering it knowing it to be forged. Prisoner was charged as an accessory before the fact. Evidence was admitted showing that two persons named F. & H. had been tried & convicted in M. of uttering similar forged circular notes, printed from the same plate as those uttered by W.; that prisoner was in M. with F., they having arrived & registered their names together at the same hotel, & occupied adjoining rooms; that after F. & H. had been convicted on one charge, they admitted their guilt on several others; & a number of these circular notes were found on F. & H., which were produced at the trial of prisoner. Before the evidence was tendered, it was proved that prisoner was in company with W., who was proved to have uttered similar notes:—Held: the evidence was properly received in proof of the guilty knowledge of prisoner.—R. v. BENT (1886), 10 O. R. 557.—CAN.

———.]—Ex p. HOKE
L. O. S. 705.—CAN.

4070 iv. ———.]—R. v. McLEAN (1906), 39 N. S. R. 147; 1 E. L. R. 334.—CAN.

4070 v. ———.]—A series of similar transactions which are not the offence charged can only be used as evidence of the intention of the person who forged the document & not as evidence of forgery.—KRISHNA GOVINDA PAL v. R. (1915), 1 L. R. 43 Calc. 783.—IND.

4072 i. Uttering forged document—Uttering of other forged documents.]—On a prosecution for uttering a forged cheque knowing it to have been forged, evidence of the prisoner having previously uttered a forged bill is admissible.—R. v. JAMES (1877), 3 V. L. R. 11.—AUS.

4072 ii. ———.]—Prisoner, who had been Stamp Distributor of the Q. B. Div., was indicted for uttering three law forms with forged stamps impressed thereon. The forms which were the subject of the indictment were those ordinarily used by the Stamp Distributor of the Exch. Div., & bore his particular mark. It sometimes happens that, in the process of stamping, a second sheet of paper is 4075. ———.]—In order to show a guilty knowledge, on an indictment for uttering forged bank-notes, evidence of another uttering, subsequently to the one charged, is not admissible, unless the latter uttering was in some way connected with the principal case, or it can be shown that the notes were of the same manufacture.—R. v. TAVERNER (1809), 4 C. & P. 413, n.

4076. ———.]—R. v. HODGSON (1827), 1 Lew. C. C. 103.

4077. ———.]—If a second uttering be made the subject of a distinct indictment, it cannot be given in evidence to show a guilty knowledge in a former uttering.—R. v. SMITH (1827), 2 C. & P. 633.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Furse (1833), 6 C. & P. 81.

4078. ———.]—Qu.: if a former uttering of a supposed forged note can be given in evidence to show guilty knowledge, without producing the note, & proving it to be forged.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1829), 1 Lew. C. C. 105.

4079. ———.]—Forged notes of another bank may be given in evidence to show guilty knowledge, though the subject of another indictment against the same party.—R. v. KIRKWOOD (1830), 1 Lew. C. C. 103.

4080. ———.]—R. v. MARTIN (1830), 1 Lew. C. C. 104.

4081. ———.]—Semble: on an indictment for uttering a bill of exchange with a forged acceptance, knowing the acceptance to be forged, other forged bills of exchange precisely similar, passed to prosecutor by prisoner, may be given in evidence to show a guilty knowledge in prisoner, though they were not passed till about a month after the uttering for which prisoner is tried.—R. v. SMITH (1831), 4 C. & P. 411.

4082. ———.]—Prisoner was charged with forging a bill of exchange; & there were also counts for uttering the bill knowing it to be forged. The inadvertently placed under the sheet which is brought into contact with the die; this second sheet receives an impression, but of a fainter character, & one which can be distinguished from the impression made on the outer sheet. These second sheets are termed "blinds," & are never supposed to be issued by the Stamping Department, or regarded as genuine stamps. The principal defence was that when prisoner sent to purchase genuine stamps at the Custom House, his messenger, either deceived by the guilty party or in collusion with him, brought back these "blinds," which were then innocently sold by prisoner. To meet this defence, counsel for the Crown proposed to give in evidence several documents from the files of the Q. B. Div., which were on forms headed with the printed device used on prisoner's forms, & date-stamps on which were proved by the evidence of an expert to have been made with the same instrument as the forged stamps on the documents the subject of the indictment; & in the prisoner's office implements were found suitable for the forging of such stamps. These documents were submitted by the learned judge to the jury, notwithstanding that prisoner's counsel objected to their reception on the ground that there was not sufficient evidence to connect the prisoner with them:—Held: there was sufficient evidence to connect prisoner with these documents, & of their having been uttered by him; & they were rightly submitted to the jury as evidence of guilty knowledge in uttering the stamped instruments which were the subject-matter of the indictment.—R. v. COLCLOUGH (1882), 10 L. R. Ir. 241.—IR.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) ix., x., xi. & xii.]

bill forged was for £30. Another bill for £20 purporting to be accepted by the same person & uttered by prisoner, was put in evidence to show guilty knowledge. The bill for £20 when uttered by prisoner had on the back of it several indorsements:—Held: evidence was admissible to show that the indorsements on the bill for £20 were all forged, for the purpose of showing the guilty knowledge of prisoner at the time he uttered the bill.—R. v. DUNN CROW (1843), 8 J. P. 9.

4083. ———.]—R. v. JACKSON (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 89, n.

4084. ———.]—R. v. EDWARDS (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 89, n.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Phillips (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 88.

4085. ———.]—Qu.: on an indictment for uttering a forged acquittance, not being an instrument of ordinary transmission from hand to hand, can similar instruments, uttered by prisoner on other occasions, be given in evidence to prove a guilty knowledge.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 88.

4086. ———.]—On a trial for uttering a forged note, scienter, the admissibility of evidence of other utterings is not affected by the case of R. v. Oddy, No. 4619, post. Such evidence may be given on such a charge.—R. v. GREEN (1852), 3 Car. & Kir. 209.

4087. ———.]—R. v. MOORE (1858), 1 F. & F. 73.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Colclough (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 92.

4088. ———.]—Upon an indictment for uttering a forged bill, the previous uttering by prisoner of other bills forged in other names may be given in evidence in proof of guilty knowledge.—R. v. SALT (1862), 3 F. & F. 834.

4089. ———.]—By means of a cut-out-cover letter applt. with three others obtained an envelope with a post-mark upon it of a time before the start of a horse race, & they dispatched this envelope by the agency of one of their number, a postman, to a bookmaker, after the result of the race had been ascertained, enclosing in it a betting-slip purporting to make a bet on the race in question with the intent to defraud the bookmaker:—Held: upon this indictment for endeavouring to obtain money from a bookmaker, evidence could be given of a similar attempt made by these men on the same day & in the same way to obtain money from another bookmaker.—R. v. HOWSE (1912), 107 L. T. 239; 76 J. P. 151; 28 T. L. R. 186; 56 Sol. Jo. 225; 23 Cox, C. C. 135; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 103, C. C. A.

4090. ——— Possession of other forged documents.—Evidence of uttering a bill of exchange knowing it to be forged. And other forged bills upon the same house, which were found upon prisoner at the time of his apprehension:—Held: admissible as evidence of guilty knowledge.—R. v. HOUGH (1806), Russ. & Ry. 120, C. C. R.

4091. ———.]—R. v. MILLARD (1813), Russ. & Ry. 245, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Francis (1874), 22 W. R. 663.

4092. ———.]—R. v. SUNDERLAND (1828), 1 Lew. C. C. 102.

4093. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of the uttering of a forged deed. Evidence had been tendered & admitted that two other deeds alleged to be forged were found in the possession of applt. pointing to a systematic course of swindling by the same method. But these deeds were found in the possession of applt. after the date of the offence charged in the indictment:—Held: the evidence was admissible, & this was so whether the forgery of these deeds took place before or after the commission of the offence charged.—R. v. MASON (1914), 111 L. T. 336; 78 J. P. 389; 24 Cox, C. C. 305; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 169, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Boyle & Morchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339.

4094. Possession of implements for forgery—Possession of other similar implements.—(1) Z. was charged with feloniously having in his possession a lithographic stone, on which was engraved a portion of a Dutch coupon. In the presence of an agent of the Dutch consulate, & of the person who signed the coupons, & after Z. had been told that if he had had anything to do with the lithographing it would be better for him to tell it, he made a statement:—Held: that statement was admissible in evidence against him.

(2) A second lithographic stone was found in Z.'s lodgings, in respect of which another indictment had been preferred against him:—Held: it was competent for the prosecution to add evidence on the trial of the first indictment of what was on the second stone.—R. v. ZEIGERT (1867), 31 J. P. 598; 10 Cox, C. C. 555.

4095. ———.]—R. v. ALBRECHT (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 231, C. C. A.

x. Coinage Offences.

4096. To prove guilty knowledge—Making counterfeit coin—Uttering counterfeit coin.—On the trial of an indictment for making counterfeit coins, evidence of uttering a counterfeit coin is admissible if it tends to prove scienter.—R. v. ROWLANDS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 224, C. C. A.

4097. ——— Uttering counterfeit coin—Uttering coin of different denomination.—On an indictment for uttering a counterfeit crown piece knowing it to be counterfeit, proof that prisoner, on a day subsequent to the day of such uttering, uttered a counterfeit shilling, is admissible to prove the guilty knowledge of prisoner.—R. v. FORSTER (1855), Dears. C. C. 456; 19 J. P. 280; 3 C. L. R. 681; 6 Cox, C. C. 521; sub nom. R. v. FOSTER, 24 L. J. M. C. 134; 25 L. T. O. S. 119; 1 Jur. N. S. 407; 3 W. R. 411, C. C. R.

4098. ——— Previous conviction for uttering not admitted.—On an indictment for uttering a counterfeit coin after a previous conviction, such previous conviction for uttering false coin cannot be put in evidence for the purpose of proving guilty knowledge.—R. v. GOODWIN (1867), 10 Cox, C. C. 534.

4099. ——— Unlawful possession of counterfeit coin—Possession of others at subsequent date.—R. v. HARRISON (1834), 2 Lew. C. C. 118.

4100. ——— Possession of coining implements—Evidence of uttering counterfeit coin.—Prisoner was indicted for knowingly & without lawful excuse having in his custody & possession a mould on which was impressed the figure & apparent resemblance of the obverse side of a half-crown. The mould was found in the house of prisoner,

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—
B. (h) x.

d. To prove guilty knowledge—Uttering counterfeit coin—Possession & attempted disposal—Coins of an unusual kind.—Evidence of the possession & attempted disposal of coins of an unusual kind is relevant on a charge of uttering such coins soon afterwards when the factum of uttering is denied.—R. v. NUR MAHOMED (1883), 1 L. R. 8 Bom. 223.—IND.

e. ——— Unlawful possession of counterfeit coins—Uttering other counter- feit coin.—Where two panels were charged with having base coin in their possession at the time of uttering other base coin:—Held: it was sufficient to establish the offences under the statute against both prisoners, to show that they were acting under a common who had previously passed a bad half-crown; but there was no evidence to show that the half-crown had been made in the mould:—Held: there was sufficient evidence to go to the jury.

Upon a trial for felony, other felonies which have a tendency to establish the scienter may be given in evidence for that purpose.—R. v. WEEKS (1861), Le. & Ca. 18; 30 L. J. M. C. 141; 4 L. T. 373; 25 J. P. 357; 7 Jur. N. S. 472; 9 W. R. 553; 8 Cox, C. C. 455, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

xi. Malicious Damage to Property.

4101. Administering poison to horses—Administration of poison on another occasion.—On an indictment for administering sulphuric acid to eight horses, with intent to kill them. Prosecutor may give evidence of administering, at different times, to show the intent.—R. v. MOGG (1830), 4 C. & P. 364.

4102. Arson—Presence at former incendiary fire.—A. was indicted for wilfully setting fire to a rick, by firing a gun, close to it, on Mar. 29:—Held: evidence that the rick was also on fire on Mar. 28, & that prisoner was then close to it, having a gun in his hand, is receivable to show that the fire on the 29th was not accidental.—R. v. DOSSETT (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 306; 2 Cox, C. C. 243.

Annotation:—Consd. Makin v. A.-G. for New South Wales, [1894] A. C. 57. Refd. R. v. Harris (1864), 4 F. & F. 342; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

4103. ————R. v. TAYLOR, No. 3928, ante.

4104. ————R. v. HARRIS, No. 3975, ante.

4105. ————Intent to defraud insurance company—Previous claims.—Upon a trial for arson with intent to defraud an insurance company, evidence that prisoner had made claims on two other insurance companies in respect of fires, which had occurred in two other houses, which he had occupied previously & in succession, was admitted for the purpose of showing that the fire which formed the subject of the trial was the result of design & not of accident.—R. v. GRAY (1866), 4 F. & F. 1102.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Flannagan & Higgins (1884), 15 Cox, C. C. 403; Makin v. A.-G. for New South Wales, [1894] A. C. 57. Refd. R. v. Francis (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 128; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389.

design in uttering, although one of them only had possession of the base coin.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. SUTHERLAND (GIBSON) (1848), 1 J. Shaw, Just. 135. — SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) xi.

1. Arson—Intent to defraud insurance co.—Conspiracy—Previous suggestion.—Deft. was tried & convicted upon a charge of conspiring with G. to commit an indictable offence, namely, with intent to defraud, to set fire to a store belonging to deft.:—Held: there was legal evidence to support the conviction. At the trial L. swore that nearly a year before the fire in question, deft. suggested to him (L.) that he (L.) should burn down a building belonging to deft., which deft. told L. was insured for $600:—Held: the evidence of L. was of a similar act to that charged, whether it were looked at as an attempt to form a conspiracy with L., which failed, or an attempt to commit the crime of arson itself, the intent of arson being the intent of a conspiracy to commit it.—R. v. WILSON (1911), 19 W. L. R. 657; 1 W. W. R. 272.—CAN.

g. Destroying trees—Similar acts—Subject of another indictment.—Two indictments were preferred against defts. for feloniously destroying the fruit trees respectively of M. & C. The offences charged were proved to have been committed on the same night, & the injury complained of was done in the same manner in both cases. Defts. were put on their trial on the charge of destroying M.'s trees; & evidence relating to the offence charged in the other indictment was admitted as showing that the offences had been committed by the same person:—Held: the evidence was properly received.—R. v. McDONALD (1886), 10 O. R. 553.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.— B. (h) xii.

h. Bribery—Attempt to bribe police officer—Evidence of previous attempts.—The applt. was informed against on a charge of attempting to bribe a detective officer on Feb. 21, 1903. At the trial the officer gave evidence of a previous attempt to bribe him on Feb. 4:—Held: evidence might be given of a similar offence upon prior date.—R. v. SMALL (1903), 5 W. A. L. R. 85.—AUS.

k. Conspiracy to defraud municipality—Evidence of other attempts.—Applt. was indicted & convicted of conspiring with S. & others to defraud a municipality by fraudulent means. The municipality had been defrauded at three different places, & accused

xii. Other Cases.

4106. Making false declaration—Evidence of contemporaneous forgeries to support declaration.—

Where a person is indicted for having made a false declaration as to a fire having taken place at his house, evidence may be given, that, with the declaration, he sent a certificate, which stated the fire to have occurred, & that the signatures to that certificate are all forgeries, as this evidence may go to show that the declaration was wilfully false.—R. v. BOYNES (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 65.

4107. ————Evidence of previous false declaration.—Applt. was convicted of suborning J. to make a false statement for insertion in a register of births. At the trial evidence was admitted that applt. had made a false entry in a register of births on a previous occasion:—Held: the evidence, being relevant to the issue in this case, was properly admitted.—R. v. SALDANHA (1920), 90 L. J. K. B. 97; 123 L. T. 624; 85 J. P. 47; 26 Cox, C. C. 630, C. C. A.

4108. Living on earnings of prostitution—Charge made as to one day—Evidence as to other days.—R. v. HILL, R. v. CHURCHMAN, No. 3910, ante.

4109. Betting on licensed premises—Betting slips found—Evidence of similar slips in use on premises at previous dates.—Deft. was indicted for offences against the Betting Act, 1853 (c. 119), committed on Nov. 13. He had been arrested in a public-house, & upon him were found betting slips containing the names of horses, the amounts for which they were to be backed, & the names of the persons backing them. In the parlour of the public-house were found a large number of betting slips of the same character as those found on deft. Evidence was admitted to show that betting slips similar to those found on deft. & to those found on the premises on Nov. 13 had previously to that date been frequently received from customers at the public-house by the licensee, & had been forwarded on by him to deft.:—Held: such evidence was admissible.—R. v. MEAN (1904), 69 J. P. 27; 21 T. L. R. 172, Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468.

4110. Permitting persons of disorderly character to assemble on licensed premises—Assembly of prostitutes—Evidence of previous attendances of

could have been convicted of conspiracy with a different person in each place. There was no evidence to show that these persons were connected in any way or even knew one another:—Held: evidence regarding the further offence was admissible.—RAPLEY v. R., [1914] 17 W. A. L. R. 36.—AUS.

1. Conspiracy to defraud—Other attempts.—R. v. SHEPPARD (1893), Q. R. 4 Q. B. 470.—CAN.

m. Secret commission—Evidence of previous payments of secret commission.—Accused, a conductor in the employ of C. N. R., whose duty it was to spot cars for the use of farmers under the Grain Act, was convicted for having accepted certain sums of money from farmers for spotting cars at a railway station on the railway, where there was no agent:—Held: evidence of other farmers, whose names were not mentioned in the charge, that they had paid the accused for spotting cars, although not admissible to prove the main facts of the case, was admissible to rebut by anticipation the defence of innocent motive & want of design, & to show the state of mind of the parties with regard to the facts proved.—R. v. HOWES (1914), 30 W. L. R. 60; 7 W. W. R. 683; 20 D. L. R. 283.—CAN.

n. "Wrongfully & without legal authority besetting."—Previous acts of

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 2, B. (h) xii. & C.; sub-sects. 3, 4 & 5, A.]

same prostitutes.]—On the hearing of an information before two justices of the peace, preferred under the 9 Geo. 4, c. 61, against a person licensed to sell excisable liquors by retail, for that he did "unlawfully & knowingly permit & suffer persons of notoriously bad character to assemble & meet together in his house & premises":—Held: it having been proved that on the occasion in question a number of prostitutes assembled & met together at the house of deft., it was admissible evidence against him that on a previous occasion several of the same prostitutes assembled & met together at his house.—PARKER v. GREEN (1862), 2 B. & S. 299; 31 L. J. M. C. 133; 6 L. T. 46; 26 J. P. 247; 8 Jur. N. S. 409; 10 W. R. 316; 9 Cox, C. C. 169; 121 E. R. 1084.

4111. Libel—Evidence of other similar libels.]—To prove deft. author of a libel, evidence of other libels written by the same person & concerning the same subject may be received.—R. v. PEARCE (1791), Peake, 106.

See, further, LIBEL & SLANDER.

4112. Aiding & abetting bankruptcy offence—Purchase at undervalue—Evidence of previous purchase at undervalue.]—When buying at an undervalue is charged as aiding & abetting a bankruptcy offence, evidence of a previous pur-

accused.]—In a prosecution for "wrongfully & without legal authority be-setting," where the intention of defts. is in question, evidence of previous acts of the accused is admissible.—TOPPIN v. FERON (1907), 43 I. L. T. 190.—IR.

o. Perjury & subornation of perjury
—Previous attempts to suborn other persons not connected with charge.]
—Where accused was charged with perjury & subornation of perjury, & evidence was admitted, though not objected to at the trial, to the effect that accused had also attempted to suborn other persons not connected with the charge:—Held: its admission must necessarily have, & had, in fact, prejudiced the accused, & that the conviction should therefore be quashed.—R. v. ALI AHMED (1913), T. P. D. 500.—S. AF.

p. Sedition—Previous designs evidenced by subsequeat overt acts.]—It is not objectionable in an indictment under 11 & 12 Vict. c. 12, to libel a previous design as evidenced by subsequent overt acts.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. CUMMING (1848), J. Shaw, Just. 17.—SCOT.

q. Poaching—Previous convictions for poaching offences.]—In a case of poaching, previous convictions are relevant articles in evidence for the jury in determining whether the purpose for which a panel unlawfully entered land was to take or destroy game.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. GRANGER (1863), 4 Irv. 432; 36 Sc. Jur. 3.—SCOT.

r. Riotous mob acting of common purpose—Meeting held previous to date charged—Events at meeting—Subsequent action by authorities.]—Upon a charge that the panels did form part of a riotous mob acting of common purpose, proof allowed that a meeting was held previous to the date in the indictment of the alleged mobbing & rioting, what took place at the meeting, & the action of the authorities subsequent to it.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MACLEOD (1888), 1 White, 554.—SCOT.

s. Keeping bawdy house—Evidence of bad reputation.]—On a charge of keeping a bawdy house, evidence of the bad reputation of the house is inadmissible.—R. v. PINDER, [1923] 2 W. W. R.

chase by the accused at an undervalue is admissible against him.—R. v. FINEGOLD (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 75.

C. Criminal Acts of Accused subsequent to Charge.

4113. General rule.]—R. v. SMITH, No. 4081, ante.

4114. Abortion.]—R. v. CALDER, No. 3993, ante.

4115. —.]—R. v. DALE, No. 3998, ante.

4116. —.]—R. v. PALM, No. 3995, ante.

4117. —.]—R. v. THOMSON, No. 3997, ante.

4118. Wounding.]—R. v. MAHONY, No. 4019, ante.

4119. Poisoning.]—R. v. GEERING, No. 3937, ante.

4120. —.]—R. v. HEESON, No. 3882, ante.

4121. —.]—R. v. ARMSTRONG, No. 3988, ante.

4122. Rape.]—R. v. REARDEN, No. 3914, ante.

4123. Stabbing.]—R. v. CRICKMER, No. 3920, ante.

4124. Incest.]—R. v. STONE, No. 4012, ante.

SUB-SECT. 3.—ACTS OF KNOWN THIRD PARTY.

4125. Betting on licensed premises—Conviction of bookmaker—Using same premises.]—On a summons against the holder of a justices' licence for suffering his premises to be used in contravention of the Betting Act, 1853 (c. 119), the conviction of a bookmaker for using the premises on the

997; [1923] 3 D. L. R. 707; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 272.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.—C.

4113 i. General rule.]—The conduct of an accused subsequent to the commission of the act charged is highly important & relevant whenever it tends to throw light upon that act, & the motive with which it was committed, & the fact that the evidence bringing out such conduct shows incidentally the commission of acts of dishonesty or crime other than the one with which the accused is charged does not affect its admissibility.—R. v. LETAIN, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 505; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 389.—CAN.

t. False pretences.]—The prisoner was charged on an indictment containing two counts: (1) obtaining money partly by a false pretence & partly by a wilfully false promise, & (2) obtaining money by false pretences. He gave a cheque on a bank where he had no account in part payment of a buggy. Evidence was given of several similar transactions at short intervals after the commission of the offence charged:—Held: evidence of the subsequent similar transactions was admissible.—R. v. ROWE (1909), 9 S. R. N. S. W. 747.—AUS.

a. Indecent assault.]—Upon the trial of prisoner, a school teacher, for an indecent assault upon one of his scholars, he forbade the prosecutrix telling her parents what had happened. After the prosecutrix had given evidence of the assault, evidence was tendered of the conduct of the prisoner towards her subsequent to the assault:—Held: the evidence was admissible as tending to show the indecent quality of the same transaction as that with which prisoner was charged.—R. v. CHUTE (1882), 46 U. C. R. 555.—CAN.

b. Inducing witness to give false evidence.]—DOE d. CRAIG v. ANGLESEA (KARL) (1743), 17 State Tr. 1139.—IR.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.

c. Murder—Presence of witness at riot—Evidence of alibi.]—Prisoner being indicted for the murder of H., the principal witness for the Crown stated that the crime was committed on Dec. 1, 1859, on a bridge over the river D., & that prisoner & S., who had been previously tried & acquitted, threw H. over the parapet of the bridge into the river. Counsel for the prisoner then proposed to prove by D. that S. was at his place, fifty miles off, on that evening, but the judge rejected the evidence, saying that S. might be called, & if contradicted might be confirmed by other testimony. S. was called, & swore that he was not present at the time, but he not being contradicted D. was not examined:—Held: the presence of S. was a fact material to the inquiry, & D. should have been admitted when tendered.—R. v. BROWN (1861), 21 U. C. R. 330.—CAN.

d. Presence of a witness at particular place at particular time.]—The statement of a witness for the defence, that a witness for the prosecution was at a particular place at a particular time & consequently could not then have been at another place where the latter states he was & saw the accused persons, is properly admissible in evidence, even though the witness for the prosecution may not himself have been cross-examined on the point.—R. v. SAKHARAM MUKUNDJI (1874), 11 Bom. 166.—IND.

e. —.]—Upon a trial for stabbing with intent to kill, evidence having been given that the offence was committed by the prisoner A., & B. being present, proof was admitted of an alibi of A. & B.—R. v. NASH (1832), 1 Craw. & D. 178.—IR.

f. —.]—Prisoners were indicted with one M., who was not on his trial, as principals in the first & second degrees, & some of the Crown witnesses stated that he was present at the commission of the crime:—Held: the prisoners might examine witnesses for the purpose of proving that M. was not present.—R. v. M'KENNA (1838), Craw. & D., Abr. C. 579.—IR.

g. Riot—Presence of witness at riot—Evidence of others as to his presence.]—Prisoners, with C., who was not on his trial, were indicted for a riot, & one of the witnesses for the Crown deposed that he saw C. at the riot:—Held: prisoners were entitled to examine witnesses to prove that C.

occasion in question for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto is not admissible in evidence for the purpose of proving that betting took place on the premises.—TAYLOR v. WILSON (1911), 106 L. T. 44; 76 J. P. 69; 28 T. L. R. 97; 22 Cox, C. C. 647, D. C.

SUB-SECT. 4.—ACTS OF UNKNOWN PERSON.

4126. Forgery—In same handwriting.]—Upon an indictment charging one prisoner with having uttered a forged order, & charging another with having incited the former to the commission of such felony, evidence of other orders of the same character & in the same handwriting having been previously uttered by some person unknown, is not admissible against either of the prisoners, although the handwriting was proved to be that of the accessory.—R. v. SULLIVAN & PEARCE (1846), 2 Cox, C. C. 80.

4127. Arson—Previous attempts.]—Under an indictment for arson, where the prisoner was charged with wilfully setting fire to her master's house:—Held: two previous & abortive attempts to set fire to different portions of the same premises were admissible, though there was no evidence to connect the prisoner with either of them.

This evidence may be used for the purpose of showing that the present fire could not have been the result of accident (SIR F. POLLOCK, C.B.)—R. v. BAILEY (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 271; 2 Cox, C. C. 311.

4128. Three card trick—Return of money to

was not at the riot.—R. v. CAMPBELL (1831), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 581, n.—IR.

h. Forgery—Finding papers bearing counterfeit marks—In house of witness for defence—Accused having similar papers in his possession.]—During the course of a police investigation into a complaint of theft, the house of accused was searched, & a bundle of papers, about 58 in number, were found, which were alleged to be forgeries, or preparations for forgeries. Accused was thereupon committed to the Ct. of Session on a charge under sect. 475 of the Penal Code. A few days before the trial of accused the police searched the house of S., who was a witness for the defence, & there discovered a batch of suspicious papers which were produced at the trial, & put in as evidence against accused:—Held: the suspicious papers found in S.'s house were not admissible in evidence against the accused.—R. v. ABAJI RAMCHANDRA (1890), 1 L. R. 15 Bom. 189.—IND.

k. Brothel keeping—Evidence of female frequenting.]—A woman was charged in Scotland with keeping & managing as a brothel the house occupied by her. At the trial a police constable in his evidence stated that during the period in question he had observed a woman known to him as G. enter the house. He was then asked what he knew of the character of G., who was not tendered as a witness. The police magistrate sustained an objection to the question, & found the charge not proven:—Held: the evidence was competent as to the character of persons frequenting the house, & should have been admitted.—MACPHERSON v. CRISP, [1919] S. C. (J.) 1.—SCOT.

l. Murder by poisoning—Evidence of person tasting same draught as deceased took.]—In an indictment against B., for the murder of D. by having administered to her a potion containing poison, F., who had tasted a portion of the same draught as the deceased had taken, was called as a witness, to describe her symptoms. G., a medical witness, was asked as to the symptoms of F.:—Held: such evidence was admissible, the medical witness, G., having heard the witness, F., give her evidence as to the symptoms, might be asked whether in his opinion as a medical man, such symptoms were those of a person under the influence of poison.—R. v. THOMPSON (1849), 1 Ir. Jur. 207.—IR.

m. Reset—Evidence as to character of person from whom accused received goods.]—In a suspension of a conviction of the crime of reset:—Held: it was competent for prosecutor to lead evidence as to the character of the person from whom the accused in his declaration stated that he had received the goods alleged to have been resetted, & who was not in the Crown list of witnesses, & though cited for the panel, did not appear.—GRACIE v. STUART (1884), 11 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 22; 21 Sc. L. R. 526.—SCOT.

n. Incest—Evidence of mother as to paternity of daughter.]—Accused pleaded not guilty to a charge of incest alleged to have been committed with his natural daughter. The mother of the girl was called as a witness for the Crown, stated that she had had intercourse with R. resulting in the birth of the girl, & in cross-examination denied having been found under compromising circumstances with a man other than the prisoner. For the defence, a witness was called & asked about the conduct of the mother with this other man. This evidence was objected to, & was held to be inadmissible, on the ground that the defence was bound by the negative answer given by the witness for the Crown:—Held: the evidence should have been admitted as being relevant to the issue as to who was the father of the girl, & not going only to the character of the witness.—R. v. RICHARDS (1908), 3 Buch. A. C. 285.—S. AF.

prosecutor.]—Whether a particular incident in the play of the three card trick is “a fraud or unlawful device or ill practice” within Gaming Act, 1845 (c. 109), s. 17, is a question for the jury, provided that the cheating alleged must take place during the play. Evidence that immediately after prosecutor complained of being defrauded a stranger gave him money is admissible as part of the res gestæ.—R. v. MOORE (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 54.

SUB-SECT. 5.—STATEMENTS OF PERSONS OTHER THAN ACCUSED.

A. In General.

4129. False denial by wife—In absence of husband.]—The false denial of the husband by the wife, though not directly proved to have been by his authority, or in his hearing, to custom-house officers coming to his house to search for uncustomed goods, immediately after discovered by them on his premises, is admissible evidence, as a part of the res gestæ, on the trial of an information for penalties against the husband, for possessing the goods with a guilty knowledge.—A.-G. v. GOOD (1825), M'Cle. & Yo. 286; 148 E. R. 421. Annotations:—Reid. Re Disputed Adjudication (1850), 15 L. T. O. S. 8. Mentd. Simpson v. Clayton (1836), 2 Bing. N. C. 467.

4130. Evidence of convicted persons—To establish their alibi—Admissible on trial of prisoner for same offence.]—Where evidence is given that persons previously convicted of an offence, which is now charged to have been committed by prisoner

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—A.

a. Statement as to eleven sheep—Charge only as to theft of two.]—If a conversation arise between two persons relating to a large quantity of goods or a great number of animals, some only of which a prisoner is charged with stealing or feloniously receiving, the conversation is admissible in evidence.—R. v. KING (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 308.—AUS.

p. Murder by poisoning—Statements of deceased—Whilst suffering pain.]—R. v. BERUBE (1852), 3 L. C. L. 212.—CAN.

q. Statement of constable—Made when searching accused's house.]—Where accused was charged with attempting to murder her child, the chief constable's statement, he having gone to search the house of accused, that he had information that the accused was about to kill the child, was most improperly admitted as evidence against the accused.—R. v. CHIMA (1871), 8 Bom. 164.—IND.

r. Statement as to declarations of prosecutor.]—Declarations of prosecutor may be given in evidence by another person, although prosecutor himself has been examined.—R. v. SHORR (1842), Arm. M. & O. 322.—IR.

s. Statement by resetter—When arrested—To identify him as party whose house other prisoners frequented.]—Two panels were charged with theft of two £50 notes & a third was charged in the same indictment with reset & fugitated for non-appearance:—Held: a letter written & statements made by the alleged resetter when taken into custody in consequence of uttering one of the notes were receivable as evidence on the trial of the other panels to the effect of identifying him as a party whose house they frequented.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. BURNET (1851), 24 Sc. Jur. 12.—SCOT.

t. Contradictory statements.]—On a trial for theft the Crown, anticipating that a witness would make an adverse statement, presented in evidence, at the bar, were in fact the guilty parties, the evidence of such convicted persons, though establishing only their own alibi, is admissible.—R. v. DYTCHÉ (1890), 17 Cox, C. C. 39.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence: Sub-sect. 5, A., B. & C.]

B. Statements made in Absence of Accused.

4131. To explain material facts.]—In a case of manslaughter it was proved that deceased was at an inn for three days, & that the innkeeper asked him what his name was, & that, while there, letters arrived at the inn directed in that name, which letters were delivered to deceased, & received by him:—Held: the innkeeper might be asked what name deceased gave.—R. v. TIMMINS (1836), 7 C. & P. 499.

4132. To fix time of conversation with accused.]—Where it was material to ascertain the time when a certain conversation took place between prisoner & a witness, a remark made subsequently by the witness to another person, in prisoner's absence, was admitted as evidence, for the purpose of establishing the period of such conversation.—R. v. RICHARDSON (1846), 1 Cox, C. C. 361.

4133. To rebut case for defence.]—In an indictment for perjury, the perjury was alleged to have been committed on the trial of an indictment against B., for setting fire to a certain barn against objection, before calling him, a written record of a statement he had made contradictory to his expected adverse statement:—Held: the evidence was inadmissible & its admission was a good ground for setting aside the conviction.—R. v. MARCENIUK, [1923] 3 W. W. R. 758.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—B.

General rule.]—statements made in the absence of the accused by persons engaged in an unlawful act are not evidence against the accused who had given directions for such act, unless it appear that all the parties were engaged on such act with a common unlawful object.—R. v. FETTERINI (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 79.—IR.

4131 i. To explain material facts.]—Crown tendered in evidence a conversation between a detective officer & prisoner in which the officer told prisoner that Mrs. P. had made a statement regarding prisoner's whereabouts at a certain time. Prisoner denied Mrs. P.'s statement. After objection the conversation was admitted.

In his summing up judge cautioned the jury that as prisoner had denied the truth of what Mrs. P. was alleged to have said it was no evidence against him of the fact:—Held: the evidence was admissible.—R. v. EYLES (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 377.—AUS.

b. — Keeping brothel—Conversation of persons not called as witnesses—Overheard by policemen.]—Accused was charged with keeping a brothel, contrary to Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, s. 3. Two policemen, who had been stationed outside the house to watch the premises, spoke to conversations tending to incriminate accused which they had overheard passing between inmates of the house outwith the presence of accused. None of these persons were called as witnesses:—Held: that the evidence was competent to explain the character of the house.—M'LAREN v. MACLEOD (1913), 7 Adam, 110.—SCOT.

c. Extra-judicial confessions of accused's sister.]—R. v. GUAY (1874), 18 L. C. J. 306.—CAN.

d. Complaint of injured person—

Rape.]—While the injured person should make her complaint as soon as possible after the commission of the offence, yet no specific time being fixed therefore by law, evidence may be admitted of a complaint made to her mother seven days after the offence; but the jury may & should weigh the interval which elapsed before complaint was made, when considering the probability of his truth.

On a trial for rape that fact that the injured person made a complaint & the particulars or detail of the complaint are admissible as evidence in chief for the prosecution to confirm the testimony of the injured person & disprove consent on her part.—R. v. RIENDEAU (1900), Q. R. 9 Q. B. 147; Q. R. 10 Q. B. 584.—CAN.

e. Keeping gaming house—Confession by person found by police in house.]—Upon the trial of accused on a charge of unlawfully keeping a common gaming house:—Held: evidence of a confession made by one of the persons found by the police in the house, implicating accused, was not receivable as evidence against the accused.—R. v. SEE WOO (1910), 13 W. L. R. 625.—CAN.

f. Lottery—Representations by agents to customers that lots were drawn.]—R. v. LUMGATE (1911), 20 O. W. R. 563; 3 O. W. N. 309; 19 Can. Crim. Cas. 123.—CAN.

g. Sworn information as to assailant—Feloniously shooting with intent to murder.]—Indictment for feloniously shooting at M., with intent to murder him. It appeared that M., after the offence was committed, & shortly before his death, swore informations, in which he stated that he believed one P. was the person who fired at & wounded him; & on the following day, M. swore a further information in the presence of P. in which he positively identified P. as the person who fired the shot. Prisoner was not present when any of the informations were taken:—Held: the latter information might be proved, & read in evidence in favour of prisoner.—R. v. M'TEAGUE (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 252.—IR.

h. Statement by first wife as to her religious belief—Bigamy.]—On a trial for bigamy, statements made by the

of one P. A witness for the prosecution, called to prove that B. was not at the barn at the time it was set on fire, & consequently that the evidence of deft., who swore at the trial that he had seen B. set it on fire, was false, admitted on cross-examination that he had given a different account on the former trial, & had on that occasion corroborated the testimony of the present deft., but now alleged that he was persuaded by W., who had left England, to forswear himself on the former trial:—Held: on re-examination the witness might be asked whether he had made a statement to C., immediately after the trial respecting his evidence & respecting W., & C. might be called to corroborate him as to the general fact; but the particulars of the statement to C. were inadmissible, & a person who was present at the interview between the witness & W. might be called to prove the fact of the conversation, but not the particulars.—R. v. NEVILLE (1852), 6 Cox, C. C. 69.

4134. —.]—R. v. HORSFORD (1898), cited in 62 J. P. at p. 459.

C. Statements made in Presence of Accused.

4135. When admitted by accused—Receivable in evidence.]—Upon the trial of a prisoner for feloniously receiving stolen property, a list of the stolen articles which prisoner had bought, was received in evidence in order to show that he had bought at an under value. The circumstances woman to whom, it appeared, prisoner had first been married, but which was not made in his presence, as to the religious persuasion to which she belonged are not admissible in evidence.—R. v. MILLS (1842), 2 Craw. & D. 391.—IR.

k. Admission of publican's assistant at inquest—Publican charged in criminal proceedings.]—The admissions of a publican's assistant at a coroner's inquest, when a past & gone transaction on the publican's premises is being investigated, will not affect the publican with criminal liability on being proved in criminal proceedings subsequently instituted.—DWYER v. LARKIN (1904), 39 J. L. T. 40.—IR.

l. Statement as to murder—Made by child present at the crime—Within 48 hours of crime being committed.]—In a trial for murder a child of about 7 years of age, who was present at the time of the alleged murder having been examined as a witness:—Held: it was competent to ask the witnesses subsequently examined what the child said in reference to the murder, the question referring to a period immediately subsequent to or within 48 hours of the commission of the crime.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. STEWART (1855), 2 Irv. 166; 27 Sc. Jur. 408.—SCOT.

m. Statement by absent person to witness.]—Statements made by an absent person to a witness outwith the presence of an accused:—Held: not admissible in evidence, although it was impossible to adduce the absent person who had fled to America, forfeited his bail-bond & refused to return.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MCCONNELL (1887), 1 White, 412.—SCOT.

n. Sworn statement of witness—Who denied all knowledge of crime at trial.]—An accused person was convicted of cattle stealing, mainly upon the evidence of a little boy. Other witnesses for the prosecution denied all knowledge of the matter, but a sworn statement made by one such witness to the police was admitted in evidence against the accused though not made in his presence:—Held: proceedings were irregular.—R. v. BAUGWEZA HLANGUZA (1922), 43 N. L. R. 398.—S. AF.

under which the list was written were as follows: A police constable asked prisoner to consider when he had bought the stolen property, to which prisoner replied that his wife should make out a list of it, & on the next day prisoner's wife in her husband's presence handed to another constable the list tendered in evidence, saying in her husband's hearing, "This is a list of what we bought, & what we gave for them":—Held: the list was clearly admissible in evidence.—R. v. MALLORY (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 33; 53 L. J. M. C. 134; 50 L. T. 429; 48 J. P. 487; 32 W. R. 721; 15 Cox, C. C. 457, C. C. R.

4136. ———.]—Where one of two prisoners in custody on a charge against them jointly has voluntarily made & signed a statement implicating the other, & such statement is read over to prisoner implicated, & the latter, after being cautioned, makes a confession which is taken down in writing, & signs it when so written, the statement of the one prisoner & the admission of the other may be given in evidence on the trial of the latter.—R. v. HIRST (1896), 18 Cox, C. C. 374; sub nom. R. v. GODDARD & HURST, 60 J. P. 491.

Annotations:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Gardner & Hancox (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 206.

4137. ———.]—The contents of a statement alleged to have been made in the presence of a prisoner cannot be given in evidence unless & until the judge has satisfied himself, from the evidence contained in the depositions or given at the trial, that there is evidence, fit to be submitted to the jury, that prisoner by his answer to the statement, whether given in words or by conduct, acknowledged the truth of the statement.

If the contents of the statement are admissible in evidence in accordance with the above rule, the jury should be directed that they are entitled to take the statement into consideration as evidence in the case, not because the statement is evidence of the matters contained in it, but solely because of prisoner's acknowledgment of its truth.—R. v. NORTON, [1910] 2 K. B. 496; 79 L. J. K. B. 756; 102 L. T. 926; 74 J. P. 375; 26 T. L. R. 550; 54 Sol. Jo. 602; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 65, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Hickey (1911), 27 T. L. R. 441. Refd. R. v. Atherton (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 233; R. v. Stroud (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 38; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Adams (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 77. Mentd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Altschuler (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 243; R. v. Tonks (1915), 114 L. T. 81.

4138. ———.]—Two persons accused of the same offence were placed in adjoining cells, a communication opening being left open between them, & police evidence was given of their conversation:—Held: the evidence of the conversation was admissible.

A practice under which the police read over a statement by an accused person, made after he had been arrested & separately charged, incriminating another person arrested & charged separately with the same offence, to the latter, after both had been jointly charged, with the object of making that statement & the reply thereto of the person incriminated evidence against him, is a practice which ought not to be followed, although evidence of the statement & reply cannot be said to be inadmissible; & the judge ought in his discretion to exclude such evidence.—R. v. GARDNER & HANCOX (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 206; 114 L. T. 78; 80 J. P. 135; 32 T. L. R. 97; 25 Cox, C. C. 221; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 265; sub nom. R. v. HANCOX, 60 Sol. Jo. 76, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Pilley (1922), 127 L. T. 220.

4139. When not denied by accused—Receivable as evidence of admission by conduct or demeanour.]

—Observations made by a wife to her husband, upon a subject which afterwards becomes matter

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—C.

4139 i. When not denied by accused—Receivable as evidence of admission by conduct or demeanour.]—Statements made in a prisoner's hearing are admissible in evidence against him although the witness could not see the prisoner & had no opportunity of observing his demeanour.—R. v. BURNS & MACK (1877), Knox, 183.—AUS.

4139 ii. ———.]—At the trial of a prisoner for stealing boots evidence was given by L., subject to the objection of its admissibility, that he had heard P. say in prisoner's presence in another ct. that prisoner had brought to him certain boots like samples then produced by P., that prisoner thereupon requested a comparison of these samples with samples of the stolen boots produced by L., that P., L. & the prisoner made the comparison, that P. said he was confident that both samples belonged to the same lot of boots, & that to this prisoner said nothing:—Held: none of the evidence objected to was properly admitted except prisoner's request for a comparison, & the fact of comparison, which by themselves were of no weight.—R. v. ROONEY (1884), 10 V. L. R. 227.—AUS.

4139 iii. ———.]—On the trial of a prisoner for an assault on a child under the age of ten years with intent carnally to know her, the child gave evidence not upon oath. The evidence of the child was conclusive as to the prisoner's guilt, but it was contended that her evidence was not corroborated by some material evidence. The evidence given by the Crown was as follows:—The child immediately after she had been assaulted made a complaint to her mother. Shortly afterwards Mrs. G., the mother, said to prisoner, "How dare you assault my little girl?" Prisoner said, "It was not me, it was my cousin." The little girl said, "Yes, mummy, it was this man." This was written half an hour after the offence, & there was no suggestion that prisoner had been told by any one that his cousin had assaulted the child. When arrested the constable took him to Mrs. G.'s house, & the child seeing him said, "That him." The prisoner said nothing. When asked by the constable about the conversation with Mrs. G. he said he had not seen Mrs. G. on the day the offence was committed, though when giving evidence at the trial he admitted having seen Mrs. G. that day:—Held: this was sufficient corroborative evidence to support conviction.—R. v. PUCKERIDGE (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 61; 9 N. S. W. W. N. 61.—AUS.

4139 iv. ———.]—On a trial of W. on a charge of having wilfully murdered M. oral evidence of statements made by M. in W.'s presence & taken down in writing, was tendered & objection taken. The evidence was admitted, & prisoner convicted:—Held: when such evidence is tendered, it is for the ct. to decide whether the surrounding circumstances are such that an inference that the prisoner, after hearing the statements, substantially admitted the truth, of the whole, or some part thereof, could be drawn by the jury from the silence, conduct or demeanour of the prisoner, or from the character of any observations or explanations he thought fit to make; & that unless there is some evidence to justify such an inference, the statements should not be allowed to be given. The surrounding circumstances showed that the evidence objected to was properly admitted against W.—R. v. WARTON, [1905] S. R. Q. 167.—AUS.

4139 v. ———.]—A statement by the man that was assaulted, made immediately after the assault & in the presence of the accused, is admissible in evidence.—R. v. DRAIN (1892), 8 Man. L. R. 535.—CAN.

4139 vi. ———.]—On a trial for rape, the evidence of the prosecution was that prisoner knocked her down, got on her, pulled up her clothes, & committed a rape on her. A witness proved that prisoner stated that he did no more than her husband would have done. Evidence was admitted of a statement made by prisoner's counsel at a previous trial on behalf of prisoner, that prisoner had had connection with the woman with her consent, & that he had paid her $1.00:—Held: there was sufficient evidence of the commission of the offence; & the statement of the prisoner's counsel was properly admitted.—R. v. BEDERE (1891), 21 O. R. 189.—CAN.

4139 vii. ———.]—The fact of the silence of a person accused of receiving stolen property, upon hearing statements made as to his alleged guilt by the person who stole the property, is admissible in evidence as leading to the inference of his guilty knowledge.—Re COHEN (1904), 8 O. L. R. 143; 24 C. L. T. 359; 4 O. W. R. 103; 8 Can. Crim. Cas. 251.—CAN.

4139 viii. ———.]—Statements not coincident, in point of time, with the occurrence of the assault, but uttered in the presence & hearing of accused, & in such circumstances that he might reasonably have been expected to have made some explanatory reply to remarks in reference to them, are admissible as evidence.—GILBERT v. R. (1907), 38 S. C. R. 284.—CAN.

4139 ix. ———.]—B., who died before the trial, was sworn to have been

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 5, C.]

of a criminal charge against him, & to which he gave no direct reply, may be opened to the jury by counsel for the prosecution.—R. v. SMITHIES (1832), 5 C. & P. 332.

4140. ———. Statement of wife.]—R. v. BARTLETT* (1837), 7 C. & P. 832.

—The only principle of admitting what A. says in the presence of B. in evidence against B. is founded upon the supposition that B. would say, "It is not true," if it was not true, & his silence goes to the jury as evidence from which an assent may be inferred.—R. v. DUFFIELD (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 404; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. R. v. ROWLANDS, 17 Q. B. 671.

4142. ———. —.]—An admission of his guilt, made by the thief while in custody, in the presence of the receiver, is evidence against the receiver.—R. v. Cox (1858), 1 F. & F. 90.

4143. ———. —.]—There being no other evidence but the woman's that prisoner incited her to take the excessive doses except that her father accused him of giving his daughter such things to produce abortion & that he did not deny it:—Held: this was some corroborative evidence, even assuming the woman to be in the position of an accomplice requiring corroboration.—R. v. CRAMP (1880), 14 Cox, C. C. 390; affd., 5 Q. B. D. 307, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Tate*, [1908] 2 K. B. 680. Mentd. R. v. Brown (1899), 63 J. P. 790; R. v. Bickley (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 53; R. v. Turner (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 203.

4144. ———. —.]—The ct. will not exclude a statement made in prisoner's presence by another party to a third person, merely because some inducement has been held out to that party to make it; but very little weight ought to be attached to the fact of no answer being given to such statement by prisoner, as he would not know whether it would be better for him to be silent or not.—R. v. JANKOWSKI (1886), 10 Cox, C. C. 365.

4145. ———. —.]—Prisoner was indicted for the murder of her infant child. She had made a statement to her husband, who took her to a police station, & in her presence, repeated her statement to a police officer. Prisoner, on hearing what her husband said, made no reply, but burst into tears:—Held: the statement made by the husband was admissible.—R. v. BEXLEY (1906), 70 J. P. 263.

4146. ———. —.]—Prisoner was indicted for stealing & receiving larc. Evidence was given that prisoner & C. were charged together with stealing & receiving the larc. In reply to the charge C. said, "Yes, it's quite right; I sold them for H." (prisoner). Prisoner said nothing. The police then read over to prisoner a statement previously made by C. Prisoner again made no reply, though he had an opportunity of denying the allegations contained in the statement or of making any explanation:—Held: the evidence of C.'s statement was admissible as to show prisoner's conduct & demeanour on hearing it.—R. v. BROMHEAD (1906), 71 J. P. 103, C. C. R. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Thompson, [1910] 1 K. B. 640.

4147. ———. —.]—Should be excluded unless some evidence of admission by accused.]—R. v. NORTON, No. 4137, ante.

4148. ———. —.]—The statement signed by the two accomplices was wrongly admitted by the recorder as evidence against applt. In accordance with the principle laid down in R. v. Norton, No. 4137, ante, the judge at the trial should satisfy himself that such statements are admissible on the ground that prisoner has assented to them, before he allows them to be given in evidence (BANKES, J.).—R. v. STROUD (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

4149. ———. —.]—Applt. was charged with A. At the police station A. was taken into a private room where he made a statement to the effect that applt. had said to him: "You are a stranger here & nobody knows you; will you try & fence these for me?" Applt. was then brought in, & the statement was read over to him in the presence of A. When it had been read, A. said, "I will stand the lot myself; I will deny every word I said in that statement concerning you when I get before the magistrate. There is no need for both of us to go to prison." Applt. said nothing until he was charged, but after being charged he said, "I will say what I have to say later on":—Held: what A. was alleged to have said became evidence against applt. in this way & to this extent, that when it was repeated his conduct became evidence either against him or for him, & if he said nothing, although the statement implicated him directly, it would be evidence against him, & the statements became evidence when read over, not of on the scene of the robbery, & afterwards to have identified two of the prisoners, & to have said to one prisoner that it was he who ran the car & to another that it was he who ran out with the bag; & it was also sworn that prisoners did not deny the allegations.—R. v. KAPLANSKY, SACHUK, & SENILOFF (1922), 69 D. L. L. 625; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 258; 51 O. L. R. 587.—CAN.

4139 x. ———. —.]—When a question is put by an officer to one of two persons at the time of apprehending them on a joint charge the answer to such question may competently be put in evidence against the other, when made in his hearing & without contradiction by him.—LEWIS v. BLAIR (1858), 3 Irv. 16; 30 Sc. Jur. 508.—SCOT.

4139 xi. ———. —.]—In answer to a question addressed to five accused persons, one of them in the presence of all made a confession implicating all, & none of them attempted to make any denial, but understanding the question & answer remained silent:—Held: the confession was admissible against all.—NARASIMMAN v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 458.—S. AF.

4139 xii. ———. —.]—The rule of law undoubtedly is that a statement made in the presence of an accused person, even upon an occasion which should be expected reasonably to call for some explanation or denial from him, is not evidence against him of the facts stated save so far as he accepts the statement so as to make it in effect his own. If he accepts the statement in part only, then to that extent alone it becomes his statement.—R. v. BOTHA, [1917] T. P. D. 380.—S. AF.

4139 xiii. ———. —.]—Where one accused, in the presence of another, makes a statement implicating the latter, the statement is no evidence of the facts contained in it. It is only admissible as leading up to evidence against the second accused consisting of an admission by the latter of the truth of the statement or of such conduct as would indicate guilt. Where the statement made by the first accused is at once denied by the second, it affords no evidence against the latter.—R. v. HUGHES & KOGANIK (1916), C. P. D. 737.—S. AF.

4139 xiv. ———. —.]—Accused was charged with supplying liquor to H., a coloured woman, in contravention of Transvaal Ordinance, 32 of 1902. At the trial evidence was led for the Crown that H. when found in possession of liquor had pointed out accused, who was present but who did not assent, as the person from whom she had obtained it. H. was called as a witness, & gave exactly the same testimony on this point as was given by the Crown. No question of disputed identity arose nor was there anything to indicate that the presiding magistrate accepted the evidence as proof of the truth of the statement:—Held: that the evidence was admissible.—R. v. JACKELSON (1917), App. D. 556.—S. AF.

4139 xv. ———. —.]—The only evidence against a prisoner charged with having voluntarily caused grievous hurt was a statement made in the presence of prisoner by the person injured to a third person immediately after the commission of the offence. Prisoner did not, when the statement was made, deny that he had done the act complained of:—Held: the evidence was admissible.—Re SURAT DHOBNI (1884), 1 L. R. 10 Calc. 302.—IND.

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence :
Sub-sect. 5, C., D. & E.]

over the above-mentioned statement to both prisoners, & applts. denied the truth of the whole of it. At the trial applt.'s fellow prisoner pleaded guilty to the indictment, & the trial proceeded against applt. The prosecution tendered in evidence the statement which had been read over in applt.'s presence. The statement was admitted, & applt. was found guilty:—Held: notwithstanding applt.'s denial of the truth of the allegations contained therein, the statement was admissible against him.—R. v. THOMPSON, [1910] 1 K. B. 640; 79 L. J. K. B. 321; 102 L. T. 257; 74 J. P. 176; 26 T. L. R. 252; 22 Cox, C. C. 299; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 45, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid, R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4163. — Should not be received in practice though in law receivable.]—R. v. CHRISTIE*, No. 3811, ante.

4164. — —.]—The jury should be directed that, a statement made by one prisoner implicating another & immediately denied, although strictly admissible as evidence, must not be accepted as evidence of the facts contained in such statement.—R. v. CURNOCK (1914), 111 L. T. 816; 24 Cox, C. C. 440; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

D. Statements explaining Acts.

4165. Admissible when explanatory of an act otherwise unintelligible.]—R. v. GORDON* (LORD

(1781), 21 State Tr. 485; 2 Doug. K. B. 590; 99 E. R. 372.

Annotations:—Reid, Redford v. Birley (1822), 3 Stark. 110, n.; R. v. Frost (1840), 4 State Tr. N. S. 85; R. v. Petcherini (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 79. Mentd. R. v. Melville (1806), 29 State Tr. 549; Mortimer v. M'Callan (1840), 6 M. & W. 58.

4166. —.]—R. v. SMYTH* (1832), 5 C. & P. 201, N. P.

4167. —.]—An indictment for perjury charged that in a suit in Chancery it became material to ascertain whether an annuity granted by G. to deft., or by G. to B., as trustee for deft. had been paid up to the year 1828, & that deft. falsely swore that it had not been paid, whereas, in truth, the annuity had been paid by G. to B., & B. had paid it to deft. With a view of showing that B., who had been abroad since 1832, had paid the money to deft., it was proved that B. had sent money to his bankers by his clerk, & it was proposed to ask the clerk the following question:—"At the time you received this money from Mr. B. to pay in at the bankers, what did he say about the money?"—Held: the question might be put, & the answer was receivable in evidence against deft.—R. v. HALL (1838), 8 C. & P. 358, N. P.

4168. —.]—Where certain directions were given by the witness to a third party, not in the presence of prisoner, which directions were necessary to explain the conduct of such third party:—Held: the terms of these directions were admissible in evidence both from the party giving harm. On Oct. 13, the day after the wounding took place, prisoner not being present a constable took down M.'s statement in writing before a J.P., & she signed & swore to it. On Oct. 18, prisoner then being present with others, the statement was read over to M., & accused was told he might ask questions, but he was not shown the contents of the document. He asked one question. M. was then sworn & said that the statement was true. M. died on Nov. 4. At the trial the statement was, after objection, put in & read, not as a deposition, but as a verbal statement made in prisoner's presence & reduced to writing. Held: inadmissible.—R. v. SOLARI (1891), 12 N. S. W. L. R. 18.—AUS.

p. Proof—Necessity for.]—Evidence was also admitted of a conversation between the interpreter & another Chinaman, Ah Duk, as to the intention of the police to arrest accused & others, & in which Ah Duk suggested that the police should "give them a chance," & admitted that they had "only been here three weeks," & that "if deft. is sent back to China he will starve." The only positive evidence to establish that accused heard the conversation was that of a police officer who could not understand Chinese, in which language the conversation took place. There was nothing to show that accused, if he heard the conversation, made any reply:—Held: the statement, not being shown to have been made in the presence of accused, or to have been heard by him, was not admissible, nor was any inference of guilt to be drawn from his silence under the circumstances.—AH HOY v. HOUGH (1912), 14 W. A. L. R. 214.—AUS.

q. Statement by prosecutor before arrest of accused.]—In a case of larceny where the question turned on the identification of bank-notes the jury after retiring returned into ct. & were allowed to ask the arresting constable if the prosecutor who at the trial identified one of several notes found on accused had stated before the arrest that he could identify the notes:—Held: the evidence was inadmissible.—R. v. KING (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 120.—AUS.

r. Statement made by deceased—Before arrest of accused—Murder.]—R. v. MILLOY* (1883), 6 L. N. 95.—CAN.

s. Not admissible to prove charge made against accused or nature of it.]—Statements made in prisoner's presence after his arrest, are not admissible to prove that a charge was made against him, & what it was.—R. v. MORRISSEY (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 321.—IR.

t. Conversation—Not unless accused took part in it.]—Evidence of a conversation:—Held: not to be admissible, unless it appear that prisoner took part in the conversation, although he was in such a position as that he might have heard the conversation.—GRAY'S CASE (1841), 1r. Cir. Rep. 76.—IR.

a. Statement by deceased to two magistrates—In the hearing of the accused—Murder.]—Indictment for the murder of A. Subsequently to the assault on, but previously to the death of A., & by the direction of two magistrates, prisoners were brought into the presence of A.:—Held: a relevant statement, not being a dying declaration, made by A. to magistrates, in the hearing of the prisoners, was not admissible in evidence, although the same was not contradicted by the prisoners.—R. v. GILLIGAN (1844), 3 Craw. & D. 175.—IR.

b. Statement made shortly after occurrence—Part of res gestæ.]—The statement made of the transaction shortly afterwards in the presence of the panel was a part of res gestæ, & in a totally different situation from an account given after an interval of some hours.—Re MORAN (1836), 1 Swin. 231.—SCOT.

c. Warning by wife of accused—As to presence of police.]—When an accused was charged with illicit sale of liquor & the evidence showed the detectives entered a room where the alleged sale took place under circumstances which were highly suspicious with reference to the accused: Held: evidence of the fact of a warning by the wife of accused in the hearing of the detectives was admissible against the accused.—R. v. ALEXANDER (1913), T. P. D. 561.—S. AF.

d. Statement of deceased—Murder—Receivable in favorem vitæ.]—A. was charged with the murder of B. by pouring kerosene over her, & setting it on fire. C. was called by A. after the occurrence, & found B. lying on the bank of a creek, & assisted in carrying her to the house, where she made a statement to C. in A.'s presence, as to how the accident had happened:—Held: the statement was receivable in evidence in favorem vitæ.—R. v. DYER, 2 J. R. 21.—N.Z.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—D.

4165 i. Admissible when explanatory of an act otherwise unintelligible.]—A prisoner was convicted of sodomy. The offence was clearly proved by the evidence of the boy assaulted, which was corroborated by the medical testimony. During the Crown case, the mother of the boy was called & gave evidence that she had examined the boy shortly after the offence was committed.

In cross-examination, she said, "My husband came home that night. I did not tell him of the boy's condition." She was then asked by the judge how it was she did not inform her husband of the boy's condition; to which she replied that she had never heard of such a thing before & did not know that a crime had been committed. Objection was taken on behalf of the prisoner that the judge was not entitled to ask the witness her reason for not informing her husband of the boy's condition:—Held: the evidence was admissible.—R. v. KELLY (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 518.—AUS.

4165 ii. —.]—On a charge of sedition contained in a speech evidence of the concurrent circumstances necessary for understanding of the speech can be proved.—R. v. YOUNG (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 1191.—N.Z.

& the party receiving them.—R. v. GANDFIELD (1846), 2 Cox, C. C. 43.

4169. —.]—On the trial of a prisoner for the murder of his wife a neighbour swore that a week before the alleged crime was committed deceased visited her house, bringing an axe & carving knife, & gave them to her to take care of:—Held: the evidence of what was said by deceased to the witness on handing her the instruments was admissible.—R. v. EDWARDS (1872), 12 Cox, C. C. 230.

4170. Mere declaration of intention not admissible.—R. v. POOK (1871), 13 Cox, C. C. 172, n. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4171. —.]—R. v. WAINWRIGHT (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 171.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

E. Statements forming Part of the res gestæ.

4172. Statement by person injured immediately after hurt received.—In indictments for wounding what was said immediately upon the hurt received by the person wounded may be given in evidence as part of the res gestæ.—THOMPSON v. TREVANION (1693), Holt, K. B. 286; Skin. 402; 90 E. R. 1057, N. P.

Annotations:—Refd. Aveson v. Kinnaird (1805), 6 East, 188; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4173. —.]—A. was charged with manslaughter in killing B., by driving a cabriolet over him. C. saw the cabriolet drive by, but did not see the accident, & immediately afterwards, on hearing B. groan, went up to him, when B. made a statement as to how the accident had happened:—Held: this statement was receivable in evidence on the trial of A. for the manslaughter of B.—R. v. FOSTER (1834), 6 C. & P. 325.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Brown (1840), 4 J. P. 445. Refd. Gilbey v. G. W. Ry. (1910), 102 L. T. 202; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.—E.

4172 i. Statement by person injured immediately after hurt received.—The words "I have a wound in my throat; M. has settled me," uttered by a deceased person during an attack on him by prisoner & others, are admissible in evidence against prisoner, on a charge of murdering deceased, as part of the res gestæ.—R. v. MOGAR (1850), 1 Legge, 655.—AUS.

4172 ii. —.]—Evidence of statements made immediately after an assault of a person, since deceased, under apprehension of further danger & requesting assistance & protection, is admissible as part of the res gestæ even though the person accused of the offence was absent at the time when such statements were made.—GILBERT v. R. (1907), 38 S. C. R. 284; 27 L. T. 240; 12 Can. Crim. Cas. 127.—CAN.

4172 iii. —.]—Statements made by deceased to the first person who comes up after he had been wounded, are admissible as part of the res gestæ.—R. v. LUNNY (1854), 6 Cox, C. C. 477.—IR.

4172 iv. —.]—The whole of a statement made to the police by an injured man, immediately after the injuries were inflicted, can be given in evidence.—R. v. HERLIHY (1898), 32 L. T. Jo. 38.—IR.

4172 v. —.]—K., a public-house keeper, was charged with robbery & murder. The mother of deceased in giving evidence said deceased came home at 7 p.m. & when he opened the door exclaimed, "Mother, I am murdered & robbed of my money." Witness asked him where he had been. He said, "In the house of K." Counsel for defence objected:—Held: the objection would be repelled.—H.M.

ADVOCATE v. M'KENZIE (1827), Syme, 158.—SCOT.

4172 vi. —.]—A statement made by an injured person shortly before his death is admissible, on a trial for murder or culpable homicide, as part of the res gestæ, if the presiding judge, in the exercise of a sound discretion, is of opinion that the statement was made so shortly after the infliction of the injury as to form part of the same transaction, & that the deceased had no time or opportunity to devise a story to the disadvantage of accused.—It. v. LE ROUX (1897), 14 S. C. 424; 7 C. T. R. 434.—S. AF.

4175 i. — No interval of time must have elapsed.—At a trial of prisoner upon an indictment for murder, a witness for the Crown swore upon direct examination that deceased lived about thirty rods from him, & that one night, about half an hour after he had heard shots in the direction of deceased's house, deceased came to the witness's house, & asked the witness to take him in, for he was shot. The witness did so, & deceased died there some hours afterwards. Evidence of statements made by deceased after being taken into the witness's house was rejected. Upon a case reserved:—Held: the statements made by deceased after he was taken into the house were not admissible as part of the res gestæ, being made after all action on the part of the wrongdoer had ceased through the completion of the principal act, & after all pursuit or danger had ceased.—R. v. McMAHON (1889), 18 O. R. 502.—CAN.

e. Statement made by wife of accused.—It is incompetent to examine the sister of the wife of accused as to statements made to her by the wife, in reference to the alleged 4174. —.]—On a trial for murder, the death had been caused by cutting the throat, all the vessels & arteries having been severed, & death was therefore certain to ensue, & in fact ensued almost immediately afterwards, & a declaration had been made by deceased in writing, he having no power to speak, about five minutes before death, when he was actually dying:—Held: the declaration might be admissible.—R. v. MORGAN (1875), 14 Cox, C. C. 337.

4175. — No interval of time must have elapsed.—On an indictment for murder, it appearing that deceased, with her throat cut through, came suddenly out of a room, in which she left prisoner, who also had his throat cut, & was speechless, & that she said something immediately after coming out of the room, & a few minutes before she died, the question being murder or suicide:—Held: her statement was not admissible as part of the res gestæ. Qu.: whether in such a case the act is complete until death takes place.

Anything uttered by deceased at the time the act was being done would be admissible. But here it was something stated by her when it was all over, whatever it was, & after the act was completed (COCKBURN, C.J.).—R. v. BEDINGFIELD (1879), 14 Cox, C. C. 341.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4176. —.]—R. v. GODDARD (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 7.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Abbott (1903), 67 J. P. 151.

4177. —.]—R. v. HORSFORD, No. 4134, ante.

4178. —.]—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

4179. Statement made by witness of an occurrence.—R. v. FOWKES, No. 3876, ante.

4180. Cry of mob in riot.—R. v. DAMMAREE, No. 3830, ante.

commission of the crime of incest upon the panel's daughters, unless the statements were made on the day of the occurrences labelled, or as part of the res gestæ.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. SIMPSON (1870), 1 Couper, 437.—SCOT.

f. —.]—H.M. ADVOCATE v. KEMP (1891), 3 White, 17.—SCOT.

g. Cry of mob in riot—Witness accused not engaged in unlawful act with common object.—It was proposed to give in evidence a statement, not in prisoner's hearing, made by a boy who was one of a crowd round a fire, & was engaged in throwing books into the blaze. There was no evidence of this boy having been retained by the traverser, or of his having received any directions on the subject:—Held: such statement was not admissible, as part of the res gestæ, & did not come within those classes of cases, as riots & conspiracies, in which such statements would be evidence, as it did not appear that accused & the person whose statement was offered in evidence were engaged in an unlawful act with a common unlawful object.—R. v. PETCHERINI (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 79.—IR.

h. Statement in prisoner's hearing—Prisoner not visible—Statement not explaining act done.—Qu.: whether statements made in a prisoner's hearing, although the witness could not see prisoner & had no opportunity of observing his demeanour, an admissible as part of res gestæ when they do not tend to explain the acts.—R. v. BURNS & MACK (1877), Knox, 183.—AUS.

k. Statement of word used to murdered man & his reply—Where contemporaneous with injury.—On a trial for murder what was said to the murdered man & his reply by word or

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence: Sub-sect. 5, E. & F.; sub-sect. 6, A. & B.]

4181. ———.]—R. v. GORDON (LORD), No. 4165, ante.

F. Dying Declarations.

See Part XXXIII., Sect. 1, sub-sect. 1, Q (b), post.

SUB-SECT. 6.—COMPLAINTS.

A. In General.

4182. Existence of fact of complaint admissible—Whether details admissible.]—If a party robbed go within a few hours after the robbery to a constable, & mention the name of the person who robbed him, the party robbed may be asked at the trial whether he named any person to the constable; but ought not to be asked what name he mentioned; & the constable may be asked, whether, in consequence of the party robbed mentioning a name to him, he went in search of any person, & if so, who that person was.—R. v. WINK (1834), 6 C. & P. 397, N. P.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Osborne (1842), Car. & M. 622; R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

4183. ———.]—R. v. RIDSDALE (1837), Starkie on Evidence, 4th ed., p. 469.

4184. ———.]—R. v. FOLLEY (1896), 60 J. P. 569.

4185. ———.]—BEATTY v. CULLINGWORTH (1896), 60 J. P. 740.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Camelleri, [1922] 2 K. B. 122.

B. In Sexual Offences against Females.

4186. Fact of complaint admissible—Details inadmissible.]—R. v. CLARKE, No. 3859, ante.

4187. ———.]—On a trial for rape, or attempt to commit a rape, the female assaulted may be confirmed by proof that she recently after the alleged outrage made a complaint, but the particulars of what she said cannot be asked in chief of the confirming witness, but may in cross-examination.—R. v. WALKER (1839), 2 Mood. & R. 212, N. P.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.
Mentd. Hancock v. Somes (1859), 1 E. & E. 795.

gesture shortly after the infliction of the mortal wound & in the absence of accused may not be given in evidence unless what was said & the reply followed so soon after the infliction of the wound as to be substantially contemporaneous with it.—BROWN v. R. (1913), 17 C. L. R. 570.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 6.—A.

4182 i. Existence of fact of complaint admissible—Whether details admissible.]—On a charge of public indecency the mother of A., a witness for the Crown, was called at the trial & stated that A. had made a report to her & had told her that accused had exposed his person to him & a domestic servant in whose company he was. The magistrate convicted accused, & from the reasons submitted by him in support of the conviction it appeared that he had been influenced by the report:—Held: accused was prejudiced through the admission of illegal evidence & the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. ERICKSON (1917), C. P. D. 329.—S. AF.

1. ———. Depends on circumstances of each case.—Where evidence was admitted of a complaint, which was not made immediately after the alleged assault:—Held: it is not always necessary that the complaint should be made immediately or spontaneously. Evidence of the complaint is not really relevant against accused, but is admitted to the jury as evidence of complainant, & the question of admissibility must be decided in each case upon the special circumstances.—R. v. SIDEROPOULOS (1910), C. P. D. 15; 20 C. T. R. 397.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 6.—B.

4186 i. Fact of complaint admissible—Details inadmissible.]—On an information for rape, witnesses called to corroborate the statement of prosecutrix that she complained can only be examined by counsel for the prosecution as to whether complaint was made, & cannot be asked to state any detail of the complaint, & where a witness stated the terms of the complaint & in the complaint prisoner was spoken of by name as the offender, a conviction following on such evidence was quashed.—R. v. COOPER (1864), 1 W. W. & A.B. 123.—AUS.

4186 ii. ———.]—On the trial of a prisoner for carnally knowing a girl under the age of sixteen the girl herself gave evidence that she said to prisoner that she had told a police constable everything. She was not cross-examined upon this evidence. The constable was afterwards called, & said she had made a statement to him. The jury asked what the statement was. The judge allowed the question, but upon conviction of prisoner stated a 4188. ———.]—In a case of rape, a person to whom prosecutrix made a complaint very recently after the offence, as she was on her way home, may be asked whether she named a person as having committed the offence, but not whose name she mentioned.—R. v. OSBORNE (1842), Car. & M. 622.

Annotation:—Distd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

4189. ———.]—Evidence of complaint made by prosecutrix alleging a sexual offence is not properly called corroboration. In such cases the true rule for the direction of the jury is laid down in R. v. Lillyman, No. 4194, post.—R. v. LOVELL (1923), 129 L. T. 638; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 163, C. C. A.

4190. ———. Details admissible only to confirm evidence given by prosecutrix—Prosecutrix dead.]

—On the trial of an indictment for a rape, it appeared that the person alleged to have been ravished, but who was since dead, had come home evidently suffering from recent violence. It was proved, that on her return home she made a statement as to the injury she had received, & named the persons who had committed it:—Held: the particulars of this statement could not be given in evidence as independent evidence, to show who were the persons who committed the offence, & statements of this kind were only admissible to confirm the evidence of prosecutrix, by showing that she made a recent complaint of the injury she had received.—R. v. MEGSON, BATTYE & ELLIS (1840), 9 C. & P. 420.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

Prosecutrix kept out of way by accused.]—In a case of rape, if it were proved on the part of the prosecution that the party alleged to have been ravished has been kept out of the way by the prisoners, the judge would allow her deposition before the magistrate to be given in evidence; but where that was not proved, & prosecutrix was not at the trial, evidence of complaints made by her recently after the outrage was rejected, as such evidence is received as confirmatory evidence only.—R. v. GUTTRIDGE (1840), 9 C. & P. 471.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.
Mentd. R. v. St. George (1840), 9 C. & P. 483; R. v. Bird (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 20.

case for the opinion of the ct. —Held: the evidence was not admissible.—R. v. COLEMAN (1901), 27 V. L. R. 153.—AUS.

4186 iii. ———.]—On a trial for rape, counsel for the prosecution was allowed to examine a witness as to whether or not prosecutrix made speedy complaint of the ill-treatment in question, but was not permitted to examine as to the particulars of such complaint, or the person complained of.—R. v. ALEXANDER, [1841] 2 Craw. & D. 126.—IR.

4186 iv. ———.]—In rape, prosecutrix may be questioned as to her having promptly complained of the injury, but cannot be interrogated as to the particulars of such complaint.—R. v. MACLEAN, [1841] 2 Craw. & D. 350.—IR.

4186 v. ———.]—On an indictment for a rape, evidence cannot be given by the Crown of the particulars detailed by prosecutrix to a policeman shortly after the commission of the offence.—QUIGLEY'S CASE (1842), Ir. Cr. Rep. 677.—IR.

m. ———. Complainant an imbecile.]—Where at the trial of a prisoner for indecent assault the female alleged to have been assaulted is not examined, on account of her imbecility, the substance of a statement made by her to her mother shortly after the

4192. — Details of complaint admitted.—R. v. EYRE (1860), 2 F. & F. 579.

Annotation :—Reid. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

4193. — ——Where a man is charged with committing a rape upon a female the full particulars of the complaint she made against him to other persons in his absence some time after the alleged offence may be given in evidence.—R. v. WOOD (1877), 14 Cox, C. C. 46.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167. Mentd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4194. — As evidence of consistency of conduct of prosecutrix.—Upon the trial of an indictment for rape, or other kindred offences against women or girls, the fact that a complaint was made by prosecutrix shortly after the alleged occurrence, & the particulars of such complaint, may, so far as they relate to the charge against prisoner, be given in evidence on the part of the prosecution, not as being evidence of the facts complained of, but as evidence of the consistency of the conduct of prosecutrix with the story told by her in the witness-box, & as negating consent on her part.—R. v. LILLYMAN, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167; 65 L. J. M. C. 195; 74 L. T. 730; 60 J. P. 536; 44 W. R. 654; 12 T. L. R. 473; 40 Sol. Jo. 584; 18 Cox, C. C. 348, C. C. R.

Annotations :—Apld. R. v. Folley (1896), 60 J. P. 569. Consd. Beatty v. Cullingworth (1896), 60 J. P. 740; 11 R. v. Rowland (1898), 62 J. P. 459. Apld. R. v. Merry (1900), 19 Cox, C. C. 442. Distd. R. v. Kingham (1902), 66 J. P. 393. Consd. R. v. Osborne, [1905] 1 K. B. 551. Apld. Chesney v. Newsholme, Newsholme v. Chesney (2), [1908] P. 301. Distd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545. Apld. R. v. Camelleri, [1922] 2 K. B. 122. Consd. R. v. Lovell (1923), 129 L. T. 638. Reid. R. v. Smith (1897), 18 Cox, C. C. 470; R. v. Wannell (1922), 87 J. P. 48. Mentd. Jones v. S. E. & C. Rys. Managing Committee (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 775.

4195. Application of rule where consent is immaterial—Indecent assault on child.—All that R. v. Lillyman, No. 4194, ante, decided was that the terms of a complaint were only admissible as evidence of a want of consent by prosecutrix, & not as evidence of the truth of the charge against the person named in the complaint (HAWKINS, J.).—R. v. ROWLAND (1898), 62 J. P. 459.

Annotation :—Reid. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545.

4196. — Prosecutrix unsworn.—In a case of carnally knowing & abusing a girl under ten years old, it appeared that the girl was only six years old, & by reason of her age quite incompetent to take an oath :—Held : the trial ought not to be postponed in order that the child might be instructed as to the nature of an oath, but there might be cases of children of more matured intellect, e.g. of ten or twelve years old, who might be from neglected education incapable of being sworn, in which such a postponement might be proper. Where, in such a case, the child, from her tender age, was incompetent to be sworn, the judge would not receive evidence of what the child stated to her mother shortly after the alleged offence took place, nor allow the mother to prove that the child mentioned to her the name of any particular person.—R. v. NICHOLAS (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 246; 2 Cox, C. C. 136.

4197. — ——(1) The decision in R. v. Lillyman, No. 4194, ante, applies to cases where the girl on whom the offence is alleged to have been committed is of such tender years that the ct. directs her evidence to be taken, but not upon oath, & where the question of her consent to the assault is immaterial. (2) Such a complaint may be admissible, although not made at the earliest opportunity.—R. v. KIDDLE (1898), 19 Cox, C. C. 77.

Annotation :—Reid. R. v. Osborne, [1905] 1 K. B. 551.

4198. — ——The decision in R. v. Lillyman, No. 4194, ante, applies only to cases where the question of consent is material, & should not be extended to cases where that question is immaterial.—R. v. KINGHAM (1902), 66 J. P. 393.

Annotation :—Reid. R. v. Osborne, [1905] 1 K. B. 551.

4199. — ——In support of a charge of rape or an offence of a similar class, but only in such cases, a statement in the nature of a complaint made by prosecutrix to a third person, not in the presence of accused, may be given in evidence, whether proof of non-consent is or is not a material element in the charge under investigation, provided such statement is shown to have been made at the first opportunity which reasonably offered itself after the commission of the offence, & has not been elicited by questions of a leading & inducing or intimidating character. The judge ought, however, to inform the jury that the statement is not evidence of the facts complained of, & must not be regarded by them, if believed, as other than corroboration of prosecutrix's credibility, & where consent is in issue, of the absence of consent.

Where the statement has been made in answer to a question, & the fact that it has been so made does not, of itself, render it inadmissible as a complaint, it is for the judge in each case to determine whether the character of the question put, as well as the other circumstances, such as the relationship of the questioner to prosecutrix, is such as to render the statement inadmissible.—R. v. OSBORNE, [1905] 1 K. B. 551; 74 L. J. K. B.

assault cannot be given in evidence by her mother, although the fact that she made a statement may be given in evidence.—R. v. BURKE (1912), 47 L. T. 111.—IR.

n. — Except to support sworn testimony.—Evidence relating to an unsworn oral statement, not part of the res gestæ, but alleged to have been made by a woman or girl at the first reasonable opportunity after the occurrence of an alleged sexual offence against her, is not admissible to prove the facts complained of. It is admissible only where it supports the sworn testimony of some person.—R. v. LAMBERT, [1919] V. L. R. 205.—AUS.

4192 i. — Details of complaint admitted.—In an action for damages by a husband & wife for assaults alleged to have been committed on the wife, under circumstances which made them the criminal offence of an attempt to commit rape or an indecent assault :—Held : evidence of statement & complaints made by the wife to the husband after the alleged assaults took place was properly received.—HOPKINSON v. PERDUE (1904), 8 O. L. R. 228; 24 C. L. T. 339; 3 O. W. R. 934.—CAN.

4192 ii. — ——Deft. was convicted of the offence of attempting to commit incest with his daughter aged 7 years, upon the evidence of said daughter & another girl aged 4 years :—Held : a statement made by the daughter to one B., shortly after the attempt, was admissible.—R. v. PAILLEUR (1909), 15 O. W. R. 73; 20 O. L. R. 207; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 339.—CAN.

4192 iii. — ——On trial of prisoner for rape, conversations between complainant & her mother shortly after commission of offence, admitted as evidence.—R. v. CASSIDY (1909), 7 E. L. R. 216.—CAN.

4192 iv. — ——In a trial for rape, it having appeared that the girl assaulted was of weak intellect & incapable of understanding the nature & obligation of an oath objection sustained to her being examined as a witness, but :—Held : a statement made by her to her mother, immediately after the alleged assault, was admissible as part of res gestæ.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MURRAY (1866), 5 Irv. 232; 38 Sc. Jur. 377.—SCOT.

4192 v. — ——Statements made by a complainant shortly after the alleged commission of an offence to a person to whom he or she would naturally complain are only admissible in evidence in cases where the charge is one of rape, indecent assault, or of a similar nature.—GUTTENBERG v. R., [1906] T. S. 207.—S. AF.

o. — To confirm testimony & disprove consent.—On a trial for rape, the fact that the injured person made a complaint, & the particulars or details of the complaint, are admissible as evidence in chief for the prosecution to confirm the testimony of the injured person & disprove consent on her part, & among the particulars the name of the person whom she accused of the offence may the girl to tell her unassisted & unvarnished story :—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. NORCOTT, [1917] 1 K. B. 347; 86 L. J. K. B. 78; 116 L. T. 576; 81 J. P. 123; 25 Cox, C. C. 698; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 166, C. C. A.

4211. —[J].—R. v. WILBOURNE, No. 4207, ante.

C. In Sexual Offences against Males.

4212. Details of complaint not admitted—Act of gross indecency.—R. v. HOODLESS (1900), 64 J. P. 282.

4213. Details admitted—Offence under Clergy Discipline Act, 1892 (c. 32).—CHESNEY v. NEWSHOLME, NEWSHOLME v. CHESNEY, [1908] P. 301.

4214. — Indecent assault & act of gross indecency.—On the trial of an indictment against a prisoner for committing an act of gross indecency with a boy of the age of fifteen, the judge admitted particulars of a complaint made by the boy to his parents shortly after the commission of the offence, not as evidence of the facts complained of, but to show consistency of conduct on the part of the boy, & as tending to corroborate his evidence :—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. CAMELLERI, [1922] 2 K. B. 122; 91 L. J. K. B. 671; 127 L. T. 228; 86 J. P. 135; 66 Sol. Jo. 667; 27 Cox, C. C. 246; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 162, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Wannell (1922), 87 J. P. 48.

4215. — Sodomy.—R. v. WANNELL (1922), 87 J. P. 48; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 7.—PROPERTY AND DOCUMENTS FOUND IN POSSESSION OF THE ACCUSED.

4216. Property found on his person—General rule.—Prisoner's counsel contended that the revolver & other instruments found upon him at the time of his arrest should not have been produced in evidence against him. But surely for years it has been the custom for police witnesses who arrest prisoners to say what they find upon them. Such evidence is admissible but its weight is another matter & that is for the jury (BUCKNELL, J.).—R. v. FROGGATT (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 115, C. C. A.

4217. — Not evidence of truth of contents of

Held: the evidence was properly admitted.—R. v. MANNING (1910), 13 W. A. L. R. 6.—AUS.

s. Complaint must be spontaneous.—On a charge of rape it was sought to give in evidence statements made by prosecutrix on the day following the alleged assault to a police inspector who called upon her with reference to the matter:—Held: the evidence was inadmissible. The statements were not made as the unstudied outcome of the feelings of the woman.—R. v. GRAHAM (1899), 31 O. R. 77.—CAN.

t. Admissibility question for judge.—Upon a trial for rape it is a question for the judge to decide whether the first complaint made by the woman after the alleged offence is one which having regard to prosecutrix & prisoner's safety should be admitted in such complaint, are admissible.—R. v. A. B. (1911), 31 N. Z. L. R. 29.—N.Z.

4214 i. Details admitted—Indecent assault or act of gross indecency.—Prisoner was convicted of an attempt to commit an unnatural offence on a boy, who complained to a police constable about two hours after the alleged offence. Evidence that a complaint had been made was admitted at the trial but not evidence of its nature:—Held: in the absence of any decisive authority on the point, the principles established with regard to the sexual offences against females were equally applicable to sexual offences against males & therefore evidence both of the fact that a complaint had been made & of the particulars of such complaint was admissible.—R. v. McNAMARA, [1917] N. Z. L. R. 382.—N.Z.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 7.

4216 i. Property found on his person—General rule.—On a charge of seditious conspiracy, comments found in the hands of accused are admissible in evidence & are prima facie evidence against him. It will be inferred that he knows their contents. If they refer to the conspiracy they will be important document so found.]—Though a letter found upon prisoner may be read, it is no evidence of the facts it states. They must be proved by other evidence. R. v. PLUMER (1814), Russ. & Ry. 264, C. C. R.

4218. — To show guilty knowledge.—R. v. HOUNSFIELD (1849), 13 J. P. 460.

4219. — Letter from wife of accused.—On his apprehension prisoner was searched & in his pocket was found a letter addressed to him, which letter was asserted by his counsel to be in the handwriting of his wife. It was objected that, if this letter was written by prisoner's wife, its contents could not be read in evidence against him, inasmuch as a wife cannot be witness against her husband. The contents of the letter were admitted, but with an intimation that a case would be reserved upon it.—R. v. HILDITCH (1871), 12 Cox, C. C. 131.

4220. Property found at his residence—Subsequent discovery of articles secreted.—A witness in high treason was described in the list delivered to prisoner under Treason Act, 1708 (c. 21), s. 14, as lately abiding at a specified place. Upon examination of the witness upon the voir dire, it appeared that he had had a different & later place of residence:—Held: the description was not sufficient.

A great number of placards announcing a public meeting having been printed, prisoner took 25 of them away from the printer's:—Held: one of the remaining placards might be read without any preparatory evidence as to the original manuscript, & without notice to prisoner to produce the 25 copies.

Papers found in the lodgings of a co-conspirator at a period subsequent to the apprehension of prisoner may be read in evidence, although no absolute proof be given of their previous existence, where strong presumption exists that the lodgings had not been entered by any one in the interval between the apprehension & the finding, & where the papers are intimately connected with the objects of the conspiracy as detailed in evidence.

In treason & felony evidence may be given of finding articles secreted although they were found at a time subsequent to prisoner's apprehension.

Evidence was admitted of a seditious speech spoken by prisoner, although not set out in substance as an overt act.

to show complicity & intention.—R. v. RUSSELL, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 624: 51 D. L. R. 1.—CAN.

4216 ii. —[J].—Where a person is arrested for committing a felony or misdemeanour, any property in his possession believed to have been used by him for the purpose of committing the offence may be seized & detained as evidence in support of the charge.—DILON v. O'BRIEN & DAVIS (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 245.—IR.

b. — Proving criminal intent.—Letters written to a person charged with obtaining money by false pretences, showing that he had been engaged in a long-continued scheme of fraud of the same character were found in his possession & were tendered in evidence against him to prove criminal intent:—Held: they were rightly admitted.—R. v. HULL, [1902] S. R. Q. 1.—AUS.

c. — Letter from accused to his wife—Husband & wife charged.—A husband & wife were tried together for stealing & receiving. On the husband when arrested was found a letter addressed to his wife making damaging admissions:—Held: the letter was properly admitted as evidence against male accused.—R. v.

PART XII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 6.—C.

a. Fact of complaint not admitted.—Upon the trial of an indictment for committing an unnatural offence upon a boy, neither the fact that a complaint was made by the latter, in the absence of accused, shortly after the commission of the alleged offence, nor the particulars of

Sect. 4.—Relevant facts—Admissibility of evidence:
Sub-sect. 7. Sect. 5: Sub-sect. 1.]

There is no difference as to the rules of evidence between criminal & civil cases (ABBOT, J.).—R. v. WATSON (1817), 2 Stark. 116; 32 State Tr. 1.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Blake* (1841), 6 Q. B. 126. Refd. R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; R. v. McCafferty (1867), 15 W. R. 1022. Mentd. Redford v. Birley (1822), 1 State Tr. N. S. 1071; Tooth v. Bagwell (1825), 2 C. & P. 187; A.-G. v. Briant (1846), 15 M. & W. 169; Mulcahy v. R. (1867), 15 W. R. 446; R. v. Twopenny (1867), 17 L. T. 266; Marks v. Beyfus (1890), 63 L. T. 733.

4221. —.—[In a period of the trial when it had been proved that the grenades by which the death in question had been caused had been ordered by A.; but when there was no evidence to connect A. with prisoner, it was proved that a letter in A.'s handwriting bearing a memorandum in the hand of prisoner was found at his residence after his arrest upon the present charge:—Held: such a letter was admissible against him upon the ground that it was found in possession of prisoner & was relevant to this inquiry.—R. v. BERNARD (1858), 8 State Tr. N. S. 887; 1 F. & F. 240.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Kohn* (1864), 4 F. & F. 68; R. v. Lomas (1913), 110 L. T. 239.

4222. —.—[Applt. was convicted of shop-breaking. The evidence for the prosecution was that applt. & another man forced open the door of a shop & ran away when the police appeared, applt. being subsequently arrested. It was found that the lock of the shop door was broken, but that nothing had been stolen from the shop, & there were no marks of any instrument having been used in obtaining an entrance, & no housebreaking tools were found in possession of applt. when he was arrested. The defence was that in "sky-larking" applt. & the other man collided & fell against the door, breaking it in. At the trial evidence was admitted that an instrument described as a jemmy had been found at applt.'s lodgings, & that eight days after he was asked by the police how he came into possession of it & that he replied that he did not wish to say anything about it. The judge also put questions to applt. while he was in the dock & before he was sworn, & made comment which was disparaging to applt.:—Held: the evidence of the finding of the alleged jemmy at applt.'s lodgings was inadmissible, since, there being no marks of the use of an instrument on the shop door, there was no probative nexus between the article found & the crime charged; the police should have questioned applt. while the latter was in custody & the evidence of such questioning & of applt.'s answer thereto was inadmissible & the judge should not have questioned applt. while he was in the dock.—

PIERCE (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 135.—AUS.

d. — Notes for defence made by prisoner—Inadmissible.—[Notes found upon a prisoner which he had made for his defence when awaiting his trial are inadmissible in evidence against him.—R. v. MCNAIR (1895), 13 N. Z. L. R. 717.—N.Z.

4221 i. Property found at his residence.—[In a conspiracy a letter evidently relating to the business of the conspiracy, addressed to one of the panels & found in his house three or four days after his apprehension, although there is not sufficient proof that it was written by a co-conspirator, is an admissible article of evidence.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. HUNTER (1838), 2 Swin. 1.—SCOT.

4221 ii. —.—[Letters, etc., found in a man's house after his arrest are admissible in evidence, if their previous

existence has been proved.—R. v. AMIR KHAN (1872), 9 B. L. R. 36 17 W. R. Cr. 15.—IND.

e. Property found elsewhere.—[On a charge of seditious conspiracy, documents found in the hands of parties other than those charged with being parties to the conspiracy are admissible against accused if they relate to the actions & conduct of the persons charged with the conspiracy or to the spread of seditious propaganda as one of the purposes of the conspiracy & can be traced as coming from a party to the conspiracy.—R. v. RUSSELL, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 624; 51 D. L. R. 1.—CAN.

f. — Letter from accused to wife—Found at wife's house.—[On a trial for the offence of breach of trust by a public servant, a letter was tendered in evidence for the prosecution which had been sent by accused to his

R. v. TAYLOR (1923), 87 J. P. 104; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. O. A.

4223. Property found elsewhere—Proved to be knowingly in his possession.—[Where a party was charged with having chartered a vessel & loaded goods on board for the purposes of slave-trading:—Held: slave trading papers found on board the vessel when she was seized in foreign parts, but not traced in any way to the knowledge of such party, were not admissible in evidence against him.—R. v. ZULUETA (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 215.

Annotation:—Mentd. Santos v. Illidge* (1859), 6 C. B. N. S. 841.

4224. —.—[In a portmanteau not proved to belong to prisoner was found a paper folded like a letter, & containing in the inside what purported to be an inventory of goods pawned at different times. The inventory was not in his handwriting; but on the outside of the paper his name, & the word "private," both in his handwriting, were indorsed:—Held: the contents of the paper were not admissible against him.—R. v. HARE & REHDEN (1848), 12 J. P. 727; 3 Cox, C. C. 247.

4225. —.—[R. v. SIMINGTON, [1921] 1 K. B. 451; 90 L. J. K. B. 471; 125 L. T. 128; 85 J. P. 179; 37 T. L. R. 114; 26 Cox, C. C. 736; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

4226. — Letters addressed to accused but not delivered to him.—[Letters which have never been in the custody of prisoner cannot be read in evidence against him.—R. v. HEVEY, BEATTY & M'CARTY (1782), 1 Leach. 232.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Cooper* (1875), 1 Q. B. D. 19.

4227. —.—[A letter, purporting to come from prisoner's brother, & left by the postman pursuant to its direction, at prisoner's lodgings, after he was apprehended & during his confinement but never actually in his custody, cannot be read in evidence against him on his trial.—R. v. HUET (1798), 2 Leach, 820.

4228. —.—[R. v. COOPER, No. 4066, ante.

4229. — Property of murdered person—Found in place visited by accused.—[A woman was found strangled on the morning of Jan. 25; many articles were stolen from her cottage, including a gold watch, chain & money. Applt. was seen on Jan. 25 going to the lavatory of the Central Hotel, Rugby, & some months after in the cistern of that lavatory were discovered some articles stolen from the murdered woman:—Held: the evidence as to the discovery in the cistern of the articles stolen from the murdered woman was properly admitted.—R. v. PALMER (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 237, C. C. A.

4230. Must be material—Charge of publishing obscene book—Evidence of possession of other wife at P. & had been found on a search of her house made there by the police:—Held: the letter was admissible in evidence against accused.—R. v. DONAGHUE (1898), 1 L. R. 22 Mad. 1.—IND.

g. Conspiracy—Letter to one accused—Found in possession of another.—[When letter relating to an alleged common design has been directed to one of the panels & found in possession of another it is competent evidence against both, although it is not shown that the writer was a conspirator or that the contents were true or that it was ever seen by the party to whom it was addressed.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. CUMMING (1848), J. Shaw, Just. 17.—SCOT.

h. Must be material—Charge of false pretences—Letters showing accused's bad character.—[Letters written to a person charged with obtaining similar books.—In a prosecution for publishing & selling an obscene book with a view to corrupt the public morals, the jury must decide whether the book was put out & published in such a way as to be lewd, lascivious, & to tend manifestly to corrupt the public morals. In considering this question they must take into their consideration the persons to whom, & the time & the circumstances under which it was put forth. The titles & contents of other books found on the premises where the book in question was sold may be relevant as tending to show that the one in question was sold with a view to corrupt the public morals.—R. v. THOMSON (1900), 64 J. P. 456.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Barraclough, [1906] 1 K. B. 201.

4231. — Charge of acts of gross indecency—Evidence of possession of lewd pictures—Admitted on issue of identity.—THOMPSON v. R., No. 3810, ante.

4232. — — — — Admitted on general issue.—On the trial of a man on a charge of committing an act of gross indecency with a boy, prisoner pleaded not guilty, his defence being that there was no truth in the boy's statements:—Held: upon the authority of Thompson v. R., No. 3810, ante, evidence that photographs of nude boys were found in prisoner's lodgings was admissible for the purpose of showing what the practice of the prisoner was, just as the possession of the tools of a burglar or the apparatus of an abortionist is evidence as showing the possession of appliances & implements used by persons carrying on that particular kind of business in crime.—R. v. TWISS, [1918] 2 K. B. 853; 88 L. J. K. B. 20; 119 L. T. 680; 83 J. P. 23; 35 T. L. R. 3; 62 Sol. Jo. 752; 26 Cox, C. C. 325; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

4233. — Charge of attempted murder by poison—Evidence of possession of similar poison at time of arrest.—R. v. ARMSTRONG, No. 3988, ante.

SECT. 5.—CONFESSIONS AND STATEMENTS BY ACCUSED.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

4234. General rule.—(1) If a prisoner in gaol on a charge of felony ask the turnkey of the gaol to put a letter into the post for him, & after his promising to do so, prisoner give him a letter addressed to his father, & the turnkey, instead of putting it into the post, transmit it to prosecutor, this letter is admissible in evidence against prisoner, notwithstanding the manner in which it was obtained.

(2) The only cases in which what a prisoner says or writes is not evidence are where prisoner is induced to make any confession in consequence of prosecutor, etc., holding out any threat or promise to induce him to confess; & where the communication is privileged, as being made to his counsel or attorney (GARROW, B.).—R. v. DERRINGTON (1826), 2 C. & P. 418.

money by false pretences, & found in his possession, tending to show he was of bad character which do not connect prisoner with any such scheme are not admissible.—R. v. HULL, [1902] S. R. Q. 1.—AUS.

k. Indictment of master of ship—Letter found on board.—On an indictment against the master of a ship for receiving part of the cargo entrusted to him by the owner, & converting it to his own use:—Held: a letter in the handwriting of the consignee of the cargo, directed to the master, & found in the ship, could not be read as evidence against him.—R. v. HARTNELL (1841), 2 Leg. Rep. 214.—IR.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.

4239 i. Letter written by accused.—A husband & wife were tried together for stealing & receiving. On the husband when arrested was found a letter addressed to his wife making damaging admissions:—Held: the letter was properly admitted as evidence against male accused.—R. v. PIERCE (1917), 4235. Letter written by accused—After arrest.—R. v. DERRINGTON, No. 4234, ante.

4236. — — — ——Prisoner was taken into custody for stealing from a dwelling-house, & when in the police-station wrote two letters, one to his wife & the other to a friend. Prisoner was told that all letters would be read before being despatched, & the letter in question was detained & a copy sent to its destination:—Held: the original addressed to prisoner's wife was not admissible.—R. v. PAMENTER (1872), 12 Cox, C. C. 177.

4237. — — — ——Prisoner, being then in custody for having wounded G. some days previously, wrote a letter to G. There was no evidence that he was warned that any letter he wrote might be given in evidence against him:—Held: the letter was admissible.—R. v. HEAL (1905), 69 J. P. 224.

4238. — — — ——An accused person cannot put in evidence documents referring to the charge written by him after his arrest merely because they are in his own favour. But, semble: the prosecution may.—R. v. SHEPPARD (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

4239. — — — ——On the trial of A. for burglary & larceny, it appeared that his footsteps had been traced in a certain locality. Shortly afterwards a policeman in plain clothes called at prisoner's house, for the purpose of making some inquiries about the matter; but not finding him at home, he left word why he had called, with his address, & the assumed name of Russell. In the course of a few days afterwards the policeman received a letter, directed to him in the name of Russell, & in consequence of a communication contained in that letter, he found the greater part of the stolen goods concealed in a spot near where prisoner's track had been observed. The handwriting of the letter was not proved:—Held: this letter could not be read against prisoner.—R. v. LOCK (1846), 10 J. P. 204.

4240. Statements as to other transactions.—R. v. COLE, No. 3848, ante.

4241. — — — ——(1) On the trial of an indictment for forgery of the acceptance of a bill of exchange, evidence of what prisoner said respecting other bills of exchange which are not in evidence, is not admissible.

(2) If a person knowingly pays away a forgery as a good bill, it is a consequence, & almost a consequence of law, that he must intend to defraud the person to whom he pays the bill, & also the person whose name is used, as everything which is the natural consequence of the act must be taken to be the intention of prisoner.

(3) Semble: a prisoner, who is a shareholder in a joint-stock bank, & who knowingly utters a forged acceptance to that bank, cannot be convicted on counts laying an intent to defraud "R. B.," another of the shareholders, " & others."—R. v. COOKE (1838), 8 C. & P. 586.

Annotations:—As to (1) Dbtd. R. v. Brown (1861), 2 F. & F. 559. Generally, Mntd. R. v. Francis (1874), 22 W. R. 663.

17 S. R. N. S. W. 135.—AUS.

l. Parol evidence of letter dictated by accused.—In a trial for child-murder, one of the Crown witnesses having stated that on one occasion she had written a letter to the dictation of the paternity of her child the Advocate Depute proposed without leading evidence that the letter was irrecoverable, to ask the witness what the panel had told her to write:—Held: the question was competent.—

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

4242. —.]—R. v. BUTLER, No. 3927, ante.

4243. —.]—Qu.: whether, upon the trial of an indictment for forging a bank note, evidence of what prisoner has said respecting other bank notes is admissible.—R. v. BROWN (1861), 2 F. & F. 559.

4244. —.]—At the time of his arrest there were two charges against applt., & he made a statement to the detective which referred to both charges. Upon his trial on one of the charges the detective endeavoured to split up the statement & to give in evidence only that part which he considered applied to the charge upon which applt. was tried:—Held: the evidence so given was not satisfactory, as the effect of what applt. said was not correctly reproduced.—R. v. POSNETT (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A.

4245. Statements as to same transaction.—R. MANSFIELD, No. 3907, ante.

Showing guilty knowledge.—See Nos. 3950—

SUB-SECT. 2.—STATEMENTS AT PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION BEFORE JUSTICES.

4246. Cases prior to Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42).—R. v. REASON & TRANTER (1722), 1 Stara. 499; R. v. LAYER (1722), 16 State Tr. 93, 215; R. v. FEARSHIRE (1779), 1 Leach, 202; R. v. BRADBURY (1782), 2 Leach, 639, n.; R. v. FISHER (1785), 1 Leach, 311, n.; R. v. HINXMAN (1784), 1 Leach, 310, n.; R. v. JACOBS (1784), 1

Leach, 309; R. v. LAMBE (1791), 2 Leach, 552; R. v. BENNET (1793), 2 Leach, 553, n.; R. v. THOMAS (1794), 2 Leach, 637; R. v. HUET (1798), 2 Leach, 821; R. v. SMITH & HORNAME (1810), 1 Stark. 242; R. v. TELICOTE (1819), 2 Stark. 483; R. v. DEWHURST (1825), 1 Lew. C. C. 47; R. v. ELLIS (1826), Ry. & M. 432; R. v. FOSTER (1827), 1 Lew. C. C. 46; R. v. JONES (1828), Car. C. L. 13; R. v. REED (1829), Mood. & M. 403; PHILLIPS v. WIMBURN (1830), 4 C. & P. 273; R. v.

HEAD (1830), 4 C. & P. 242; R. v. B 5 C. & P. 162; ANON. (1831), 5 C. & P. 164, n.; R. v. WEBB (1831), 4 C. & P. 564; R. v. HARRIS, EVANS & BUTLER (1832), 1 Mood. C. C. 338; R. v. LEWIS (1833), 6 C. & P. 161; R. v. PRESLEY (1833), 6 C. & P. 183; R. v. BENTLEY (1833), 6 C. & P. 148; R. v. TARRANT (1833), 6 C. & P. 182; R. v. CHAPPEL (1834), 1 Mood. & R. 395; R. v. HOPES (1835), 7 C. & P. 136; R. v. FOSTER (1835), 7 C. & P. 148; R. v. RIVERS (1835), 7 C. & P. 177; R. v. JOHN (1835), 7 C. & P. 324; R. v. JONES (1838), 7 C. & P. 833; R. v. REES (1836), 7 C. & P. 568; R. v. WALTER (1836), 7 C. & P. 267; R. v. READING (1836), 7 C. & P. 649; R. v. WELLER (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 223; HIRST'S CASE (1828), 1 Lew. C. C. 46; R. v. HOLMES (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 248; SMITH & BERRY'S CASE (1836), 2 Lew. C. C. 139; R. v. MORSE, SMART & TANDY (1838), 8 C. & P. 605; R. v. WILKINSON (1838), 8 C. & P. 662; R. v. WHEELLEY (1838), 8 C. & P. 250; R. v. PIKESLEY (1839), 9 C. & P. 124; R. v. OWEN (1839), 9 C. & P. 83; JEANS v. WHEEDON (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 486; R. v. POMEROY (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 231; R. v. CARPENTER (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 558; R. v. WHITE (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 192.

H.M. ADVOCATE v. DOWNIE (1865), 5 Irv. 202; 38 Sc. Jur. 9.—SCOT.

m. Statements as to other transactions—Evidence of previous conspiracy—Charge of riot.—Statement of law regarding mobbing & rioting:—Held: incompetent to prove previous conspiracy to commit an offence by leading evidence of what the panel said several weeks before it was committed, there being no notice given in the indictment that such evidence was intended to be led by prosecutor.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. ROBERTSON (1842), 1 Broun, 152.—SCOT.

4245 i. Statements as to same transaction.—Averments made by a man at not too remote a period from the date of the transactions impeached may be given in evidence against him.—R. v. STREET (1888), 3 Q. L. J. 88.—AUS.

4245 ii. —.]—R. v. JONES (1868), 28 U. C. R. 416, 424.—CAN.

4245 iii. —.]—A declaration made by a prisoner, tried on an indictment for larceny, before he was charged with the crime, in answer to a question asked him, where he got the property, is evidence on his behalf.—R. v. FERGUSON (1876), 3 Pug. 612.—CAN.

4245 iv. —.]—In the course of a conversation between prisoner & a detective relative to the purchase of counterfeit money, prisoner asked the detective whether he had received a letter written by the former stating his desire to purchase counterfeit money, & upon the detective showing prisoner the letter he admitted it was his:—Held: the letter was admissible as in a sense forming part of the subject-matter of the conversation.—R. v. ATTWOOD (1891), 20 O. R. 574.—CAN.

4245 v. —.]—R. v. KANGAL MALL (1905), 1 L. R. 41 Calc. 601.—IND.

4245 vi. —.]—LYALL v. RAMSAY (1853), 1 Irv. 189.—SCOT.

4245 vii. —.]—In a trial for murder it was proposed to ask a police-surgeon questions as to statements made to him by accused, while he was in accused's house to see the body of the child alleged to have been murdered in order to certify the cause of death:—Held: the evidence was competent.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. DUFF (1910), 6 Adam, 248.—SCOT.

n. — Whether admissible for defence—As showing consistent story.—Though a panel cannot in the ordinary case found his defence on statements made by himself, it is competent to prove that his account of the matter has been the same throughout.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. FORREST (1837), 1 Swin. 404.—SCOT.

oral evidence.—No oral evidence can be received to prove the fact of a confession if the confession itself be inadmissible.—R. v. SHIVYA (1876), 1 L. R. 1 Bom. 219.—IND.

p. Confession subsequently retracted—No less admissible—Duty of court.—It does not necessarily follow, because a confession made by an accused person is subsequently retracted & there is little or no evidence on the record to support the confession, that therefore the confession is to be rejected. The credibility of such a confession is in such case a matter to be decided by the ct. according to the circumstances of each particular case, & if the ct. is of opinion that such a confession is true, the ct. is bound to act, as far as the person making it is concerned, upon such belief.—R. v. MAIKU LAL (1897), 1 L. R. 20 All. 133.—IND.

q. Statement taken immediately before arrest.—Where there is evidence in the hands of a police officer upon which he is bound to arrest a person, it is improper for him to obtain a statement from that person & reduce it to writing. Such statement is inadmissible in evidence.—R. v. JADUB DAS (1899), 1 L. R. 27 Calc. 295; 4 C. W. N. 129.—IND.

r. Statement obtained without authority & without caution.—Where a person is charged with arson statements made by him to an officer of the Fire Commissioner who was making an inquiry into the cause of the fire, are admissible in evidence against him.—R. v. SHAPIRO (1922), 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 14; R. R. 34 K. B. 431.—CAN.

s. ——.]—Statements obtained from prisoners by unauthorised persons, & without caution or warning, will not be admitted in evidence against such prisoners.—R. v. HUGHES (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 13.—IR.

t. Identity of person making statement must be proved.—A conversa-

a house & another person outside, in the hearing of a third person, who did not see the person outside, or recognise his voice, is not admissible in the absence of evidence to show that prisoner was the person who spoke from the outside, even though the person inside may have addressed the person outside by the same name as that of prisoner, & the person outside responded to that name.—LAVIN'S CASE (1843), 1 Ir. Cir. Rep. 813.—IR.

a. Objection that statement not complete—No ground for rejection.—An objection to the admissibility of a declaration in respect that it did not contain all the panel had said was repelled.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. BROWN (1866), 5 Irv. 215.—SCOT.

b. Accused cannot consent to admission of inadmissible evidence.—Accused cannot by waiver or consent render admissible a statement expressly declared to be inadmissible.—R. v. PERKINS, [1920] App. D. 307.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 2.

a. Confession not reduced to writing—Whether parol evidence admissible.—Held: parol evidence of a confession was admissible, it being proved that the confession was not taken down in writing whilst prisoner was 4247. Statements under Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42)—Admissible if statutory provisions complied with.]—Semble: the statement before the magistrate of an accused person, though taken in the form given in form N. of the above Act, is not admissible without further proof under sect. 18 of that statute, unless the requisites contained in the proviso to that sect. have been inserted in the form, or proved to have been fulfilled.—R. v. KIMBER (1849), 13 J. P. 122; 3 Cox, C. C. 223.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Sansome (1850), 1 Den. 545.

4248. ———.]—The examination of prisoner taken by the magistrate in form N, given in the schedule to the above Act, & duly returned to the ct., is admissible without proof of the signature of the magistrate, or of compliance with the proviso in sect. 18 of that statute.—R. v. STEEL (1849), 13 J. P. 606.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Sansome (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 332.

4249. ———.]—Where a statement made by a prisoner before the committing magistrates, appears on the face of it, to have been duly taken under sect. 26 of the above Act, & is at the trial produced from the depositions of the witnesses taken at the same time & appears to have been transmitted with them, it is receivable in evidence without further proof.—R. v. HARRIS (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 509; 4 Cox, C. C. 147.

4250. ———.]—Semble: before a statement made by a prisoner in the presence of, & duly signed by, the committing magistrate, can be received in evidence against him, proof must be given that he was cautioned in the manner provided by sect. 18 of the above Act dehors any declaration to that effect, contained in the caption of the statement itself.—R. v. HIGSON (1849), 2 Car. & Kir. 769.

4251. ———.]—R. v. HUNT (1849), 13 L. T. O. S. 509.

4252. ———.]—On a second examination of a prisoner for felony, the evidence against him was read over to him, & the first caution in sect. 18 of the above Act was given, & he made a statement which was taken down. Prosecutor applied for a remand, which was granted, & on prisoner being brought up again no further evidence was given against him, but his attorney asked a few questions of the witnesses. Prisoner was then cautioned as before, but declined to make any statement:—Held: prisoner's statement made on the second examination was receivable in evidence at the trial, & it was read by the magistrate's clerk who took it down.—R. v. BOND (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 337, n.; 1 Den. 517; T. & M. 242; 4 New Mag. Cas. 133; 4 New Sess. Cas. 143; 19 L. J. M. C.

before the magistrate, although there was no proof that it had not been put in writing within two days.—R. v. KINSLEY (1826), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 67.—IR.

d. ———.]—If a prisoner's declaration before a magistrate has not been taken in writing, parole evidence of it is admissible.—R. v. FARRELL (1841), Arm. M. & O. 72.—IR.

e. ———.]—It is not necessary to be clearly shown that statements, made by a prisoner on his examination before a magistrate, were reduced to writing, in order to exclude parole evidence of such statements.—R. v. MCGOVERN (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 506.—IR.

f. ———.]—It is the duty of the magistrate to take down in writing statements made before him by a prisoner, & even though it should be shown affirmatively that the statements were not reduced to writing, evidence cannot be given of what was said by prisoner on the occasion.—R. v. M'DERMOTT (1854), 6 Cox, C. C. 479.—IR.

g. ———.]—Held: Act 31 of 1917, s. 273, did not apply when the confession was made before a magistrate or justice. In every other case in order to be admissible the confession must be both confirmed & reduced to writing in the presence of a magistrate or justice.—R. v. PIENAAR, [1918] T. P. D. 288.—S. AF.

h. Admissible after caution.—The provisions of 32 & 33 Vict. (Can.), c. 30, s. 32, are directory, & a statement in writing not prefaced with the statutory words, made by a prisoner to the committing magistrate, was admitted in evidence, upon evidence by the committing magistrate that he had verbally cautioned prisoner to the effect required by the statute, before 138; 14 J. P. 288; 14 Jur. 399; 4 Cox, C. C. 231, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Faderman (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 370; R. v. Thomas (1850), 14 J. P. 513.

4253. ———.]—(1) A statement made by a prisoner before a committing magistrate, & signed by prisoner & the magistrate, if taken in the form prescribed by the schedule to the above Act is admissible in evidence against him at his trial, at common law.

(2) Semble: where there is no evidence of any previous threat or inducement having been held out to prisoner, such statement would be admissible under the above statute without proof of the magistrate's signature.

(3) It will be prudent for justices always to give prisoner the second caution as well as the first.—R. v. SANSOME (1850), 3 Car. & Kir. 332; 1 Den. 545; T. & M. 260; 4 New Mag. Cas. 80; 4 New Sess. Cas. 152; 19 L. J. M. C. 143; 15 L. T. O. S. 119; 14 J. P. 273; 14 Jur. 406; 4 Cox, C. C. 203, C. C. R.

Annotation:—As to (1) & (3) Reid. R. v. Hertfordshire JJ. (1910), 80 L. J. K. B. 437.

4254. ———.]—(1) A., being questioned by a police constable about the concealment of a birth, gave an answer which caused the officer to say to her, "It might be better for you to tell the truth & not a lie":—Held: a further statement made by A. to the policeman after the above inducement was inadmissible in evidence against her, as not being free & voluntary.

(2) A. was taken into custody the same day, placed with two accomplices, B. & C., & charged with concealment of birth. All three then made statements:—Held: those made by B. & C. could not be deemed to be affected by the previous inducement to A., & were, therefore, admissible against B. & C. respectively, although that made by A. was not so.

(3) Prisoners were sent for trial, but before their committal they received the formal caution from the magistrate as to anything they might wish to say [as required by sect. 18 of the above Act]. Whereupon A. made a statement which was taken down in writing, as usual, & attached to the depositions:—Held: this latter statement of A. might be read at the trial as evidence against herself.—R. v. BATE (1871), 11 Cox, C. C. 686.

4255. Voluntary statement in course of hearing—Admissible without caution.—On an examination on a charge of felony before a magistrate, prisoner was asked if he wished to put any question to a witness against him. Instead of asking anything, he made a statement, which was written down on the depositions, but not signed by prisoner, who had received no caution:—Held:

receiving the statement in question.—R. v. KALABEEN (1867), 1 B. C. R. pt. 1, 1.—CAN.

k. ———.]—Any statement made by an accused person, if voluntary, is admissible in evidence, a fortiori if made in open ct. & after being cautioned by the magistrate.—R. v. JAMES (1912), 17 B. C. R. 163.—CAN.

l. ———.]—R. v. WALABEK (1913), 23 W. L. R. 931; 10 D. L. R. 522; 4 W. W. R. 501.—CAN.

m. ———.]—The examinations of prisoners taken before certain magistrates were received in evidence, although it appeared that it was partly elicited by questions put by the magistrates, the questions being of a general nature, & prisoners having been previously duly cautioned.—R. v. GLEN-NON, TOOLE & MAGRATH (1840), 1 Craw. & D. 359.—IR.

n. Statements on oath—After caution.]

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sects. 2 & 3.]

this statement was not evidence per se, but any one who heard prisoner make it might give evidence of it, refreshing his memory from what was thus written down.—R. v. WATSON (1851), 3 Car. & Kir. 111.

4256. ———.]—A voluntary statement made by a prisoner in the course of an examination before a magistrate, & before all the witnesses have been examined, is admissible in evidence at the trial, although no caution has been previously given.—R. v. STRIPP (1856), Dears. C. C. 648; 25 L. J. M. C. 109; 27 L. T. O. S. 128; 20 J. P. 279; 2 Jur. N. S. 452; 4 W. R. 489; 7 Cox, C. C. 97, C. C. R.

4257. ———.]—R. v. TAYLOR, No. 3812, ante.

4258. Statements in answer to questions by magistrate—Inadmissible without caution.]—A statement elicited from a prisoner by questions put to him without any previous caution by a magistrate, before whom he is brought in custody upon a criminal charge, is not admissible against him in evidence at his trial.—R. v. PETTIT (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 164.

Annotation :—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4259. ——— Inadmissible after caution.]—(1) Where there is no clear evidence of an offence having been committed, a police officer is not justified, in consequence of mere rumours in a neighbourhood, in putting searching questions to a person for the purpose of eliciting the proof of a crime, as well as of that person's connection with it.

(2) After the investigation before a magistrate on a charge of concealment of birth, & after accused had been cautioned in the usual manner, & had stated that she had nothing to say, but before her actual committal, the presiding magistrate asked her what she had done with the body of the child :—Held : her statement in answer was not admissible; nor would the learned judge allow a witness to be asked whether, in consequence of such a statement, he did a particular thing.—R. v. BERRIMAN (1854), 6 Cox, C. C. 388.

Annotation :—As to (1) & (2) Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4260. Evidence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), ss. 5, 20—May be put in by prosecution at trial.]—Prisoner was charged under sect. 5 of the above Act with having had unlawful intercourse with a girl under the age of fourteen years. When before the justices he gave evidence on oath :—Held : at the trial his statement, as made on oath, might be put in without his consent, & might be used for or against him.—R. v. ADAMS (1886), 50 J. P. 136.

4261. May be put in by prosecution at trial.]—The statement which a prisoner makes in giving evidence before the magistrate by whom he is committed for trial, may be used as evidence against him at the trial, & the deposition containing such statement may be put in evidence at the trial, although he then declines to give evidence.—R. v. BIRD (1898), 79 L. T. 359; 62 J. P. 760; 47 W. R. 112; 15 T. L. R. 26; 43 Sol. Jo. 30; 19 Cox, C. C. 180, C. C. R.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Boyle (1904), 20 T. L. R. 192.

4262. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 4, for the felony of carnally knowing, in Mar. 1911, a girl under the age of thirteen years. He was also indicted under sect. 5 of the same Act for the misdemeanour of carnally knowing the same girl in Apr. 1912, she then being above the age of thirteen years & under the age of sixteen years. When before the justices prisoner, who was then only charged with the misdemeanour under sect. 5, gave evidence, in the course of which he admitted having had intercourse with the girl in Mar. 1911, & at Christmas, 1911, but not at any later date. At the trial the prosecution proceeded with the indictment for the felony under sect. 4 of the Act & tendered in evidence prisoner's deposition before the justices when before them on the misdemeanour charge under sect. 5 :—Held : the deposition was admissible in evidence.—R. v. CHAPMAN (1912), 29 T. L. R. 117.

4263. ——— Evidence under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36).]—R. v. BOYLE (1904), 20 T. L. R. 192.

SUB-SECT. 3.—STATEMENTS MADE IN OTHER LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

4264. In bankruptcy proceedings—Balance sheet not admissible.]—The balance sheet of a bkpt., given on oath under his commission, is not admissible against him on a criminal charge.—R. v. BRITTON (1833), 1 Mood. & R. 297, N. P.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Wheeler (1838), 2 Mood. C. C. 45; R. v. Scott (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 164.

4265. ——— Examination in bankruptcy.]—Held : the examination of a person on oath before comrs. in bkpcy., after he had been cautioned & had elected what questions he would answer, was admissible against him on a charge of forgery.—R. v. WHEATER (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 157; 2 Mood. C. C. 45, C. C. R.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Owen (1840), 9 C. & P. 238. Distd. R. v. Swan (1849), 14 J. P. 161. Refd. R. v. Scott (1856), Dears. & B. 47.

4266. ———.]—R. v. SWAN, No. 1952, ante.

4267. ——— No caution administered.]—On an indictment for false pretences it was proposed, for the purpose of showing the falsehood of the representations, to give in evidence the examination of prisoner who had become bkpt. at a meeting held before the comr. for the allowance of his,

—R. v. SKELTON (1898), 3 Terr. L. R. 58.—CAN.

o. Confession made in one language—Taken down in another—Evidence Act, 1 of 1872.]—R. v. NILMADHUR MITTER (1868), 1 L. R. 15 Calc. 595.—IND.

p. Accused interrogated twice—No caution before first interrogation.]—Indictment for receiving stolen goods. Prisoner, being interrogated but not cautioned, by a magistrate, made a parol statement in relation to the charge against him, & being afterwards cautioned, & again interrogated as before, he made the same statement, which was reduced to writing & signed by him :—Held : such statement was admissible in evidence.—R. v. HENSON

(1844), 3 Craw. & D. 177.—IR.

q. Statement said to have been taken before magistrate—Magistrate absent during hearing.]—The declaration of an accused person will not be admitted as evidence if it is proved that the magistrate before whom it hears to be omitted was absent during any material part of the examination.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MAHLER & BERENHARD (1857), 2 Irv. 634; 29 Sc. Jur. 562.—SCOT.

r. ———.]—Objection sustained to the admissibility of a prisoner's declaration in respect it appeared on the proof that the declaration had not been omitted in presence of the magistrate before whom it bore to have been taken.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. M'MILLAN

(1858), 3 Irv. 213.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 3.

4265 i. In bankruptcy proceedings—Examination in bankruptcy.]—Statements of an insolvent on his examination before assignee at creditors' meeting, are evidence against him on a criminal trial.—R. v. MCLEAN (1877), 1 P. & B. 377.—CAN.

s. ——— Meeting of creditors—Questions by chairman.]—Statements made by a bkpt. in answer to questions put by the chairman at a meeting of creditors are admissible in evidence in a prosecution against him.—R. v. O'NEILL (1880), 3 N. Z. L. R. C. A. 298.—N.Z.

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect. 3.]

Act, 1869 (c. 62), where notes of his public examination had been taken but not read over by or to nor signed by him, parol evidence of the person who took the notes was admissible to prove such admissions.—R. v. ERDHEIM, [1896] 2 Q. B. 260; 65 L. J. M. C. 176; 74 L. T. 734; 44 W. R. 607; 12 T. L. R. 445; 40 Sol. Jo. 569; 18 Cox, C. C. 355; 3 Mans. 142, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Bird (1898), 79 L. T. 359. Mentd. Re Atherton, [1912] 2 K. B. 251.

4278. ————]—Though the notes of the public examination of a bkpt. were not signed by him, the statement then made by him may be admissions by him, & as such admissible in evidence against him.—R. v. HIRSCHFELD (1897), 61 J. P. 520.

4279. ——— Statement of affairs.—]—Upon an indictment under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 80, for misappropriation of trust money, the statement of affairs made by accused in the course of his bkpcy. under Bkpcy. Act, 1883 (c. 52), s. 16, & rule 217 of the Bkpcy. Rules, 1886, is admissible in evidence against him for the purpose of proving the receipt of the money by him.—R. v. PIKE, [1902] 1 K. B. 552; 71 L. J. K. B. 287; 86 L. T. 205; 66 J. P. 296; 50 W. R. 672; 18 T. L. R. 285; 46 Sol. Jo. 268; 20 Cox, C. C. 164; 9 Mans. 121, C. C. R.

4280. Answers in chancery.—]—On the trial of an indictment for a conspiracy, the answers in chancery of defts., made on oath by them in a suit instituted against them by prosecutor, are receivable in evidence on the part of the prosecution.—R. v. GOLDSHEDE (1844), 1 Car. & Kir. 657.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Coote (1873), L. R. 4 P. C. 599.

4281. Before election commissioners—Perjury—Application to indictments.—]—By Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1863 (c. 29), s. 7, witnesses before comrs. for inquiring into the existence of corrupt practices at elections shall not be excused from answering questions on the ground that the answers thereto may criminate them & that no statement made by any person in answer to any question put by such comrs. shall, "except in cases of indictments for perjury," be admissible in evidence in any proceeding, civil or criminal:—Held: "except in cases of indictments for perjury" applies only to perjury committed before the comrs.—R. v. BUTTLE (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 248; 39 L. J. M. C. 115; 22 L. T. 728; 34 J. P. 565; 18 W. R. 956; 11 Cox, C. C. 566, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Ettridge, [1909] 2 K. B. 24.

4282. ——— Ex officio information.—]—By Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1863 (c. 29),

s. 7, no person summoned as a witness before any comrs. appointed under Corrupt Practices Act, 1852 (c. 57), shall be excused from answering any question relating to corrupt practices forming the subject of inquiry on the ground that the answer would tend to criminate himself, provided that no statement made by any person in answer to any question put by or before such comrs. shall, except in cases of indictments for perjury, be admissible in evidence in any proceeding civil or criminal:—Held: the exception in the proviso did not apply to an ex officio information by the A.-G. for perjury.—R. v. SLATOR (1881), 8 Q. B. D. 267; 51 L. J. Q. B. 246; 46 J. P. 694; 30 W. R. 410.

4283. Before committee of House of Commons.—]

—The evidence which a person has given before a committee of the House of Commons, is afterwards admissible against him on a criminal charge.—R. v. MERCERON (1818), 2 Stark. 366.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Gilham (1828), 1 Mood. C. C. 186. Reid. R. v. Britton (1833), 1 Mood. & R. 297; R. v. Wheeler (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 157; R. v. Garbett (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 474; R. v. Scott (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 164.

4284. Before military court of inquiry.—]—Rule 124 (L) of the Rules of Procedure made under Army Act, 1881 (c. 58), s. 70, which provides that any confession, statement or answer to a question made or given at a ct. of inquiry shall not be admissible in evidence against an officer or soldier, applies only to military tribunals & does not make a statement made at a ct. of inquiry inadmissible in evidence at a criminal trial in a civil ct.—R. v. COLPUS & BOORMAN, R. v. WHITE, [1917] 1 K. B. 574; 86 L. J. K. B. 459; 116 L. T. 703; 81 J. P. 135; 33 T. L. R. 184; 61 Sol. Jo. 268; 25 Cox, C. C. 716; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

4285. In civil action.—]—A fraudulent trustee who has admitted a misdemeanour previously to disclosing it in the legal proceedings mentioned in Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 85, cannot claim the benefit of that sect.—R. v. OLIVER (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 246, C. C. A.

4286. — Compulsory disclosure.—]—When an act done by a person is first disclosed by him without making any objection during cross-examination in a civil action, it is not disclosed by him in consequence of any compulsory process of a ct. of law, within the meaning of Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 85, & he is liable to be convicted of an offence under Larceny Act, 1901 (c. 10), in respect of the act so disclosed.—R. v. NOEL, [1914] 3 K. B. 848; 84 L. J. K. B. 142; 112 L. T. 47, 24 Cox, C. C. 486; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

4287. — Plea of infancy not admissible to prove false pretences as to age.—]—On an indictment for obtaining goods by falsely pretending to be of full age, a plea of infancy in an action brought

4285 i. In civil action.—]—On a trial for conspiracy to defraud by means of the fraudulent & collusive transfer of a pretended promissory note & the institution, maintenance & prosecution in the civil cts. of an oppressive, unfounded, false & malicious suit at law based on the note:—Held: a deposition made in such civil suit by pltf. therein, one of the accused, may be received & read to the jury as evidence not only against him but also against his co-deft.—R. v. MURPHY (1891), 17 Q. L. R. 305.—CAN.

4285 ii. ———]—The examination of deft. in a civil action arising out of the matters in question, he not having claimed privilege therein, was allowed to be used against him on his trial for criminal conspiracy.—R. v. CONNOLLY (1894), 25 O. R. 151.—CAN.

4285 iii. ———]—In a suit on a promissory note, which was alleged to have been executed jointly by G. & his son V., V. filed an affidavit in order to obtain leave to defend the suit, & having obtained leave to defend, gave evidence at the trial on his own behalf. On a subsequent trial of V. for forgery of his father's signature to the same promissory note, the affidavit & deposition of V. in the suit were admitted as evidence against V.:—Held: both the affidavit & the deposition were properly admitted.—R. v. GOPAL DOSS (1881), L. L. R. 3 Mad. 271.—IND.

4285 iv. ———]—In a criminal trial statements made by accused as a witness in a previous civil action, relating to the same subject-matter, may be used as evidence against him.—BANAGHAN v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1888), 15 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 39; 25 Sc. L. R. 311.—SCOT.

t. Examination for discovery in aid of execution.—]—R. v. VAN METRE (1906),

7 Terr. L. R. 297; 3 W. L. R. 416.—CAN.

a. Coroner's inquest — Depositions of accused—Accused in custody—Admissible if caution given.—]—C. & R. were convicted of arson, R. as an accessory. At the trial the depositions of C. & R. before the coroner at an inquest under the Act No. 55 were used against them. At the coroner's inquest, C. was cautioned, R. was not cautioned. The depositions did not anyhow show the caution to C. On a question of law reserved & a case stated to the full ct., the conviction of C. was upheld & that of R. quashed.—R. v. GOLDWELL (1863), 2 W. & W. 208.—AUS.

b. ———]—T. having been tried for the murder of an infant & acquitted was tried for aiding the mother of the infant in concealing its birth. His deposition before the against deft., is not admissible to prove the minority.—R. v. SIMMONDS (1850), 14 J. P. 467; 4 Cox, C. C. 277.

4288. In suit in Doctors' Commons.]—R. v. WALKER* (1806), cited in 6 C. & P. p. 162.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Lewis (1833), 6 C. & P. 161.

4289. In answer to incriminating questions—Inadmissible if witness improperly compelled to answer.]—If a witness claims the protection of the ct., on the ground that his answer would tend to criminate himself, & there appears reasonable ground to believe that it would do so, he is not compellable to answer; & if obliged to answer notwithstanding, what he says must be considered to have been obtained by compulsion, & cannot be given afterwards in evidence against him.—R. v. GARBETT (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 474; 1 Den. 236; 9 L. T. O. S. 51; 13 J. P. 602; 2 Cox, C. C. 448, Ex. Ch.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Coote (1873), L. R. 4 P. C. 599. Refd. R. v. Bickerton (1847), 11 J. P. 664; R. v. Darby (1847), 2 Cox, C. C. 316; Two Sicilies (King) v. Wilcox (1851), 1 Sim. N. S. 301; Fisher v. Ronalds (1852), 12 C. B. 762; Osborn v. London Dock Co. (1855), 10 Exch. 698; R. v. Scott (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 164; R. v. Robinson (1867), 36 L. J. M. C. 78; R. v. Buttle (1870), 22 L. T. 728. Mentd. Short v. Mercier (1851), 3 Mac. & G. 205; Volant v. Soyer (1853), 13 C. B. 231; Phelps v. Prew (1854), 23 L. J. Q. B. 140; Bickford v. Darcy (1866), L. R. 1 Exch. 354.

4290. ———.]—R. v. SCOTT*, No. 4268, ante.

4291. ———.]—According to English law, introduced into Lower Canada at the time of the cession of Canada to England in 1763, the depositions on oath of a witness legally taken are admissible evidence against him, if he is subsequently tried on a criminal charge. The only exception is, in the case of answers to questions which he objected to when his evidence was taken as tending to criminate him, but which he has been improperly compelled to answer.—R. v. COOTE (1873), L. R. 4 P. C. 599; 9 Moo. P. C. C. N. S. 463; 42 L. J. P. C. 45; 29 L. T. 111; 37 J. P. 708; 21 W. R. 553; 12 Cox, C. C. 557; 17 E. R. 587, P. C.

4292. Evidence before magistrate in other proceedings—As accused person.]—A. gave a mortal coroner had been given thus: He was brought up in custody; nothing was said to him by way of warning that he was not bound to swear; he made no objection to be sworn; he was sworn; & his evidence was taken down in a deposition. The judge doubted if the deposition was admissible but admitted it, subject to a reserved question & T. was convicted:—Held: T.'s deposition was inadmissible.—R. v. TAYLOR (1863), 2 W. & W. 153.—AUS.

c. ———.]—At the trial of prisoner for the murder of M., his own sworn statement made at the coroner's inquest on M.'s body was received in evidence against him. It appeared that he was in custody before, & at the time of such inquest, on suspicion of the murder; & that, being in such custody, he voluntarily, but not spontaneously, gave evidence. Before he was sworn, the coroner told him that if he wished to make any statement, in order to clear himself with the public, he might do so, but that he was not bound to make any, & that he would not be examined unless he himself desired it, & that any such evidence would or might be for or against him. After this he was examined on oath, some of his evidence being in answer to questions put to him by the jury:—Held: the whole of the examination was rightly received.—R. v. MEEHAN (1869), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 289.—AUS.

d. ———.]—Prisoner was arrested the day before the inquest on a charge of murder. He was present at the inquest, & after being duly cautioned he gave his evidence voluntarily & without objection:—Held: the deposition was rightly received in evidence.—R. v. MCCOY (1884), 5 N. S. W. L. R. 429.—AUS.

e. ———.]—To be proved by coroner.]—At a trial for murder prisoner's counsel proposed to prove by witness his own deposition at the inquest, & to show by other witnesses that it contained a true statement of his evidence, although the witness alleged it to be incorrect. The judge ruled that the coroner must be called to prove the depositions.—R. v. HAMILTON (1866), 16 C. P. 340.—CAN.

f. ———.]—Accused not in custody.]—Statements made on oath by a person at an inquest, touching the cause of a fire, he not being in custody at the time, are admissible in evidence against him on an indictment for arson, in respect of the property burnt.—R. v. HAYES (1872), 11 N. S. W. S. C. R. 51.—AUS.

g. ———.]—During trial, evidence was admitted, subject to objection of certain statements made by accused at the coroner's ct. without being previously warned:—Held: evidence should not have been admitted.—R. v. SMITH (1898), 1 W. A. L. R. 43.—AUS.

h. ———.]—The depositions of a witness taken at a coroner's inquest without objection by him that his answers may tend to criminate him, & who is subsequently charged with an offence, are receivable blow to B., who took out a summons against A. for an assault. The charge of assault was heard under this summons before D., & another magistrate, who summarily convicted A. of the assault. What was said by the parties before the magistrates was not taken down in writing. B. died:—Held: on the trial of A. for the murder of B., D. might give evidence of what B. said in the presence of A. at the hearing before the magistrates, & of what A. said in answer to it.—R. v. EDMUNDS (1833), 6 C. & P. 164; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 159.

4293. ———.]—A statement made by prisoner which he refused to sign, but which received the magistrate's signature, as proved by a party present, may be given in evidence without calling the magistrate's clerk, & this, although such statement was so made by prisoner in reference to another charge than that for the support of which the statement is sought to be given in evidence.—R. v. POMEROY (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 371; 9 J. P. 682; 1 Cox, C. C. 231.

4294. ———.]—On an indictment of A. & B. for murder, it appeared that A. threw deceased down into a wet ditch, called to B. to come & help, which he did, & they both forcibly committed the robbery. The deceased died three weeks afterwards of pneumonia, or inflammation of the lung, which might either be caused by cold or violence:—Held: the deposition of deceased on a charge of robbery, & statements by prisoners on that charge, were admissible, although the particular deposition was not signed by the magistrate.—R. v. LEE (1864), 4 F. & F. 63.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Parker (1870), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 225; R. v. Edmunds (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 257.

4295. — As witness.]—The examination of prisoner before a magistrate, who examines prisoner as a witness, although he holds out no threat or inducement, cannot be used against him.—R. v. WILSON (1817), Holt, N. P. 597.

Annotation:—N.F. R. v. Ellis (1826), Ry. & M. 432.

4296. ———.]—A. was charged with forgery, & B. was examined on oath before the magistrate as a witness against A. After this B.

in evidence against him at the trial.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1897), 28 O. R. 583.—CAN.

k. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted for murder. During the trial the depositions of prisoner taken at the coroner's inquiry were admitted in evidence, subject to objection taken by prisoner's counsel. The jury found prisoner guilty of manslaughter, & the judge reserved the question of the admissibility of the depositions:—Held: the evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. PRIDMORE (1899), 2 W. A. L. R. 4.—AUS.

l. ———.]—Canada Evidence Act, 1893 (c. 31).]—The coroner's ct. is a criminal ct. Sect. 5 of the above Act, which abolishes the privilege of not answering criminating questions, & provides that no evidence so given shall be receivable in evidence in subsequent criminal proceedings against the witness, other than for perjury in respect thereof, applies to any evidence given by a person under oath, though he may not have claimed privilege.—R. v. HAMMOND (1898), 29 O. R. 211.—CAN.

m. ———.]—Under the above Act a deposition given at the coroner's inquest is inadmissible in evidence against the deponent, in a criminal proceeding subsequently instituted against him.—R. v. VIAU (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 362.—CAN.

n. At former trial.]—A statement made by a prisoner on a former trial when the jury disagreed, is admissible in evidence against him at the second was himself charged with a different forgery:—Held: the deposition of B. was evidence against him on his trial for the forgery, notwithstanding that it was taken on oath.—R. v. HAWORTH (1830), 4 C. & P. 254.

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sects. 3 & 4.]

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Coote (1873), L. R. 4 P. C. 599.

4297. ———.]—A statement relating to an offence made upon oath by a person not at the time under suspicion, is admissible in evidence against him, if he be afterwards charged with the commission of it.—R. v. TUBBY (1833), 5 C. & P. 530.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Lewis (1833), 6 C. & P. 161. Refd. R. v. Wheeler (1838), 2 Mood. C. C. 45.

4298. ———.]—Prisoner was summoned before the committing magistrate touching the poisoning of C. No person was then specifically charged with the offence. Prisoner was sworn & made a statement, & at the conclusion of the examination prisoner was committed for trial:—Held: this statement was not receivable in evidence against prisoner.—R. v. LEWIS (1833), 6 C. & P. 161.

Annotations:—N.F. R. v. Adams (1886), 50 J. P. 136. Refd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 14 W. R. 845; R. v. Laurent, Barrett & Weekes (1898), 62 J. P. 250. Mentd. R. v. Ryan (1839), 2 Mood. & R. 213.

4299. ———.]—R. v. DAVIS, No. 4025, ante.

4300. ———.]—Prisoners charged prosecutor with an indecent assault, & gave evidence upon oath before the magistrate in support of the charge. It was dismissed, & a counter charge made of accusing with intent to extort money:—Held: the depositions were admissible against prisoners.

trial.—R. v. HUNT (1887), 8 N. S. W. L. R. 38; 3 N. S. W. W. N. 83.—AUS.

o. ———.]—On a trial for larceny accused elected to give evidence on his own behalf. The jury having failed to agree a second trial took place at which accused did not give evidence. The Crown then put in against accused through the clerk of arraigns, the record of the previous trial & the evidence given by accused. The presiding judge admitted this, & accused was found guilty:—Held: the evidence was admissible.—R. v. SHARPE (1903), 5 W. A. L. R. 125.—AUS.

p. At previous inquiry.—A deposition on oath made by one of several accused, as a witness in a previous inquiry was admitted in evidence against him.—R. v. Moss (1893), 1 L. R. 16 All. 88.—IND.

q. At preliminary investigation.—R. v. COOTE (1873), 18 L. C. J. 103.—CAN.

—.]—Trial for murder. Accusatory preliminary hearing on a charge of escape, &c., at the hearing, after the usual statutory caution had been given, gave an account of the homicide, in which he admitted firing the shot, from the effects of which the injured person had died:—Held: the statement was admissible.—R. v. JAMES (1912), 21 W. L. R. 563; 4 D. L. R. 717; 17 B. C. R. 165.—CAN.

s. Statements by prisoner in information against others.—Statements made by a prisoner in an information with a view to his being examined as a witness for the Crown are not admissible in evidence against prisoner, for the purpose of implicating him in the offence, the subject of the information.—R. v. M'HUGH (1857), 7 Cox, C. C. 483.—IR.

t. ———.]—A constable went to the house of A. to obtain information about B. & was then told by A. certain facts implicating A. in a treasonable conspiracy. The constable left & returned next morning & asked A. if he was willing to come down & repeat his statement to the superintendent of police. The superintendent asked A. to go before a magistrate & make an information "as a witness." A. consented, made an information, & afterwards reswore it, & made a further information in the presence of B. & others. He was examined & received no caution against criminating himself. Subsequently he refused to give evidence on the trial of B. & the other prisoners; he was arrested & tried for treason felony. His own informations were put in evidence against him, & he was convicted. Held: the informations were inadmissible & the conviction was erroneous.—R. v. GILLIS (1866), 17 L. C. L. R. 512.—IR.

a. Answers tending to criminate witness—Privilege not claimed—Admissible in subsequent trial.—If a witness when called upon to testify does not object to do so upon the ground that his answers may tend to criminate him, his answers are receivable against him, except in the case provided for by Canada Evidence Act, 1893 (c. 31), s. 5, as amended by 61 Vict. c. 53, in any criminal proceedings against him thereafter, but if he does object he is protected.—R. v. CLARK (1902), 22 C. L. T. 90; 3 O. L. R. 176; 5 Can. Crim. Cas. 235.—CAN.

b. ———.]—Evidence taken under Assignments Act, s. 52, without any objection on the part of the person giving evidence upon the ground that the answer would tend to incriminate or upon any of the grounds stated in Alberta Evidence Act is admissible against him in a criminal trial.—R. v. GRAHAM (1915), 31 W. L. R. 117; 8 W. W. R. 460; 21 D. L. R. 513.—CAN.

On the examination they were cross-examined to character only:—Held: the cross-examination & answers were not admissible.—R. v. BRAZELL (1850), 14 J. P. 657.

4301. ———.]—Deposition of witness taken before magistrates allowed to be read at trial as evidence against him, although after his evidence was taken the magistrates committed him for trial, his evidence criminating himself.—R. v. CHIDLEY & CUMMINS (1860), 8 Cox, C. C. 365.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69. Refd. R. v. Coote (1873), L. R. 4 P. C. 599.

4302. ———.]—B. & W. were charged by L. with larceny. L., without being cautioned, gave evidence on oath on this charge of larceny at the police ct., & duly signed his deposition. In his deposition he substantially admitted that he had been guilty of committing indecent acts with B., at or immediately before the time of the larceny. L. was subsequently arrested, & charged with committing acts of gross indecency with B. & W.:—Held: the deposition on oath of L. on the charge of larceny was evidence against him on the present charge.—R. v. LAURENT, BARRETT & WEEKES (1898), 62 J. P. 250.

In proceedings before coroner.—See CORONERS, Vol. XIII., pp. 232 et seq.

SUB-SECT. 4.—VOLUNTARY CONFESSIONS.

4303. Voluntary confession admissible.—Several prisoners being in custody on a charge of murder, A., who was one of them, said to the chaplain of the prison, that he wished to see a magistrate, & asked if any proclamation had been made, & any offer of pardon. The chaplain said, that there had, but he hoped that A. would understand that

o. Proceedings in foreign court—Affidavit.—Where, on the trial of an indictment for bigamy, deft. relied on a decree of divorce obtained in a foreign country, a certified copy of an affidavit purporting to have been made by deft. in the cause in which the divorce was granted, is evidence against him, without proof of via voce evidence that he had sworn to the original, or had used it in a cause in which he was a party.—R. v. WRIGHT (1877), 1 P. & B. 363.—CAN.

d. Depositions in counter case.—The depositions of witnesses given in a counter case may be used as evidence against them on their trial as accused persons, but such depositions could only be so used if the accused had made them.—MOHER (SHEIKH) v. R. (1893), 1 L. R. 21 Calc. 392.—IND.

e. Charge of murder—Statement in previous trial for assault—Not admissible.—A panel was tried & convicted of assault. He was thereafter charged with assault to the danger of life on the same species facts & omitted a declaration. He was then tried for murder, the person assaulted having died:—Held: the declaration could not be used as evidence against him.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. STEWART (1866), 5 Irv. 310.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 4.

4303 i. Voluntary confession admissible.—Where a statement by prisoner was not induced by the offer of reward or pardon but was voluntary:—Held: it was rightly admitted against prisoner.—R. v. ARCHIBALD (1869), 2 Q. S. C. R. 47.—AUS.

4303 ii. ———.]—A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES v. MARTIN, 9 C. L. R. 713.—AUS.

4303 iii. ———.]—Prisoner, after his committal for trial, & while in the custody of a constable, made a state-he could offer him no inducement to make any statement, as it must be his own free & voluntary act. When A. saw the magistrate, he said that no person had held out any inducement to him to confess anything, & that what he was about to say was his own free & voluntary act & desire. A. then made a statement to the magistrate:—Held: this statement was receivable against A. on his trial for the murder.—R. v. DINGLEY (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 637.

Annotation:—Distd. R. v. Godinho (1911), 76 J. P. 16.

4304. —.]—Where a prisoner prefaced her confession by saying, "I shall confess, for it will be better for me"; & all that the witness said before or after that statement was, "Well, I know nothing of that":—Held: the confession being a voluntary one, was admissible.—R. v. WARREN (1848), 11 L. T. O. S. 516; 12 J. P. 571.

4305. —.]—A voluntary confession two hours after questions answered, after a proper caution by a detective-inspector, is admissible.—R. v. JAMES (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 319, C. C. A.

4306. —.]—R. v. UNSWORTH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

4307. —.]—A confession made voluntarily by a prisoner when under arrest in the hope or expectation of pardon is not inadmissible unless such hope or expectation has been held out to prisoner by authorised parties.—R. v. GODINHO (1911), 76 J. P. 16; 28 T. L. R. 3; 55 Sol. Jo. 807; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

4308. —.]—A private in an Indian regiment

ment, upon which the latter took him before a magistrate, when he laid an information on oath charging another person with having suggested the crime, & asked him to join in it, which he accordingly did. Upon the arrest of accused, prisoner made a full deposition against him, at the same time admitting his own guilt. Both information & deposition appeared to have been voluntarily made, uninfluenced by either hope or threat; but it also appeared that prisoner had not been cautioned that his statements as to the other might be given in evidence against himself, though he had been duly cautioned when under examination in his own case:—Held: both the information & deposition were properly received in evidence, as being statements voluntarily made, uninfluenced by any promises held out as an inducement to prisoner to make them, & that, too, though made under oath.—R. v. FIELD (1865), 16 C. P. 98.—CAN.

4303 iv. —.]—A statement made by a prisoner may be used in evidence against him, if it appears that prisoner was not induced to make the statement by any promise or threat.—R. v. SOUCIE (1878), 1 P. & B. 611.—CAN.

4303 v. —.]—Any statement made by an accused person, if voluntary, is admissible in evidence.—R. v. JAMES (1912), 17 B. C. R. 165.—CAN.

4303 vi. —.]—Before receiving a confession in evidence, all evidence should have been taken thereon to see that it was made with that degree of freedom which would allow its reception in evidence.—R. v. GAUTHIER, [1921] 2 W. W. R. 1.—CAN.

4303 vii. —.]—The confession of a prisoner is not to be excluded because he was not cautioned by the magistrates that it would be given in evidence against him, provided he was not, in making it, under threat or inducement.—LAVIN'S CASE (1843), 1r. Cir. Rep. 813.—IR.

4303 viii. —.]—A statement made by a prisoner to a police officer on the occasion of his being apprehended without threat or pressure or intention to entrap is competent evidence.—GRACIE v. STUART (1884), 5 Couper, 379; 21 Sc. L. R. 526.—SCOT.

4303 ix. —.]—Railway policemen found accused, carrying a paper parcel, near a hut where there was a bunker belonging to the railway co. The police asked what was in the paper, & accused replied "old paper." They then asked to see the contents, which when opened was found to contain a piece of coal. They asked accused where he got it from, & he replied that he got it from a miner. A sergeant of the regular police then came up, & he requested accused & the railway police to go with him to the police station that his statements might be verified. On the way to the station accused voluntarily said, "To save trouble I may as well tell the truth; I took the coal from the bunker." Up to that time no charge had been made against accused, & no warning had been given him:—Held: the evidence as to the statement made by accused was competently admitted.—COSTELLO v. McPHERSON, [1922] S. C. (J.) 9.—SCOT.

i. — Even though improperly induced statement added.—It is not sufficient to render a confession irrelevant that there may have been added to it a statement, which has been improperly induced by threat or promise. In order to make a confession irrelevant it must be shown that the confession itself was improperly induced.—R. v. NARAYAN RAGHUNATH PATKI (1907), 1 L. R. 32 Bom. 111.—IND.

g. — Even if made in answer to questions by person in authority.—The fact that a person in authority questions an accused person without cautioning him, does not in itself render a confession voluntarily made in answer by accused inadmissible in evidence against him.—MARASIMMAN v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 458.—S. AF.

h. — Must be shown to be voluntary.—Evidence was held not admissible on a trial for theft, of an alleged confession of the accused when virtually under arrest, as there was nothing to show that the statement murdered one of the officers. Shortly afterwards, while he was in custody, the commanding officer asked him, "Why have you done such a senseless act?" & he replied, "Some three or four days he has been abusing me, & without doubt I killed him." At the trial the judge admitted this statement, which was objected to by counsel for the defence. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: even if the evidence was inadmissible, there being ample undisputed evidence aliunde of the guilt of prisoner, & it being very improbable that the statement influenced the verdict of the jury, there was no such miscarriage of justice as would justify the Judicial Committee in advising an interference in the matter.

Semble: the evidence was not inadmissible.—IBRAHIM v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; 83 L. J. P. C. 185; 111 L. T. 20; 30 T. L. R. 383; 24 Cox, C. C. 174, P. C.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Colpus & Boorman, R. v. White, [1917] 1 K. B. 574; R. v. Voisin, [1918] 1 K. B. 531. Consd. R. v. Cook (1918), 34 T. L. R. 515. Refd. R. v. Crowe & Myerscough (1917), 81 J. P. 288.

4309. —.]—A statement by an accused person is not admissible in evidence against him unless it is shown by the prosecution to have been a voluntary statement, in the sense that it has not been obtained from him either by fear of prejudice or hope of advantage exercised or held out by a person in authority. The question whether a person has been duly cautioned before making a statement is a circumstance to be taken into account by the judge in exercising his discretion whether was made voluntarily.—R. v. HUGHES, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 119; 55 D. L. R. 697; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 103.—CAN.

k. — —.]—Since admissions obtained from accused by the police when accused had not been warned are not admissible even though an inducement had been offered to make a statement, if at another interview, after warning, similar admissions are made they are not admissible unless their presumptive involuntary character is negated.—R. v. MYLES, [1923] 2 D. L. R. 880; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 84; 56 N. S. R. 18.—CAN.

l. — —.]—Where it was proved that a police constable had cautioned accused & then asked him certain questions, & then counsel for the Crown sought to give in evidence the statements made by accused in answer:—Held: under the circumstances there was not sufficient proof of voluntariness before the ct. to render the statement admissible.—It. v. DEVINE (1904), 38 I. L. T. 227.—IR.

m. — —.]—Before any statement made by an accused person can be admitted in evidence against him it must be clear that accused made the statement of his own free will, & not under any feeling that he was legally bound to make a statement.—R. v. VAN BLERCK, [1919] C. P. D. 68.—S. AF.

n. — Whether prosecution must prove confession voluntary.—On a prosecution for having in possession forged bank-notes knowing them to be forged, evidence was given of a conversation with prisoner in presence of the chief of police in which prisoner made a statement as to where he got the notes, etc.:—Held: the onus was upon the prosecution to establish that the statement was free & voluntary, & it was not sufficient for this purpose that the officer should swear to it, but he should have negatived possible inducements which would have made the statement inadmissible.—R. v. TUTTY (1905), 38 N. S. R. 136.—CAN.

o. — —.]—The prosecution need not prove that a confession was free & voluntary before eviden

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect. 4.]

to exclude the statement, but the absence of a caution does not as a matter of law make the statement inadmissible.—R. v. VOISIN, [1918] 1 K. B. 531; 87 L. J. K. B. 574; 118 L. T. 654; 82 J. P. 96; 34 T. L. R. 263; 62 Sol. Jo. 423; 26 Cox, C. C. 224; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A. Annotation.—Consd. R. v. Cook (1918), 34 T. L. R. 515.

4310. —.].—An answer given by an accused person in reply to a question put to him by a police constable, without threat or inducement, may be given in evidence against him.—ROGERS v. HAWKEN (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 526; 78 L. T. 655; 62 J. P. 279; 42 Sol. Jo. 381; 19 Cox, C. C. 122, D. C.

Annotations:—Fold. Lewis v. Harris (1913), 110 L. T. 337. Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4311. Inadmissible if procured by improper inducement.]—Confessions obtained in consequence of promises or threats cannot be given in evidence; but any facts, though resulting from such inadmissible confession, may be received.—R. v. WARICKSHALL (1783), 1 Leach, 263.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Wheeler (1838), 2 Mood. C. C. 45; R. v. Thompson, [1893] 2 Q. B. 12; R. v. Booth & Jones (1910), 74 J. P. 475; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4312. —.].—R. v. BUTCHER (1798), 1 Leach, 265, n.

4313. —.].—In order to render a confession by a prisoner admissible the prosecution must show affirmatively, to the satisfaction of the judge, that it has not been made under the influence of an improper inducement. If this appear doubtful on the evidence the confession ought to be rejected.

On an indictment for stealing the goods of two persons in partnership, a confession made after an inducement to confess has been held out in their absence by the wife of one of them, who assisted in the management of their business, is inadmissible.—R. v. WARRINGHAM (1851), 2 Den. 447, n.; 15 Jur. 318.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 21 L. J. M. C. 130; R. v. Moore (1852), 21 L. J. M. C. 199; R. v. Thompson, [1893] 2 Q. B. 12.

4314. —.].—In order that evidence of a confession by a prisoner may be admissible, it must be affirmatively proved that such confession was free & voluntary, that is, was not preceded by any inducement to prisoner to make a statement held out by a person in authority, or that it was not made until after such inducement had clearly been removed.

Prisoner was tried for embezzling the money of a co. It was proved at the trial that, on being taxed with the crime by the chairman of the co., he said, "Yes, I took the money," & afterwards made out a list of the sums which he had embezzled, & with the assistance of his brother paid to the co. a part of such sums. The chairman stated that at the time of the confession no threat was used & no promise made as regards the prosecution of prisoner, but admitted that, before receiving it, he had said to prisoner's brother, "It will be the right thing for your brother to make a statement," & the ct. drew the inference that prisoner, when he made the confession, knew that the chairman had spoken these words to his brother:—Held: the confession of prisoner had not been satisfactorily proved to have been free & voluntary, & therefore evidence of the confession ought not to have been received.—R. v. THOMPSON, [1893] 2 Q. B. 12; 62 L. J. M. C. 93; 69 L. T. 22; 57 J. P. 312; 41 W. L. R. 525; 9 T. L. R. 435; 37 Sol. Jo. 457; 17 Cox, C. C. 641; 5 R. 392, C. C. R. Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Rose (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 289.

thereof admitted.—R. v. GRAF (1909), 13 O. W. R. 1133; 19 O. L. R. 238; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 193.—CAN.

p. —.].—No statement by an accused is admissible in evidence against him unless it is shown by the prosecution to have been a voluntary statement in the sense that it has not been obtained from him either by fear of prejudice or hope of advantage exercised or held out by a person in authority.—R. v. JONES, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 411.—CAN.

q. —.].—Before admitting evidence of a confession made to a police officer either before or after the arrest it should be made to appear affirmatively that the confession was free & voluntary as having been made without any inducement such as a promise or threat, & the onus of proving this is upon the prosecution.—R. v. READ, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 402.—CAN.

r. —.].—A confession by an accused charged with murder excluded where the circumstances surrounding the confession was such as to raise a doubt whether it was entirely voluntary. Where such a doubt exists the onus is on the Crown to show that the confession was wholly voluntary.—R. v. KATOLA, [1909] T. S. 1019.—S. AF.

s. —.].—Before a confession can be admitted the Crown must prove affirmatively that it was freely & voluntarily made, & that accused was at the time in his sound & sober senses unless the circumstances surrounding the confession are such as clearly to indicate the existence of such facts.—R. v. FRANS SELEPI (1919), T. P. D. 105.—S. AF.

t. —.].—Confession made to clergyman.—The evidence of a clergyman to whom prisoner confessed having committed a murder was received.—R. v. GILHAM (1828), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 346.—IR.

a. —.].—In presence of police officers.—Police witnesses gave evidence of a confession made by accused to his mother in their presence. It was shown that two other persons were present when the liquor in question was sold to the traps, but neither their names or present whereabouts were known to the Crown witnesses:—Held: the confession made not to, but merely in the presence of, the police witnesses had been rightly admitted.—R. v. FOSTER, [1922] E. D. L. 163.—S. AF.

b. —.].—Statement to police officer after caution.—The apprehending constable cautioned one of the prisoners that "anything he might say would be evidence against him"; upon this prisoner made a statement:—Held: the statement was admissible in evidence.—R. v. RAMSAY & JOHNSON (1879), 2 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 92.—AUS.

4311 i. Inadmissible if procured by improper inducement.—A confession to be admissible in evidence must be free & voluntary. It is free & voluntary unless brought about by a threat or false representations.—R. v. DEAN (1896), 17 N. S. W. L. R. 224; 12 N. S. W. W. N. 80.—AUS.

4311 ii. —.].—No confession is deemed to be voluntary if it appears to the judge to have been caused by an inducement, threat or promise proceeding from a person in authority, & having reference to the charge against accused, whether addressed to him directly or brought to his knowledge indirectly, & if, in the opinion of the judge, such inducement, threat or promise gave accused grounds for supposing that by making a confession he would gain some advantage or avoid some evil in reference to the proceedings against him.—KEEFE v. R. (1919), 21 W. A. L. R. 88.—AUS.

4311 iii. —.].—It having appeared that prosecutor had offered direct inducements to prisoner to confess:—Held: if the judge was satisfied that the promise of favour thus held out had induced the confessions, & continued to act upon prisoner's mind, notwithstanding the warning of the coroner, he was right in directing the jury to reject them.

Held: also, that if the judge suspected the confessions had been obtained by undue influence, such suspicion should have been removed before he received the evidence. It is a question for the judge whether or not the prisoner has been induced by undue influence to confess.

Semble: that when the names of other prisoners are mentioned in the confession, the proper course is to read the names in full, but to direct the jury not to pay any attention to them.—R. v. FINKLE (1865), 15 C. P. 453.—CAN.

4311 iv. —.].—A confession not free & voluntary should be rejected.—R. v. DE MESQUITO (1915), 32 W. L. R. 368; 9 W. W. R. 113.—CAN.

4311 v. —.].—A confession by prisoner to a person in authority in order to be admissible in evidence against the person making it, must be free & voluntary. The confession is not free & voluntary if it has been obtained by violence, or if it is made in answer to a question by a person in authority which accused believed he was compelled to answer.—R. v. WONG CHIN KWAI (1908), 3 Hong Kong L. R. 89.—HONG KONG.

Appl. R. v. Colpus & Boorman, R. v. White, [1917] 1 K. B. 574. Beld. Rogers v. Hawken (1898), 78 L. T. 655; R. v. Brailford, [1905] 2 K. B. 730; R. v. Knight (1905), 21 T. L. R. 310; R. v. Booth & Jones (1910), 74 J. P. 475; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4315. Confession to police officer—Unnecessary to administer caution.]—It is not the duty of a police officer to caution a prisoner with regard to the consequences of making to him any statement, when that statement is a perfectly voluntary one.

4315 i. Confession to police officer—Unnecessary to administer caution.]—It. v. Hoo SAM (1912), 20 W. L. R. 571; 1 W. W. R. 1049.—CAN.

4315 ii. ———.]—A voluntary confession made by prisoner to the constable who arrested him upon a warrant to answer the charge of perjury, although the constable did not give prisoner the usual warning, was properly admitted in evidence.—R. v. BOAGH SINGH (1913), 24 W. L. R. 941.—CAN.

4315 iii. ———.]—It is the duty of the constabulary to caution persons in custody against criminating themselves; but though they should receive admissions without giving such caution, it is matter for observation only, & does not render the admissions inadmissible in evidence, if they were free & voluntary, neither induced by hope nor extorted by fear.—It. v. MARTIN & DELANY (1841), Arn. M. & O. 197.—IR.

4315 iv. ———.]—A statement voluntarily made to a police officer by a person suspected of a crime, who has not been cautioned that what he says may be used against him, is not open to the same objections with regard to its admissibility as evidence against accused, as is a statement made by him in answer to questions put by the officer.—HODGSON v. MACPHERSON, [1913] S. C. (J.) 68; 50 So. L. R. 752; 2 S. L. T. 8; 7 Adam, 118.—SCOT.

e. ———. While accused on bail.]—Held: a statement voluntarily made by an accused person while out on bail to the policeman who had apprehended him regarding the crime with which he was charged was competent evidence against accused, although the policeman had not cautioned the accused.—SMITH v. LAMB (1888), 15 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 54; 25 So. L. R. 429.—SCOT.

d. ———. After caution—Admissible at trial on different charge.]—Prisoner was arrested on a charge of burglary. After being given the usual caution he made certain statements to a constable; subsequently he was charged with murder, & on his trial the Crown sought to put his statements in evidence.—Held: the statements were admissible.—R. v. VAN HONST (1914), 20 B. C. R. 81.—CAN.

e. ———. Statement made twice—Caution only before second.]—When a prisoner makes a statement to officers without being cautioned, & subsequently makes the same statement to the same officers after being cautioned:—Held: the second statement is inadmissible.—R. v. KONG (1914), 20 B. C. R. 71.—CAN.

f. ———.]—Held: it was competent for prosecutor to ask a police officer who had apprehended the panel two days after the commission of the offence, "What did the panel say on being apprehended & told the charge against him?"—H. M. ADVOCATE v. (1871), 2

Confession to police officer—Admissible.]—A confession made to a person who holds the dual position of police officer & a justice of the peace is admissible.

WILSON v. R. (1911), 8 Z. 73.—R. v. PETERSEN, [1918] C. P. D. 487.—S. AF.

confession

of an offence by a person charged with the commission of that offence made to a peace officer, other than a magistrate or justice freely voluntarily in his sound & sober senses & without having been unduly influenced thereto, is under Act 31 of 1917, s. 273, admissible in evidence against such person at his trial, if it was confirmed & reduced to writing in the presence of a justice of the peace, who at the time was a member of the police force.—Ex p. MINISTER OF JUSTICE, [1920] App. D. 304.—S. AF.

k. ———. Prosecution must prove confession was voluntary.]—Before admitting evidence of a confession made to a police officer either before or after the arrest it should be made to appear affirmatively that the confession was free & voluntary as having been made without any inducement such as a promise or threat, & the onus of proving this is upon the prosecution.—It. v. READ, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 402; 62 D. L. R. 363; 36 Can. Crim. Cas. 200; 17 Alta. L. R. 68.—CAN.

l. ———.]—When the prosecution offers evidence of an alleged confession made by an accused to a police officer, it is the duty of the presiding judge to inquire into all the circumstances in order to ascertain whether the confession was made freely, & if he finds that it was not, he must reject the evidence. The onus is upon the prosecution to show that the statement or confession was made voluntarily, & the proper mode of proving that it was so made is by negating the possible inducements by way of hope or fear that would have made the statement inadmissible, & not merely by taking the affirmative answer of the officer under oath that the statement was made voluntarily.—R. v. SANAVITON, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 568.—CAN.

m. ———. Necessity for writing.]—Act 31 of 1917, s. 273, provides that where a confession is made to a peace officer other than a magistrate or justice it shall not be admissible in evidence unless it was confirmed & reduced to writing in the presence of a magistrate or justice. Where a native accused voluntarily made a relevant statement to his master in the presence of a peace officer:—Held: the statement was admissible, & the sect. only applied to a confession of guilt made not in the presence of but directly to a peace officer.—R. v. VEREN, [1918] T. P. D. 218.—S. AF.

n. Confession to magistrate—Without caution.]—Qu.: whether in Ireland a confession made by a prisoner to a magistrate, without any previous caution or warning, is admissible in evidence.—O'REILLY'S CASE (1842), Ir. Cir. Rep. 718.—IR.

o. ———.]—The confession of a prisoner is not to be excluded because he was not cautioned by the magistrates that it would be given in evidence against him, provided he was not, in making it, under threat or inducement.—LAVIN'S CASE (1843), Ir. Cir. Rep. 813.—IR.

p. ———. Sufficiency of caution.]—Prisoner having been brought before a magistrate, & being about to make a confession of guilt, was cautioned by the magistrate in the following words: "Take care about what you say, for whatever you say will be written down & used for or against you":—Held: such a caution was insufficient & the confession of prisoner was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. SIMPSON (1849), 1 Ir. Jur. 200.—IR.

—R. v. DICKINSON (1844), 2 L. T. O. S. 478; 8 J. P. 213; 1 Cox, C. C. 27.

4316. ———.]—When a prisoner is about to make a confession to a constable, he need not be cautioned by the latter as to the consequences of his so doing.—R. v. WATTS (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 467; 1 Cox, C. C. 75.

4317. ———.]—A constable ought not to caution a prisoner not to say anything. A

q. Confession subsequently retracted—Whether admissible without corroborative evidence.]—It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that a confession made & subsequently retracted by a prisoner cannot be accepted as evidence of his guilt without independent corroborative evidence. A jury should be asked with reference to such confessions, not whether they were corroborated by independent evidence, but whether having regard to the circumstances under which they were made & retracted & all the circumstances connected with them, it was more probable that the original confession or the statements retracting them were true.—It. v. RAMAN (1897) 1 L. Ir. 21 Mad. 83.—IND.

r. Confession while in custody.]—Accused, an undertrial prisoner, was sent up by the magistrate in whose lock-up he was, in the custody of two policemen, to a hospital for treatment. The policemen made him over to the doctor & waited in the verandah to take him back. While with the doctor accused made a confession of his guilt. At the trial, the confession was allowed to be proved:—Held: the confession was excluded by Indian Evidence Act (I. of 1872, s. 26), because accused who was in police custody up to his arrival at the hospital, remained that custody while the policemen were standing outside on the verandah.—R. v. MALLANGOWDA (1917), 1 L. R. 42 Bom. 1.—IND.

s. Admission not amounting to confession—Admissible even when made after inducement.]—A statement made by a prisoner after an inducement is admissible in evidence if the statement cannot be regarded as a confession.—R. v. BATES (1895), 16 N. S. W. L. R. 268; 12 N. S. W. W. N. 30.—AUS.

t. ———.]—Detectives requested accused to go to the police station, & made an explanation to the chief of the police. Accused went there, & was asked by the chief where he got the two notes, & he said he got one from M., but gave no information about the other. Accused was arrested after this. M. stated that he had given accused $20, but that it was in two $10 notes:—Held: although confessions may be given in evidence only when they have been freely & voluntarily made, that rule was not applicable to the statements of accused, which did not contain any confession or even suggestion of guilt, & the statements were admissible in evidence.—R. v. HURD (1913), 23 W. L. R. 812; 10 D. L. R. 475; 4 W. W. R. 183; 21 Can. Crim. Cas. 98.—CAN.

a. ———.]—Accused went to the thana & lodged a first information of the murder, narrating the events preceding the commission of the offence, & stating further that he had severely hacked his wife while in bed with a sword, which he left lying on the same, & thereafter he unlocked the door of the room in which they were & came out, dropping the padlock of the door on the half window. In consequence the police went to the place & found

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sects. 4 & 5.]

constable is not to lead a prisoner to say anything; but if a prisoner chooses to say something, it is the duty of the constable to hear what it is he has to say.—R. v. PREST (1847), 10 L. T. O. S. 251; sub nom. R. v. PRIEST, 2 Cox, C. C. 378.

SUB-SECT. 5.—CONFESSIONS ARISING FROM QUESTIONS BY POLICE.

4318. Before accused is in custody—Inquiries as to offences may be made—Answers admissible in evidence.]—A prisoner was in the custody of A., a constable. B., another constable, coming into the room, A. left it, & the prisoner immediately made a confession to B.:—Held: if prisoner was in custody as an accused party, A. must be called to prove that he had held out no inducement to prisoner to confess, before the confession made to B. is receivable in evidence; but if it appear that prisoner was not then in custody on any charge, but merely detained as an unwilling witness, it will not be necessary to call A.—R. v. SWATKINS (1831), 4 C. & P. 548; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 510.

4319. ———.]—There is no rule excluding admissions made by a prisoner in answer to questions put by a policeman. A fortiori, when the accused has not been actually taken into custody.—R. v. BRACKENBURY (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 628.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Best (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 658; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4320. ———.]—Where a constable has put questions to prisoner, & after he has answered them has taken him into custody & charged him, & has subsequently investigated the truth of the answers, evidence of prisoner's answers, & of their untruthfulness, may be admissible.—R. v. MILLER (1895), 18 Cox, C. C. 54.

Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4321. ———.]—ROGERS v. HAWKEN, No. 4310, ante.

4322. ———.]—Answers to questions put with a proper caution by an official, who has power to order the person interrogated to be arrested or to influence others to cause his arrest, are admissible in evidence against that person on his trial, provided the interrogation takes place before it is decided to arrest him & he is not in custody.—R. v. BOOTH & JONES (1910), 74 J. P. 475; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4323. ———.]—A statement made by a person to a constable in answer to an inquiry by the constable is admissible in evidence on subsequent criminal proceedings against such person although no caution was given by the constable, provided that the person was not at the time in custody on the charge, that the constable on making the inquiry had not formed the intention of instituting proceedings whatever the answer might be, & that no inducement was held out or threat made to induce such person to make the statement.—LEWIS v. HARRIS (1913), 110 L. T. 337; 78 J. P. 68; 30 T. L. R. 109; 58 Sol. Jo. 156; 24 Cox, C. C. 66, D. C.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Voisin, [1918] 1 K. B. 531.

4324. ———.]—Statements made by an accused person to a police officer before arrest may be admissible in evidence against accused, though made in answer to questions put by the officer. If a police officer has determined to effect an arrest, or if the person is in custody, then he should ask no questions which will in any way tend to prove the guilt of such person from his own mouth.—R. v. CROWE & MYERSCOUGH (1917), 81 J. P. 288.

4325. ———.]—R. v. COOK (1918), 34 T. L. R. 515, C. C. A.

4326. ———.]—Caution not necessary.]—R. v. DOUGAL (1903), 67 J. P. Jo. 325.

4327. ———.]—A constable may ask for an explanation as to property found on a person, not yet charged, without cautioning him.—R. v. LIEBLING (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 314, C. C. A.

4328. ———.]—R. v. VOISIN, No. 4309, ante.

4329. ———.]—Not to elicit proof of crime.]—R. v. BERRIMAN, No. 4259, ante.

4330. ———.]—A police officer has no right to try to elicit admissions from persons whom he suspects.—R. v. MATTHEWS (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 23, C. C. A.

4331. ———.]—Questions by commanding the woman dead on the bed with a number of incised wounds, a blood-stained sword on the same, & the padlock:—Held: the narrative of antecedent events was admissible as admissions not amounting to confessions.—LEGAL REMEMBRANCE v. LALIT MOHAN SINGH ROY (1921), 1 L. R. 49 Calc. 167.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 5.

4318 i. Before accused in custody—Inquiries as to offences may be made—Answers admissible in evidence.]—Answers given by a prisoner to questions put by the policeman who arrested him are receivable in evidence against prisoner although he was not previously cautioned by the policeman.—R. v. ROGERSON (1870), 9 N. S. W. S. C. R. 234.—AUS.

4318 ii. ———.]—Answers given by a panel to the officer by whom he was apprehended admitted in evidence but an opinion intimated by the ct. that the officer had gone further in asking questions than he ought to have done.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. THOMSON (1857), 2 Irv. 747.—SCOT.

4326 i. ———.]—Caution not necessary.]—Deft., being suspected of stealing street-car tickets & money from his employers, a street railway co., was asked by two detectives to go with them to a police station, which he did; he was there searched, & tickets were found on him. Being asked by the detectives where he got the tickets, he voluntarily made statements which the detectives testified to upon his trial for theft. The detectives did not warn him that what he might say would be used against him. No promises were made or threats used by the detectives. He was convicted:—Held: the absence of a caution did not make the statements inadmissible.—R. v. RODNEY (1918), 42 O. L. R. 645; 14 O. W. N. 148.—CAN.

b. ———.]—Inquiries as to an offence—Accused subsequently charged with different offence.]—Prisoner was arrested on a charge of stealing S.'s gun, & in answer to questions put to him by a constable, who did not caution him, he made certain statements; he was afterwards charged with the murder of S., & on his trial the Crown sought to put in evidence his answers:—Held: not admissible.—R. v. KAY (1904), 11 B. C. R. 157.—CAN.

c. ———.]—Where a prisoner under arrest for assault & robbery was warned that he need not answer, but if he did answer what he said might be used against him in evidence, is sufficient warning although he was not told that he would be charged with murder, & a confession so obtained is admissible on a charge of murder.—R. v. ROSSI (1910), 8 E. L. R. 595.—CAN.

d. ———.]—After determination to arrest—Discretion of magistrate.]—Prisoner, immediately prior to his arrest, made certain statements to a constable in the course of a conversation during which the constable had said, "This looks pretty crook, Tom old man. That weaner ram & broken-winded ewe make things look pretty suspicious":—Held: constable had made up his mind to arrest him at the time the conversation took place & it was within the discretion of the judge to admit the statements of accused as evidence against him.—R. v. LYNCH, [1919] S. A. L. R. 325.—AUS.

e. ———.]—M., suspected of having committed felony, was followed & stopped by a constable in plain clothes. The constable having told M. what he was, & that she, M., was charged with felony, proceeded to put several questions to her relative to a parcel in her hand, which contained the goods supposed to have been stolen. At the time he asked the questions, the constable had not told M. that she was under arrest, "but he would not have let her go." He did not expressly hold out any threat or inducement to officer of soldier—Answers admissible in evidence.]—R. v. BROWN, DUNBAR & COWDREY (1903), 68 J. P. 15; 48 Sol. Jo. 102.

4332. — Not where accused practically in custody.]—Prisoner, who was an employee at a post office, was interviewed for some hours by a travelling clerk from the General Post Office, & after being cautioned, was questioned in connection with a criminal charge. The travelling clerk had power to initiate criminal proceedings, & he had prisoner practically in custody during the whole of the interview. Upon the trial questions & the statements in answer made by prisoner at the interview were tendered in evidence & objected to. The judge refused to admit the whole interview, but allowed the earlier part to be given in evidence.—R. v. KNIGHT & THAYRE (1905), 69 J. P. 108; 21 T. L. R. 310; 20 Cox, C. C. 711.

Annotations:—Distd. Lewis v. Harris (1913), 110 L. T. 337. Consd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4333. — Not after determination to arrest.]—The police have no right to put questions tending to convict him to a prisoner in custody even after cautioning him. It is a matter in the discretion of the judge to admit or reject the answers to such questions, & the latter course should be adopted if there is any reason to believe that a trap was being laid for prisoner.

Persons about to be taken into custody should not be cross-examined by the police.—R. v. HIRSTED (1898), 19 Cox, C. C. 16.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Knight (1905), 21 T. L. R. 310; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

M., nor did he, before she answered him, give her any caution. M. having answered the questions, the constable then told her she was not bound to say anything that would criminate herself, & said he should bring her to the police-office.—Held: the conversation between M. & the constable was receivable in evidence.—R. v. JOHNSTON (1864), 15 L. C. L. R. 60.—IR.

1. — Questions as to charge against others—Accused subsequently charged with same offence.]—A. was recognised by the police with reference to a charge of theft & reset against certain other persons. A. was afterwards charged with reset of the same goods. At the trial the police gave evidence as to what A. had said in recognition. A. having been convicted, the conviction was quashed on the ground that it was incompetent to prove at A.'s trial what he had stated in recognition.—Cook v. McNeill (1906), R. (Ct. of Sess.) 57; 43 Sc. L. R. 397; 13 S. L. T. 838.—SCOT.

4336 i. When accused is in custody—Questions should not be asked—Admissibility of answers.]—Held: answers given by a prisoner when in custody, to a constable interrogating him without caution, are admissible in evidence against prisoner.—R. v. JAGELMAN (1871), 10 N. S. W. S. C. R. 63.—AUS.

4336 ii. ——A police officer is not justified in questioning an accused person who is in custody, with the object of obtaining incriminating statements, & such statements, if obtained, are not admissible in evidence against accused on his trial.—AH HOY v. HOUGH (1912), 14 W. A. L. R. 214.—

4336 iii. ——J During the trial of prisoner for murder, questions arose as to the admissibility in evidence of statements made by him to certain detectives, in answer to questions put to him by them, he being at the time in their custody.—Held: the statements were admissible in evidence.—R. v. DAY (1890), 20 O. R. 209.—CAN.

4336 iv. ——A Answers given by a prisoner under arrest in response to the officer in charge, are

4334. ——L—Lewis v. Harris, No. 4323, ante.

4335. ——R. v. Crowe & Myer-Scough, No. 4324, ante.

4336. When accused is in custody—Questions should not be asked—Admissibility of answers.]—Though there may be cases in which it will be proper, yet as a general rule, it is better that a policeman should not put questions to a prisoner in his custody, without cautioning him that his answers will be evidence against him.—R. v. KERR (1837), 8 C. & P. 176.

Annotations:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599. Mentd. Bridges v. Hawkesworth (1851), 15 Jur. 1079.

4337. ——A policeman asked prisoner, a boy between eight & nine years old, various questions as to his going to school, knowing the Lord's Prayer, where he would go to if he told a lie, whether God knew everything; & then asked, "Whether he thought God knew who set fire to the haystack?" The boy not answering, & beginning to cry, the policeman asked him if he could give any information about the fire, & receiving no answer, he said he should apprehend him upon the charge of setting fire to the haystack. The boy then made a statement:—Held: it was not admissible in evidence.

It is no part of a policeman's duty to put questions to persons accused, but to take them before a magistrate.—R. v. DAY (1847), 8 L. T. O. 517; 11 J. P. 245; 2 Cox, C. C. 300.

4338. ——A policeman ought receivable in evidence, if the presiding judge is satisfied that they were not unduly or improperly obtained, which depends upon the circumstances of each case.—R. v. ELLIOTT (1899), 31 O. R. 14.—CAN.

4336 v. ——P Prisoner, arrested & given the usual caution, was taken by motor to the police station, where he arrived about five minutes after the caution. There he made a statement in answer to questions put by the police:—Held: the statement was admissible in evidence.—R. v. WALLACE (1914), 20 B. C. R. 97.—CAN.

4336 vi. ——A Accused was arrested for theft from H.M. post. The constable who arrested accused gave him the proper warning, but then said, "You have fallen into a trap which has been set for you." The constable then asked the accused if he had taken anything, & accused admitted taking clothes & selling them:—Held: the conviction was right even though no other evidence of the sale was tendered at the trial.—R. v. UMLAH, [1923] 1 D. L. R. 330; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 302; 56 N. S. R. 10.—CAN.

4336 vii. ——I Indictment for infanticide, by administering poison called powder-blue. A statement was made by prisoner to a constable who visited her in the gaol & who, having duly cautioned her, asked her how so much of her blue came into the child's stomach:—Held: such statement of prisoner, under the foregoing circumstances, was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. DOYLE (1840), 1 Craw. & D. 396.—IR.

4336 viii. ——I Indictment for having copies of passwords used by an unlawful combination. A sub-inspector of police found certain papers in the house where prisoner resided, prisoner being absent from the house. Afterwards, the sub-inspector saw prisoner in custody of the police, & thereupon showed him the papers aforesaid, & asked him whether or not he knew anything of them:—Held: the answer of prisoner to the above question was not, under the circumstances, admissible in evidence.—R. v. DEVLIN (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 151.—IR.

4336 ix. ——P Prisoner, in custody, was interrogated with the following caution by an inspector of police: "You are accused of a very serious offence, have you any explanation to give? You are not bound to say anything, but anything you do say will be given as evidence against you":—Held: prisoner's answer should not be received in evidence.—R. v. TOOLE (1856), 7 Cox, C. C. 244.—IR.

4336 x. ——A Answers of prisoner elicited by the police, even after due caution, ought to be received in evidence with great jealousy.—R. v. WARRELL (1861), 13 Ir. Jur. 357.—IR.

4336 xi. ——T The answer made by a prisoner, after his arrest, to a question asked by a police constable, is inadmissible in evidence.

When a constable arrests a party, he ought to abstain from asking questions; he ought to leave that duty to the magistrate, who alone has the power to reduce to writing what is said by prisoner.—R. v. BODKIN (1863), 15 Ir. Jur. 340.—IR.

4336 xii. ——H. M. Advocate v. Smith & Campbell (1855), 2 Ir. v. 1.—SCOT.

4336 xiii. ——O Objection to the competency of proving certain statements by a prisoner after his apprehension in answer to questions put to him by a police officer, repelled.—H. M. Advocate v. Wylie (1858), 3 Ir. v. 218.—SCOT.

4336 xiv. ——H. M. Advocate v. Grant (1862), 4 Ir. v. 183; 34 Sc. Jur. 469.—SCOT.

4336 xv. ——A Although it is the duty of a constable when arresting a prisoner not to ask questions, yet, if he does so without using any threat or promise, the answers in reply are evidence.—R. v. POTTER (1887), 6 N. Z. L. R. 92.—N.Z.

g. ——The questioning

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sects. 5 & 6, A.]

not, in general, to question prisoners who are in his custody, but if he does, the interrogation ought not to be confined to questions calculated to compromise the party.—R. v. STOKES (1853), 17 Jur. 192.

4339. ————.]—(1) Although it is necessary, in a case of murder, that there should be evidence that the body found is the body of the murdered person, the circumstances may be sufficient evidence of identity.

(2) Admissions by policeman, elicited by questions of a police officer, with an admonition to tell all she knew, etc., are inadmissible. But a subsequent statement by the prisoner to another police officer is not necessarily so far under the same influence as to exclude it.—R. v. CHEVERTON (1862), 2 F. & F. 833.

Annotation:—As to (2) Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4340. ————.]—The practice of questioning prisoners by policeman, & thus extracting confessions from them, though it does not render the evidence so obtained inadmissible, is one which the judges strongly reprobate, & which ought not to be permitted.—R. v. MICK (1863), 3 F. & F. 822.

4341. ————.]—R. being in custody, & having been charged with setting fire to some bobbins of cotton in a mill, was shown a piece of paper, partially burnt, with writing on it, which had been found among the burnt property. Without receiving any caution whatever, he was then asked by the policeman whose writing it was, & what he had done with the remainder of it:—Held: what prisoner said in answer to the questions was receivable in evidence, as the questions did not amount to a threat.—R. v. REGAN (1867), 17 L. T. 325.

4342. ————.]—The words "I must know more about it," said by a police constable to a prisoner in the course of a conversation between them respecting the subject-matter of the charge, immediately before apprehension, are not a sufficient inducement to exclude an admission.

It is the duty of the police constable to hear what prisoner has voluntarily to say, but after prisoner is taken into custody it is not the duty of the police constable to ask questions. So, when the police constable has reason to suppose that the person will be taken into custody, it is his duty to be very careful & cautious in asking questions (KEATING, J.).—R. v. REASON (1872), 12 Cox, C. C. 228.

Annotations:—Apprvd. R. v. James (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 319. Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4343. ————.]—After a prisoner is in custody the police have no right to ask him questions, & an admission or confession obtained in that way is inadmissible in evidence; & where one of several prisoners in custody makes a statement admitting his guilt & also incriminating the other prisoners, & such statement is afterwards read over to the others by the constable who asks them what they have to say to that, this is in the nature of a cross-examination of the prisoners, & such statement & their answers are not admissible as evidence against them on their trial.

Secus where the persons are not in custody.—R. v. GAVIN (1885), 15 Cox, C. C. 656.

Annotations:—Overd. R. v. Brackenbury (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 628; R. v. Best, [1909] 1 K. B. 692. Refd. R. v. Firth (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 162; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Voisin, [1918] 1 K. B. 531.

4344. ————.]—On the arrest of a prisoner, a constable has no right to ask questions, & if prisoner answers, the answers are not admissible in evidence against him.

If a third party make a statement which is taken down in writing, & read over by a constable to a prisoner, neither it, nor the conversation induced by it, is admissible in evidence.—R. v. MALE & COOPER (1893), 17 Cox, C. C. 689.

Annotations:—Consd. Rogers v. Hawken (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 526. Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Gardner & Hancox (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 206.

4345. ————.]—Prisoners were taken into custody at a certain house:—Held: what they said in answer to the charge at the police station could not be given in evidence against them as it was not right when once a prisoner was in custody to charge him again at the police station in the hope of getting something out of him.—R. v. MORGAN (1895), 59 J. P. Jo. 827.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Knight (1905), 21 T. L. R. 310.

4346. ————.]—R. v. HISTED, No. 4333, ante.

4347. ————.]—The fact that a prisoner's statement is made by him in reply to a question put to him by a police constable after he is in custody does not of itself render the statement inadmissible in evidence.—R. v. BEST, [1909] 1 K. B. 692; 78 L. J. K. B. 658; 100 L. T. 622; 25 T. L. R. 280; 22 Cox, C. C. 97; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 30; 73 J. P. Jo. 77, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Liebling (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 314. Consd. R. v. Voisin, [1918] 1 K. B. 531. Refd. R. v. Firth (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 162; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Gardner & Hancox (1915), 80 J. P. 135.

4348. ————.]—No police officer has a right to put any question to a prisoner after he is once in custody. To say: "It is alleged so-&so," stating to prisoner what has been alleged against him, is only a subtle form of cross-examination. The question of the kind of corroboration which is required to corroborate the evidence of an accomplice must always depend upon the nature of the particular charge into which inquiry is being made.—R. v. WINKEL (1911), 76 J. P. 191.

4349. ————.]—IBRAHIM v. R., No. 4308, ante.

4350. ————.]—R. v. VOISIN, No. 4309, ante.

4351. ————.]—The police have no right to interrogate arrested persons with reference to any charge against any one of them nor to of persons in custody by policemen & others, within the scope of whose duty such questioning does not fall, is not to be permitted.—R. v. GLENNON, TOOLE & MAGRATH (1840), 1 Craw. & D. 359.—IR.

h. ————.]—It is not the duty of constables of police to interrogate prisoners in their custody, even though they have first cautioned them not to criminate themselves.—R. v. HASSETT (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 511.—IR.

k. ————.]—Prisoner supposed to be insane—Answers inadmissible.—Cir- cumstances in which it was held that a lieutenant of police & a police surgeon were justified in putting certain questions to a prisoner supposed to be insane, who had been brought to the office on a charge of murder but who had not as yet emitted a judicial declaration:—Held: the answers to these questions were inadmissible in evidence.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MILNE (1863), 4 Irv. 301; 35 Sc. Jur. 470.—SCOT.

l. At time of apprehension.—Held: incompetent to prove statements made by a panel, in answer to questions put to her by the officer at the time of her apprehension.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. HAY (1858), 3 Irv. 181. 31 Sc. Jur. 30.—SCOT.

m. ————.]—Held: an officer at the time of executing a warrant to apprehend for examination a party charged with a crime, was entitled to put to him certain questions as circumstances connected with the commission of the offence & that such question & the answers to them might competently be put in evidence at the invite from one co-deft. a statement against another.—R. v. GRAYSON (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

4352. — Reading to accused statements of third parties.—R. v. MALE & COOPER, No. 4344, ante.

4353. — Reading over statements of fellow prisoners.—R. v. GAVIN, No. 4343, ante.

4354. — —.—*Of 104 brass locomotive tubes, lying in certain works, 50 were found to be missing. On the trial of P., a marine store dealer, with others, for stealing & receiving these tubes, a witness for the prosecution produced a tube which he said was "similar to some of those that were taken." Another witness saw from 16 to 20 brass locomotive tubes put by certain men into a cart with P.'s name on it, & in charge of B., P.'s servant, at a spot some 400 yards from the works, on the morning after the 50 tubes were missed. He said the tubes he saw were "similar" to the tube that had been produced. A third witness saw P.'s cart, in charge of B., drive towards & away from the spot. P. had told the police he had never seen any tubes. No tubes were found on P.'s premises. P. gave evidence at the trial that on this morning a man came to his premises & asked if he would fetch some scrap; that he told B. to go & fetch it; that when B. & certain men returned with brass locomotive tubes, he said he would have nothing to do with them & that they must back the cart out of his yard; that he then went into the house; that he thought there were eight or nine tubes in the cart, & that he never saw them again. P. was convicted:—Held: (1) the conviction must be quashed, as there was no sufficient evidence that the tubes in the cart were the stolen tubes, or that they were ever in the possession of P.*

(2) Semble: where B. & P. are in custody charged with stealing & receiving certain property,

& B. writes out a statement, which is said to inculcate P., & the police place B. & P. together & read over to them the written statement of B., that statement does not become evidence against P.—R. v. PEARSON (1908), 72 J. P. 449; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (1) Consd. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168. Refd. R. v. Howells & Allen (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 197. Mentd. R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

4355. — —.—R. v. GARDNER & HANCOX, No. 4138, ante.

4356. — —.—R. v. GRAYSON, No. 4351, ante.

4357. — —.—If the police confront accused persons under arrest, nothing should be done to invite a reply from one implicated by the statement of another.—R. v. PILLEY (1922), 127 L. T. 220; 86 J. P. 190; 27 Cox, C. C. 230; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 138, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 6.—CONFESSIONS ARISING FROM INDUCEMENTS.

A. Matters amounting to Inducement.

4358. Promise of favour.—A confession induced by saying, "Unless you give me a more satisfactory account I will take you before a magistrate"; or by saying "Tell me where the things are & I will be favourable to you," cannot be given in evidence.—R. v. THOMPSON (1783), 1 Leach, 291.

4359. —.—R. v. CASS (1784), 1 Leach, 293, n. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 2 Den. 430.

4360. —.—A confession extorted from a person in illegal custody, & on promise of his liberty & a reward, is not admissible.—R. v. ACKROYD (1824), 1 Lew. C. C. 49.

4361. —.—The committing magistrate had told a prisoner he would do all he could for him trial.—LEWIS v. BLAIR (1858), 3 Irv. 16; 30 Sc. Jur. 508.—SCOT.

n. —.—Held: a criminal officer in apprehending a prisoner, was not entitled to question him so as to extract evidence.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MILLAR (1859), 3 Irv. 406.—SCOT.

o. —.—In a trial for murder, evidence disallowed of what the panel said at the time of apprehension in answer to question by criminal officer.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. SMITH (1901), 3 Adam, 475.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 6.—A.

4358 i. Promise of favour.—At the hearing in a ct. of petty sessions, a confession was admitted in evidence against E. There was some evidence that before E. made the confession, the constable to whom it was made told him that "any statement made would be to his benefit":—Held: if the words were used the confession was not freely & voluntarily made & was wrongly admitted.—McNAMARA v. EDWARDS, Ex p. EDWARDS, [1907] S. R. Q. 9.—AUS.

4358 ii. —.—*In a poisoning case one of the prisoners was arrested by a constable, & while in his house, a magistrate came in & said in her presence, "she had better turn Queen's evidence," to which the constable answered, "there are some preliminary proceedings to be adopted first":—Held: admissions made subsequently on the same day to the constable & his wife & another constable, were not admissible in evidence, inasmuch as prisoner might be under the influence of the hope held out to her by the magistrate.*—R. v. BERUBE (1852), 3 L. C. R. 212.—CAN.

J.—VOL. XIV.

4358 iii. —.—*M. was convicted of stealing goods the property of S. The evidence to connect M. with the crime was his statement to a policeman who had him in charge, that if he went to a particular place he would find the goods. This statement was made in consequence of his being told by the policeman that S. was a good-hearted man, & he, the policeman, thought that if he got his goods back he would not prosecute. The goods were afterwards found in the place described by prisoner:—Held: prisoner's statement was improperly received.*—R. v. McCafferty (1886), 25 N. B. R. 396.—CAN.

4358 iv. —.—*Accused confessed to a police constable, on being assured by him that nothing would happen to her, that she had killed her new-born child, & had buried it in the enclosure of her house. This statement led to the discovery of some bones of the head of an infant, a stone stained with blood, & a knife, with which stone & knife she said that she had killed her child. Before the committing magistrate she made the same statement:—Held: the confession before the magistrate was irrelevant.*—R. v. LUCHOO (1873), 5 N. W. 86.—IND.

4358 v. —.—*Prisoner was in the employment of the post-office, & having been arrested on the charge of opening & detaining a letter, a superior of prisoner in the same establishment said to prisoner's wife, while prisoner was in custody: "Do not be frightened; I hope nothing will happen to your husband beyond the loss of his situation":—Held: it appearing that the wife might have communicated this to prisoner, prisoner's subsequent confession was inadmissible.*—R. v.

HARDING (1842), Arml. M. & O. 340.—IR.

4358 vi. —.—*H. was indicted for stealing two sheep. Prosecutor, it appeared, had told prisoner that he would forgive him, & that there would be no litigation about it, if he would tell him about the sheep, & where they were. Prisoner was subsequently taken before a magistrate, who, having first cautioned him that he would probably be obliged hereafter to make use of any statement he might make against him, took down prisoner's examination in writing. It was proposed, by counsel for the Crown, to read these examinations in evidence:—Held: these examinations could not safely be received in evidence.*—R. v. HIGGINS (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 459.—IR.

4358 vii. —.—*Information given to a supt. of police by a prisoner under a promise of safety:—Held: inadmissible as evidence against prisoner.*—H. M. ADVOCATE v. MAHLER & BERRENHARD (1857), 2 Irv. 634; 29 Sc. Jur. 562.—SCOT.

4358 viii. —.—*A panel while in custody charged with the commission of a furtum grave, & before being remitted to the sheriff, was offered by a town councillor & ex-bailiff of the burgh in which the theft was committed, £100 for such information as would lead to the recovery of the property stolen; & the property was recovered in consequence of information so obtained, & the money paid accordingly. Upon these facts being disclosed at the trial, & evidence of the information so obtained being objected to for the panel, the High Ct. on the motion of prosecutor, deserted the diet simpliciter.*—H. M. ADVOCATE v. GRAHAM (1876), 3 Couper, 217.—SCOT

E E

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect.

if he would make a disclosure; after this, prisoner made a statement to the turnkey of the prison, who held out no inducement to prisoner to confess:—Held: what prisoner said to the turnkey could not be received in evidence, more especially as the turnkey had not given prisoner any caution.—R. v. COOPER (1833), 5 C. & P. 535; 1 Nev. & M. M. C. 371.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. De Marny (1906), 21 Cox, C. C. 371.

4362. —.]—If a prisoner be told, "You had better split, & not suffer for all of them," this is such an inducement to confess as will exclude what prisoner afterwards said.—R. v. THOMAS (1834), 6 C. & P. 353.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Shaw (1834), 6 C. & P. 372; R. v. Baldry (1852), 2 Den. 430.

4363. —.]—A prosecutor said to prisoner, "I should be obliged to you if you would tell us what you know about it. If you will not, we of course can do nothing":—Held: this was such an inducement to confess as would exclude what prisoner said.—R. v. PARTRIDGE (1836), 7 C. & P. 551.

4364. —.]—A female servant being suspected of stealing money, her mistress on a Monday told her that she would forgive her if she told the truth. On the Tuesday she was taken before a magistrate & was discharged, no one appearing against her. On the Wednesday the superintendent of police went with her mistress to the Bridewell, & told her in the presence of her mistress that she "was not bound to say anything unless she liked, & that if she had anything to say her mistress would hear her"; but the superintendent not knowing that her mistress had promised to forgive her, did not tell her that if she made a statement it might be given in evidence against her. Prisoner made a statement:—Held: this statement was not receivable in evidence, as the promise of the mistress must be considered as still operating on prisoner's mind at the time of the statement, but if the mistress had not been then present, it might have been otherwise.—R. v. HEWETT (1842), Car. & M. 534.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Moore (1852), 2 Den. 522.

4365. —.]—The mere knowledge by a prisoner of a handbill, by which a govt. reward & a promise of a pardon are offered in a case of murder, are not sufficient ground for rejecting a confession of such prisoner, unless it appear that the inducements there held out were those which led prisoner to confess.

Where a prisoner desired that any handbill that might appear concerning a murder with which he stood charged might be shown to him, and a handbill was shown to him by a constable, by which a reward and free pardon was offered to any but the person who struck the blow, & prisoner three days afterwards made a statement, this statement was held to be receivable in evidence.

But where it was afterwards proved by another constable that prisoner, on the night before he made the statement, said to him, that he saw no reason why he should suffer for the crime of another, & that as the govt. had offered a free pardon to any one concerned who had not struck the blow, he would tell all he knew about the matter:—Held: the statement that had already been given in evidence was not properly receivable.—R. v. BOSWELL (1842), Car. & M. 584.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Dingley (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 637; R. v. Blackburn (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 333.

4366. —.]—A constable telling a prisoner "anything you can say in your defence we shall be ready to hear," renders a confession inadmissible.—R. v. MORTON (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 514; sub nom. R. v. HORN BROOK, 1 L. T. O. S. 505; 1 Cox, C. C. 54, N. P.

Annotation:—Dbtd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523.

4367. —.]—The prosecutor, in the presence of the constable, said to prisoner, "It will be better for you to tell the truth, as it will save the shame of a search warrant in your house." The statement was rejected. The constable then took prisoner into a loft, & in the absence of the prosecutor, prisoner made a statement. The evidence was rejected. Half an hour after, the constable took prisoner to the station house, & on the way cautioned him not to say anything, after which he made a statement:—Held: to be inadmissible, as the inducement was still operating.—R. v. COLLIER & MORRIS (1848), 3 Cox, C. C. 57.

4368. —.]—A constable, upon apprehending a prisoner on a criminal charge addressed to him these words: "You need not say anything to criminate yourself. What you do say will be taken down, & used in evidence against you":—Held: those words did not import any threat or inducement to prisoner; & a statement made by him subsequently was admissible as evidence against him upon his trial.

I deem it important for the protection of innocence, that every man when he is charged with an offence should be distinctly told the nature of it; & that attention should be paid to anything which at that moment he may choose to say with regard to it, as he may be in a situation to make some statement which may ultimately lead to the proof of his innocence; but it is also important that he should be reminded that he is under no obligation to criminate himself, & that if he does state anything to criminate himself it will be given in evidence against him; & it is quite clear to me that no person, addressed as this prisoner was, could have misunderstood the meaning of the words, or have been in any way removed from that steady self-possession which is necessary to render his confession admissible against him (POLLOCK, C.B.).—R. v. BALDRY (1852), 2 Den. 430; 21 L. J. M. C. 130; 19 L. T. O. S. 146; 16 J. P. 276; 16 Jur. 599; 5 Cox, C. C. 523, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69; R. v. Widdop (1872), 21 W. R. 176; R. v. Thompson, [1893] 2 Q. B. 12; R. v. Rose (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 289; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4369. —.]—A printed copy of a reward offered for such private information & evidence as would lead to the detection & conviction of a murderer or murderers, & a statement that the Secretary of State would recommend the of a pardon to any accomplice, not having been the actual perpetrator of the murder, who should give such evidence, was hung up in the magistrates' room in the county gaol. A prisoner, who could read, made a statement to the governor of the gaol in this room, & before that statement inquired whether he could give evidence, but did not say that he made the statement in that expectation, or in the hope of getting the reward, & before making the statement he was told it would be used against him:—Held: that such statement was inadmissible.—R. v. BLACKBURN (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 333.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Godinho (1911), 76 J. P. 16.

4370. —.]—A woman in custody on a charge of murder, was on arriving at the gaol, placed in a room alone with E., in order to be searched.

E. was employed as searcher of female prisoners; but, except in that capacity, had no other duties or authority in the gaol. Whilst the usual search was being made, prisoner said, "I shall be hung, I shall be sure to be hung"; & shortly afterwards, "If I tell the truth, shall I be hung?" E., in order to sooth prisoner, replied, "No, nonsense, you will not be hung. Who told you so?" :—Held: that a statement of prisoner made to E. immediately afterwards, was not receivable in evidence.—R. v. WINDSOR (1864), 4 F. & F. 360.

4371. —.]—Prisoner, a servant girl, was questioned by the mother of a child who had been found dead in a ditch, & she was asked whether she had anything to do with its disappearance, upon which she cried & said, "If you won't sent for the police I will tell the truth," whereupon the mistress replied, "I will not hurt you if you tell the truth"; & she promised not to send for the police; whereupon prisoner made a confession, which upon the trial was rejected as being made under an inducement. It further appeared that shortly after this confession, the mistress sent for a neighbour & informed him of the confession, whereupon he had an interview alone with prisoner, & asked her questions upon the subject, but he held out no inducement, & she then made a similar confession:—Held: the second confession was so connected under the circumstances with the first, that it was inadmissible.—R. v. RUE (1876), 34 L. T. 400; 13 Cox, C. C. 209.

4372. —.]—Prisoner, while in the custody of a policeman on a charge of arson, said to her mistress, "If you forgive me I will tell you the truth." The mistress answered, "Ann, did you do it?" Prisoner thereupon made a statement:—Held: the statement so made was inadmissible against prisoner.—R. v. MANSFIELD (1881), 14 Cox, C. C. 639.

4373. —.]—An admission amounting to a confession, or a statement from which a confession or admission could be implied, if obtained under any inducement held out by a person in authority, e.g. where a police constable or a witness promises that if prisoner will sign an admission there will be no prosecution, is inadmissible in evidence.—R. v. BOUGHTON (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

4374. Threats.—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 4358, ante.

4375. —.]—The captain of a vessel said to one of his sailors suspected of having stolen a watch, "That unfortunate watch has been found, & if you do not tell me who your partner was, I will commit you to prison as soon as we get to Newcastle. You are a damned villain, & the gallows is painted in your face":—Held: a confession made by the sailor after this threat was not receivable in evidence on his trial for the felony.—R. v. PARRATT (1831), 4 C. & P. 570; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 518.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Moore (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 555.

4376. —.]—A constable, who apprehended a prisoner, asked him what he had done with the tap he had stolen from the prosecutor's premises, & said, "You had better not add a lie to the crime of theft":—Held: a confession made to the constable was not receivable in evidence.—R. v. SHEPHERD (1836), 7 C. & P. 579.

4377. —.]—A servant was charged with attempting to set fire to her master's house. It was proved that the furniture in two of the bedrooms was on fire, & a spoon & other articles were found in the sucker of the pump. The master told prisoner, that if she did not tell the truth about the things found in the pump he would send for the constable to take her, but he said nothing to her respecting the fire:—Held: this was such an inducement to confess as would render inadmissible any statement that prisoner made respecting the fire, as the whole was to be considered as one transaction.—R. v. HEARN (1841), Car. & M. 109.

4378. —.]—R. v. DAY, No. 4337, ante.

4379. —.]—R. v. BALDRY, No. 4368, ante.

4380. Temporal admonition.—A girl was charged with administering poison, with intent to murder. The surgeon said to her, "You are under suspicion of this, & you had better tell all

4374 i. Threats.—Admissions obtained from accused after representations made to her by persons in authority, to the effect that the evidence was very strong against her, that another person, who was her lover, was suspected, & that she knew something about the murder, & would do well to speak, are not inadmissible as not being made voluntarily, or as being procured by threat or inducement.—R. v. VIAU (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 362.—CAN.

4374 ii. —.]—R. v. McDONALD (1896), 3 Terr. L. R. 1.—CAN.

4374 iii. —.]—A prisoner was tried for wounding with intent to murder, & wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The offence was committed on the high seas on board a ship on which prisoner was a seaman. A deposition before the committing magistrate was tendered which contained an admission alleged to have been made to the deponent by prisoner, when in custody. The ct. refused to admit the portion of the deposition containing the admission to be read, as it was stated to have been made immediately after prisoner with others had been threatened by the witness with a loaded rifle; it was immaterial that the threat was not made to extort a confession, but to suppress an attempt at mutiny.—R. v. HICKS (1872), 10 B. L. R. App. 1.—IND.

4374 iv. —.]—Indictment for concealing the birth of a child. An admission obtained from prisoner by a chief constable of police, who, in interrogating prisoner, said: "I shall search for the child; so you had better tell me where it is," not received in evidence, as having been obtained by something in the nature of a threat.—R. v. CAIN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 36.—IR.

4374 v. —.]—A constable, having a prisoner in custody, said to him, "I have enough against you," whereupon prisoner made a confession:—Held: such confession was not admissible in evidence, as having been made under the influence of a threat.—R. v. GRAHAM (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 99.—IR.

4374 vi. —.]—Prosecutor, who was master of prisoner, threatened her that "he would have her arrested unless she gave back the money." Several hours afterwards, when in custody, having received no previous caution, prisoner admitted the offence:—Held: evidence of her admissions could not be received.—WATSH'S CASE (1843), Ir. Cir. Rep. 866.—IR.

4374 vii. —.]—Prisoner, a policeman, was indicted for receiving a watch knowing it to be stolen. A caution was given to prisoner, when in custody, by another policeman, his superior in rank, in these words: "Now be cautious in the answers you give to the questions I am going to put to you about this watch":—Held: to be ambiguous & equivocal, & the confession made by prisoner was inadmissible.—R. v. FLEMING (1842), Arm. M. & O. 330.—IR.

4380 i. Temporal admonition.—Prosecutor said to accused, "You had better made a clean breast of it":—Held: this was such an inducement as rendered a subsequent confession inadmissible.—R. v. O'KEEFE (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 345.—AUS.

4380 ii. —.]—On the trial of an indictment it was sought to prove that accused had confessed his guilt in a conversation. Witness admitted having in effect intimated to prisoner that he had better confess:—Held: evidence of the confession could not be admitted.—R. v. WYLLIE (1880), 3 L. N. 139.—CAN.

4380 iii. —.]—Where it appeared that a police constable gave the usual caution to prisoner, who was arrested on a charge of obstructing a railway train by placing blocks upon the line, but afterwards said to him: "The truth will go better than a lie. If anyone prompted you to it you had better tell about it," whereupon prisoner said that he did the act charged against him:—Held: the admission was not receivable in evidence.—R. v. ROMP (1889), 17 O. R. 567.—CAN.

4380 iv. —.]—A rector of a cathedral held an inquiry into the circumstances of an assault in which several of the choir boys were implicated:—Held: the rector was a person in authority, & a statement made to him by one of the boys who was told to speak the truth, & that the statement was for the purpose of that inquiry only, was not voluntary.—R. v. ROYDS (1904), 10 B. C. R. 407.—CAN.

4380 v. —.]—W., a travelling

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused: Sub-sect. 6, A. & B.]

you know." After this she made a statement to the surgeon:—Held: that statement was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. KINGSTON (1830), 4 C. & P. 387; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 492.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Garner (1848), 18 L. J. M. C. 1.

4381. —[—An inducement to confess, in the shape of a threat, was held out to prisoner, who was suspected of an offence, by a person having no authority, & without the nature of the charge being stated, but in the presence & hearing of a person who had authority. Subsequently, the nature of the charge was stated by the same person in the same presence & hearing, & thereupon a confession was made:—Held: the confession was not admissible.—R. v. LUCKHURST (1853), Dears. C. C. 245; 23 L. J. M. C. 18; 22 L. T. O. S. 148; 17 J. P. 776; 17 Jur. 1082; 2 W. R. 97; 6 Cox, C. C. 243; sub nom. R. v. SLEEMAN, R. v. LUCKHURST, 2 C. L. R. 129, C. C. R.

4382. —[—Any person's telling a prisoner that it will be better for him to confess, will exclude a confession made to that person, although that person was not in any authority as prosecutor, constable, or the like.—R. v. DUNN (1831), 4 C. & P. 543; 2 Man. & Ry. M. C. 507.

4383. —[—R. v. SLAUGHTER (1831), 4 C. & P. 544, n.

4384. —[—A man & woman being apprehended on a charge of murder, another woman, who had the female woman in custody, told her that she "had better tell the truth, or it would lie upon her, & the man would go free":—Held: a declaration of the female prisoner, made to this woman afterwards was not receivable in evidence.—R. v. ENOCH (1833), 5 C. & P. 539.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 2 Den. 430. Mentd. R. v. Crutchley (1837), 7 C. & P. 814; R. v. Wright (1841), 9 C. & P. 754.

4385. —[—A constable said to a prisoner charged with felony, "It is of no use for you to deny it, for there is the man & boy who will swear they saw you do it":—Held: this was such an inducement as would exclude evidence of what prisoner said.—R. v. MILLS (1833), 6 C. & P. 146; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 158.

4386. —[—If a prisoner in making a statement mention the name of another prisoner, the witness who gives evidence of the statement must state exactly what prisoner said, without omitting the name of the other prisoner. If the witness said to prisoner, "It would have been better if you had told at first," this is an inducement to confess & will render a statement made thereupon inadmissible.—R. v. WALKLEY (1833), 6 C. & P. 175.

4387. —[—The confession of a girl fifteen years old, occasioned by many applications by prosecutor's relations, & neighbours, amounting to threats & promises:—Held: not receivable.—R. v. SIMPSON (1834), 1 Mood. C. C. 410, C. C. R.

4388. —[—R. v. MEYNELL (1834), 2 Lew.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Hewett (1842), Car. & M. 531.

4389. —[—The words "I dare say you had a hand in it; you may as well tell me all about it," constitute a sufficient inducement to exclude a subsequent confession.

An attorney engaged in the investigation of a crime, for the purpose of getting up a prosecution, is a person clothed with authority to offer such an inducement.—R. v. CROYDON (1846), 7 L. T. O. S. 410; 2 Cox, C. C. 67.

4390. —[—Upon the trial of an indictment for attempting to poison, the only evidence of intent was a confession, proved by a medical man, he denying that he had held out to prisoner any inducement to make the statement. It was afterwards proved that before the statement was made he had said to prisoner, in the presence of her mistress, whom she had attempted to poison, "It will be better for you to tell the truth." The learned judge refused to withdraw the confession from the jury, & prisoner was convicted; but the learned judge reported that if the surgeon had in the first instance stated that he had used that expression to prisoner, he should not have received the confession:—Held: the conviction was wrong.—R. v. GARNER (1848), 2 Car. & Kir. 920; 1 Den. 329; T. & M. 7; 3 New Sess. Cas. 329; 18 L. J. M. C. 1; 12 L. T. O. S. 155; 12 J. P. 758; 12 Jur. 944; 3 Cox, C. C. 175, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523; R. v. Moore (1852), 2 Den. 522; R. v. Widdop (1872), 21 W. R. 176.

auditor in the service of a railway co., having discovered defalcations in the account of prisoner, who was a booking clerk of the co., went to him & told him that "he had better pay the money than go to jail," & added that "it would be better for him to tell the truth," after which prisoner was brought before the traffic manager, in whose presence he signed a receipt for, & admitted having received, a sum of R826-8-0. Prisoner was subsequently put on his trial for criminal breach of trust as a servant in respect of this & of other sums:—Held: the words used by W. the travelling auditor, constituted an inducement to prisoner to confess, in authority within the meaning of s. 24 of the Evidence Act, & the receipt was not admitted in evidence on his trial.—R. v. NAVEOJI DABABHAI (1872), 9 Bom. 358.—IND.

4380 vi. —[—A deputy magistrate warned accused that what he would say would go as evidence against him: so he had better tell the truth:—Held: the use of such language was calculated to hold out an inducement to prisoner to confess, & such a confession was inadmissible in evidence against him.—R. v. UZZER (1884), 1 L. R. 10 Calc. 775.—IND.

4380 vii. —[—When a conversation was alleged to have taken place between a witness for the prosecution, & prisoner, & a statement made by prisoner in relation to the crime with which he was charged, & it appeared that the conversation took place, & the alleged statement was made by prisoner to the witness in a police barrack, the witness having previously told prisoner, "that if any other person had to do in the case, it was better she should tell":—Held: any statement afterwards made by prisoner was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. MOODY (1841), 2 Craw. & D. 347.—IR.

4380 viii. —[—Prosecutor, in whose service prisoner lived, said to him that "it would be better for him to tell the truth":—Held: a confession made thereupon was inadmissible.—Woon's Case (1842), Ir. Cir. Rep. 597.—IR.

4380 ix. —[—A woman was indicted for the murder of her infant child, & while under arrest the constable in whose charge she was told her she had better tell the truth. She thereupon made a statement:—Held: such statement was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. MAYORISK (1898), 32 L. L. T. 56.—IR.

4380 x. —[—The governor of a prison asked a prisoner under his charge, who was in a state of great mental & bodily excitement, "whether he intended to injure himself," but did not warn prisoner that the answer might be used in evidence:—Held: it was incompetent to receive as evidence any answer to this question.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. PROUDFOOT (1882), 9 Ir. (Cl. of Sess.) 19; 19 Sc. L. R. 725.—SCOT.

4380 xi. —[—An accused, after being arrested & duly cautioned, gave an explanation to the police constable of how he came into possession of certain stolen articles with the theft of which he was charged. The constable, not being satisfied with the explanation, approached accused a few days later & said to him: "You must tell the truth." Accused thereupon made a further statement:—Held: under the circumstances the further statement was inadmissible in evidence against accused.—R. v. KLEINBOOI (1917), T. P. D. 86.—S. AF.

4380 xii. —[—A constable warned accused & told him that he need not say anything if he did not wish to do so, but afterwards a field-cornet told accused that he had to find out all about the death & that accused "must tell him all the truth about it." This might affect the previous warning & accused might have felt that he was legally bound to make a statement.—R. v. VAN BLERCK, [1919] C. P. D. 68.—S. AF.

p. Wilfully untrue representation.]

4391. —.]—R. v. CHEVERTON, No. 4339, ante.

4392. —.]—Prisoner was called up by his master, & told, "You are in the presence of two police officers; & I should advise you that to any question that may be put to you you will answer truthfully, so that, if you have committed a fault, you may not add to it by stating what is untrue." The master afterwards added: "Take care; we know more than you think." Prisoner thereupon made a statement:—Held: such statement was admissible against him on his trial for larceny.—R. v. JARVIS (1867), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 96; 37 L. J. M. C. 1; 17 L. T. 178; 31 J. P. 804; 16 W. R. 111; 10 Cox, C. C. 574, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Reeve (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 362. Refd. R. v. Widdop (1872), 21 W. R. 176; R. v. Hatts & Culiffe (1883), 49 L. T. 780; R. v. Rose (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 289.

4393. —.]—A police inspector said to a prisoner in his custody, "you must tell me where the child is, or you will get yourself into trouble":—Held: this was a threat made by a person in authority, & a statement made in consequence could not be received in evidence.—R. v. COLEY (1868), 32 J. P. 168; 10 Cox, C. C. 536.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Edwards (1868), 33 J. P. 119.

4394. —.]—R. v. BATE, No. 4254, ante.

4395. —.]—On a trial for larceny, evidence was received of a confession made by prisoner to the prosecutor in the presence of a police inspector, immediately after the prosecutor had said to prisoner, "The inspector tells me you are making housebreaking implements; if that is so, you had better tell the truth, it may be better for you":—Held: the confession was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. FENNEL (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 147; 50 L. J. M. C. 126; 44 L. T. 687; 45 J. P. 606; 29 W. R. 742; 14 Cox, C. C. 607, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Hatts & Culiffe (1883), 49 L. T. 780. Refd. R. v. Thompson, [1893] 2 Q. B. 12; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4396. —.]—The prisoners H. & C. were taken into their master's, the prosecutor's, room where there were two policemen. The prosecutor said, "I presume you know who these gentlemen are." H. said "Yes." The prosecutor then said to H., "I know what has been going on between you & C. for some time. You had better speak the truth." H. then made a confession:—Held: the confession was not admissible in evidence.—R. v. HATTS & CULIFFE (1883), 49 L. T. 780; 48 J. P. 248, C. C. R.

4397. —.]—Statement made in the presence of a policeman in answer to an invitation by a relative that he had better tell the truth:—Held: inadmissible.—R. v. JONES (1885), 49 J. P. 728.

4398. —.]—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 4314, ante.

4399. —.]—Prisoner, who in the presence of a police constable was asked by his master, a farmer, how he accounted for the number of sheep on the farm not being so large as it should be, admitted that he had sold some of them & had not accounted to his master for the money which he had received for them. In answer to further questions as to whether he had let any corn go off the place, he said he had done so. The master, on cross-examination, admitted that when he asked prisoner about the corn he might have said, "You had better tell me all about the corn that is gone," & further, that he would not swear that he did not induce the prisoner to confess about the corn. A witness who was present also stated on cross-examination that the master asked prisoner to speak the truth, & said it would be better for him if he did so:—Held: as the words used contained in themselves an inducement to make a statement, no part of prisoner's confession was admissible against him on his trial for larceny.—R. v. ROSE (1898), 67 L. J. Q. B. 289; 78 L. T. 119; 14 T. L. R. 213; 42 Sol. Jo. 255; 18 Cox, C. C. 717, C. C. R.

4400. Confession induced by drink.—R. v. SEXTON (1822), 2 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 8th ed., p. 2021.

Annotation:—Dbtd. R. v. Godinho (1911), 76 J. P. 16.

B. Matters not amounting to Inducement.

4401. Spiritual admonitions.—Where, after interviews with the chaplain of the prison in which the chaplain advised prisoner to make peace with his God & to repent & confess his sins before God, & in consequence & subsequently prisoner made a confession to the mayor & other magistrates whom he had asked to see, & the mayor cautioned him that anything he might say would be evidence against him:—Held: the confession was admissible in evidence.—R. v. GILHAM (1828), 1 Mood. C. C. 186, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Day (1847), 11 J. P. 245. Refd. A.-G. v. Briant (1846), 15 L. J. Ex. 265; R. v. Gibbs (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69. Mentd. R. v. Scott (1865), 2

4402. —.]—A prisoner charged with murder, being a few days short of fourteen, was told by a man who was present when he was taken up, but not a constable, "Now kneel you down, I am going to ask you a very serious question, & I hope you will tell me the truth, in the presence of the Almighty." Prisoner in consequence made certain statements:—Held: strictly admissible, but the ct. much disapproved of the mode in which it was obtained.—R. v. WILD (1835), 1 Mood. C. C. 452, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R. [1914] A. C. 599.

4403. —.]—R. v. DAY, No. 4337, ante.

4404. —.]—Where prisoner, a boy of ten years, being enjoined by the clergyman of the parish to "speak the truth in the face of God" denied to him his guilt, but afterwards made a confession to a policeman, in which he alluded to the conversation with the clergyman, & said that he would "now speak the truth":—Held: such confession was admissible.—R. v. RISBOROUGH (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 25; 11 J. P. 280.

4405. —.]—Prisoner, a maid servant, was indicted for setting fire to a farm building of her master's. She was taken into custody by a policeman. She endeavoured to get away, but was told she was a prisoner on the charge of arson. She desired to change her dress & was

—M. was charged with having stolen gold from a co. G., a private detective, who had worked himself into M.'s confidence, gave evidence that he told M. that he came from S. Africa & had done business in diamonds. M. replied, "that money could be made here if one went the right way about it." G. then, by means of false statements, induced M., by promising to participate in gold robberies, to admit he had some gold scraped from the co.'s retorts. The statements were admitted to be false. Evidence admitted & prisoner was convicted:—Held: the representations being untrue, & being made after the subject matter of the charge had been taken, all subsequent confessions of M. were inadmissible in evidence, as being induced by such false statements & the conviction must be annulled.—R. v. MANGIN (1894), 6 Q. L. J. 63.—AUS.

q. —.]—An admission or statement made by an accused after an untrue representation has been made to him is admissible in evidence against him unless the representation was untrue to the knowledge of the person making it, & wilfully made with the object of inducing a confession.—R. v. DAVIDSON (1895), 16 N. S. W. L. R. 149; 12 N. S. W. W. N. 5.—AUS.

r. Whether confession improperly induced—Question for judge.—It is a question for the judge whether or not prisoner has been induced by undue influence to confess.—R. v. FINKLE (1865), 15 C. P. 453.—CAN.

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect. 6, B. & C. (a).]

permitted to do so, having first been given into the charge of Mrs. A., a married daughter of the master, but having no control over prisoner by reason of any relationship of master & servant. Whilst alone with Mrs. A., prisoner being in custody, the former said to prisoner, "I am very sorry for you; you ought to have known better. Tell me the truth, whether you did or no." Prisoner said, "I am innocent." Mrs. A. replied, "Don't run your soul into more sin, but tell the truth." Prisoner then made a full confession:—Held: there was neither an authority to make any inducement nor any inducement or threat, & the evidence was admissible.—R. v. SLEEMAN (1853), Dears. C. C. 249; 23 L. J. M. C. 19; 22 L. T. O. S. 148; 17 J. P. 776; 17 Jur. 1082; 2 W. R. 97; 6 Cox. C. C. 245; sub nom. R. v. SLEEMAN, R. v. LUCKHURST, 2 C. L. R. 129, C. C. R.

4406. Mere questions—Without threat or promise.—A confession obtained without threat or promise from a boy 14 years old, by questions put by a police officer, in whose custody the boy was on a charge of felony, & when he had had no food for nearly a whole day:—Held: rightly received.—R. v. THORNTON (1824), 1 Mood. C. C. 27, C. C. R.
Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 14 W. R. 845; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

4407. ——]—A female prisoner, in custody on a charge of murder, desiring to go to a water-closet, was sent there by the police with a woman who was impliedly authorised to prevent her escape. When alone together in the closet, the woman, an acquaintance of prisoner, alluding to the crime, said, "How came you to do it?" whereupon prisoner made a statement in the nature of a confession:—Held: the statement was not induced by any hope or fear caused by a person in authority, & was, therefore, admissible in evidence against the prisoner.—R. v. VERNON (1872), 12 Cox. C. C. 153.

4408. ——]—R. v. REASON, No. 4342, ante.

4409. ——]—R. v. KERSHAW (1902), 18 T. L. R. 357.

4410. ——]—IBRAHIM v. R., No. 4308, ante.

4411. Questions by fellow prisoner—Under promise of secrecy.—A. was in custody on a charge of murder. B., a fellow prisoner, said to him, "I wish you would tell me how you murdered the boy—pray split." A. replied, "Will you be upon your oath not to mention what I tell you?" B. went upon his oath that he would not tell. A. then made a statement:—Held: this was not such an inducement to confess as would render the statement inadmissible.—R. v. SHAW (1834), 6 C. & P. 372.

4412. Advice to accused—Not to confess but promise of secrecy.—A witness stated that a prisoner, charged with felony, asked him if he had better confess, & the witness replied that he had better not confess, but that prisoner might say what he had to say to him, for it should go no further. Prisoner made a statement:—Held: it was receivable in evidence on the trial.—R. v. THOMAS (1836), 7 C. & P. 345.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. James (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 319.

4413. — As to course of action.—Prosecutrix lost her purse containing £1 4s., in a market, & asked prisoner, who had been standing near her, whether he had seen the purse or seen any one pick it up. He replied that he had not. She, however, suspecting that he had robbed her, gave information to the police. A policeman, a short time after, went in search of prisoner, & having found him, told him that the prosecutrix had lost her purse, & that it was supposed that he had picked it up, & added, "Now is the time for you to take it back to her." He denied having it, & went with the policeman. As they went along he commenced making a statement, but the policeman told him to say nothing until they saw the prosecutrix. Having met the prosecutrix after they had walked about 600 yards, some conversation took place, & prisoner was searched, & on a half-sovereign being found, prisoner said to the prosecutrix that he would make it all up to her. Twenty minutes had elapsed between the time of the policeman's remark, "Now is the time to take it back to her," & prisoner's, "that he would make it all up to her":—Held: there was no inducement held out to prisoner, & that his statement, or confession, that he would make it all up to her, was admissible in evidence against him.—R. v. JONES (1872), 27 L. T. 765; 37 J. P. 196; 12 Cox. C. C. 241, C. C. R.

4414. Statement to accused—Of intention to be guided by other parties—Confession to other parties.—Where a prosecutor told prisoner he did not wish to prosecute, but would be guided by other parties, to whom he referred him, a statement by prisoner to such parties, for the

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 6.—B.

4406 i. Mere questions—Without threat or promise.—Prisoner was charged with stealing. Before arresting him the constable said, "Now I am going to ask you a few questions & I may have to arrest you over this." Prisoner then admitted taking the stolen articles:—Held: the words used by the constable did not amount to a threat or promise, nor to an inducement at common law.—R. v. FAIRLEIGH (1910), 10 S. R. N. S. W. 723; 27 N. S. W. N. 75.—AUS.

4406 ii. ——]—The words used to a prisoner when arrested, "I want you to tell me all about it," do not import any threat or hope of favour.—R. v. POTTER (1887), 6 N. Z. L. R. 92.—N.Z.

a. Advice to accused.—Where a prisoner was charged with the crime of murder, & while awaiting his trial in prison, the gaoler of the prison said to him "That a man was always easier in his mind for confessing his crime: that what he, prisoner, said would be used in evidence against him: that if a man committed such a crime it was always better if he confessed it to his Maker," & prisoner thereupon confessed to having committed the murder:—Held: such confession was voluntary & admissible in evidence.—R. v. STEVE (1890), 7 S. C. 103.—S. AF.

4413 i. — As to course of action.—Where a police officer tells an accused that he is not obliged to make any statement unless he likes, that anything he might say may be used as evidence against him, & that he has nothing to hope for & nothing to fear, there is not implied in such words of the police officer an inducement to prisoner to make a statement.—R. v. SPAIN, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 465; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 113; 36 D. L. R. 522.—CAN.

t. Statement to accused—That father had been charged.—On a trial for murder, it appeared that prisoner, being in the custody of A., a policeman, was cautioned by A. not to say anything to criminate himself, as in case he did it would be brought against him. Subsequently, A. told prisoner that his, prisoner's, father had been charged with the murder; whereupon prisoner said, that he hoped that nobody would be charged with the crime but himself, as nobody else was concerned in it, & then detailed the particulars of the murder as committed by himself:—Held: the communication made by A. to prisoner, respecting the father of the latter, did not amount to an illegal inducement, so as to render the admissions of the prisoner inadmissible in evidence.—R. v. NOLAN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 74.—IR.

a. — Not amounting to admonition.—A detective, before arresting one of the prisoners, said, "If you had told me this before I would have made a witness of you, but now I have no alternative but to take you as a prisoner":—Held: statements made afterwards by prisoner were rightly admitted in evidence.—R. v. BOURNE & BRINKS (1878), 1 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 176.—AUS.

b. ——]—The constable, when arresting accused, said, "I arrest you for assaulting M.," & proceeded to handcuff him. Accused asked to be permitted to go to the office to get some money, & inquired, "How much will the fine be?" to which the constable replied that he did not know anything about that. Subsequently purpose of inducing them not to prosecute, is admissible in evidence.—R. v. BROWN (1845), 9 J. P. 314.

4415. — That wife had confessed.]—R. v. WRIGHT (1830), 1 Lew. C. C. 48.

4416. — That accessory had confessed.]—R. v. LONG, No. 3901, ante.

4417. Expressions of good will.]—A prisoner charged with felony being in custody handcuffed in the house of the prosecutor, after a conversation with the prosecutor & another person, in which he was told that they would do all they could for him, said, "If the handcuffs are taken off, I will tell you where I put the property":—Semble: this statement was receivable in evidence, & could not be objected to, either as a confession made under a promise, or a statement obtained by duress.—R. v. GREEN (1834), 6 C. & P. 655; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 621.

4418. Inducement not relating to charge.]—R. v. WARNER & MORGAN (1832), 2 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 8th ed., pp. 2015, 2054. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69.

4419. —.]—A. & his wife were separately in custody on a charge of receiving stolen property. A person, who was in the room with A., said, "I hope you will tell, because Mrs. G. can ill afford to lose the money"; & the constable then said, "If you will tell where the property is, you shall see your wife":—Held: a statement made by A. afterwards was admissible in evidence.—R. v. LLOYD (1834), 6 C. & P. 393.

4420. Inducement to person jointly accused.]—An inducement or threat offered by the master to one of two apprentices jointly accused of larceny, will not, though offered in the presence of the other, preclude a confession immediately made by such other.—R. v. JACOBS & TARRANT (1849), 13 J. P. 572; 4 Cox, C. C. 54.

4421. —.]—R. v. BATE, No. 4254, ante.

4422. Confession induced by drink.]—A statement made by a prisoner when he is drunk, is receivable in evidence. Semble: if a constable gave him liquor to make him so, in the hope of his saying something, that will not render the statement inadmissible, but it will be matter of observation for the judge in his summing up.—R. v. SPILSBURY (1835), 7 C. & P. 187; 3 Nev. & M. M. C. 409.

4423. Effect of caution.]—On the examination accused asked to have the handcuffs removed, as he had no intention of escaping; to which the constable answered that he was taking no chances, & that he "had not much sympathy with a man who would kick an old man & bite him":—Held: these remarks of the constable were not an inducement to accused to speak.—R. v. BRUCE (1907), 13 B. C. R. 1; 12 Can. Crim. Cas. 275.—CAN.

4417 i. Expression of goodwill.]—The words "I will help you as far as possible," do not constitute an inducement to confess.—R. v. GRAVEL, [1918] Q. R. 28 K. B. 146.—CAN.

4418 i. Inducement not relating to charge.]—An inducement held out to an accused person in consequence of which he makes a confession must be one having relation to the charge against him.—R. v. TODD (1901), 13 Man. L. R. 364.—CAN.

4420 i. Inducement to person jointly accused.]—The following words addressed to one of two prisoners by prosecutor in reference to a stolen cow then before them: "Shove the thief into it, as I have a good idea who he is," do not amount to an inducement excluding that prisoner's answer thereupon given.

—R. v. SHEPPARD & STEPHENS (1868), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 86.—AUS.

4423 i. Effect of caution.]—A conversation between a policeman & a prisoner, after a caution by the policeman to this effect, "Don't tell me anything, or it will be given in evidence against you," is admissible.—R. v. HALLAM (1846), Bl. D. & Osb. 88.—IR.

c. Accusation in form of question.]—L. said to prisoner, who was indicted for unlawfully wounding a grey horse of S., "What right had you to shoot that grey horse of S?" L. did not know at the time that prisoner had shot the grey horse:—Held: the words used by L. to prisoner did not amount to an untrue representation & that prisoner's reply was admissible.—R. v. SUMMERELL (1869), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 214.—AUS.

d. Misstatement by police officer.]—A prisoner's confession or admission is rightly admitted in evidence even if it was to some degree influenced by a misstatement of a police officer to whom it was made.—R. v. WHITE (1908), 13 O. W. R. 144; 18 O. L. R. 640; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 30.—CAN.

e. Conduct calculated to excite horror.]

of a prisoner before the magistrate on a charge of felony, the magistrate's clerk told prisoner not to say anything to prejudice himself, as what he said would be taken down, "& used for him or against him at his trial":—Held: this was an inducement held out, & the statement was, therefore, not receivable in evidence.—R. v. DREW (1837), 8 C. & P. 140.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Morton (1843), 2 Mood. & R. 514; R. v. Furley (1844), 1 Cox, C. C. 76. Dttd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523. Refd. R. v. Zeigert (1867), 31 J. P. 598.

4424. —.]—Caution to a prisoner, that what she says will be used against her on the trial, will prevent the reception in evidence of any statement made in consequence.—R. v. FURLEY (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 143; 1 Cox, C. C. 76.

Annotation:—Dttd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523.

4425. —.]—Where a prisoner about to be committed on a charge of felony was told that he was at liberty to make any statement but that whatever he said would be taken down & used against him, & prisoner thereupon made a statement, which was reduced into writing, & sought to be given in evidence against him on his trial:—Held: it could not be given in evidence against him.—R. v. HARRIS (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 22; 1 Cox, C. C. 106.

Annotation:—Dttd. R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523.

4426. By prosecution—To explain fact—Elicited on cross-examination.]—R. v. CHAMBERS, No. 3966, ante.

4427. —.]—To caution a prisoner that what he said would be used against him on his trial if committed, is not an inducement to him to make a statement so as to exclude that statement from being given in evidence on the trial.—R. v. ATTWOOD (1851), 17 L. T. O. S. 280; 5 Cox, C. C. 322.

4428. —.]—R. v. BALDRY, No. 4368, ante.

C. By whom Inducement made—Person in Authority.

(a) In General.

4429. Inducement by person in authority—Confession inadmissible.]—R. v. GARNER, No. 4390, ante.

4430. — —.]—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 4314, ante.

—Confession held to be admissible, although apparently induced by the acts of the parties who conducted prisoner to gaol, those acts being calculated to excite, not fear of temporal punishment but horror at the recollection of the crime.—R. v. GIBNEY (1822), Jebb. Cr. & Pr. Cas. 15.—IR.

1. Question by doctor—Under threat of physical examination.]—A medical man asked prisoner whether she had not recently had a child, adding, that if she refused to tell he would examine her person more closely; whereupon prisoner said: "It is unnecessary to examine me, for I had a child":—Held: such admission was receivable in evidence; the declaration by the medical man that he would examine prisoner's person not being a threat within the rule which excludes admissions obtained by means of threats or promises.—R. v. CAIN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 36.—IR.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 6.—C. (a).

4429 i. Inducement by person in authority—Confession inadmissible.]—R. v. CHARCOAL (1897), 3 Terr. L. R. 7.—CAN.

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect. 6, C. (a) & (b) & D.]

— — —.]—R. v. BOUGHTON, No.

ante.

4432. Inducement by person not in authority—
Confession not admitted.]—R. v. DUNN*, No. 4382,
ante.

4433. — — —.]—R. v. SLAUGHTER*, No.

ante.

4434. — — — Admissibility doubted.]—There is a difference of opinion among the judges whether a confession made to a person who has no authority after an inducement held out by that person, is receivable in evidence.—R. v. SPENCER (1837), 7 C. & P. 776.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Gillis (1866), 14 W. R. 845.

4435. — — — Confession admitted.]—Persons having nothing to do with the apprehension, prosecution, or examination of the prisoner, advised him to tell the truth & consider his family:—Held: such admonition was no ground for excluding a confession made an hour afterwards to the constable in prison.—R. v. ROW (1809), Russ. & Ry. 153, C. C. R.

4436. — — —.]—R. v. HARDWICK* (1811), 1 C. & P. 98, n.

4437. — — —.]—The confession of a prisoner is evidence, though previous to it an inducement to confess had been held out by another person, if that person had no authority.—R. v. GIBBONS (1823), 1 C. & P. 97.

*Annotation:—*Mentd. Doe d. Peter v. Watkins (1837), 4 Scott. 155.

4438. — — —.]—Confession of a prisoner to a constable, who had held out no inducement, is evidence; though an inducement had been previously held out by a person in no office or authority.—R. v. TYLER & FINCH (1823), 1 C. & P. 129.

4439. — — —.]—It is the opinion of the judges that evidence of any confession is receivable, unless there has been some inducement held out by some person in authority. If a person, not in any office or authority, hold out to an accused party an inducement to confess, this will not exclude a confession made to that person.

Where the house of Mr. L. had been on fire, & prisoner, a female servant there, was sent for into the parlour, where Mr. W., a person not in authority, in the presence of Mrs. L., held out an inducement to prisoner to confess respecting the fire, Mrs. L. expressing no dissent:—Held: a confession made after this was not receivable, as the inducement must be taken as if it had been held out by Mrs. L., who was a person in authority over the prisoner.—R. v. TAYLOR (1839), 8 C. & P. 733.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Moore (1852), 21 L. J. M. C. 199; R. v. Gillis (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69.

4440. — — — Erroneous belief of authority by accused.]—Semble*: where a confession is induced by the promise of a person not, in fact, having authority or power with respect to the prosecution, to show any favour to the accused, such confession is admissible, although prisoner from his knowledge of the position of the promisor may reasonably suppose he has such authority.—R. v. FREWIN (1855), 6 Cox, C. C. 530.

4441. — — — Made in presence of person in authority—Confession inadmissible.]—R. v. CASS*, No. 4359, ante.

4442. — — —.]—A. being in the custody of a constable, on a charge of felony, was taken by the constable to an inn, where the innkeeper, in the hearing of the constable, held out an inducement to A. to confess; & A., in the hearing of the constable, made a confession to the innkeeper, which, at the trial, the constable was called to prove:—Semble: this confession was not receivable in evidence.—R. v. POUNTNEY (1836), 7 C. & P. 302; 3 Nev. & M. M. C. 432.

4443. — — —.]—R. v. TAYLOR*, No. 4439, ante.

4444. — — —.]—A married woman was apprehended on a charge of felony, & her husband, in the presence of the constable, held out an inducement to her to confess. She then made a statement:—Held: it was not receivable in evidence, as an inducement held out in the presence of the constable was the same in effect as if it had been held out by him.—R. v. LAUGHER (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 225.

*Annotation:—*Refd. R. v. Garner (1848), 18 L. J. M. C. 1.

4445. — — —.]—R. v. GARNER*, No. 4390, ante.

4446. — — —.]—R. v. LUCKHURST*, No. 4381, ante.

4447. — — —.]—R. v. JONES*, No. 4413, ante.

4448. — — — Except where inducement is by one prisoner to another.]—A statement made by one of two prisoners to the other after an inducement suggested by that other in the presence of the constable in whose custody they are, & uncontradicted by the constable, is inadmissible in evidence.—R. v. MILLEN (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 507.

4449. — — —.]—A. & B. being charged charged with felony, A. said to B., in the presence of the prosecutor & of the policeman who had charged them, "Well, John, you had better tell the truth." Whereupon, the prosecutor & policeman remaining silent, B. made a confession. B. subsequently made a further confession to the policeman on their way to the Bridewell:—Held: the confessions so made were admissible in evidence on the trial.—R. v. PARKER (1861), Le. & Ca. 42; 30 L. J. M. C. 144; 4 L. T. 451; 25 J. P. 374; 7 Jur. N. S. 586; 9 W. R. 699; 8 Cox, C. C. 465, C. C. R.

(b) Who is person in Authority.

4450. Magistrate.]—R. v. COOPER*, No. 4361, ante.

4451. Police officer.]—R. v. COLEY*, No. 4393, ante.

4452. — — —.]—R. v. HATTS & CULFFE*, No. 4396, ante.

4453. — — —.]—R. v. BOUGHTON*, No. 4373, ante.

4454. Person having custody of accused.]—R. v. ENOCH*, No. 4384, ante.

4455. — — —.]—R. v. WINDSOR*, No. 4370, ante.

4456. — — —.]—R. v. VERNON*, No. 4407, ante.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 6.—
C. (b).

4451 i. Police officer.]—R. v. McDONALD* (1896), 3 Terr. L. R. 1.—CAN.

g. Police surgeon.]—The statements made by accused to a police surgeon, called as a witness by the Crown, were properly admitted in evidence, although elicited by questioning & without the customary warning, the surgeon not being a person having any control over accused.—R. v.

ANDERSON (1914), 26 W. L. R. 783.—CAN.

h. Prison governor.]—The governor of a prison asked a prisoner under his charge who was in a state of great mental & bodily excitement, "Whether he intended to injure himself," but did not warn prisoner that the answer might be used in evidence:—Held: it was incompetent to receive as evidence any answer to this question.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. PROUDFOOT (1882), 9

4435 i. Inducement by person not in authority—Confession admitted.]—A confession cannot be induced by any untrue representation or by any threat or promise so as to be inadmissible in evidence, unless such representation, etc. is made by a person in authority.—R. v. SUMMERELL (1869), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 214.—AUS.

4435 ii. — — —.]—PROSKO v. R.* (1922), 66 D. L. R. 340; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 199.—CAN.

4457. Prosecutor.—R. v. JONES, No. 4413, ante.
4458. ————R. v. PARTRIDGE, No. 4363, ante.
4459. ————R. v. COLLIER & MORRIS, No. 4367, ante.

4460. Wife of prosecutor.—R. v. WARRINGHAM, No. 4313, ante.

4461. Relations of prosecutor.—R. v. SIMPSON, No. 4387, ante.

4462. ————R. v. SLEEMAN, No. 4405, ante.

4463. Solicitor for prosecution.—R. v. CROYDON, No. 4389, ante.

4464. Master or mistress.—A girl, accused of poisoning, was told by her mistress that if she did not tell all about it that night, a constable would be sent for in the morning to take her before a magistrate; she then made a statement:—Held: not admissible in evidence.

Next day, a constable was sent for, & as he was taking her to the magistrate, she said something to him, he having held out no inducement to her to do so:—Held: this was receivable, as the former inducement ceased on her being put into the hands of the constable.—R. v. RICHARDS (1832), 5 C. & P. 318; 1 Nev. & M. M. C. 362.

4465. ————A confession obtained from a servant through hopes & threats held out by the wife of the master & prosecutor is inadmissible.—R. v. UPCHURCH (1836), 1 Mood. C. C. 465, C. C. R. Annotation:—Distd. R. v. Moore (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 555.

4466. ————R. v. TAYLOR, No. 4439, ante.

4467. ————R. v. HEARN, No. 4377, ante.

4468. ————R. v. HEWETT, No. 4364, ante.

4469. ————R. v. GARNER, No. 4390, ante.

4470. ————R. v. RUE, No. 4371, ante.

4471. ————R. v. MANSFIELD, No. 4372, ante.

4472. ————R. v. THOMPSON, No. 4314, ante.

4473. ———— Not where unconcerned with charge.—The wife of a person in whose house an offence is committed, such person not being prosecutor, nor engaged in the apprehension, prosecution, or examination of the offender, & the offence not being in any way connected with the management of the house, is not a person in authority within the rule which excludes confessions.—R. v. MOORE (1852), 3 Car. & Kir. 153; 2 Den. 522; 21 L. J. M. C. 199; 16 J. P. 744; 16 Jur. 621; 5 Cox, C. C. 555, C. C. R.

4474. Medical man.—R. v. KINGSTON, No. 4380, ante.

R. (Ct. of Sess.) 19; 19 Sc. L. R. 725.—SCOT.

j. Departmental superior.—On trial of a former assistant postmaster it was sought to prove that he had confessed his guilt in a conversation between him & the postmaster & one B. The witness admitted having in effect intimated to prisoner that he had better confess:—Held: evidence of the confession could not be admitted.—R. v. WYLLIE (1880), 3 L. N. 139.—CAN.

k. Former fellow employee.—A confession as to alteration of accounts made by an officer of a bank, after his connection therewith has terminated, to a fellow employee, no director of the bank being present, is not made to a person in authority.—Re DEBAUM (1888), 11 L. N. 323.—CAN.

l. Indian agent.—R. v. CHARCOAL (1897), 3 Terr. L. R. 7.—CAN.

m. Rector of church—Charge against choir boy.—Several church choir boys were implicated in an alleged assault, & a few days later the rector of the church held an inquiry:—Held: the rector was a person in authority.—R. v. ROYDS (1904), 24 C. L. T. 283; 10 B. C. R. 407; 8 Can. Crim. Cas. 209.—CAN.

n. Post-office inspector.—Prisoner convicted for stealing a post letter & of theft of money. At the trial the post office inspector was about to testify with respect to a statement or confession made to him by the prisoner, when counsel for prisoner objected, & contended that the statement or confession was not admissible, because it was made as he contended to a person in authority, & was procured by means of threats or inducements, or by false statements made by inspector to prisoner:—Held: evidence was properly admitted.—R. v. RYAN (1905), 5 O. W. R. 125; 9 O. L. R. 137.—CAN.

o. State authorities of foreign state.—Prosko v. R. (1922), 66 D. L. R. 340; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 199.—CAN.

p. Railway travelling auditor—Charge against booking clerk.—W., a travelling auditor in the service of a railway co., having discovered defalcations in the accounts of prisoner, who was a booking clerk of the co., went to him & told him that "he had better pay the money than go to gaol," & added that "it would be better for him to tell the truth":—Held: W. was a person in authority.—R. v. NAVEOJI DADABHAI (1872), 9 Bom. 358.—IND.

q. Member of panchayat.—The matter before a "panchayat" was

4475. ————R. v. GARNER, No. 4390, ante.

4476. Consul.—R. v. ZEIGERT, No. 4094, ante.

4477. Official promise of reward.—R. v. Boswell, No. 4365, ante.

4478. ————R. v. BLACKBURN, No. 4369, ante.

D. How long Inducement operates.

4479. Inducement offered—Subsequent confession to magistrate—Admissible if effect of inducement effaced.—R. v. LINGATE (1815), Phillipp & Arnold on Evidence, 10th ed. 414; 6 C. & P. 405, n.

4480. ————R. v. ROSIER (1821), Phillipp & Arnold on Evidence, 10th ed. 414.

4481. ————Where a prisoner, who made a confession to a constable, in consequence of a promise held out, was taken before a magistrate, who, knowing what had taken place, cautioned prisoner against making any confession before him, but the prisoner, notwithstanding, did make a confession to the magistrate:—Held: this second confession was receivable in evidence on the trial of prisoner, though it did not appear that the magistrate told prisoner that his first confession would have no effect, & he therefore might have acted under an impression, that, having once acknowledged his guilt, it was too late to retract.—R. v. HOWES (1834), 6 C. & P. 404; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 199.

4482. ————On a prisoner being taken before a magistrate on a charge of forgery, the prosecutor said, in the hearing of prisoner, that he considered prisoner as the tool of G., & the magistrate then told prisoner to be sure to tell the truth. Upon this prisoner made a statement:—Held: this statement was receivable in evidence.—R. v. COURT (1836), 7 C. & P. 486.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Laughler (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 225. Refd. R. v. Holmes (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 248; R. v. Baldry (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 523.

4483. ————R. v. DINGLEY, No. 4303, ante.

4484. ————R. v. BATE, No. 4254, ante.

4485. ———— Mere caution insufficient.—A statement by a prisoner, after a caution, before a magistrate, is not admissible if at a former time an inducement has been held out to confess by other parties.—R. v. RULE (1844), 8 J. P. 599.

whether M. & K. had murdered B., & thereby disqualified themselves from further intercourse with the rest of their brotherhood. M. & B. made certain statements before the panchayat which it was afterwards sought to prove against them on their trial for the murder of B. as confessions corroborating the evidence of an approver:—Held: the members of the panchayat were not in authority over M. & K. within the meaning of Act I. of 1872, s. 24.—R. v. MOHAN LAL (1881), 1 L. R. 4 All. 46.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 6.—D.

4485 i. Inducement offered—Subsequent confession to magistrate—Admissible if effect of inducement effaced—Mere caution insufficient.—Where it appeared that prosecutor had offered direct inducements to prisoner to confess:—Held: if the judge was satisfied that the promise of favour thus held out had induced the confessions, & continued to act upon prisoner's mind, notwithstanding a warning by the coroner, he was right in directing the jury to reject them.—R. v. FINKLE (1865), 15 C. P. 453.—CAN.

r. ———— Subsequent confession to another person—Effect of caution.—

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused:
Sub-sect. 6, D.; sub-sects. 7, 8 & 9.]

4486. ——— Duty of magistrate.]—When a prisoner is willing to make a statement, it is the duty of magistrates to receive it; but magistrates, before they do so, ought entirely to get rid of any impression that may have before been on the prisoner's mind, that the statement may be used for his own benefit; & prisoner ought also to be told that what he thinks fit to say will be taken down, & may be used against him on his trial.—R. v. ARNOLD (1838), 8 C. & P. 621.

4487. ——— Subsequent confession to coroner—Admissible if effect of inducement effaced.]—R. v. CLEWES, No. 3875, ante.

4488. ——— Subsequent confession to another person—Cessation of former inducement.]—R. v. RICHARDS, No. 4404, ante.

4489. ——— Effect of inducement remaining.]—R. v. COOPER, No. 4361, ante.

4490. ——— ———.]—R. v. MEYNELL (1834), 2 Lew. C. C. 122.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Hewett (1842), Car. & M. 534.

4491. ——— ———.]—R. v. SHERRINGTON (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 123.

4492. ——— ———.]—R. v. HEWETT, No. 4364, ante.

4493. ——— ———.]—R. v. COLLIER & MORRIS, No. 4367, ante.

4494. ——— ———.]—R. v. CHEVERTON, No. 4339, ante.

4495. ——— ———.]—R. v. DOHERTY, No. 3705, ante.

4496. ——— ———.]—R. v. RUE, No. 4371, ante.

4497. Confession made under inducement—Effect of subsequent confirmation.]—R. v. SEXTON, No. 4400, ante.

4498. ——— ———.]—If a statement made by a prisoner after an inducement, & after prisoner has been cautioned that what he says will be taken down, & may be used against him, is afterwards recognised & confirmed by prisoner in terms, that recognition will render the whole admissible.—R. v. HORNER (1846), 6 L. T. O. S. 523; 1 Cox, C. C. 364.

SUB-SECT. 7.—EFFECT OF CONFESSIONS.

4499. Admissible as evidence in favour of accused.]—The assertion of a party, in a conversation given in evidence against him, of facts

Held: before making his confession prisoner was duly cautioned & the confession was admissible in evidence although on an occasion previous to his making it an inducement may have been held out to him.—R. v. LAI PING (1904), 11 B. C. R. 102.—CAN.

s. ——— ———.]—Prisoner was convicted upon a confession made to a person who cautioned him not to say anything to criminate himself; but this confession was merely the second repetition of a former confession made to another person, who had previously said to prisoner: "The evidence at the inquest was so clear against you, that there can be no doubt you are the guilty man."—Held: the conviction was right.—R. v. BRYAN (1834), Jebb, Cr. & Fr. Cas. 157.—IR.

4499 i. ——— Effect of inducement remaining.]—If once any inducement is held out or false representation or threat or promise made to a prisoner, which produces a confession of guilt, any subsequent confession, even to a different person & stated by prisoner to be voluntary is inadmissible in evidence unless it is most clearly shown by the prosecution that the operation of the original inducement, representation or promise, has been entirely removed from prisoner's mind.—R. v. LAIRD (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 354; 10 N. S. W. W. N. 74.—AUS.

4499 ii. ——— ———.]—R. v. BERUBE (1852), 3 L. C. R. 212.—CAN.

4499 iii. ——— ———.]—A confession before a magistrate being irrelevant, the ct. was not prepared to say that subsequent confession made before the sessions judge was made after the impression caused by a promise of a police constable had been fully removed, & looking at the fact that a promise of safety had been made, the confession was, even if accepted, of a limited character.—R. v. LUCHOO (1873), 5 N. W. 86.—IND.

t. ——— Statement to prosecutor—Subsequent statement after caution.]—R.

in his favour, is evidence for him of those facts.—SMITH v. BLANDY (1825), Ry. & M. 257, N. P.

4500. ———.]—If the declaration of prisoner, in which she asserts her innocence, be given in evidence on the part of the prosecution, & there be evidence of other statements confessing guilt, the judge will leave the whole of the conflicting statements to the jury for their consideration; but if there be in the whole case no evidence but what is compatible with the assertion of innocence so given in evidence for the prosecution, the judge will direct an acquittal. If a prosecutor uses the declaration of a prisoner, he must take the whole of it together, & cannot select one part & leave another; & if there be either no other evidence in the case, or no other evidence incompatible with it, the declaration so adduced in evidence must be taken as true. But if, after the whole of the statement of prisoner is given in evidence, the prosecutor is in a situation to contradict any part of it, he is at liberty to do so; & then the statement of prisoner, & the whole of the other evidence, must be left to the jury, for their consideration, precisely as in any other case, where one part of the evidence is contradictory to another.—R. v. JONES (1827), 2 C. & P. 629.

4501. ———.]—If a prosecutor gives in evidence a declaration made by a prisoner, it becomes evidence for prisoner, as well as against him, but, like all other evidence, the jury may give credit to one part of it & not to another.—R. v. HIGGINS (1829), 3 C. & P. 603.

4502. ———.]—If a prosecutor gives in evidence a declaration made by a prisoner exculpatory of himself, the jury are not bound to take this to be true, merely because the prosecutor gives it in evidence, but they ought to consider how far it is consistent with the rest of the evidence, & whether they believe it to be really true.—R. v. STEPTOE (1830), 4 C. & P. 397.

4503. ———.]—A statement made by a prisoner before suspicion attaches to him, & before search made, in order to account for his possession, of property, which he is afterwards charged with having stolen, is admissible as evidence for him.—R. v. ABRAHAM (1848), 2 Car. & Kir. 550; 3 Cox, C. C. 430.

4504. Evidence against person making them—As to meaning of a letter.]—On an indictment for sending a threatening letter, prisoner's declarations of the meaning of the letter are admissible evidence.—R. v. TUCKER (1826), 1 Mood. C. C. 134, C. C. R.

4505. ——— ———.]—What a party says is

v. HIGGINS (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 459.—IR.

a. ——— Statement to police officer—Second statement next day.]—Information given to a superintendent of police by a prisoner under a promise of safety:—Held: inadmissible as evidence against the prisoner & in these circumstances, a subsequent voluntary statement of the prisoner to another witness also rejected. Under the same circumstances:—Held: prisoner's declaration, emitted the day after his extra-judicial declaration, was inadmissible.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MAHLER & BERRENHARD (1857), 2 Irv. 634; 29 Sc. Jur. 562.—SCOT.

b. Prosecution must prove influence dispelled.]—R. v. DAVIDSON (1898), 30 N. S. R. 349.—CAN.

c. ———.]—The burden of showing that the influences under which the first statement was made had been dispelled when the second statement was obtained rests upon the Crown.—R. v. HOPE YOUNG (1905), 38 N. S. R. 427.—CAN.

evidence against himself as an admission, notwithstanding it may relate to the contents of a written paper.—EARLE v. PICKEN (1833), 5 C. & P. 542.

4506. — Not evidence against others.—R. v. CONINGSMARK (COUNT) (1882), 9 State Tr. 1.
Annotation:—Mentd. Mansell v. R. (1857), 8 E. & B. 54.

4507. — —.—]—If a letter, written by one of several prisoners, be read in evidence, & in this letter the names of the other prisoners be mentioned, these named must not be omitted in the reading of the letter, but the judge will tell the jury to pay no attention to the letter, except so far as it affects the writer.—R. v. FLETCHER (1829), 4 C. & P. 250; 1 Lew. C. C. 107.

4508. — —.—]—If a witness give evidence of a conversation with a prisoner, in which that prisoner says something implicating another prisoner, the witness, in giving his evidence, must not omit the name of such other prisoner & say "another person," but must give the conversation exactly as it occurred, & the judge will tell the jury that it is not evidence against such other prisoner.—R. v. HEARNE (1830), 4 C. & P. 215.

4509. — —.—]—What a prisoner is overheard to say to his wife, or even what he is overheard to say to himself, is receivable in evidence against him on a charge of felony.—R. v. SIMONS (1834), 6 C. & P. 540; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 598.

4510. — —.—]—Statements made by a principal are not evidence against an accessory before the fact, although the act was the consequence of such previous incitement of the prisoner.

Semble: an indictment of an accessory should contain a positive averment that the principal was guilty.—R. v. READ (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 143; 9 J. P. 10; 1 Cox, C. C. 65.

4511. — —.— Special method of summing up adopted.—Where prisoners are jointly indicted, & a statement is put in evidence in which one implicates the other, the judge will sum up the cases separately, requesting the jury to consult & come to a decision upon the one case, but not to deliver their verdict, & then he will sum up the case of the other, and take the verdict against both.—R. v. CLOTHIER & TILER (1844), 4 L. T. O. S. 196; 1 Cox, C. C. 113.

4512. — —.—]—Where two prisoners are indicted together, & one of them pleads guilty, any statement he may have made on his apprehension is not admissible in evidence for any purpose whatever.

Qu.: whether a prisoner who has pleaded guilty can be examined as a witness against another prisoner indicted with him.—R. v. DRURY & BENSON (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 228.

4513. — —.—]—A statement by a deft implicating himself & a co-deft. is not evidence against the latter.—R. v. DAVIS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 66, C. C. A.

4514. — —.— Importance of careful direc-

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 7.

4506 i. Evidence against persons making them—Not evidence against others.—Statements of accused persons can only be used in evidence as against the parties making them, & cannot be used as corroborative evidence against others.—R. v. HURGOBIND (1870), 2 N. W. 336.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 8.

4515 i. Admissible in evidence.—M. was charged with the murder of a girl. In the hope of pardon being given to her, she took the police to a certain place & pointed out & produced certain ornaments, which deceased was wearing at the time of her death:—Held: evidence was admissible to show that accused did go to a certain place & there produced certain ornaments. Such evidence was admissible under Indian Evidence Act, s. 8, irrespective of whether the conduct of accused was or was not the result of inducement offered by the police.—R. v. MISRI (1909), 1 L. R. 31 All. 592.—IND.

4521 i. — Confession admissible in so far as it relates to facts discovered.—No judicial officer dealing with the provisions Act I. of 1872, s. 27, should allow one word more to be deposed to by a police officer detailing a statement made to him by an accused, in consequence of which he discovered a tion.]—In every case where there is an incriminating statement by a co-prisoner, the jury should be carefully directed on the relevant law.—R. v. ALTSHULER (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 243, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 8.—FACTS DISCOVERED IN CONSEQUENCE OF INADMISSIBLE CONFESSIONS.

4515. Admissible in evidence.—R. v. WARICKSHALL, No. 4311, ante.

4516. — —.—]—R. v. MOSEY (1784), 1 Leach, 265, n.

4517. — —.—]—A person who is discovered, though by means of an improper confession, to have purchased stolen property, is a competent witness to prove that fact.—R. v. LOCKHART (1785), 1 Leach, 386.

4518. — —.—]—A prisoner was charged with stealing a guinea & two promissory notes. The prosecutor told him that it would be better for him to confess:—Held: after this admonition the prosecutor might prove that prisoner brought him a guinea & a £5 note, which he gave up to the prosecutor as the guinea & one of the notes that had been stolen from him.—R. v. GRIFFIN (1809), Russ. & Ry. 151, C. C. R.

4519. — —.—]—If a confession is improperly obtained, it is a ground for excluding evidence of the confession, & of any act done by the prisoner, in consequence, towards discovering the property, unless the property is actually discovered thereby.—R. v. JENKINS (1822), Russ. & Ry. 492, C. C. R.

4520. — —.—]—If a confession of a crime be improperly obtained so as to be inadmissible in evidence, yet if in the course of such confession a clue is given to other evidence which will prove the case, such latter evidence is admissible.—R. v. LEATHAM (1861), as reported in 3 L. T. 777; 8 Cox, C. C. 498.

Annotation:—Mentd. Taylor v. Vergette (1861), 30 L. J. Ex. 400.

4521. — Confession admissible in so far as it relates to facts discovered.—R. v. BUTCHER, No. 4312, ante.

4522. — —.—]—Where anything is found in consequence of a statement made by a prisoner under circumstances which preclude its being given generally in evidence, such part of it as relates to the thing found in consequence is receivable, & ought to be proved.—R. v. GOULD (1840), 9 C. & P. 364.

4523. — Reference to confession not permitted.—R. v. HARVEY (1800), 2 East, P. C. 658.

4524. — —.—]—R. v. BERRIMAN, No. 4259, ante.

SUB-SECT. 9.—PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS.

See, generally, DISCOVERY; EVIDENCE.

4525. General rule.—R. v. DERRINGTON, No. 4234, ante.

4526. Solicitor & client—Advice on commission fact, than is absolutely necessary to show how the fact that was discovered is connected with accused so as in itself to be a relevant fact against him. Sect. 27 was not intended to let in a confession generally, but only such particular part of it as set the person to whom it was made in motion, & led to his ascertaining the fact or facts of which he gives evidence.—ADU SHIKDAR v. R. (1885), 1 L. R. 11 Calc. 635.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 9.

d. Solicitor & client—General rule—Evidence of communications inadmissible.—W. was produced as a witness, who swore that he had known the

Sect. 5.—Confessions and statements by accused: vol. 9. Sect. 6: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

of crime.]—All communications between a solr. & his client are not privileged from disclosure, but only those passing between them in professional confidence & in the legitimate course of professional employment of the solr. Communications made to a solr. by his client before the

4531. ————]—H., who was tried for forging the will of S., had sent the forged will to his attorney M. with some deeds of S., ostensibly for the purpose of asking his advice but really that he might find the will & act upon it. It was afterwards produced by M. before the magistrate when H. was charged with forging it. At the trial of H. for forgery M. was called to produce the will, which he did without any objection

(1884), 14 Q. B. D. 153; 54 L. J. M. C. 41; 52 L. T. 25; 49 J. P. 374; 33 W. R. 396; 1 T. L. R. 181; 15 Cox, C. C. 611, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—Consd. Williams v. Quebrada Ry. Land & Copper Co., [1895] 2 Ch. 751. Refd. R. v. Smith (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2153. Refd. Re Postlethwaite, Re Rickman, Postlethwaite v. Rickman (1887), 35 Ch. D. 722; Ward v. Marshall (1887), 3 T. L. R. 578; O'Rourke v. Darbishire, [1920] A. C. 581. Mentd. Proctor v. Smiles (1886), 2 T. L. R. 845; Weld-Blundell v. Stephens, [1919] 1 K. B. 520.

4527. ————]—R. v. SMITH, No. 3992, ante.

4528. ————Letter written by solicitor—In consequence of interview with client.]—In order to make a client criminally responsible for a letter written by his solr. it must be shown that the letter was written in pursuance of the instructions of the client. A letter by a solr. written "in consequence" of an interview with his client is not equivalent to a letter written by the instructions of his client, & is not admissible in a criminal case against the client.—R. v. DOWNER (1880), 43 L. T. 445; 45 J. P. 52; 14 Cox, C. C. 486, C. C. R.

4529. ————Solicitor must produce document—As to which prisoner charged with offence.]—A., an attorney, was employed by B. as his solr., to put out money upon mtge. C. applied to A. to procure him the advance of money on mtge., & to act as his solr. in procuring it. C. stated to A. that he was the owner of certain freehold lands, & produced a forged will in proof of his title, which he placed in the hands of A. B. advanced the money, A. acting as his solr., by preparing the mtge. deeds, etc.:—Held: on the trial of C. for uttering the forged will, A. was bound to produce the will, & also to give evidence of what C. said to him as to the advance of the money.—R. v. AVERY (1838), 8 C. & P. 596.

*Annotations:—Consd. Shore v. Bedford (1843), 12 L. J. C. P. 138. Expld. R. v. Tuffs (1848), 1 Den. 319. Refd. R. v. Farley (1846), 8 L. T. O. S. 235. Mentd. Gartside v. Outram (1856), 26 L. J. Ch. 113; R. v. Cox & Railton (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 153.

4530. ————]—Prisoner indicted for forging a will. The forged instrument had been given by prisoner to his attorney, ostensibly for professional purposes but in the opinion of the learned judges with some very different object. An objection that it was a privileged communication & therefore could not be read:—Held: invalid.—R. v. JONES (1846), 1 Den. 166, C. C. R. *Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Tynley, etc. (1848), 18 L. J. M. C. 36.

traverser, H., for about two years; that H. consulted him professionally about a certain manuscript, & the inquiry which was made from him by H. was whether it was safe to publish it. The witness was not engaged in any cause relating to that manuscript or to any property in it, nor was the communication made to the witness in any manner connected with or relating to any cause, civil or criminal. The witness having been asked the contents of that manuscript, upon a question whether the communication made to the witness was privileged:—Held: it was so, & he could not be examined to it, as a person, under the circumstances, asking the advice, must be considered as seeking how he may avoid, & not how he may commit a crime.—R. v. HAYDN (1825), 2 Fox & S. Ir. 379.—IR.

e. ————]—On the trial of an indictment for passing an accountable receipt, a witness, who was an attorney, proved that prisoner, with whose family he had been acquainted, had handed him the document & requested him to institute proceedings upon it. This the witness refused to do, but kept the document, & delivered it to a third person, to be shown to the party whose name was

M. The judge directed it to be read in evidence & the fifteen judges held it was properly so read, it not having been put into the hands of M. in professional confidence, even if that would have made a difference.—R. v. HAYWARD (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 234; 2 Cox, C. C. 23, C. C. R.

*Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Cox & Railton (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 153. Mentd. R. v. Oswestry Treasurer (1848), 12 Q. B. 239.

4532. ————]—Indictment for forging the will of W. with intent to defraud the heir-at-law of W. Qu.: Whether under the circumstances of this case a valid objection could be taken to the will being produced in evidence by any attorney at the trial on the ground of its being a privileged communication.—R. v. TUFFS (1848), 1 Den. 319; 12 L. T. O. S. 224; 3 Cox, C. C. 160; sub nom. R. v. TYLNEY, etc., 18 L. J. M. C. 36; 12 J. P. 281, 645, C. C. R.

*Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Cox & Railton (1884), 14 Q. B. D. 153.

4533. ————]—A solr. for prisoner is bound to produce a document when prisoner is charged with an offence in respect of such document.—R. v. BROWN (1862), 9 Cox, C. C. 281.

4534. ————Communications before professional retainer.]—CUTS v. PICKERING (1672), 1 Vent. 197; 86 E. R. 133.

4535. ————]—The wife of A. went to B., an attorney, & produced a forged will to him & asked him to advance money to A. on the property mentioned in it. B. was not then the attorney of A. or in any way acting as his solr. A.'s wife left the forged will with B., who made a copy of it. A. afterwards called on B., who told A. all that had occurred & returned him the forged will, declining to advance any money:—Held: the conversation between A.'s wife & B. was not a privileged communication & on the trial of A. for forgery evidence might be given of it & also that the copy of the forged will might be given in evidence, notice having been given to A. to produce original.—R. v. FARLEY & JONES (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 313; 1 Den. 197; 8 L. T. O. S. 235; 11 J. P. 535; 2 Cox, C. C. 82, C. C. R.

*Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Tynley, etc. (1848), 18 L. J. M. C. 36.

Letter to friend to consult solicitor.]

—A prisoner was in custody on a charge of forgery, but was not allowed even to see his wife. He wrote a friend, "to ask Mr. G. or some other solr., forged, after which the witness returned it to prisoner. Prisoner being convicted:—Held: the conviction was wrong, on the ground that the communication between the witness & prisoner was privileged.—R. v. DONAGHER (1838), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 241.—IR.

f. Minister of religion.]—The evidence of a clergyman to whom prisoner confessed having committed a murder was received.—R. v. GILHAM (1828), 1 Ir. L. Rec. 1st ser. 346.—IR.

g. Conversation between two accused during police interview.]—A husband & wife were tried together for stealing whether the punishment was the same, whether the names forged were those of real or fictitious persons." Mr. G. was not his attorney:—Held: this was not a privileged communication.—R. v. BREWER (1834), 6 C. & P. 363.

Counsel & client.—See BARRISTERS, Vol. III., p. 335, Nos. 238–251.

4537. Minister of religion—Conversations with prisoner.—A chaplain to a workhouse had in his spiritual capacity frequent conversations there with prisoner, who was charged with the murder of her child, but who was too ill to be removed from the workhouse:—Semble: these conversations ought not to be adduced in evidence at the trial.—R. v. GRIFFIN (1853), 6 Cox, C. C. 219.

4538. — Statements received in sacramental confession.—Semble: statements made to a priest or clergyman in sacramental or quasi-sacramental confession are privileged, but anything said or done out of confession is not so, even although its disclosure may incidentally disclose the identity of the party.—R. v. HAY (1860), 2 F. & F. 4.

4539. Interpreter—Statements made in his presence—Interview between solicitor & foreign client.—An interpreter who is present at conversations between a foreigner & his attorney is bound to the same secrecy as the attorney himself, & ought not to divulge the facts confided to him after the cause for the purpose of which the confidence was placed is at an end.—DU BARRÉ v. LIVETTE (1791), Peake, 108, N. P.
Annotation:—Refd. Herring v. Cloberry (1842), 11 L. J. Ch. 149.

Evidence of wife or husband.—See Sect. 10, sub-sect. 3, post.

SECT. 6.—PROOF.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

4540. Necessity for proof.—A person cannot be convicted without proof.—R. v. GEORGE (1703), 6 Mod. Rep. 57; 87 E. R. 818.

& receiving. A conversation took place between them whilst being interviewed by police:—Held: such conversation, not being private & confidential, was admissible in evidence.—R. v. PIERCE (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 135.—AUS.

h. Communication by accused to supposed agent of solicitor.—Statement made by a prisoner in a cell to a person whom he reasonably supposed to be an agent sent by his counsel to interview him regarding the defence are as much privileged as would be statements made to the counsel himself.—R. v. CHOKEY (1908), 7 W. L. R. 537; 17 Man. L. R. 46; 13 Can. Crim. Cas. 289.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 1.

4540 i. Necessity for proof.—The corpus delicti in a case of murder & the connection of the accused person with the commission of the crime may be proved by circumstantial evidence. In such cases, the judge should draw the jury's attention to the class of evidence & caution them to be careful in drawing inferences from the facts established.—R. v. RYAN, [1906] S. R. Q. 15.—AUS.

4540 ii. —.—In a criminal case accused is entitled to have the jury directed that before they can convict him they must on the evidence be satisfied of his guilt, beyond reasonable doubt.—R. v. ROBERTS (1910), 10 S. R. N. S. W. 612; 27 N. S. W. W. N. 148.—AUS.

k. Sufficiency of proof.—The question whether there is any evidence of the crime charged may be reserved by the judge presiding at the trial of a criminal case as a question of law for the consideration of a supreme ct. The credibility of the witnesses does not enter into the consideration of such a question, for if any facts have been deposed to on behalf of the prosecution from which a jury might justly infer that the crime charged had been committed by prisoner, the verdict should not be disturbed.—R. v. JUPELMAN (1893), 10 S. C. 12; 3 C. T. R. 13.—S. AF.

l. Duty of court.—The distinction between merely "proving" & "proving beyond a reasonable doubt" has become so fixed & embedded in the law that a charge to the jury is improper which does not indicate the necessity of the higher degree of evidence required in a criminal than in a civil case, & the ct. when considering whether there is any evidence upon which a jury or judge acting as a jury, could have reasonably convicted is bound to keep in view both this necessity for a higher degree of evidence & the principle that the onus remains on the prosecution throughout the case to satisfy the ct. on the whole evidence that there is no reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused. These principles apply not only where the trial is by a jury but apply to a judge acting at the same time as a judge of law & facts.—R. v. HAYES, [1923] 1 W. W. R. 209; [1923] 1 D. L. R. 459; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 348; 19

4541. —.—The greater the crime the stronger is the proof required, for the purpose of conviction (HOLROYD, J.).—R. v. HOBSON (1823), 1 Lew. C. C. 261.

4542. Innocence presumed.—The law always presumes against the commission of crime.—R. v. TWYNING (GLOUCESTERSHIRE) (INHABITANTS) (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 386; 106 E. R. 407.

Annotations:—Mentd. Newman v. Goddard (1834), 3 L. J. Ex. 167; R. v. Harborne (1835), 2 Ad. & El. 540; Nepean v. Doe d. Knight (1837), 2 M. & W. 906; Lapsley v. Grierson (1848), 1 H. L. Cas. 498; R. v. Carter (1848), 13 J. P. 24; R. v. Lumley (1869) L. R. 1 C. C. R. 196; Re Phené's Trusts (1870), 5 Ch. App. 139.

Proof of foreign law.—See EVIDENCE.

SUB-SECT. 2.—BURDEN OF PROOF.

4543. Lies on prosecution—General rule.—R. v. STODDART, No. 3789, ante.

4544. — Breaking & entering house.—On a trial for breaking & entering a dwelling-house with the intent to commit a felony therein, it was proved that prisoner had broken & entered the house by opening a latched door. In the course of his summing-up to the jury the chairman said: "When a man is found in another man's house the duty is cast upon him of giving an account of how he came there & it is for you to say whether his statement sounds like an honest statement or whether it is a dishonest statement made upon the spur of the moment when he is caught:—"Held: if this were a statement & direction of law as to the onus of proof it was incorrect. But the ct. did not so regard the passage. They considered that it was merely a statement of common sense as to what one would expect of a man found in the particular circumstances of this case. Under those circumstances the jury would probably infer prisoner's intention to commit a felony unless he satisfied them to the contrary.—R. v. WOOD (1911), 76 J. P. 103; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 56, C. C. A.

Alta. L. R. 76.—CAN.

m. —.—It is the duty of every criminal ct. to get to the bottom of a case & bring all relevant evidence upon the record & to see that justice is done.—R. v. JANKI, PRASAD (1920), 1 L. R. 43 All. 283.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 2.

4543 i. Onus on prosecution—General rule.—The presumption of the innocence of an accused person cannot be shifted at a point where the evidence tends or inclines in the direction of guilt. Therefore, where the judge said to the jury, "As soon as there is sufficient evidence before you which would tend to point to the guilt of the accused, then the presumption is on the other side":—Held: this was a misdirection.—R. v. SCHURMAN (1914), 30 W. L. R. 56; 7 W. W. R. 680; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 365; 19 D. L. R. 800.—CAN.

4543 ii. —.—There is a presumption against crime & misconduct, & the more heinous & improbable a crime is the greater is the force of the evidence required to overcome such presumption.—WESTON v. PEARY MOHAN DASS (1912), 1 L. R. 40 Calc. 898.—IND.

n. — Quasi-criminal offence.—The offence of carting away light soil without a licence is a quasi-criminal offence & it is therefore for complainant to prove that deft. has not a licence & has not given such security as is required by the local authority.—

Sect. 6.—Proof: Sub-sect. 2.]

4545. — Receiving stolen property.]—On indictments for receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge, the onus of satisfying the jury of the deft.'s guilt always rests on the prosecution; it never changes.—R. v. SCHAMA, R. v. ABRAMOVITCH (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 396; 112 L. T. 480; 79 J. P. 184; 31 T. L. R. 88; 59 Sol. Jo. 288; 24 Cox, C. C. 591; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 45, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Badash (1917), 26 Cox, C. C. 155; R. v. Bailey (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 27; R. v. Norris (1917), 88 L. J. K. B. 810; R. v. Hamilton (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 734. Refd. R. v. Aubrey (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 182; R. v. Millington (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 86; R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11.

4546. ——Unless otherwise provided by statute, it is a principle of the criminal law that the burden of proving the guilt of accused always lies on the prosecution, & this is so on a charge of receiving goods knowing them to have been stolen even if the jury do not believe the explanation given by accused as to how he acquired possession of the stolen property. When, therefore, a chairman of quarter sessions, in his summing-up to the jury & referring to prisoner's explanation as to how the stolen goods came into his possession, said, "The point is whether the story is true":—Held: the direction was wrong & that the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. BADASH (1917), 87 L. J. K. B. 732; 118 L. T. 179; 26 Cox, C. C. 155; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

4547. — False pretence.]—Prisoner was indicted for obtaining money by falsely pretending that he was a certificated attorney:—Held: it was for the prosecution to prove that prisoner had not taken out a certificate.—R. v. WARD (1849), 13 J. P. 237.

4548. — Non-compliance with order of justices.]—Upon the hearing of a summons under Vaccination Act, 1867 (c. 84), s. 31, against the parent of a child for non-compliance with an order of justices directing him to have his child vaccinated, the burden of proving non-compliance is upon the prosecution.—OVER v. HAR-

MORRISON v. WOODGATE (1878), 4 V. L. R. 430.—AUS.

o. — Proof of alibi.]—Where the defence to a criminal charge is an alibi, it is misdirection to tell the jury that the onus is on prisoner to prove it to their entire satisfaction, & to show beyond all question or reason that he could not have been present at the commission of the crime.—R. v. MYSHRAIL (1901), 35 N. B. R. 507.—CAN.

p. — Possession of property stolen abroad.]—On a charge of possession of property stolen abroad, knowing it to have been stolen, the onus is on the Crown to show that the property was in fact stolen according to the law of the foreign country.—R. v. GRANT (1911), 6 Hong Kong L. R. 144.—HONG KONG.

q. — Removal of goods to avoid distraint.]—Where a distraint is made under Rent Recovery Act for arrears of rent there is no presumption that it is legally made; & if persons are charged with having dishonestly removed property to avoid it, the prosecution must prove that it was a legal distraint. In the absence of such proof, persons who have resisted the distraint, or have removed their property to avoid it cannot be convicted of an offence, inasmuch as they had a right of private defence of their property unless the distraint was legal.—R. v. GOPALASAMY (1902), 1 L. R. 25 Mad. 729.—IND.

r. — Licensee permitting drunkenness of employee in public-house.]—CAMERON v. CAMPBELL, [1916] S. C. (J.) 1.—SCOT.

s. — Sale without consent of owner.]—A. bought cattle from B. on the hire-purchase system, the cattle to remain B.'s property till full payment had been made; A. in the meantime not being entitled to sell the cattle without B.'s consent. A. being charged before a jury with theft in that he sold the cattle & appropriated the proceeds:—Held: the onus was on the Crown to prove that B. had not consented to the sale; & in the absence of such evidence the case should be withdrawn from the jury.—R. v. ROOS (1917), T. P. D. 617.—S. AF.

4551 i. When onus of proof is shifted—Negative averments—Where law presumes the affirmative.]—The prosecution need not prove the absence of a licence. The onus is on prisoner to prove its existence.—R. v. BRYANT (1885), 3 Man. L. R. 1.—CAN.

4551 ii. ——[A conviction alleged that deft. was the agent of W., but did not state that he had not the necessary licence to entitle him to do the act complained of:—Held: the having a licence is a matter of defence, & not of proof by the prosecution.—R. v. McNICOL (1886), 11 O. R. 659.—CAN.

4551 iii. ——[On a charge under sect. 212 of the Code,

WOOD, [1900] 1 Q. B. 803; 69 L. J. Q. B. 272; 64 J. P. 326; 48 W. R. 608; 16 T. L. R. 163, D. C.

4549. When onus of proof is shifted—Preliminary evidence requisite.]—ELKIN v. JANSON (1845), 13 M. & W. 655; 14 L. J. Ex. 201; 9 Jur. 353; 153 E. R. 274.

4550. — Negative averments.]—In general the rule is considered to be, that a party is not required to prove a negative, but it lies on the other side to prove the affirmative of that which he insists on (LE BLANC, J.).—R. v. STONE (1801), 1 East, 639; 102 E. R. 247.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Turner (1816), 5 M. & S. 206. Refd. R. v. Crispe (1806), 3 Smth, K. B. 377; Doe d. Bridger v. Whitehead (1838), 3 Nev. & P. K. B. 557. Mentd. R. v. Hughes (1879), 4 Q. B. D. 614.

4551. — Where law presumes the affirmative.]—Where any act is required to be done by one, the omission of which would make him guilty of a criminal neglect of duty, the law presumes the affirmative, & throws the burthen of proving the negative on the party who insists on it. Therefore where pltf. declared that defts., who had chartered his ship, put on board a dangerous commodity, by which a loss happened, without due notice to the captain or any other person employed in the navigation, it lay upon him to prove such negative averment.—WILLIAMS v. EAST INDIA CO. (1802), 3 East, 192; 102 E. R. 571.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Twynning, Gloucestershire (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 386; Calder v. Rutherford (1822), 3 Brod. & Bing. 302. Refd. R. v. Hawkins (1808), 10 East, 211; R. v. Haslingfield (1814), 2 M. & S. 558; Thornton v. Lance (1815), 4 Camp. 231; Pearce v. Whale (1826), 7 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 512; R. v. Whiston (1836), 1 Har. & W. 696; Newman v. Hardwicke (1838), 2 J. P. 328; Stikeman v. Dawson (1847), 1 De G. & Sm. 90; Affalo v. Lawrence & Bullen, [1903] 1 Ch. 318. Mentd. Langridge v. Levy (1837), 2 M. & W. 519; Keates v. Cadogan (1851), 15 Jur. 428; Brass v. Maitland (1856), 6 E. & B. 470; R. v. Lister (1857), 26 L. J. M. C. 196; Farrant v. Barnes (1862), 11 C. B. N. S. 553; Bamfield v. Goole & Sheffield Transport Co., [1910] 2 K. B. 94.

4552. — Facts peculiarly within knowledge of accused.]—I have always understood it to be a general rule, that if a negative averment be made by one party, which is peculiarly within under the conditions there specified, of seduction under promise of marriage, previous chastity of the girl is presumed, & its absence must be shown by the defence.—R. v. STEFANIC, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 1212; 16 Alta. L. R. 246; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 319.—CAN.

4551 iv. ——[Accused was convicted with obtaining various small sums of money from different persons for alleged medical treatment by falsely pretending to be a doctor. On motion for arrest of judgment:—Held: there was abundant evidence that accused was not a qualified medical practitioner of any civilised State, & the onus of proof lay on him to show that he possessed such qualifications.—H. v. KINGSTON (1904), 24 N. Z. L. R. 431.—N.Z.

4552 i. — Facts peculiarly within knowledge of accused.]—R. v. CALDER, [1922] 2 W. W. R. 65; 65 D. L. R. 387; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 240.—CAN.

4552 ii. ——[The existence of an exception nominated in the description of an offence created by statute must be negatived in order to maintain the charge, but if a statute creates an offence in general, with an exception by way of proviso in favour of certain persons or circumstances, the onus is on the accused to plead & prove himself within the proviso.—R. v. STRAUSS (1897), 5 B. C. R. 486.—CAN.

4552 iii. ——[Where a statute has provided that certain acts, the knowledge of the other, the party within whose knowledge it lies, & who asserts the affirmative is to prove it, & not he who avers the negative (BAYLEY, J.).—R. v. TURNER (1816), 5 M. & S. 206; 105 E. R. 1026.

Annotations:—Consd.* Doe d. Bridger v. Whitehead (1838), 3 Nev. & P. K. B. 557; Elkin v. Jansen (1845), 9 Jur. 353; Ashton v. L. & N. W. Ry., [1918] 2 K. B. 488. Refd. Tennant v. Cumberland (1859), 1 E. & E. 401; R. v. Harvey (1871), 19 W. R. 446; Abrath v. N. E. Ry. (1883), 49 L. T. 618; James v. Nicholas (1886), 50 J. P. 292; R. v. Scott (1921), 86 J. P. 69.

4553. ————.]—In an action of debt, on Apothecaries Act, 1815 (c. 194), s. 20, for a penalty for practising as an apothecary, without having obtained a certificate from the Apothecaries' Co. under that Act, it is not necessary, on the part of plffs., to prove that the party has not obtained his certificate, the onus lying on him to show that he has. It must, however, be averred in the declaration that he has not.—APOTHECARIES' CO. v. BENTLEY (1824), 1 C. & P. 538; Ry. & M. 159, N. P.

Annotations:—Consd.* Doe d. Bridger v. Whitehead (1838), 3 Nev. & P. K. B. 557. Refd. Toleman v. Portbury (1870), 39 L. J. Q. B. 136. Mentd. Apothecaries' Co. v. Jones, [1893] 1 Q. B. 89.

4554. ————.]—8 & 9 Vict. c. 100, requires every person receiving a single lunatic into his or her care to obtain & transmit to the lunacy comrs. certain orders & certificates, which are upon receipt at their office entered & filed. In the books in which the receipt of such orders, etc., were entered, no notice was found of any such having been received from deft. Notice was given to deft. to produce any orders, etc., he might have received, entitling him to take charge of the alleged lunatic:—Held: although, as a general rule, a deft. must have his guilt proved, & not be called upon to establish his innocence, yet seeing that the proof was in the nature of a negative proof, & that, if he had received the documents & not transmitted them, they would be in his possession, & that, after notice to produce them had been given, he had not produced them, there was sufficient case to go to the jury.—R. v. HARRIS (1867), 10 Cox, C. C. 541.

4555. ————.]—The onus of proving the fact of the possession of a licence or authority was on deft. as it was a fact which was peculiarly within his own knowledge.—R. v. SCOTT (1921), 86 J. P. 69.

4556. ————.]—What is necessary to change the onus.—ELKIN v. JANSON, No. 4549, ante.

4557. ————.]—Consent of owner of property.]—On an indictment on 42 Geo. 3, c. 107, s. 1, though there must be some evidence to negative the owner's consent, the owner need not be called for the purpose; his non-consent may be inferred from other circumstances, or proved by his agents.—R. v. ALLEN (1826), 1 Mood. C. C. 154, C. C. R.; previous proceedings (1823), Russ. & Ry. 513, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Mentd.* Cureton v. R. (1861), 1 B. & S. 208.

4558. ————.]—Two persons were indicted on 6 Geo. 3, c. 36, for lopping & topping an ash timber tree, without the consent of the owner. The owner died before the trial, having first given order for the apprehension of prisoners on suspicion. The land steward of the owner proved that he had not given any consent, & did not believe that his master had:—Held: this was evidence from which the jury might infer that no consent had been given by the owner.—R. v. HAZY & COLLINS (1826), 2 C. & P. 458.

4559. ————.]—Giving statutory notice.]—In an information for having in possession cattle diseased, & neglecting to give notice to a police constable:—Held: the burden of proving that deft. gave notice to a constable lay upon him.—HUGGINS v. WARD (1873), L. R. 8 Q. B. 521; 29 L. T. 33; 37 J. P. 405; 21 W. R. 914.

4560. ————.]—Proof of nationality.—Allens' etc., shall constitute a crime, subject to certain exceptions or provisos the indictment of a person for committing such a crime must show negatively that the party or the matter pleaded does not come within the meaning of such exceptions or provisos. In cases where the subject of such negative averments relates to accused personally, or is peculiarly within his knowledge, the negative is not to be proved by prosecutor, but the affirmative must be proved by accused. If the subject of such averment does not relate personally to the accused, or be not peculiarly within his knowledge, or at least be as much within the knowledge of prosecutor as of accused, prosecutor must prove the negative.—R. v. LYONS (1883), 2 S. C. 221.—S. AF.

4552 iv. ————.]—It. v. SMITH (1883), 2 S. C. 357.—S. AF.

4552 v. ————.]—R. v. GOLDSTEIN (1882), 2 S. C. 164.—S. AF.

4552 vi. ————.]—Accused was convicted of contravening a "scab" regulation. On appeal it was contended that as the Crown had proved only that the local inspector had not given a permit the conviction ought to be quashed, because it had not been also proved that a permit had not been given by any other officer:—Held: if any other officer did give a permit, assuming there was an officer with authority so to do, it was a matter specially within accused's knowledge; the Crown had established a prima facie case, & the onus was cast on accused to prove that he had obtained a permit.—R. v. WHITE (1917), C. P. D. 567.—S. AF.

4552 vii. ————.]—Accused was convicted of removing stock liable to the disease of scab out of an area declared to be infected with scab without the written permission of an officer of the Agricultural Department. The evidence showed that the local sheep inspector after inspecting stock belonging to accused, & finding them infected, placed them under quarantine & informed accused that the quarantine could not be raised:—Held: there was prima facie evidence that no order allowing the stock to be removed was given, & as there was no rebuttal of this evidence & as the fact was clearly within the knowledge of accused, he had been rightly convicted.—R. v. FRONEMAN, [1917] C. P. D. 56.—S. AF.

t. ————.]—Sufficient evidence to convict.—Accused must rebut.]—On a charge of theft of goods from a store evidence of the finding in prisoner's house of the goods & of keys fitting the store doors, & of the fact that the goods were in the store exposed for sale at the time of the alleged theft & had not been sold, is sufficient to put the onus upon prisoner of accounting for his possession.—R. v. THERIAULT (1904), 11 B. C. R. 117.—CAN.

a. ————.]—While, under the criminal law, accused is not called upon to explain suspicious circumstances there may yet come a time when, circumstantial evidence having enveloped him in a strong network of inculpatory facts, he is bound to make some explanation or stand condemned.—R. v. JENKINS (1908), 14 B. C. R. 61; 9 W. L. R. 405; 14 Can. Crim. Cas. 221.—CAN.

b. ————.]—An accused person is not bound to account for his movements at or about the time an offence was committed, unless there has been given legal evidence sufficient prima facie to convict him of the offence.—R. v. BEPIN BISWAS (1884), L. L. R. 10 Calc. 970.—IND.

c. ————.]—When in a criminal proceeding, it is sought to establish a charge of felony by circumstantial evidence, any reasonable account of the facts proved, consistent with the innocence of the culprit, which can be conceived, will warrant his acquittal.—GOGARTY v. GREAT SOUTHERN & WESTERN RY. CO. (1874), L. R. 8 C. L. 344; 9 I. C. L. R. 233.—IR.

d. ————.]—Reasonable suspicion of guilt.—Accused must rebut.]—When the Crown has established that deft. knowingly was in possession of certain property & that that property might reasonably be suspected of being stolen, the onus is upon deft. of satisfying the justice that he came by the property honestly & that that onus is not discharged if the justice is left in doubt as to whether deft. came by the property honestly.—WILLIS v. BURNES (1921), 29 C. L. R. 511.—AUS.

e. ————.]—Where a person is under reasonable grounds of suspicion of having stolen any of the valuable metals mentioned in sect. 424 (a) of the Criminal Code, or having dealt with them contrary to the provisions of sect. 424 (b) or (c), the onus of the proof of the "right to the possession of the same" is on him.—It. v. KARP (1917), 41 C. L. R. 540; 13 O. W. N. 435; 30 Can. Crim. Cas. 115.—CAN.

f. ————.]—False pretence.]—Where the word "Armida" was written at

Sect. 6.—Proof: Sub-sects. 2 &amp; 3 A.]

Restriction Act, 1914 (c. 12).]—Under sect. 1, sub-sect. 4. of the above Act when a question arises whether a person charged with an offence against the Aliens Restriction (Consolidation) Ord., 1914, is an alien, or whether he belongs to a particular class of alien, the onus of proving that he is not an alien, or does not belong to the particular class, is upon him, & if the magistrate is not satisfied that the person had discharged this onus the magistrate's finding is, apart from the admission or rejection of evidence, one of fact & not of law, & there is no ground for the review, by the ct., of his decision on appeal.—SIMON v. PHILLIPS (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 656; 114 L. T. 460; 80 J. P. 194; 32 T. L. R. 243; 25 Cox, C. C. 315; 14 L. G. R. 476, D. C.

4561. ————.]—Upon an information charging applt. with having failed to comply with the provisions of the Aliens Restriction (Consolidation) Ord., 1914, the magistrate held that applt. had failed to discharge the onus cast upon him by above Act of showing that he was not an alien enemy, & convicted applt.:—Held: applt. was properly convicted.—KOPELOWITZ v. McLAUGHLAN (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1700; 114 L. T. 1037; 80 J. P. 263; 25 Cox, C. C. 384; 14 L. G. R. 1074, D. C.

SUB-SECT. 3.—SUFFICIENCY OF PROOF.

A. Of Corpus Delicti.

4562. Necessity for—General rule.]—If you have a criminal fact ascertained, you may then take presumptive proof to show who did it to fix the the head of a cheque, in a prosecution for false pretences:—Held: evidence could be given to show that a cheque drawn in that form would be paid only at the Armidale branch of the bank & not at the Sydney office. It is incumbent on deft. to show that he had funds at any other branch of the bank, it being shown that there were no funds to his credit at the Armidale branch.—R. v. BUTLER (1879), 2 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 289.—AUS.

g. ———— Possession of stolen goods explained—Explanation not investigated—Prosecution must prove theft.—When at the time stolen goods are found in the custody of a person under such circumstances as to impose upon him the duty of explaining how possession was acquired he offers a reasonable explanation which is accepted & then nothing is done for such a length of time as to make it improbable that accused will be in a position to verify his explanation, the onus is not shifted from the Crown to accused but rests upon the Crown to show an actual theft by accused.—R. v. McCLURE (1921) 1 W. W. R. 87; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 93.—CAN.

Manslaughter by negligence—Accused must prove care.]—The negligence which calls for punishment as a criminal offence is the same in kind as the negligence which can be satisfied by damages in a civil action; the former differs from the latter in degree. The question of degree is for the jury. The burden of proof is on accused to show that he took reasonable care.—R. v. MURPHY (1914), 49 J. L. T. 15.—IR.

k. ————.]—Prisoner was indicted for the manslaughter of a woman by driving a cab over her in a public street, & his defence was that he had used due & proper care in driving the cab upon the occasion in question:—Held: the burden of proving negligence did not lie on the Crown, but, upon the fact of the killing being proved, it was cast upon prisoner to show that he had used due & proper care in driving the cab.—R. v. CAVENDISH (1874), 1 R. 8 C. L. 178.—IR.

l. ———— Arson—Building fixed to soil—Presumption.]—Prisoner was indicted, under sect. 308 of the Criminal Code Act, 1893, on a charge of wilfully setting fire to a building fixed to the soil. No direct proof was given that the building was a fixture, but certain facts were proved which were sufficient evidence to go to the jury that the building was fixed to the soil:—Held: the onus was by the evidence shifted on to prisoner to prove that it was a non-fixture.—R. v. JOHNSON (1908), 27 N. Z. L. R. 485.—N.Z.

m. ———— Uncommon goods stolen—Accused must explain possession.]—Where goods of an unusual description, or of a sort not common in a district, have been stolen, & similar goods, although they cannot be identified as the stolen goods, are found in a person's recent possession, the onus is cast on that person of explaining how he came by those goods, & in the absence of a satisfactory explanation, he may be convicted of receiving.—R. v. PAGET & McGEORGE (1906), 26 N. Z. L. R. 76.—N.Z.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

4563 i. Charge of murder—Whether production of body necessary.]—The mere fact that the body of the murdered person has not been found is not a ground for refusing to convict accused of the murder.—R. v. BHAGIRATH (1880), 1 L. R. 3 All. 383.—IND.

4563 ii. ————.]—Although, under some circumstances, a charge of murder may be sustained, when the body of the person said to have been murdered is not forthcoming, still, when that is the case, the strongest criminal, having then an actual corpus delicti. But to take presumptions in order to swell an equivocal fact, a fact that is absolutely ambiguous in its own nature, into a criminal fact is a mode of proceeding of a very different nature & would, I take it, be an entire misapplication of the doctrine of presumptions (SIR WILLIAM SCOTT).—EVANS v. EVANS (1790), 1 Hag. Con. 35; 161 E. R. 466.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Burton (1854), 23 L. J. M. C. 52; R. v. Stephens (1888), 58 L. T. 776. Mentd. Neeld (1831), 4 Hag. Ecc. 263; Trevanion v. Trevanion (1837), 1 Curt. 406; Lockwood v. Lockwood (1839), 2 Curt. 281; Re Cochrane (1840), 8 Dowl. 630; Clowes v. Clowes (1843), 3 Curt. 185; Re Bartlett, Ex p. Bartlett (1846), 2 Coll. 661; Saunders v. Saunders (1846), 10 Jur. 143; Dysart v. Dysart (1847), 1 Rob. Eccl. 470; Greenway v. Greenway (1848), 6 Notes of Cases, 221; Connelly v. Connelly (1850), 2 Rob. Eccl. 201; Paterson v. Paterson (1850), 3 H. L. Cas. 308; Bostock v. Bostock (1858), 1 Sw. & Tr. 221; Curtis v. Curtis (1858), 1 Sw. & Tr. 192; Tomkins v. Tomkins (1858), 1 Sw. & Tr. 168; White v. White (1859), 1 Sw. & Tr. 591; Milford v. Milford (1866), 36 L. J. P. & M. 30; Buzloor Ruheem v. Shumsoonnissa (1867), 11 Moo. Ind. App. 551; Kelly v. Kelly (1870), L. R. 2 P. & D. 59; Russell v. Russell, [1897] A. C. 395; Armstrong v. Armstrong (1898), 78 L. T. 689; Fisk v. Fisk (1920), 122 L. T. 803.

4563. Charge of murder—Whether production of body necessary.]—In cases of murder the rule as to express proof of the corpus delicti is according to Lord Hale a rule of caution not necessarily to be observed in every case (MAULE, J.).—R. v. BURTON (1854), Dears. C. C. 282; 23 L. J. M. C. 52; 22 L. T. O. S. 336; 18 J. P. 103; 18 Jur. 157; 2 W. R. 230; 6 Cox, C. C. 293, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347. Mentd. R. v. Joiner (1910), 74 J. P. 200.

4564. ———— Confession of accused.]—R. v. PERRY (1660), 14 State Tr. 1312.

4565. ———— Circumstantial evidence.]—On the trial of an indictment for murder, the death possible evidence as to the fact of the murder should be insisted on before an accused is convicted.—ADU SHIKDAR v. R. (1885), 1 L. R. 11 Calc. 635.—IND.

4563 iii. ————.]—R. v. WOODGATE (1877), 3 C. A. 320; 2 J. R. N. S. 5.—N.Z.

4563 iv. ————.]—The corpus delicti is not absolutely necessary in a trial for murder if there is evidence to go to the jury that the deceased person was seen to be killed; as, for instance, if witnesses saw the deceased actually shot by means of a gun, & dying from the wounds so inflicted.—URINGTON v. SOLOMON (SAUL) & CO., URINGTON v. DORMER (1879), Buch. 240.—S. AF.

4563 v. ————.]—On a charge of murder it is not necessary that the body of the person alleged to have been killed by accused should have been found, it is sufficient that there is credible evidence that the person was actually killed.—R. v. GANYANA (1917), E. D. L. 319.—S. AF.

4564 i. ———— Confession of accused.]—On a trial for the murder of the infant illegitimate daughter of accused, evidence was given that he had directly confessed to the actual commission of the crime, but the dead body of the infant had not been found. The jury found prisoner guilty:—Held: the judge had rightly refused to withdraw the case from the jury; there was evidence upon which prisoner could rightly be convicted, & the conviction should be affirmed.—R. v. McNICHOLL, [1917] 2 I. R. 557.—IR.

4565 i. ———— Circumstantial evidence.]—The corpus delicti in a case of murder & the connection of accused with the commission of the crime may be proved by circumstantial evidence.—R. v. RYAN, [1905] S. R. Q. 15.—AUS.

4565 ii. ————.]—Applt., a medical practitioner, was convicted of of the person charged to have been killed, may be collected from the circumstances, if incapable of being proved by other evidence.—R. v. HINDMARSH (1792), 2 Leach, 569.

4566. ————.]—R. v. ARMSTRONG (1875), 13 Cox, C. C. 184.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Keyn (1876), 2 Ex. D. 63.

4567. ————.]—A jury are entitled to infer that there has been a violent death from circumstantial evidence.

Applt. was convicted of the murder of her son. The body was discovered in a well, the features were unrecognisable, & decomposition was very advanced. There was no evidence even as to sex except from the general appearance & dress. There was nothing to show whether death was natural or violent:—Held: in view of the facts that the child left home well & was afterwards found dead, that applt. was last seen with it, & made untrue statements about it, this was not a case which could have been withdrawn from the jury.—R. v. NASH (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 225, C. C. A.

4568. ————.]—On an indictment for murder no overt act need be proved against accused; circumstantial evidence may suffice.

Applt. was convicted of the murder of one of his children. He stated that they had been taken by the Salvation Army, but their dead bodies were found buried beneath the floor, being then in such a condition that it was impossible for the medical witnesses to say that they did not die a natural death; they could only say that the appearance of the bodies was consistent with the fact of the children having been smothered.—R. v. ROBERTSON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 189, C. C. A.

4569. ———— Necessity for proof of death.—Where, in summing-up, the judge told the jury that the intention was to be collected from the paper itself, unless explained by the mode of publication or other circumstances; & that, if its contents were likely to excite sedition, etc., deft. must be presumed to intend that which his act was likely to produce; & that, if they found such to be the intent, he was of opinion it was a libel; & that they were to take the law from him, unless they were satisfied that he was wrong:—Held: this was a correct mode of leaving the question to the jury under 32 Geo. 3, c. 60, s. 1.

It was said, & truly said, that guilt & crime are never to be presumed; & the cases of supposed murder, mentioned by Lord Hale, & which have since operated as a caution to all judges, were quoted on this occasion. But the cases are wholly different. In those cases, there was no actual proof of the death of the person supposed to have been slain, & consequently, no proof that the crime of murder had been committed. The corpus delicti was not established (ABBOTT, C.J.).

It has been said, that there is to be no presumption in criminal cases. Nothing is so dangerous as stating general abstract principles. We are not to presume without proof. We are not to imagine guilt, where there is no evidence to raise the presumption. But when one or more things are proved, from which our experience enables us to ascertain that another, not proved, must have happened, we presume that it did happen, as well in criminal as in civil cases. Nor is it necessary that the fact not proved should be established by irrefragable inference. It is enough, if its existence be highly probable, particularly if the opposite party has it in his power to rebut it by evidence, & yet offers none; for then we have something like an admission that the presumption is just. It has been solemnly decided, that there is no difference between the rules of evidence in civil & criminal cases (BEST, J.).—R. v. BURDETT (1820), 4 B. & Ald. 95; 1 State Tr. N. S. 1; 106 E. R. 873; subsequent proceedings (1821), 4 B. & Ald. 314.

Annotations:—Consd. Stikeman v. Dawson (1847), 1 De G. & Sm. 90. Mentd. Pearson v. McGowan (1825), Dow. & Ry. K. B. 616; R. v. Perkins (1826), 1 Lew. C. C. 99; A. G. v. Kenifeek (1837), 2 M. & W. 715; R. v. Lovett (1839), 9 C. & P. 462; Hall v. Story (1846), 16 M. & W. 63; R. v. Grant, Ranken v. Hamilton (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; Doe d. Bennett v. Hale (1850), 15 Q. B. 171; R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082; Cherry v. Thompson (1872), 41 L. J. Q. B. 243; R. v. Cooper (1875), 45 L. J. M. C. 15; R. v. Carden (1879), 49 L. J. M. C. 1; Doe v. Mervin (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 434; R. v. Holmes (1883), 12 Q. B. D. 23; Tozier v. Hawkins (1885), 15 Q. B. D. 650; Broad v. Perkins (1888), 4 T. L. R. 545; R. v. Ellis, [1899] 1 Q. B. 230; R. v. De Marry, [1907] 1 K. B. 388.

4570. ————.]—R. v. TAWELL, No. 3980, ante.

4571. ———— Identification of body.—

A girl was indicted for the murder of her child. She was proceeding from B. to L. & was seen near T. with the child at 6 p.m., she arriving at L. at between 8 & 9 p.m., without the child. The body of a child was afterwards found near T., which appeared not to be the child of prisoner:—Held: prisoner must be acquitted, & she could not by law either be called upon to account for her child or to say where it was, unless there was evidence to show that her child was actually dead.—R. v. HOPKINS (1838), 8 C. & P. 591.

4572. ————.]—R. v. CHEVERTON, No. 4339, ante.

4573. Charge of attempting to conceal birth.—Whether production of body necessary.—Identification of body.—In order to convict a woman of attempting to conceal the birth of her child, a dead body must be found, & must be identified the murder of M, an unmarried woman. The case presented by the Crown was that an operation was performed by applt. & a miscarriage procured, that M. died from the results of the miscarriage & that applt. secretly disposed of her body, of which no trace was afterwards discovered. Upon a trial for murder:—Held: the fact of death & the fact that prisoner caused the death may be proved by circumstantial evidence.—Perkins (1826), 1 Lew. C. C. 99.

4565 iii. ————.]—Evidence showed that remains of a human being had been destroyed by fire at the dump where prisoner & H. had camped:—Held: this was direct proof of the death of a human being, & circumstantial evidence was sufficient to prove that the dead man was H. & that he was murdered by prisoner.—J.—VOL. XIV.

R. v. KING (1905), 1 W. L. R. 348.—CAN.

4565 iv. ————.]—R. v. MURPHY (1867), 4 W. W. & A.B. 63.—AUS.

n. ———— Necessity for proof of commission of crime.—The evidence against accused on a charge of murder consisted of the evidence of accomplices, & in respect of the first accused, of a confession also. The body of the deceased, who had disappeared for a year before the arrest of accused, was not identified, only a few small bones having been found:—Held: there was not sufficient evidence upon which to convict either accused in the absence of proof by independent evidence that the crime charged had been committed.—R. v. DADABULA (1912), S. R. 14.—S. AF.

o. ————.]—R. v. TSHING-WAYO & UZULU, [1914] E. D. L. 472.—S. AF.

p. Charge of manslaughter.—Whether examination of body necessary.—Circumstantial evidence.—A conviction for manslaughter is sustainable, although there has been no coroner's inquest or examination of the body, or evidence of medical witnesses as to the cause of death, it being sufficient if the cause of death be proved by circumstantial evidence.—R. v. DOGHERTY (1826), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 66.—IR.

4573 i. Charge of attempting to conceal birth.—Whether production of body necessary.—Identification of body.—In a charge of concealment of birth it is not necessary that the dead body of the child should be found & identified.—

Sect. 6.—Proof: Sub-sect. 3, A. & B.]

as that of the child of which she is alleged to have been delivered.

A woman apparently pregnant, while staying at an inn at Stafford, received by post, on Aug. 28, 1870, a Rugby newspaper, with the Rugby postmark upon it. On the same day her appearance & the state of her room seemed to indicate that she had been delivered of a child. She left for Shrewsbury next morning, carrying a parcel. That afternoon a parcel was found in a waiting room at Stafford Station. It was the dead body of a newly born child, wrapped in a Rugby Gazette of Aug. 27, 1870, bearing the Rugby postmark. No proof was given of the woman having been at Stafford Station:—Held: this evidence was insufficient to identify the body found as the child of which the woman was said to have been delivered, & would not, therefore, justify her conviction for concealment of birth.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1871), 11 Cox, C. C. 684.

4574. ——— Confession of accused.]—In a charge of child murder the only evidence was the confession of the accused, & no dead body of the child was found. The jury acquitted accused of murder & found her guilty of concealment of birth:—Held: (1) there was not sufficient evidence of a separate existence of the child to convict of murder but sufficient to convict for concealment of birth, although no dead body had been found.

(2) With regard to the confession, confessions depend upon the circumstances under which they are made, & in this case, the confession was one upon which the jury were entitled to act.—R. v. KERSEY (1908), 21 Cox, C. C. 690; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 260, C. C. A.

4575. Charge of larceny—Proof of loss—Identity of stolen

be good

yet a property must be proved in somebody at the trial, otherwise it shall be presumed that the property was in prisoner by his pleading not guilty to the indictment (GILBERT, C.B.).—ANON. (1724), 8 Mod. Rep. 248; 88 E. R. 177.

4576. ———.]—In a charge of larceny, if prosecutor cannot swear to the loss of the article said to be stolen, prisoner must be acquitted.

It seems to me that you have failed to establish in this case the corpus delicti. It is true prosecutor swears that the doll was once his, but he cannot state that it was taken from him, & for aught that appears to the contrary, prisoner may have come by it in an honest manner (ERLE, J.).—R. v. DREDGE (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 433; 1 Cox, C. C. 235.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Burton (1854), Dears. C. C. 282.

4577. ———.]—On the first floor of a warehouse a large quantity of pepper was kept in bulk. Prisoner was met coming out of the lower room of the warehouse, where he had no business to be, having on him a quantity of pepper of the same description with that in the room above. On being stopped, he threw down the pepper, & said, "I hope you will not be hard with me." From the large quantity in the warehouse, it could not be proved that any pepper had been taken from the bulk. It was objected that as there was no direct proof that any pepper had been stolen, the judge was bound to direct an acquittal:—Held: without such direct proof of a loss, there was abundant evidence to warrant the conviction of prisoner.—R. v. BURTON (1854), Dears. C. C. 282; 23 L. J. M. C. 52; 22 L. T. O. S. 336; 18 J. P. 103; 18 Jur. 157; 2 W. R. 230; 6 Cox, C. C. 293, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347; R. v. Joiner (1910), 74 J. P. 200.

4578. ———.]—Though no portion of prosecutor's goods has been missed, it is a question for the jury, under all the circumstances of the case, whether the goods, which are the subject of the indictment, are his property.

No evidence has been produced to show that the coals delivered at the customers were less than a ton in weight, but it is a question for you whether the 190 lbs. weight sold by prisoner were not a part of that ton (WILLES, J.).—R. v. HOOPER (1858), 1 F. & F. 85.

4579. ———.]—Prisoner was found with dead fowls in his possession, of which he could give no account, & was tracked to a fowl house where a number of fowls were kept, & on the floor of which were some feathers corresponding with the feathers of one found on prisoner, from the neck of which feathers had been removed. The spot where prisoner was found was 1,200 yards from the fowl house, & prosecutor, not knowing the number of fowls kept, could not swear that he had lost any:—Held: there was evidence to support a conviction for larceny.—R. v. MOCKFORD (1868), 17 L. T. 582; 32 J. P. 133; 16 W. R. 375; 11 Cox, C. C. 16, C. C. R.

4580. ———.]—R. v. PEARSON, No. 4354, ante.

4581. ——— What is sufficient identification.]—Slight identification of stolen property may be sufficient for a conviction.

Appls. were convicted with two others for stealing fowls. They appealed against their conviction, on the grounds that the jury were misdirected by the chairman in his summing up, that the verdict was not in accordance with the evidence, & that it was wrong in law. No evidence had been given that the fowls were those of prosecutor. The witnesses had only stated that the fowls found on appls. were similar to those stolen. It was contended on the authority of R. v. Pearson, No. 4354, ante, that the prosecution should have proved that the fowls found were those stolen:—Held: there had been no misdirection by the chairman to the jury, & there was ample evidence to go to the jury that these four men had been together, & that there was a community of interest between them.—R. v. HOWELLS & ALLEN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 197, C. C. A.

4582. ———.]—J., who was a breeder of pheasants, left his cottage on Dec. 28, at 3.15 a.m. with nothing in his hands. Three hours later he returned carrying a sack containing eleven tame pheasants. J. was tried for larceny, & the case for the prosecution consisted of the above facts given in evidence by the police who were watching J.'s cottage. No one was called to prove that he had lost any tame pheasants. J.'s counsel

R. v. BROWN (1911), 31 N. Z. L. R. 225.—N.Z.

4575 i. Charge of larceny—Proof of loss—Identity of stolen property.]—R. v. MACCAFFREY (1900), 33 N. S. R. 232.—CAN.

q. ——— Identity of stolen property—Circumstantial evidence.]—Upon a charge of stealing gold from a mine it was held sufficient to prove that gold sold by prisoner was of the same quality, as that found in the mine & of different quality from that found in the locality where he said he found it when charged, that he had opportunities of stealing it from the mine, & that he had stated shortly previously that he was destitute.—R. v. BRAMWELL (1875), 1 V. L. R. 311.—AUS.

r. Charge of rape—Fact must be proved.]—In a prosecution for a rape, the fact itself must be proved, unless dispensed with by counsel.—R. v. MADDERS (1804), Rowe, 343.—IR.

submitted that there was no evidence of larceny to go to the jury; but this contention was overruled & J. was convicted:—Held: there was no evidence of larceny to go to the jury, & counsel for the prisoner having taken the point at the close of the case for the prosecution, that there was no evidence to go to the jury, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal would not look to see whether any evidence of larceny was elicited subsequently in the case for the defence.—R. v. JOINER (1910), 74 J. P. 200; 26 T. L. R. 265; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A. Annotations:—Overd. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168. N.F. R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

4583. — — — — —.]—R. v. HILL (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 250, C. C. A. Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Smith (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 19.

4584. — — — — —.]—On an indictment for receiving stolen property, the jury should be directed clearly to the question of the identity of the goods found with those stolen.—R. v. SMITH (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 19.

4585. — — — — — Property not seen after loss.]—A. had agisted his horse with B., who lived fourteen miles from him, & in consequence of hearing of the loss of it, he went to the field of B., where it was not:—Held: not sufficient proof of loss to support an indictment for horse-stealing.—R. v. YEND & HAINES (1833), 6 C. & P. 176.

4586. — — — — — Property not seen before loss.]—In cases of robbery from the person, where the property alleged to have been stolen has not been seen or known to be safe immediately before the robbery, if there be any evidence on the subject, it is for the jury to say whether the property really was in a position to be stolen as alleged.—R. v. WILKINS & DAVIS (1866), 10 Cox, C. C. 363.

B. Of Intent.

4587. Criminal intent implied.—From other unlawful acts.]—There are some cases where an unlawful or felonious intent to do one act may be carried over to another act, done in prosecution thereof; & such other act will be felony, because done in prosecution of an unlawful or felonious intent. As if a man shoots at a wild fowl, wherein no man hath any property, & by such shooting, happens unawares to kill a man, this homicide is not a felony but only a misadventure or chance-medley, because it was an accident that happened in the doing of a lawful act. But if this man had shot at a tame fowl wherein another had property, but not with intent to steal it & by such shooting had accidentally killed a man, he would then have been guilty of manslaughter, because done in prosecution of an unlawful action, namely committing a trespass on another's property: but if he had had an intention of stealing this tame fowl then such accidental killing of a man would have been murder, because done in prosecution of a felonious intent, namely an intent to steal (KING, C.J.).—R. v. WOODBURN & COKE (1722), 16 State Tr. 53.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 3.—B.

4594 i. Criminal intent implied.—Intent to defraud.—Fraud on creditors by bankrupt.]—P., a trader, surrendered his estate as insolvent in July, 1919. At the end of May, 1919, he entered in his journal in lump sums & under various headings of expenditure amounts totalling £800, some of which referred to matters which had occurred two years previously & which were not reflected in his cash books or ledger. The magistrate convicted P. of an offence under Act 32, 1916, s. 351 (1):—Held: the magistrate was justified in his finding that the entries were false entries; & in the absence of any satisfactory evidence that there was no intention to defraud, the conviction must be sustained.—PARAK v. R. (1919), 40 N. L. R. 328.—S. AF.

s. ——— Intent to injure.]—An indictment charged prisoner with shooting at B., with intent to maim & disable him, stating, in one count, that the gun was loaded with gunpowder & leaden slugs, & in another count, with gunpowder & leaden shot. There was no evidence that any ball, slug, or shot had been found, or any 4588. ——— When onus not discharged by defendant.]—Where an act in itself indifferent, if done with a particular intent, becomes criminal, there the intent must be proved & found; but where the act is in itself, unlawful, as in this case, the proof of justification, or excuse, lies on deft.; & in failure thereof, the law implies a criminal intent (LORD MANSFIELD, C.J.).—R. v. WOODFALL (1770), 5 Burr. 2661; 20 State Tr. 895; 98 E. R. 398.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Topham (1791), 4 Term Rep. 126; It. v. Philipps (1805), 6 East, 464. Refd. R. v. Shipley (1784), 4 Doug. K. B. 73. Mentd. Monson v. Tussaud, Monson v. Tussaud (1894), 63 L. J. Q. B. 454; R. v. Morris (1907), 71 J. P. Jo. 520.

4589. ——— When act unlawful.]—Where an evil intent accompanying an act is necessary to constitute such act a crime, the intent must be alleged in the indictment & proved. But where the act is in itself unlawful, the law infers an evil intent, & the allegation of such intent is merely matter of form, & need not be proved by extrinsic evidence on the part of prosecutor.—R. v. PHILIPPS (1805), 6 East, 464; 2 Smith, K. B. 550; 102 E. R. 1365.

4590. ——— Intent to defraud.—Uttering forged instrument.]—Uttering a forged stock receipt to a person who employed prisoner to buy stock to that amount & advanced the money, is sufficient evidence of an intent to defraud that person.—R. v. SHEPPARD (1810), Russ. & Ry. 169, C. C. R.

4591. ——— ———.]—A jury ought to infer an intent to defraud the person who would have to pay the instrument if it were genuine, although, from the manner of executing the forgery, or from that person's ordinary caution it would not be likely to impose on him, & although the object was general to defraud whoever might take the instrument, & the intention of defrauding, in particular, the person who would have to pay the instrument, if genuine, did not enter into prisoner's contemplation.—R. v. MAZAGORA (1815), Russ. & Ry. 291, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Harvey (1823), 2 B. & C. 257.

4592. ——— ———.]—R. v. COOKE, No. 4241, anlc.

4593. ——— ———.]—R. v. HILL (1838), 8 C. & P. 274; 2 Mood. C. C. 30, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Cooke (1838), 8 C. & P. 582.

4594. ——— Fraud on creditors by bankrupt.]—On an indictment under Bkpcy. Act, 1861 (c. 134), against a bkpt., charging him with fraudulently concealing & disposing of goods & fraudulently omitting transactions & inserting fictitious transactions in his schedule, the jury are to judge as to the intent, in such instances, from the general character of the transactions, as disclosed in the whole of the evidence, & to consider whether it indicates a scheme & design on the part of the debtor to obtain the benefit of the bkpcy. law & relieve himself from his liabilities without making an honest disclosure & surrender of his property for the benefit of his creditors.—R. v. MANSER (1864), 4 F. & F. 45.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Howard, Ex p. Stallard (1868), 3 Ch. App. 408.

wound inflicted, nor was it shown in what manner the gun had been loaded. The judge told the jury that it was not necessary that they should be satisfied that the gun was loaded with slugs or shot, but that if they believed it was loaded with any substance calculated to act like slugs or shot, it was sufficient, & he left the case to the jury to say, upon the circumstantial evidence, whether it was so loaded. The jury found prisoner guilty:—Held: the conviction was right.—R. v. BRADY (1839), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 257; 1 Craw. & D. 105.—IR.

Sect. 6.—Proof: Sub-sect. 3, B.]

4595. — False pretences.]—If a man makes statements of fact which he knows to be untrue, & makes them for the purpose of inducing persons to deposit with him money which he knows they would not deposit but for their belief in the truth of those statements, & if he intends to use the money so obtained for purposes different from those for which he knows the depositors understand from his statements that he intends to use it, he has an intent to defraud, although he may intend to repay the money if he can, & although he may honestly believe, & even have good reason to believe, that he will be able to repay it.—R. v. CARPENTER (1911), 76 J. P. 158; 22 Cox, C. C. 618.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Parker & Bulteel* (1916), 25 Cox, C. C. 145.

4596. — — — — —.]—Where money is obtained by pretences that are false, prima facie there is an intent to defraud, but the presumption may be displaced (BANKES, J.).—R. v. HAMMERSON (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

4597. — Insolvent bank carrying on business.]—The position of a banker differs from that of an ordinary trader. The ordinary trader by the mere fact that his premises are open & that his business is being carried on does not represent that he is solvent.

In the case of a banker, the mere fact of his keeping his doors open for business & carrying on business may afford some evidence from which a jury may find that he impliedly represents that he is solvent.—R. v. PARKER & BULTEEL (1916), 80 J. P. 271; 25 Cox, C. C. 145.

4598. — Intent to injure.]—R. v. MAWRIDGE (1706), 1 East, P. C. 276; Kel. 119; 17 State Tr. 57; Holt, K. B. 484; Fost. 274; 84 E. R. 1107.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Keite* (1696), 1 Ld. Raym. 138; R. v. Oneby (1727), 1 Barn. K. B. 18; R. v. Doherty (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 306. Mentd. R. v. Simpson (1716), 10 Mod. Rep. 341; R. v. Francis (1735), Cunn. 165; R. v. Adey (1779), 1 Leach, 206.

4599. — — — — —.]—Prisoner was indicted for setting fire to a mill with intent to injure the occupiers thereof.—Held: an injury to the mill being the necessary consequence of setting fire to it, the intent to injure might be inferred; for a man must be supposed to intend the necessary consequence of his own act.—R. v. FARRINGTON (1811), Russ. & Ry. 207, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Harvey* (1823), 2 B. & C. 257.

4600. — From natural consequences of act—Injury to person—Arising from lawful act.]—Trespass & assault will lie for originally throwing a squib, which after having been thrown about in self-defence by other persons, at last put out ptlf.'s eye.—SCOTT v. SHEPHERD (1773), 3 Wils. 403; 2 Wm. Bl. 892; 95 E. R. 1124.

Annotations:—Refd. Leame v. Bray* (1803), 3 East, 593; Clifford v. Brooke (1806), 13 Ves. 131; Langridge v. Levy (1837), 6 L. J. Ex. 137; The George & Richard (1871), L. R. 3 A. & E. 466; Snoesby v. L. & Y. Ry. (1874), L. R. 9 Q. B. 263; Clark v. Chambers (1878), 3 Q. B. D. 327; Whalley v. L. & Y. Ry. (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 131; Latham v. Johnson, [1913] 1 K. B. 398. Mentd. Fitzsimons v. Inglis (1814), 5 Taunt. 534; M'Laughlin v. Pryor (1842), 4 Man. & G. 48; Rich v. Basterfield (1846), 2 Car. & Kir. 257; Gilbertson v. Richardson (1848), 5 C. B. 502; Lock v. Ashton (1848), 13 Jur. 167; Sharrod v. L. & N. W. Ry. (1849), 4 Exch. 589; Coward v. Baddeley (1859), 33 L. T. O. S. 125; Seymour v. Greenwood (1861),

6 H. & N. 359; Clark v. Hoskins (1868), 37 L. J. Ch. 561; Holmes v. Mather (1875), 44 L. J. Ex. 176; R. v. Ashwell (1885), 16 Q. B. D. 190; H. M. S. London, [1914] P. 72; Ruoff v. Long, [1916] 1 K. B. 148; Bradley v. Newsom, [1919] A. C. 16; Weld-Blundell v. Stephens, [1920] A. C. 956.

4601. — — — — — Arising from unlawful act.]—R. v. FARRINGTON, No. 4599, ante.

4602. — — — — —.]—Prisoner was the first, or almost the first, to leave the gallery of a theatre at the close of the performance, & ran down the stairs & wilfully put out the gas, & placed an iron bar across the doorway. This caused a panic among the persons when leaving the gallery, & several of them were seriously injured through the pressure of the crowd.—Held: prisoner was properly convicted of unlawfully & maliciously doing & inflicting grievous bodily harm within the meaning of Offences against the Person Act (c. 100), s. 17.

Prisoner must be taken to have intended the natural & probable consequences of what he did (LORD COLERIDGE, C.J.).—R. v. MARTIN (1881), 8 Q. B. D. 54; 51 L. J. M. C. 36; 45 L. T. 444; 46 J. P. 228; 30 W. R. 106; 14 Cox, C. C. 633, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Halliday* (1889), 61 L. T. 701. Fold. R. v. Chapin (1909), 22 Cox, C. C. 10. Refd. R. v. Clarence (1888), 22 Q. B. D. 23.

4603. — — — — — Adulteration of food.]—A baker who sells bread containing alum in a shape which renders it noxious is guilty of an indictable offence, if he ordered the alum to be introduced into the bread, although he gave directions for mixing it up in a manner which would have rendered it harmless.—R. v. DIXON (1814), 4 Camp. 12; 3 M. & S. 11; 105 E. R. 516.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Hicklin* (1868), L. R. 3 Q. B. 360. Refd. A.-G. v. Siddon (1830), 1 Cr. & J. 220; R. v. Aspinall (1876), 2 Q. B. D. 48; R. v. Brailsford, [1905] 2 K. B. 730.

4604. — — — — — Publication inciting sedition.]—R. v. BURDETT, No. 4569, ante.

4605. — — — — — Malice in libel.]—The jury having retired for a considerable time, returned into ct., & desired to know whether it was necessary that there should be a malicious intention in order to constitute a libel; to which the judge answered, "The man who publishes slanderous matter calculated to defame another, must be presumed to have intended to do that which the publication is calculated to bring about, unless he can show the contrary; & it is for him to show the contrary:—"Held: this answer was correct in point of law, & the judge was not bound to answer in the affirmative or negative the abstract question put to him; & assuming that a malicious intention is necessary to constitute a libel that intention is to be inferred from the mischievous tendency of the publication itself, unless deft. shows something to rebut such inference, & therefore the publication of a libel of mischievous tendency having been proved, & deft. not having shown that he published it from authority, the jury were bound to find that he published it with a malicious intention.—R. v. HARVEY (1823), 2 B. & C. 257; 3 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 464; 2 L. J. O. S. K. B. 4; 2 State Tr. N. S. 1; 107 E. R. 379.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Grant, Ranken & Hamilton* (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 507; Nevill v. Fine Arts & General Insc., [1895] 2 Q. B. 156; R. v. Munslow, [1895] 1 Q. B. 758. Mentd. Gummoe v. Howes (1857), 23 Beav. 184.

4601 i. — From natural consequences of act—Injury to person—Arising from unlawful act.]—Prisoner was indicted, inter alia, under sect. 415 of the Criminal Code for being unlawfully in the house of P. with intent to commit an assault on D. The jury, in effect, found that prisoner was unlawfully in the house, & committed an assault on D.—Held: the intent to commit the assault was involved in the commission of it; the jury could not find prisoner guilty of committing an assault without finding that he had the intent to commit it, & the being in & the intent concurring in point of time, the offence was complete & the conviction must be affirmed.—R. v. HIGGINS (1905), 38 N. S. R. 328.—CAN.

4608. — Publication injuring public morality.—A society of persons exposed for sale at their office a pamphlet. About one half of the pamphlet related to casuistical & controversial questions which were not obscene, but "the remainder of the pamphlet was obscene, relating to impure & filthy acts, words & ideas. A member of the society kept & sold these pamphlets with the purpose of promoting the objects of the society, & exposing what he deemed to be errors of the Church of Rome:—Held: notwithstanding the object of deft. was not to injure public morals, but to attack the religion & practice of the Roman Catholic Church, this did not justify his act, nor prevent it from being a misdemeanor proper to be prosecuted, as the inevitable effect of the publication must be to injure public morality; & although he might have had another object in view, he must be taken to have intended what was the natural consequence of his act.—R. v. HICKLIN (1868), L. R. 3 Q. B. 360; 37 L. J. M. C. 89; 16 W. R. 801; 18 L. T. 395; 11 Cox, C. C. 19; sub nom. SCOTT v. WOLVERHAMPTON JJ., 32 J. P. 533.

Annotations:—Folld. Steele v. Brannan (1872), L. R. 7 C. P. 261. Refd. R. v. Prince (1875), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 154; R. v. Barraclough, [1906] 1 K. B. 201. Mentd. R. v. Adams (1888), 5 T. L. R. 85.

4607. — Crime committed during drunkenness.—Upon an indictment for murder, where there is evidence that prisoner was drunk at the time of the commission of the crime, the proper direction to the jury is that a man must be presumed to intend the natural consequences of his acts, but that that presumption may be rebutted by showing that his mind was so affected by the drink he had taken that he was incapable of knowing that what he was doing was dangerous—that is likely to inflict serious injury.—R. v. MEADE, [1909] 1 K. B. 895; 78 L. J. K. B. 476; 73 J. P. 239; 25 T. L. R. 359; 53 Sol. Jo. 378; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 54, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Public Prosecutions Director v. Beard, [1920] A. C. 479. Refd. R. v. Honeyands (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 60.

4608. — Does not extend to accidental acts.—Prisoner was indicted for shooting with intent to resist his lawful apprehension. The defence was that prisoner's gun went off accidentally. In his summing-up, the judge directed the jury that a man must be taken to intend the natural consequences of his acts, & that it was for prisoner, & not for the prosecution, to satisfy them that the gun went off accidentally. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: the conviction must be quashed as the judge's direction might have been understood by the jury as laying down a proposition of law which was not correct, namely, that a person must be taken to intend the consequences, not only of his intentional, but also of his accidental acts.—R. v. DAVIES (1913), 29 T. L. R. 350; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 211, C. C. A.

See, also, Part I., Sect. 2, sub-sect. 2, ante.

4609. Onus on prosecution—Onus may shift in certain cases.—D. & others were charged under the Treason-Felony Act, 1848 (c. 12), s. 3, with being in the possession of certain instruments & explosive materials, with intent to use them for the purpose of carrying out the objects of certain treasonable combinations existing in the United Kingdom & abroad:—Held: (1) for the purpose of showing such intent, evidence might be given showing that the only known use hitherto made of such instruments & explosive compounds had been in causing destructive explosions to property; & the fact of some of these explosions having happened out of the jurisdiction of the court did not affect the admissibility of the evidence.

(2) For the purpose of showing a treasonable object on the part of prisoners, & negating any private object, evidence might be given of the existence, down to a period nearly approaching the date of the alleged acts, in the country from which the explosives & instruments were brought, of a treasonable conspiracy having for its object the alteration of the existing form of government by violent means, although such evidence did not establish that the prisoners were members of, or directly connected with, such conspiracy.

Though the general rule is that the prosecution must make out intent, there may be circumstances under which the burden of proof is shifted to the other side.—R. v. DEASY (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 334.

4610. Sufficiency of proof—Question of fact for jury.—Upon a trial for larceny the question whether the goods were taken animo furandi is a question of fact for the jury.—R. v. FARNBOROUGH, [1895] 2 Q. B. 484; 64 L. J. M. C. 270; 73 L. T. 351; 59 J. P. 505; 44 W. R. 48; 11 T. L. R. 554; 39 Sol. Jo. 691; 18 Cox, C. C. 191; 15 R. 497, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Meyer (1908), 99 L. T. 202.

4611. Whether special intent must be proved.—R. v. WOODFALL, No. 4588, ante.

4612. — R. v. PHILLIPS, No. 4589, ante.

4613. — R. v. COPPARD (1855), Wills on Circumstantial Evidence, 5th ed. 217.

4614. — In murder.—R. v. WOODBURN & COKE, No. 4587, ante.

4615. — Indictment for murder. Defence that deceased committed suicide. Verdict "guilty," the jury adding that they believed the act was committed without premeditation.

"You are not asked to say if it were premeditated or not. If prisoner killed the woman, he is guilty of murder. Prosecutor is not bound to prove that the homicide was committed from malice prepense. If the homicide be proved, the law presumes malice" (BYLES, J.).—R. v. MALONEY (1861), 9 Cox, C. C. 6.

4616. — In manslaughter.—R. v. WOODBURN & COKE, No. 4587, ante.

4617. — To do grievous bodily harm.—On an indictment for felony under Prevention of Offences Act, 1851 (c. 19), s. 7, for maliciously throwing stones into a railway carriage, with intent to endanger the safety of any person in it, there must be evidence of an intent to do some grievous bodily harm, such as would support an indictment for wounding a particular person with that intent, & if it appear that prisoner's intention was only to commit a common assault on some person in the carriage he must be acquitted.—R. v. ROOKE (1858), 1 F. & F. 107.

4618. — In wounding.—W., intending to frighten, but not to hurt, prosecutor, fired a gun, but owing to prosecutor slewing round in his boat, the shot wounded him. W. was indicted for maliciously wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The jury found W. guilty of unlawful wounding, under Prevention of Offences Act, 1851 (c. 19), s. 5:—Held: the word "maliciously" was implied in the words "unlawful wounding," there was here evidence of such malice as to support the finding of the jury.—R. v. WARD (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 356; 41 L. J. M. C. 69; 26 L. T. 43; 36 J. P. 453; 20 W. R. 392; 12 Cox, C. C. 123, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Pembilton (1847), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 119; R. v. Martin (1881), 8 Q. B. D. 54; Allen v. Flood, [1898] A. C. 1; R. v. Clemens (1898), 78 L. T. 204.

4619. — In receiving stolen property.—

Sect. 6.—Proof: Sub-sect. 3, B. & C.; sub-sect. 4. A.]

On an indictment against A. for feloniously receiving stolen goods, the property of B., evidence was admitted after objection made, of possession by A. of other stolen property not the property of B., & which, it was shown, must have been stolen at different times & from other places. The evidence was admitted, on the ground that it went to prove a guilty knowledge in W. On a case reserved:—Held: the evidence was inadmissible.

Whatever may be the rule respecting the admissibility of such evidence on an indictment for receiving stolen goods with a guilty knowledge, in the present case this evidence merely went to show that prisoner was in possession of other property which had been previously stolen in Dec., & not that he had received such property after it had been stolen. The mere possession of stolen property is evidence of stealing & not of receiving, & to admit such evidence in the present case would be to allow prosecutor, in order to make out that a prisoner had received property stolen in Mar. with a guilty knowledge, to show that prisoner had stolen some other property from another place & belonging to other persons in the previous Dec. (ALDERSON, B.).—R. v. ODDY (1851), 2 Den. 264; T. & M. 593; 4 New Sess. Cas. 602; 20 L. J. M. C. 198; 17 L. T. O. S. 136; 15 J. P. 308; 15 Jur. 517; 5 Cox, C. C. 210, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. Makin v. A.-G. for New South Wales, [1894] A. C. 57; R. v. Bond, [1906] 2 K. B. 389. Refd. It. v. Richardson (1860), 2 F. & F. 343; Parker v. Green (1862), 2 B. & S. 299; R. v. Francis (1874), 22 W. R. 663; R. v. Carter (1884), 50 L. T. 596; R. v. Ollis, [1900] 2 Q. B. 758; Thompson v. It., [1918] A. C. 221. Mentd. It. v. Green (1852), 3 Car. & Kir. 209.

4620. — In malicious damage to property.]—The word “maliciously” in Malicious Damage Act, 1861 (c. 97), s. 51, requires that an act to be criminal within that sect. should be done wilfully.

A conviction under that sect., for unlawfully & maliciously committing damage above the value of £5 to a house, where deft., after fighting in a crowd in the street near the window of the house, separated himself from the crowd, picked up a stone, threw it at one of the persons with whom he had been fighting, missed his aim, & hit a plateglass window above the value of £5 in the house, but did not intend to break the window, was quashed.—R. v. PEMBLTON (1874), L. R. 2 C. C. R. 119; 43 L. J. M. C. 91; 30 L. T. 405; 38 J. P. 454; 22 W. R. 553; 12 Cox, C. C. 607, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Latimer (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 359. Consd. R. v. Faulkner (1877), 13 Cox, C. C. 550. Refd. R. v. Welch (1875), 33 L. T. 753; R. v. Martin (1881), 8 Q. B. D. 54; Hall v. Richardson (1889), 6 T. L. R. 71.

C. Confession by Accused.

4621. Whether sufficient without corroboration—General rule.]—A confession properly proved in law needs no corroboration to found a conviction, although in practice there is invariably some corroboration.—R. v. SYKES (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 233, C. C. A.

4622. — — —.]—It is doubtful whether a crime can be established without other evidence than that of prisoner's confession.—R. v. EDGAR (1831), 2 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 8th ed. p. 1996, n.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347.

4623. — Manslaughter.]—The evidence against prisoner charged with manslaughter was an admission, on his part, that, unfortunately, he was the man who shot deceased; & the fact that on their coming together, apparently not in ill humour, from the South Metropolitan Cemetery, where prisoner was a watchman, but with which deceased had no connection, prisoner said to the deceased, “Now, you mind, don't let me see you on my premises any more.” At the time this was said, the wound had been given of which deceased eventually died:—Held: in point of law, the evidence was sufficient to sustain the charge.—R. v. MORRISON (1837), 8 C. & P. 22.

4624. — To prove identity.]—Where a felon is condemned, & escapeth, & is retaken, upon confession that he is the same party execution may be awarded.—MIDDLETON'S CASE (1617), Poph. 131; 79 E. R. 1233.

4625. — Murder.]—A boy of ten may be convicted of murder on his own confession together with circumstances tending to corroborate it.—R. v. YORK (1748), Fost. 70, C. C. R.

4626. — — —.]—Weak circumstantial evidence may be strongly corroborated by a confession.—R. v. SHAWCROSS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 286, C. C. A.

4627. — Sending threatening letter.]—Prisoner was indicted for sending a threatening letter. The only evidence against him was his own statement, that he should never have written it, but for W.:—Held: this was not sufficient.—R. v. HOWE (1836), 7 C. & P. 268.

4628. — On proof of the confession.]—R. v. WHEELING* (1789), 1 Leach, 311, n.

Annotation:—Refd. It. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347.

4629. — — —.]—R. v. PRICE* (1837), 1 J. P. 2.

4630. — On proof of an offence having been committed.]—Prisoner's confession is sufficient ground for a conviction, though there is no other proof of his having committed the offence, or of the offence having been committed, if that confession was in consequence of a charge against prisoner.—R. v. ELDRIDGE (1821), Russ. & Ry. 440, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Falkner & Bond (1822), Russ. & Ry. 481.

4631. — — —.]—Prisoner's confession is sufficient ground for a conviction, though there is no other proof of his having committed the offence, or of the offence having been at all committed, if such confession was in consequence of a charge against prisoner.—R. v. FALKNER & BOND (1822), Russ. & Ry. 481, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bond (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 231; R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347.

4632. — — —.]—The confession of prisoner before a magistrate is sufficient ground to warrant a conviction, though there is no positive proof aliunde that the offence was committed.—R. v. WHITE (1823), Russ. & Ry. 508, C. C. R.

4633. — — —.]—Confession of prisoner is evidence against him, without positive proof aliunde of the offence having been committed.—R. v. TIPPET (1823), Russ. & Ry. 509, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347.

4634. — — — Larceny.]—Prisoner, indicted thing more than accused's own admission or even confession; there must also be some independent evidence of the crime having been committed.—R. v. TSHINGWATO & UZULU, [1914] E. D. L. 472.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 3.—C.

4621 I. Whether sufficient without corroboration—General rule.]—A confession is sufficient to warrant a conviction.—R. v. GRAF (1909), 13 O. W. R. 1133; 19 O. L. R. 238; 15

Can. Crim. Cas. 193.—CAN.

t. — Treason.]—R. v. SPROTS (1608), 2 State Tr. 697.—IR.

4630 I. — On proof of offence having been committed.]—There must be some-for stealing two heifers, said, "I drove away two heifers from the World's End Drovers." The prosecutor's farm was called by that name, but he could not swear that there was not any other of the same name in the neighbourhood:—Held: this was insufficient to warrant a conviction.—R. v. TUFFS (1831), 5 C. & P. 167.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Sullivan (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 347.
4635. ————]—R. v. BURTON, No. 4577, ante.

4636. ———— Where offence not completed in law.—Prisoner cannot be convicted on his own confession where there is express evidence that the offence has not been completed in point of law.—R. v. SALTER (1840), 4 J. P. 189.

4637. ———— Question for jury.—R. v. KERSEY, No. 4574, ante.

4638. Negated in part—By other evidence.—A voluntary confession of participation in a crime negated, in part, by other evidence is evidence of prisoner's guilt to go to the jury.—R. v. SUTCLIFFE (1850), 15 L. T. O. S. 371; 4 Cox, C. C. 270.

4639. Bigamy—Proof of first marriage.—In a case of bigamy there ought to be some proof of the first marriage beyond the mere statement of prisoner while in custody; therefore, where a man went to a police-station & stated, that he had committed bigamy, & when & where the first marriage took place, & while in custody signed a statement to the same effect, the judge thought this, though some evidence of the first marriage, was not sufficient, & so told the jury.—R. v. FLAHERTY (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 782.

SUB-SECT. 4.—METHOD OF PROOF.

A. In General.

4640. Rules of evidence the same in civil & criminal cases.—R. v. WATSON, No. 4220, ante.

4641. ————]—The rules of evidence are exactly the same in civil & criminal cases, & in both it is in the discretion of the judge how far he will allow the examination in chief of a witness to be by leading questions, or to assume the form of a cross-examination.—R. v. MURPHY (1837), 8 C. & P. 297.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Blake (1844), 6 Q. B. 126; R. v. O'Connell (1844), 5 State Tr. N. S. 1.

4642. ————]—The rules of evidence are the same in civil & criminal cases.—LEACH v. SIMPSON (1839), 5 M. & W. 309; 7 Dowl. 513; 3 Jur. 654; 151 E. R. 132.

4643. ————]—R. v. FRANCIS, No. 4056, ante.

4644. ———— Enforcement modified in criminal cases.—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

4645. ————]—Assuming the burden of proving a theft by pltf.'s servant to lie on deft., he might establish such a theft by evidence which possibly might not be admitted or sufficient to convict in a criminal prosecution. Evidence that two days before the theft the servant was seen in conference with three notorious thieves was admissible to prove his complicity.

I doubt whether the evidence would have been admissible in a criminal prosecution, not because it was irrelevant, but because in a criminal case evidence is frequently rejected which tends to prejudice deft. and prevent a fair trial (LUSH, J.).—HURST v. EVANS, [1917] 1 K. B. 352; 86 L. J. K. B. 305; 116 L. T. 252; 33 T. L. R. 96.

Annotations:—Mentd. Compania Maritima de Barcelona v. Wishart (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1027; Munro, Brice v. War Risks Assocn., [1918] 2 K. B. 78.

4646. Special rules in criminal cases—Admissions cannot be made.—Where there are two prosecutions against the same person for felony, the judge will not, even by consent, take the evidence of the first trial, as given in the second, but the witnesses may be re-sworn in the second case, & their evidence read over to them from the judge's notes.

I doubt whether that can be done, even by consent, in a case of felony: though I know that it may in cases of misdemeanour (PATTESON, J.).—R. v. FOSTER (1836), 7 C. & P. 495.

4647. ————]—On the trial of an indictment for perjury on the Crown side of the assizes, where it appeared that the attorneys on both sides had agreed that the formal proofs should be dispensed with, & that that part of prosecutor's case should be admitted, the judge would not allow this admission, & prosecutor not being prepared with the formal proofs, deft. was acquitted. A judge will not allow a criminal case upon the Crown side of the assizes to be tried on admissions of this sort, unless they be made at the trial by deft. or his counsel.—R. v. THORNHILL (1838), 8 C. & P. 575.

4648. ———— Except in case of misde-

4646, ante.

4650. Governing principle of proof.—The governing rule & principle of English criminal law is that the question is not simply whether the person charged is guilty or not guilty, but whether the prosecution proves the case strictly & in form (LORD ESHER, M.R.).—COTTERILL v. LEMPRIERE (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 634; 59 L. J. M. C. 133; 62 L. T. 695; 54 J. P. 583; 6 T. L. R. 262; 17 Cox, C. C. 97, D. C.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Hankey, etc. JJ. (1905), 93 L. T. 107; Ex p. Norman (1915), 114 L. T. 232; R. v. Jones, Ex p. Thomas, [1921] 1 K. B. 632.

4651. ————]—A person accused of crime in this country can properly be convicted in a ct. of justice only upon evidence which is legally admissible & which is adduced at his trial in legal form & shape (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. TIBBITS, [1902] 1 K. B. 77; 71 L. J. K. B. 4; 85 L. T. 521; 66 J. P. 5; 50 W. R. 125; 18 T. L. R. 49; 46 Sol. Jo. 51; 20 Cox, C. C. 70, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Nield (1909), Times, Jan. 27.

4652. Weight of presumptions.—A slight or probable presumption only has little or no weight: but a violent presumption amounts in law to full proof, that is, where circumstances speak so strongly, that to suppose the contrary would be absurd . . . where that presumption necessarily arises from circumstances, they are more convincing & satisfactory than any other kind of evidence, because fact cannot lie (LEGGE, B.).—R. v. BLANDY (1752), 18 State Tr. 1117, 1186.

4653. ————]—R. v. BORDEN, No. 4600, ante.

4639 i. Bigamy—Proof of first marriage.—Upon an indictment for bigamy the first marriage must be strictly proved as a marriage de jure. Evidence of a confession by prisoner of his first marriage is not evidence upon which he can be convicted.—R. v. RAY (1890), 20 O. R. 212.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 4.—A.

4640 i. Rules of evidence the same in civil & criminal cases.—There is no difference between the rules of evidence for the production of documents in criminal & civil cases.—R. v. JORDAN (1876), 14 N. S. W. S. C. R. 296.—AUS.
a. Whether X-ray photographs ad- missible.—At a trial of a person accused of wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm, X-ray photographs of the wounds inflicted may be tendered in evidence by the doctor, by whose direction they were taken, & may be shown to the jury.—R. v. ASHF (1922), 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 193; 50 N. B. R. 82.—CAN.

Sect. 3.—Proof: Sub-sect. 4, B., C., D., E. & F. Secls. 7 & 8.]

B. Discovery and Inspection.

4654. Production of documents.—By accused.]—The ct. will never compel deft. in a criminal prosecution to produce evidence against himself. The ct. will not compel the production of books of a private nature in favour of a person who has no interest in them.—R. v. WORSENHAM (1701), 1 Ld. Raym. 705; 91 E. R. 1370.

4655. ———.]—A man shall not be compelled to produce or give a copy of books of a private nature particularly if the object is to obtain evidence in support of a criminal prosecution against him.—R. v. MEAD (1703), 2 Ld. Raym. 927; 92 E. R. 119.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Purnell (1748), 1 Wils. 239.

4656. ———.]—No inspection of books by a prosecutor of a misdemeanour.—R. v. CORNELIUS (1744), 2 Stra. 1210; 93 E. R. 1133.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Purnell (1747), 1 Wm. Bl. 37. Refd. Entick v. Carrington (1765), 2 Wils. 275; R. v. Sholley (1789), 3 Term Rep. 141.

4657. ———.]—On an information against a magistrate of a corpn. for misdemeanour, the ct. will not grant a rule to inspect the books of the corpn. to furnish evidence.—R. v. PURNELL (1748), 1 Wm. Bl. 37; 1 Wils. 239; 96 E. R. 20.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Heydon (1762), 1 Wm. Bl. 351. Refd. Entick v. Carrington (1765), 2 Wils. 275; R. v. Sholley (1789), 3 Term Rep. 141; R. v. Holland (1792), 4 Term Rep. 691.

4658. ———.]—A rule to compel a corpn. to furnish evidence from their books in a criminal prosecution was denied.—R. v. HEYDON (1762), 1 Wm. Bl. 351; 96 E. R. 195.

4659. ———.]—A.-G. v. LE MERCHANT (1772), 2 Term Rep. 201, n; 100 E. R. 109.

Annotations:—Refd. Cates v. Winter (1789), 3 Term Rep. 306. Mentd. Wilson v. Rastall (1792), 4 Term Rep. 753; J. v. Downham (1858), 1 F. & P. 386.

4660. ———.]—ANON (1773), Lofft. 321; 98 E. R. 673.

4661. — By prosecutor.]—Where an information is filed by the A.-G. against an officer of the East India Co., on charges of delinquency there, founded upon the report of a board of inquiry in India, deft. has no right to have an inspection of that report, nor has this ct. any discretionary power to grant it.—R. v. HOLLAND (1792), 4 Term Rep. 691; 100 E. R. 1248.

4662. ———.]—On an indictment in the Central Criminal Ct., for obtaining money by a false pretence that a parcel contained certain letters of prosecutrix to prisoner, which he had promised, for a valuable consideration, to give up, & which had been seized under a search warrant, a judge on the rota for the session, after the session had opened, made an order in favour of prisoner for an inspection of the letters, but the judge in chambers has no such power although on the rota of the Central Criminal Ct., if the session has not been opened & the ct. is not sitting, the Central Criminal Ct. being an intermittent ct.—R. v. COLUCCI (1861), 3 F. & P. 103.

4663. Inspection of defendant's bank account.—By prosecutor.—Bankers' Books Evidence Act, 1879 (c. 11), s. 7.]—A magistrate before whom criminal proceedings are being taken has power to make an order, under the above sect. for prosecutor to inspect & take copies of entries in the books of a bank at which deft. keeps an account.—R. v. KINGHORN, [1908] 2 K. B. 949; 72 J. P. 478; 25 T. L. R. 219; sub nom. R. v. KINGHORN, Ex p. DUNNING, 78 L. J. K. B. 33; 99 L. T. 794; 21 Cox, C. C. 727.

C. Evidence on Commission.

4664. Not permitted in criminal cases.]—A rule was made upon prosecutor to show cause why the trial should not be put off, one of deft.'s witnesses not being able without danger of her life to appear at the trial. Prosecutor offered to allow her testimony to be taken before a judge, but the ct. said, they never suffered it to be done in criminal cases.—R. v. BUDGEL (1727), 1 Barn. K. B. 20; 94 E. R. 13.

4665. ———.]—Evidence on Commission Act, 1830 (c. 22), s. 4, which gave power to the ct. to issue commissions in certain cases for the examination of witnesses, did not apply to indictments.—R. v. BRISCOE (1833), 1 Dowl. 520.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Upton St. Leonard's (1847), 10 Q. B. 827.

4666. ———.]—An order for the examination of a witness resident in England but unable from illness to attend the trial cannot be made in a criminal prosecution either by the common law authority of the ct. or under Evidence on Commission Act, 1830 (c. 22), s. 4.—R. v. UPTON ST. LEONARD'S (INHABITANTS) (1847), 10 Q. B. 827; 2 New Pract. Cas. 272; 17 L. J. M. C. 13; 9 L. T. O. S. 246; 12 J. P. 120; 12 Jur. 11; 2 Cox, C. C. 254; 116 E. R. 313.

Annotation:—Refd. Bailey v. Macaulay, etc. (1849), 19 L. J. Q. B. 73.

4667. ———.]—An application having been made on the part of the prosecution in a case of felony to examine a witness before the master on the ground that he was about to leave this country for China, prisoner consenting to such application:—Held: the ct. could not act on such consent in a case of felony, & had no power to make such order.—R. v. BIGNELL (1851), 16 L. T. O. S. 394; 15 J. P. 116.

4668. Permitted in special case on application of accused.]—The ct., upon application of deft., postponed the trial of an information for a misdemeanour, upon deft.'s consenting by writing under his own hand, to the examination upon interrogatories of a witness for the Crown.—R. v. MORPHEW (1814), 2 M. & S. 602; 105 E. R. 506.

PART XII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 4.—C.

4664 i. Not permitted in criminal cases.]—Where evidence has been taken on commission before the trial, the mere fact of an omission to object to it before the cour. cannot impair the rule that it is the duty of the presiding judge at a criminal trial to allow only admissible evidence to go to the jury.—R. v. HAWKES (1915), 32 W. L. R. 720; 9 W. W. R. 445; 25 D. L. R. 631.—CAN.

4664 ii. ———.]—At the trial of a person for an offence under sect. 411 of the Penal Code, the Ct. of Session, under Evidence Act, 1872, s. 33, used against accused the evidence of the owner of the property in respect of which accused was charged, & of his wife taken by commission during the inquiry, & the evidence of the servant of those persons taken at the inquiry, & also the evidence of the owner of the property taken during the trial under a commission issued by the sessions judge under sect. 503 of the Criminal Procedure Code:—Held: the sessions judge had improperly admitted such evidence.—R. v. BURKE (1884), 1 L. L. R. 641. 224.—IND.

b. Testimony for use in foreign court.—Examiner to be accused.] Letters rogatory were issued from a French ct. seeking the aid of the Superior Ct. of Canada in obtaining the testimony of a person within the jurisdiction of the Ontario Ct. in relation to criminal proceedings pending against him in the French Ct.:—Held: an order should be made under Canada Evidence Act, R. S. C., 1906 (c. 145), s. 41, for the examination upon oath in Ontario of the person referred to & commanding his attendance for examination, leaving it to him to object, if he should see fit, to undergo any examination or to answer any questions upon the ground that to answer might incriminate him.—Re ISLER (1915), 34 O. L. R. 375; 9 O. W. N. 18.—CAN.

D. Depositions taken Abroad.

4669. Under mandamus from King's Bench—Wisdemeanours committed abroad.—R. v. PICTON (1805), 30 State Tr. 225.

Annotations:—Mentd. Lacon v. Higgins (1822), 3 Stark. 178; Barnes v. Stuart (1834), 1 Y. & C. Ex. 119; De Bode's Case (1845), 8 Q. B. 208; Scott v. Seymour (1862), 1 H. & C. 219; Re Kyre (1868), 16 W. R. 754; Anderson v. Gorrie, [1895] 1 Q. B. 668.

4670. ———.]—An information was filed by the A.-G., under East India Co. Act, 1793 c. 52), s. 62, against an officer of the East India Co., for receiving gifts in India. A mandamus was granted under East India Co. Act, 1773 c. 63), s. 40 for the examination of witnesses in the Supreme Ct. at Madras. One of the witnesses here gave in evidence certain original accounts, copies of which were returned to the Ct. of Q. B. by the Supreme Ct. at Madras, with the examinations:—Held: on the trial of the information in the Ct. of Q. B., these copies were not receivable in evidence, & the Ct. at Madras should have transmitted the original accounts to the Ct. of Q. B.—R. v. DOUGLAS (1845), 1 Car. & Kir. 670; New Pract. Cas. 267, N. P.

4671. Depositions taken by consul—Merchant Seamen Act, 1844 (c. 112), ss. 58, 59.—Seemle: depositions taken by a consul abroad under the above Act, & returned to this country & certified under the consular seal to have been duly taken, are admissible in evidence under Mercantile Marine Act, 1850 (c. 93), s. 115 without further proof, although it appears from extrinsic evidence that the witnesses gave their evidence in a foreign language, which was translated into English to the prisoner, & inserted in the depositions by the consul.

such depositions are admissible after the examination of each witness, asked prisoner whether he had anything to say, & on prisoner saying he knew nothing about the witnesses, proceeded to examine the next witness without expressly telling prisoner that he might put questions to the witness.

Qu.: whether depositions of witnesses, containing a great portion of hearsay evidence are admissible.

Qu.: whether the judge has power to strike out the portion that consists of such hearsay evidence, & admit the residue.—R. v. RUSSELL (1852), 6 Cox, C. C. 70.

4672. — Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (c. 104), s. 270.—A witness whose evidence had been taken abroad by the British Consul under sect. 270 of the above Act, was captain of a British sailing vessel, which was stated, after examination of the official records, by an officer of the Board of Trade, never to have been in this country. When some of the other witnesses left the captain, he was in charge of the vessel at Bordeaux, but it was not known where she was then bound for, or whether he had since sailed:—Held: it was sufficiently proved that the witness was not in the United Kingdom, & his deposition was accordingly admitted in evidence.—R. v. ANDERSON (1868), 32 J. P. 760; 11 Cox, C. C. 154.

4673. ——]—Witnesses whose evidence had been taken abroad by the British Vice-Consul under sect. 270 of the above Act, were officers of a British sailing vessel, which was stated, after examination of the official records, by an officer of the Board of Trade never to have been in this country:—Held: it was sufficiently proved that the witnesses were not in the United Kingdom, & the depositions were accordingly admitted in evidence.—R. v. CONNING (1868), 32 J. P. 199; 11 Cox, C. C. 134.

4674. ——]—Witnesses whose evidence had been duly taken at New York by the British Consul-General under sect. 270 of the above Act, were seamen of a British sailing vessel which was proved by affidavits to be still at sea & none of the witnesses were likely to be in the United Kingdom for many months:—Held: the affidavits sufficiently proved that the witnesses were out of the United Kingdom, their depositions were read & prisoner convicted & sentenced.—R. v. STEWART (1876), 13 Cox, C. C. 296.

E. Identification of Accused.

See Sect. 2, ante.

F. Corroboration.

See Sect. 11, sub-sect. 4, post.

SECT. 7.—BEST EVIDENCE.

See EVIDENCE.

SECT. 8.—HEARSAY EVIDENCE.

See, generally, EVIDENCE.

4675. Statement by deceased person—Made in the course of employment—In absence of accused.]

R. v. BUCKLEY, No. 2878, ante.

BLANDY, No. 4652, ante.

4677. ——]—Conversations between deceased & others, immediately preceding her death, are admissible in order to show the condition she was in at the time of making a particular statement.—R. v. DALMAS (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 243; 9 J. P. 120; 1 Cox, C. C. 95.

4678. ——]—On a trial for murder by poisoning, statements made by deceased in conversation shortly before the time at which the poison is supposed to have been administered, are evidence to prove the state of his health at that time.—R. v. JOHNSON (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 354.

4679. ——]—In absence of accused.]—A complaint by a deceased child of being hungry, although made in the absence of prisoners, was admitted in evidence.—R. v. CONDE (1867), 10 Cox, C. C. 547.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Gibbins & Proctor (1918), 82 J. P. 287; R. v. Chattaway & Chattaway (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 7.

4680. ——]—Upon an indictment of murder, statements made by deceased, in the absence of prisoner, are admissible as evidence of the bodily condition of deceased, so far as they relate to symptoms contemporaneous with the making of the statement, in order to prove that her death resulted from the condition she was then in. Such statements are, however, inadmissible so far as they narrate the cause of the symptoms, & cannot be given in evidence to prove that the condition of deceased was caused by the crime had been committed not by him but by another seaman also a foreigner on board the same vessel, & that the said seaman who was now out of the country, had made verbal statements & had also signed a written document, confessing his own guilt & absolving

PART XII. SECT. 8.

c. General rule—Inadmissible.—]—is incorrect in a medical report to include any statement of circumstances from hearsay evidence, & when a report containing such a statement is given in, the sheriff ought to send it back to be corrected.—Re SHIELDS (1846), Arkley, 171.—SCOT.

d. ——]—In the trial of a foreigner, a seaman on board of a foreign ship, for the crime of assault, special defences were lodged for the panel setting forth inter alia that the

Sect. 8.—Hearsay evidence. Sects. 9, 10, 11 & 12:
Sub-sect. 1.]

act of any particular person.—R. v. GLOSTER (1888), 16 Cox, C. C. 471.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Thomson, [1912] 3 K. B. 19. Mentd. R. v. Abbott (1903), 67 J. P. 151; R. v. Perry, [1909] 2 K. B. 697.

4681. ——— In presence of accused.]—R. v. BLACK, No. 4152, ante.

Statements against interest.]—See EVIDENCE.

4682. Proof of marriage—Evidence of reputation & cohabitation.]—R. v. ATKINSON (1814), 1 Russell on Crimes & Misdemeanours, 8th ed., p. 103.

4683. ———.]—Where, on the trial of a man & woman for larceny, it appears by the evidence that they addressed each other as husband & wife, & passed & appeared as such, & were so spoken of by the witnesses for the prosecution, it will be for the jury to say whether they are satisfied that they are in fact husband & wife, even though the woman pleaded to the indictment which described her as a single woman. In such a case a female prisoner ought not to be indicted as a single woman.—R. v. WOODWARD (1838), 8 C. & P. 561.

See, also, Part I., Sect. 5, sub-sect. 4, ante; Part XXVII., Sect. 1, post.

4684. Fact of & result of inquiries.]—A witness having stated that, by inquiries, he traced prisoners from place to place:—Held: the witness might properly say that he made inquiries, & in consequence of directions given to him in answer to those inquiries, he followed prisoners from place to place until he apprehended them.—R. v. WILKINS (1849), 4 Cox, C. C. 92.

4685. ———.]—Deft. was charged with conspiring with two other persons to obtain goods by false pretences from various tradesmen. During the trial a deputy chief constable was called & asked, with reference to a shop opened by one of the persons charged, who had pleaded guilty, "Did you make inquiries as to whether any trade had been done?" The answer was, "I did." He was then asked "Did you, as a result of such inquiries, find that any trade had been done?" & he answered, "I did not":—Held: this evidence was inadmissible, & the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. SAUNDERS, [1899] 1 Q. B. 490; 68 L. J. Q. B. 296; 80 L. T. 28; 63 J. P. 150; 15 T. L. R. 186; 43 Sol. Jo. 245, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Albutt & Screen (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 55; R. v. Yeldham (1922), 128 L. T. 28.

4686. ———.]—Applt. had set up an alibi, & had got the governor of the prison to write a letter to a shopkeeper in L., making inquiries as to prisoner's movements; a reply was received to the effect that a police constable had called at the shop & would communicate with B. The chairman read the panel:—Held: it was not competent to prove the verbal statements by the evidence of those persons to whom they were made.—Re CAVALARI (1854), 1 Irv. 564.—SCOT.

4687 i. Conversation with witness not called.]—A person was convicted in a ct. of petty sessions for an offence under Police Offences Act, 1890, Part IV. At the trial, evidence was given by a witness for the prosecution that another person had stated certain facts with regard to accused. The person who made the statements was not called as a witness. Accused gave no evidence with regard to these statements:—Held: this evidence was wrongfully received in proof of the guilt of accused.—DUNCAN v. PILCHER (1895), 21 V. L. R. 412.—AUS.

4687 ii. ———.]—On the trial of an

that letter to the jury in his summing up, & at that point B. was called into the witness box & gave hearsay evidence as to applt. having been seen in L., but not on the day on which the burglary was committed:—Held: the evidence was clearly inadmissible.—R. v. CAMPBELL (1912), 77 J. P. 95; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 75, C. C. A.

4687. Conversation with a witness not called.]—Applt. was convicted of stealing a pair of glasses in a shop. The witness for the Crown who spoke of the theft at the police ct. said that the glasses stolen were Zeiss glasses. This witness was ill at the time of the trial, & being unable to attend, his depositions at the police ct. were read. A pair of glasses were produced from the custody of a pawnbroker, which the prosecution alleged to be the stolen glasses. These glasses were identified by another witness as the property of the firm from whom the pair of glasses had been stolen, but he said that these glasses were Busch glasses. He explained the inconsistency by stating that the other witness who was ill had made a mistake at the police ct. in saying that the stolen glasses were Zeiss glasses, & that he knew this mistake had been made as the other witness had told him so. The ct. quashed the conviction on the ground that the judge at the trial had not told the jury to ignore the conversation spoken to between the two witnesses as being hearsay, but had, on the contrary, suggested to the jury what it was likely the witness who was ill might have said had he come into the box & given evidence.—R. v. RUFFINO (1911), 76 J. P. 49; sub nom. R. v. RUFINO, 7 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

4688. Existence of rumour.]—Evidence of the fact of a rumour is no evidence of the knowledge of a particular individual & is not within any of the exceptions to the rule which excludes the reception of hearsay evidence.—R. v. GUNNELL (1886), 55 L. T. 786; 51 J. P. 279; 3 T. L. R. 209; 16 Cox, C. C. 154, C. C. R.

4689. As evidence for defence—Perjury—Statement made by witness now dead.]—On a prosecution for perjury, where, on the part of the prosecution, the depositions of a deceased person were offered in evidence, & upon the cross-examination of prosecutor's witness, certain declarations of deceased witness, not upon oath, were proved for the purpose of corroborating the facts stated in his depositions, in a matter material to deft.:—Held: evidence of such declarations was not admissible.—R. v. PARKER (1783), 3 Doug. K. B. 242; 99 E. R. 634.

4690. ——— To rebut contents of dying declaration.]—In an indictment for manslaughter, it is not competent to prisoner to give evidence of a statement made by deceased, as to the cause of the accident 24 hours after it had occurred, unless any dying declarations had been proved on the indictment for riot, evidence of general conversations between a witness & the person at whose house prisoners were alleged to have committed the riot was not allowed to be given.—R. v. MAILLOUX (1876), 3 Pug. 493.—CAN.

4688 i. Existence of rumour.]—Evidence that there are rumours in a particular place that a man has committed acts of extortion on various occasions, & generally that he is a man of bad character, is not evidence of general repute under Criminal Procedure Code, s. 117. Evidence of rumour is mere hearsay evidence of a particular fact.—RAI ISRI PERSHAD v. R. (1895), 1 L. R. 23 Calc. 621.—IND.

e. Statement by third party.]—Evidence of the statements of a child not made in the witness box is inadmissible as against the guardian as they are statements by a third party & are hearsay.—SLAPE v. BYRNE (1918), S. A. L. R. 313.—AUS.

f. ———.]—N. was charged with having made a false statement before a sub-registrar in identifying K. During the hearing of the case it was sought to prove a statement made by R. to a third party, R. having died previous to the institution of the case, to the effect that N. had told him certain facts:—Held: the statement made by R. to the third party was inadmissible.—NOBIN KRISHNA MOOKERJEE v. RASSICK LALL LAHA (1884), 1 L. R. 10 Calc. 1047.—IND.

g. Report of evidence given before committee of House of Commons.]—At the hearing of a criminal charge fact of the prosecution. In that case it would be competent to prisoner to contradict such evidence by proving the previous statement of deceased.—R. v. BROWN (1840), 4 J. P. 445.

4691. — Rape—Statement made by third party in presence of prosecutrix.—R. v. ARNALL (1861), 8 Cox, C. C. 439.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Holmes & Furness (1871), 41 L. J. M. C. 12.

4692. — Abortion—Death of woman from other cause—Statement by deceased woman as to procurement of abortion by herself.—R. v. THOMSON, No. 3997, ante.

SECT. 9.—DYING DECLARATIONS.

See Part XXIII., Sect. 1, sub-sect. 1, Q. (b), post.

SECT. 10.—DEPOSITIONS AND STATEMENTS.

Depositions & statements of witnesses, see Part VII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 6, G., ante.

Depositions of absent witness, see Part VII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 6, E., ante.

before a county judge, sitting as police magistrate, evidence given before a special committee of the House of Commons, & taken by stenographers, was tendered before the magistrate & refused by him:—Held: the ct. had no power to grant a mandamus to the county judge directing him to receive such evidence.—R. v. CONNOLLY (1891), 22 O. R. 220.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 1.

h. Whether competent—Witness under death sentence.—GRAEME v. GLOBE PRINTING CO. (1890), 10 C. L. T. Occ. N. 367.—CAN.

k. ——On an indictment for murder against depts., the evidence of one T., convicted of murder & under sentence of death, was tendered by the Crown:—Held: he was a competent witness.—R. v. HATCH, MURRAY & HATCH (1909), 7 E. L. R. 502.—CAN.

l. ——Prisoner under sentence of death confined in any prison is a competent witness in any ct. of criminal jurisdiction & is bound to attend upon the order of the judge.—R. v. KUZIN (1915), 30 W. L. R. 803; 8 W. W. R. 166; 21 D. L. R. 378.—CAN.

m. ——A person under sentence of death is a competent witness in a criminal trial.—R. v. TOM (1914), T. P. D. 317.—S. AF.

n. — Sentence commuted.—A person who has been sentenced to death is competent to give evidence after his sentence has been commuted.—R. v. UMHLAHLU (1904), 25 N. L. R. 264.—S. AF.

o. — Co-prisoner.—A co-deft. in a criminal case cannot be compelled to testify, but he may do so if he sees fit.—R. v. CONNORS, [1893] Q. R. 3 Q. B. 100.—CAN.

p. — Acquitted.—Where a witness has been rightly, by direction of the ct., acquitted, he may be examined for the prosecution.—R. v. O'BRYEN (1857), 28 L. T. O. S. 360.—IR.

q. — Fresh charge.—On first B. & C. having been charged with theft, the charge was not proceeded with against A. & B. C. pleaded guilty & was conditionally released under First Offenders Act, 1887 (c. 25).

The prosecutor having brought a new complaint against A. & B., tendered C. as a witness:—Held: C.'s evidence was admissible.—TODD v. PRIESTLY (1905), 7 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 94; 42 Sc. L. R. 742; 13 S. L. T. 253.—SCOT.

r. — While plea of not guilty stands.—A man jointly indicted with others, & who has pleaded not guilty, cannot be a witness for the prosecution whilst his plea stands.—R. v. RYAN (1822), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 5.—IR.

s. — As witness for & against co-prisoner.—Two persons accused of the same offence, but by two separate indictments, are competent as witnesses either in favour of the Crown & against one another, or the one for the other, & that, even where a verdict has been rendered against them, provided that sentence has not been pronounced.—R. v. TELLIER, R. v. PELLETIER (1870), 1 R. L. O. S. 565.—CAN.

t. — Aboriginal.—A judge has power under Act of 1900, No. 20, s. 13, to treat a full-grown aboriginal as incompetent to take an oath, without examining him as to his religious belief, or having some evidence before him of the witness's incompetency.—R. v. SMITH (1906), 6 S. R. N. S. W. 85.—AUS.

u. — Enemy alien.—Objection to the admissibility of a witness, in a charge of theft, that he was the subject of a nation with which Great Britain was at war, repelled.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. M'GUIRE (1857), 2 Irv. 620.—SCOT.

v. — Epileptic witness.—Evidence of epileptic witness was admitted, with the caution to the jury that they could not safely proceed upon it except in so far as it was corroborated by other witnesses.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. STOTT (1894), 1 Adam, 386.—SCOT.

w. — Persons interested—Forgery.—Prisoner was indicted for forging an order for the delivery of goods. The only witnesses examined were the person whose name was forged & the person to whom the order was addressed, & who delivered the goods thereon; & there was no corroborative testimony:—Held: not sufficient evidence.—R. v. GILES (1856), 6 C. P. 84.—CAN.

x. ——R. v. McDONALD (1871), 31 U. C. R. 337.—CAN.

y. ——R. v. BANNERMAN (1878), 43 U. C. R. 547.—CAN.

z. ——R. v. FARRELL (1888), 1 Terr. L. R. 166.—CAN.

Statement of accused at preliminary examination before magistrate, see Part VII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 6, F.; Part XII., Sect. 5, sub-sect. 2, ante.

Statements of persons other than accused, see Part XII., Sect. 4, sub-sect. 5, ante.

Complaints, see Part XII., Sect. 4, sub-sect. 6, ante.

SECT. 11.—CREDIBILITY OF WITNESSES.

See EVIDENCE.

SECT. 12.—COMPETENT AND COMPELLABLE WITNESSES.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

See EVIDENCE.

4693. Person in court—Called as witness—Although not subpoenaed.—In a criminal case, a person, who is present in ct., when called as a witness, is bound to be sworn & to give his evidence, although he has not been subpoenaed.—R. v. SADLER (1830), 4 C. & P. 218.

g. ——R. v. HAGERMAN (1888), 15 O. R. 598.—CAN.

aa. ——R. v. SELBY (1888), 16 O. R. 255.—CAN.

bb. ——R. v. DEEGAN (1889), 6 Man. L. R. 81.—CAN.

cc. ——R. v. RHODES (1892), 22 O. R. 480.—CAN.

dd. ——R. v. MCBRIDE (1895), 26 O. R. 639.—CAN.

ee. ——HOULE v. R. (1905), Q. R. 15 K. B. 170.—CAN.

ff. ——Deft. was tried before a judge & jury & convicted of forging the name of J. as maker of three promissory notes. J. had actually made three promissory notes in favour of deft., who had endorsed them to a bank as collateral security for an indebtedness. Deft., needing money, offered to sell these notes to P., who agreed to purchase them, but the bank declined to give them up. Deft. obtained from the bank copies of the three notes, minus the signatures, & afterwards handed over to P. what purported to be three notes signed by J. & endorsed by deft. & his brother, & received from P. the price bargained for. J. swore that the maker's signature upon the notes was not his, & two of the bank officers testified, as did deft. himself:—Held: there was sufficient corroboration of the testimony of J. to satisfy Criminal Code, s. 1002.—R. v. SCHELLER (1914), 27 W. L. R. 621.—CAN.

gg. ——R. v. MAGNOLO 32 D. L. R. 512.—CAN.

hh. Whether compellable—Co-prisoner.—A co-deft. in a criminal case cannot be compelled to testify.—R. v. CONNORS (1893), Q. R. 3 Q. B. 100.—CAN.

kk. — Parent as witness against child.—A parent adduced as a witness against his child has an option to decline to give evidence.—LORD ADVOCATE v. HERVEY (1835), 13 Sh. (Ct. of Sess.) 1170; 10 Fac. Coll. 30.—SCOT.

ll. — Witness adduced by public prosecutor.—A person adduced by a public prosecutor as a witness in a criminal trial cannot refuse to give evidence on the ground that his evidence may implicate him as a socius criminis, the law being that the fact of his having been adduced as a witness by the prosecutor ipso facto discharges him from all liability to prosecution.—MACMILLAN v. MURRAY, [1920] S. C. (J.) 13.—SCOT.

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses: Sub-sect. 2, A., B. & C. (a).]

2.—EVIDENCE OF ACCUSED.

A. On own Behalf.

4694. General rule—Every criminal charge—Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), ss. 1, 6.]—Applt. was charged before a ct. of summary jurisdiction with an offence under Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1894 (c. 41), & gave evidence on his own behalf as that Act permits. He was asked in cross-examination whether he had not been previously convicted of a similar offence, & answered that he had. The Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, enables "every person charged with an offence "to give evidence on his own behalf; but "a person charged & called as a witness in pursuance of this Act" shall not be asked or required to answer any question of any other offence than that with which he is charged. By s. 6 "this Act shall apply to all criminal proceedings, notwithstanding any enactment in force at the commencement of this Act."

The ct. of summary jurisdiction convicted applt.:—Held: Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, applied; the evidence of the applt.'s previous conviction was wrongly admitted, & therefore, the conviction was bad.—CHARNOCK v. MERCHANT, [1900] 1 Q. B. 474; 69 L. J. Q. B. 221; 82 L. T. 89; 64 J. P. 183; 48 W. R. 334; 16 T. L. R. 139; 44 Sol. Jo. 196; 19 Cox, C. C. 443, D. C.

Annotations:—Consd. Jenkins v. Feit (1922), 129 L. T. 95. Reid. Barker v. Arnold (1911), 27 T. L. R. 374.

4695. May be cross-examined.]—Where a prisoner is on his trial for an offence in which he may & does give evidence, he may be cross-examined to the same extent as in the case of an ordinary witness.—R. v. GAWTHROP (1895), 59 J. P. 377.

4696. — To incriminate co-defendant.]—A prisoner who is called as a witness for the defence may be cross-examined by counsel for the prosecution in order to incriminate another prisoner charged jointly with him.—R. v. PAUL, R. v. McFARLANE, [1920] 2 K. B. 183; 89 L. J. K. B.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.—A.

4694 i. General rule—Every criminal charge—Evidence Act, 1898.]—Under Evidence Act, 1898 (s. 5), an accused person is a competent witness upon his own trial.—R. v. WHITE (1898), 20 N. S. W. L. R. 12; 15 N. S. W. N. 197.—AUS.

t. ———.]—R. v. AHO (1904), 25 C. L. T. 50; 11 B. C. R. 114; 8 Can. Crim. Cas. 453.—CAN.

a. ———.]—By Crimes Act, 1900 (N.S.W.), s. 407, every accused person in a criminal proceeding shall be competent, but not compellable to give evidence in such proceeding.—JACKSON v. R., [1918] 25 C. L. R. 113.—AUS.

b. Cannot be compelled to furnish specimen of handwriting.]—A prisoner, specimen of his handwriting.—R. v. GRINDER (1905), 11 B. C. R. 370.—CAN.

c. Not allowed—Before 1898 Act.]—Deft. on his trial upon an indictment cannot give evidence for himself.—R. v. HUMPHREYS (1853), 9 U. C. R. 337.—CAN.

d. ———.] Assault occasioning bodily harm.]—Where a prisoner was indicted under 32 & 33 Vict., c. 20, s. 47 (D), for an assault occasioning bodily harm:—Held: he could not be deemed to be on his trial on an indictment for a common assault, so as to entitle him to be admitted & give evidence as witness on his own ———, under 41 Vict., c. 18, s. 1 (D).—R. v. BONTRE (1879), 30 C. P. 19.—CAN.

——]—On an indictment for assault & battery, occasioning actual bodily harm:—Held: deft. is not a competent witness on his own behalf under 43 Vict. c. 37 (D).—R. v. RICHARDSON (1880), 46 U. C. R. 375.—CAN.

f. ———.]—On an indictment for assault & battery occasioning actual bodily harm accused, at the close of the evidence for the prosecution, asked to be sworn & examined as a witness on his own behalf. The trial judge held that he was not in a position to find that the only case apparently made out was one of common assault or assault & battery, & refused to allow the evidence:—Held: accused was not a competent witness on his own behalf under R. S. C., c. 174, s. 216.—R. v. DRAIN (1892), 8 Man. L. R. 535.—CAN.

g. ———.] Indecent assault—Where offence proved.]—Prisoner was indicted for an indecent assault. At the close of the case for the Crown prisoner tendered himself as a witness in his own behalf. The judge at the trial ruled that as upon the evidence adduced an indecent assault had been proved, prisoner could not be a witness:—Held: the conviction must be affirmed.—R. v. McDONALD (1878), 30

801; 123 L. T. 336; 84 J. P. 144; 36 T. L. R. 418; 64 Sol. Jo. 447; 26 Cox, C. C. 619; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

4697. — Though answer incriminates another person.]—A deft. giving evidence under the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), is not dispensed from answering a question merely because his answer might tend to criminate some other person.—R. v. MINIHANE (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

4698. Not allowed—Before grand jury.]—R. v. RHODES, No. 4057, ante.

4699. — —.]—A person charged with an offence has no right to give evidence on his own behalf before the Grand Jury.—R. v. SAUNDERS (1898), 63 J. P. 24; 15 T. L. R. 104, C. C. R. Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Yeldham (1922), 128 L. T. 28.

4700. Time for giving evidence—Whether after plea of guilty—In mitigation of sentence.]—Prisoner is not entitled to give evidence on oath in mitigation of his sentence after he has pleaded guilty.—R. v. HODGKINSON & MANNING (1900), 64 J. P. 808. Annotations:—Dbtd. R. v. Bright (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 69; R. v. Wheeler, [1917] 1 K. B. 283.

4701. — —.]—Evidence given between a plea of guilty & sentence is given at a stage of the proceedings within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1.

Sect. 2 of the Act does not exhaust the opportunities for deft. giving evidence upon oath.

It is very difficult to say that, in an enabling Act of this kind, the legislature wished to prevent prisoner giving evidence except at this particular time in all cases or that he cannot go into the witness box after he has pleaded guilty. It would be a harshness to prisoner (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. WHEELER, [1917] 1 K. B. 283; 86 L. J. K. B. 40; 116 L. T. 161; 81 J. P. 75; 33 T. L. R. 21; 61 Sol. Jo. 100; 25 Cox, C. C. 603; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

B. For Co-defendant.

4702. One defendant competent to give evidence on behalf of another—Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1.]—If one of two prisoners charged jointly in the same indictment gives evidence on behalf of the other, he is a competent witness for

C. P. 21, n.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.—B.

h. One defendant competent to give evidence on behalf of another—Where separately indicted.]—Two persons accused of the same offence, but in two separate indictments, are competent as witnesses in favour of the Crown, & against one another, or the one for the other, & that even when a verdict has been rendered against them, provided the sentence has not been pronounced against them.—R. v. TELLER, R. v. PELLETTIER (1870), 1 R. L. O. S. 565.—CAN.

k. ———.]—When several persons are separately indicted, one of the persons indicted who has not been tried, is competent on the trial of any of the others who are indicted.—R. v. DUFFY (1833), 1 Craw. & D. 195.—IR.

l. ———.]—Where one of several panels pleaded guilty, the other panels, whose case went to trial, found entitled to the benefit of her evidence.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. WILSON (1860), 3 Irv. 623.—SCOT.

m. ———.] Not where indictment joint.]—When several persons are jointly indicted, any one of them, though not upon his trial, cannot be a witness for the others who are on their trials.—R. v. DUFFY (1833), 1 Craw. & D. 195.—IR.

n. ———.] Except after formal acquittal—Unless joined to exclude the defence within the meaning of the above Act.—R. v. McDONELL (OR McDONALD) (1909), 73 J. P. 490; 25 T. L. R. 808; 53 Sol. Jo. 745; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 322, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Paul, R. v. McFarlane, [1920] 2 K. B. 183.

4703. — Not compellable.—Applt. was not allowed at the trial to call a prisoner jointly indicted with him. The latter declined to give evidence for applt. unless he was compelled. The chairman ruled that, in the circumstances, he was neither a compellable nor a competent witness:—Held: the evidence was properly rejected.—R. v. JENNER (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

4704. One defendant giving evidence for another—May be cross-examined to show his own guilt.—R. v. ROWLAND, No. 4034, ante.

C. Cross-Examination as to Character.

(a) General Rule.

4705. Discretion of judge—To allow cross-examination as to character.—The trial judge has a discretion, with which the ct. is slow to interfere, whether he will allow cross-examination as to character under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f).

Qu.: whether evidence consistent both with the story of an accomplice-witness & of deft. is corroboration of the former.

If a witness is put forward by the prosecution as an accomplice & a man of bad character, & questions are asked in cross-examination by prisoner with a view of inducing the jury not to accept the evidence given by the witness, such questions may be imputations on the character of the witness within the meaning of the above section.—R. v. WATSON (1913), 109 L. T. 335; 29 T. L. R. 450; 23 Cox, C. C. 543; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 249, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 17.

4706. Whether admissible—Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1.—R. v. ELLIS, No. 3819, ante.

4707. ——Applt. was charged before justices sitting as a ct. of summary jurisdiction with an offence, & gave evidence on his own behalf. The solr. who appeared for the prosecution asked applt. in cross-examination whether he had been previously convicted of a similar offence. The justices disallowed the question as being contrary to Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f), & no answer was given to it, the solr., however, remarking that he had a certified copy of the conviction. The justices convicted applt., stating that the above mentioned incident was entirely ignored by them in arriving at their decision:—Held: though the question ought not to have been asked or the observation made, yet inasmuch as the decision of the justices was not affected thereby the conviction was not invalid.—BARKER v. ARNOLD, [1911] 2 K. B. 120; 80

L. J. K. B. 820; 105 L. T. 112; 75 J. P. 364; 27 T. L. R. 374; 22 Cox, C. C. 533, D. C.

Annotation:—Consd. Jenkins v. Feit (1923), 129 L. T. 95.

4708. ——Applt. was convicted of obtaining money by false pretences. He appealed on the ground that questions were put to applt. on cross-examination which only tended to show that he was of a generally fraudulent disposition contrary to the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f). The appeal was allowed.—R. v. WILSON (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 251; 79 J. P. Jo. 508, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Beecham, [1921] 3 K. B. 464.

4709. — Cross-examination placing accused in a dilemma—Of committing perjury or admitting previous conviction.—On charges of obtaining food & money by false pretences with intent to defraud, accused was undefended, & gave evidence on his own behalf. The cross-examination of accused was of such a nature that he would be compelled either to commit perjury or to admit a previous conviction:—Held: such cross-examination was irregular & contrary to the provisions of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f), & the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. HASLAM (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1511; 114 L. T. 617; 25 Cox, C. C. 344; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

4710. — Cross-examination in nature of a trap.—Where questions are put to a prisoner in cross-examination with the object of entrapping him into making imputations on the character of a witness for the prosecution, & he succeeds in doing so, the judge should not upon that ground admit evidence of previous convictions or of bad character pursuant to Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii).—R. v. GROUT, R. v. JONES (1909), 74 J. P. 30; 26 T. L. R. 59, 60; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 64, 67, C. C. A.

4711. ——The ct. is always inclined to interpret the answers of a prisoner in a way favourable to him, & the prosecution is not entitled to ensnare prisoner into making an attack on the prosecution.—R. v. SEIGLEY (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 106, C. C. A.

4712. ——Deft. was charged on indictment with manslaughter, it being alleged that by driving his motor car at an excessive speed he ran down & killed a boy. Deft. in cross-examination was repeatedly asked & pressed to answer the question whether he did not buy the motor car because it was capable of being driven at high speed, & he at last replied, "It did not appeal to me for that reason, because I do not care for driving at a high rate of speed myself." The prosecution, treating that statement as evidence given by deft. of his good character as a driver, then asked him whether he had not been repeatedly convicted of driving to the public danger, & deft., being required by the judge to reply, admitted that that was so. Deft. was convicted:—Held:

testimony.]—Where no evidence appears against one of several prisoners, he ought to be acquitted at the close of prosecutor's case. Qu.: whether without such formal acquittal he may be called as a witness for his co-prisoner; semble: not, unless it appear that he has been joined in order to exclude his testimony.—R. v. HAMBLY (1859), 16 U. C. R. 617.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.—C. (a).

o. Whether admissible.—R. v. D'Aoust (1902), 22 C. L. T. 228; 3 O. L. R. 653; 1 O. W. R. 344;

5 Can. Crim. Cas. 407.—CAN.

4709 i. — Cross-examination placing accused in dilemma—Of committing perjury or admitting previous conviction.—On a trial upon an indictment accused gave evidence on his own behalf & in the course of cross-examination was asked a question, the answer of which would have involved an admission, that he had been previously convicted. No circumstances existed that would have rendered the question a proper one, & the judge instructed accused not to answer & disallowed the question:—Held: inasmuch as the accused had not in fact answered the question the conviction must stand.—

R. v. REIMER (1910), 12 W. A. L. R. 91.—AUS.

p. — Question answered without objection.—Accused was tried before a judge & jury & convicted on a charge of theft of money from a passenger in a sleeping-car on a specified day. Accused, having testified on his own behalf, was cross-examined by counsel for the Crown, & asked questions relating to money which had been lost in sleeping-cars on other occasions when he had been, as suggested. In such cases. The questions were not objected to, & were answered by accused, who denied all knowledge of such losses. The Crown made no attempt to prove the method of cross-examination by which deft. had been led to make the above-quoted statement could not be approved; by making the statement in the circumstances he could not be taken to have given evidence of his good character within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), & therefore, he ought not to have been asked or required to answer the question as to his previous convictions & his evidence regarding them was inadmissible.—R. v. BEECHAM, [1921] 3 K. B. 464; 90 L. J. K. B. 1370; 85 J. P. 276; 37 T. L. R. 932; 65 Sol. Jo. 768; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses:
Sub-sect. 2, C. (a), (b), (c) & (d).]

4713. Time for taking objection.—Objections to questions or answers as to character must be taken by counsel at the moment.—R. v. FARRINGTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

4714. —.]—Technical objections to the admission of evidence must be taken at the trial.—R. v. BENSON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 70, C. C. A.

4715. —.]—Applt. was charged with having stolen money & a bank book from the prosecutor in a public-house; applt. & several other men were present at the time of the theft, & the bank book was found in the applt.'s pocket. The defence set up was that one or more of the other men had committed the theft & had put the bank book into applt.'s pocket, & when two of these men were called as witnesses for the prosecution, they were asked questions by applt.'s counsel with a view to show that they had committed the theft. Applt. was called as a witness for the defence &, without objection by his counsel, was asked questions by counsel for the prosecution as to a previous conviction:—Held: the nature & conduct of the defence were such as to involve imputations on the character of witnesses for the prosecution, within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), & therefore the accused could be cross-examined as to previous convictions.

The absence of objection by prisoner's counsel at the trial to the admissibility of the cross-examination as to previous convictions is not conclusive, but may have an important bearing upon the question whether prisoner should be allowed to raise the question of its admissibility on appeal.—R. v. HUDSON, [1912] 2 K. B. 464; 81 L. J. K. B. 861; 107 L. T. 31; 76 J. P. 421; 28 T. L. R. 459; 56 Sol. Jo. 574; 23 Cox, C. C. 61; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 256, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Watson (1913), 109 L. T. 335. Distd. R. v. Biggin, [1920] 1 K. B. 113.

4716. Questions by judge.—A judge in endeavouring to help a prisoner by showing that he had not a bad character, elicited the fact that he had been previously convicted. The evidence against prisoner was slight, but, although the judge warned the jury to pay no attention to the fact that had been elicited, he was convicted. The judge, in certifying that the case was fit for appeal on the ground of this error, said that he was not satisfied that it might not be possible that had it not been for this knowledge applt. might have been acquitted. The conviction was quashed.—R. v. HEMINGWAY (1912), 77 J. P. 15; 29 T. L. R. 13; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Redd, [1923] 1 K. B. 104.

4717. —.]—Prisoner, charged with looting a shop during a riot, alleged that he was pushed into the shop, & in giving evidence he stated that he had been in the army in 1916, 1917 & 1918, & in the merchant service in 1919. He was closely questioned by the recorder as to his alleged service in the army & merchant service, & was warned that if he persisted in his statements the matter would be pursued further. He admitted eventually that he was not in France in the early part of 1918, & that he was not in the army in 1916. He was convicted, & appealed on the ground that the questions asked were contrary to the provisions of the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, as tending to show that he was previously of bad character:—Held: the questions put by the recorder, taken either individually or as a whole, tended to show that accused was of bad character or had previously committed a criminal offence, & were improper; the ct. could not say that if the questions had not been put the jury were bound to arrive at the same verdict; the appeal must be allowed & the conviction quashed.—R. v. RATCLIFFE (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 135; 122 L. T. 384; 84 J. P. 15; 26 Cox, C. C. 554; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Redd, [1923] 1 K. B. 104.

4717a. Effect of inadmissible question.—Previous conviction.—If questions are asked, in the course of summary proceedings, of accused, which contravene Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f), it is not a universal rule that the information must be dismissed; the mere asking of such questions is not conclusive, but the ct. should consider whether the impression made upon its mind by these questions, or the answers given to them, can or cannot be effaced when the task of forming the judgment arises, & whether upon the rest of the evidence, that is to say, the evidence which is not open to any observation, the materials are such as to lead to a conviction.—JENKINS v. FEIT (1923), 129 L. T. 95; 87 J. P. 129; 39 T. L. R. 467; 67 Sol. Jo. 706; 27 Cox, C. C. 427, D. C.

(b) When relevant to Offence charged.

4718. Commission of other similar acts.—R. v. CHITSON, No. 4010, ante.

4719. —.]—R. v. THOMSON, No. 3997, ante.

4720. —.]—To substantiate identification.—PERKINS v. JEFFERY, No. 3941, ante.

4721. To rebut issue raised by defence.—Applt. & four other men were convicted for conspiring by means of false pretences to defraud the prosecutor, the false pretences alleged being the holding of a mock auction.

Defts. denied the false pretences & also alleged that they were all merely the servants of a woman who was the proprietress of the auction business. Applt. gave evidence & was asked in cross-examination whether it was not the fact that he & the proprietress of the business were at the date of the offence living together as man & wife. Applt. answered the question in the affirmative. Applt. appealed against his conviction on the ground that this question was a contravention of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f), in that it tended to show that he was a person of bad character:—Held: the defence having raised the issue that defts. were only the servants of the proprietress of the business, it was material to show what were the real relations existing between her & applt., & the question was therefore admissible.—R. v. KURASCH, [1915] 2 K. B. 749; 84 L. J. K. B.

the facts suggested. The trial judge directed the jury to disregard those questions & answers & any inferences suggested by them:—Held: full justice was done to accused by the trial judge's direction, & it was his duty to give such direction, independently of whether the questions were properly asked or not.—R. v. HURD (1913), 23 W. L. R. 812; 10 D. L. R. 475; 4 W. W. R. 185; 21 Can. Crim. Cas. 98.—CAN.

1497; 113 L. T. 431; 79 J. P. 399; 25 Cox, C. C. 55; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 166, C. C. A.

4722. —.]—When a matter is distinctly relevant to the defence set up, a question about it in cross-examination of deft. even though the answer may incriminate him is admissible within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii).—R. v. O'DONNELL (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 219, C. C. A.

4723. To corroborate evidence of accomplice.—R. v. KENNAWAY, No. 3922, ante.

See, also, Sect. 4, ante.

(c) When Accused or Witness gives Evidence of good Character.

4724. Witnesses to character.—If upon the trial of a prisoner he calls witnesses to character, the prosecutor may in answer show that he had previously been charged with or indicted for a similar offence.

But the prosecutor will not be allowed to give evidence of any such charge or indictment made & preferred contemporaneously with that under consideration. It must have been so made or preferred antecedently to be admissible on evidence.—R. v. ROGERS & ELLIOTT (1846), 10 J. P. 170.

4725. —. Not when evidence is unsolicited.—R. v. REDD, No. 3820, ante.

4726. Evidence by accused.—The ct. refused to reduce a sentence of 21 months' hard labour.

A statement to the jury of applt.'s previous conviction of which he complained was due to his defence that his character was good.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 20, C. C. A.

4727. —.]—Qu.: whether prisoner who gives evidence that he is in respectable employment

4728. —.]—Applt. was convicted of larceny. The appeal was upon the ground that there had been a miscarriage of justice owing to applt. having been cross-examined as to previous convictions.

Applt. went into the box, & after having said he was a Roman Catholic, asked to read a letter, which was allowed. In the letter applt. stated that he had attended mass & service for over 36 years, & that he had "never taken any article from his Faith." The letter showed that he was a member of several religious societies.

If prisoner merely calls the prosecutor or one of his witnesses a liar, his character cannot forthwith be attacked, but there is no ground whatever for granting leave to appeal (per Cur.).—R. v. FERGUSON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 250, C. C. A.

4729. —.]—Under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), a person charged with an offence & called as a witness, who has given evidence of his own good character, may be asked & required to answer a question tending to show that he has been convicted of an offence other than that with which he is then charged, notwithstanding that that other offence was committed subsequently to the offence with which he is then charged.—R. v. WOOD, [1920] 2 K. B. 179; 89 L. J. K. B. 435; 123 L. T. 335; 84 J. P. 92; 64 Sol. Jo. 409; 26 Cox, C. C. 617; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

— Elicited by cross-examination.—See Nos. 3821–3823, ante.

(d) When Defence involves Imputations on Character of Prosecutor or Witnesses for Prosecution.

He was for how

when he was arrested, "I am a respectable man; I am earning my living; I never robbed anyone of a penny." Upon this, cross-examination as to credit was introduced, & proceeded with in spite of objections:—Held: if applt. gave evidence of what he said to the police officer, & that was only to be taken to be evidence of that statement, a way out of the above Act was at once made, because prisoners would be told that they had merely to make a statement alleging good character when they were arrested, & that could be made evidence at the trial without their being themselves attacked, & evidence as to recent employment & its duration was not evidence of good character.—R. v. SOLOMON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Reid, Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Beecham, [1921] 3 K. B. 464.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.— C. (c).

4725 i. Witnesses to character.—Not when evidence is unsolicited.—Even after evidence of prisoner's good character has been made by the cross-examination of Crown witnesses, the prosecution is entitled to prove his general reputation & not particular acts of misconduct.—R. v. LONG (1902), Q. R. 11 K. B. 328.—CAN.

4726 i. Evidence by accused.—Prisoner in examination-in-chief gave evidence that she was a certified midwife & had carried on that business for 15 years at her house & used to deliver maternity cases there. In cross-examination she was asked, "How long is it since a child was born at your house?" & she answered "2½ years":—Held: the question was relevant & admissible as tending to rebut the defence that the acts of prisoner were not done to procure abortion & to answer evidence the effect of which was to suggest the good character of prisoner.—R. v. GRAHAM, [1915] V. L. R. 402.—AUS.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.— C. (d).

4733 i. What amounts to imputation.—Calling witness a liar—Insufficient.—Upon a trial by presentment for certain offences, one of the issues was whether or not prisoner was one of three persons

191, C. C. A.

4732. —. Attack on general veracity of prosecutor—Sufficient.—An attack on the general veracity of the prosecutor is a sufficient imputation within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), to justify cross-examination as to previous conviction.—R. v. RAPPOLT (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 156, C. C. A.

4733. —. Calling witness a liar—Insufficient.—Upon the trial of an indictment for conspiring by false pretences to induce the prosecutor to sell a mare, the prosecutor gave evidence that one of defts. had previously offered to buy the mare on credit. Deft. in question was called as a witness for the defence, & was asked in cross-examination, "Did you ask the prosecutor to sell you the mare in April, or has he invented all this?" To which he replied, "No, it is a lie, & he is a liar." Counsel who were driven in a motor-car on the occasion in question. A witness, who was the sole witness for the prosecution, identified prisoner as a person whom he had then driven. Prisoner pleaded not guilty & relied on the defence of alibi. After giving evidence he was cross-examined & in reply to questions stated that the witness was a liar & suggested that he was an accessory to another person who was then being tried for similar offences. He was thereupon, notwithstanding objection, cross-examined as to prior convictions which he admitted. On appeal:—Held: the answers in cross-examination in relation to the witness were part of the case for the prosecution & therefore the nature or conduct of the

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses: Sub-sect. 2, C. (d) & (e).]

for the prosecution was thereupon allowed to cross-examine deft. as to previous convictions:—Held: deft.'s answer amounted only to an emphatic denial of the truth of the charge against him; the nature or conduct of the defence was not such as to involve imputations on the character of the prosecutor within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), & therefore deft. was not liable to be cross-examined as to his previous character.—R. v. ROUSE, [1904] 1 K. B. 184; 73 L. J. K. B. 60; 89 L. T. 677; 68 J. P. 14; 52 W. R. 236; 20 T. L. R. 68; 48 Sol. Jo. 85; 20 Cox, C. C. 592, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Foll. R. v. Grout (1909), 26 T. L. R. 60. Refd. R. v. Bridgewater (1904), 74 L. J. K. B. 35; R. v. Hudson (1912), 76 J. P. 421; R. v. Jones (1923), 87 J. P. 147.

4734. — — — — —.]—R. v. FERGUSON, No. 4728, ante.

4735. — Suggestion that witness for prosecution committed the offence—Sufficient.—Where a prisoner makes a statement on oath in her own defence, to the effect that one of the witnesses for the prosecution committed the offence for which she is indicted, the nature of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of that witness within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, even though such statement relates only to facts material to the actual charge for which prisoner is then being tried, & not to any antecedent facts, & is not made for the purpose of casting imputations, but only as a necessary part of the defence.—R. v. MARSHALL (1899), 63 J. P. 36.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Hudson, [1912] 2 K. B. 464.

4736. — — — — —.]—R. v. HUDSON, No. 4715, ante.

4737. — Suggestion that prosecutrix a "drunken wastrel"—Sufficient.—R. v. HOLMES (1899), Times, Jan. 31.

4738. — Suggestion that witness keeps a disorderly house—Sufficient.—To suggest in cross-examination that a witness for the prosecution keeps a disorderly house falls within the express terms of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii) & exposes prisoner to the risk of his past life being inquired into.

By leave of ct. fresh evidence can be called for defence.—R. v. MORRISON (1911), 75 J. P. 272; 22 Cox, C. C. 214; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

4739. — Suggestion that prosecutor a habitual drunkard—Insufficient.—Applt. cross-examined the prosecutor with a view to showing that the prosecutor was not only drunk at the time he said he was robbed, but was a habitual drunkard. The judge allowed applt. to be cross-examined as to previous convictions:—Held: the imputations made by applt. did not bring the case within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), & therefore the conviction would be quashed.—R. v. WESTFALL (1912), 107 L. T. 463; 76 J. P. 335; 28 T. L. R. 297; 23 Cox, C. C. 185; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hudson, [1912] 2 K. B. 464. Refd. R. v. Roberts (otherwise Spalding) (1920), 37 T. L. R. 69.

defence did not involve imputation on the character of any witness for the prosecution within Crimes Act, 1915 (No. 2) (No. 2789), s. 2 (5) (b), & cross-examination as to prior convictions was inadmissible & conviction quashed.—R. v. EVERITT, [1921] V. L. R. 245.—AUS.

4735 i. — Suggestion that witness for prosecution committed the offence—

Sufficient.—At the trial of a charge of robbery & receiving, counsel for accused cross-examined a witness for the prosecution, with the view of showing that he was guilty of receiving the property alleged to have been stolen. Witness denied guilt. Accused gave evidence & leave was given to cross-examine him as to prior convictions on the ground that the nature

4740. — Imputations against witness of admittedly bad character—Sufficient.—R. v. WATSON, No. 4705, ante.

4741. — — — — —.]—To suggest that a witness for the prosecution, tendered as an accomplice & a person of bad character, has committed a crime other than that he has admitted, is an imputation within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1, (f) (ii).

The practice of the C. C. A. is to require corroboration of an accomplice's evidence even though it be not required by statute.—R. v. COHEN (1914), 111 L. T. 77; 24 Cox, C. C. 216; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 91, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658. Expld. R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933.

4742. — Suggestion that prosecution is due to desire for revenge—Sufficient.—A suggestion that the prosecution is due to a desire for revenge is an imputation within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii).—R. v. ROBERTS (OTHERWISE SPALDING) (1920), 37 T. L. R. 69; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 65, C. C. A.

4743. — Suggestion of consent in rape—Sufficient.—R. v. FISHER (1899), Times, Jan. 31; sub nom. R. v. —, 34 L. Jo. 100.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bridgewater (1904), 74 L. J. K. B. 35. Dbtd. R. v. Sheean (1908), 72 J. P. 232.

4744. — — — — —.]—Insufficient.—Prisoner was indicted for a rape upon a woman of full age. Sworn as a witness upon his own behalf he alleged that the acts complained of took place with the consent of the prosecutrix:—Held: this was not a defence such as to involve imputation on the character of the prosecutrix within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), so as to entitle the prosecution to cross-examine as to previous convictions.—R. v. SHEEAN (1908), 72 J. P. 232; 24 T. L. R. 459; 21 Cox, C. C. 561.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Preston, [1909] 1 K. B. 568. Refd. R. v. Morgan (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 157; R. v. Jones (1923), 87 J. P. 147. Mentd. R. v. Wright (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 131.

4745. — Suggestion that story of rape is invented—Sufficient.—Prisoner was indicted for rape upon a girl of 13. He gave evidence on his own behalf, & in cross-examination, he was asked whether the girl had invented the story, to which he replied that she had not invented it herself; & on being asked who had, said it was her mother, the prisoner's wife, who was a witness in the case. In answer to further questions prisoner said his wife wanted to get rid of him, & that he had heard his children say that another man had been coming to the house in his absence. Counsel for the prosecution then said, "You suspect your wife of immoral relations with another man," to which the prisoner replied, "Yes." Thereupon counsel for the prosecution was allowed to put questions to prisoner under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), as to his relations with another girl, who was a witness in the case, which, if established, amounted to a criminal offence, but the prisoner denied those relations. The prisoner was convicted:—Held: the answers given by prisoner in cross-examination were not necessary for the "conduct of the defence," & as they involved imputations on the character of or conduct of the defence involved imputations on the character of a witness for the prosecution. Accused was convicted. On appeal:—Held: under Crimes Act (No. 2), 1915, s. 2 (5), cross-examination of accused as to his prior convictions was rightly allowed.—R. v. MALCOLM, [1919] V. L. R. 596.—AUS.

a witness for the prosecution, the questions as to prisoner's relations with the other girl were properly allowed.—R. v. GROUT, R. v. JONES (1909), 74 J. P. 30 ; 26 T. L. R. 59, 60 ; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 64, 67, C. C. A.

4746. — Imputations on conduct of police.—Sufficient.]—R. v. FISHER, No. 4743, ante.

4747. — Insufficient.]—A prisoner who was arrested in possession of stolen property said in answer to the charge that he was acting under instructions from a detective, & at the trial at quarter sessions the detective was cross-examined as to whether he had not employed prisoner as an informer:—Held: the nature or conduct of the defence was not such as to involve imputations on the character of the witnesses for the prosecution under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), so as to render prisoner liable when called in his own defence to be cross-examined as to previous convictions.—R. v. BRIDGWATER, [1905] 1 K. B. 131 ; 74 L. J. K. B. 35 ; 91 L. T. 838 ; 69 J. P. 26 ; 53 W. R. 415 ; 21 T. L. R. 69 ; 49 Sol. Jo. 69 ; 20 Cox, C. C. 737, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Preston, [1909] 1 K. B. 568 ; R. v. Hudson, [1912] 2 K. B. 464. Refd. R. v. Westfall (1912), 107 L. T. 463 ; R. v. Watson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 249 ; R. v. Roberts (otherwise Spalding) (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 65 ; R. v. Jones (1923), 87 J. P. 147. Mentd. R. v. Biggin (1919), 83 J. P. 293.

4748. — ]—Upon the trial of an indictment for an offence one of the issues was whether deft. was the man who was seen near the place where the offence was committed. Two witnesses identified deft. at the police station as the man they had seen near the place, but a third person failed to identify him. With respect to this latter occasion deft. in his evidence stated that the police inspector, who was present on the occasion & who gave evidence for the prosecution, said to the constable who was sent to bring the person in for the purpose of seeing whether he could identify deft., "the second," or something like it ; that he, deft., was placed second from one end of a row of men ; & that the person who was brought in did not pick him out, but picked out the man who was second from the other end. Counsel for the prosecution was then allowed to ask deft. whether he had not been convicted on previous occasions. No reliance was placed upon the above evidence in support of the defence, nor was the defence conducted on the footing that the inspector's evidence ought not to be believed:—Held: the allegation of deft., so far as it reflected on the inspector, was made with reference to the conduct of the identification proceedings, which were relevant to the defence ; though the identification on the particular occasion had failed, & therefore the allegation was not strictly relevant to the defence, it was natural for deft. to make some comment on those proceedings ; & the nature or conduct of the defence was not such as to involve imputations on the character of the inspector within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), so as to allow deft. to be cross-examined as to previous convictions.—R. v. PRESTON, [1909] 1 K. B. 568 ; 78 L. J. K. B. 335 ; 100 L. T. 303 ; 73 J. P. 173 ; 25 T. L. R. 280 ; 53 Sol. Jo. 322 ; 21 Cox, C. C. 773 ; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 24, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hudson, [1912] 2 K. B. 464 ; R. v. Roberts (otherwise Spalding) (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 65 ; R. v. Jones (1923), 87 J. P. 147. Refd. R. v. Wright (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 131 ; R. v. Westfall (1912), 107 L. T. 463 ; R. v. Watson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 249 ; R. v. Biggin, [1920] 1 K. B. 213.

4749. — Sufficient.]—A suggestion by prisoner that admissions made by him when in custody were obtained from him by the bribes or threats of a police officer is an imputation within Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f) (ii), & on that ground questions as to applt.'s character were properly admitted.—R. v. WRIGHT (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

4750. — ]—During applt.'s trial on a charge of burglary his counsel, acting on instructions, stated that his client's case was that there was no genuine evidence against him, but that the police had invented a confession by him & had obtained four remands when the case was before the magistrates to enable them to perfect their scheme:—Held: the nature & conduct of the applt.'s defence was such as to involve imputations on the character of the police who had given evidence for the prosecution & he had rightly been cross-examined as to his previous convictions.—R. v. JONES (1923), 87 J. P. 147 ; 39 T. L. R. 457 ; 67 Sol. Jo. 751 ; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

4751. — Imputations on character of dead prosecutor.—Insufficient.]—Applt. was indicted for murder. The defence set up was that the act had been done in self-defence, the killed man having made improper overtures to the applt., & on these being rejected had violently assaulted him. Questions were addressed to applt. in cross-examination which had no relevance to the charge of murder, but which tended to show that applt. had previously committed an offence other than that for which he was being tried. No evidence had been given or questions asked to show that applt. had a good character. The questions although objected to, were admitted on the grounds that the dead man was the prosecutor & that the defence involved an imputation upon his character, & because they tended to show that applt. did not always speak the truth. Applt. was convicted of manslaughter & appealed:—Held: the questions were not admissible on the ground that the defence involved an imputation on the character of the dead man inasmuch as he was not the prosecutor within the meaning of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (4), & the questions were not admissible to prove that applt. did not always speak the truth, & therefore the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. BIGGIN, [1920] 1 K. B. 213 ; 89 L. J. K. B. 99 ; 83 J. P. 293 ; 36 T. L. R. 17 ; 26 Cox, C. C. 545 ; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 87, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Ratcliffe (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 135.

4752. Whether warning to accused necessary.]—R. v. BENSON, No. 4714, ante.

4753. Accused not to be trapped into attacking prosecution.]—R. v. GROUT, R. v. JONES, No. 4710, ante.

4754. — ]—R. v. SEIGLEY, No. 4711, ante.

(e) When Evidence given against Another for same Offence.

4755. Evidence against co-defendant—Right to cross-examine.]—Where a deft. gives evidence on his own behalf, counsel for another deft. cannot ask him further questions on behalf of his client without giving the prosecution the right of reply. But if the evidence given by the witness has been hostile to another deft., counsel for such deft. has the right to cross-examine without giving such right of reply.—R. v. PAGET (1900), 64 J. P. 281.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 2.—C. (e).

4755 i. Evidence against co-defendant J.—VOL. XIV.

—Right to cross-examine.—Where two persons were jointly indicted the evidence of one is legally admissible to inculcate the other & the latter is entitled to cross-examine the former.—R. v. MARRIOTT (1908), 8 S. R. N. S. W. 350.—AUS.

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses:
Sub-sect. 2, C. (e); sub-sect. 3, A. (a).]

4756. — As to character.]—The Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), was passed, the object of which was to enable prisoners to be called as witnesses on their own behalf. . . . I think that it occurred to the Legislature that cases might arise, where prisoners were jointly indicted, in which one prisoner might give evidence attacking the other prisoner, because clause (f) of s. 1, after limiting the right to cross-examine a prisoner, by providing that he shall not be asked questions tending to show that he has committed other offences or is of bad character, goes on to remove that restriction in certain cases, one of which is, where prisoner "has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence." I think that the most ordinary case of that would be where there are two or more prisoners jointly indicted. . . . I think that the ordinary case of two or more prisoners being jointly indicted for the same offence is exactly the case where general cross-examination ought to be allowed (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. HADWEN, [1902] 1 K. B. 882; 71 L. J. K. B. 581; 86 L. T. 601; 66 J. P. 456; 50 W. R. 589; 18 T. L. R. 555; 20 Cox, C. C. 206, C. C. R.
Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Hunting & Ward (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 177; R. v. Macdonnell (or Macdonald) (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 322; R. v. Paul, R. v. McFarlane, [1920] 2 K. B. 183.

SUB-SECT. 3.—EVIDENCE OF WIFE OR HUSBAND OF ACCUSED.

A. At Common Law.

(a) For or against Accused.

4757. General rule—Not admissible.]—ANON. (1612), 1 Brownl. 47; 123 E. R. 656.

4758. — ]—A wife cannot be admitted, at common law, to give evidence against her husband or vice versa, in any indictable crime other than treason.—GRIGGS'S CASE (1660), T. Raym. 1; 83 E. R. 1.

4759. — ]—A wife shall not be called in any case to give evidence even tending to criminate her husband. In a case of settlement, where a marriage in fact had been proved between two paupers, the first wife of the husband is not a competent witness to prove a former marriage with him, because such evidence shows him to have been guilty of bigamy.—R. v. CLIVIGER (INHABITANTS) (1788), 2 Term Rep. 263; 100 E. R. 143.

Annotations:—Dbtd. R. v. All Saints Worcester (1817) 6 M. & S. 194. Consd. R. v. Bathwick (1831), 2 B. & Ad. 639. Refd. Aveson v. Kinnaird (1805), 6 East, 188. Henman v. Dickinson (1828), 5 Bing. 183; Stapleton v. Crofts (1852), 18 Q. B. 367.

4760. — ]—Husbands & wives cannot in any case be witnesses either for or against each other.—DAVIS v. DINWOODY (1792), 4 Term Rep. 678; 100 E. R. 1241.

Annotations:—Consd. Gregg v. Taylor (1828), 5 Russ. 19. Refd. R. v. Bathwick (1831), 9 L. T. O. S. M. C. 103; Stapleton v. Crofts (1852), 18 Q. B. 367.

4761. — Conspiracy.]—Indictment against the wife of S. & others, for a conspiracy in procuring S. to marry:—Held: (1) S. was not a competent witness in support of the prosecution; (2) in all cases where husband & wife are admissible witnesses against each other, they are also admissible for each other.—R. v. SERJEANT (1826), Ry. & M. 352, N. P.

Annotation:—Refd. Reeve v. Wood (1864), 5 B. & S. 364.

4762. — ]—A wife is not an admissible witness against her husband in support of a charge of desertion of wife & children prepared by the parish under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83).

The general rule is that a wife is not admissible as a witness for or against her husband, except in civil cases. But in criminal matters, from an early period, beginning with Lord Audley's Case, No. 628, ante, there was an exception to the rule, which went on the principle that where the offence charged touches the person of the wife, & she must be cognisant of it, & may be the only person who is cognisant of it, then the wife is an admissible witness against her husband. That applies to all cases where there is personal violence inflicted by the husband on the wife (BLACKBURN, J.).—REEVE v. WOOD (1864), 5 B. & S. 364; 5 New Rep. 173; 34 L. J. M. C. 15; 34 L. J. Q. B. 24; 11 L. T. 449; 29 J. P. 214; 11 Jur. N. S. 201; 13 W. R. 154; 10 Cox, C. C. 58; 122 E. R. 867.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. London Corp. (1886), 16 Q. B. D. 772. Refd. Public Prosecutions Director v. Blady (1912), 106 L. T. 302.

4763. — Larceny of husband's property.]—Upon the trial of a married woman jointly with another person for larceny of the property

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 3.—
A. (a).

4757 i. General rule—Not admissible.]—On trial of deft. on an indictment, his wife cannot be admitted as a witness.—R. v. HUMPHREYS (1853), 9 U. C. R. 337.—CAN.

4757 ii. — ]—Evidence of a wife is inadmissible against her husband.—R. v. BROWN, [1920] C. P. D. 20.—S. AF.

a. — Bigamy.]—In a case of bigamy, the evidence of the first wife is not admissible, nor is that of the second wife until the first marriage is proved.—R. v. TUBBEE (1852), 1 P. R. 98.—CAN.

r. — ]—In an indictment for bigamy, the first wife cannot be allowed to testify either for or against prisoner.—R. v. MCQUIGGAN (1852), 2 L. C. R. 340.—CAN.

s. — ]—The first wife is not admissible as a witness to prove that her marriage with prisoner was invalid.—R. v. MADDEN (1857), 14 U. C. R. 588.—CAN.

t. — Assault on constable.]—An assault on a constable attempting to serve a summons issued by a magistrate on information charging violation of Canada Temperance Act, is an assault on a peace officer in the due execution of his duty, & indictable under R. S. C., c. 162, s. 31. On the trial of an indictment for such assault the wife of deft. is not a competent witness on his behalf.—MACFARLANE v. R. (1889), 16 S. C. R. 393.—CAN.

a. — Assault occasioning bodily harm.]—R. v. NAN-E-QUIS-A-KA (1889), 1 Terr. L. R. 211.—CAN.

b. — False pretences.]—In a prosecution for obtaining money by false pretences deft.'s wife is neither a competent nor a compellable witness for the Crown.—R. v. ALLEN (1913), 41 N. B. R. 516; 14 E. L. R. 40; 14 D. L. R. 825; 22 Can. Crim. Cas. 124.—CAN.

c. — Murder.]—On a trial for murder a woman was called as witness by the Crown, who had married accused according to Indian custom about 20 years previously & had several children by him. Accused had been married by Indian custom to two other women who were still living, but they had redeemed themselves, i.e., purchased their release from marriage by Indian custom before his marriage to witness. The witness gave evidence to the effect that a short time before this trial she had redeemed herself & left her husband:—Held: her evidence was not admissible.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1921), 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 126; 30 B. C. R. 303.—CAN.

d. — Adultery with native.]—Where the adulterer & the wife are charged jointly with a contravention of Natives Adultery Ordinance the evidence of the husband is inadmissible against the wife.—R. v. TSHALIANIKA & KETEKWA, [1917] S. R. 32.—S. AF.

e. — ]—R. v. ZINDE, [1917] S. R. 30.—S. AF.

f. — Rape on wife before marriage.]—A wife is not a competent witness to prove a charge of rape committed upon her by her husband before her marriage, where the parties have voluntarily lived together as man & wife since the marriage.—R. v. MCKAY, 2 J. R. N. S. 71.—N.Z.

g. — Indecent assault on wife before marriage.]—A wife will not be compelled to give evidence against her husband where he is charged with indecently assaulting & carnally knowing her before marriage.—R. v. GRIBICH (1910), 29 N. Z. L. R. 1045.—N.Z.

4763 i. — Larceny of husband's property.]—A wife living separate from her husband was charged with theft of her husband, the husband was called as a witness against his wife:—Held: the evidence of the husband was improperly received, & the conviction which had taken place founded upon it was bad as against both prisoners.—R. v. BRITTON (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 266; 53 L. J. M. C. 83; 276; 48 J. P. 295; 32 W. R. 463; 15 Cox, C. C. 431, C. C. R.

4764. ———.]—Deft. was charged before a ct. of summary jurisdiction under Vagrancy Act, 1898 (c. 39), s. 1, with knowingly living wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution. The person on the earnings of whose prostitution he was alleged to be living was his wife, & the prosecution was commenced by her:—Held: the wife was not an admissible witness for the prosecution under Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 4.—PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR v. BLADY, [1912] 2 K. B. 89; 81 L. J. K. B. 613; 106 L. T. 302; 76 J. P. 141; 28 T. L. R. 193; 22 Cox, C. C. 715.

4765. Exceptions to general rule—Treason.]—GRIGGS'S CASE, No. 4758, ante.

4766. ——— Where crime affects person of wife or husband—Crimes of violence.]—R. v. AUDLEY (LORD)* (1631), Hut. 115; 3 State Tr. 402; 123 E. R. 1140; sub nom. CASTLEHAVEN'S (EARL) CASE, 1 Hale, P. C. 629.

*Annotations:—N.F. Griggs's Case (1660), T. Raym. 1. Refd. Brown's Case (1673), 1 Vent. 243; R. v. Warden of the Fleet (1699), 12 Mod. Rep. 337; R. v. Azire (1725), 1 Stra. 633; R. v. Reading (1734), Cunn. 140; R. v. Serjeant (1826), Ry. & M. 352; R. v. Story (1849), 13 J. P. 766; Reeve v. Wood (1864), 5 B. & S. 364. Mentd. Manby v. Scot (1662), 1 Keb. 383; R. v. Morley (1666), 6 State Tr. 770; R. v. Clarence (1888), 22 Q. B. D. 23.

4767. ———.]—R. v. AZIRE* (1725), 1 Stra. 633; 93 E. R. 746.

4768. ———.]—Wife's evidence against husband allowed only for security of the peace; but she cannot sustain indictment against him.—SEDGWICK v. WALKINS (1789), 1 Ves. 49; 3 Bro. C. C. 11; 30 E. R. 224, L. C.

4769. ———.]—R. v. JAGGER* (1796), 1 East, P. C. 455.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Wakefield (1827), 2 Town. St. Tr. 112.

4770. ———.]—A married woman who consents to her husband's committing an unnatural offence with her is an accomplice in the felony, & as such, her evidence requires confirmation, although consent or nonconsent is quite immaterial to the offence.—R. v. JELLYMAN (1838), 8 C. & P. 604.

4771. ———.]—A man was indicted for shooting at his wife with intent to murder her. Previous to the commencement of his trial he applied to the judge to know whether his wife was to be produced as a witness for the prosecution. Counsel for the prosecution stated that he should not call her; & the judge told prisoner, that, although she was a competent witness against him, yet her presence was not indispensable.

The charge is one of personal violence to the wife, she is, therefore, a competent witness. But it is not indispensable that she should be called (BOSANQUET, J.).—R. v. PEARCE (1840), 9 C. & P. 667.

4772. ——— Abduction.]—R. v. BROWN* (1673), 3 Keb. 193; 1 Vent. 243; 84 E. R. 671.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Fezas (1690), 4 Mod. Rep. 8; Public Prosecutions Director v. Blady (1912), 106 L. T. 302.

4773. ———.]—Prisoner was indicted for a forcible marriage:—Held: the evidence of the wife was admissible on behalf of the husband to prove that the elopement & marriage were voluntary & not forced.—R. v. PERRY (1794), 2 Hawk. P. C. 8th ed. 601.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Serjeant (1826), Ry. & M. 352. Refd. R. v. Wakefield (1827), 2 Lew. C. C. 279.

4774. ———.]—A wife is competent against her husband in all cases affecting her liberty & person. Our law recognises witnesses ex necessitate (HULLOCK, B.).—R. v. WAKEFIELD (1827), 2 Lew. C. C. 279; 2 Town. St. Tr. 112; Mood. & M. 197, n.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Barratt (1840), 9 C. & P. 387. Refd. R. v. London Corp. (1886), 16 Q. B. D. 772; Public Prosecutions Director v. Blady (1912), 106 L. T. 302. Mentd. Field's Marriage Annulling Bill (1848), 2 H. L. Cas. 48.

4775. ——— Dying declaration in murder.]—R. v. WOODCOCK* (1789), 1 Leach, 500.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Dingle (1791), 2 Leach, 561; R. v. Quigley (1868), 18 L. T. 211. Apprvd. R. v. Perry, [1909] 2 K. B. 697. Refd. R. v. Perkins (1840), 2 Mood. C. C. 135; R. v. Dalmis (1844), 9 J. P. 120; R. v. Colclough (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 92; R. v. Gloster (1888), 16 Cox, C. C. 471.

4776. ———.]—R. v. JOHNS* (1790), 1 Leach, 504, n.

4777. ———.]—R. v. WELBOURN* (1792), 1 East, P. C. 358; 1 Leach, 505, n.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Colclough (1882), 15 Cox, C. C. 92.

4778. Rule restricted to persons legally married.]—The point at least doubtful, whether a woman living with a man as his wife, & having children by him, be admissible evidence to prove the fact of her never having been actually married to him.—CAMPBELL v. TWEMLOW (1814), 1 Price, 81; 145 E. R. 1337.

Annotations:—Refd. Batthews v. Galindo (1828), 4 Bing. 610. Mentd. Wade v. Malpas (1834), 2 Dowl. 638; Wilson v. King (1834), 2 Cr. & M. 689; Wilson v. Martin (1834), 3 L. J. C. P. 180; Armstrong v. Marshall (1836), 1 Har. & W. 643.

4779. ———.]—A kept mistress is not incompetent to give evidence for her protector, although she has passed by his name, & has appeared in the world as his wife.—BATTHEWS v. GALINDO (1828), 4 Bing. 610; 3 C. & P. 238;

29 N. Z. L. R. 371.—N.Z.

*k. Statement by wife to third person—Whether admissible against husband.]—*It is incompetent to examine the sister of the wife of accused the wife, in reference to the alleged commission of the crime of incest upon the panel's daughters, unless the statements were made on the day of the occurrence libelled, or as part of the

—H.M. ADVOCATE v. KEMP (1891), 3 White, 17.—SCOT.

*m. Evidence of wife in civil action.]—*A conviction for perjury was quashed & a new trial ordered, on the ground from her husband, & her husband was examined as a witness against her:—Held: the husband was not a competent witness against her & conviction quashed.—MUIRHEAD v. M'INTOSH (1886), 13 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 59, 93

wife is charged with wounding with intent to murder her husband, the husband is a competent, but not a compellable witness against the wife.—R. v. PHILLIPS, [1922] S. A. S. R. 276.—ATIS

4766 i. Exceptions to general rule—Where crime affects person of wife or husband—Crimes of violence.]—Prisoner was charged with feloniously & unlawfully wounding M. with intent

Held: her evidence was rightly admitted.—R. v. JONES (1877), Knox, 170.—AUS.

4766 ii. ———.]—*RIDDLE v. R., [1911] 12 C. L. R. 622.—AUS.

4766 iii. ———.]—Where a

Indictment for administering poison to wife:—Held: the wife might be a witness for the prosecution.—R. v. WASSON (1796), 1 Craw. & D. 197.—IR.

*h. Rule restricted to persons legally married—Customary marriage.]—*The rule of evidence to the effect that a wife cannot be compelled to give evidence against her husband has no appln. to a Maori customary marriage, & a Maori woman married according to native custom to a Maori man is a compellable witness against him in a criminal prosecution.—R. v. KINGI (1909),

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses:
Sub-sect. 3, A. (a) & (b) & B.; sub-sect. 4, A. & B.]

1 Moo. & P. 565; 6 L. J. O. S. C. P. 138; 130 F. R. 904, N. P.

Annotation:—Consd. Edwards v. Farebrother (1828), 2 Moo. & P. 293.

4780. —[Qu.: whether a woman who has gone through the ceremony of marriage with a man, can be allowed to prove the invalidity of the marriage & that she is not his wife. Semble: she may be examined upon the voir dire.—PEAT'S CASE (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 288.

4781. —[J.—A woman cohabiting with prisoner, & passing as his wife, is a competent witness for him.—R. v. YOUNG (1847), 9 L. T. O. S. 497; 2 Cox, C. C. 291.

4782. —[J.—One of two prisoners had married his deceased wife's sister:—Held: she was a competent witness against him upon his trial.

A witness for the prosecution was examined on the part of the prisoners on the voir dire, & deposed that she was married to one of them:—Held: she might be further examined on the voir dire, on the part of the prosecution, to prove that same prisoner had been previously married to her sister.—R. v. YOUNG & MUEZZELL (1851), 5 Cox, C. C. 296; sub nom. R. v. MUZZELL, 15 J. P. 597.

4783. Wife or husband must be actually charged. [J.—R. v. AST (1794), Car. C. L. 3rd ed. 66.

4784. —[J.—A. being tried for sheepstealing, it was proposed to call the wife of B. to prove that A. & B. had jointly stolen the sheep, B. having been convicted of it at the previous quarter sessions:—Held: the wife of B. was a competent witness.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1838), 8 C. & P. 284.

Annotation:—Consd. Hawkesworth v. Showler (1843), 12 M. & W. 45.

4785. —[J.—Prisoner was charged in the first count of an indictment with obtaining money from the trustees of a savings bank, by falsely pretending that a document presented to the bank by the wife of D. had been filled up by the authority of D.; & in the third count of the same indictment, prisoner was charged with conspiring with the wife of D. to cheat the bank. The evidence of D. was received, in proof of the first count, to show that he had given no authority to fill up the document or to withdraw the deposit:—Held: the evidence of D. was properly received in proof of the first count, his wife not being indicted, although she was alleged to be one of the parties to the conspiracy charged in the third count.—R. v. HALLIDAY (1860), Bell, C. C. 257; 29 L. J. M. C. 148; 2 L. T. 254; 24 J. P. 341; 6 Jur. N. S. 514; 8 W. R. 423; 8 Cox, C. C. 298.—C. C. R.

that in the cross-examination of accused at the trial counsel for the Crown was permitted to bring before the jury, in the form of cross-examining questions, evidence that was alleged to have been given by the wife of accused on an examination for discovery in a civil action.—R. v. RUTHERFORD, [1923] 2 W. W. R. 963.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 3.—
A. (b).

4786 i. As against co-defendant of husband or wife—Whether admissible.—[A., B. & C. were arraigned upon an indictment for murder, A. & B. as principals, & C. as accessory before the fact. At the spring assizes, A. pleaded guilty, & sentence of death was recorded. At the summer assizes, B. & C. were put upon trial on the same indictment:—Held: the wife of A. was a competent witness in support of the prosecution.—R. v. CALLANAN &

CARBOY (1840), 2 Craw. & D. 73.—IR.

4786 ii. —[J.—Where a prisoner is indicted jointly with prosecutor's wife who had eloped with him, for stealing clothes & money, the property of the husband, the wife should be acquitted, as no indictment lies against her, but the husband's evidence is admissible against the male prisoner.—R. v. GLASSIE & COONEY (1854), 7 Cox, C. C. 1.—IR.

4786 iii. —[J.—The wife of one of several persons on their trial at the same time on a joint indictment for theft is not a competent witness against any of them.—R. v. MAPATASSA (1912), T. P. D. 91.—S. AF.

4786 iv. —[J.—Where the adulterer & the wife are tried under separate remittals, charged with a contravention of Natives' Adultery Ordinance, the evidence of the husband is admissible against the adulterer.—

(b) For or against Co-defendant.

4786. Against co-defendant of husband or wife
 —[Whether admissible.]—R. v. SERJEANT, No. 4761, ante.

4787. —[J.—The wife of one prisoner, can in no case be a witness for the prosecution, to implicate another prisoner tried with her husband.—R. v. BAKER & DRAY (1838), 2 J. P. 166.

4788. —[J.—A., B. & C. were indicted for conspiring falsely to charge D. with assaulting A., to cheat D. of his goods, & to ruin him in his business. D. was the husband of A.:—Held: D. was not admissible as a witness to support the indictment.—R. v. STORY (1849), 13 J. P. 766.

4789. —[J.—Where two prisoners are tried for a joint offence, & one pleads guilty, & it was proposed to call the wife of prisoner who had pleaded guilty on the part of the prosecution to give evidence against the other prisoner:—Held: the evidence should be admitted.—R. v. THOMPSON & SIMPSON (1863), 3 F. & F. 824.

4790. For co-defendant of husband or wife—
Whether admissible.—[The wife of one defft. against whom material evidence has been given cannot be a witness for the other on an indictment against two.—R. v. FREDERICK & TRACY (1737), 2 Stra. 1095; 93 E. R. 1054.

4791. —[J.—In an indictment for a conspiracy, the wife of one of defts. cannot be called as a witness for the other.—R. v. LOCKER & WAINWRIGHT (1804), 5 Esp. 107, N. P.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Serjeant (1826), Ry. & M. 352; R. v. Story (1849), 13 J. P. 766; Reeve v. Wood (1864), 5 B. & S. 364.

4792. —[J.—On an indictment against several prisoners, the wife of one of them is inadmissible as a witness for another.—R. v. SMITH, COBBREY, BRISTERS & DRAPER (1826), 1 Mood. C. C. 289, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Hood (1830), 1 Mood. C. C. 281. Distd. R. v. Bartlett (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 22. Folld. R. v. Denslow & Newbury (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 559; R. v. Brittleton (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 266.

4793. —[J.—The wife of one of several prisoners is inadmissible as a witness for another.—R. v. HOOD (1830), 1 Mood. C. C. 281, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Mentd. Hoyle v. Bush (1840), Drinkwater, 15; Howard v. Gosset (1845), 10 Q. B. 359.

4794. —[J.—In trespass against two defts. for taking plff.'s goods, the wife of one of them, against whom the case is clearly proved, is not a competent witness for the other, to prove that he did not authorise the taking of the goods.—HAWKESWORTH v. SHOWLER (1843), 12 M. & W. 45; 13 L. J. Ex. 86; 2 L. T. O. S. 103; 152 E. R. 1105.

Annotations:—Refd. Stapleton v. Crofts (1852), 18 Q. B. 367. Mentd. White v. Hill (1844), 9 Jur. 129; R. v. Hinks, Williams & Waywood (1845), 1 Den. 84.

R. v. ZINDE, [1917] S. R. 30.—S. AF.

4786 v. —[J.—R. v. TSHALI-NIKA & KETEKWA, [1917] S. R. 32.—S. AF.

4790 i. For co-defendant of husband or wife—Whether admissible.—[A. & B. were tried together on a joint indictment for assault on a peace officer, & the wife of A. was offered as a witness to disprove the charge against B.:—Held: her evidence was properly rejected, but had the husband not been on his trial she would have been a competent witness.—R. v. THOMPSON & CONROY (1870), 2 Han. 71.—CAN.

4790 ii. —[J.—A. & B. were indicted for rape, A. as a principal in the first degree, & B. as a principal in the second degree. A. was put upon his trial alone, B. not being in custody:—Held: the wife of B. was a competent witness on behalf of A. R. v. ALLEN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 104.—IR.

4795. ———.]—When two prisoners are jointly indicted the wife of one of them is a competent witness for the other.—R. v. MOORE & TURNER (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 480; 1 Cox, C. C. 59.

4796. ———.]—A. & B. were indicted for burglary & stealing. A part of the stolen property was found in the house of each of the prisoners:—Held: the wife of A. was a competent witness to prove that she took to B.'s house the stolen property that was found there.—R. v. SILLS (1844), 1 Car. & Kir. 494.

4797. ———.]—The wife of one of two prisoners jointly indicted for a joint larceny is admissible, under the circumstances, as a witness for the other prisoner.

The point is a very nice one, but I am inclined, though with considerable doubt, to admit the evidence, & upon these grounds; that although prisoners are jointly indicted, the offence is distinct & severable. It differs in its circumstances from R. v. Smith, Cobbey, Bristers & Draper, No. 4792, ante, for here, evidence that one prisoner did honestly obtain the potatoes found in his apartments does not necessarily benefit the other prisoner, the husband of the witness. The defence of each is distinct, & it would be hard to say that one should be precluded from his defence because it might, by some remote possibility, benefit the other. I shall receive the evidence, but with considerable doubt (WIGHTMAN, J.).—R. v. BARTLETT & ANDERSON (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 22; 8 J. P. 329; 1 Cox, C. C. 105.

Annotation:—Distd. R. v. Denslow & Newbury (1847), 1 L. T. O. S. 559.

4798. ———.]—Evidence was given by the wife of one of two prisoners called to prove an alibi by the other:—Held: on the authority of R. v. Smith, Cobbey, Bristers & Draper, No. 4792, ante, inadmissible.—R. v. DENSLOW & NEWBURY (1847), 8 L. T. O. S. 559; 2 Cox, C. C. 230.

4799. ———.]—Where two prisoners are indicted & tried together, the wife of one is not a competent witness for the other.—R. v. THOMPSON (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 377; 41 L. J. M. C. 112; 26 L. T. 667; 36 J. P. 532; 20 W. R. 728; 12 Cox, C. C. 202, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Brittleton (1884), 12 Q. B. D. 266.

B. By Statute.

4800. Effect of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 4—General rule.—Under the above Act, the wife of a person charged with an offence to which the sect. applies is not compellable to give evidence against her husband.—LEACH v. R., [1912] A. C. 305; sub nom. LEACH v. PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR, 81 L. J. K. B. 616; 106 L. T. 281; 76 J. P. 203; 28 T. L. R. 289; 56 Sol. Jo. 342; 22 Cox, C. C. 721; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 158, H. L.; reusg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. ACASTER, R. v. LEACH, [1912] 1 K. B. 488, C. C. A. Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Acaster (1912), 106 L. T. 384. Refd. Public Prosecutions Director v. Blady (1912), 28 T. L. R. 193.

4801. ——— Whether compellable—Offence by father against daughter—Offence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69, s. 5).—R. v. DUNNING (1899), 34 L. Jo. 33.

4802. ——— Though competent—Offence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 7].—R. v. ELLIS (1898), 34 L. Jo. 646.

4803. ———.]—R. v. BRAZIL (1899), 63 J. P. Jo. 138.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Acaster, R. v. Leach, [1912] 1 K. B.

4804. ——— Offence under Vagrancy Act, 1898 (c. 39), s. 1].—PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR v. BLADY, No. 4764, ante.

4805. ——— Warning by wife—Offence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 4].—Applt. was charged with an offence under the above Act. When before the justices applt.'s wife said, "I wish to shield my husband." The wife was unable to attend the trial at the assizes on account of illness, & her depositions were read on behalf of the prosecution. No point was taken by the defence as to her unwillingness to give evidence:—Held: although the wife was not a compellable witness, her declaration before the justices did not amount to a statement that she was unwilling to give evidence, & therefore her deposition was properly admitted.—R. v. ACASTER (1912), 106 L. T. 384; 76 J. P. 263; 28 T. L. R. 321; 22 Cox, C. C. 743; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 187, C. C. A.

Bigamy.—See Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 28 (3).

SUB-SECT. 4.—EVIDENCE OF CHILDREN.

A. In General.

See EVIDENCE.

B. Evidence not on Oath.

4806. Formerly not admissible.—An infant cannot, under any circumstances be admitted to give sched. to the Act specifies a number of statutory offences, & concludes, "any other offence involving bodily injury to a child under the age of sixteen years":—Held: the concluding words of the sched. included the crime of culpable homicide, & the wife of a man charged with the culpable homicide of his child aged twelve months, or alternatively with a contravention of sect. 1 of the Act, was a competent witness under sect. 12 of the Act.—LORD ADVOCATE v. FRASER (1901), 3 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 67; 38 Sc. L. R. 511; 8 S. L. T. 416.—SCOT.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 4.—B.

t. Admissible where complaint involves minor offence.—Unsworn testimony of children under the age of 10 years can be received on a complaint which involves merely a minor offence.—SLAPE v. BYRNE, [1918] S. A. L. 11. 313.—AUS.

a. Whether admissible—Charge of indecent assault—Conviction for simple assault.—In support of a prosecution against deft., under 53 Vict. c. 37, s.

PART XII. SECT. 12, SUB-SECT. 3.—B.

n. Crimes Act, 1900—Whether compellable—Personal injury on wife.—Crimes Act, 1900 (N.S.W.), s. 407, provides that husband or wife of any accused person in a criminal proceeding shall be competent but not compellable to give evidence in such proceeding in every ct.—RIDDLE v. R., [1911] 12 C. L. R. 622.—AUS.

o. Evidence Act, 1906—Whether compellable.—Held: Evidence Act, 1906 (No. 28), s. 8 (1), should be read by disregarding the words "for the defence," & should be thus construed as making the wife or husband a competent, but not compellable, witness in criminal cases both for the prosecution & for the defence.—R. v. BISHOP (1913), 15 W. A. L. R. 70.—AUS.

p. 32 & 33 Vict. c. 20—Whether competent—Refusal to support wife.—The evidence of a wife is inadmissible, on the prosecution of her husband for refusal to support her, under 32 & 33 Vict. c. 20, s. 25 (D).—R. v. BISSELL (1882), 1 O. R. 514.—CAN.

q. Canada Evidence Act, 1893—Whether compellable.—Under Canada Evidence Act, 1893, the husband & wife of a person charged with an indictable offence is not only a competent witness for or against accused, but may also be compelled to testify.—GOSSELIN v. R. (1903), 23 C. L. T. 210; 33 S. C. R. 255.—CAN.

r. 40 & 41 Vict. c. 41—Whether compellable—Obstruction of navigable river.—Under 40 & 41 Vict. c. 41, in a prosecution for obstruction of a navigable river, deft. & the husband or wife of such deft. are competent & compellable witnesses.—R. v. HALLETT (1911), 45 L. T. 84.—IR.

s. Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1894—Whether compellable—Culpable homicide of child.—Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1894, s. 12, enacts: "In any proceeding against any person for an offence under this Act, or for any of the offences mentioned in the sched. to this Act . . . the wife or husband of such person . . . shall be competent but not compellable to give evidence." The evidence except upon oath.—R. v. POWELL (1775), 1 Leach, 110.

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses:
Sub-sect. 4, B.]

Annotations:—Refd.* Maden v. Catanach (1861), 5 L. T. 288; R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202.

4807. ——[An infant witness under seven years of age, if apprised of the nature of an oath, must be sworn; for no testimony is legal except it be given upon oath.—R. v. BRASIER (1779), 1 Leach, 199; 1 East, P. C. 443, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Refd.* R. v. Guttridge (1840), 9 C. & P. 471; R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202; R. v. Lillyman, [1896] 2 Q. B. 167.

4808. ——[Upon a charge of gross indecency committed with a boy, eight years of age, & of assault on the same boy, the boy cannot give evidence except upon oath.—R. v. COX (1898), 62 J. P. 89.

4809. Admitted in special circumstances.]—R. v. LOVE* (1687), 12 State Tr. 523.

4810. Admissibility under the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 4—Charge of carnal knowledge.]—The above Act, after enacting that any person who unlawfully & carnally knows any girl under the age of thirteen shall be guilty of felony, provides that upon the hearing of such a charge the evidence of the girl in respect of whom the offence is charged to have been committed may in certain cases be received, though not upon oath, subject to such evidence being corroborated by some other material evidence in support of the charge implicating the accused; but there is nothing in the statute to make the evidence of the girl admissible without oath upon a simple indictment for indecent assault. Prisoner was charged with a felony under the above Act, & the evidence of the prosecutrix received, not upon oath. The jury acquitted him of the felony, but convicted him of a misdemeanour:—Held: the conviction was right.—R. v. WEALD (1888), 20 Q. B. D. 827; 57 L. J. M. C. 44; 58 L. T. 782; 52 J. P. 582; 36 W. R. 576; 4 T. L. R. 483; 16 Cox, C. C. 402, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Distd.* R. v. Paul (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202. Refd. R. v. Wilde & Taylor (1895), 59 J. P. 296.

4811. — Charge of attempted carnal knowledge & indecent assault.]—On an indictment in 12, for having committed an indecent assault upon a girl of the age of 13 years, the evidence of the girl, although not given upon oath, was admitted under the provisions of sect. 13 of the Act. The unsworn statement was corroborated by other sworn testimony. Deft. was acquitted of indecent assault, but convicted of simple assault:—Held: the conviction was valid, although the unsworn evidence of the girl, which would have been inadmissible if deft. had been tried for simple assault, was the chief evidence against him.—R. v. GRANTYERS, [1893] Q. R. 2 Q. B. 376.—CAN.

b. Admissibility under Criminal Law Consolidation Act, s. 377—Conditions of reception.]—The above sect. provides that in every prosecution for felony or misdemeanour, the testimony of a child under 10 years may be received without any formality except that the judge, before admitting such testimony, shall explain to the child that it must truthfully tell what it knows about the matter:—Held: under this sect. the evidence of a child who stated that she did not know the difference between the truth & a falsehood, was not admissible.—R. v. MONTANA (1885), S. A. L. R. 4.—AUS.

c. Necessity for corroboration.]—As Canada Evidence Act, s. 16, specially requires that a statement taken in ct. from a child of tender years, not understanding the nature of an oath, must be corroborated by "some other material evidence," the testimony so taken from one child of tender years cannot constitute the kind of corroboration required by this sect. of the testimony similarly taken from another child of tender years. The unsworn testimony, whether of one child or of several children, is not to be acted upon unless fortified by other material evidence corroborating it of a different character, i.e., evidence which is legal evidence apart from this sect.—R. v. MCINULTY (1914), 19 B. C. R. 109.—CAN.

d. ——[Prisoner was tried & convicted of a criminal offence, alleged to have been committed upon the person of a child seven years of age. On a case reserved the majority of the ct. was of the opinion that the medical evidence offered in corroboration of the evidence of the child was not clear or satisfactory or within the requirements as to corroboration in such cases:—Held: the conviction must be set aside & the prisoner discharged.—R. v. TURNICK (No. 2) (1920), 54 N. S. R. 69; 33 Can. Crim. Cas. 340.—CAN.

e. — What amounts to corroboration.]—Deft. was convicted of the offence of attempting to commit incest with his daughter, aged 7 years, upon the evidence of the daughter & another girl aged 4 years:—Held: the evidence two counts, the first charging prisoner under the above Act, with an attempt to have carnal knowledge of a girl under thirteen, the second charging him with indecent assault, the evidence of the girl, though not given on oath, was received in accordance with the above Act, & was corroborated by other material evidence as therein required. The judge held that there was no evidence of the offence charged in the first count, but that with respect to the charge of indecent assault, though the sworn evidence was in itself insufficient, the unsworn evidence, if admissible, & the sworn evidence taken together, constituted sufficient evidence to be left to the jury, & he directed the jury to take into consideration both the unsworn & the sworn evidence. The jury convicted the prisoner:—Held: the unsworn evidence of the girl received as above stated was not admissible in support of the charge of indecent assault, & the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. PAUL (1890), 25 Q. B. D. 202; 59 L. J. M. C. 138; 62 L. T. 845; 54 J. P. 677; 38 W. R. 704; 17 Cox, C. C. 111, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd.* R. v. Stoddart (1909), 73 J. P. 348.

4812. — Statement before justices.]—On a charge preferred under the above Act for carnally knowing a girl under the age of thirteen years, the magistrates before whom the preliminary investigation took place, being of opinion that the prosecutrix did not understand the nature of an oath, received as evidence her unsworn statement as provided for by sect. 4 of the above Act, & signed & returned her statement so made, with the depositions, to the assizes.

At the trial it was proposed, after proving that the prosecutrix was so ill as to be unable to travel or to attend to give evidence at the assizes, to tender in evidence her statement so made before the magistrates, as being a deposition within the meaning of Indictable Offences Act, 1848 (c. 42), s. 17:—Held: the latter Act only applies to depositions taken upon oath or affirmation; & therefore it was not admissible as evidence in the absence of the prosecutrix.—R. v. PRUNTEY (1888), 16 Cox, C. C. 344.

4813. Dying declarations.]—A declaration, in articulo mortis, made by a child only four years of the girls was admissible, & was sufficiently corroborated.—R. v. PAILLEUR (1909), 15 O. W. R. 73; 20 O. L. R. 207; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 339.—CAN.

f. ——[Where the evidence of an indecent assault upon a boy of five was the statement of complainant himself, corroborated only by the evidence of his sister, aged 8, & the latter evidence was, in the circumstances, unsatisfactory:—Held: there was no real corroboration of complainant's evidence, & the conviction based thereon should be set aside.—R. v. SIDEROPoulos (1910), C. P. D. 15; 20 C. T. R. 397.—S. AF.

g. — Criminal Law Amendment & Evidence Act, 1891.]—On the trial of a prisoner for an assault on a child under the age of ten years with intent carnally to know her, the child gave evidence—not upon oath—under sect. 7 of the above Act. The evidence of the child was conclusive as to prisoner's guilt, but it was contended that her evidence was not corroborated by some material evidence. The evidence given by the Crown was as follows: The child, immediately after she had been assaulted, made a complaint to her mother. Shortly afterwards the mother said to prisoner, "How dare you assault my little girl?" Prisoner said, "It wasn't me, it was my cousin." The little girl said, "Yes, mummy, it old, is not admissible in evidence, on the trial of an indictment for the murder of such child, because a child of such tender years could not have had that idea of a future state which is necessary to make such a declaration admissible.—R. v. PIKE (1829), 3 C. & P. 598.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Perkins (1840), 2 Mood. C. C. 135.

4814. ———.]—A boy between ten & eleven years of age was mortally wounded, & died the next day. On the evening of the day on which he was wounded, he was told by a surgeon that he could not recover. The boy made no reply, but appeared dejected. It appeared from his answers to questions put to him that he was aware that he would be punished hereafter if he said what was untrue:—Held: a declaration made by him at this time was receivable in evidence on the trial of a person for killing him, as being a declaration in articulo mortis.

There is no rule as to the age of children to be examined as witnesses. A child, who has sufficient knowledge, may be examined (PARKE, B.).—R. v. PERKINS (1840), 9 C. & P. 395; 2 Mood. C. C. 135, C. C. R.

4815. Complaints.—R. v. NICHOLAS, No. 4196, ante.

—.]—See, generally, Sect. 4, sub-sect. 6, ante.

4816. Admissibility under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30—Conditions of reception.—Before admitting the testimony of an unsworn child, the judge is bound to satisfy himself that the child is possessed of sufficient intelligence to justify the reception of the evidence & understands the duty of speaking the truth within Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, as amended by Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 28 (2), & to warn the jury that the child's evidence must be corroborated by some other material evidence in support thereof implicating accused.—R. v. LYONS (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 144, C. C. A.

4817. Necessity for corroboration—Direction to jury.—R. v. PITTS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 126, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Dossi (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1024.

was this man." This was within half an hour of the offence, & there was no suggestion that prisoner had been told by any one that his cousin had assaulted the child. When arrested the constable took him to the mother's house, & the child, on seeing said, "That's him." Prisoner said nothing. When asked by the constable about the conversation with the mother, he said he had not seen her on the day the offence was committed, though when giving evidence at the trial he admitted having seen her that day:—Held: there was sufficient corroborative evidence to support conviction.—R. v. PUCKERIDGE (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 61; 9 N. S. W. W. N. 61.—AUS.

h. ———.]—Crimes Act, 1891.—The unsworn testimony of a child given under sect. 33 of the above Act must be corroborated by other material evidence as to the commission of the offence. Such corroboration is not limited to the mere identification of accused as the person who was present on the occasion.—R. v. SMITH (1901), 26 V. L. R. 683.—AUS.

k. ———.]—In all cases, of the nature provided by sect. 33, sub-sect. 1, of the above Act, the testimony admitted by virtue of that sect. must, notwithstanding Evidence Act, 1890, s. 50, be corroborated by some other material evidence in support thereof implicating accused. Such implication of accused ought to be by evidence of some direct kind, which would show that he was more probably than any other person the man who committed the offence charged.—R. v. O'BRIEN, [1912] V. L. R. 133.—AUS.

l. ———.]—Crimes Act, 1900.—E. was charged with having indecently assaulted a girl five years of age. At the trial the child gave evidence against him but not on oath, & said that when she was on a bed in E.'s bedroom he touched her private parts with his hand & wiped them with a wet cloth. Medical evidence was to the effect that E. was at the time of the alleged assault suffering from gonorrhoea, that the child when examined shortly afterwards was suffering from that disease, & that the disease might have been communicated by the child's private parts being wiped with a cloth on which was some of the discharge from the disease. E., having been convicted, appealed to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal of New South Wales, on the ground that the child's evidence was not "corroborated by some other material evidence in support thereof implicating accused," as is required by sect. 418, sub-sect. 2, of the above Act:—Held: the appeal would be dismissed.—EATHER v. R. (1914), 19 C. L. R. 409.—AUS.

m. ———.]—Infant Protection Act, N.S.W., 1904 (No. 27).—The corroborative evidence required by sect. 4 of the above Act is evidence given by some person other than the person whose statement is to be corroborated.—RIDLEY v. WHIFF (1916), 22 C. L. R. 381.—AUS.

4818. ———.]—R. v. CRATCHLEY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 232, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Dossi (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1024; R. v. Warren (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 4.

4819. ———.]—Where on a criminal prosecution the prosecutrix is a child of tender years & evidence is given by her under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, without being sworn, the judge ought to point out to the jury that they must not act on the evidence of the child unless it is corroborated.—R. v. MURRAY (1913), 30 T. L. R. 196; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 248, C. C. A.

4820. ———.]—Where at a trial the evidence of a child of tender years, which is given under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30 & Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 28 (2), is of importance, the judge should direct the jury not to convict upon it, unless it is corroborated by some other material evidence in support of it implicating accused. In the absence of such a direction a conviction of accused must be quashed.

Semble: If the evidence in corroboration is so ample & so clear that the ct. is bound to come to the conclusion that, despite a proper direction as to the necessity for corroboration, the jury must have returned a verdict of guilty, the absence of such a direction will not vitiate the conviction.—R. v. DAVIES (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 208; 114 L. T. 80; 25 Cox, C. C. 225; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 272; 79 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Follis, R. v. Lyons (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 144. Refd. R. v. Schiff (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63.

4821. ———.]—R. v. Dossi (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1024; 34 T. L. R. 498; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 158, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentis, R. v. James (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 116.

4822. ———.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not quash a conviction merely because there has not been a specific direction to the jury that the evidence of a child who is not sworn under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, must be corroborated, if, in fact, there has been corroboration. But such a direction should be given.—R. v. SCHIFF (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

n. ———.]—Criminal Code, s. 1003.—Where, under the above sect., the testimony of children of tender years is taken without the administering of an oath, the testimony of one child cannot corroborate the testimony of another so as to satisfy the sect. There must be corroborative evidence other than that so taken.—R. v. WHISTNANT (1912), 22 W. L. R. 762; 6 D. L. R. 468; 3 W. W. R. 486.—CAN.

o. ———.]—Accused was convicted of an indecent assault upon a girl of six years of age. The child was in charge of her grandmother, who, in washing the child, noticed that something was wrong, & asked the child if she had hurt herself, to which the child replied that she had not; but about two weeks after the event, not in answer to a question, made a statement to her grandmother, as the grandmother testified, describing an indecent assault by accused. She made no earlier complaint. The child herself testified to the assault by accused; accused & his wife testified that the child was at their house on the day on which the offence was alleged to have been committed; the wife of accused admitted that the child was on that day in & out of a room in which accused was lying in bed, & the doctor who examined the child testified as to the development of the disease which ensued, & which was consistent with the time at which the offence was alleged to have been committed:—

Sect. 12.—Competent and compellable witnesses:
Sub-sect. 4, B. Sect. 13: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

4823. ———.]—R. v. LYONS, No. 4816, ante.

4824. ——— What amounts to corroboration.—Deft. was indicted for attempting to carnally know a girl under the age of thirteen years. When deft. was accused by the child's mother of indecency towards the child he denied it & said he had done nothing to her, but when told that the child said he had fastened the door of the room, where the offence was committed, with a towel-horse, he said he put the towel-horse at the door because it blew open. The door had a lock on & had not blown open since. The child was suffering from a venereal disease. When charged at the police station deft. refused to be examined by a doctor till he had consulted his friends:—Held: the evidence as to the towel-horse was some corroborative evidence implicating accused within the meaning of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 4, but the refusal to be examined by a doctor was not such evidence.

Semle: the question whether there was corroborative evidence was really not a point of law, but a question of fact.—R. v. GRAY (1904), 68 J. P. 327, C. C. R.

statement made by the grandmother was properly admitted in evidence, & there was sufficient corroborative evidence, under the above sect., to justify the conviction of accused.—R. v. MCGIVNEY (1914), 26 W. L. R. 602.—CAN.

p. All evidence to be considered to find corroboration.—In a prosecution for indecent assault, in order to find corroboration of the evidence of a boy too young to take an oath, the judge may consider the whole of the evidence, including that adduced for accused.—R. v. IMAN DIN (1910), 15 B. C. R. 476.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 1.

q. Question for jury.—The question of whether a witness is an accomplice or not is a question for the jury.—R. v. ABIGAIL & MACNAMARA (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 72; 9 N. S. W. W. N. 141.—AUS.

r. ———.]—Where the question arises on the evidence as to whether the witness is an accomplice or not, the judge should leave that as a question of fact to the jury.—R. v. REEVE (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 81; 34 N. S. W. W. N. 123.—AUS.

s. ——— Person present at commission of crime through fear.—A witness having sworn that he was not an accomplice & that he had been present at the commission of the crime through fear, it was properly left to the jury to say whether he was or was not an accomplice.—R. v. WEBSTER & WELLS (1880), 1 N. S. W. L. R. 331.—AUS.

4828 i. Police spy.—The mere undertaking to tell fortunes constitutes an offence, & a conviction was affirmed where it was obtained upon the evidence of a person who was not a dupe or victim, but a decoy.—R. v. MILFORD (1890), 20 O. R. 306.—CAN.

4828 ii. ———.]—The evidence of "spotters" sent by the morality department to a disorderly house for the purpose of procuring the necessary evidence to convict the keeper is entitled to no higher respect than that of ordinary accomplices, & corroboration will be required.—R. v. SANDS (1915), 32 W. L. R. 418; 9 W. W. R. 129, 496; 25 Man. L. R. 690.—CAN.

4828 iii. ———.]—A detective or decoy is not an "accomplice," & his evidence does not require corroboration.—

AMSDEN v. ROGERS (1916), 34 W. L. R. 1174.—CAN.

4828 iv. ———.]—A detective or spy, who participates in the offence for the purpose of obtaining evidence is not an accomplice.—R. v. McCRAKOR (1919), 44 O. L. R. 482; 15 O. W. N. 260; 47 D. L. R. 237.—CAN.

4828 v. ———.]—The act of a detective in supplying marked money for the detection of a crime cannot be treated as that of an accomplice.—R. v. JAVECHARAM (1894), 1 I. L. R. 19 Bom. 363.—IND.

4828 vi. ———.]—A person who makes himself an agent for the prosecution with the purpose of discovering & disclosing the commission of an offence, either before associating with wrongdoers or before the actual perpetration of the offence, is not an accomplice, but a spy, detective or decoy whose evidence does not require corroboration, though the weight to be attached to it depends on the character of each individual witness in each case.—R. v. CHATURBHUI SARRU (1910), 1 I. L. R. 38 Calc. 96.—IND.

4828 vii. ———.]—There is no rule of law that the evidence of an informer in a criminal prosecution must be corroborated, & although, where the informer is a probationary police officer, who is to some extent earning promotion by his success in detecting offences against the law, it is the duty of the magistrate to scrutinise his evidence closely & weigh it carefully before acting upon it, if in the opinion of the magistrate the witness is trustworthy, there is no rule of practice which requires his evidence to be corroborated. Such evidence is not in the same category as that of an accomplice, or of an informer who has a direct pecuniary interest in the result.—SMITH v. O'DONOVAN (1908), 28 N. Z. L. R. 94.—N.Z.

4828 viii. ———.]—Certain persons not licensed to sell were employed as traps by the police to sell a rough uncut diamond to another person not duly licensed to buy:—Held: the traps were not accomplices.—R. v. POUND (1882), 2 S. C. 2.—S. AF.

4828 ix. ———.]—Where a person had been convicted of an illicit sale of liquor on the uncorroborated evidence of a constable employed as a trap, & two men, who by special arrangement, had accompanied the trap had not

4825. ———.]—R. v. COOPER (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 195, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4826. ———.]—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

See, also, Sect. 13, post.

SECT. 13.—EVIDENCE OF ACCOMPLICE.

SUB-SECT. 1.—WHO IS AN ACCOMPLICE.

4827. Co-defendant implicating accused.—A co-prisoner by giving evidence implicating applt. does not necessarily become an accomplice.—R. v. MARTIN (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

4828. Police spy.—R. v. MULLINS, No. 3836, ante.

4829. ———.]—A person who enters into a conspiracy for the sole purpose of detecting & betraying it, does not strictly require confirmation as an accomplice, although his evidence should be received by the jury with caution.—R. v. DOWLING (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 381; 12 J. P. 678; 3 Cox, C. C. 509.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Meany (1867), 15 W. R. 1082.

4830. ———.]—A police spy or agent provocateur is not an accomplice, & the practice that a jury been called as witnesses, & their absence was not explained:—Held: the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. GOLDBERG (1888), 5 H. C. 64.—S. AF.

4828 x. ———.]—A "trap" is not an accomplice.—R. v. LOVE (1892), 6 E. D. C. 186.—S. AF.

4828 xi. ———.]—A conviction for selling liquor without a licence set aside, when the sole evidence of the sale was that of a trap, & the circumstances were such as to render this evidence unreliable.—R. v. MAHLAMENI (1895), 10 E. D. C. 9.—S. AF.

4828 xii. ———.]—Where a person had been convicted of an illicit sale of liquor on the evidence of two native traps, & the police failed to supply such corroborative evidence, as, had they performed their duties properly, ought to have been available, & the evidence of the natives, contained substantial discrepancies, & accused denied the offence on oath:—Held: there existed reasonable doubt as to his guilt, & the conviction must therefore be quashed.—R. v. JACKSON (1899), 9 H. C. 383.—S. AF.

4828 xiii. ———.]—The European detectives in charge of trapping an illicit dealer in liquor should watch the native traps to see that they have no opportunity of obtaining the liquor elsewhere than on the premises which they are seen to enter, & in the absence of such watching or other corroboration an accused ought not to be convicted on the evidence of the traps unless the same is free from doubt.—MYERS v. R. (1907), T. S. 760.—S. AF.

4828 xiv. ———.]—CHARLIE v. R. (1908), T. S. 1144.—S. AF.

4828 xv. ———.]—In cases which depend on the evidence of traps who are agents for the purpose of causing a crime to be committed the greatest caution should be exercised before accepting their evidence, & it is of the greatest possible importance that their evidence should be corroborated & free from doubt.—BENNETT v. R. (1918), 39 N. L. R. 344.—S. AF.

t. Person advising as to execution of crime—Though not actually participating.—Certain persons were engaged in a scheme for forging banknotes & sought assistance of L., who knew something of photolithography, for preparation of a plate from which to print notes. L. was told all details should not act on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice does not apply to the case of such a person.—R. v. BICKLEY (1909), 73 J. P. 239; 53 Sol. Jo. 402; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

4831. —[Police officers who assent to an informer's entrapping an offender do not thereby become accomplices.—R. v. HEUSER (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 76, C. C. A.

4832. Innocent agent.—[Applt. assisted several other persons in the removal of the prosecutor's furniture from own town to another. Three days later J. S. was found attempting to pawn a watch belonging to the prosecutor, which was missed at the time of the removal. J. S. told the police at once, & subsequently gave evidence that she had met applt. the night before in a common lodging-house, & that he had asked her to pawn the watch for him:—Semle: on the trial of applt. for larceny, the evidence of J. S. need not be treated as that of an accomplice.—R. v. KIRKHAM (1909), 73 J. P. 406; 25 T. L. R. 656; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 253, C. C. A.

4833. Patient in abortion.—R. v. TINCKLER (1921), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 354.

Annotations:—Reffd. R. v. Gibson (1887), 18 Q. B. D. 537. Mentd. R. v. Oldroyd (1805), Russ. & Ry. 88; Doe d. Sutton v. Ridgway (1820), 4 B. & Ald. 53.

4834. —[R. v. CRAMP, No. 4143, ante.

4835. —[R. v. BOTTOMLEY, R. v. EARNSHAW (1903), 115 L. T. Jo. 88.

4836. Incest.—R. v. STONE, No. 4012, ante.

4837. —[If, on an indictment for rape, the verdict found is that of guilty under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), s. 4 (3), it is not necessarily implied that the prosecutrix was a consenting party so as to make her an accomplice.—R. v. DIMES (1911), 76 J. P. 47; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 43, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reffd. R. v. Crane (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 113.

4838. —[R. v. BLOODWORTH, No. 4014, ante.

4839. Wife consenting to unnatural offence.—

4840. Person living on earnings of prostitution.—[On a charge of living upon the earnings of prostitution the women concerned are not in the position of accomplices. Corroboration of their evidence is not, therefore, essential as a matter of law, but the jury should be expressly warned against accepting such evidence without some corroboration.—R. v. KING (1914), 111 L. T. 80; 30 T. L. R. 476; 24 Cox, C. C. 223; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

4841. —[Applt. was convicted on an indictment charging him with living in part on the earnings of prostitution. The woman's evidence was not corroborated:—Held: in a case of this kind corroboration is not essential; there may be instances where it is plain that the woman is an accomplice & then what has been called "a rule of prudence & direction" should be allowed & the jury warned by the judge.—R. v. PICKFORD (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 269, C. C. A.

4842. Person present at indecent assault.—R. v. CRATCHLEY, No. 4818, ante.

4843. Persons present at prize-fight.—[Although all persons present at & sanctioning a prize-fight, where one of the combatants is killed, are guilty of manslaughter, as principals in the second degree; yet they are not such accomplices as require their evidence to be confirmed, if they are called as witnesses against other parties charged with manslaughter.—R. v. HARGRAVE (1831), 5 C. & P. 170; 1 Nev. & M. M. C. 299.

Annotations:—Reffd. R. v. Boyes (1861), 1 B. & S. 311. Mentd. R. v. O'Brian (1844), 1 Den. 9; R. v. Coney (1882), 8 Q. B. D. 534.

4844. Persons present at sparring match.—[The spectators of a sparring match are not participes criminis so that their evidence, touching what occurred at the match, requires corroboration.—R. v. YOUNG (1866), 31 J. P. 215; 10 Cox, C. C. 371.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Coney (1882), 30 W. R. 678.

4845. Receiver of bribe.—[Upon the trial of an information by the A.-G. for bribery at a parliamentary election, a witness who was called to prove the fact of his having received a bribe from deft., objected to give evidence on the ground that the effect of the evidence would be to criminate himself. Other witnesses were called to prove the fact of their having received bribes from deft.

Qu.: whether the witnesses were accomplices within the rules of practice that the evidence of an accomplice requires confirmation.—R. v. ROVES (1861), 1 B. & S. 311; 30 L. J. Q. B. 301; 5 L. T. 147; 25 J. P. 789; 7 Jur. N. S. 1158; 9 Cox, C. C. 32; 121 E. R. 730.

Annotations:—Reffd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Cohen (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 91. Mentd. R. v. Hamilton

Munster (1882), 10 Q. B. D. 110; Re Reynolds, Reynolds (1882), 20 Ch. D. 294; Re Genese, Ex p. G. (1886), 3 Morr. 223; Evans v. Evans, [1904] P. 378.

SUB-SECT. 2.—COMPETENCY AS WITNESS.

4846. General rule.—[A principal felon may be witness against the accessory.—R. v. CROSS (1761), 12 Mod. Rep. 520; 88 E. R. 1491; subsequent proceedings (1702), 12 Mod. Rep. 634.

4847. —[R. v. WILD (1725), 1 Leach, 17, n.

4848. —[R. v. MURPHY (1753), 19 State Tr. 693.

Annotations:—Reffd. R. v. Lyons (1840), 9 C. & P. 555. Mentd. R. v. Coogan (1787), 1 Leach, 449.

—R. v. HUGHES (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 13.—IR.

Person not liable to be charged with same crime.—[A man cannot be regarded as an accomplice who is not liable to be charged with the same crime as that with which the alleged principal is charged.—R. v. BHULA (1910), T. P. D. 70.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 2.

4846. General rule.—[Though an accomplice, who has been admitted as an approver, may give evidence, no matter how great his own criminality, it is a wise observation that, without corroboration, a jury should be slow to convict on such evidence.—R. v. DUNNE (1852), 5 Cox, C. C. 507.—IR.

I. —[Judge may promise recommendation for pardon.]—[A trial judge of the scheme & promised £50 if he could reproduce a certain drawing on a plate so that prints could be made from it, & £2,500 when the notes were printed. L. said he would like to make some experiments & was given £10 for the purpose. He made no experiment & did not return the money nor inform the police. Some months afterwards another man supplied the necessary plate & the forgeries were printed & uttered. At the trial of appls. for forging & uttering a £5 note, L. was called as witness for the Crown & gave evidence implicating accused:—Held: there was ample evidence that L. was an accomplice.—R. v. FERGUSON & KING (1916), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 69.—AUS.

a. Accessory after the fact.—R. v. SMITH (1876), 38 U. C. R. 218.—CAN.

b. Indecency with male person.—

R. v. WILLIAMS (1914), 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 339; 7 O. W. N. 426; 19 D. L. R. 676.—CAN.

c. Person present on occasion of giving bribe.—[The mere presence of a person on the occasion of the giving of a bribe, & his omission to promptly inform the authorities, do not constitute him an accomplice, unless it can be shown that he somehow co-operated in the payment of the bribe, or was instrumental in the negotiations for the payment.—R. v. DEODHAR SINGH (1899) 1 L. R., 27 Calc. 144.—IND.

d. Harboured felon.—[Indictment for harbouring M., well knowing him to have committed a felony:—Held: testimony of M., who was produced as a witness for the prosecution, partook of the nature of that of an approver giving evidence against his accomplices, & required corroboration.

Sect. 13.—Evidence of accomplice: Sub-sects. 2 & 3.]

4849. —.]—An accomplice may give evidence before a grand jury to support an indictment against a particeps criminis.—R. v. DODD (1777), 1 Leach, 155, C. C. R.

4850. —.]—A principal felon is a competent witness on 22 Geo. III. c. 58 against an accessory for receiving stolen goods.—R. v. HASLAM (1786), 1 Leach, 418, C. C. R.

4851. —.]—The principal may be admitted as a witness against the accessory under 22 Geo. III. c. 58 (HEATH, J.).—R. v. PRICE & COLLINS (1786), 1 Leach, 419, n.

4852. —.]—R. v. PATRAM (1787), 1 Leach, 419, n.; 2 East, P. C. 782, C. C. R.

4853. —.]—The persons who are supposed to have been seconds at a duel, may refuse to give evidence on the trial of the principals; but their testimony may be received as the testimony of persons admitted witnesses for the Crown, & if once sworn, they must disclose the whole truth, although they may thereby involve themselves in the guilt of the transaction.—R. v. ENGLAND (1796), 2 Leach, 767.

4854. —.]—There are two reasons why accomplices are allowed to be called; one is, that without them great crimes might pass undiscovered; & another, the fact that the knowledge that an accomplice may betray him tends to prevent a person from engaging in crime. But interests of innocence require that the evidence of an accomplice should not be acted upon without great caution; juries must not trust to it unless it receives such confirmation as to satisfy them that it is true, & that they can trust it as a faithful account (GURNEY, B.).—R. v. JORDAN (1836), 7 C. & P. 432; 3 Nev. & M. C. 443.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Tuckwell (1841), Car. & M. 215; Saqui & Lawrence v. Stearns (1910), 103 L. T. 583.

4855. Effect of pardon.—R. v. LANGHORN (1679), 7 State Tr. 418.

4856. Effect of promise of pardon.—Some of those persons who are equally culpable with the rest but not yet pardoned or indicted may be made use of as witnesses against their fellows.—R. v. TONGE (1662), Kel. 17; 6 State Tr. 225; 84 E. R. 1061.

Annotation:—Mentd. Mulcahy v. R. (1867), 15 W. R. 446.

4857. Effect of promise of reward.—R. v. LOVE (1651), 5 State Tr. 43, 238.

4858. —.]—R. v. LANGHORN, No. 4855, ante.

4859. When accomplice indicted.—A. was committed for having received stolen iron. B. being committed as the thief, B. was admitted as a witness for the Crown against A.—R. v. WALFORD (1829), 8 C. & P. 767.

4860. — Necessity for consent of judge.— may, even after a prima facie case has been made out, direct that an accomplice be examined on the understanding that if he gives his evidence in an unexceptionable manner he shall be recommended for pardon.—R. v. ROBINSON (1921), 70 D. L. R. 755; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 30.—CAN.

4859 i. When accomplice indicted.—Where a witness, although accused of having been a party to the crime, has not been indicted jointly with prisoner at the bar, & is not being tried jointly with the latter, his evidence is admissible for the prosecution.—R. v. VIAU (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 362.—CAN.

4860 i. — Necessity for consent of judge.—Certain persons were accused of night poaching, & at the trial counsel proposed to call as witnesses for them several companions, in whose company the indictment alleged they had committed the offence & who were indicted for the same offence on a separate indictment at the same circuit. The ct. refused to allow the proposed witnesses to be examined.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. MITCHELL (1887), 1 White, 321.—SCOT.

g. — Plea of guilty—Postponement of sentence to allow evidence.—In a trial for receiving stolen lead evidence was given by four thieves who had pleaded guilty but upon whom sentence had been postponed until the day fixed for the trial for reset of the person to whom they sold the lead for the purpose of their giving such evidence. In a suspension accused contended that his trial was vitiated by the magistrate's improper postponement of sentence, as it operated as an inducement to the thieves to give evidence against him.—Held: the course followed by the magistrate was within his discretion & objection re-

The ct. will not, in general, admit an accomplice as king's evidence, though applied to for that purpose, in the usual way, by the counsel for the prosecution, if it appear that such accomplice is charged with any other felony than that on the trial of which he is to be a witness.—ANON. (1826), 2 C. & P. 411.

4861. — —.]—Three persons were indicted for a rape, & were also indicted for the murder of the party alleged to be ravished. Before the trial on the indictment for the rape, the counsel for the prosecution asked to have one of the prisoners acquitted, that he might call him as a witness against the others. This was opposed by prisoner's counsel:—Held: in cases of this kind the ct. will, if it sees no cause to the contrary, intrust it to the discretion of the counsel for the prosecution to determine whether he will have a prisoner acquitted before the trial commences to enable him to call such prisoner as a witness against the other prisoners.—R. v. OWEN (1839), 9 C. & P. 83.

4862. — —.]—Where principal & accessory before the fact in a felony have been committed for trial, & it is proposed to make one of them a witness against the other, an application must be made to the judge for that purpose.—R. v. STURGES & SHARP (1846), 6 L. T. O. S. 486; sub nom. R. v. SHARP, 10 J. P. 220.

4863. When accomplice jointly indicted—Competency before conviction or acquittal.—Qu.: whether a person charged as a principal in the same indictment with a person charged as accessory, is a competent witness against the accessory, without being first either acquitted or confessing & suffering his punishment.—R. v. LYONS (1840), 9 C. & P. 555.

4864. — —.]—Two prisoners were jointly indicted for stealing a pair of boots. Both of them pleaded not guilty:—Held: one of them could not be called as a witness against the other.—R. v. NUNN & PAYNTER (1849), 13 J. P. 254.

4865. — —.]—Qu.: whether two prisoners are jointly indicted & have pleaded not guilty, one can, at the commencement of the case for the prosecution, be acquitted & called against the other.—R. v. PEACOCK & CRAWLEY (1849), 13 J. P. 254.

4866. — —.]—A., B., C. & D. were indicted together. After plea, & before they were given in charge to the jury, the ct. allowed D. to be removed from the dock & examined as a witness against his associates.—R. v. GERBER (1852), T. & M. 647.

4867. — —.]—Two prisoners having been arraigned & put upon trial at a former assizes on an indictment for murder, & the jury having pollled.—BROWN v. MACPHERSON, [1918] 1 S. C. (J.) 3.—SCOT.

4863 i. When accomplice jointly indicted—Competency before conviction or acquittal.—Confessed accomplice upon whom sentence has not been passed may be called as a witness, if otherwise competent, against the principal offender.—R. v. MCCLAIN (1915), 30 W. L. R. 388; 7 W. W. R. 1134; 8 Alta. L. R. 73.—CAN.

4863 ii. — —.]—A man jointly indicted with others, & who has pleaded not guilty, cannot be a witness for the prosecution whilst his plea stands.—R. v. RYAN (1822), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 5.—IR.

h. — Competency after conviction & sentence.—Where prisoners, who are being jointly tried before a magistrate, have pleaded not guilty, it is not competent for the magistrate to close the prosecution against one of them, been discharged, & the prisoners being again brought to trial on the same indictment, one of them, without being acquitted, was admitted as a witness for the Crown.—R. v. WINSOR (1865), 1 F. & F. 363; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. WINSOR v. R. (1866), L. R. 1 Q. B. 289, Ex. Ch.

4868. — After acquittal.—In an indictment against several persons, the counsel for the prosecution has a right, before opening his case, to the acquittal of any deft. he intends to call as a witness.—R. v. ROWLAND (1826), Ry. & M. 401.

4869. — — —.—R. v. OWEN, No. 4861, ante.

4870. — After nolle prosequi.—Any one of several defts. who have been indicted for misdemeanour & put on their trial together, is a competent witness against the rest, provided that at any time before verdict nolle prosequi in regard to him be entered or a verdict of acquittal taken.—R. v. O'CONNOR (1843), 4 State Tr. N. S. 935; subsequent proceedings, 5 Q. B. 16.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Albert (1843), 7 Jur. 741; O'Connell v. R. (1844), 11 Cl. & Fin. 155; R. v. Martin (1849), 13 J. P. 282.

4871. — After plea of guilty.—R. v. READ, No. 4510, ante.

4872. — — —.—R. v. DRURY & BENSON, No. 4512, ante.

4873. — — —.—A prisoner jointly indicted with another, and pleading guilty, may be called as a witness for the prosecution.—R. v. KING & BRADDON (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 392; 1 Cox, C. C. 232.

4874. — — —.—A., B. & C., were jointly indicted, A. & B. for stealing tea, & C. for receiving it scienter, etc., A. & C. pleaded not guilty, & B. pleaded guilty, & the trial proceeded against A. & C., no judgment having been pronounced against B.:—Held: B. was a competent witness for the prosecution on the trial of A. & C.—R. v. HINKS (1845), 2 Car. & Kir. 462; 1 Den. 84; 10 J. P. 690, C. C. R.

4875. — — —.—R. v. DRURY (1848), 3 Car. & Kir. 190.

4876. — — —.— Conspiracy.—Two prisoners were jointly charged in an indictment with obtaining money by conspiracy & false pretences. On being arraigned, one pleaded guilty & the other not guilty. On the trial of the indictment, prisoner who had pleaded guilty, was admitted as a witness against the other although it was objected, that the evidence of a co-conspirator could not be received on the count for conspiracy. The jury found prisoner not guilty on the count for conspiracy, but guilty on the counts for false pretences:—Held: the co-conspirator was admissible as a witness, & the conviction was right.—R. v. GALLAGHER (1875), 32 L. T. 406; 39 J. P. 502; 13 Cox, C. C. 61, C. C. R.

4877. — — —.—R. v. GALLAGHER, No. 6713, post.

4878. — — —.—A co-prisoner who has pleaded not guilty may be allowed to plead guilty, & may then be sentenced & called against co-prisoners jointly indicted.—R. v. TOMEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 329, C. C. A.

4879. — — —.— Corroborating evidence must first be given.—One prisoner who has pleaded guilty not allowed to be called as a witness against another, until the judge had heard the evidence necessary to corroborate that of an accomplice.

The evidence of an accomplice uncorroborated will not suffice to justify a jury in finding a man guilty (HILL, J.).—R. v. SPARKS (1858), 1 F. & F. 388.

SUB-SECT. 3.—EFFECT OF GIVING EVIDENCE ON PROSECUTION FOR OTHER OFFENCES.

4880. Effect of giving evidence by accomplice—Prosecution for other offences.—A king's evidence is not entitled as matter of right, to be exempt from being prosecuted for other offences at the same assizes at which he has been a witness for the Crown.—R. v. LEE (1818), Russ. & Ry. 361, C. C. R.

4881. — — —.—A king's evidence is not entitled, as matter of right, to be exempt from being prosecuted for other offences.—R. v. BRUNTON (1821), Russ. & Ry. 454, C. C. R.

4882. — — —.—A person who has discovered his accomplices in a felony, under a promise of favour, ought not to be prosecuted for another felony of the same kind, which he disclosed under an impression that, by the course he had previously taken, he had delivered himself from the consequences.—R. v. GARSIDE (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 38.

4883. — Prosecution for same offence.—An accomplice, who in a case out of the statutes, is under the practice allowed, admitted by the justices of peace, as a witness, & is afterwards prosecuted; has only a claim to the mercy of the Crown, founded on an express or implied promise of the magistrate, on a condition performed: & it depends on his conduct in fully & fairly disclosing the joint guilt of himself & his companions whether the ct. will admit him to convict & sentence him, & then have him called as a witness for the Crown against his co-prisoner.—R. v. RAZAK (1917), C. P. D. 255.—S. AF.

k. — — —.—The evidence of a co-prisoner tried jointly with applt. before a resident magistrate, called for the Crown after such co-prisoner had been already convicted & sentenced:—Held: to be admissible according to established practice in the cts. of the Cape.—R. v. SIMOKOTWANA (1914), E. D. L. 166.—S. AF.

4868 i. — After acquittal.—A. & B. were indicted for having feloniously & corruptly received money from the owner of stolen goods, on account of helping him to same, without causing the apprehension of the thief. The judge, at the trial, directed B. to be acquitted, & received his evidence against A., who was convicted of the offence:—Held: having been acquitted B. was a competent witness against A., although they had been jointly indicted.—R. v. O'DONNELL (1857), 9 Ir. Jur. 210.—IR.

4868 ii. — — —.—Where a witness has been rightly, by direction of the ct., acquitted, he may be examined for the prosecution.—R. v. O'DONNELL (1857), 7 Cox, C. C. 337.—IR.

4871 i. — After plea of guilty.—When two defts. are jointly indicted for conspiracy & one of them pleads guilty & the other not guilty, deft. who has pleaded guilty is admissible as a witness against the other deft.—R. v. GALLAGHER (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 291.—IR.

l. W. — — —.—In a abortion:—Held: the evidence of the woman on whom the act was said to have been committed was competent, though she was not charged with the crime.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. LAE (1888), 15 lt. (Ct. of Sess.) 80.—SCOT.

m. Conspiracy to procure escape of prisoner—Competency of prisoner—Necessity for consent of judge.—Accused being on trial on a charge of conspiring with a prisoner & others to assist the prisoner to escape from prison, the prisoner not being named as a Crown witness on the back of the indictment nor included in the list of witnesses intended to be called by the Crown; & application was made to the trial judge for an order directing that the prisoner be called as a witness for the Crown, or, in the alternative, called by a judge & examined witness, & was refused, counsel for the Crown undertaking that counsel for accused should have full opportunity to interview the prisoner in order to decide whether or not to call him as a witness for the defence.—R. v. HAGEL & WESTLAKE (1914), 27 W. L. R. 271.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 3.

4883 i. Effect of giving evidence by accomplice—Prosecution for same offence.—A. & B. were tried together for the theft of a cow, C. being called as a witness for the Crown against them. As the trial proceeded the magistrate convicted & sentenced A. & then called him as a witness against ball, that he may apply for a pardon.—R. v. RUDD (1775), 1 Cowp. 331; 1 Leach, 115; 98 E. R. 1114.

Sect. 13.—Evidence of accomplice: Sub-sects. 3 & 4, A. & B.]

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Garside & Mosley (1834), 2 Ad. & El. 266.

4884. ———.—R. v. BURLEY (1818), 2 Starkie on Evidence 2nd ed. p. 12, n., C. C. R.
Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Gillis (1866), 11 Cox, C. C. 69.

4885. ———.—Approver turning round after giving evidence before the grand jury—tried & convicted.—R. v. MOORE (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 37.

4886. ———.—Co-prisoners pleading guilty—Information given by accomplice.—Where one of several persons charged with an offence gives, under hopes of acquittal, such information to the prosecutor against the other offenders as to induce them, on hearing of the circumstance, to determine on pleading guilty, the ct. will direct his acquittal.—R. v. HEMINGWAY (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 623.

SUB-SECT. 4.—CORROBORATION.

A. In General.

4887. Definition of corroboration.—R. v. KAMS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Landow (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 218.

B. In the course of his evidence A. implicated C. as being concerned in the theft. Thereupon C. was placed in the dock as a prisoner along with B., & the magistrate continued the evidence of A. against both B. & C., who were convicted & sentenced:—Held: the procedure adopted by the magistrate against C. was wholly irregular, & his conviction must be quashed.—R. v. POOYA (1917), C. P. D. 110.—S. AF.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 4.—A.

4887 i. Definition of corroboration.—Evidence in corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice must be independent testimony which affects accused by connecting him or tending to connect him with the crime. It must be evidence which implicates him, that is, which confirms in some material particulars not only the evidence that the crime has been committed but also that accused committed it.—R. v. DODGNEY & SHORRILL (1916), 33 N. S. W.

W. N. 180.—AUS.

4887 ii. ———.—Mere corroboration of details in the account amounting only to the probability that an offence has been committed, will not be sufficient. Where corroboration is sought for, the law requires evidence which connects accused with the crime.—R. v. NAUGHTON (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 259; 37 N. S. W. W. N. 40.—AUS.

4887 iii. ———.—Evidence in corroboration must be independent testimony which affects accused by connecting or tending to connect him with the crime. In other words, it must be evidence which implicates him, that is, which confirms in some material particular not only the evidence that the crime has been committed, but also that prisoner committed it.—R. v. FIDLER, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 871; 66 D. L. R. 537; 36 Can. Crim. Cas. 239; 31 Man. L. R. 358.—CAN.

4887 iv. ———.—Where a statute requires that evidence shall be corroborated in some material particular, the corroboration required is in some material respect that will fortify & strengthen the credibility of the main witness & justify the evidence being accepted & acted upon.—R. v. DAUN (1906), 12 O. L. R. 227; 8 O. W. R. 173.—CAN.

4888. Depends on nature of charge.—R. v. WINKEL, No. 4348, ante.

4889. May depend on nature of defence.—R. v. BLATHERWICK (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 281, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933.
Reid. R. v. Crane (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 113; R. v. Landow (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 218; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; Bradshaw v. Waterlow, [1915] 3 K. B. 527; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4890. Slight corroboration may suffice.—Slight corroboration of an accomplice is sufficient to support a conviction.

The evidence against applt. was conclusive, but it was the evidence of one of the burglars himself. Although in strict point of law that evidence was sufficient, yet it is customary for the judge to tell the jury that it needs corroboration. In this case, however, having regard to the decided cases, we think there was sufficient corroboration of the evidence given by S. (DARLING, J.).—R. v. JACOBS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 215, C. C. A.

B. Necessity for.

4891. Corroboration not essential in law.—If the jury believe the testimony of an accomplice they may convict of a capital offence, though such were the question whether there was any evidence anywhere in the case of that corroborative nature required by the statute, & evidence was to be found in the testimony of a witness called for the defence.—R. v. WAKELYN (1913), 23 W. L. R. 807; 10 D. L. R. 455; 4 W. W. R. 170; 21 Can. Crim. Cas. 111.—CAN.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 4.—B.

4891 i. Corroboration not essential in law.—The judge had power to convict a prisoner on the evidence of an accomplice alone.—R. v. FRANK (1910), 16 O. W. R. 50; 21 O. L. R. 196.—CAN.

4891 ii. ———.—Accused wastried on a charge of having committed an act of gross indecency with another male person:—Held: corroboration of the evidence of the accomplice was not necessary to the validity of the conviction.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1914), 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 339; 7 O. W. N. 426; 19 D. L. R. 676.—CAN.

4891 iii. ———.—There is no rule of law or practice that a jury must be instructed that they should not convict on the evidence of an accomplice or that such evidence should be viewed with suspicion.—R. v. KELLY (1916), 35 W. L. R. 46; 11 W. W. R. 46.—CAN.

4891 iv. ———.—A conviction is not illegal merely because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice, & to hold that corroboration is necessary is to refuse to give effect to this provision. Though the evidence of an accomplice should be carefully scanned & received with caution, & may be treated as unworthy of credit, yet if the jury or the ct. credits the evidence, a conviction proceeding upon it is not illegal.—R. v. RAMANJANI PADAYACHI (1878), 1 L. R. 1 Mad. 394.—IND.

4891 v. ———.—The testimony of an accomplice, although altogether uncorroborated, is evidence to go to a jury. A conviction upon such evidence is legal, & there can be no general rule as to the cautionary directions to be given to the jury respecting his evidence.—R. v. SHERHAN (1826), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 54.—IR.

4891 vi. ———.—The evidence of an accomplice is admissible, & a conviction is not illegal because it proceeds upon the uncorroborated testimony of an

4887 v. ———.—The corroboration required to support the evidence of a confederate should be independent from the latter & immediately connect accused with the crime. It should show not only that the crime was committed but that accused committed it.—R. v. DUMONT, [1918] Q. R. 54 S. C. 9; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 442.—CAN.

4887 vi. ———.—There must be some corroboration independent of the accomplice, or of a co-confessing prisoner, to show that the party accused was actually engaged directly in the commission of the crime charged against him.—R. v. RAM SARAN (1885), 1 L. R. 8 All. 306.—IND.

4888 i. Depends on nature of charge.—The nature & extent of the corroboration required depend a great deal upon the character of the crime charged.—R. v. TOWER (1880), 20 N. B. R. 168.—CAN.

n. Slight corroboration may suffice Untrue denial of accomplice by prisoner.—The denial by a prisoner of his acquaintance with the approver, which was proved to be untrue, is evidence to corroborate the approver.—R. v. FARRELLY (1832), 1 Craw. & D. 161, n.—IR.

o. May depend on whether accomplice voluntary.—Where complainant did not willingly offer the bribe, but accused, a police officer, demanded it before taking up the charge lodged by complainant & made use of his official position to enforce his demand:—Held: the circumstances were such testimony of accomplices with a much slighter degree of corroboration than would be the case if the accomplices were entirely voluntary accomplices.—DEO NANDAN PERSHAD v. R. (1906), 1 L. R. 33 Calc. 649.—IND.

p. — Depends on evidence of accomplice.—The amount of corroboration depends upon the evidence of the accomplice in each particular case.—R. v. MUNCHIN (1917), T. P. D. 549.—S. AF.

q. Corroboration may be looked for anywhere in case.—Upon a question reserved whether there was any evidence adduced by the prosecution corroborating the evidence of complainant implicating accused:—Held: the question should be treated as if it estimony stands totally uncorroborated.—R. v. ATWOOD & ROBBINS (1788), 1 Leach, 464.

Annotations :—Refd. Jordaine v. Lashbrooke (1798), 7 Term Rep. 601; R. v. Jones (1809), 2 Camp. 131; R. v. Wilson, Lewis & Havard (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 125; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658; R. v. Crocker (1922), 92 L. J. K. B. 428.

4892. —.]—The practice of not calling upon a prisoner to defend himself against the single uncorroborated testimony of accomplice, is rather a matter of discretion with the ct. than a general rule of law; a prisoner may be convicted on such testimony, if the jury believe the witness.—R. v. DURHAM & CROWDER (1787), 1 Leach, 478.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Jones (1809), 2 Camp. 131.

4893. —.]—A person indicted for a misdemeanour or a felony may be legally convicted upon the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice.—R. v. JONES (1809), 2 Camp. 131; 31 State Tr. 251.

Annotations :—Appld. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658. Refd. R. v. Stubbs (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 48. Mentd. R. v. Rowton (1865), Le. & Ca. 520; R. v. Roberts (1878), 38 L. T. 690; Castro v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229.

4894. —.]—By the law of this country accomplices are witnesses competent to be heard: the credit that is to be given to them must depend, in a great degree, on the probability of the story they tell, or on the confirmation that may be given to them from other & pure sources, so far as what they say is capable of confirmation, & upon the absence of that contradiction which may be adduced if the story related be not true. There is no rule of law which says that the testimony of accomplices must be credited; there is no rule of law, or of practice, that has said it must be rejected (ABBOTT, C.J.).—R. v. THISTLEWOOD (1820), 33 State Tr. 681, 921.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Tate (1908), 77 L. J. K. B. 1043; R. v. Bloodworth (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 80; R. v. Watson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 219. Mentd. R. v. Cumming (1848), 7 State Tr. N. S. 485; R. v. Martin (1848), 6 State Tr. N. S. 925; R. v. Mitchell (1848), 6 State Tr. N. S. 599; R. v. O'Dogherty (1848), 5 Cox, C. C. 348; O'Brien v. R., etc. (1849), 3 Cox, C. C. 360; R. v. Duffy (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 795; R. v. Smith O'Brien (1849), 7 State Tr. N. S. 1; Mulcahy v. R. (1867), 15 W. R. 446.

4895. —.]—A jury may, if they please, act upon the evidence of an accomplice, without any confirmation of his statement.—R. v. HASTINGS & GRAVES (1835), 7 C. & P. 152; 3 Nev. & M. M. C. 396.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4896. —.]—A prisoner who employed another person to harbour the principal felons may be convicted as accessory after the fact, though he himself did no act of relieving, etc., & prisoner may be found guilty on the uncorroborated testimony of the person who actually harboured.—R. v. JARVIS, LANGDON & STEAR (1837), 2 Mood. & R. 40, N. P.

4897. —.]—The evidence of an accomplice, though uncorroborated, is evidence to go to the jury.

My own opinion is, that I have no right to withdraw any case from the jury where there is even one competent witness for the prosecution, although he be an accomplice, & uncorroborated. That is my view of the law (ERLE, J.).—R. v. AVERY (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 493; 1 Cox, C. C. 206.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

accomplice.—R. v. MAGANLAL (1889), 1 L. R. 14 Boin. 115.—IND.

4891 vii. —.]—An accomplice is a competent witness & there is no absolute rule of law which enacts that the conviction on the evidence of an accomplice is bad.—SIAR NONTA v. R. (1913), 18 C. W. N. 550.—IND.

4891 viii. —.]—A judge or jury is entitled to convict upon the uncorroborated evidence of socii criminis, if the judge or jury believe their evidence.—BROWN v. MACPHERSON, [1918] S. C. (J.) 3.—SCOT.

4891 ix. —.]—A prisoner may be convicted on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, provided there

4898. —.]—Where the case for the prosecution is supported by the unconfirmed testimony of an accomplice, the ct., since Evidence Act, 1843 (c. 85), will not withdraw it from the consideration of the jury, but leave it to them, with a recommendation that they should not act upon it.—R. v. SKILLER (1845), 9 J. P. 314.

4899. —.]—Qu. : whether the confirmation of the evidence of an accomplice against one of two prisoners jointly indicted is sufficient.

The ct. has no right to withdraw the evidence of an accomplice, even though unconfirmed, from the consideration of the jury.

I do not think it necessary that there should be a confirmation as to each of the prisoners; a confirmation as to one would be sufficient. It is a question for the jury. I think it right to say that in my opinion the necessity for the confirmation of an accomplice has been stated too strongly in some of the cases. I do not wish it to be understood that I am overruling any of the decided cases; but it appears to me that even the testimony of an accomplice, though entirely unconfirmed, must go to the jury, accompanied, of course, by such recommendations as the judge in such case would feel it his duty to make. If a witness be admissible at all, I have no right to withdraw his testimony from the consideration of the jury, & the law having admitted the evidence of an accomplice, it is the province of the jury to determine its value (COLERIDGE, J.).—R. v. ANDREWS & PAYNE (1845), 5 L. T. O. S. 23; 1 Cox, C. C. 183.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4900. —.]—The rule that a jury should not convict on the unsupported evidence of an accomplice is a rule of practice only, & not a rule of law. Semble : a judge should advise the jury to acquit, unless the testimony of the accomplice be corroborated, not only as to the circumstances of the offence, but also as to the participation in it by accused, & where there are several prisoners, & the accomplice is not confirmed as to all, the jury should be directed to acquit prisoners as to whom he is not confirmed :—Held : this being a rule of practice only, if a jury choose to act on the unconfirmed testimony of the accomplice, the conviction cannot be quashed as bad in law.—R. v. STUBBS (1855), Dears. C. C. 555; 25 L. J. M. C. 16; 26 L. T. O. S. 109; 19 J. P. 760; 1 Jur. N. S. 1115; 4 W. R. 85; 7 Cox, C. C. 48, C. C. R.

Annotations :—Expld. R. v. Boyes (1861), 1 B. & S. 311; R. v. Baskerville (1916), 25 Cox, C. C. 524. Refd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77.

4901. —.]—R. v. GALLAGHER, No. 6713, post.

4902. —.]—M. was charged with causing two explosions in France, one of which caused loss of life. On an appln. for a writ of habeas corpus it was objected that the charges depended on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice :—Held : the evidence of the accomplice was corroborated & even if it were not the magistrate had discretion as to whether the evidence was sufficient for committal.—Re MEUNIER, [1894] 2 Q. B. 415; 63 L. J. M. C. 198; 71 L. T. 403; 42 W. R. 637; 18 Cox, C. C. 15; 10 R. 400, D. C.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Tate, [1908] 2 K. B. 680. Refd.

is evidence alunde that the crime has been committed.—R. v. TWALATUNGA (1903), 20 S. C. 425.—S. AF.

4891 x. —.]—Non-corroboration of accomplices is not a good ground in point of law for invalidating a conviction.—R. v. WOODGATE (1877), 3 C. A. 320; 2 J. R. N. S. 5.—N.Z.

Sect. 13.—Evidence of accomplice: Sub-sect. 4, C. & D.]

that accused committed the crime; it is sufficient if it is merely circumstantial evidence of his connection with the crime.

The uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice is admissible in law, but the jury should be warned of the danger of convicting on such evidence. Should no such warning be given by the judge, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will quash the conviction.—R. v. BASKERVILLE, [1916] 2 K. B. 658; 86 L. J. K. B. 28; 115 L. T. 453; 80 J. P. 446; 60 Sol. Jo. 696; 25 Cox, C. C. 524; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 81, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd.* Thomas v. Jones, [1921] 1 K. B. 22. Refd. R. v. Wyman (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163; R. v. Feigenbaum, [1919] 1 K. B. 431; R. v. Smith (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 74; R. v. Schiff (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63; R. v. Howard (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 177; R. v. Crocker (1922), 92 L. J. K. B. 428; R. v. Rudge (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 113. Mentd. R. v. Wakeley (1919), 84 J. P. 31; R. v. Warren (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 4.

4935. ———.]—Indirect circumstantial evidence will be sufficient, if it is independent. It must implicate accused, that is, it must be evidence to show, not that the crime has been committed, but that accused committed it.

The uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice is undoubtedly admissible in law, but the judge should warn the jury of the danger of convicting in his discretion, advise upon such evidence, but in their legal defence if they believe it (LORD COLERIDGE, J.).—R. v. WYMAN (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd.* R. v. Adler (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 105.

4936. Need not amount to independent evidence implicating accused.]—Corroboration of an accomplice's evidence need not amount to independent evidence implicating deft.—R. v. WILSON, LEWIS 25 C. C. A.

Annotations:—Apprvd.* R. v. Baskerville (1916), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 281. Consd. R. v. Watson (1913), 109 L. T. 335. Apprvd. R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77. Consd. Bradshaw v. Waterlow, [1915] 3 K. B. 527; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658. Refd. R. v. Crane (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 113; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Threlfall (1914), 111 L. T. 168; R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933; R. v. Wyman (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163.

4937. Equivocal corroboration.]—R. v. WATSON, No. 4705, ante.

4938. Not confirmed by finding stolen property on premises of person charged with receiving it—Evidence of thief.]—On an indictment for receiving goods, knowing them to have been stolen, the mere fact that they were found on prisoner's premises is not sufficient to confirm the evidence to show by circumstantial evidence that accused had a share in the perpetration of the offence.—R. v. DUMONT (1918), Q. R. 54 S. C. 9; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 442.—CAN.

h. Must point to acts of accused.]—Corroboration is sufficient only when directed to acts of accused.—R. v. STEFANIC, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 1212; 16 Alta. L. R. 246; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 319.—CAN.

k. Statement by accused.]—Applt. was charged with having had carnal knowledge of a girl under 16 years of age. He was convicted of having attempted to have unlawful carnal knowledge of the girl & was sentenced:—Held: there was sufficient corroborative evidence in that applt. had admitted he had performed indecent acts towards the girl.—ABERNETHY v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 108.—AUS.

l. ———.]—R. v. WYSE (1895), 2 Terr. L. R. 103.—CAN.

4941. Evidence of accused.]—R. v.

of the thief, so far as to make it proper to convict.—R. v. PRATT (1865), 4 F. & F. 315.

4939. Statement by accused—Refusal by accused to undergo medical examination.]—R. v. GRAY, No. 4824, ante.

4940. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of shop-breaking. The ground of appeal was that there was no evidence to corroborate the statements made at the trial by an accomplice.

There was no evidence except that of the accomplice, that applt. was anywhere near the shop when it was broken into:—Held: the words "do you think I should be such a fool as to have the stuff here for you to get it?" spoken to the police when they came to arrest applt., were capable of being construed as an admission of guilt, & were some evidence to corroborate the accomplice & the conviction was proper.—R. v. LUCY (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 165, C. C. A.

4941. Evidence of accused.]—R. v. KENAWAY, No. 3922, ante.

4942. Non-denial of charge.]—Evidence of the non-denial of an offence by prisoner when formally charged with it by the police on his arrest is not necessarily corroborative of evidence of the commission of the offence given by an accomplice. Where the judge at the trial has omitted to warn the jury that they ought not to convict prisoner on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will generally quash the conviction as being a miscarriage of justice unless there was in fact corroborative evidence before the jury.—R. v. TATE, [1908] 2 K. B. 680; 77 L. J. K. B. 1043; 99 L. T. 620; 72 J. P. 391; 52 Sol. Jo. 699; 21 Cox, C. C. 693; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 39, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd.* R. v. Beauchamp (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 40; R. v. Kams (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 8; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4943. ———.]—R. v. FEIGENBAUM, No. 4151, ante.

v. BOVY (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 15, C. C. A.

4945. Corroboration by wife.]—In a case of felony the testimony of the wife of an accomplice is not such evidence as a jury ought to rely upon as confirmation of the statement of the accomplice.

Confirmation by the wife is, in a case like this, really no confirmation at all. The wife & the accomplice must be taken as one for this purpose (PARK, J.).—R. v. NEAL & TAYLOR (1835), 7 C. & P. 168; 3 Nev. & M. M. C. 398.

Annotations:—Consd.* R. v. Payne (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 171; R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933.

4946. ———.]—Qu.: whether the testimony of the wife of an accomplice can be corroboration

(1837), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 203.—IR.

4945 ii. ———.]—When there are several approvers, their respective testimonies are not corroborative of each other, unless it appears that they could have had no communication with each other subsequently to the commission of the crime.—R. v. AYLMER & BEHAN (1839), 1 Craw. & D. 116.—IR.

4945 iii. ———.]—The evidence of an accomplice, if uncorroborated, is not sufficient to support a conviction, & the number of the accomplices giving evidence makes no difference.—MAGILL'S CASE (1842), Ir. Cir. Rep. 418.—IR.

4945 iv. ———.]—If more than one accomplice gives independent evidence as to the commission of the offence, the testimony of one accomplice could be confirmed by the testimony of another.—R. v. FREESTONE (1913) T. P. D. 758.—S. AF.

m. Must corroborate in point of time.]—On the hearing of a charge

FONTAINE (1914), 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 159; 18 D. L. R. 275.—CAN.

4944 i. Question of corroboration for jury.]—R. v. WYSE (1895), 2 Terr. L. R. 103.—CAN.

4944 ii. ———.]—It is for the judge to decide whether there is corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice & for the jury to decide whether such corroboration is sufficient.—R. v. FREESTONE (1913), T. P. D. 758.—S. AF.

4945 i. Corroboration by wife—Question for jury.]—When there was no other corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice, with respect to the person of one of the prisoners, but the evidence of the accomplice's wife, who herself appeared to be implicated in the guilt of the transaction:—Held: the judge was right in not directing an acquittal, but in leaving the case to the jury, with observations upon the general objections to the credit of those witnesses, & a conviction under these circumstances was good.—R. v. CASEY of his statements.—R. v. PAYNE (1913), 29 T. L. R. 250; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 171; 77 J. P. Jo. 64, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Willis (1916), 32 T. L. R. 452.

4947. Corroboration by wife of another accomplice.—On the trial of an indictment one of several accomplices in the crime charged was called as a witness against accused. His evidence was corroborated by that of the wife of another accomplice who was not called. The wife was herself innocent of any connection with the crime:—Held: under those circumstances the jury were entitled to rely upon her evidence as good corroboration, & the mere fact that she was the wife of an accomplice, & that her evidence was not itself corroborated by an independent witness did not disentitle it to credit.—R. v. WILLIS, [1916] 1 K. B. 933; 85 L. J. K. B. 1129; 114 L. T. 1047; 80 J. P. 279; 32 T. L. R. 452; 60 Sol. Jo. 514; 25 Cox, C. C. 397; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 44, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4948. Corroboration by another accomplice insufficient.—R. v. NOAKES, No. 4907, ante.

4949. —.]—R. v. CUFFEY, No. 6714, post.

4950. —.]—R. v. GAY, No. 4917, ante.

4951. —.]—A statement by a co-deft. who is an accomplice of another deft. is not corroboration of the evidence of other accomplices against that deft.—R. v. HOWARD (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

D. Where more than one Accused.

4952. Effect of corroboration not touching all the accused.—If the testimony of an accomplice be confirmed, so far as his testimony relates to one prisoner, but be not confirmed with respect to involving unlawful carnal knowledge of a girl under 16 years of age, the corroboration required is not supplied by evidence tending to show that the offence took place at a time materially different to that alleged by the principal witness, e.g. by evidence indicating the commission of the offence in the afternoon where the principal witness deposed to its commission in the morning.—SULLIVAN v. R. (1913), 15 W. A. L. R. 23.—AUS.

n. Corroborating evidence conflicting with principal evidence.—An alleged admission or statement inconsistent with innocence made by accused person to the corroborating witness cannot be accepted as corroborative when such statement must have been made in the presence of the principal witness, who has not only given no evidence of it but has testified generally that accused always denied the offence.—SULLIVAN v. R. (1913), 15 W. A. L. R. 23.—AUS.

o. Carnal knowledge of girl—Resemblance of child to accused.—On the trial of a charge of carnal knowledge of a girl of previously chaste character under the age of sixteen & above the age of fourteen years:—Held: the production in ct. of an infant about three months old alleged to have been born as the result of the seduction, & the testimony of the mother & aunt of the girl that the infant resembled accused & one of his children, was not sufficient corroborative evidence.—R. v. FIDLER, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 871; 66 D. L. R. 537; 36 Can. Crim. Cas. 239; 31 Man. L. R. 358.—CAN.

p. Possession of property taken from murdered person—Corroborative of theft—Not corroborative of murder.—The possession of property taken from a murdered person is not adequate corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice charging such person in possession with participation in the murder, though it would, no doubt, be corroboration of evidence that prisoner participated in a robbery, or that he another prisoner, the latter may be convicted on the testimony of the accomplice if the jury deem him to be worthy of credit.—R. v. DAWBER (1821), 3 Stark. 34, N. P.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Stubbs (1855), 7 Cox, C. C. 48.

4953. —.]—R. v. FIELD (1828), Dickinson's Guide to Quarter Sessions, 6th ed. 504.

4954. —.]—On an indictment against principal & accessories the case against the principal was proved by the testimony of an accomplice who was confirmed as to the accessories, but not as to the principal: the jury were directed to acquit prisoners.—R. v. WELLS, HUDD & COLLEDGE (1829), Mood. & M. 326, N. P.

4955. —.]—If A. is charged as a principal, & B. as a receiver, & A. plead guilty—an accomplice when called to give evidence against B. should be confirmed as to some matter affecting B., & a confirmation as to the guilt of A. does not advance the case against B.—R. v. MOORES (1836), 7 C. & P. 270, N. P.

4956. —.]—An approver ought to be confirmed as to each of the prisoners.—R. v. FLETCHER (1838), 2 Lew. C. C. 45, n.

4957. —.]—Where an accomplice, in giving evidence against two prisoners, is confirmed as to his statement against one of them, it ought not to operate as a confirmation of his testimony against the other.—R. v. JENKINS (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 177.

Annotation:—Apprvd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

4958. —.]—R. v. ANDREWS & PAYNE, No. 4899, ante.

4959. —.]—R. v. STUBBS, No. 4900, ante.

had dishonestly received stolen property.—R. v. RAM SARAN (1885), 1 L. R. 8 All. 306.—IND.

q. Production of stolen property by accused.—Where accused was convicted of house-breaking by night with intent to commit theft, & the only evidence against him was the confession of a fellow-prisoner, & the fact that he pointed out the stolen property some months after the commission of the offence:—Held: the mere production of the stolen property by accused was not sufficient corroboration of the confession of the other prisoner.—R. v. DOSA JIVA (1885), 1 L. R. 10 Bom. 231.—IND.

r. All surrounding circumstances must be considered.—In dealing with the question what amount of corroboration is required in the case of testimony given by an accomplice, the cts. must exercise careful discrimination, & look at the surrounding circumstances in order to arrive at a conclusion whether the facts deposed to by the person alleged to be an accomplice are borne out by these circumstances, or whether the circumstances are of such a nature that the evidence purporting to be given by the alleged accomplice should be supported in essential & material particulars by evidence aliunde as to the facts deposed to by that accomplice.—KAMALA PRASAD v. SITAI PRASAD (1901), 1 L. R. 28 Calc. 339; 5 C. W. N. 517.—IND.

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 4.—D.

4952 i. Effect of 'corroboration not touching all accused.'—The accomplice must be corroborated not only as to one but as to all of the persons affected by the evidence, & corroboration of his evidence as to one prisoner does not entitle his evidence against another to be accepted without corroboration.—R. v. RAM SARAN (1885), 1 L. R. 8 All. 306.—IND.

4952 ii. —.]—Criminal cts. dealing with an approver's evidence in a case where several persons are charged should require corroboration of his statements in respect of the identity of each of the individuals accused.—R. v. BALDEO (1886), 1 L. R. 8 All. 509.—IND.

4952 iii. —.]—When several prisoners are tried together upon the same indictment, a verdict of guilty against all the prisoners, founded upon the testimony of an accomplice, corroborated as to one of the prisoners but uncorroborated as to the others, will be upheld.—R. v. CURRIS (1838), Craw. & D. Abr. C. 274.—IR.

s. Confession of one prisoner cannot corroborate evidence of accomplice against other prisoners.—The confession of one of the prisoners cannot be used to corroborate the evidence of an accomplice against the others, tainted evidence not being made better by being corroborated by other tainted evidence.—R. v. MALAPA BIN KAPANA (1874), 11 Bom. 196.—IND.

t. Evidence of one accused not corroborative evidence against fellow accused.—A woman was convicted along with a married couple of acting in concert & defrauding a relief fund, by obtaining relief for the husband upon false statements, including a false statement that the husband was out of work at the time of the application. The woman's part in the transaction was that she had filled up the necessary form for the husband, & had signed it for him, without having made any inquiry into the truth of the facts stated. The only evidence that she actually knew of the falsity of any statement in the form was that of the wife, who, in giving evidence on her own behalf at the trial, stated that she had told the woman that her husband was at work:—Held: as the evidence of the wife, assuming it to be competent against her fellow-accused, was uncorroborated, it was insufficient to prove complicity on the part of applt. in the fraud.—TOWNSEND v. STRATHERN, [1923] S. C. (J.) 66.—SCOT.

Sect. 13.—Evidence of accomplice: Sub-sect. 4, E.E. Direction on Corroboration.

4960. Caution to jury essential.—R. v. TATE, No. 4942, ante.

4961. —.]—R. v. WARNER, No. 3852, ante.

4962. —.]—Conviction quashed on the ground that in the summing-up the jury were not cautioned that the evidence of a witness came from a tainted source & was uncorroborated, & on the further ground that there was no sufficient differentiation in the summing-up of the case against prisoner from that against prisoner indicted with him.—R. v. BEAUCHAMP (1909), 73 J. P. 223; 25 T. L. R. 330; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 20, 40, C. C. A.

4963. —.]—The ct. will quash a conviction unless the jury are expressly directed that there must be corroboration of an accomplice's evidence.—R. v. MASON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

4964. —.]—Where on the trial of a charge of larceny the only evidence against deft. is that of a person who received the stolen property, & there is a suspicion that he knew that the property was stolen, his evidence must not be left to the jury as that of an untainted witness, but they should be warned that if they think that he was an accomplice there ought to be corroboration of his story.—R. v. JENNINGS (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 242, C. C. A.

4965. —.]—R. v. BLOODWORTH, No. 4014, ante.

4966. —.]—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

4967. —.]—R. v. BASKERVILLE, No. 4934, ante.

4968. —.]—On a charge of receiving a pony knowing it to have been stolen, the jury, in answer to questions put to them by the deputy chairman of quarter sessions, found that the explanation given by applt. was one which might reasonably be true, but returned a verdict of guilty against applt. An accomplice pleaded guilty to the theft, but there was no corroboration of his evidence against applt. on the charge of receiving. The jury were not properly directed as to knowledge by applt. that the pony was stolen, nor as to the necessity for corroboration of the evidence given against applt. by the accomplice:—Held: owing to their being no corroboration of the evidence given by the accomplice, the appeal must be allowed & the conviction quashed.—R. v. NORRIS (1916), 86 L. J. K. B. 810; 116 L. T. 160; 25 Cox, C. C. 601; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 156, C. C. A.

4969. —.]—R. v. BRYANT (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

4970. —.]—R. v. WYMAN, No. 4935, ante.

4971. —.]—Applt. was convicted on a charge of having had carnal knowledge of a girl under sixteen years of age. The girl gave evidence of being assaulted by prisoner at her aunt's house on two occasions. Although other persons were about the house at the time of the assaults, she made no complaint to anyone until five or six months afterwards, when finding herself pregnant, she accused prisoner. The judge in his summing up repeatedly warned the jury that the girl's evidence was uncorroborated:—Held: the evidence given by the girl was not that of an accomplice, & even if it had been, the judge having repeatedly warned the jury that her evidence was uncorroborated it was within their province to convict prisoner upon such uncorroborated evi-

PART XII. SECT. 13, SUB-SECT. 4.—E.

4960 i. Caution to jury essential.—PEACOCK v. R., [1911] 13 C. L. R. 619.—AUS.

4960 ii. —.]—It is not only a desirable practice that jurors should be warned against accepting uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, but if it should appear at any trial that the warning has not been given, & there is an absence of corroborative evidence, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal should set aside the conviction & deal with the case under the provisions of the Act, which enables the ct., if it thinks a proper case appears, to direct a new trial.—R. v. MOELLER (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 613.—AUS.

4960 iii. —.]—On a charge of receiving stolen property, the principal witness was an accomplice, who admitted having stolen the goods. To corroborate this evidence a witness was called whose evidence was sufficient to raise grave doubts whether he was not also an accomplice. He was cross-examined to show that he must have been aware both of the stealing & of the receiving, but neither party at the trial.

accomplice. The judge left his evidence to the jury as that of an independent witness. The judge should have accepted in corroboration of that of the principal witness:—Held: though there was ample independent evidence of corroboration, the judge ought in the circumstances to have warned the jury that there was evidence upon which they might find that the second witness was also an accomplice, & a new trial was granted.—R. v. MALOUF (1918), 18 S. R. N. S. W. 142.—AUS.

4960 iv. —.]—The evidence of an accomplice, even though uncorroborated, is legal evidence & sufficient to support a conviction, but the trial judge should advise the jury not to convict upon such evidence.—R. v. REYNOLDS (1906), 1 Sask. L. R. 80;

9 W. L. R. 299; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 209.—CAN.

4960 v. —.]—A rule of practice & experience exists relative to the evidence of accomplices against accused, which requires that the jury be warned against the danger of convicting on such evidence without corroboration.—R. v. FRECHETTE (1920), 46 O. L. R. 610; 51 D. L. R. 246; 32 Can. Crim. Cas. 409; 17 O. W. N. 386.—CAN.

4960 vi. —.]—The judge should tell the jury that, although the law permits them to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, it is not the practice of our ct., which have consistently held that it was not safe or proper to convict on such evidence without some corroboration sufficient to connect each of the accused with the offence committed.—JAMIRUDDI MASALI v. R. (1902), 1 L. R. 29 Cal. 782; 6 C. W. N. 553.—IND.

4960 vii. —.]—In a criminal trial where the case for the prosecution depends wholly or in part on the testimony of an accomplice it is the duty of the presiding judge to warn the jury that it is unsafe to convict on the uncorroborated testimony of the accomplice, although it is competent for a. —.]—Rule of discretion.—The rule requiring the judge to direct juries not to convict on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is a rule of discretion, & not of law.—R. v. WEBSTER & WELLS (1880), 1 N. S. W. L. R. 331.—AUS.

PETERSON (1911), 30 N. Z. L. R. 801.—N.Z.

b. —.]—There is no rule of law requiring a judge to direct the jury as to corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice; it is a rule of prudence only.—R. v. GRAHAM, [1915] V. L. R. 402.—AUS.

c. —.]—Rule of practice.—The question whether or not a judge, in charging a jury, should caution them that the evidence of an accomplice should be corroborated, is not a matter for a ct. to review on a case reserved, for it is not a question of law, but of practice, though a practice which should not be omitted.—R. v. ANDREWS (1886), 12 O. R. 184.—CAN.

d. —.]—Where the evidence of an accomplice is uncorroborated, the correct practice requires a judge not merely to tell the jury that it is unusual to convict on such evidence, but that he should also tell them that it is unsafe, & contrary both to prudence & practice, to do so, yet his omission to state this does not amount to an error in law.—R. v. GANU BIN DHARJOI (1869), 6 Bom. Cr. Ca. 57.—IND.

e. —.]—It is a rule of practice & not a rule of law for the presiding judge in a criminal trial to warn the jury that it is dangerous to rely upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice.—R. v. WESTON (1912), 32 N. Z. L. R. 56.—N.Z.

f. —.]—Effect of failure to caution.—A conviction of a prisoner for horse-stealing, upon the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, was held legal, although the judge did not caution the jury as to the weight to be attached to the evidence.—R. v. BECKWITH (1859), 8 C. P. 274.—CAN.

g. —.]—There was no evidence to show that accused was one of the persons present & participating in the affair which led to the death of S., with the exception of that given by two persons who were in company with accused & participating with him in carrying out a common intention, & who, therefore, were accomplices:—Held: the case was one in which the trial judge should have warned the jury of the danger of convicting on the evidence given, & as he had failed to do so the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. MORRISON (1917), 51

—R. v. CROCKER (1922), 92 L. J. K. B. 428; 128 L. T. 33; 87 J. P. 44; 39 T. L. R. 105; 67 Sol. Jo. 248; 27 Cox, C. C. 325; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 46, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Rudge (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 113.

Part XIII.—Punishment and Prevention of Crime.

SECT. 1.—PRINCIPLES THAT DETERMINE THE AMOUNT OF PUNISHMENT.

SUB-SECT. 1.—SENTENCE GENERALLY.

4973. —[Sentence must be taken into consideration.—R. v. BAKER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 9, C. C. A.

4974. —[R. v. EDWARDS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

4975. Sentence must not be fixed by rule of thumb.—This is not a case of arbitrary doubling a previous sentence. There is not the slightest ground for the suggestion as to "a rule of thumb" (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. THORNTON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 315, C. C. A.

4976. Sentence must be limited to offence proved & admitted.—The maximum sentence warranted by law should be reserved for the worst cases of the particular offence.

Where, on a trial for rape, the prosecutrix is absent in suspicious circumstances, so that a conviction except for a minor offence, e.g. indecent assault, would be unsafe, the judge, in passing sentence, ought not to be influenced by the more serious charge.

Detention before trial ought to be taken into account in passing sentence.—R. v. HARRISON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 94, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Fold. R. v. Boxall, Hammersley & Marston (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 175.

4977. —[W. married I. in 1876. In 1878 his wife parted from him. In 1890 W. purported to marry B., describing himself as a bachelor in the register of marriage. In 1906 B. parted from him. In 1909 W. was indicted for bigamy, & for wilfully making in 1890 a false entry in a register of marriage. The prosecution elected not to proceed on the indictment for bigamy on the ground that there was no evidence on the depositions that in 1890 W. was aware that his wife was alive. W. was convicted on the other indictment, & evidence having been given of bad conduct on his part to I. & to B., he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment with hard labour.—Held: it was plain that W. had not been sentenced to this term for what he had written in the marriage register in the year 1890, but by reason of the strong view the judge took of W.'s conduct. The sentence was one of which the Ct. could not for a moment approve. W. had been in prison for a few weeks & he should be immediately discharged.—R. v. WELLS (1909), 73 J. P. 415; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 259, C. C. A.

4972. —[When two persons are tried together & the evidence discloses a possibility that one of them may be an accomplice of the other or of a third person, the usual warning to the jury about corroboration must be given.—R. v. HEATHFIELD (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 80.

4978. —[R. v. BROCKLESS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

4979. —[On an indictment containing counts charging indecent & also common assault, a plea of guilty to the common assault was entered & a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour was imposed. Applt. had been previously twice convicted, & three times charged with various offences but was acquitted:—Held: the sentence of twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, being the maximum sentence which could be imposed for a common assault, to which the accused had pleaded guilty, was under the circumstances too severe.

The proper thing is to disregard altogether the cases where applt. was acquitted (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. JOSEPHSON (1914), 110 L. T. 512;

N. S. R. 253; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 6.—CAN.

h. —[A judge should caution a jury not to accept the evidence of an approver unless it is corroborated; the omission to do so amounts to misdirection.—R. v. ARUMUGA (1888), 1 L. R. 12 Mad. 196.—IND.

k. Where caution given—Jury may convict.—Where the jury were properly warned that they should not convict accused on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, & they nevertheless convicted, Ct. of Criminal Appeal refused to quash the conviction.—R. v. REVEE (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 81; 34 N. S. W. W. N. 123.—AUS.

l. —[The jury were told that the testimony of accomplices was not sufficiently corroborated to warrant a conviction, whereupon they came into Ct. stating that they thought prisoner guilty, but that he ought not to be convicted on the evidence. They were then told that they ought to acquit; but after a short interval they returned a verdict of guilty. Before recording their finding, the presiding judge recommended them not to convict on the evidence, saying, however, that they could do so if they thought proper; they nevertheless adhered to their verdict:—Held: no ground for a new trial.—R. v. SEDDON (1866), 16 C. P. 389.—CAN.

m. —[Where a prisoner had been found guilty by the jury on the uncorroborated evidence of an approver, after the judge in his summing up had pointed out to them the desirability, under the circumstances, of such corroboration, the High Ct. on appeal refused to set aside the conviction on that ground.—R. v. MAHIMA CHANDRA DAS (1871), 6 B. L. R. App. 108; 15 W. R. 37.—IND.

n. —[The direction commonly given to the jury, is that they are not bound to convict on the unsupported testimony of an accomplice or even an accessory after the fact; that it is not safe to do it; that they should not give credit to such unsupported testimony; but that he cannot withdraw such evidence from their consideration; it is legal evidence, & being so they may act upon it or not as they please, bearing in mind the caution & advice which they have received.—R. v. SMITH (1876), 38 U. C. R. 218.—CAN.

o. —[The judge should caution the jury as to the danger of convicting, & advise them not to convict on the uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice; but if, notwithstanding such caution & advice, a verdict of "guilty" is rendered, such verdict is legal, & a conviction must be made.—R. v. BEROHL (1912), 21 W. L. R. 665; 2 W. W. R. 624; 5 D. L. R. 497.—CAN.

PART XIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.

4976 i. Sentence must be limited to offence proved or admitted.—In considering what sentence should be passed a judge has no right to impose a heavier sentence than he otherwise would have imposed or to refrain from reducing the sentence to what he otherwise would have reduced it because accused's sworn statement has not been accepted by the jury.—R. v. RICHMOND (1920), V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

4976 ii. —[A judge, in determining what sentence he will impose or in determining whether he will suspend the execution of the sentence, is not entitled to take into consideration the fact that accused has made on oath in his defence statements which the jury regard as false, but he may take into consideration the demeanour & possibly also statements, considered apart from their falsity, of accused when giving evidence just as he may consider such matters when accused makes a statement from the dock.—R. v. TIMMS, [1921] V. L. R. 503.—AUS.

p. Measure of sentence—Discretion of court.—A judge has a discretion as to whether he will pass sentence of death or not upon a prisoner guilty of murder. Such discretion should be exercised only in very special circumstances, on very special occasions, & for very cogent reasons.—

Sect. 1.—Principles that determine the amount of punishment: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

30 T. L. R. 243; 24 Cox, C. C. 128; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 8; 78 J. P. Jo. 40, C. C. A.

4980. —[—]—In calculating what sentence to pass upon a prisoner a judge may consider the motives which actuated prisoner in committing the act admitted by or proved against him, but he must not attribute to prisoner a motive which has been negatived by the jury, or guilt of a crime not charged in the indictment. He must not assume prisoner to be guilty of a statutory aggravation of an offence which might have been, & was not, charged in the indictment, so as to punish him for the offence with the addition of the aggravation.—R. v. BRIGHT, [1916] 2 K. B. 441; 85 L. J. K. B. 1638; 115 L. T. 488; 80 J. P. 407; 32 T. L. R. 600; 25 Cox, C. C. 540; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

*Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Wheeler, [1917] 1 K. B. 283.

4981. —[—]—In imposing sentence the judge must accept the jury's finding.—R. v. MARSHALL (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 208, C. C. A.

4982. —[—]—Sentence ought not to be mitigated in view of meritorious military service.

When the question of sentence is under consideration each case must be judged on its own merits, on nothing else.—R. v. ANSELL (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 110, C. C. A.

4983. —[—]—When on a charge of a graver offence a plea of guilty to a lesser is accepted, care must be taken only to sentence for the latter.—R. v. RAPER (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 195, C. C. A.

4984. — Extraneous matters must not be considered—Perjury by accused.—[—]R. v. BOYD (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 64; 72 J. P. Jo. 352, C. C. A.

4985. —[—]—Sentence ought not to be increased because deft. after conviction persists in asserting his innocence.—R. v. NEWMAN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 134, C. C. A.

4986. — Desire to promote habits of temperance.—[—]Applt. was convicted of neglecting four children in a manner likely to cause them unnecessary suffering or injury to their health; she was also convicted of being an habitual drunkard; & she was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, to be followed by three years' detention in an inebriate reformatory.—Held: the sentence was too severe, & it should be reduced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, to be followed by twelve months' detention in a reformatory.—R. v. PRINCE (1908), 25 T. L. R. 197; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 252, C. C. A.

4987. —[—]—The ct. does not view with favour the imposition of a sentence on a prisoner addicted to drink severer than is usually passed for the given offence, merely to promote habits of temperance on his part.—R. v. CRISP (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

4988. Sentence must be proportionate to offence.—[—]R. v. RAY & CARTER (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 189, C. C. A.

4989. —[—]R. v. MOUNTFORD (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 224, C. C. A.

*Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Evans (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 15.

R. v. SINNAH (1900), 10 H. C. 387.—S. AF.

q. Definite penalty imposed by statute—Other penalty irregular.—[—]When an Act of the Legislature prescribes a definite penalty for an offence, the imposition of a penalty other than the one prescribed is irregular.—Ex p. WILSON (1877), 1

P. & B. 274.—CAN.

r. Offence against provisions of statute—Under several sections.—[—]Non-compliance with the provisions of a statute renders an offender liable to only one penalty for each act, though the act be a breach of more than one sect.—SHAW v. PARDEY (1900), 18 N. Z. L. R. 782.—N.Z.

4990. —[—]R. v. WILLIAMS (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 51, C. C. A.

4991. — Trifling offence—Previous convictions.—[—]R. v. BENNETT & HOLLOMAN (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 203, C. C.

4992. —[—]—The ct. discourages sentences of penal servitude for thefts of goods of small value, even when prisoner has been previously convicted.—R. v. MARTIN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

4993. —[—]—Whatever may be his character, regard must always be had to the nature of the offence. He must not be sentenced to penal servitude for a trivial offence merely because he has been so sentenced before (AVORY, J.).—R. v. BAKER (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 175.

4994. —[—]—The triviality of an offence may mitigate the effect of previous convictions.—R. v. DOUGLAS (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 185.

4995. — Maximum sentence intended for worst cases.—[—]R. v. HARRISON, No. 4976, ante.

4996. — Value of property stolen.—[—]Severity of sentence not dependent on value of property stolen.—R. v. MAURICE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

4997. —[—]—The value of property stolen is not the only measure of punishment.—R. v. MCCREESE (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 72, C. C. A.

4998. —[—]—While the offence of larceny for which a prisoner is indicted may be a very bad one notwithstanding that the sum stolen is small, as, for instance, where prisoner has obtained small amounts from a number of different persons, nevertheless, in dealing with one particular case of larceny the small amount stolen may properly be taken into consideration on the question of sentence.—R. v. MYLAND (1911), 27 T. L. R. 256; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

4999. Remanet of previous sentence—Should be taken into consideration.—[—]In passing sentence, any unexpired sentence should be taken into account.—R. v. SMITH (1909), as reported in 74 J. P. 13; 26 T. L. R. 23; 54 Sol. Jo. 137; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 40.

*Annotations:—Refd. R. v. JACKSON (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 93. Mentd. R. v. FRANKLIN (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 48; R. v. SWEENEY (1910), 74 J. P. Jo. 77.

5000. —[—]—Applt. was convicted of the larceny of a watch from his father & of 6s. from his sister. It appeared that there was a remanet of 270 days' imprisonment from his last sentence. He was now sentenced to six years' penal servitude. From this sentence he appealed. It is quite right to consider in such a case, when deciding what sentence should be imposed, that one effect of the commission of the particular offence would be that automatically by statute the appellant would have to serve this remanet of 270 days (per CUR.).—R. v. DORRINGTON (1910), 74 J. P. 392; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

5001. —[—]R. v. FISHER (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 269, C. C. A.

5002. —[—]R. v. SAUNDERS (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 18, C. C. A.

5003. —[—]—In view of the fact that a convict has a remanet of a previous sentence to serve a fresh sentence of penal servitude may be reduced.—R. v. FOWLES (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

s. Cannot commence on future day—Except at expiration of a prior term.—[—]The ct. has not power to award a sentence of imprisonment to commence at a future day except where it is to commence at the expiration of an imprisonment under a previous sentence.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 376.—IR.

5004. Type of punishment may be considered.—Sentence of whipping.—Shortens length of term.]—The infliction of flogging should diminish a term of penal servitude, part of the same sentence.—R. v. ENTWISTLE (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 93, C. C. A.

5005. — Borstal system—Requires adequate term.]—Where a judge sentences a prisoner to a term of detention or imprisonment under some particular form of treatment, such as the Borstal system, & it appears that the treatment is considered useless unless undergone for a certain period, the judge ought to take that fact into his consideration in determining the length of the sentence he will impose.—R. v. KIRKPATRICK (1908), 73 J. P. 29; 25 T. L. R. 66, C. C. A.
Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Keating (1910), 74 J. P. 452.

5006. — Modified Borstal system—Term not to be lengthened for.]—In sentencing a prisoner between the ages of 16 & 21, who for any reason cannot be sent to a Borstal institution, the judge ought not to impose a sentence for a longer term than is appropriate in the particular case in order that prisoner may get the benefit of the modified Borstal system as it is administered in prison.—R. v. OXLADE, [1919] 2 K. B. 628; 88 L. J. K. B. 1318; 83 J. P. 218; 122 L. T. 34; 26 Cox, C. C. 530; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 65, C. C. A.

5007. Possibility of remission for good conduct.]—The trial judge is entitled to take into consideration the possibility of part of a sentence being remitted for good conduct.—R. v. WILSON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2. —STANDARDISATION OF SENTENCES.

5008. No invariable standard.]—Applt. was indicted for larceny. He pleaded guilty to obtaining £1 by a trick. He had been ten times previously convicted. Applt. had received three sentences of penal servitude, & was under police supervision when he committed the offence with which he was charged. He was sentenced to 8 years' penal servitude, followed by three years' police supervision :—Held : a sentence of five years' penal servitude with no police supervision to follow must be given in the place of the sentence passed at the trial.

It is one of the advantages of this tribunal that it tends to a standardisation of sentences. No invariable tariff can ever be fixed, for it is impossible to classify guilt so nicely as to indicate it, even approximately, by the names given to the various crimes. But, with time, it is to be expected that the revision of sentences by this ct. will tend to harmonise the views of those who pass them, & so to ensure that varying punishments are not awarded for the same amount of guiltiness (per Cur.)—R. v. WOODMAN (1909), 73 J. P. 286; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 67, C. C. A.

5009. Felonious wounding.]—The applicant was convicted for wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm, & sentenced to fourteen years' penal servitude. The applicant, who was a dock labourer, having met his wife, from whom he had been judicially separated, in the street, followed her up, & got to the place where she lived, & then met her and stabbed her three times, & left the knife sticking in her back. The applicant pleaded not guilty at the trial, he was undefended, & stated that he was so drunk that he had lost all recollection of the circumstances.

It is quite impossible to lay down any standard as to what is a proper punishment for the offence of wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm, as little as in cases of manslaughter, the most difficult of all (CHANNELL, J.)—R. v. GORMAN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 187, C. C. A.

5010. —.]—D. was sentenced at the ct. of trial to five years' penal servitude for stabbing a woman. It appeared that the judge who sentenced him thought the prosecutrix was a respectable woman living with her husband, & that D. had broken up her home. Inquiries having been made, it appeared that this woman was a prostitute, living with a man who was not her husband. The injuries, which were not serious, were inflicted by applt. taking up a knife lying close to him in the midst of an altercation with the prosecutrix. The ct. passed in substitution a sentence of eighteen months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. DICKENSON (1909), 73 J. P. 286; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

5011. Rape.]—R. v. WINT (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 204, C. C. A.

5012. —.]—The normal sentence for rape is five years' penal servitude.—R. v. ROBINSON (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

5013. Bigamy.]—There can be no standardisation of sentences for bigamy.

Sentence mitigated to save forfeiture.—R. v. MORTIMER (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 146, C. C. A.

5014. Receiving stolen property.]—It is impossible to standardise sentences for receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge.—R. v. CLAY, R. v. GRANT, R. v. VALE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

5015. Incurable rogue.]—E. was sentenced at quarter sessions to nine months' imprisonment with hard labour as a rogue & vagabond. It appeared that he had already been sentenced on nine or ten occasions under the Vagrancy Acts, & that on one of these occasions he had been sentenced to seven months' imprisonment with hard labour as a rogue & vagabond. It appeared that ten years ago before the dates of these convictions, he had left the army with a character that was marked "Very Good." He had then obtained employment & kept himself, until he was struck down by paralysis. He then commenced playing a penny whistle in the streets & begging, the conduct which led to his convictions. He had never been convicted of dishonesty or violence. The ct. passed in substitution a sentence of three months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. EDWARDS (1909), 73 J. P. 286; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Distd. R. v. Cooper (1910), 75 J. P. 125.
Refd. R. v. Harrison (1913), 30 T. L. R. 1.

5016. —.]—Applt. was sentenced to four months' imprisonment with hard labour, for the offence of begging & of being an incurable rogue. He contended that on his first conviction he had been wrongly sentenced on an alleged previous conviction of 14 days' imprisonment at Tower Bridge Police Ct., & consequently, all subsequent convictions had been based upon a conviction which, in fact, had never taken place :—Held : the chairman, rightly sentenced him to a term of four months.

PART XIII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2. t. Forgery.]—When passing sentence on a prisoner convicted of using certain materials for the purpose of forging bank-notes the judge passed the maximum sentence of 14 years' penal servitude leaving it to the executors to determine where his history was known, the length he would have to serve :—Held : infliction of the maximum penalty was contrary to the principles which have always guided judges in determining sentences.—R. v. SELLING (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 628; 30 N. S. W. W. N. 169.—AUS.

Sect. 1.—Principles that determine the amount of punishment: Sub-sects. 2 & 3. Sect. 2: Sub-

Prisoner had a right of appeal to the quarter sessions which he might have exercised, when all the evidence could then have been gone into. He was then sentenced to four months' imprisonment, having been convicted of precisely the same offence as that for which he had previously been sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, which had been reduced by this ct. to one of three months'. We are not here as legislators, & we can only administer the law as we find it, but it does seem somewhat hard to have to pass such sentences. These sentences cannot be passed unless the same offence has been committed before.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

5017. ———.]—Semble: the maximum sentence of twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour should not be imposed on a person convicted as an incorrigible rogue for begging, even though previously convicted on many occasions of begging, if the evidence shows that the offender merely begged without any aggravating circumstances, e.g. with menaces.—R. v. COOPER (1910), 75 J. P. 125; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 273, C. C. A.

5018. ———.]—This was an appeal against a sentence of eight months' imprisonment, with hard labour, on a conviction as an incorrigible rogue. It appeared that the appellant went up to persons at night & asked them for money. Applt. had been previously convicted for begging on many occasions. The ct. reduced the sentence to one of three months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. HARRISON (1913), 30 T. L. R. 1; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 145; 77 J. P. Jo. 484, C. C. A.

Habitual criminal.—See Sect. 4, sub-sect. 4, post.

SUB-SECT. 3.—SENTENCES ON CO-PRISONERS.

5019. Where both equally guilty—Sentences should be alike.—If the ct. reduces on a previous application, a sentence passed on one of several prisoners jointly indicted, it will, on a subsequent application, in the absence of any reason for discrimination, reduce it in the case of the others.—R. v. BOXALL, HAMMERSLEY & MARSTON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

5020. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of aiding & abetting bigamy & sentenced to nine months' imprisonment with hard labour. The principal offender, the woman, was only sentenced to three months. Applt.'s sentence was reduced to that of the woman.—R. v. READ (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

5021. ———.]—When offences & their circumstances are of a similar nature, the ct. tends to equalise sentences, even if there is no formal appeal against sentence.—R. v. MONTRIOU, EMMOTT, HEWITT & HEATHCOTE (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

5022. ———.]—Sentences may be affected by previous records.—Appls. were indicted for being found at night, having in their possession, without lawful excuse, certain implements of housebreaking. Both appls. were found guilty, H. being sentenced to eleven months' imprisonment with hard labour, & L. to fourteen months'. H. gave his name as T. As soon as the police-station was mentioned, appls. tried to run away. L. was convicted in April, 1908, & received six months' imprisonment. H. had not been convicted since 1904:—Held: as regards L., the sentence must stand, but H.'s sentence must be reduced to six months' imprisonment.—R. v. HILL & LE GRICE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

5023. ———.]—The sentence on a first offender with a previous good character should not, as a general rule, be so severe as that on a co-prisoner with a bad character.—R. v. CANHAM (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 110, C. C. A.

5024. ———.]—Remanet sentences must be served after the fresh term of penal servitude.

The sentences of the ct. may discriminate between co-defts. who have been previously condemned to penal servitude & those who have not.—R. v. MINTZ, ROBERTS & HARRIS (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 11, C. C. A.

5025. Varying degrees of guilt—Discretion of judge at trial.—R. v. BALDWIN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

5026. ———.]—Disparity between the sentences of co-prisoners is not necessarily a ground for reducing sentence.—R. v. STUTTER (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A.

5027. ———.]—Similar sentences may be imposed.—To impose the same sentence on co-defts. guilty in different degrees is not necessarily improper.—R. v. DENT (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 223; 77 J. P. Jo. 580, C. C. A.

SECT. 2.—MATTERS TO BE TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION.

SUB-SECT. 1.—ANTECEDENTS OF PRISONER.

A. In General.

5028. To be inquired into.—In considering sentences it has been the invariable practice to inquire into prisoner's history, in his own interest, & if in the course of that inquiry, facts come out which damage him, the judge ought to take notice of it (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. WEAVER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

5029. Facts adverse to prisoner must be proved or admitted.—After conviction there should be given to the judge by the police accurate information as to prisoner's condition & antecedents, even although legal evidence as to the whole of the information may not be available at the moment. Where prisoner does not challenge this information the judge can properly consider it, but where prisoner challenges any statement & says it is untrue, it is the duty of the judge to inquire into it, & if the judge considers the matter of such importance that it ought to be proved by legal evidence, to adjourn the case for that purpose. The judge, however, may properly adopt the course of disregarding altogether the statement that has been challenged.—R. v. CAMPBELL (1911), 75 J. P. 216; 27 T. L. R. 256; 55 Sol. Jo. 273; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

5030. ———.]—Sentence of ten years' penal servitude reduced to six years' penal servitude on the ground that a statement by the police as to prisoner's antecedents was taken into consideration, & there was nothing to show that the prisoner admitted the accuracy of such statement.—R. v. BROOKS (1912), 29 T. L. R. 152; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 111, C. C. A.

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

5028 1. To be inquired into.—Evidence concerning the antecedents & character of a person found guilty of a criminal offence is properly receivable for the purpose of determining the punishment to be inflicted, both in the interests of the offender & in the interests of the community.—R. v. MORRIS, [1914] S. H. Q. 210.—AUS.

5031. Facts not proved or admitted not to affect sentence.—An officer of the ct. ought not to give informal information to the ct. in aggravation of deft.'s offence.—R. v. KENDRICK (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

5032. ———.]—Unsupported suggestions by the police of other offences ought not to influence sentence.—R. v. COURT (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

5033. ———.]—Statements against a prisoner after conviction must not be taken into account in the sentence, unless strictly proved.—R. v. EVERITT (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 156, C. C. A.

5034. ———.]—Evidence of convictions & offences not strictly proved nor admitted must not be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. PALMER (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 245, C. C. A.

5035. ———.]—In receiving evidence after conviction, of a deft.'s antecedents, the ct. is bound to exercise care in discriminating between the knowledge of the deponents & their hearsay information.—R. v. ELLEY (1921), 85 J. P. 144; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 143, C. C. A.

5036. Previous acquittals must not influence adversely.—R. v. JOSEPHSON, No. 4979, ante.

B. Previous Convictions.

5037. Convictions proved—Only to be considered.—R. v. STUBBS (1913), as reported in 8 Cr. App. Rep. 238, C. C. A.

5038. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of larceny. He had been previously convicted, but the convictions were not formally proved. The Recorder, addressing him, said:—"You have a long list against you," & applt. replied, "Yes, Sir":—Held: the way in which applt. was treated with regard to his previous convictions was irregular, & the sentence imposed upon him should be reduced.

The admission that there was a long list against applt. was not an admission by him that the list was true. The habit of acting on statements appearing in the calendar is irregular (AVORY, J.).—R. v. METCALFE (1913), 29 T. L. R. 512; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

5039. ———.]—The ct. of trial cannot take cognisance of previous convictions unless they are duly proved by a witness, subject to cross-examination.—R. v. SEYMOUR (1923), 87 J. P. 148; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 128, C. C. A.

5040. Convictions abroad—May be considered.—R. v. BENJAMIN (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 146, C. C. A.

5041. ———.]—Previous convictions in another country are properly taken into account in sentences here.—R. v. FORD (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

5042. Nature of previous offences—Must be considered.—The character of previous convictions must be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. BOUCHER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

5043. ———.]—In passing sentence, regard should be had to the nature of previous offences.

—R. v. PARSONS (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 76, C. C. A.

5044. ———.]—In passing sentence on a prisoner who has often been previously convicted, regard should be had to the last sentence inflicted on him.—R. v. MORRIS (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 43, C. C. A.

5045. ———.]—For purposes of sentence the interval since a previous conviction & the nature of the previous offence must be taken into account.—R. v. BIBBINGS (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 205, C. C. A.

5046. ———.]—In sentence regard must be had to the nature of previous offences.—R. v. STAFFORD (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

C. Period since last Conviction.

5047. Should be taken into account.—The interval between the last & the present conviction ought to be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. NUTTALL (1908), 73 J. P. 30; 25 T. L. R. 76; 53 Sol. Jo. 64; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Haden (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 148.

5048. ———.]—R. v. BIBBINGS, No. 5045, ante.

5049. ———.]—Efforts to lead an honest life.—R. v. SCRAGG, [1920] W. N. 335, C. C. A.

5050. When period is short—Ground for inflicting penal servitude.—As a rule penal servitude should not be inflicted after previous convictions unless the offence has been committed soon after release from prison.—R. v. CONNOR (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sanders (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 179.

5051. ———.]—R. v. SANDERS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

5052. ———.]—Offence is aggravated.—An offence is aggravated by its commission after a recent release of the offender from prison.—R. v. CONNOR (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 183, C. C. A.

5053. When period is long—Sentence should not be severe.—R. v. CULLEN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

5054. ———.]—A period of honest work between the termination of a sentence & a subsequent conviction ought to be taken into account in passing sentence for the latter.—R. v. GOODWIN & WILKINSON (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

5055. ———.]—R. v. ALDEN (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

5056. ———.]—Sentence mitigated in view of lapse of time since last conviction & of there being no previous sentence of penal servitude.—R. v. WHITE (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

5057. ———.]—R. v. JOLLY (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 15, C. C. A.

5058. ———.]—But previous convictions must be considered.—Where, after a long interval, there is a relapse into crime, all previous convictions may be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. CRAWFORD (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 305, C. C. A.

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

a. Previous convictions may be considered.—Where there has been a previous conviction, within the recollection of the ct., but the Crown has failed to prove it & it has not been otherwise shown, the ct. may proceed upon his own initiative, & may inform itself at the same time as to the previous conviction, & the age, character, & antecedents of prisoner.—R. v. BONNEVIE (1906), 38 N. S. R. 560; 1 E. L. R. 48.—CAN.

b. ———.]—When a previous conviction is not charged in the indictment or information, neither a judge nor a magistrate has any right to ask a prisoner, after conviction, whether he has been previously convicted or not, either with the view of ascertaining whether the prisoner is liable to any increased punishment, or determining what the proper sentence, within the ordinary maximum provided by the statute in the particular case, should be.—R. v. EDWARDS (1907), 17 Man. L. R. 288.—CAN.

c. ———.]—Except in very special circumstances, the proper object of using previous convictions is to determine the amount of punishment to be awarded.—ROSHUN DOOSADH v. R. (1880), 1 L. R. 5 Calc. 768; 6 C. L. R. 219.—IND.

d. ———.]—The proof of a previous conviction not contemplated by sect. 75 of the Indian Penal Code may be adduced after accused is found guilty, as an element to be taken into consideration in awarding punishment.—R. v. ISMAIL AL BHAI (1914), 1 L. R. 39 Bom. 326.—IND.

Sect. 2.—Matters to be taken into consideration:
Sub-sects. 2, 3, 4 & 5, A.]

SUB-SECT. 2.—DETENTION IN PRISON AWAITING TRIAL.

5059. Period of detention to be taken into consideration.]—Period during which applt. is in custody before trial may be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. GULSTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 165; 72 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

5060. —.]—R. v. HARRISON, No. 4976, ante.

5061. —.]—(1) Degree of guilt may be reduced by the drunken condition of the accused at the time of the offence.

(2) The time of detention before trial may be properly taken into account in passing sentence.—R. v. HADEN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 148, C. C. A.

5062. —.]—R. v. COOPER (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

5063. —.]—R. v. McCULLOCH (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 51, C. C. A.

5064. —.]—Whether a period of detention before trial should be taken into account in the sentence is a matter of discretion for the judge.—R. v. MACKINTOSH & HUGHES (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

5065. —.]—(1) If a plea of guilty is wrongly recorded, the ct. may award a venire de novo.

(2) Where by the error of the ct. of trial a prisoner has been detained before trial for an unnecessarily long period, that period ought to be taken into account if he is convicted at the trial.—R. v. LLOYD (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 184, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 3.—CONSEQUENCES OF CONVICTION.

5066. Military penalties under King's Regulations.]—R. v. DANIELS (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 101, C. C. A.

5067. Forfeiture of pension.]—If a judge refrains from imposing hard labour, in order to save forfeiture of prisoner's pension under the Forfeiture Act, 1870 (c. 23), he is justified in making the term of imprisonment longer than he would otherwise have imposed.—R. v. BRIGHT (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 194, C. C. A.

5068. —.]—R. v. MORTIMER, No. 5013, ante.

5069. —.]—Severity of sentence is justified by the frequency of the particular crime.

Sentence varied to avoid forfeiture by law.—R. v. SMITH (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 188, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 4.—OTHER CHARGES PENDING.

5070. Other charges may be taken into account—Second indictment not proceeded with.]—Severity of sentence affected by allegations of indictment not proceeded with.—R. v. BATES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

5071. — Discretion of judge—Offences in other jurisdictions.]—A judge in sentencing a prisoner convicted in indictment of one offence is entitled to take into consideration other offences which prisoner admits that he has committed, even though in other jurisdictions, & for which he has not yet been tried.—R. v. SYRES (1908), 73 J. P. 13; 25 T. L. R. 71; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 172, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Shapcote (alias Heathcote) (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 58; R. v. Smith (1921), 85 J. P.

224. Refd. R. v. Jones (alias Spanler) (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 196; R. v. Markham (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 160; R. v. Taylor (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 158; R. v. McLean, [1911] 1 K. B. 332.

5072. — —.]—A judge is not bound, in passing sentence, to take into account other charges pending deft.—R. v. SHAPCOTE (alias HEATHCOTE) (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 58, C. C. A.

5073. — —.]—The ct. in its discretion will take into account outstanding charges against a convicted prisoner, & may, to cover them, increase the sentence.—R. v. BRADLEY (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

5074. — —.]—A judge in passing sentence may take into account other charges pending against deft.—R. v. ALERON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 152, C. C. A.

5075. — All pending charges should be included.]—All pending charges against a prisoner should, if possible, be brought to the knowledge of the judge at the trial, & by him be taken into consideration on the sentence.

It is undesirable to tack a sentence of penal servitude on to one of hard labour.—R. v. JONES (alias SPANIER) (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.
*Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Baumgarten (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 212.

5076. — —.]—Where possible, all pending charges against a deft. should be disposed of by one sentence.—R. v. TAYLOR (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 158, C. C. A.

5077. — —.]—All pending charges against a deft. should be mentioned to the ct. upon the first conviction with a view to a comprehensive sentence.—R. v. MARKHAM (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 160, C. C. A.

5078. — —.]—When a prisoner is on trial for a charge, he should, if it is possible, be indicted on any other pending charge at the same time.—R. v. HIGSON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 167, C. C. A.

5079. — —.]—Applt. was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for an offence committed by him. When charged with that offence he desired that certain other offences which he had committed should all be taken into consideration. This was done except as to one charge, which, at the request of the police, was not then dealt with. In respect of this latter charge applt. was at the subsequent sessions sentenced to four years' penal servitude to run concurrently with & to date from the commencement of the sentence of three years' penal servitude imposed at the previous sessions. The ct. reduced the sentence of four years' penal servitude to one of one day's imprisonment & expressed disapproval of the practice adopted by the police in holding over the one charge against applt.—R. v. DAVIES (1912), 28 T. L. R. 431; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 254, C. C. A.

5080. — —.]—Outstanding charges should be taken into account in sentences, if possible.—R. v. MONKMAN (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 115, C. C. A.

5081. — —.]—Pending charges against a convicted person ought, if possible, to be dealt with at the time of conviction, or failing that, as soon as may be before sentence expires.—R. v. CARTER (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 51, C. C. A.

5082. — Whether consent of prosecution necessary.]—Where a ct. before which a prisoner has been convicted on indictment of an offence is asked by prisoner to deal with another offence which he admits having committed but for which he has not yet been tried, the ct. may properly

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 4.

e. Other charges may be taken into account.]—In determining the punishment to be inflicted, the circumstances connected with the trial & other criminal proceedings taken against prisoner on the same facts, &

the effect thereof on prisoner may be considered.—R. v. WALKER (No. 2), [1915] S. R. Q. 143.—AUS.

do so if the other offence is of the same character as the offence of which the prisoner has been found guilty, whether there has been a committal for the other offence or not. If there has been a committal for the other offence, the ct. before dealing with it should ascertain that the prosecution consents. If the prosecution does not agree, the ct. should not as a matter of course take the other offence into consideration. It may be that the prosecution desires for a sufficient reason that the other charge should be separately investigated.

If there is a committal in another county for an offence of a different character, the ct. should not take the other offence into consideration without the consent of the authorities prosecuting prisoner in respect of it, & even where the prosecution does consent the ct. ought still to consider whether in the circumstances it ought to take that course, or whether the public interest requires a separate investigation.

The ct. ought not to take another offence into consideration if it is not admitted by prisoner.—R. v. McLEAN, [1911] 1 K. B. 332; 80 L. J. K. B. 309; 103 L. T. 911; 75 J. P. 127; 27 T. L. R. 138; 22 Cox, C. C. 362; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Lloyd (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 184.

5083. — Consent of defendant necessary.—Pending charges against applt. will not be taken into consideration in passing sentence, unless they consent.—R. v. WERNER & COOKES (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 93, C. C. A.

5084. — ——R. v. McLEAN, No. 5082, ante.

5085. — ——R. v. PONCHER (1911), 75 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

5086. — ——R. v. ——On an appeal against sentence, the ct. will satisfy itself that applt. is, or was at the trial, willing that any other charges which may be pending should be dealt with, & if he desires that they should be, there is no ground for interfering with the sentence.—R. v. HAGREEN (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 248, C. C. A.

5087. — ——R. v. ——In passing sentence the ct. should not take into account another indictment on which prisoner has not been tried when he does not admit the charge.—R. v. COOPER (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 195, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Mentd. R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

5088. — ——R. v. ——Before outstanding charges can be taken into account in sentence, it must be clear that deft. consents.—R. v. BELL (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 56, C. C. A.

5089. — ——R. v. ——Discretion of judge.—A judge is not bound, in passing sentence, to take into account outstanding charges against deft., though the latter may ask him to do so.—R. v. SMITH (1921), 85 J. P. 224; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 172, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Lloyd (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 184.

5090. Gravity of other charges.—R. v. BAKER, No. 4973, ante.

5091. — More serious charge cannot be considered.—Not all pending charges should be taken into account in passing sentence for a less serious offence; when the pending charge is much more serious it should be tried separately.—R. v. GREIG (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 151, C. C. A.

5092. Court should make clear what charges have been considered in sentence.—Upon sentencing prisoners convicted of some only out of several charges preferred against them, no evidence being offered on the other charges, the ct. of petty or quarter sessions should state whether such other charges have or have not been taken into account.—R. v. HYSLOP & STEVENSON (1897), 61 J. P. 377.

5093. When accused has already been sentenced for offence committed subsequently—Effect on sentence.—R. v. HAWES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 42; 72 J. P. Jo. 328, C. C. A.

5094. — ——R. v. RICHARDSON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 278, C. C. A.

5095. — ——R. v. ——Where a deft. has been convicted for an offence committed before another for which he has been convicted & served his sentence, the ct. will, as far as possible, adjust the sentence at the later trial to that which would have been adequate for both offences, had they been considered at the earlier trial.—R. v. BIRKETT (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 122, C. C. A.

5096. — ——R. v. BARTRAM (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

5097. — ——R. v. ——Applt. was convicted at the Winchester Assizes of larceny of a deed, forging & uttering a conveyance, & of false pretences. The indictment also charged him with a previous conviction. The ct. granted leave to appeal against sentence, the offences on which he was being tried having been committed prior to the previous conviction.—R. v. JAMES (1922), 154 L. T. Jo. 82, C. C. A.

5098. When all charges have not been considered—Person already convicted may be tried in case of grave crime.—In a grave case it may be proper to try a convict undergoing sentence, for a crime similar to that for which the sentence was inflicted but not taken into account in that sentence, & on conviction to impose a severer sentence.—R. v. HILLIER (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 215, C. C. A.

5099. — Further charge should be preferred as soon as possible.—When a prisoner, convicted on one charge, is to be tried for an offence committed before he is convicted, he ought to be tried at the earliest possible moment, & the trial ought not to be delayed until his sentence has expired.—R. v. SULLIVAN (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Folld. R. v. Ward (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 180; R. v. Bell (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 105. Refd. R. v. Carter (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 51.

5100. — ——R. v. ——Charges against a person already convicted should be brought as early as possible.—R. v. WARD (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

5101. — ——R. v. BELL (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 105, C. C. A.

5102. — ——R. v. CARTER, No. 5081, ante.

5103. — ——R. v. ——Where there are other charges against a prisoner under sentence, they should be proceeded with with all due speed & not be left to await prisoner's release.—R. v. ROSE, (1923), 129 L. T. 63; 87 J. P. 136; 27 Cox, C. C. 420; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 5.—MITIGATING CIRCUMSTANCES.

A. In General.

5104. Drunkenness.—The degree of guilt may be reduced by the drunken condition of the accused at the time of the offence.—R. v. MORTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

5105. — ——R. v. HADEN, No. 5061, ante.

5106. Mental eccentricity.—Mental eccentricity,

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 5.—A.

5104 I. Drunkenness.—Re MANDRU GADABA (1914), 1 L. R. 38 Mad. 479.—IND.

1. Certificate of character inadmissible—After trial.—Certificates of character refused to be received by the ct. in mitigation of punishment, where a trial had taken place.—R. v. DEWAR (1842), 1 Broun, 233.—SCOT.

g. — ——R. v. ——Certificate of character in mitigation of punishment:

Sect. 2.—Matters to be taken into consideration:
Sub-sect. 5, A., B. & C.; sub-sect. 6.]

short of insanity, cannot be taken into account in sentence.—R. v. KING (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 306, C. C. A.

5107. —.]—Applt. was convicted of house-breaking, & was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour. Applt.'s father was a well-known officer in the City police, & on his death applt. went to an orphanage school, where he had a distinguished career. In 1900 he went to Germany, where he taught English at the Berlitz school. On his return to England in 1905, all his friends noticed a great change in his demeanour; he had had various situations, but had lost them owing to his eccentricities. Applt.'s mother had been in a lunatic asylum for the last twenty-six years:—Held: a sentence of twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, ought not to be passed on a man such as the applt. Sentence reduced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. McQUEEN (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

5108. Foreigner's ignorance of law.—]—It is no defence for a foreigner charged in England with a crime committed there that he did not know he was doing wrong, the act not being an offence in his own country. But though not a defence in law, it is a matter to be considered in mitigation of punishment.—R. v. Esor (1836), 7 C. & P. 456.

5109. Matters affording incentive to crime committed.—]—Applt. was convicted of incest, & was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude:—Held: having regard to the overcrowded state of the applt.'s home & the squalid conditions in which he lived, the sentence should be reduced from seven years' to three years' penal servitude.—R. v. KEATS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 214, C. C. A.

5110. —.]—Applt. had been previously convicted on several occasions. She was now convicted of obtaining goods by false pretences & credit by fraud & sentenced to three years' penal servitude. The sentence was thought too severe considering the ease with which credit was obtained & the temptations before her.—R. v. MORRISON (alias RADFORD, alias RICHARDS) (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 278, C. C. A.

5111. Giving evidence against accomplice.—]—R. v. JAMES, R. v. SHARMAN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 142; 77 J. P. Jo. 484, C. C. A.

5112. Assistance to police.—]—R. v. PORTER (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 213; 77 J. P. Jo. 557, C. C. A.

5113. —.]—Sentence mitigated in view of applt.'s giving information in the interests of justice.—R. v. GREEN (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 200, C. C. A.

—.]—Applt., who was sentenced to penal servitude on conviction for housebreaking, had served in the army with a good record & had been badly wounded in action. On arrest he had informed the police where the stolen property was to be found, & by this means some of it had been recovered:—Held: such facts should be taken into consideration by the C. C. A., before whom the sentence came up for review, so as to encourage reparation by criminals, if they had not already been dealt with by the judge passing sentence, & the sentence should be reduced accordingly.—R. v. BELL (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 36; 83 J. P. Jo. 222, C. C. A.

5115. Surrendering to police.—]—R. v. SIMPSON & BEAUCHAMP (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

5116. Restitution.—]—When restitution for an offence has been made, the maximum sentence should not be inflicted.—R. v. BRADBURY, R. v. EDLIN (1920), as reported in 37 T. L. R. 88; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 76, C. C. A.

B. Previous good Character—First Offences.

5117. Whether a ground for mitigation of sentence.—]—Because a man had once a good character is not a reason why he should have a lighter sentence than a man with a bad one.—R. v. GATHERCOLF (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 43, C. C. A.

5118. —.]—R. v. HENDERSON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

5119. —]—Previous convictions for less serious offence.—]—Applt. was convicted of receiving a bicycle, knowing it to have been stolen, & sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour. There was nothing previously against him of a serious nature:—Held: taking into account the fact that the only previous convictions were for being drunk & disorderly, that the sentence was too severe, & ought to be reduced.—R. v. ROBERTS (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5120. —.]—Where the sentence is severe for a first offence, it will be reduced.—R. v. EVELLY (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 98, C. C. A.

5121. —.]—R. v. DAY (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 249, C. C. A.

5122. —.]—R. v. BALDOCK & DAVIS (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 48, C. C. A.

5123. —.]—In view of good character a sentence, though quite proper & not excessive, may be reduced.—R. v. MATTHEWS, ETC. (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 288, C. C. A.

5124. —.]—R. v. DANIELS, No. 5066, ante.

5125. —.]—Sentence reduced in view of previous good character.—R. v. BURNINGHAM (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 169, C. C. A.

5126. May justify imprisonment in second division.—]—Applt. was convicted of stealing £80 & jewellery, the property of his step-daughter. He was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment with hard labour. He & the woman had been drinking together, & he undoubtedly stole the money & jewellery:—Held: having regard to applt.'s previous good character & the peculiar circumstances of the case a sentence of nine months' imprisonment in the second division should be substituted for that passed at the trial.—R. v. ROUSE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

5127. —.]—Applt. embezzled three days' takings of a cinematograph theatre. He had been managing director of a large firm in the North of England. He went to the Boer War as an officer & was invalided home. Having lost his position in the firm, he obtained a position as manager of a cinematograph show in Richmond, but unfortunately gave way to drink, went off to —Held: inadmissible where a trial had taken place.—R. v. ROSENBERG (1842), 1 Broun, 367.—SCOT.

h. No felonious intent—Object to get own money.—]—It is incompetent for a panel, who has pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery, to adduce evidence in mitigation of punishment to show that he had no felonious intent but that his object was to get money which was his own.—R. v. JOHNSTON (1848), Arkley, 528.—SCOT.

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 5.—B.

51171. Whether a ground for mitiga- tion of sentence.—]—The fact that a prisoner is a person of character, & of a respectable position in life, instead of being a reason for mitigating the punishment, adds to the criminality of the offence, & calls for a more severe sentence.—R. v. — (1854), 7 Cox, C. C. 4.—IR.

a race-meeting, where he lost the money. The money was forthcoming at the police ct., but the prosecution did not see their way to take it. Applt. disappeared for three weeks, during which he did not communicate with his employers.

Having regard to the fact that this was a first offence, & further to the fact that applt. is not an associate of criminals, we think that it is not necessary that he should associate with criminals, & therefore the sentence is altered to four months' imprisonment in the second division (per CUR.).—R. v. HEAP (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

5128. —.]—Applt. was convicted of gross indecency & sentenced to twenty months' imprisonment with hard labour. He had never before been convicted & the sentence was reduced to six months' imprisonment in the second division.—R. v. BARTHOLOMEW (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 120, C. C. A.

5129. —.]—R. v. JOWSEY (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2118; 114 L. T. 241; 31 T. L. R. 632; 25 Cox, C. C. 277; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 241, C. C. A.

5130. Not necessarily a ground for binding over. —A person convicted of an offence for the first time is not necessarily allowed the benefit of the First Offenders Act.—R. v. CHANDLER (1912), as reported in 77 J. P. 80; 29 T. L. R. 83; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 82, C. C. A.

5131. Penal servitude on first offenders—Should not be passed as a general rule.—As a general rule, penal servitude ought not to be inflicted for a first offence.—R. v. DENCH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

5132. —.]—Penal servitude should not, as a rule, be inflicted for a first offence.—R. v. KERVORKIAN (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 96, C. C. A. Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Caroubi (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 153.

5133. —.]—Sentence of five years' penal servitude passed upon the applt. for warehouse breaking reduced to one of 18 months' imprisonment with hard labour, on the ground that the case was an isolated one & was the first conviction of applt.—R. v. TREWHOLM (1913), 77 J. P. 344; 29 T. L. R. 530; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 18, C. C. A.

5134. —.]—Applt. was a man of good character, 23 years of age, & there were no previous convictions against him. He was sentenced to three years' penal servitude for forging & obtaining money on forged instruments. The sentence was reduced.—R. v. WOOD (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

5135. —.]—R. v. AUSTIN (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 70, C. C. A.

5136. — Substantial sentence in special circumstances.—R. v. SPENCER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A.

5137. Social position not to be considered.—R. v. HOLDER (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 59; 75 J. P. Jo. 569, C. C. A.

5138. Meritorious military service.—R. v. ANSELL, No. 4982, ante.

5139. —.]—R. v. CASEY (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

5140. —.]—R. v. SAYE (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 123, C. C. A.

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 5.—C.

51421. Youth.—Where prisoner was convicted of manslaughter in killing a fellow school boy through throwing a stone, the ct. under its discretionary power, & viewing the recommendation of the jury—the character given by his teacher & the strong testimonial from his school-fellows—reduced the sentence to one month's imprisonment.—R. v. FOOTE (1855), 4 Nfld. L. R. 59.—NFLD.

5141. —.]—Applt., during a period of some eight & a half years previous to the offence of false pretences charged, had led an honest life & gained a good reputation. He had been promoted in the army, & had been decorated for courage in the performance of arduous & dangerous duties. There were seven old convictions against him, & charges made of money irregularities while in the army; & nine other charges of false pretences were taken into consideration when the sentence of three years' penal servitude appealed against was passed. Nevertheless the ct., in the circumstances, reduced it to one of nine months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. CARRUTHERS (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1132; 84 J. P. 91; 64 Sol. Jo. 309; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 138, C. C. A.

C. Age of Prisoner.

5142. Youth.—R. v. DEAN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

5143. —.]—R. v. WRIGHT (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

5144. —.]—R. v. FENLON (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

5145. —.]—R. v. HAPPOPORT (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 205, C. C. A.

5146. —.]—Severity of sentence after previous convictions mitigated in view of youth.—R. v. FOX (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

5147. —.]—R. v. MORTON (OTHERWISE SHAW) (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A.

5148. —.]—R. v. BRATHERTON (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

5149. Old age.—R. v. KENT (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 291, C. C. A.

5150. —.]—R. v. MONTGOMERY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 281, C. C. A.

5151. —.]—R. v. KELLY (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

5152. —.]—R. v. BENNETT (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 35, C. C. A.

5153. —.]—R. v. FERROA (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 39; 83 J. P. Jo. 267, C. C. A.

5154. —.]—R. v. LANGLEY (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 58, C. C. A.

5155. —.]—R. v. TUSSLER (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 6.—MATTERS CALLING FOR INCREASED SENTENCE.

5156. Abuse of position of trust—Post office servant.—R. v. NOBLE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 30, C. C. A.

5157. — Solicitor.—R. v. MASON & SOPER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 73, C. C. A.

5158. —.]—R. v. CAUSTON (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 256, C. C. A.

5159. — Member of police force.—R. v. MOORE (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

5160. Necessity for exemplary punishment—Even of first offender.—It may be necessary to take into account in sentence the necessity of

PART XIII. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 6.

k. General rule.—The practice of criminal cts. is established to inquire into the antecedents of a prisoner, & to punish habitual offenders more seriously than those who have not been previously convicted or have not committed other crimes. But the ct. is not merely guided by previous convictions, & if the offence for which punishment is to be awarded does not indicate a deliberate return to crime,

& there are circumstances which do not show that the offence was planned beforehand, less weight is to be given to previous convictions for offences of the same character as that for which the offender is to be punished than to convictions for offences of a different character.—GRAYSON v. R. (1920), 22 W. A. L. R. 37.—AUS.

1. Drunkenness.—Intoxication should not be treated as an aggravation

Sect. 2.—Matters to be taken into consideration: Sub-sect. 6. Sect. 3: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

“making an example.”—R. v. SPRAKE (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

5161. Prevalence of the particular crime.—R. v. BOYD, No. 4984, ante.

5162. —.]—The ct. will not interfere with a sentence governed by a rule laid down in special circumstances.

Qu.: whether under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), two consecutive sentences, each of a less term than five years, but together amounting to five years or more, may be converted into “preventive detention.”—R. v. WARNER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

5163. —.]—R. v. RICHMOND (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 204, C. C. A.

5164. —.]—R. v. BRADSHAW, BEACHAM, & WILLIAMS (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 221, C. C. A.

5165. —.]—In passing sentence for an offence, the fact that the particular offence in respect of which prisoner is being sentenced is very prevalent in the neighbourhood where it was committed, & the necessity for taking steps to suppress it may legitimately be taken into consideration.—R. v. GREEN (1912), 76 J. P. 351; 28 T. L. R. 380; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 225, C. C. A.

5166. —.]—R. v. CONNOR (1913), 77 J. P. 247; 29 T. L. R. 212; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 152, C. C. A.

5167. —.]—R. v. SMITH, No. 5069, ante.

5168. —.]—The standard of sentence must be raised to meet the increasing prevalence of a particular offence.—R. v. SPARGO (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 122, C. C. A.

5169. Conduct of defence—Unjustified imputations on prosecutor.—Sentence may take into account a defence making unjustified imputations on the prosecutor.—R. v. LUCAS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 234, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Stratton (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 255; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

5170. Evil motive.—R. v. BRIGHT, No. 4980, ante.

SECT. 3.—KINDS OF PUNISHMENT.

SUB-SECT. 1.—CONSECUTIVE AND CONCURRENT SENTENCES.

5171. Consecutive sentences—Should be imposed sparingly.—R. v. CLARKE (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 116, C. C. A.

5172. — When sentence of penal servitude imposed.—R. v. HINDLEY (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 31, C. C. A.

5173. — When sentence of hard labour imposed.—This ct. thinks that when a prisoner is sentenced to two years' hard labour no consecutive sentence of further imprisonment with hard labour ought to be imposed (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. GOLDSTEIN (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 27, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Fold. R. v. Hughes (1923), 87 J. P. 140.

of an offence.—R. v. ZULFIKAR KHAN (1871), 8 B. L. R. App. 21.—IND.

m. Previous conviction for offence of same character—Warning of heavier sentence if charged again.—In sentencing accused for an assault committed while under the influence of liquor the sheriff-substitute told accused that he would be sent to prison for six months if he was again found guilty in that ct. on a similar charge. Accused on a later occasion pleaded guilty to another similar charge & the sheriff-substitute then stated that after considering what had been said for accused it was his duty after the warning that he had previously given, to implement the promise that he had given on the occasion of the last conviction:—Held: the sheriff-substitute had been unduly influenced by the promise which he had made on the former occasion.—NEIL v. STEVENSON (1919), 57 Sc. L. R. 101. SCOT.

n. Good character—Respectable position in life.—The fact that the prisoner is a person of character, & of a respectable position in life, adds to the criminality of the offence, &

5174. —.]—The ct. leans against consecutive sentences of hard labour for a total term of more than two years.—R. v. BORHAM (OTHERWISE DAVISON) (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 191, C. C. A.

5175. —.]—Applt. had been convicted of housebreaking & common assault & had been sentenced to consecutive sentences of twenty months' imprisonment with hard labour, for the two offences:—Held: consecutive sentences of hard labour should not amount to more than two years in all.—R. v. HUGHES (1923), 87 J. P. 140; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 127, C. C. A.

5176. — Penal servitude—Followed by imprisonment.—It is undesirable to inflict a term of imprisonment to follow upon a term of penal servitude.—R. v. JOHNSON (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

5177. — Imprisonment with hard labour—Followed by penal servitude.—R. v. JONES (alias SPANIER), No. 5075, ante.

5178. —.]—R. v. ISLIP (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 96, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Baumgarten (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 212.

5179. —.]—R. v. BAUMGARTEN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 212; 77 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

5180. —.]—A sentence of imprisonment with hard labour should not be passed to run consecutively to one of penal servitude.—R. v. VEALE (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 114, C. C. A.

5181. Concurrent sentences—Effect of.—In the case of consecutive sentences the longer sentence is carried out & the shorter will have no effect. If one of the sentences is quashed on appeal, the other sentence takes effect. Certain exceptions are specially dealt with by the Secretary of State.—R. v. PHILLIPS (1921), 90 L. J. K. B. 508; 85 J. P. 188, C. C. A.

5182. — Imprisonment with hard labour & penal servitude.—Concurrent sentences of penal servitude & hard labour are to be avoided.—R. v. MARTIN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 209, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Islip (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 96; R. v. Baumgarten (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 212.

5183. —.]—Where it did not appear that the results to a prisoner of imposing concurrent sentences of a different character, seven years' penal servitude & twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, were present to the mind of the judge when he passed the sentences, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal altered one of the sentences, that of twelve months' imprisonment, to a sentence of one day with hard labour. A ct. may pass such concurrent sentences on a prisoner for good reason shown.—R. v. BRUCE (1910), 75 J. P. 111; 27 T. L. R. 51; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 213, 233, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Baumgarten (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 212. Mentd. R. v. Johnston (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 137.

5184. —.]—Sentence of three years' penal servitude reduced to 21 months' imprisonment with hard labour on the ground that it was calls for a more severe sentence.—R. v. — (1854), 7 Cox, C. C. 4.—IR.

PART XIII. SECT. 3, SUB-

o. Consecutive sentences—Two misdemeanours charged.—On an information containing two counts each charging a distinct misdemeanour, sentence may be passed on each count, the one cumulative on the other.—R. v. JONES (1862), 1 W. & W. 221.—AUS.

p. — Term of first sentence must be specified.—Ct. cannot direct the undesirable that the sentence of penal servitude should run concurrently with a sentence of imprisonment which was being served by applt. at the time the sentence of penal servitude was imposed.—R. v. HEMMING (1912), 28 T. L. R. 402; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 236, C. C. A.

5185. ———.]—It is not desirable to prefix a sentence of imprisonment with hard labour to a sentence of penal servitude.—R. v. JOHNSTON (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 137, C. C. A.

5186. ———.]—Concurrent sentences of penal servitude & imprisonment with hard labour should not, as a rule, be imposed.—R. v. CHAPMAN & DOYLE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.

5187. ———.]—The ct. disapproves of concurrent sentences of penal servitude & imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. JONES (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 70, C. C. A.

5188. ——— With remanet of previous sentence.]—When the holder of a licence under the Penal Servitude Act, 1853 (c. 99), is convicted of a fresh offence, there is no power under the Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (c. 47), to make the sentence for such fresh offence run concurrently with the remanet sentence of penal servitude.—R. v. KING, [1897] 1 Q. B. 214; 66 L. J. Q. B. 87; 75 L. T. 392; 61 J. P. 329; 13 T. L. R. 27; 41 Sol. Jo. 49; 18 Cox, C. C. 447, C. C. R.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Barron, [1914] 2 K. B. 570.

5189. ———.]—R. v. HAMILTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 87; 72 J. P. Jo. 365, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Consd. R. v. Smith, R. v. Wilson, [1909] 2 K. B. 756.

5190. ———.]—Where the holder of a licence to be at large during a remanet is subsequently convicted of an indictable offence, the ct. before which the subsequent conviction takes place has no power to order that the sentence which it inflicts shall commence after or run concurrently with the remanet which, upon conviction for the new offence, the convict becomes liable to serve under Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (c. 47), s. 9, inasmuch as that section provides that a term equal to the remanet shall be served after the convict has undergone the punishment for the subsequent offence. Therefore, in passing sentence for the subsequent offence, the ct. should make no reference to the remanet.—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WILSON, [1909] 2 K. B. 756; 79 L. J. K. B. 4; 101 L. T. 126; 73 J. P. 407; 22 Cox, C. C. 151; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 271, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Collins (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 104. Mentd. R. v. Rabjohns (1913), 109 L. T. 414.

5191. ——— Remanet sentence to be served after fresh sentence.]—R. v. MINTZ, ROBERTS & HARRIS, No. 5024, ante.

5192. ———.]—A remanet term must be served after expiry of sentence.—R. v. COLLINS (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 105, C. C. A.

punishment of a prisoner convicted of an indictable offence to commence at the end of a then pending term of imprisonment without stating the time of the expiry or otherwise indicating the term of the first sentence.—R. v. DAVIS & HARRIS (1862), 1 N. S. W. S. C. R. 233.—AUS.

PART XIII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 2.

q. Computation of time—Not interrupted by transfer to asylum.—Ex p. ARMELLINI (1886), 14 R. L. O. S. 311.—CAN.

r. ——— Not interrupted by taking prisoner to hospital.]—R. v. PETERS (1918), 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 298.—CAN.

s. ——— Sentence runs from date sentence is passed.]—A sentence of imprisonment begins to run from the day sentence is passed & not from the date of incarceration.—R. v. LITMAN, [1922] 2 W. W. R. 169; 68 D. L. R. 439; 38 Can. Crim. Cas. 115.—CAN.

t. ——— Release without bail.]—Ex p. GERVAIS (1883), 6 L. N. 116.—CAN.

5195 i. For misdemeanour—No limit of time at common law.]—In the case of common law misdemeanours, where the term of imprisonment is not limited by statute the sentence is entirely in the judge's discretion.—Re FORBES (1887), 8 N. S. W. L. R. 68; 3 N. S. W. W. N. 111.—AUS.

a. With hard labour—Not for common law misdemeanour.]—For a common law misdemeanour hard labour cannot be imposed.—R. v. WHITE (1875), 13 N. S. W. S. C. R. 339.—AUS.

SUB-SECT. 2.—IMPRISONMENT.

5193. Computation of time.]—Where a term of one calendar month's imprisonment begins in one month & ends in another, the month must be calculated from the day on which the imprisonment commences to the day before the numerically corresponding day in the following month. If there is no such numerically corresponding day, the term will end on the last day of the following month.—MIGOTTI v. COLVILL (1879), 4 C. P. D. 233; 48 L. J. M. C. 48; Q. B. 695; 40 L. T. 747; 43 J. P. 143, 620; 27 W. R. 74; sub nom. NIGOTTI v. COLVILLE, 40 L. T. 522; 14 Cox, C. C. 263, 305, C. A.

Annotations :—Distd. Henderson v. Preston (1888), 59 L. T. 334. Mentd. Quartermaine v. Selby (1889), 5 T. L. R. 223.

5194. ———.]—Pltf. who had been sentenced by the magistrates at R., on Aug. 24, to a term of imprisonment for seven days, sued deft., the governor of S. prison, for false imprisonment. Pltf. was taken into custody at R. on Aug. 24, & was received into the deft.'s custody on Aug. 25, under a warrant of commitment addressed to deft., which ordered that pltf. be imprisoned in H.M. prison at S., & there kept for the space of seven days. Pltf. was released on Sept. 1:—Held: the terms of the warrant protected deft., & he was justified in detaining pltf. in custody for seven days from the time when he was received into the prison.—HENDERSON v. PRESTON (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 362; 57 L. J. Q. B. 607; 59 L. T. 334; 52 J. P. 820; 30 W. R. 834; 4 T. L. R. 696; 16 Cox, C. C. 445, C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. Demer v. Cook (1903), 88 L. T. 629.

5195. For misdemeanour—No limit of time at common law.]—R. v. THOMAS (1736), Lee temp. Hard. 278; 95 E. R. 179.

5196. ———.]—The common law has not drawn a limit to the punishment which may be inflicted for a misdemeanour (BRAMWELL, L.J.).—R. v. CASTRO (1880), 5 Q. B. D. 490; 49 L. J. Q. B. 747; 43 L. T. 78; 44 J. P. 732; 14 Cox, C. C. 436, C. A.; affd. sub nom. CASTRO v. R. (1881), 6 App. Cas. 229, H. L.

Annotations :—Mentd. R. v. Cox & Railton (1884), 1 T. L. R. 181; Dixon v. Farrer (1886), 35 W. R. 95; R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99.

5197. In second division—Depends on class of person convicted.]—Applt. was convicted under Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906 (c. 34). Applt. endeavoured to avoid payment by bribing a solr.'s clerk to represent that he was insolvent :—Held: the question as to whether a convicted person should be sent into the second division or not, depended upon the kind of person so convicted, & not upon the class of offence committed.—R. v. HARRIS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 50, C. C. A.

5198. ———.]—R. v. BURDEE (1916), 86

b. ——— Judge of Superior Court—Criminal Code, s. 739.]—Where an offender is convicted on indictment under Parts XVI. or XVIII. of the Criminal Code, or by a Superior Ct. judge in Saskatchewan or Alberta, a judge of the Territorial Ct. in the Yukon, or a stipendiary magistrate in the Territories, the imprisonment may be either with or without hard labour in the discretion of the ct. so long as the offender is not sentenced to a penitentiary or the prison or reformatory excepted, without regard to the terms of the statute. But if the conviction is made by a lower tribunal, then hard labour may be imposed only if the statute fixing the punishment says that it may, & the sentence given must in such case specifically mention "hard labour."—R. v. DAVIDSON

Sect. 3.—Kinds of punishment: Sub-sects. 2, 3, 4 & 5.]

L. J. K. B. 871; 115 L. T. 904; 25 Cox, C. C. 598; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 153, C. C. A.

5199. With hard labour—Severity of.]—R. v. ARNOLD (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 27, C. C. A.

5200. ———.]—A sentence of hard labour is not now so severe as formerly was the case. A prisoner is able to earn a remission of one-sixth of the sentence by good conduct, & the really severe period of the hard labour is quite short.—R. v. JENNER (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

5201. ———.]—A sentence of two years' imprisonment with hard labour is very severe; judges only impose it for very grave offences, because it is known that day for day it is harder than a similar period in a sentence of penal servitude.—R. v. WHITE (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5202. ———. For Common law misdemeanour—Criminal Procedure Act, 1851 (c. 100), s. 29.]—

Prisoner was tried for the common law misdemeanour of forging & uttering writings with intent to defraud. He had fraudulently misappropriated money which he had collected & received for one C. An order was made in a county ct. that he should render an account of the money received. He delivered papers in which the donors had entered their names & the amounts they had handed him. He had altered the entries so as to make it appear that smaller amounts had been given. It was not alleged that C. had been defrauded or prejudiced, except so far as it appeared that he had been deprived by prisoner's conduct of the evidence to support his claim. On a case stated, reserving the question, whether there was power to pass a sentence of imprisonment with hard labour:—Held: as the indictment charged only a common law forgery, without alleging that any one was thereby defrauded, the case did not come within the above Act, by which persons convicted of "any cheat or fraud punishable at common law" may be sentenced to hard labour.—R. v. HAMILTON, [1901] 1 K. B. 740; 70 L. J. K. B. 480; 84 L. T. 332; 65 J. P. 265; 49 W. R. 575; 17 T. L. R. 401; 45 Sol. Jo. 427; 19 Cox, C. C. 675, C. C. R.

5203. ———.]—R. v. JACKSON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 192, C. C. A.

5204. ———.]—R. v. COSTELLO & BISHOP. [1910] 1 K. B. 28; 79 L. J. K. B. 90; 101 L. T. 784; 54 Sol. Jo. 13; 22 Cox, C. C. 215; sub nom. R. v. CONNOLLY & COSTELLO, 74 J. P. 15; 26 T. L. R. 31; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 27, C. C. A.

5205. ———. Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 16 (1).]—Since the above Act, imprisonment with hard labour can be imposed for a common law misdemeanour.—R. v. SAUNDERS (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 61, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Expld. Judicial Note, [1916] W. N. 232.

5206. ———.]—Hard labour may be imposed for a common law misdemeanour by virtue of the above Act.—R. v. GOULD (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 144, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 3.—PENAL SERVITUDE.

5207. Not imposed as of course—After previous

(No. 1), [1917] 2 W. W. R. 160; 28 Can. Crim. Cas. 41; 35 D. L. R. 82.—CAN.

c. — British North America Act, 1867, s. 92, No. 15.]—"Imprisonment" in above Act means imprisonment with or without hard labour.—

HODGE v. R. (1883), 9 App. Cas. 117; 3 Cart. 144.—CAN.

d. Does not include hard labour—At common law cannot be added to.]—Ex p. LIEFEBVRE, Ex p. DUFRESNE (1881), 4 L. N. 253.—CAN.

award of penal servitude.]—A sentence of penal servitude is not necessarily to be imposed because it was imposed by the last previous sentence.—R. v. ROY (alias ELLISON) (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 114, C. C. A.

5208. ———.]—R. v. BAKER, No. 4993, ante.

5209. Awarded when light sentences have failed.]—

The ct. refused to reduce a sentence of penal servitude where short sentences had become useless & only a period of long detention could reclaim prisoner.—R. v. REES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 83, C. C. A.

5210. ———.]—Appeal against sentence of 3 yrs.' penal servitude for obtaining goods by false pretences.

Prisoner has been constantly convicted of small offences & it is plain that small sentences have had no effect. The learned recorder may well be justified in thinking that penal servitude should now be tried (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. CURTIS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 60, C. C. A.

5211. ———.]—R. v. DOWLING (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

5212. Quantum when first awarded—Normally limited to three years.]—The ct. tends to limit a first term of penal servitude to the minimum—three years.—R. v. STREET (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 88.

5213. ———.]—A first sentence of penal servitude should not exceed the term of three years.—R. v. MYERS (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 115, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Distd. R. v. Walden (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 207.

5214. ———.]—Without laying down any general rule, the ct. leans on a first sentence to penal servitude, to a term of three years.—R. v. JONES (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 212, C. C. A.

5215. ———. May be five years.]—In certain cases the first term of penal servitude is properly five years.—R. v. WALDEN (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

5216. ———. Five years undesirable.]—It is undesirable that a first sentence of penal servitude should be for a term of five years.—R. v. WARRILLOW (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 230, C. C. A.

5217. ———. No fixed rule.]—R. v. MAYES (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 178, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 4.—WHIPPING.

See Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 36.

5218. When awarded—Attempt to commit rape.]—

Prisoner, who had five previous convictions against him for indecent assault, was convicted of attempting to choke & strangle a woman with intent to commit a rape on her. The ct. sentenced prisoner to seven years' penal servitude & to receive two whippings.—R. v. SMALLBONES (1898), 33 L. Jo. 124.

5219. ———. Robbery with violence.]—R. v. RILEY (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 93, C. C. A.

5220. ———.]—As a general rule robbery with violence should be punished by flogging.—R. v. SWENSON & CABA (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 209, C. C. A.

PART XIII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 4.

e. When awarded—Robbery in company.]—W. & L. were charged at the District Ct. of R. with robbery. The evidence showed that they had committed the offence in company & they were sentenced to

5221. — Incurrigible rogue—Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83).—R. v. ANTHONY* (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 82, C. C. A.

5222. — — — — —.]—Upon a second conviction under Vagrancy Act, 1898 (c. 39), s. 1, the offender may be dealt with as an "incurrigible rogue" under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83), s. 10, & on being sent to the quarter sessions, may be ordered by them to be punished by whipping.—R. v. HERION, [1913] 1 K. B. 284; 82 L. J. K. B. 82; 108 L. T. 848; 29 T. L. R. 93; 23 Cox, C. C. 387; sub nom. R. v. HERION, R. v. JACKSON, 77 J. P. 96; R. v. WILKIN, 57 Sol. Jo. 130; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

5223. — — — — —.]—Applt. was convicted of being an incurrigible rogue for that he being a person able wholly to maintain himself & his family by work or other means unlawfully & wilfully within six calendar months past did neglect so to do whereby his wife & child became chargeable to the union. There were a number of previous convictions against applt., six or seven of which were for neglect to maintain his family. He was convicted of this offence in June, 1913, & sentenced to one month's imprisonment. In September he was convicted again as set out above, & being sent for sentence to quarter sessions was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour & to receive twelve lashes with the whip. The ct. on appeal reduced the sentence to one of six months' imprisonment with hard labour, on the ground that applt. had not had much opportunity to provide for his family since his last release from prison.—R. v. FIDLER (1913), 78 J. P. 142; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 197, C. C. A.

5224. — Offence under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69)—Effect of Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1912 (c. 20), s. 3.]—A person against whom an offence was alleged under sect. 2 of 1885 Act was arrested & charged before, but tried & convicted after, the date when the 1912 Act came into force. A sentence of whipping was inflicted under sect. 3 of the 1912 Act:—Held: proceedings were pending at the commencement of the 1912 Act within the meaning of sect. 8 of the Act, & the ct. had no power to inflict a sentence of whipping in addition to a term of imprisonment.—R. v. O'CONNOR, [1913] 1 K. B. 557; 82 L. J. K. B. 335; 108 L. T. 384; 77 J. P. 272; 29 T. L. R. 245; 57 Sol. Jo. 287; 23 Cox, C. C. 334; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 167, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Boaler, Re Vexatious Action Act, 1896, [1914] 1 K. B. 122.

5225. — — — — — Age of offender at date of offence.]—An offender against sect. 4 of the 1885 Act whose age exceeds sixteen years at the date of conviction, though he was under sixteen at the date of the offence, is not "an offender whose age does not exceed sixteen years" within the meaning of that section & cannot be sentenced to be whipped.—R. v. CAWTHRON, [1913] 3 K. B. 168; 82 L. J. K. B. 981; 109 L. T. 412; 77 J. P. 460; 29 T. L. R. 600; 23 Cox, C. C. 548; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 48, C. C. A.

5226. — Offence under Vagrancy Act, 1898 (c. 39)—Effect of Criminal Law Amendment Act,

1912 (c. 20), s. 7 (5)—Subsequent conviction following summary conviction.]—The conviction of an offence under the Vagrancy Act, 1898, preceding the "second or subsequent conviction . . . on indictment" under the same statute, referred to in sect. 7, sub-sect. 5 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1912, need not be a conviction on indictment.

Therefore where a male person was convicted on indictment of trading on prostitution within sect. 1 of the Vagrancy Act, 1898, & it was also proved that he had been previously convicted under that Act by cts. of summary jurisdiction before the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1912, had come into operation:—Held: the Ct. had power under sect. 7, sub-sect. 5 of the Act of 1912, in addition to any term of imprisonment awarded, to order the offender to be once privately whipped.—R. v. AUSTIN, [1913] 1 K. B. 551; 82 L. J. K. B. 387; 108 L. T. 574; 77 J. P. 271; 29 T. L. R. 245; 57 Sol. Jo. 287; 23 Cox, C. C. 346; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 169, C. C. A.

5227. — — — — — Previous conviction before commencement of act.]—R. v. AUSTIN*, No. 5226, ante.

5228. — — — — — Pending proceedings.]—R. v. BROWN* (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

5229. — Male child sentenced to detention—Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 4—Effect of Children Act, 1908 (c. 67).—Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 4, has not been impliedly repealed by Children Act, 1908 (c. 67). Where, therefore, a male child has been sentenced to detention in a place of detention, he may also be ordered to be whipped.

As in the Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), there is no person specifically charged with the duty of administering the punishment of whipping in the case of a child convicted on indictment & ordered to be whipped & sentenced to detention, the duty devolves upon the sheriff as the officer who has the general duty of executing the orders of cts. of justice. The sheriff may, however, depute the performance of this duty to a proper person.—R. v. LYDFORD, [1914] 2 K. B. 378; 83 L. J. K. B. 589; 110 L. T. 781; 78 J. P. 213; 30 T. L. R. 349; 58 Sol. Jo. 363; 24 Cox, C. C. 142; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 62, C. C. A.

5230. — First offenders.]—Semble*: the ct. leans against a sentence of flogging on first offenders.—R. v. EVANS & IRETON (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Expld. R. v. Wilder & Townsley (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 3.

5231. — — — — —.]—There is no general rule that first offenders should not be flogged.—R. v. WILDER & TOWNSLEY (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5232. By whom inflicted—On children.]—R. v. LYDFORD*, No. 5229, ante.

SUB-SECT. 5.—FINE.

5233. Must be absolute.]—Fine must be absolute.—ANON. (1699), 12 Mod. Rep. 318; 88 E. R. 1348.

ment & to a whipping & flogging respectively.

Sect. 41 under which they were charged does not authorise whipping or flogging, though sect. 48 dealing with robbery in company does so. On a case stated:—Held: the sentences should be amended by striking out so much as directed the whipping & flogging.—R. v. WISHER (1896), 7 Q. L. J. 52.—AUS.

f. — Robbery with violence — Time of whipping.]—Deft. was convicted of robbery & violence, & sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour & to receive twenty lashes, ten lashes six weeks after imprisonment, & ten lashes six weeks before the expiration of the term:—Held: the magistrate had no authority to fix the time or times of the whipping.—R. v. BOARDMAN (1914), 29

W. L. R. 176; 6 W. W. R. 1304; 18 D. L. R. 698; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 191.—CAN.

g. — — — — —.]—R. v. BADRI PRASED* (1922), 1 L. R. 44 All. 538.—IND.

PART XIII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 5.

h. Imprisonment in default of payment—Jurisdiction of Quarter Sessions.]—The ct. of quarter sessions

Sect. 3.—Kinds of punishment: Sub-sects. 5, 6, 7 & 8. Sect. 4: Sub-sect. 1, A.]

5234. Must be proportionate to offence committed—Costs not to be considered.]—Where, on conviction of a corpn. on an indictment removed by certiorari into the Crown side of the Q. B. Div. a fine is to be imposed, the fine is only to be commensurate with the offence committed, & the ct. in apportioning the fine will not take into consideration the amount of the costs incurred by the prosecution.—R. v. LONDON & NORTH WESTERN RY. CO. (1888), 58 L. T. 771; 52 J. P. 821; 16 Cox, C. C. 413, D. C.

5235. Fine fixed by statute—Miscalculation of amount—Amendment.]—Where a fixed fine, by statute, for a misdemeanour is miscalculated in the verdict & the judgment, the Ct. of K. B., upon a rule served on all parties interested, will alter the rule for the judgment against prisoner, & the entry roll, as to so much of the punishment, but they will not alter the judgment & verdict.—R. v. STEVENS (1806), 3 Smith, K. B. 366.

*Annotations:—Reid. Douglas v. R. (1848) 13 Q. B. 74. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 323; Wilkinson v. Gaston (1846), 9 Q. B. 137; R. v. Duffy (1848), 4 Cox, C. C. 294; Bellhouse v. Mellor, Proudman v. Mellor (1859), 4 H. & N. 116.

5236. Receipt of fine—Imposed by court of King's Bench.]—The King's Coroner has authority to receive fines imposed on defts. convicted on indictments or criminal informations in K. B.—R. v. SHACKELL (1825), M'Cle. & Yo. 514; 148 E. R. 516.

5237. Fine & imprisonment—Writ of execution immediately issues.]—Where a debt, in an indictment for a misdemeanour, has received judgment of fine & imprisonment:—Held: a levavi facias may issue immediately to take his goods in execution for the fine.—R. v. WOOLF (1819), 2 B. & Ald. 609; 1 Chit. 428; 106 E. R. 488.

*Annotations:—Apprvd. R. v. Shackell (1825), M'Cle. & Yo. 514. Mentd. R. v. O'Connell (1844), 3 L. T. O. S. 323; Ex p. Kinning (1847), 4 C. B. 507; Douglas v. R. (1848), 12 Jur. 974; R. v. Winsor (1866), 10 Cox, C. C. 276.

has power, in the case of an assault, to pronounce a sentence of fine & costs, & imprisonment in default of payment.—OVENS v. TAYLOR (1868), 19 C. P. 49.—CAN.

k. — Distress necessary before imprisonment.]—Where a person is ordered to pay a fine, or in default to be imprisoned, a distress must issue for the fine & be returned unsatisfied before he can be imprisoned.—It. v. BLAKELEY (1875), 6 P. R. 244.—CAN.

l. — Not after distress issued.]—Where debt. has been condemned to the payment of costs & fine, or to imprisonment in default of sufficient distress, if the prosecutor has once put the goods of debt. under distress, he cannot afterwards cause debt. to be imprisoned, even though the conviction remain unsatisfied.—CUSSON, PETITIONER FOR HABEAS CORPUS (1876), 14 R. L. O. S. 261.—CAN.

m. — Distress warrant unnecessary—Municipal Act, 1896.]—Under Municipal Act, 1896, an offender may be committed to gaol for non-payment of a fine without the previous issue of a distress warrant.—It. v. PETERSKY (1897), 5 B. C. R. 549.—CAN.

n. Fine & imprisonment—Common law punishment for misdemeanour.]—Ex p. LEFEVRE, Ex p. DUFRESNE (1881), 4 L. N. 253.—CAN.

o. — Further imprisonment in default of distress.]—A conviction for keeping a disorderly house & house of ill-fame:—Held: bad for awarding, after the adjudication of a penalty by fine & imprisonment, further imprisonment in default of sufficient distress or of non-payment of the fine.

—R. v. RICHARDSON (1882), 11 P. R. 95.—CAN.

p. — Imprisonment till payment not ordered.]—A. & B. were sentenced to imprisonment & fine. They fulfilled their terms of imprisonment, but were detained for non-payment of the fines:—Held: the judge, at the next ensuing assizes, should discharge them as their sentence did not include further imprisonment until payment of their fines.—ANON. (1814), 3 Craw. & D. 204.—IR.

q. — Discretion of judge.]—Where a statute prescribes both fine & imprisonment, the ct. is not bound to inflict both, but may inflict either one or the other.—BRABANT v. ROBIDOUX (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 527.—CAN.

r. Fine & costs—Imprisonment in default of distress.]—A conviction, for keeping a house of ill-fame, ordered payment of a fine & costs, to be collected by distress, & in default of distress ordered imprisonment:—Held: good.—It. v. WALKER (1884), 7 O. R. 186.—CAN.

s. ——Where imprisonment is directed on non-payment of a penalty, the award of distress of the goods to levy it, & then imprisonment in case the distress proved insufficient, is invalid in law, & an excess of jurisdiction.—It. v. LYNCH (1886), 12 O. R. 372.—CAN.

t. Fine fixed by statute—Miscalculation of amount.]—32 & 33 Vict. c. 31, s. 17 (D.), provides that a magistrate may condemn a party accused to pay a fine not exceeding, with the costs in the case, $100:—Held: the amount of the costs in the

SUB-SECT. 6.—DETENTION IN BORSTAL INSTITUTION.

See Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), ss. 10, 11.

5238. Discretion of judge—Report of prison governor.]—In this case the ct. directed attention to the terms of Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 1, by which it appears that the responsibility of passing a sentence of detention under the Borstal system pursuant to that section lies upon the judge. He is to consider the report made by or on behalf of the Prison Comrs. as to the suitability of a prisoner for treatment in a Borstal institution; but he is not bound to come to the same conclusion as that stated in the report.—R. v. WATKINS, R. v. SMALLWOOD, R. v. JONES (1910), 74 J. P. 382; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 93; sub nom. R. v. WILKINS, SMALLWOOD & JONES, 26 T. L. R. 581, C. C. A.

5239. ——Sentence to detention in a Borstal institution is peculiarly within the discretion of the ct. of trial.—R. v. STANTON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 198, C. C. A.

5240. Age limit—Proof of age.]—The ct. requires strict proof that applt. sentenced to detention in a Borstal institution was 21 years of age on the date of his conviction.—R. v. MCCANN (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 115, C. C. A.

5241. When detention suitable or unsuitable—Benefit of training.]—Youths should not be sent to a Borstal institution if there is a probability that they will not be able to get the full benefit of the training there.—R. v. BEE & PEARCE (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 285, C. C. A.

5242. — Physical fitness.]—The ct. favours detention in a Borstal institution for convicted youths who are physically fit therefor.—R. v. MONKHOUSE (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

5243. — First offence.]—In the case of a first offence, the ct. leans against detention even in a Borstal institution.—R. v. ELLING & WALLBRIDGE (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 24, C. C. A.

case should be deducted from $100 & the balance or difference should be the utmost limit of the fine; & conviction to pay $100 without costs, was bad.—R. v. CYR (1887), 12 P. R. 24.—CAN.

—It. v. JOHNSON (1913), 24 W. L. R. 468; 10 D. L. R. 822.—CAN.

b. ——For being the keeper of a disorderly house a magistrate cannot impose a fine of $200 & costs, this being in excess of "a fine not exceeding with the costs in the case, $200," authorised by sect. 781 of the Criminal Code.—It. v. KUYARCHUK, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 783; 32 Can. Crim. Cas. 312.—CAN.

c. — Amount cannot be reduced.]—A conviction is erroneous which imposes a penalty of an amount less than the sum fixed by the statute under which the conviction purports to have been made.—BROPHY v. WARD (1859), 11 Ir. Jur. 235.—IR.

d. Fine or imprisonment—Execution prevented by serving sentence.]—Where the sentence imposing the fine gives an alternative of imprisonment on "nonpayment" of the fine, accused may, in the absence of express provision to the contrary, prevent execution of the judgment for the fine, by electing to serve his full term of imprisonment.—CONTAT v. CONTAT'S TRUSTEE (1893), 10 S. C. 314; 3 C. T. R. 416.—S. AF.

e. Person to be paid must be specified.]—A conviction condemning a person to pay a fine ought to indicate to whom the fine should be paid.—PREVOST v. DEMONTIGNY, [1898] Q. R. 14 S. C. 208.—CAN.

5244. — Good character.]—Sentence of detention in a Borstal institution quashed in view of good character.—R. v. MILNER & ATKIN (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 18, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Priestley (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 143.

5245. Period of detention—Sentence sufficient for.]—R. v. KIRKPATRICK, No. 5005, ante.

5246. — Normal period three years.]—Appeals by youthful offenders from the refusal of a judge to grant leave to appeal against sentence can only succeed if the Ct. of Criminal Appeal is clearly of opinion that applt. ought never to have been sent to a Borstal institution. In the absence of special circumstances a sentence of three years is the right term for detention in a Borstal institution because that period of time gives the lads a chance, which very often a short term does not afford.—BORSTAL TREATMENT FOR JUVENILE OFFENDERS (1919), 83 J. P. Jo. 471, C. C. A.

5247. Modified Borstal treatment in prison—Meaning of.]—R. v. SMITH (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Lee (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 144.

5248. — Effect of undue sentence.]—Sentence of two years' imprisonment under the modified Borstal system reduced to one of four months' imprisonment on the ground that the chairman of quarter sessions, in imposing the sentence of two years was under the croneous impression that if the authorities saw fit prisoner could be released on licence in the same way as under the Borstal system.—R. v. LEE (1913), 30 T. L. R. 1; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 144; 77 J. P. Jo. 484, C. C. A.

5249. — —.]—R. v. OXLADE, No. 5006, ante.

5250. — Transfer to Borstal institution—Power of secretary of state.]—R. v. LEVERETT (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

5251. Transfer to ordinary imprisonment—Power of secretary of state—Right of appeal.]—There is no appeal from the commutation by the Home Secretary of detention in a Borstal institution to ordinary imprisonment, under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 7.—R. v. KEATING (1910), 103 L. T. 322; 74 J. P. 452; 26 T. L. R. 686; 22 Cox, C. C. 343; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

5252. Power of release from.]—Applt. was convicted of housebreaking, & was ordered to be detained for three years in a Borstal Institution. His age was nearly 21.

Detention in a Borstal Institution is the most appropriate punishment; he can be released at any time after six months if the authorities think proper (AVORY, J.).—R. v. HANNAY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 122, C. C. A.

PART XIII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 8.

f. Conditions of probation.]—A panel was sentenced to four months imprisonment, but allowed to be set at liberty at the expiry of one month, she & her husband coming under an obligation that she would return to prison to fulfil the remainder of her sentence in the event of the Crown calling upon her to do so.—RE SHELLES (1846), Arkley, 171.—SCOT.

g. Discretion of court.]—Judge refused to liberate the prisoner on recognisances as a first offender under Crimes Act, 1915, s. 532:—Held: ct. would not interfere with exercise of judge's discretion.—R. v. RICHMOND, [1920] V. L. R. 9.—AUS.

h. Under First Offenders' Probation Act, 1886.]—A person convicted of an offence, who has already been indicted upon a charge in respect of which he was acquitted, & against whom no previous conviction has been recorded, may be admitted to probation under First Offenders' Probation Act, 1886.—R. v. TURNER (1893), 11 N. Z. L. R. 831.—N.Z.

k. —.]—First Offenders' Probation Act, 1886, is not applicable to a prisoner who has embezzled several sums of money extending over a considerable period, & has falsified his accounts, even though he admits his defalcations & offers to make restitution.—R. v. ROWE (1902), 20 N. Z. L. R. 590.—N.Z.

l. — First offender.]—Where there were separate embezzlements committed by prisoner at different periods of time, not so connected as to constitute practically one charge, & prisoner was a person in a position of trust & mature years:—Held: (1) there was an "established criminal intention" shown, within "The First Offenders' Probation Act, 1886," which precluded the application of the

SUB-SECT. 7.—PREVENTIVE DETENTION.

Sentence on habitual criminal.]—See Sect. 4, sub-sect. 4, post.

SUB-SECT. 8.—PROBATION.

See Probation of Offenders Act, 1907 (c. 17), & Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58).

SECT. 4.—HABITUAL CRIMINALS.

See Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59).

SUB-SECT. 1.—PROCEDURE BEFORE TRIAL.

A. In General.

5253. Whether person under thirty can be charged.]—Exceptionally it may be proper to charge a person under thirty years of age with being a habitual criminal.—R. v. SAUNDERS (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 271, C. C. A.

5254. —.]—There is no law which prevents a person from being convicted as a habitual criminal before he is thirty, but it is a matter on which we ought to be careful (RIDLEY, J.).—R. v. HOOPER & HARDY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

5255. Consent of directors of public prosecutions—Condition precedent.]—Observations on the procedure to be followed on a charge of being a habitual criminal, before trial, during trial, & after conviction, & on the form of the indictment.

As to proceedings before trial. There are two conditions precedent: the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions has to be given, & seven days' notice has to be given to the proper officer of the ct. by which the offender is to be tried, & to the offender himself, that it is intended to insert such charge, & the notice to the offender must specify the previous convictions & the other grounds upon which it is intended to found the charge. These two conditions are of the utmost importance, & unless proper notice has been given no valid trial can take place. The notice itself should give, with particularity, not only the convictions, but the other grounds upon which it is intended to found the charge. The latter must refer specifically to the facts. Care should be taken during the trial that evidence is not given against the offender unless due notice of the facts to be proved has been already given to him.

With regard to proceedings during trial. The indictment should be framed to show clearly that the person is charged with being a habitual criminal; & after verdict, but before sentence at provisions of that Act: (2) as to the second & subsequent charge, prisoner was not a "first offender."—It. v. FOWLER (1903), 23 N. Z. L. R. 356.—N.Z.

—.]—Where a prisoner charged with an indictable offence has given false evidence, & has been convicted of the offence charged:—Held: he ought not to be admitted to probation.

Prisoner was convicted of two charges of forgery in one indictment. He had been previously convicted summarily of stealing two blank stamped cheques, & it was these cheques which he filled up & forged:—Held: although the offence of theft was in a sense connected with the forgery, it was a separate offence, & the prisoner was not therefore a "first offender" within First Offenders' Probation Amendment Act, 1903, s. 2.—R. v. HIRST (1907), 27 N. Z. L. R. 533.—N.Z.

Sect. 4.—Habitual criminals: Sub-sect. 1, A. & B.]

the trial on the primary offence, the charge of being a habitual criminal should be clearly put to the prisoner for him to plead to.

As to proceedings after conviction, it should be observed that there is no obligation on the ct. to pass a sentence of preventive detention. Unless the ct. has passed a sentence of penal servitude for the primary offence, it has no jurisdiction to pass a sentence of preventive detention; & even if the ct. does pass such a sentence of penal servitude there is no obligation to pass a sentence of preventive detention in respect of the man having been found a habitual criminal.

Another point raised in the case of W. (one of defts.) was that his answer to the deputy clerk of assize did not amount to a plea of guilty on a charge of being a habitual criminal. In a sense that is true, for his answer "Yes" was to the question whether he had been previously convicted as a habitual criminal in 1915; but we have no doubt at all that applt. thought that he was being charged with being a habitual criminal, knew that he had been convicted & sentenced for such an offence, & intended to plead guilty to such a charge. He had received a proper notice setting out his previous conviction as such, & he had been sentenced to preventive detention, & he was at the time of committing the offences for which he was then on trial a convict on licence of preventive detention, which fact was proved at the trial. He was defended by counsel, & neither he nor his counsel raised any protest when the learned judge proceeded to treat him as a habitual criminal in virtue of his answer to the deputy clerk of assize. Under these circumstances we hold that this is a case where the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), can & should be applied on the ground that no substantial miscarriage of justice has actually occurred (LORD TREVELYAN, C.J.).—R. v. HARRIS, [1922] 2 K. B. 543; sub nom. R. v. HARRIS, R. v. EDWARDS, R. v. JONES, R. v. WILKINS, R. v. WILCOCK, 91 L. J. K. B. 587; 128 L. T. 639; 86 J. P. 105; 38 T. L. R. 343; 66 Sol. Jo. 317, 335; 27 Cox, C. C. 178; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 91, 94, 95, 96.

5256. ——— Necessity for proof.—R. v. LAURANCE (1909), 73 J. P. Jo. 564.

5257. ——— R. v. FOSTER (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

5258. ——— Mode of proof.—An indictment under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10, charged prisoner with felony & also with being a habitual criminal. Prisoner pleaded guilty to the felony & not guilty to the charge of being a habitual criminal:—Held: upon the inquiry whether the prisoner was a habitual criminal there was no objection to swearing the jury as for the trial of a felony, although it would have been sufficient to swear them as for the trial of a misdemeanour.

Without laying down any general rule as to how the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions to a charge of being a habitual criminal being inserted in an indictment ought to be proved, it will be sufficient if some person who has been in correspondence with the Public Prosecutor is called to say that he received the document containing the consent in the ordinary course of correspondence & believes it to be signed by the Director of Public Prosecutions, but it is not necessary to call a witness who has seen him write.

To prove that seven days' notice of the intention to insert in the indictment a charge of being a habitual criminal has been given to the proper officer of the ct. it is not necessary that the officer himself, e.g. the clerk of the peace, should be called, but there must be some proof of the receipt by him of the notice, e.g. by calling his clerk.

The seven days' notice to be given to the officer of the ct. & to the offender that it is intended to insert a charge of being a habitual criminal in the indictment is seven clear days' notice.

It is not necessary that the notice to the offender of intention to insert a charge of being a habitual criminal in the indictment should contain a statement of the evidence which it is intended to call for the purpose of showing that he is leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life, but the grounds upon which it is intended to prove that he is leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life must be stated in a general way, e.g. that the prisoner is doing no work & has no honest means of livelihood.

Whether evidence of prisoner's persistently dishonest or criminal life previous to his last conviction is admissible in evidence in order to prove that he is at present leading a persistently dishonest or criminal life depends on the facts of the case. The evidence may be admissible as a step in proving that he is at present leading a persistently dishonest or criminal life. Evidence of such dishonest or criminal life before the last conviction is not necessarily inadmissible, but it must be brought down to the date of the pending charge.

If the facts make it doubtful whether prisoner was over sixteen when the first of the three convictions mentioned in sect. 10, sub-sect. 2 (a) took place, some evidence of that fact must be given. But a statement of prisoner to that effect would be sufficient.

Where a person is convicted of, or pleads guilty to, having committed a crime charged in the indictment, the ct. ought not to pass a sentence for that crime before the jury inquire into a further charge, contained in the indictment, of being a habitual criminal.—R. v. TURNER, [1910] 1 K. B. 346; 79 L. J. K. B. 176; 102 L. T. 367; 74 J. P. 81; 26 T. L. R. 112; 22 Cox, C. C. 310; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 103, C. C. A.; sub nom. R. v. TURNER, R. v. WALLER, 54 Sol. Jo. 164, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Reid, R. v. Johnson (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 168; R. v. Condon (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 109; R. v. Fawcett (1910), 74 J. P. 444; R. v. Marshall (1910), 74 J. P. 381; R. v. Moran (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 219; R. v. Walker (1910), 27 T. L. R. 51; R. v. Waller, [1910] 1 K. B. 364; R. v. Summers (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 11; R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543; R. v. Coney (1923), 92 L. J. K. B. 915. Mentid, Browne v. Black, [1911] 1 K. B. 975.

5259. ——— *Where a charge under the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), of being a habitual criminal is inserted in the indictment against an accused person the prosecution need not prove as part of their case that the consent of the Director of Public Prosecutions has been given to the insertion of such charge, unless the fact is challenged by the accused, in which case the fact may be proved as determined in Rex v. Turner ([1910] 1 K. B. 346).* The clerk of assize or the clerk of the peace, or, if any question arises, the Judge, should satisfy himself that such consent has been given before the indictment goes before the grand jury.—R. v. WALLER, [1910] 1 K. B. 364; 79 L. J. K. B. 184; 102 L. T. 400; 74 J. P. 81; 26 T. L. R. 142; 22 Cox, C. C. 319; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 213; sub nom. R. v. TURNER, R. v. WALLER, 54 Sol. Jo. 164, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Fold, R. v. Westwood (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 273. Reid, R. v. Bates (1911), 80 L. J. K. B. 507; R. v. Everitt (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 267; R. v. Metz

(1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1462. Mentd. R. v. Rowland (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 277; R. v. Baggott (1910), 74 J. P. 213; R. v. Condon (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 109; R. v. Fawcett (1910), 74 J. P. 444; R. v. Marshall (1910), 74 J. P. 381.

B. Notices to Offender and Court.

5260. In general—Necessity for proof of notices.]

—R. v. FOSTER, No. 5257, ante.

5261. — Length of notice—Seven clear days.]

—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5262. — Postponement of trial for notice to be given.]—R. v. LAWRENCE (1914), 78 J. P. Jo. 196.

5263. — Effect of postponement of trial.]—Where a trial has been postponed to a later assize, a proper notice given to an alleged habitual criminal holds good.—R. v. CONDUIT (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

5264. — Objections to notice—Must be taken at trial.]—Objections that proper notices, under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4) (b), have not been given, must be taken at the trial.—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WESTON, [1910] 1 K. B. 17; 79 L. J. K. B. 1; 101 L. T. S16; 74 J. P. 13; 26 T. L. R. 23; 54 Sol. Jo. 137; 22 Cox, C. C. 219; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 40, 53, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Franklin (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 48; R. v. Smith (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 40; R. v. Jackson (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 93; R. v. Sweeney (1910), 74 J. P. Jo. 77.

5265. — Effect of technical objection.]—

The ct. will not give effect to a mere technical objection to the statutory notice if there has been no miscarriage of justice.—R. v. JONES (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 29, C. C. A.

5266. — — —.]—The statutory notice to an offender under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4) (b), is subject to the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).

Preventive detention differs from penal servitude & approaches industrial serfdom. For a man to be found to be a habitual criminal it must be found that he has been convicted three times previously. In the notice which was served on applt. no mention was made of a crime committed at Leeds, but evidence was given of it, the evidence being a letter written by applt. asking that the matter should be taken into consideration. No substantial miscarriage of justice has occurred, through the omission of this matter from the statutory notice. The proviso applies just as much to the formal notice as it does to graver things (DARLING, J.).—R. v. HERON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 29, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Harris, etc. (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 587.

5267. Notice to officer of court—Proof of receipt of notice.]—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5268. — — —.]—R. v. FOSTER, No. 5257, ante.

5269. — — —.]—A conviction for being an habitual criminal under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10, was quashed on the grounds that (1) there was no proof that seven days' notice had been given to the proper officer of the ct. that it was intended to insert in the indictment against applt. a charge of being an habitual criminal; (2) that the judge in summing up the case to the jury had mentioned other convictions than the three convictions proved against him & those just recorded against him; & (3) that the judge in summing up the case to the jury had told them that the burden of proving that he had attempted to gain an honest livelihood since his last conviction lay upon applt.—R. v. STEWART (1910), 74 J. P. 246; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (2) N.F. R. v. Chatway & Howard (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 151. Consd. R. v. Cullford (1911), 75 J. P. 232.

5270. — Presumption that notice given.]—

(1) There is a presumption that the notice to the proper officer of the ct. of an intention to charge a prisoner as an habitual criminal under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4) (b), has been duly given. The onus is on prisoner of showing that it has not.

(2) Evidence was given of grounds not included in the notice given to prisoner, but the ct., on appeal from the conviction, acted under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), & holding that no substantial miscarriage of justice had occurred, they refused to allow the appeal & confirmed the conviction.—R. v. WESTWOOD (1913), 77 J. P. 379; 29 T. L. R. 492; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 273, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (2) Folld. It. v. Heron (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 29.

5271. — Necessity for.]—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.

5272. Notice to offender—Necessity for.]—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.

5273. — Necessity for proof of.]—R. v. FOSTER, No. 5257, ante.

5274. — — — Mode of proof.]—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5275. — Presumption of service of notice.]—On the trial of an allegation of being a habitual criminal the ct. will presume, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, that the notice to the offender under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4), has been duly served.—R. v. TAYLOR (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

5276. — Necessary contents.]—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5277. — — —.]—R. v. SUMMERS (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 11, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5278. — — —.]—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.

5279. — — — Effect of statement of wrong grounds.]—A notice given to a prisoner pursuant to Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4) (b), that it was intended to insert in an indictment against him a charge that he was a habitual criminal & was leading persistently a dishonest & criminal life contained the following ground: "That when you were asked to give some account of yourself, in order that you might have an opportunity of showing that you had since the date of your last release from prison been following some honest employment, you declined to give any information which could be verified on the subject":—Held: although in point of form the ground was not one upon which prisoner could be convicted of being a habitual criminal, it did not invalidate the notice, inasmuch as it was in fact a notice of the evidence that would be used against prisoner for the purpose of satisfying the jury that he had not been leading an honest life since the date of his last release from prison, & the fact that the notice stated that the evidence would be given did not make it bad, although there was no legal obligation under the statute to state what evidence would be produced.—R. v. WEBBER, [1913] 1 K. B. 33; 82 L. J. K. B. 108; 108 L. T.

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

5272 1. Notice to offender—Necessity for.]—On a charge of forgery, falsity & theft, accused was sentenced to be imprisoned for three years with hard labour, & was at the same time declared an habitual criminal, in terms of Act 9 of 1911:—Held: Act No. 9 of 1911 made no provision for the giving notice to an accused person of an intention on the part of the prosecution to have him declared an habitual criminal.—GANDY v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 333.—S. AF.

Sect. 4.—Habitual criminals: Sub-sect. 1, B.; sub-sects. 2 & 3, A., B. & C.]

349; 76 J. P. 471; 23 Cox, C. C. 323; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

See, further, Sub-sect. 3, A., post.

SUB-SECT. 2.—PROCEDURE AT TRIAL.

5280. Indictment—Must contain charge of being a “habitual criminal.”—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.

5281. ——— Effect of omission of words “habitual criminal.”—An indictment containing a count under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2), alleged that prisoner, since attaining the age of sixteen years, had at least three times previously to the crime charged in the indictment been convicted of a crime within the meaning of the Act, & that he was leading persistently a dishonest & criminal life, but it did not allege that prisoner was a habitual criminal:—Held: the count was sufficient, though from the point of view of pleading it would be better to insert an averment that prisoner was a habitual criminal.

By Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 11, a person sentenced to preventive detention may appeal against the sentence without leave of the Ct. of Criminal Appeal:—Held: the ct. would adopt the practice of allowing prisoners, appealing against a sentence of preventive detention, to appeal against the sentence of preventive detention, to which the sentence of preventive detention could not be passed.—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WESTON, [1910] 1 K. B. 17; 79 L. J. K. B. 1; 101 L. T. 816; 74 J. P. 13; 26 T. L. R. 23; 54 Sol. Jo. 137; 22 Cox, C. C. 219; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 40, 53, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Sweeney (1910), 74 J. P. Jo. 77. Mentd. R. v. Franklin (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 48; R. v. Smith (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 40; R. v. Jackson (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 93.

5282. ——— Effect of charge of being a habitual criminal.—There is no power to try the allegation that an accused person is a habitual criminal before any jury other than the jury which convicted him of the substantive offence charged in the indictment.

The whole question depends upon whether the charge against applt. was a charge of an offence or crime or whether it merely asserted a status or condition in him which would enable the ct., if it were established, to deal with him in a certain manner. We are of opinion that there is nothing in the Act [Prevention of Crime Act 1908 (c. 59)] which would justify us in saying that the charge of being a habitual criminal is a charge of a crime or offence (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. HUNTER, [1921] 1 K. B. 555; 90 L. J. K. B. 145; 125 L. T. 29; 85 J. P. 147; 37 T. L. R. 82; 26 Cox, C. C. 727; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

5283. ——— Must be tried immediately after primary charge.—An indictment for being a habitual criminal under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), must be tried immediately after the primary charge.

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 2.

n. Indictment—Must be tried immediately after primary charge—No interlocutor or adjournment necessary.—Prisoner, indicted on a charge of theft & of being an habitual criminal, was found by jury guilty of theft. The jury was then resworn to inquire into the second charge & found prisoner to be an habitual criminal. On motion for sentence on the charge of theft, counsel for prisoner objected as the diet had not been formally adjourned by written interlocutor after the verdict on the first charge & before the second charge was proceeded with:—Held: the inquiry being one continuous inquiry no interlocutor or adjournment was necessary.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. GILLAN, [1910] S. C. (J.)

If a man occupies a day or two of his time in doing work, that does not prevent him from being a habitual criminal (DARLING, J.).—R. v. JENNINGS (1910), 74 J. P. 245; 26 T. L. R. 339; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 120, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Hunter, [1921] 1 K. B. 555.

5284. ——— Must be tried before jury trying primary charge.—R. v. HUNTER, No. 5282, ante.

5285. ——— Judge has not power to refuse to try.—A judge has no power to refuse to try the allegation of being a habitual criminal.—R. v. HARDING, JEFFREY & JONES (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.

5286. ——— Should be tried before sentence on primary charge.—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5287. ——— ————Where a person is indicted for a crime & also for being an habitual criminal, & pleads guilty to, or is convicted of, the crime, sentence should not be passed upon him in respect thereof until the charge of being an habitual criminal has been tried.—R. v. WALKER (1910), 27 T. L. R. 51; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 231; 74 J. P. Jo. 533, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5288. Trial of two together as habitual criminals—Whether trials should be separate.—A person charged in an indictment with being an habitual criminal, when tried on that issue, should be tried separately & not with any other person.—R. v. BLAKE (1910), 74 J. P. 336; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 275, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Expld. R. v. Taylor & Coney (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 168.

5289. ——— ————It is not an absolute rule of CONEY (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

5290. Swearing the jury—Whether for felony or misdemeanour.—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

SUB-SECT. 3.—EVIDENCE AT TRIAL.

A. What Evidence may be given.

5291. Must be confined to matters contained in notice.—In this case, on the trial of a prisoner for being an habitual criminal, evidence was given of certain offences committed by prisoner since his last release from prison before his re-arrest for the fourth crime. The notice given to him of an intention to insert in the indictment a charge against him of being an habitual criminal pursuant to Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4) (b), did not state the commission of these offences as one of the “other grounds upon which it is intended to found the charge.” No objection was taken to the evidence when it was given. Applt., by his notice of appeal, did not make the admission of this evidence a ground of appeal. The ct. refused to quash the conviction on the ground of this evidence having been given, & acting under the power given to them by the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), they held that no substantial miscarriage of justice had actually occurred.—R. v. MARSHALL (1910), 74 J. P. 381; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Heron (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 29.

49.—SCOT.

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

5291 i. Must be confined to matters contained in notice.—Evidence revealing that prisoner had served terms of imprisonment besides those due to the convictions charged in the notice was rejected.—R. v. PROCTOR, R. v. DOAK (1909), 44 I. L. T. 107.—IR.

Sect. 4.—Habitual criminals: Sub-sect. 3, C. & D. (a).] convictions may be put in as evidence of character & repute, on the question whether the accused is or is not leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life, under sect. 10 (5).—R. v. FRANKLIN (1909), 74 J. P. 24; 54 Sol. Jo. 217; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 48, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd.* R. v. Chatway & Howard (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 151; R. v. Westwood (1913), 29 T. L. R. 492. Mentd. R. v. Crowley (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 198.

5308. ———.]—R. v. STEWART, No. 5269, ante.

5309. What is a previous conviction—Conviction in Ireland.—A conviction for a crime in Ireland is a previous conviction within the meaning of Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2).—R. v. BROWN (1913), 77 J. P. Jo. 400, C. C. A.

D. Proof of Dishonest or Criminal Life.

(a) In General.

5310. Onus of proof—Lies on prosecution.—R. v. STEWART, No. 5269, ante.

5311. ———.]—Where an offender is charged with being an habitual criminal it is for the Crown to establish that the accused still was at the time of arrest, leading a dishonest or criminal life.—R. v. YOUNG (1913), 109 L. T. 753; 78 J. P. 80; 30 T. L. R. 69; 58 Sol. Jo. 100; 23 Cox, C. C. 624; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 185, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd.* R. v. Crowley, R. v. Sullivan (1913), 110 L. T. 127; R. v. Harris, etc., [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5312. ———.]—On the trial of the allegation of being a habitual criminal the jury should clearly be directed that the onus of proof is on the Crown.

It is entirely discretionary for the judge who presides at the trial, having regard to the Act which he is called upon to enforce & applying it to the particular circumstances of the case then before him, to determine the period of preventive detention (ISAACS, C.J.).—R. v. CROWLEY (1913), 83 L. J. K. B. 298; sub nom. R. v. CROWLEY, R. v. SULLIVAN, 110 L. T. 127; 78 J. P. 142; 30 T. L. R. 94; 24 Cox, C. C. 13; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 198, 201, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd.* R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5313. What is sufficient proof—Three previous convictions alone.—The requirement of Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (4), that the notice to the offender of an intention to insert such a charge in the indictment "shall specify five offences in respect of four separate acts, & upon a plea of "guilty" to a further indictment containing four counts charging four offences in respect of two separate acts. Both the conviction & the plea of "guilty" were taken upon the same day:—Held: the declaration should be quashed, prisoner having been "previously convicted" on two occasions only & not "on at least four occasions" within Crimes Act, 1908, s. 29.—It. v. TIER (1912), 32 N. Z. L. R. 428.—N.Z.

o. What is a previous conviction—Admission of series of charges.—Prisoner who pleaded guilty to a series of charges of breaking & entering & stealing, had only two prior convictions against him for the same class of offence, there were also several police ct. convictions against him & one on a charge of forgery on indictment:—Held: the judge was entitled to take into consideration the series of offences to which the prisoner had pleaded guilty.—R. v. HAMILTON (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 651; 30 N. S. W. W. N. 190.—AUS.

p. ———.]—The ct. has power, under The Indictable Offences Summary Jurisdiction Amendment Act, 1900, s. 14 (3), to declare prisoner an habitual criminal where he has not been convicted on indictment, but has pleaded guilty in the Magistrate's Ct. & been committed to the Supreme Ct. for sentence.—It. v. BAGNALL (1907), 26 N. Z. L. R. 756.—N.Z.

q. — Offences committed before Habitual Criminals & Offenders Act, 1906.—Where prisoner was convicted after the passing of above Act of an offence committed before its passing, & the requisite number of previous convictions were recorded against him:—Held: the ct. had power to declare him an habitual criminal.—Re SPARROW (1908), 28 N. Z. L. R. 143.—N.Z.

r. — Crimes Act, 1908, s. 29—Need not be convictions on indictment.—The previous convictions requisite under above Act, to enable the ct. to declare prisoner an habitual criminal need not necessarily be convictions on indictment, but may be convictions before a magistrate, so long as they are convictions for the offences mentioned in Classes I. or II. of the sect.—R. v. LEWIS (1910), 29 N. Z. L. R. 1208.—N.Z.

s. — — — Convictions on different days.—Each conviction of a prisoner the previous convictions & the other grounds upon which it is intended to found the charge" means that the notice shall specify "the other grounds" if any. It does not mean that the previous convictions may not by themselves be sufficient grounds upon which to found the charge.

—R. v. WALLER, [1910] 1 K. B. 364; 79 L. J. K. B. 184; 102 L. T. 400; 74 J. P. 81; 26 T. L. R. 142; 22 Cox, C. C. 319; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 213; sub nom. R. v. TURNER, R. v. WALLER, 54 Sol. Jo. 164, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd.* R. v. Baggott (1910), 74 J. P. 213; R. v. Marshall (1910), 74 J. P. 381; R. v. Everitt (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 267. Mentd. R. v. Rowland (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 277; R. v. Condon (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 109; R. v. Bates (1911), 80 L. J. K. B. 507; R. v. Westwood (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 273; R. v. Metz (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1462.

5314. ———.]—On the charge of being "a habitual criminal" within Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2) (a), the three previous convictions which the jury must find may be sufficient evidence for the jury when the offences committed show deliberate & systematic preparation, & are repeated at an early opportunity after release from prison.

Five years' preventive detention does not necessarily mean that applt. would be in confinement the whole of that time. The authorities had ample power to release him at an earlier date if satisfied that it was safe to do so (PICKFORD, J.).—R. v. EVERITT (1911), 27 T. L. R. 570; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 267, C. C. A.

5315. — Convictions other than three statutory convictions.—R. v. BRUMMITT & MATTHEWS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 192, C. C. A.

5316. — — — Whether strict proof necessary.—R. v. STEWART, No. 5269, ante.

5317. — — — Production of list of previous convictions.—R. v. FRANKLIN, No. 5307, ante.

5318. ———.]—Other previous convictions than the three statutory convictions need not be proved with the same strictness & particularity as the latter.—R. v. CHATWAY & HOWARD (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 151, C. C. A.

5319. ———.]—R. v. SUMMERS, No. 5277, ante.

5320. — — — Should not be referred to unless proved.—In this case a conviction for being a habitual criminal under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10, was quashed on the ground that is a separate occasion within above Act, whether the several convictions are recorded on the same day or on different days.—R. v. STEELE (1910), 29 N. Z. L. R. 1039.—N.Z.

t. — — — Sequence of convictions necessary.—The conditions precedent which must exist to authorise a ct. in declaring a prisoner an habitual criminal under above Act, 1908, are a sequence of convictions only, & nothing is said as to a sequence of offences.—It. v. EHRMAN (1911), 21 N. Z. L. R. 136.—N.Z.

u. — Act 9 of 1911.—On a charge of forgery, falsity & theft, accused was sentenced to be imprisoned for a term of three years with hard labour, & was at the same time declared an habitual criminal, in terms of Act 9 of 1911. An appeal was taken on the ground that the crime of falsity, which was one of two previous convictions against accused, was not one of the crimes mentioned in the schedule to the Act of 1911:—Held: although the offences mentioned in the schedule did not expressly include the crime of falsity, it came within the generic term of "fraud," which was included in the schedule.—GANDY v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 333.—S. AF.

the judge in summing up the case to the jury had mentioned to the jury other convictions than those proved against him, & the ct. were unable to say that if they had not been mentioned the jury would have arrived at the same conclusion.—R. v. CULLIFORD (1911), 75 J. P. 232; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

5321. — Conviction abroad.]—R. v. HEARD*, No. 5322, post.

5322. — Offences similar to primary offence.]—Evidence of a conviction abroad for a crime punished by all civilised nations, such as theft, is admissible on the question of whether a prisoner, who is charged under the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), with being a habitual criminal, has been leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life. Where on such a charge it appears that there has been a considerable interval between prisoner's last release from prison & the commission of the crime on which he is charged with being a habitual criminal, e.g. six or nine months, it is desirable, & probably necessary, not only that the attention of the jury should be drawn to the length of this interval, but that evidence should be given that prisoner relapsed into crime because he was leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life. This evidence may take many forms—association with criminals; the possession of funds not consistent with mere charity & not explained by evidence of employment; the character of the crime itself, whether similar to those for which the accused has been habitually convicted in the past or not, & evidence as to the details of the crime on which he is charged as being a habitual criminal showing skill & premeditation.—R. v. HEARD (1911), 106 L. T. 304; 76 J. P. 232; 28 T. L. R. 154; 22 Cox, C. C. 725; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—Appld. R. v. Ford (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 176. Refd. R. v. Wilson (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 95; R. v. Harris, etc., [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5323. — — — — —.]—R. v. WILLIAMS* (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

5324. — Other offences.]—R. v. BRUMMITT & MATTHEWS*, No. 5315, ante.

5325. — Must be proved.]—R. v. SMITH* (1922), 153 L. T. Jo. 282, C. C. A.

5326. — — — — —.]—R. v. JONES*, No. 5398, post.

5327. — — — — — Warrants issued.]—R. v. MACDONALD* (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 127, C. C. A.
*Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Harris, etc. (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 587.

5328. — Criminal associations.]—R. v. HEARD*, No. 5322, ante.

5329. — Refusal to work.]—B. was convicted for being an habitual criminal under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10. It appeared that on his release from prison after serving his sentence on the third crime, he was kept in an asylum which he left about two months before his arrest for the fourth crime, on which he was charged with being a habitual criminal. Evidence was tendered that he was leading persistently a dishonest life by evidence of repute that he was a cunning & dangerous thief; & that in the course of the two months he had refused the work of stone-breaking offered to him at a workhouse. It appeared, however, that during this period B. was living on the charity of relations, & he stated that he had applied for work which had been promised him. This statement was not corroborated before verdict, & the recorder who tried him commented on that fact in his summing up. But as soon as the verdict was given a police officer went into the box & corroborated B.'s statement as to his efforts to get work during the two months before his last arrest. The Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction, holding that the refusal to break stones might have been evidence of B.'s leading persistently a dishonest life, had it not been for the fact that he was known to be living on the charity of relations.—R. v. BAGGOTT (1910), 71 J. P. 213; 26 T. L. R. 266; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 67, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Heard (1911), 106 L. T. 304; R. v. Keane & Watson (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 12.

5330. — Whether refusal to give account of self.]—R. v. WEBBER*, No. 5279, ante.

5331. — — — — —.]—A jury properly directed are entitled to find that a deft. who refuses to give any information about himself since a discharge from prison five months before the commission of the primary offence is leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life within the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (5).—R. v. WILSON (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 95.

5332. — Whether neglect to report to police.]—In order to prove that a convict on licence is leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life within the meaning of Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2) (a), proof that he has not reported himself to the police is not by itself sufficient evidence to bring the case within the terms of the section.—R. v. MITCHELL (1912), 108 L. T. 224; 76 J. P. 423; 28 T. L. R. 484; 23 Cox, C. C. 284; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 283, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—Expld. R. v. Wilson (1912), 28 T. L. R. 561. Refd. R. v. Harris, etc., [1922] 2 K. B. 543; R. v. Myers (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 116.

5333. — Whether fact of being fugitive from justice.]—On the trial of applt. as an habitual criminal it was shown that he was released from prison on Oct. 28, 1912, & having committed an offence on Mar. 22, 1913, escaped arrest, & was engaged in honest employment to the time of

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.— D. (a).

5328 i. What is sufficient proof—Criminal associations.]—Deft. was summarily convicted under 32 & 33 Vict. c. 28, s. 1 (D.), as "a person who, having no peaceable profession or calling to maintain himself by, but who does, for the most part, support himself by crime, & then was a vagrant," etc. The evidence showed that deft. consorted with thieves & reputed thieves; but the witnesses did not positively say that he supported himself by crime:—Held: it was not to be inferred that deft. supported himself by crime; to sustain the conviction there should have been statements that witnesses believed he got his living by thieving, or by aiding & acting with thieves, or by such other acts & means as showed he was pursuing crime.—R. v. ORGAN (1886),

11 P. R. 497.—OAN.

5328 ii. — — — — —.]—Although it is a necessary ingredient of the offence created Police Offences Act, 1908, s. 49 (c), of habitually consorting with thieves that the accused person should have knowledge of the character of the persons with whom he is charged with consorting, where the evidence shows that the consorting was not casual but habitual, such knowledge on the part of the accused will be presumed.—STEVENS v. ANDREWS (1909), 28 N. Z. L. R. 773.—N.Z.

b. — — — — — Need not be with same persons.]—Habitually consorting with thieves, under Police Offences Act, 1884, s. 26, as amended by Act of 1901, s. 4, need not be associating with the same person or persons. If a person consorted with one thief on one day, with another on another, & so on, that would be consorting with

thieves.—O'CONNOR v. HAMMOND (1902), 21 N. Z. L. R. 573.—N.Z.

c. — — — — — Extracts of previous conviction.]—Where a person is charged with being an habitual criminal under the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, sect. 66 of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act, 1887, applies, & previous convictions are sufficiently proved by the production of extracts thereof of which notice in the indictment has been given & to which no notice of objection has been given by accused.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. GILLAN, [1910] S. C. (J.) 49.—SCOT.

d. — — — — — Evidence insufficient to warrant conviction of habitual criminality in respect that it did not establish that the accused was "leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life."—STIRLING v. H.M. ADVOCATE*, [1911] S. C. (J.) 84.—SCOT.

Sect. 4.—Habitual criminals: Sub-sect. 3, D. (a) & (b) & E.; sub-sect. 4.]

his arrest on Aug. 10, 1913. There was evidence that he led a dishonest life between Oct. 28 & March 22, but no evidence to that effect as to the period between March 22 & Aug. 10. The deputy-chairman directed the jury that they might find he was living a dishonest or criminal life during the period March 22, to Aug. 10, because during that period he was a fugitive from justice. Applt. was convicted:—Held: this was a misdirection, & the conviction must be quashed. The period of prisoner's life to be considered on the question whether he is leading a dishonest or criminal life extends to the time of his last arrest.—R. v. BROWN (1913), 109 L. T. 749; 78 J. P. 79; 30 T. L. R. 40; 58 Sol. Jo. 69; 23 Cox, C. C. 615; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 161, C. C. A.

(b) Conduct during Intervals between Offences.

5334. Period of time to be considered—Time of committing primary offence.]—There ought not to be a conviction for being a habitual criminal unless at the time of the offence primarily found deft. was living dishonestly or criminally.—R. v. JONES (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 20.

5335. — Immediately before arrest on pending charge.]—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5336. — — —.]—R. v. BRUMMITT & MATTHEWS, No. 5315, ante.

5337. — — —.]—R. v. BROWN, No. 5333, ante.

5338. — Interval between release from prison & re-arrest.]—A prisoner was convicted as a habitual criminal. There was a nine months' interval between his release from prison after his conviction for the third crime & his re-arrest. The Crown gave no evidence of his conduct during that period, but prisoner gave evidence of work he had then done. The chairman, in summing up the case, did not direct the attention of the jury to this interval & to prisoner's conduct then on the question whether he was leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life, but merely pointed out to the jury the previous convictions. The ct. quashed the conviction on the ground that the chairman had not sufficiently directed the jury on the question of persistency by directing their attention to prisoner's conduct during the nine month's interval.—R. v. KELLY (1909), 74 J. P. 167; 26 T. L. R. 196; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 248, C. C. A.

v. Rowland (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 11, 76 J. P. 232

5339. — — —.]—R. v. WILSON, No. 5331, ante.

5340. — Prior to last conviction.]—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5341. — Subsequent to commission of primary offence.]—On the trial of a charge of being a habitual criminal, evidence of deft.'s mode of life after the date of his commission of the crime on which he has been primarily convicted is admissible, but the statutory notice to him of such evidence should be as specific as possible.—R. v. WOOD (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 29, C. C. A.

5342. Length of interval since release—Long interval.]—R. v. HEARD, No. 5322, ante.

5343. — Short interval.]—Mere shortness of interval between last release from prison & the next subsequent arrest is not necessarily a bar to conviction as a habitual criminal.—R. v. CONDON (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Heard (1911), 76 J. P. 232; R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

5344. — — —.]—R. v. FOSTER, No. 5257, ante.

5345. — — —.]—R. v. BRUMMITT & MATTHEWS, No. 5315, ante.

5346. Whether evidence of honest work—A sufficient defence.]—On an allegation of being a habitual criminal mere evidence that accused has been at work since his last release from prison is not a sufficient defence.—R. v. HAYDEN (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 213, C. C. A.

5347. — — —.]—On the charge of being a habitual criminal, it is not a conclusive defence that deft. has done honest work since his last release.—R. v. KEANE & WATSON (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

5348. — — —.]—The fact that applt. has been doing work during the greater part of a short interval of liberty is not necessarily conclusive against his being a habitual criminal.—R. v. SMITH (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 150, C. C. A.

5349. — — —.]—R. v. JENNINGS, No. 5283, ante.

5350. — — —.]—On a charge of being a habitual criminal, it is not necessarily a defence that he has been at work since his last release.—R. v. MARTIN (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 31, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Heard (1911), 76 J. P. 232.

5351. — — —.]—R. v. HADLEY (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 36, C. C. A.

5352. — — —.]—R. v. WILLIAMS, No. 5323, ante.

5353. — Question for jury.]—It is a misdirection not to call the jury's attention to a considerable period of presumably honest life.—R. v. WELLS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Heard (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 80.

5354. — — —.]—On the trial of an allegation of being a habitual criminal, it is a question for the jury whether the evidence of prisoner's having worked honestly, & tried to get work since his last release from prison is sufficient.—R. v. MARTIN (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 227, C. C. A.

5355. — — —.]—There may be an appeal against conviction as a habitual criminal though preventive detention has not been inflicted.

Whether applt. has led an honest life during an interval of liberty is a question of fact.—R. v. BENNETT (JAMES) (otherwise BENNETT (GEORGE)) (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 225.

5356. — May rebut evidence of criminal associations.]—Where a person is charged with being a habitual criminal & the only evidence that he is leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life is that since his last conviction he has associated with a man who had previously been convicted with him of a crime, there is no evidence to support a conviction of being a habitual criminal.—R. v. HAMMERSLEY (1919), 122 L. T. 383; 84 J. P. 23; 36 T. L. R. 96; 26 Cox, C. C. 552; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 118, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543.

E. Previous Conviction as Habitual Criminal.

5357. Sufficiency of—For subsequent conviction—Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2), (b).]—Where a person who has been found to be a habitual criminal & has been sentenced to pre-

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.—E.

5357 i. Sufficiency of—For subsequent conviction—Prevention of Crime, 1908, c. 59, s. 10 (2).]—Where an accused is charged under above Act, with being an habitual criminal, & the jury find on evidence that he has on a previous occasion been found to be an habitual criminal & has been sentenced to preventive detention, they must convict him, & they cannot take into consideration whether, since that sentence, he has been leading a dishonest or criminal life.—MCDONALD v. H.M. ADVOCATE, [1917] S. C. (J.) 17.

SCOT.

ventive detention subsequently commits another crime, he may, by virtue of the above Act, be again convicted as a habitual criminal, on proof being given of the previous conviction as a habitual criminal, without proving also that since the date of that conviction he has been leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life.—R. v. DAVIS, [1917] 2 K. B. 855; 87 L. J. K. B. 119; 117 L. T. 704; 82 J. P. Jo. 4; 34 T. L. R. 25; 62 Sol. Jo. 55; 26 Cox, C. C. 98; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Folld. R. v. Stanley, [1920] 2 K. B. 235.

5358. ———.—]—Where a person who has been found to be a habitual criminal & has been sentenced to preventive detention subsequently commits another crime, the jury must, under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 10 (2) (b), upon proof of the previous conviction of the accused person as a habitual criminal, & without proof that he has since the date of the previous conviction been leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life, find him to be a habitual criminal. But where a person has been found by a jury to be a habitual criminal the ct. is not bound to pass a sentence of preventive detention.—R. v. STANLEY, [1920] 2 K. B. 235; 89 L. J. K. B. 452; 123 L. T. 271; 84 J. P. 119; 36 T. L. R. 328; 64 Sol. Jo. 341; 26 Cox, C. C. 611; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 141, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Folld. R. v. Vincent (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 19. Refd. R. v. Harris, [1922] 2 K. B. 543; R. v. Clarke (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 90.

5359. ———.—]—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.

5359a. ———.—]—The question here is whether the judgment in R. v. Stanley, No. 5358, ante, is to be followed. If it is to be followed, the true proposition, no doubt, is, that as soon as it is decided to include in the statutory notice the statement contained in sect. 10 (2) (b), it is made certain beforehand that the jury, subject only to the question of identity, must find against the accused. . . . The general question, Is this offender a habitual criminal? is, & must always be, in the absence of admission, a question of fact for the jury to determine. . . . The controversy here is whether, on the true construction of the statute, there is not for the jury a question other than the question of mere identity. . . . We are of opinion that the Legislature has left to the jury the question whether prisoner is a habitual criminal, taking care, however, to provide that he must not be so found unless, at the least, one or other of two conditions precedent shall have been fulfilled (per CUR.).—R. v. NORMAN (1924), Times, May 27.

5360. Whether admissible—If previous conviction quashed on appeal.—R. v. CROWLEY, No. 5312, ante.

SUB-SECT 4.—SENTENCE.

5361. General rule—Matters to be considered.—In considering the sentence upon a habitual criminal, regard must be had to the nature of the crime for which he last served a term of imprisonment.—R. v. YATES (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 222, C. C. A.

5362. — Sentence on primary offence—To be postponed to trial as habitual criminal.—R. v. TURNER, No. 5258, ante.

5363. ———.— WALKER, No. ante.

5364. ———.—]—R. v. CONEY, No. 5304, ante.

5365. Whether court has power to increase sentence—To penal servitude—To enable sentence of preventive detention to be passed.—The ct. of trial has no power to impose a sentence of three years' penal servitude merely to give itself jurisdiction to order preventive detention.—R. v. JONES (1910), 75 J. P. 125; 27 T. L. R. 108; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

5366. ———.—]—Qu.: whether the ct. has power to pass a sentence of penal servitude on the primary conviction, so as to qualify itself to inflict preventive detention.—R. v. SWEENEY, (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 70; 74 J. P. Jo. 77, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Jones (1910), 27 T. L. R. 108.

5367. ———.—]—R. v. CARPENTER & LEWIS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 229, C. C. A.

5368. ———.—]—Applt. was convicted at quarter sessions of larceny from the person & of being a habitual criminal & he was sentenced to three years' penal servitude to be followed by five years' preventive detention:—Held: quarter sessions in order to give themselves power to sentence applt. to preventive detention had sentenced him to three years' penal servitude & this sentence ought not to have been passed for this offence of larceny from the person notwithstanding the bad record of applt.—R. v. BELL (1914), 30 T. L. R. 645; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 262; 78 J. P. Jo. 340, C. C. A.

5369. ———.—]—The ct. does not, as a rule, approve of a sentence to a term of penal servitude, merely to ground a sentence of preventive detention.—R. v. MYERS (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 116, C. C. A.

5370. ———.— To enable Secretary of State to commute sentence to preventive detention—Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 12.—Where it appeared that a judge had sentenced applt., who had not been convicted of being habitual criminals, to terms of six years' penal servitude with a view to the Home Secretary commuting part of the sentences to preventive detention under the above Act:—Held: the sentences should not have been imposed with a view to action being taken by the Home Secretary but solely on the merits of each case, & they reduced the sentences to terms of eighteen months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. FLICKER, R. v. CHUTER (1910), 74 J. P. 381; 26 T. L. R. 540; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

5371. Whether sentence of penal servitude need be imposed.—On conviction of or plea of guilty to being a habitual criminal there need not necessarily be a sentence to penal servitude.—R. v. VINCENT (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Clarke (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 90.

5372. ———.—]—It is undoubtedly the law that where a person has been convicted of being a habitual criminal & has been sentenced to preventive detention, proof of those facts is sufficient to ground another conviction as a habitual criminal, but it by no means follows that because convicted he must necessarily be sentenced to penal servitude & preventive detention (LORD HEWART, C.J.).—R. v. CLARKE (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 90, C. C. A.

5373. Relation of primary sentence to term of preventive detention.—In passing the primary sentence, regard should be had to the term of preventive detention & where the ct. was of the opinion that the sentence was excessive in view of the term of preventive detention it reduced the sentence.—R. v. SMITH (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 90, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Jackson (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 93.

Sect. 4.—Habitual criminals: Sub-sects. 4 & 5. Sects. 5, 6 & 7.]

5374. Sentence of preventive detention—Nature of punishment.]—R. v. HILL (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 110, C. C. A.*

—R. v. HERON, No. 5266, ante.

In discretion of judge.]—

CROWLEY, No. 5312, ante.

5377. — Usual period.]—Applt. was convicted of larceny & of being a habitual criminal, & was sentenced to three years' penal servitude & ten years' preventive detention.

I do not say that other persons have not been sentenced to ten years' preventive detention, but as a rule we impose five years, & there is nothing in this case which makes it much worse than others (RIDLEY, J.).—R. v. HAMILTON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Crowley (1913), 83 L. J. K. B. 298.

—R. v. STANLEY, No. 5358, ante.

5379. — ]—On conviction as a habitual criminal, the ct., as a rule, approves of a sentence of preventive detention.—R. v. MCNERNEY (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 21, C. C. A.

5380. — Power of Home Secretary—To release.]—R. v. HOWARD (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 62, C. C. A.*

—R. v. EVERITT, No. 5314, ante.

of sentence.]—R. v. HILL, No. 5374, ante.

Effect of consecutive sentences of 3½ years' penal servitude.]—R. v. WARNER, No. 5162, ante.*

SUB-SECT 5.—APPEAL.

See Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 11.

5384. Whether appeal as of right—Against conviction.]—A habitual criminal, so found under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), cannot, as of right, appeal against conviction.—R. v. MARTIN (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.

5385. — Though no sentence of preventive detention imposed.]—R. v. BENNETT, No. 5355, ante.*

5386. — Against sentence of preventive detention.]—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WESTON, No. 5281, ante.*

5387. — & sentence of penal servitude.]—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WESTON, No. 5281, ante.*

5388. Whether "substantial miscarriage of justice"—Operation of proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).]—R. v. ROWLAND, [1910] 1 K. B. 458; 79 L. J. K. B. 327; 102 L. T. 112; 74 J. P. 144; 26 T. L. R. 202; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 277, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Hardy (1910), 74 J. P. 396.

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 4.

e. Sentence of preventive detention.]—On a charge of forgery, falsity & theft, accused was sentenced to be imprisoned for a term of three years with hard labour, & was at the same time declared an habitual criminal, in terms of Act 9 of 1911. On appeal on the ground that the sentence was incompetent in that it embodied two separate & distinct punishments for the same offence:—Held: there was nothing illegal in the form in which the sentence had been imposed.—GANDY v. R. (1914), 35 N. L. R. 333.—S. AF.

PART XIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 5.

1. Power to withdraw admission of *guilt.]—*Two persons charged respectively with crime & with being habitual criminals pleaded guilty to both charges, under the provisions of Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act, 1887, s. 31, & were remitted to the High Ct. for sentence. One of accused having adhered to his plea of guilty, & the other having been refused leave to withdraw the same by the judge, both were sentenced to penal servitude, to be followed by preventive detention. Both appealed, & sought to withdraw their respective admissions of being habitual criminals on the ground that they had pleaded under a misconception as to the nature & consequences of that charge. The proceedings in both cases had been regular, & each

5389. — — — Objection to statutory notice.]—R. v. MARSHALL, No. 5291, ante.*

5390. — — — ]—R. v. JONES, No. 5265, ante.*

5391. — — — ]—R. v. WESTWOOD, No. 5270, ante.*

5392. — — — ]—R. v. HERON, No. 5266, ante.*

— — — ]—R. v. STOCKDALE, No.

5300, ante.

5394. — — — Issue of warrant since last discharge—Inability of accused to procure counsel at trial.]—R. v. MACDONALD, No. 5327, ante.*

5395. — — — Objection to summing up.]—R. v. POWELL (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 23, C. C. A.*

5396. — — — ]—R. v. HARRIS, No. 5255, ante.*

5397. — — — Irregularities & wrongful admission of evidence.]—R. v. FOWLER, No. 5296, ante.*

5398. — — — ]—Where, in seeking to establish that a person was a habitual criminal, the prosecution relied on commission of a crime as part of the material upon which that charge was founded, they must prove the commission of that crime in the usual way, & not offer evidence of it to a jury already informed of prisoner's previous convictions.

The test as to "no substantial miscarriage of justice" is whether the jury must inevitably have come to the conclusion they did, apart from the evidence irregularly introduced.—R. v. JONES (1922), 127 L. T. 160; 86 J. P. 123; 66 Sol. Jo. 489; 27 Cox, C. C. 221; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

5399. — — — ]—R. v. SMITH, No. 5325, ante.*

SECT. 5.—HABITUAL DRUNKARDS.

5400. Definition—Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879

(c. 19), s. 3—Inebriates Act, 1898 (c. 60), s. 2.]—The expression habitual drunkard in the above sects. applies to a person who habitually drinks to excess, & who incapable of managing himself or his affairs, even though when sober he is capable of managing himself & his affairs.—EATON v. BEST, [1909] 1 K. B. 632; 78 L. J. K. B. 425; 100 L. T. 494; 73 J. P. 113, 25 T. L. R. 244; 22 Cox, C. C. 66; D. C.

5401. — — — ]—TAYLER v. TAYLER (1912), 56 Sol. Jo. 572.*

5402. Detention in inebriate reformatory—Power of magistrates to order without consent—Inebriates Act, 1898 (c. 60), s. 1.]—The register of the minutes or memorandum of convictions of a ct. of summary jurisdiction which has to be kept under Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (c. 49), s. 22, by the clerk of the ct. is admissible in evidence to prove a previous conviction of deft. for a similar offence in the same ct.

had had the assistance of a competent law agent. The ct. refused to allow accused to withdraw their admissions, & dismissed both appeals.—PAUL v. H.M. ADVOCATE, KNOX v. H.M. ADVOCATE (1914), Sc. L. R. 210.—SCOT.

PART XIII. SECT. 5.

g. Plea of guilty to original offence—No admission of habitual drunkenness—Trial by jury.]—Inebriates Act, 1898, s. 1, applies where the offender pleads guilty, & if he does not admit that he is an habitual drunkard a jury may be sworn to inquire as to this. In such case the evidence necessary to satisfy the ct. that the offence charged was committed under the

The consent of deft. to be tried summarily under Inebriates Act, 1898 (c. 60), s. 2, is necessary before a magistrate can make an order under Licensing Act, 1902 (c. 28), s. 6 (1).—POLICE COMR. v. DONOVAN, [1903] 1 K. B. 895; 72 L. J. K. B. 545; 88 L. T. 555; 52 W. R. 14; 19 T. L. R. 392; 20 Cox, C. C. 435; sub nom. METROPOLIS POLICE COMRS. v. DONOVAN, 67 J. P. 147; 47 Sol. Jo. 437, D. O.

Annotation:—Reid. Wing v. Epsom U.D.C. (1904), 68 J. P. 259.

5403. — Whether imprisonment can also be imposed.—R. v. PRINCE, No. 4986, ante.

5404. — Inebriates Act, 1898 (c. 60), s. 2 (1).—Where a person is convicted on an indictment preferred against him under the above Act a sentence of imprisonment with hard labour cannot be inflicted upon him in addition to the detention in a certified inebriate reformatory authorised by the section.—R. v. BRIGGS, [1909] 1 K. B. 381; 78 L. J. K. B. 166; 100 L. T. 240; 73 J. P. 31; 25 T. L. R. 105; 53 Sol. Jo. 164; 21 Cox, C. C. 762; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 206, C. O. A.

5405. Proof of previous convictions.—POLICE COMR. v. DONOVAN, No. 5402, ante.

SECT. 6.—YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS.

5406. Young person under sixteen—Age computed at date of conviction—Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 4.—R. v. CAWTHRON, No. 5225, ante.

5407. — When sentence of imprisonment can be imposed—Certificate under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 102 (3).—A boy under sixteen years of age, to whom the description of "young person" in sect. 131 of the above Act applied, was convicted of malicious damage & sentenced to four months' imprisonment with hard labour. No certificate was given under sect. 102 (3) of that Act:—Held: the sentence was one which in law could not be given.—R. v. BRADFORD (1911), 105 L. T. 752; 76 J. P. 46; 28 T. L. R. 26; 22 Cox, C. C. 627; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 42, C. C. A.

5408. ——The certificate under sect. 102, of the above Act, which enables a ct. to sentence a person of the age of fourteen to imprisonment ought not to be granted merely because no "place of detention" within sects. 106, 108, of that Act has been provided.—R. v. FOSTER (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 164, C. C. A.

5409. Child under fourteen—Conviction for larceny—Whipping may be added to detention—Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 4.—R. v. LYDFORD, No. 5229, ante.

5410. — Power to send to industrial school—Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 58 (3).—Under the above Act, justices have jurisdiction to order a child to be sent to a certified industrial school, as well, where he has been guilty of an offence the maximum punishment of which would in the case of an adult be less than penal servitude, as where he has been guilty of an offence which in the case of an adult would be punishable with penal servitude.—TYDEMAN v. THROWER, [1914] 2 K. B. 494; 83 L. J. K. B. 814; 110 L. T. 1018; 78 J. P. 182; 30 T. L. R. 374; 24 Cox, C. C. 163; 12 L. G. R. 739, D. C.

5411. Detention in reformatory—Order for period in excess of that authorised—Reformatory Schools Act, 1893 (c. 48), s. 1.—R. v. BOUNDY, ETC., JJ. (1904), 68 J. P. Jo. 340, D. C.

—See, now, Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 65.

SECT. 7.—DEPORTATION OF ALIENS.

See ALIENS, Vol. II., pp. 193–197, Nos. 540–553.

influence of drink may consist of the depositions taken before the magistrates when accused was returned for trial.—R. v. MEEHAN, [1905] 2 I. R. 577.—IR.

PART XIII. SECT. 6.

h. Young person under sixteen—Age computed at date of conviction—Children Act, 1908, ss. 103, 131.—Accused, who was convicted of murder, had not attained sixteen when the crime was committed, but at the date of the trial was more than sixteen:—Held: accused was not a "young person" within above Act, & he might competently be sentenced to death.—R. v. FITZ, [1919] 2 I. R. 35; 53 I. L. T. 7.—IR.

—Accused, convicted of culpable homicide, attained the age of sixteen between the date of the offence & conviction:—Held: (1) he could legally be sentenced to penal servitude; (2) it was competent for the ct., in lieu of such sentence, to pronounce an order for detention in a Borstal Institution.—H.M. ADVOCATE v. CRAWFORD, [1918] S. C. (J.) 1; 55 Sc. L. R. 10.—SCOT.

i. Young person under seventeen—Sentence of imprisonment—State Children Act, 1911, s. 24.—There is no power under above Act to sentence a child to imprisonment for any offence except a capital offence to which the death penalty attaches.—R. v. BEESTON, [1915] S. R. Q. 101.—AUS.

m. Child under fourteen—Bond to maintain at industrial school—Dures.—A bond to secure the payment of the cost of maintaining at an industrial school a boy under fourteen years of age, convicted of larceny, & who otherwise came within the requirements of Industrial Schools Act, s. 7, given in consequence of the judge's statement that in default the boy would be sent to the reformatory, is void, this being in law dures.—ST. THOMAS (CITY OF) v. YEARSLEY (1895), 22 A. R. 340.—CAN.

n. — Age need not be mentioned in conviction—Duty of Judge.—Deft., under the age of sixteen, was convicted for unlawfully entering a vessel lying at a wharf & stealing a sum of money, the property of the master of the vessel, & was ordered under Act of 1890, c. 37, s. 34, to be imprisoned in the Halifax Industrial School for three years:—Held: (1) it was not necessary, in the conviction, to refer to the age of the party or the opinion of the justice on that subject; (2) the power of determining the age, or apparent age, of the party before him being given exclusively to the justice, it was to be assumed that the power had been followed; (3) as the questions of the age of the party, & whether he was, or was not, a Protestant, could not, or need not, be inquired into on the trial of the offence, they would properly form a subject of inquiry on the part of the justice after the conviction & before sentence, & it would not, therefore, be necessary to refer to them in the conviction.—R. v. BRINE (1900), 33 N. S. R. 43.—CAN.

o. Detention in reformatory—Person over seventeen.—Deft., a youth of over seventeen years of age, was charged with stealing a small sum of money from the contribution box of a church. Deft. pleaded guilty, & was committed for two years to the provincial reformatory. He was taken to the reformatory & sent on to the central prison & kept there in custody under the warrant of commitment to the reformatory. On a motion for his discharge on the return of a habeas corpus:—Held: there had been a miscarriage of legal directions in sending a lad of seventeen to the reformatory & in sending him on a sentence of two years to the central prison.—R. v. HAYWARD (1903), 23 C. L. T. 48; 5 O. L. R. 65; 1 O. W. R. 799.—CAN.

p. — Power to send to industrial school—Children Act, 1908, s. 74 (6).—Under above Act an order for the detention of a child of twelve in a certified industrial school cannot be pronounced by a sheriff until after the local education authority has been given an opportunity of being heard.—A. B. v. HOWMAN, [1917] S. C. (J.) 23.—SCOT.

q. Juvenile delinquent—Juvenile Delinquents Act, s. 29.—Under above Act, it must be shown that the child has become a delinquent not that he is likely to become one.—R. v. LIMOGES & STACKHOUSE, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 293; 32 Can. Crim. Cas. 200.—CAN.

r. — Reformatory Schools Act, 1866, s. 14.—A boy of fifteen pleaded guilty to a breach of the public peace & was sentenced to be imprisoned for ten days & was thereafter under above Act ordered to be sent to a reformatory school for five years:—Held: such minor offences did not come within the scope of the section, which was intended to apply to minor grades of serious crimes.—M'QUIRE v. FAIRBAIRN (1881), 9 R. (Cl. of Sess.) 4; 19 Sc. L. R. 72.—SCOT.

SECT. 8.—RECOGNISANCES TO KEEP THE PEACE—ARTICLES OF THE PEACE.

5412. Method of taking—Whether by officer out of court.—Recognisance cannot be taken by officer out of ct. without special custom.—CANE'S CASE (1673), Freem. K. B. 355; 89 E. R. 264; sub nom. CAULE v. LLEMARK, 3 Keb. 223, 249.

5413. — & drawing up.—The usual practice in taking the recognisance of a person convicted at quarter sessions is that the person so convicted, before he is allowed to leave the ct., enters orally into the recognisance before the officer of the ct., who makes a minute of it; & the recognisance is not formally drawn up till afterwards.—Ex p. JEFFREYS (1888), 52 J. P. 280, D. C.

5414. Who may be bound.—ANON. (1700), 12 Mod. Rep. 413; Holt, K. B. 664; 88 E. R. 1417.

5415. Power of court to order in addition to sentence of imprisonment.—Where an indictment for perjury had been removed into the Q. B. by certiorari, & deft. convicted, & sentenced by the ct. to be imprisoned for eighteen calendar months & to give security to keep the peace & be of good behaviour for two years, to commence from the expiration of the eighteen months, & to be further imprisoned until such security were given:—Held: the ct. might, as part of the sentence, require such sureties.—DUNN v. R. (1848), 12 Q. B. 1031; 18 L. J. M. C. 41; 12 L. T. O. S. 535; 13 J. P. 197; 13 Jur. 233; 3 Cox, C. C. 205; 116 E. R. 1157, Ex. Ch.; affg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. DUNN (1847), 12 Q. B. 1026.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Trueman, [1913] 3 K. B. 164.

5416. ——Where a person is convicted of maliciously publishing a defamatory libel under Libel Act, 1843 (c. 96), s. 5, the ct. may as part of sentence, order the deft. to be imprisoned for the maximum term allowed by that section, order him upon the expiration of that term to enter into recognisances & find sureties to keep the peace for a reasonable time named in the order & in default of his so doing to be further imprisoned until the expiration of the period during which he is so required to keep the peace.—R. v. TRUEMAN, [1913] 3 K. B. 164; 82 L. J. K. B. 916; 109 L. T. 413; 77 J. P. 428; 29 T. L. R. 599; 23 Cox, C. C. 550, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Syme (1914), 112 L. T. 136.

5417. Jurisdiction of quarter sessions—Judgment respited.—Indictments for assault having been preferred at one sessions, deft. appeared & pleaded guilty, whereupon he was required to enter into recognisances to appear & receive judgment at the next sessions, if called upon, & to keep the peace, judgment being respited in the meantime.

PART XIII. SECT. 8.

s. General rule.—Any ct. which has power to direct a person to find sureties to keep the peace & be of good behaviour, has at common law power to commit such person to prison for a reasonable time determinable on his finding such sureties.

On an application for sureties to keep the peace evidence cannot be called to contradict evidence of applicant. Binding over a person against whom articles of the peace are exhibited is not in the nature of punishment but is to prevent the apprehended danger of a breach of the peace being committed.—Ex p. HASKEN (1889), Crimes (Ireland) Act Cases, 319.—IR.

5414 i. Who may be bound.—The recognisance required Justices Act, 1886, s. 227, to be entered into by applt. was entered into by applt.'s manager, who purported to be acting on behalf of applt., & also as a surety for applt.:—Held: in the absence of evidence to the contrary, it might reasonably be inferred that the manager was authorised to enter into the recognisance, & the recognisance entered into by him was a sufficient compliance with the requirements of sect. 227.—NEW ZEALAND & AUSTRALIAN LAND CO., LTD. v. SALISBURY, [1920] S. R. Q. 63.—AUS.

5415 i. Power of court to order in addition to sentence of imprisonment.—B. was committed to gaol for six months for threatening an assault & at the same time ordered to find sureties of the peace for that period. It did not appear that he had refused or failed to find them:—Held: the order should have been that B. should be imprisoned for the term unless he should in the meantime find the sureties.—Ex p. BECKETT (1871), 11 N. S. W. S. C. R. 1.—AUS.

t. Jurisdiction of justices—Surety for good behaviour.—Unless some serious breach of the peace be

At the next sessions the judgment was further respited, but at a subsequent session deft. appeared, & then the ct. sentenced him to be imprisoned six months, to pay a fine, & at the expiration of his imprisonment to enter into recognisances to keep the peace:—Held: ct. of quarter sessions is a continuing ct. from session to session, & therefore had jurisdiction to pronounce such sentence.—KEEN v. R. (1847), 10 Q. B. 928; 2 New Mag. Cas. 271; 3 New Sess. Cas. 25; 16 L. J. M. C. 180; 9 L. T. O. S. 313; 12 J. P. 4; 11 Jur. 1060; 2 Cox, C. C. 341; 116 E. R. 352.

Annotations:—Refld. Campbell v. R. (1847), 10 L. T. O. S. 396. Mentd. R. v. Belton (1848), 12 J. P. 232; R. v. Staffordshire JJ. (1857), 3 Jur. N. S. 1148; R. v. Westmorland JJ. (1868), L. R. 3 Q. B. 457; R. v. McLain, R. v. Barr (1922), 91 L. J. K. B. 562.

5418. — Effect of Probation of Offenders Act, 1907 (c. 17).—Applt. having been convicted of larceny at quarter sessions was discharged conditionally under sect. 1, sub-sect. 2, of the above Act, on his entering into a recognisance, subject to certain conditions authorised in the circumstances by the Act, to appear for sentence when called upon at any time during a specified period. Applt. committed a breach of one of the conditions of the recognisance, & was in consequence called upon to appear before the quarter sessions for sentence. It was contended for applt. that sect. 6, sub-sect. 5, of the Act only applied to cases where a deft. had been bound over by a ct. of summary jurisdiction under sect. 1, sub-sect. 1, of the Act to appear for conviction & sentence, & that quarter sessions had, therefore, no power to sentence applt. Quarter sessions having stated a case for the opinion of the ct.:—Held: quarter sessions had power to sentence applt., for, assuming, as appeared probable, that there was no power to do so under sect. 6, sub-sect. 5, cts. of quarter sessions have always had, as part of their inherent jurisdiction, power to order a convicted person to be bound over to come up for judgment when called upon, & that power is unaffected by the above Act.—R. v. SPRATLING, [1911] 1 K. B. 77; 80 L. J. K. B. 176; 103 L. T. 704; 75 J. P. 39; 27 T. L. R. 31; 55 Sol. Jo. 31; 22 Cox, C. C. 348; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 206, C. C. A.

5419. Jurisdiction of justices.—On the hearing by justices of a summons against a deft. for threatening to assault complainant, deft. alleged that complainant had used threatening language towards him, but he made no formal charge against complainant. The justices, after hearing the evidence of complainant & deft., found as a fact that there was a real danger of a breach of the threatened or likely to arise sureties for good behaviour, as distinguished from sureties to keep the peace, should be seldom or never required by justices.—O'KANE v. SELLHEIM (1882), 1 Q. L. J. 85.—AUS.

a. — Order must show jurisdiction.—An order of justices requiring a person to find sureties to keep the peace & be of good behaviour must show on its face facts necessary to give the justices jurisdiction to make such order.—R. (BOYLAN) v. LONDONDERRY COUNTY JJ., [1912] 2 I. R. 374.—IR.

5419 i. ——When justices convict summarily of an assault under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 42, they may further order deft. to find sureties for good behaviour.—R. (DONOGHUE) v. COUNTY CORK JJ., [1912] 2 I. R. 64.—IR.

5419 ii. ——The fact that threatens, or an assault, which would authorise justices in requiring sureties for the peace on the part of both parties, & they ordered both of them to be bound over to be of good behaviour. The order made against complainant, as drawn up, contained no averment that deft. went in bodily fear of complainant:—Held: the justices had, in the circumstances, power to order complainant to be bound over, & the absence from the order of an averment that deft. went in bodily fear of complainant did not render it bad on its face.—R. v. WILKINS, [1907] 2 K. B. 380; sub nom. R. v. WILKINS, Ex p. JOHN, 96 L. T. 721; 71 J. P. 327; 21 Cox, C. C. 443, D. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Lansbury v. Riley, [1914] 3 K. B. 229.

5420. —[—]—Where a ct. of summary jurisdiction is satisfied that a person who is brought before it has been guilty of inciting others to commit breaches of the peace & intends to persevere in such incitement the ct. may order him to enter into recognisances & to find sureties for his good behaviour or to be imprisoned in default of so doing.—LANSBURY v. RILEY, [1914] 3 K. B. 229; 83 L. J. K. B. 1226; 109 L. T. 546; 77 J. P. 440; 29 T. L. R. 733; 23 Cox, C. C. 582, D. C.

See, also, MAGISTRATES.

5421. Duration of recognisances—Should be for specified time.—ANON. (1698), 12 Mod. Rep. 251; 88 E. R. 1300.

5422. —[—]—Where a person convicted of misdemeanour is ordered to enter into a recognisance to be of good behaviour, the practice has always been to make the order for a specified limited time, & this should be followed.—R. v. EDGAR (1913), 109 L. T. 416; 77 J. P. 356; 29 T. L. R. 512; 57 Sol. Jo. 519; 23 Cox, C. C. 558; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

5423. Whether special conditions can be attached—Condition made as to abstinence from liquor—Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, c. 17, s. 1 (2).—When a prisoner has been convicted on indictment of an offence punishable with imprisonment but which was in no way connected with indulgence in drink, & the ct. in lieu of imposing a sentence of imprisonment makes an order under the above Act, discharging the offender conditionally on his entering into a recognisance to be of good behaviour & to appear for sentence when called on at any time during a period not exceeding three years, the ct. has no power to order an additional condition as to abstinence from intoxicating liquor to be inserted in the recognisance.—R. v. DAVIES, [1909] 1 K. B. 892; 78 L. J. K. B. 363; 100 L. T. 305; 73 J. P. 151; 25 T. L. R. 279; 21 Cox, C. C. 776; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 31, C. C. A.

5424. Refusal to enter into recognisances—Before justices—Pursuant to order of quarter sessions—Whether justices have power to commit to prison.—Defts. by an order of quarter sessions were required forthwith before one or more justices of the county to enter into their own recognisances & to find two sureties to keep the peace for six calendar months. Upon refusal before two justices to enter into recognisance or find sureties the justices committed them to the county gaol for the residue of the term of six calendar months, unless in the meantime they should enter into such recognisances & find such sureties:—Held: in so doing the justices exceeded their authority, the order of sessions not having provided the alternative of imprisonment upon disobedience of the order.—Re ASHTON (1845), 7 Q. B. 169; 1 New Mag. Cas. 269; 1 New Sess. Cas. 581; 115 E. R. 452; sub nom. R. v. HUNTINGDONSHIRE JJ., 14 L. J. M. C. 99; 5 L. T. O. S. 72.

5425. Grounds for discharging recognisances—Expiry of time of recognisance.—A recognisance to appear on a certain day, & in the mean time to keep the peace, was discharged on the ground that the day had passed, & that no indictment had been lodged.—R. v. BENN (1735), Lee temp. Hard. 98; 95 E. R. 61.

5426. — Consent of prosecutor.—A recognisance was discharged upon producing prosecutor's consent, verified by affidavit.—R. v. ENGLAND (1735), Lee temp. Hard. 158; 95 E. R. 101.

5427. — Destitution of family on committal for breach.—A deft. having been committed to prison on a forfeited recognisance whereby his wife & family are become burthensome to the parish is not a sufficient ground for the discharge of deft. from such recognisance.—R. v. STANCHER (1816), 3 Price, 261; 146 E. R. 255.

5428. — After estreat & levy by sheriff as to part—Levy of Fines Act, 1822, c. 46, s. 6.—The above Act empowers the ct. of quarter sessions to discharge a forfeited recognisance in cases where the sheriff has levied part of the amount, & the party has been committed to prison for the remainder.—HARPER v. HAYTON (1829), 5 Man. & Ry. K. B. 305; 3 Man. & Ry. M. C. 13; 8 L. J. O. S. M. C. 129.

Discharge of recognisance—Removal by certiorari.—See CROWN PRACTICE, Vol. XVI., p. 434, Nos. 2958–2960.

5429. Appearance on recognisance—Necessary when day fixed.—ANON. (1702), 7 Mod. Rep. 17; 87 E. R. 1068.

5430. — Must be in person.—ANON. (1709), 11 Mod. Rep. 253; 88 E. R. 1022.

5431. What amounts to breach of recognisance—Escape from lawful arrest.—It is a forfeiture of a recognisance for good behaviour to escape from a constable, though no felony was committed & though the arrest was tortious.—ANON. (1584), Godb. 22; 78 E. R. 14.

5432. — Not slanderous words—Or trespass.—R. v. KING (1588), Cro. Eliz. 86; 78 E. R. 345; sub nom. ANON., Moore, K. B. 249.

Annotations:—Refd. Haylock v. Sparke (1853), 1 E. & B. 471. Mentd. R. v. Wrightson (1708), Holt, K. B. 354.

5433. —[—]—STAMPE v. HIDE & CLINTON (1620), 2 Roll. Rep. 247; Palm. 126; 81 R. E. 767.

Annotation:—Refd. Haylock v. Sparke (1853), 1 E. & B. 471.

5434. — Not merely provocative words.—A recognisance for good behaviour is not forfeited by rash, quarrelsome or unmannerly words, unless they directly tend to a breach of the peace, to terrify others or to promote sedition.—R. v. HEYWARD (1638), Cro. Car. 498; 79 E. R. 1030.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Ely JJ. (1855), 20 J. P. 116.

5435. — Assault.—A recognisance for keeping the peace is forfeited by an assault upon any peace & good behaviour, arose by reason of a bona fide dispute as to title, does not oust the jurisdiction of the justices to require such sureties.—R. (MULHOLLAND) v. MONAGHAN JJ., [1914] 2 I. R. 156.—IR.

5419 iii. —[—]—The whole object of requiring sureties of the peace is to prevent some mischief that may reasonably be anticipated, & when any person threatens to destroy a building about to be erected the magistrate may bind him over to keep the peace.

—GORMAN v. GORMAN (1891), 10 N. Z. L. R. 223.—N.Z.

5435 i. What amounts to breach of recognisance—Assault.—On sci. fa. upon a recognisance to keep the peace the ct. of quarter sessions was proved, affirming a conviction of deft. on a charge of assaulting M. by using insulting & abusive language to him in his own office, & on the public street, & by using his fist in a threatening & menacing manner to the face & head of M.:—Held: sufficient proof of a breach of the peace, & deft. was for t to an

Sect. 8.—Recognisances to keep the peace—Articles of the peace. Sects. 9 & 10: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

person.—R. v. STANLEY (1755), Say. 139; 96 E. R. 830.

5436. — Procuring another to break the peace.—ANON. (1509–1547), Bro. N. C. 148; 73 E. R. 911.

5437. Estreat of recognisances—Notice of motion must be given.—ANON. (1701), 12 Mod. Rep. 494; 88 E. R. 1470.

5438. — Recognisance must be broken.—Estreats ought not to be made on proof by witnesses of misbehaviour committed out of ct., but it ought to appear by some act of ct. that the condition of the recognisance is broken.—R. v. COSSINS (1745), Park. 54; 145 E. R. 712.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Ely J.J. (1855), 5 E. & B. 489.

5439. — Proof of breach necessary.—On an indictment for libel, deft. pleaded guilty, & entered into his own recognisance to appear & receive judgment when called upon to do so, & not to be called upon at all, if he discontinued to publish libels on prosecutor. The ct. refused to pass judgment, unless prosecutor produced an affidavit, stating that deft. had since the trial published libels respecting him.—R. v. RICHARDSON (1840), 8 Dowl. 511; 4 Jur. 104.

5440. — Procedure by certiorari.—R. v. MUL LUCHMAN (1909), 44 L. Jo. 60.

See, further, CROWN PRACTICE, Vol. XVI., pp. 433, 434, Nos. 2950–2957.

5441. — Respite of estreat.—The ct. has jurisdiction to respite & stay process on estreated recognisances, & they will do so on application, in order to give the cognisors an opportunity of trying a question of law respecting the subject-matter of the condition, although the forfeiture import the breach of a duty imposed by competent authority under an Act of Parliament.—Re FRIDLINGTON (1821), 9 Price, 658; 147 E. R. 214.

5442. — Discharge of estreated recognisances.—R. v. CARTMAN (1823), 11 Price, 637; 147 E. R. 589.

5443. — Estreated recognisance may be compounded—Upon subsequent appearance.—R. v. TOMB (1715), 10 Mod. Rep. 278; 88 E. R. 727.

5444. Recognisances of sureties—When estreated—Non-appearance of prisoner.—The ct. will not estreat the recognisance of bail until the non-appearance of the principal be entered.—R. v. STRUDWICK (1723), 8 Mod. Rep. 104; 88 E. R. 142.

R. v. HARMER (1854), 11 U. C. R. 555.—CAN.

b. Refusal to enter into recognisances—Before justices.—A. before defts. two justices, swore that he was afraid pltf. would destroy his property; & prayed that he might be bound over to keep the peace. Defts. thereupon, on pltf.'s refusal to find sureties, committed him to gaol.—Held: 16 Vict. c. 180, applied, & only a special action on the case could be maintained.—FULLERTON v. SWITZER (1856), 13 U. C. R. 575.—CAN.

c. Recognisances of sureties—Commitment in default—Form.—A commitment in default of sureties to keep the peace should show the date on which the words were alleged to have been spoken, & contain a statement to the effect that complainant is apprehensive of the bodily injury.—Re ROSS (1864), 3 P. R. 301.—CAN.

d. Appearance on recognisance.—Judgment will be entered on a recognisance against both principal & sureties, where the principal has not appeared in accordance with the condition of such recognisance, & where a rule nisi for such judgment has been served on the sureties, & the principal has left the province, & they have failed to show cause.—R. v. CUDIHAY (1865), 1 Old. 701.—CAN.

e. Estreat of recognisance.—In order to estreat a recognisance taken under Dominion Act, 1869, c. 30, a certificate is required from the proper officer under sect. 45 that it is forfeited; upon that a rule nisi is taken out on affidavit of the facts, & if no cause is shown, judgment follows, but without costs.—R. v. HICKMAN (1878), 12 N. S. R. (3 R. & C.) 255.—CAN.

f. ——R. v. BROWN (1879), 13 N. S. R. (1 R. & G.) 51.—CAN.

g. Amount of recognisance must be fixed.—Under Art. 959 of the Criminal Code, when a justice of the peace requires any one to give security to keep the peace he must fix the amount of the bond to be given, & order him to be imprisoned for a term to be mentioned, not exceeding twelve months, in case he should refuse or neglect to give such security. The justice of the peace must afterwards establish & record deft.'s refusal or

5445. ——R. v. WILLIAMS (1870), 18 W. R. 806; 34 J. P. Jo. 307.

5446. — Withdrawal of estreat—Upon evidence of steps taken by sureties.—Upon an appln. by sureties for the ct. to withdraw the estreat of their recognisances, which has been previously ordered counsel for the prosecution has no locus standi. The ct., upon being satisfied that the sureties had taken all reasonable steps to secure the attendance of deft., withdrew an estreat previously ordered, but which had not yet issued.—R. v. SANGIOVANNI (1904), 68 J. P. 55.

5447. — When discharged—Not upon non-appearance of prisoner.—R. v. CAUDWELL (1852), 16 J. P. Jo. 200.

5448. — Unless appearance of prisoner impossible.—R. v. DOYEN (1899), 34 L. Jo. 645.

SECT. 9.—POLICE SUPERVISION.

5449. Previous conviction essential—Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (c. 112).—R. v. BENDON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 178, C. C. A.

5450. — Must be of recent date.—Police supervision not superadded to a sentence when there has been a long interval without a conviction.—R. v. POUNTNEY (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

SECT. 10.—EFFECT OF CONVICTION.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

NOTE.—Cases as to Outlawry are omitted as being obsolete in practice.

5451. Conviction unreversed—Bar to action against witness for giving false evidence.—A person, who has been convicted of a crime, & against whom the conviction stands unreversed, cannot maintain an action against a witness for negligently giving false evidence which caused him to be wrongfully so convicted.

As long as a conviction stands, no one against whom it is producible shall be permitted to aver against it (COLLINS, M.R.).—BYNOE v. BANK OF ENGLAND, [1902] 1 K. B. 467; 71 L. J. K. B. 208; 86 L. T. 140; 50 W. R. 359; 18 T. L. R. 276, C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. Turley v. Daw (1906), 94 L. T. 216; Norman v. Mathews (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 857.

neglect to furnish the security, & he can only issue his warrant of commitment after such refusal or neglect. A commitment, therefore, which requires deft. to furnish security to keep the peace, but does not fix the amount, is illegal.—Re DOE, [1893] Q. R. 2 Q. B. 600.—CAN.

h. Original jurisdiction of Queen's Bench Division.—Judges of the Q. B. Div. as conservators of the peace have original jurisdiction independently of the statute of Edw. III. to require sureties for good behaviour from persons whose acts or language are shown to be likely to endanger the public peace.—Ex p. SEYMOUR v. DAVITT, Ex p. BEARNS v. HEALY, Ex p. SEYMOUR v. QUINN (1883), 15 Cox, C. C. 242.—IR.

PART XIII. SECT. 10, SUB-SECT. 1.

k. Conviction unreversed—No bar to civil proceedings.—Where an actor had been brought under Crimes (No 2367) Act, 1915, s. 575, & pltf. was afterwards convicted of felony—Held:, such conviction was no bar to the carrying on of the action by the 5452. Committal order unreversed.]—So long as a committal order stands, an action will not lie at the suit of a judgment debtor against the high bailiff of the County Ct. for not having served him, the debtor, with the judgment summons upon which the order is made.—TURLEY v. DAW (1906), 94 L. T. 216; 22 T. L. R. 231.

5453. Magistrate's order unreversed.]—NORMAN v. MATHEWS (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 857; 114 L. T. 1043; 32 T. L. R. 303; 80 J. P. Jo. 100, D. C. Annotation :—Refd. Norman v. Mathews (1916), 32 T. L. R. 369.

5454. Effect of endurance of punishment—Libel on person convicted of felony.]—In an action by the editor of a newspaper for libel in calling him a "felon editor," defts. justified, alleging that pltf. had been convicted of felony & sentenced to twelve months' hard labour. Pltf. replied that after his conviction he underwent his sentence of twelve months' imprisonment & hard labour, & so became as cleared from the crime & its consequences as if he had received the Queen's pardon under the great seal. On demurrer:—Held: a good reply.—LEYMAN v. LATIMER (1878), 3 Ex. D. 352; 47 L. J. Q. B. 470; 37 L. T. 819; 26 W. R. 305; 14 Cox, C. C. 51, C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. Hay v. Tower Division JJ. (1890), 59 L. J. M. C. 79; Monson v. Tussauds, Monson v. Tussaud, [1894] 1 Q. B. 671; Yates v. Kyffin, Taylor & Wark, [1899] W. N. 141; In the Estate of Crippen, [1911] P. 108.

Effect of free pardon.]—See No. 5457, post.

5455. Forfeiture of office—Elementary Education Act, 1870 (c. 75).]—A member of a school board in England convicted of conspiracy under Criminal Law & Procedure (Ireland) Act, 1887 (c. 20), & imprisoned:—Held: to have been "punished with imprisonment for crime" within the meaning of Sched. II, Part. I, r. 14, to Education Act, 1870 (c. 75), & so to have vacated his seat on the board.—CONYBEARE v. LONDON SCHOOL BOARD, [1891] 1 Q. B. 118; 60 L. J. Q. B. 44; 63 L. T. 651; 55 J. P. 151; 39 W. R. 288; 7 T. L. R. 4; 17 Cox, C. C. 191, D. C.

5456. Disqualification for holding licence—Wine & Beer-house Act Amendment Act, 1870 (c. 29), s. 14.]—The above Act applied to a person convicted of felony either before or after the Act passed; & licences held by a person convicted before the Act became void on the passing of the Act.—R. v. VINE (1875), L. R. 10, Q. B. 195; 44 L. J. M. C. 60; 31 L. T. 842; 23 W. R. 649; 13 Cox, C. C. 43, D. C.

Annotations :—Consd. Re Pulborough School Board Election, Bourke v. Nutt, [1894] 1 Q. B. 725. Refd. Hay v. Tower Division of London JJ. (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 561; R. v. Griffiths (1891), 60 L. J. M. C. 93; Re Chaffers, Ex p. A.-G. (1897), 76 L. T. 351; Tower JJ. v. Chambers, [1904] 2 K. B. 903; R. v. Austin, [1913] 1 K. B. 551.

5457. ——— Removed by free pardon.]—Upon an application for a licence to sell spirits by retail, it appeared that apptd. had been convicted of felony but had received a free pardon under the Royal Sign-manual:—Held: the disqualification imposed on him by the above Act was removed by the pardon, & the licence might be granted to him.—HAY v. LONDON TOWER DIVISION JJ. (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 561; 59 L. J. M. C. 79; 62 L. T. 290; 54 J. P. 500; 38 W. R. 414; 6 T. L. R. 169, D. C.

convict.—WATSON v. WATSON, [1919] V. L. R. 384.—AUS.

1. Effect of endurance of punishment—Forfeiture—High treason.]—The property of a person attainted for high treason, is not forfeited until the attainer is complete.—EASTWOOD v. MCKENZIE (1837), 5 O. S. 708.—CAN.

m. ——— A person undergoing confinement in a penitentiary as a punishment for an indictable offence is not deprived of his property nor his freedom of contract.—YOUNG v. CARTER (1912), 22 O. W. R. 643; 3 O. W. N. 1486; 5 D. L. R. 655.—CAN.

PART XIII. SECT. 10, SUB-SECT. 2.

n. Appointment of administrator of convict's property—Powers of admini-

5458. Compensation under Workmen's Compensation Acts—Not affected by conviction.]—A workman who had met with an accident in the course of his employment, & was in receipt of £1 a week compensation from his employers, was convicted of stealing & sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment with hard labour. The employers stopped payment. The workman claimed compensation. He was still suffering from partial incapacity for work as the result of his accident:—Held: as the incapacity caused by the accident still continued, the workman, notwithstanding his imprisonment, was entitled to compensation under section 1 of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (c. 58), s. 1.—M McNALLY v. FURNESS, WITHEY & Co., LTD., [1913] 3 K. B. 605; 82 L. J. K. B. 1310; 109 L. T. 270; 29 T. L. R. 678; 6 B. W. C. C. 604, C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. Ling v. De Dion Bouton, [1920] 1 K. B. 88; Stowell v. Ellerman Lines (1923), 16 B. W. C. C. 46.

SUB-SECT. 2.—ADMINISTRATION OF CONVICT'S PROPERTY.

5459. Appointment of administrator of convict's property—Power of administrator—Forfeiture Act, 1870 (c. 23).]—Sect. 12 of the above Act, which gives the administrator of a convict's property "absolute power to sell" any part of that property "as to him shall seem fit," imports that the administrator must exercise discretion & care in case of a sale; & if he does so, then, under sect. 17, any contract falling within sect. 12 is binding & cannot be in any way impeached by the convict on his discharge. But if an administrator under the Act is proved to have exercised no discretion or care in the matter of a sale, & a loss thereby ensues to the convict's estate, the ct. will hold the administrator personally responsible for the loss.—CARR v. ANDERSON, [1903] 2 Ch. 279; 72 L. J. Ch. 534; 88 L. T. 503; 19 T. L. R. 393; 20 Cox, C. C. 416; sub nom. CARR v. HENRY, 51 W. R. 465; 47 Sol. Jo. 435, C. A.

5460. ——— ———.]—The administrator appointed under the above Act had no power to bar the estate tail of a convict & convey the fee to a purchaser.—Re GASKELL & WALTERS' CONTRACT, [1906] 2 Ch. 1; 75 L. J. Ch. 503; 94 L. T. 658; 22 T. L. R. 464, C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. Re E. D. S., [1914] 1 Ch. 618.

5461. ——— ———.]—A solr. was retained to defend a man charged with embezzlement & to act for him in a civil action in which he was deft. Both retainers were in writing. By the retainer in the criminal proceedings, which was dated June 14, 1912, the client agreed that the solr. should receive the proceeds of the sale of certain furniture to cover the charges of the defence. The solr. received these proceeds. By the retainer in the civil action the solr. was to act for the client in the conduct of the action for an inclusive fee of 100 guineas. On Oct. 28, 1912, the client pleaded guilty to the criminal charge & was sentenced to penal servitude. Subsequently judgment was recovered against strator—Act No. 627.—Where the curator under above Act assigns the felon's property after the completion of his sentence, the onus is upon the curator to show that such assignment was warranted by the Act.

To a suit impeaching an assignment by the curator under above Act of the estate of a felon, the assignee is not a necessary party; & if the ct.

Sect. 10.—Effect of conviction: Sub-sect. 2. Sect. 11: Sub-sects. 1, 2 & 3.]

him in the civil action. On Feb. 10, 1914, applt. who had been appointed on Oct. 1, 1913, administrator of the client's property under Forfeiture Act, 1870 (c. 23), s. 9, applied by summons under Attorneys & Solrs. Act, 1870 (c. 28), s. 8, to set aside the agreements as to costs, as being unfair & unreasonable, & for the delivery of a bill of costs & for taxation. The solr. in answer to the appln. contended that the amount agreed by the civil retainer had been paid more than twelve months before the appln., inasmuch as he had collected with, as he alleged, the authority of the client, the sum of £100, from the debtor of the client, & that, therefore, by reason of sect. 10 of the Act, the appln. was out of time. On Oct. 1, 1912, the client had assigned all his real & personal estate to the liquidator of a co. which had formerly employed him. On Apr. 1, 1914, the liquidator assigned the estate to applt.:—Held: the retainer in the criminal proceedings was not an agreement "respecting the amount & manner of payment" of the solr.'s charges within Attorneys & Solrs. Act, 1870 (c. 28), s. 4, & by reason of the assignment of Apr. 1, 1914, applt. had at the date of the master's order a good title to the client's estate & was entitled to maintain the appln. notwithstanding that he might not have had a good title at the date when the summons was issued.—Re JACKSON, [1915] 1 K. B. 371; 84 L. J. K. B. 548; 112 L. T. 395; 31 T. L. R. 109; 59 Sol. Jo. 272, D. C.

SECT. 11.—OFFENCES AFTER PREVIOUS CONVICTION.

SUB-SECT. 1.—WHAT IS A CONVICTION.

5462. Actual judgment—Not merely verdict.]—In an action of debt upon Disorderly Houses Act, 1751 (c. 36), s. 5, by one of the two inhabitants, to recover three several penalties of £20:—Held: by the words "shall be convicted," was meant a conviction by judgment of the etc., & not by verdict.—BURGESS v. BOETEFEUR (1844), 7 Man. & G. 481; 8 Scott, N. R. 194; 13 L. J. M. C. 122; 3 L. T. O. S. 161; 8 Jur. 621; 8 J. P. Jo. 358; 135 E. R. 193.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Rabjohns, [1913] 3 K. B. 171. Refd. Jephson v. Barker & Redman, Swan v. Same (1886), 3 T. L. R. 40; R. v. Ireland, [1910] 1 K. B. 654. Mentd. R. v. Stonnell (1845), 1 Cox, C. C. 142.

5463. Order for entry into recognisances—By court of summary jurisdiction.]—A conviction before a police magistrate can only be proved by thinks that the assignment was unwarranted, it may direct the curator to recovery as far as he is able to the felon, or failing that to make him compensation.

Property held as a trustee by a person who is convicted of a felony does not pass to the curator.—MITCHELL v. McDUGALL (1885), 11 V. L. R. 487.—AUS.

o. — Forfeiture Act, 1870.]—Above Act is not in force in Canada.—YOUNG v. CARTER (1912), 22 O. W. R. 643; 3 O. W. N. 1486; 26 O. L. R. 576; 5 D. L. R. 655.—CAN.

PART XIII. SECT. 11, SUB-SECT. 1.

p. What is a conviction.]—In a trial on a criminal charge prosecutor cannot, in the first instance, give evidence of a previous conviction of the accused where such previous conviction is not made by statute an ingredient of the offence, for which accused is being the production of the record of the conviction, or an examined copy of it. Therefore where a police magistrate, after hearing a case of common assault, ordered accused to enter into recognisances & pay the recognisance fee, but did not order him to be imprisoned or to pay any fine, & an action having been subsequently brought for the same assault, the magistrates' clerk stated in evidence the above facts, but record of the proceedings was put in:—Held: (1) the above was not a conviction within the meaning of Offences against the Person Act, 1861 (c. 100), s. 45; (2) the conviction, if any, was not proved.—HARTLEY v. HINDMARSH (1866), L. R. 1. C. P. 553; Har. & Ruth. 607; 35 L. J. M. C. 255; 14 L. T. 795; 12 Jur. N. S. 502; 14 W. R. 862.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Miles (1890), 24 Q. B. D. 423; Police Comr. for Metropolis v. Donovan (1903), 52 W. R. 14.

5464. — After verdict or plea of guilty.]—In Coinage Offences Act, 1861 (c. 99), ss. 9, 12, "conviction" means only the finding by the jury of a verdict of guilty or a plea of guilty. Therefore a person so found guilty, & released on recognisance to come up for judgment when called on, when convicted again is a person who has been "previously convicted."—R. v. BLABY, [1894] 2 Q. B. 170; 63 L. J. M. C. 133; 70 L. T. 879; 58 J. P. 576; 42 W. R. 511; 10 T. L. R. 431; 38 Sol. Jo. 420; 18 Cox, C. C. 5; 10 R. 277, C. C. R.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rabjohns (1913), 109 L. T. 414.

5465. Binding over.]—Where the keeper of a disorderly house had, upon prosecution, merely been bound over to come up for judgment when called upon:—Held: there had been such a "conviction" as entitled the inhabitants giving information to the reward payable under Disorderly Houses Act, 1751 (c. 36), s. 5.—JEPHSON v. BARKER & REDMAN, SWAN v. BARKER & REDMAN (1886), 3 T. L. R. 40.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rabjohns, [1913] 3 K. B. 171.

5466. —.]—The holder of a licence, granted under the Penal Servitude Acts, who pleads guilty to an indictable offence, & is bound over to come up for judgment when called on, has been "convicted" within the meaning of Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (c. 47), s. 4, & his licence is forfeited, & under sect. 9 of that Act he may be detained in custody & compelled to serve a term of penal servitude equal to the unexpired portion of his previous sentence.—R. v. RABJOHNS, [1913] 3 K. B. 171; 82 L. J. K. B. 994; 109 L. T. 414; 77 J. P. 435; 29 T. L. R. 614; 57 Sol. Jo. 665; 23 Cox, C. C. 553; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Harris v. Cooke (1918), 88 L. J. K. B. 253.

tried. This rule applies though the previous conviction is not of crime within the meaning of The Criminal Code, but only of an offence under a provincial statute, & though the real purpose of the evidence is not to injure the character of the accused but merely to show his previous connection & knowledge as to goods which are the subject-matter of the charge against him. Such evidence suggests to the jury, directly or indirectly, that the accused is a "bad man," & convicted law-breaker & therefore all the more likely to be guilty of the charge laid against him. It is intrinsically evidence of bad character & therefore inadmissible, unless the accused has endeavoured to establish his good character by his own evidence, or that of his witnesses, or by cross-examination of witnesses for the Crown, or unless the accused gives evidence on his behalf & thus renders himself liable to cross-examination by counsel for the Crown upon all matters which affect his credit, including previous offences & previous convictions. The only exception to the general rule that the prosecutor cannot, in the first instance, give evidence to impeach the character of the accused in order to establish a probability of his guilt, is the practice which allows proof to be adduced of acts committed by the accused, & which may even have led to a previous conviction similar in character to the one which forms the subject-matter of the charge; but such evidence is only admissible to explain an act which otherwise would be of an equivocal character, & to rebut by anticipation an obvious defence of ignorance, accident, mistake or other innocent state of mind; & in order to make such evidence admissible it must appear clearly & definitely that the defence of accident, mistake or absence of intention to commit a offence will be relied upon by the

Special verdict of guilty but insane.—See Part VII., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 16, E., ante.

Autrefois acquit & autrefois convict.—See Part VIII., ante.

SUB-SECT. 2.—CHARGING PREVIOUS CONVICTION.

5467. Any number of convictions may be charged.—C. was charged with larceny in an indictment which contained two other counts, each charging a previous conviction against C. :—Held : any number of previous convictions may be alleged in the same indictment, &, if necessary, proved against prisoner.—R. v. CLARK (1853), 3 Car. & Kir. 367; Dears. C. C. 198; 22 L. J. M. C. 135; 21 L. T. O. S. 171; 17 J. P. 391; 17 Jur. 582; 1 W. R. 439; 6 Cox, C. C. 210; 1 C. L. R. 477, C. C. R.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Fox (1866), 15 W. R. 106.

5468. Indictment for misdemeanour—Previous conviction for felony charged.—In an indictment for obtaining money by false pretences it is competent to charge a previous conviction for felony, & upon a conviction on both charges, the least sentence of penal servitude that can be awarded is for seven years.—R. v. DEANE (1877), 2 Q. B. D. 305; 46 L. J. M. C. 155; 36 L. T. 31; 41 J. P. 212; 13 Cox, C. C. 386, C. C. R.

5469. —Previous conviction for misdemeanour charged.—Prisoner was convicted on an indictment for obtaining goods by false pretences, & also pleaded guilty to a previous conviction for false pretences charged in the indictment. He was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude :—Held : the sentence was wrong, & should be reduced to five years' penal servitude.—R. v. HORN (1883), 48 L. T. 272; 43 J. P. 344; 15 Cox, C. C. 205, C. C. R.

5470. Form of indictment.—An indictment charging a felony may allege a previous conviction against prisoner, either before or after the substantive charge.—McEVIN'S CASE (1858), Bell, C. C. 20; sub nom. R. v. HILTON & McEVIN (1858), Bell, C. C. 20; 28 L. J. M. C. 28; 32 L. T. O. S. 151; 22 J. P. 770; 5 Jur. N. S. 47; 7 W. R. 59; 8 Cox, C. C. 87, C. C. R.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Coggins (1873), 29 L. T. 469.

—See, now, Indictments Act, 1915 (c. 90), rule 11.

5471. Where not charged in indictment.—By Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (c. 47), s. 2, where any person shall on indictment be convicted of any crime or offence punishable with penal servitude, after having been previously convicted of felony, the least sentence of penal servitude that can be awarded in such case shall be a period of seven years. Prisoner was convicted of a crime punishable with penal servitude, & it was proved that he had been previously convicted of felony; but the previous conviction was not stated in the indictment :—Held : the above Act did not apply.—R. v. WILLIS (1872), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 363; 41 L. J. M. C. 102; 26 L. T. 485; 36 J. P. 389; 20 W. R. 632; 12 Cox, C. C. 192, C. C. R.

SUB-SECT. 3.—PROCEDURE AT TRIAL.

5472. Method of arraignment & giving in charge to jury—Former practice.—Prevention of Offences Act, 1851 (c. 19), s. 9, prohibits a previous conviction being given in evidence, or stated to the jury, until after a verdict of guilty of the subsequent offence :—Held : the old practice should still be pursued, of calling upon prisoner to plead to the whole charge against him, including the previous convictions, but when given in charge to the jury, that portion of the indictment alleging a former conviction should be omitted.—ANON. (1851), 17 L. T. O. S. 223; 5 Cox, C. C. 268.

5473. ——R. v. KEY (1851), 3 Car. & Kir. 371; 2 Den. 347; T. & M. 623; 21 L. J. M. C. 35; 15 Jur. 1065; sub nom. R. v. KEY, R. v. SHUTTLEWORTH, 18 L. T. O. S. 173; 5 Cox, C. C. 369; sub nom. R. v. KAY, R. v. SHUTTLEWORTH, 15 J. P. 801, C. C. R.

5474. ——When an indictment for felony charges a previous conviction, prisoner is to be arraigned on the whole indictment, but to the jury is to be read in the first instance only that part of the indictment which charges the new offence; after they have found their verdict, that part of the indictment is to be submitted to them, without their being again sworn, which charges the previous conviction. Prevention of Offences Act, 1851 (c. 19), s. 9, has made no substantial alteration in the practice.—R. v. SHUTTLEWORTH (1851), 3 Car. & Kir. 375; 2 Den. 351; T. & M. 626; 21 L. J. M. C. 36; 15 Jur. 1066; sub nom. R. v. KEY, R. v. SHUTTLEWORTH, 18 L. T. O. S. 173; 5 Cox, C. C. 369; sub nom. R. v. KAY, R. v. SHUTTLEWORTH, 15 J. P. 801, C. C. R.

5475. ——Upon the trial of an indictment for the felony of having committed a misdemeanour within Coinage Offences Act, 1861 (c. 90), ss. 9, 10, 11, relating to the unlawful possession & uttering accused.—R. v. TYMAN & CARSON, [1923] 2 W. R. 59; [1923] 4 D. L. R. 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 409.—CAN.

PART XIII. SECT. 11, SUB-SECT. 2.

5470 i. Form of indictment.—It is not a misjoinder of counts to add allegations of a previous conviction for misdemeanour, as counts, to a count for larceny; & where there has been a demurrer to such allegations, as insufficient in law, & judgment in favour of prisoner, but he is convicted on the felony count, the ct. of error will not reopen the matter on the suggestion that there is misjoinder of counts.—R. v. MASON (1872), 22 C. P. 246, CAN.

5470 ii. ——Where a prisoner is indicted for larceny, & is also charged with a previous conviction, the charge of the previous conviction should since stat. 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 116, follow, & not precede, the charge of the present offence.—R. v. O'BRIEN 1 R. 1 C. L. 166.—IR.

iii. ——In an indictment for receiving money under false pretences, a previous conviction for larceny cannot be charged.—R. v. GARLAND (1869), 1 R. 3 C. L. 383.—IR.

5470 iv. ——In a complaint the words charging the accused with a contravention of Night Poaching Act, 1828, on a certain date were followed by the words " & such offence is a second offence, you having been previously convicted in the list annexed " :—Held : previous conviction was libelled as an aggravation & not as a substantive charge, & consequently it could not be competently proved in causa but ought to have been proved after accused had been found guilty of the offence for which he was prosecuted.—McDERMOTT v. STEWART (STEWART & TRUSTEES), [1918] S. C. (J.) 25.—SCOT.

q. — Extent of former punishment need not be known.—A charge alleging a previous conviction need not show the extent of the former punishment.—ANON. (1868), 4 Mad. 11.—IND.

r. Where not charged in information.—The information against deft. did not change his offence as a second offence. The magistrate, on the conclusion of the evidence, found deft. guilty, called for the police report, & finding six previous convictions recorded, imposed a fine greater than the minimum penalty for a second offence. Deft. did not admit the convictions. Two convictions were proved strictly, one on Sept. 27, 1920, prior to the passing of the Lottery & Gaming Act, 1920, & one subsequent thereto; the magistrate thereupon intimated that he would only take into consideration these convictions, but imposed the same penalty :—Held : deft. had been definitely charged with the previous conviction, & that in the circumstances the magistrate had power to reconsider his remarks.—AMES v. NICHOLSON, [1921] S. A. S. R. 224.—AUS.

PART XIII. SECT. 11, SUB-SECT. 3.

5475 i. Method of arraignment & giving in charge to jury.—Prisoner had been convicted on an indictment charging a previous conviction & subsequent felony under 21 & 25 of counterfeit coin after a previous conviction for a misdemeanour within those sections, prisoner must first be arraigned upon the subsequent offence & evidence respecting the subsequent offence must first be submitted to the jury, & the previous conviction must not be inquired into until after the verdict on the charge of the subsequent offence.—R. v. MARTIN (1869), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 214; 39 L. J. M. C. 31; 21 L. T. 469; 34 J. P. 196; 18 W. R. 72; 11 Cox, C. C. 343, C. C. R.

Sect. 11.—Offences after previous conviction: Sub-sects. 3 & 4.]

5476. —[—Where a person is indicted for night poaching after two previous convictions, the previous convictions should not be proved until the jury find a verdict on the other facts of the case.—R. v. WOODFIELD (1887), 16 Cox, C. C. 314.

5477. —[—Prisoner was charged in the first count of an indictment with the misdemeanour of attempting to commit a larceny; in the second count, which dealt with the same facts as in the first count in an alternative manner, with an offence under Prevention of Crime Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 7, after two previous convictions; & in the third count, with a previous conviction for felony. At the trial he was called upon to plead to the whole indictment in the first instance, & after pleading not guilty, was convicted:—Held: upon a writ of error, the provisions of Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 116, were quite general, & not confined to offences under the latter Act, & sect. 9 of the former Act did not affect their generality, & as the arraignment did not comply with the requirements of sect. 116 of the latter Act, it was therefore bad, & the conviction must be quashed.—FAULKNER v. R. [1905] 2 K. B. 76; 74 L. J. K. B. 562; 92 L. T. 769; 69 J. P. 241; 53 W. R. 665; 21 T. L. R. 417; 49 Sol. Jo. 460; 20 Cox, C. C. 838, D. C.

5478. —[—Where deft. is indicted under Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 13, for keeping a brothel after a previous conviction for a similar offence, proof of such previous conviction should not be given until the jury have found deft. guilty of the subsequent offence.—R. v. HUBERTY (1905), 70 J. P. 6.

5479. Indictment under Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 7.]—Where a person is indicted for an offence under the above Act, the previous convictions may not be proved before the jury until the other facts constituting the subsequent offence have been found by them.—R. v. BROWN (1901), 65 J. P. 136.

Annotations:—Overd. R. v. Penfold, [1902] 1 K. B. 517.
Refd. R. v. Osborne (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 134.

5480. —[—On the trial of an indictment charging the prisoner with an offence under the above Act, the previous convictions are a necessary ingredient of the offence, & may be given in evidence before the jury in the first instance.—R. v. PENFOLD, [1902] 1 K. B. 547; 71 L. J. K. B. 306; 86 L. T. 204; 66 J. P. 248; 50 W. R. 671; 18 T. L. R. 286; 46 Sol. Jo. 268; 20 Cox, C. C. 161, C. C. R.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Osborne (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 134.
Refd. Faulkner v. R., [1905] 2 K. B. 76. Mentd. R. v. Hunter, [1921] 1 K. B. 555.

Vict. c. 96, s. 116, & sentenced by mistake to five years' penal servitude, seven years being the minimum under the statute. Upon error, by the Crown, or the purpose of reversing the judgment & passing the proper sentence, it appeared from the record that the provisions of the statute as to arraigning prisoner, etc., had been neglected:—Held: these provisions were material.—R. v. Fox (1866), 10 a. By record or certificate.]—A conviction returned under the statute to quarter sessions, & filed by the clerk of the peace, becomes a record of the ct., & may be proved by a certified copy.—GRAHAM v. MCARTHUR (1866), 25 U. C. R. 478.—CAN.

Cox, C. C. 502.—IR.

PART XIII. SECT. 11, SUB-SECT. 4.

5481. —[—R. v. OSBORNE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 134, C. C. A.

5482. — When joined with offences under other statutes.]—FAULKNER v. R., No. 5477, ante.

SUB-SECT. 4.—PROOF OF CONVICTION.

5483. By record or certificate—Minute-book o sessions—Not sufficient.]—R. v. BELLAMY (1824) Ry. & M. 171.

5484. —[—Where an indictment for a conspiracy alleged that, "at the Ct. of Quarter Sessions holden, etc. an indictment against A. was preferred to, & found by the grand jury:—" Held: this allegation must be proved by a caption regularly drawn up of record, & the minute-book kept by the deputy-clerk of the peace could not be received as evidence of the finding of the bill although no record had been in fact drawn up.—R. v. SMITH (1828), 8 B. & C. 341; 6 L. J. O. S. M. C. 99; 108 E. R. 1069.

Annotations:—Fold. Porter v. Cooper (1834), 6 C. & P. 354.
Refd. Campbell v. R. (1847), 11 Q. B. 814.

5485. —[—On an indictment under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83), the minute book of the sessions where the conviction took place, to prove a previous conviction under the Act is not sufficient evidence, but a certified copy of the record of such conviction must be produced.—GILES v. SINEY (1864), 5 New. Rep. 78; 11 L. T. 310; 29 J. P. 246; 13 W. R. 92.

5486. — Sufficient.]—An order of a ct. of summary jurisdiction under Elementary Education Act, 1876 (c. 79), imposing a penalty or the parent of a child for non-compliance with a previous order for the attendance of the child at school, may be proved in subsequent proceedings by the minute books of the ct. containing an entry of the order; & it is unnecessary to produce a copy of the order signed by the clerk of the peace or other officer of the sessions.—LONDON SCHOOL BOARD v. HARVEY (1879), 4 Q. B. D. 451; 4 L. J. M. C. 130; 43 J. P. 734; 27 W. R. 783, D. C.
Annotation:—Fold. Police Comr. v. Donovan, [1903] K. B. 895.

5487. —[—The register of the minutes or memorandum of convictions of a ct. of summary jurisdiction which has to be kept under Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879 (c. 49), s. 22, by the clerk of the ct. is admissible in evidence to prove a previous conviction of deft. for a similar offence in the same ct.—POLICE COMR. v. DONOVAN, [1903] 1 K. B. 895; 72 L. J. K. B. 545; 88 L. T. 555; 52 W. R. 14; 19 T. L. R. 392; 20 Cox, C. C. 435.

Annotation:—Mentd. Wing v. Epsom U. D. C. (1904), 68 J. P. 259.

5488. — Indictment & finding of jury—Not sufficient.]—A plea of autrefois convict can only be proved by the record; & the indictment with the finding of the jury, etc., indorsed by the proper officer, is not sufficient, although it appear that no record has been made up.—R. v. BOWMAN (1833), 6 C. & P. 101; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 147; subsequent proceedings (1834), 6 C. & P. 337.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Hughes (1835), 1 Har. & W. 313.

t. —[—To prove a conviction which took place at a former assizes, the record thereof, & not the Crown book, is the best evidence.—R. v. DWYER (1836), Jebb, Cr. & Pr. Cas. 198.—IR.

a. —[—Where principal & accessory are tried at the same assizes, the production, by the proper officer, of the Crown book containing the 5489. — — —.]—An allegation that "on, etc., at, etc., a certain indictment was preferred at the Quarter Session of the Peace then & there holden in & for the county of W., against deft. & one E., which indictment was then & there found a true bill," is not supported by the production of the original indictment with the words "true bill" indorsed on it, it being necessary that a regular record should be drawn up, & proved, either by its production or by an examined copy.—PORTER v. COOPER (1834), 6 C. & P. 354; 1 Cr. M. & R. 387; 2 Nev. & M. M. C. 178; 4 Tyr. 456; 3 L. J. Ex. 330.

Annotations:—Mentd. King v. Taylor (1835), 5 Tyr. 800; Lemere v. Elliott (1861), 6 H. & N. 656.

5490. — — — Sufficient during sitting under same commission.—During the sitting under the same commission, the original indictment, & minutes of the verdict upon it, are receivable in evidence in support of a plea of autrefois acquit, without a record being drawn up.—R. v. PARRY (1837), 7 C. & P. 836; sub nom. R. v. LEA, 2 Mood. C. C. 9, C. C. R.

5491. — — — Calendar of sentences—Not sufficient.—The proper proof that a prisoner was in custody under a sentence of imprisonment passed at the assizes, is by the proof of the record of his conviction; & neither the production of the calendar of the sentences, signed by the clerk of assize, & by him delivered to the governor of the prison, nor the evidence of a person who heard sentence passed, is sufficient for this purpose.—R. v. BOURDON (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 366; 2 Cox, C. C. 169.

5492. — — — Oral evidence—Not sufficient.—R. v. BOURDON, No. 5491, ante.

5493. — — —.]—HARTLEY v. HINDMARSH, No. 5463, ante.

5494. — — —.]—Upon the hearing of a complaint under Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872 (c. 65), s. 4, the evidence adduced in corroboration of that of complainant was the evidence of a person who deposed that he had been present at the trial & conviction of the alleged father of complainant's child upon an indictment charging him with having had unlawful carnal knowledge of complainant:—Held: the conviction was not sufficiently proved.—MASH v. DARLEY, [1914] 3 K. B. 1226; 83 L. J. K. B. 1740; 111 L. T. 744; 79 J. P. 33; 30 T. L. R. 585; 58 Sol. Jo. 652; 24 Cox, C. C. 414, C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Thomas v. Jones, [1921] 1 K. B. 22.

5495. Form of certificate—Must set out effect & substance of conviction.—R. v. SUTCLIFFE (1788), Russ. & Ry. 469, n., C. C. R.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Watson (1821), Russ. & Ry. 468.

5496. — — — Must set out judgment.—In an indictment against a prisoner for a subsequent felony, he cannot be convicted on Criminal Law Act, 1826 (c. 28), s. 11, merely by the production of the certificate of the previous conviction, unless it state that a judgment followed the conviction, & that the judgment remained unreversed.—

proper entries is, at the trial of the accessory, sufficient evidence of the conviction of the principal.—R. v. ROBINSON (1839), 1 Cr. & D. 329.—IR.

b. — — —.]—To prove a previous conviction there must be a certificate under the hand of the clerk of the ct. or other officer having the custody of the records of the ct. where the conviction took place.—R. v. JACKSON (1917), C. P. D. 264.—S. AF.

c. Admission of prisoner.—On an information charging prisoner with theft. Prisoner consented to be tried summarily, pleaded guilty, & was remanded for sentence. Before sentence passed the magistrate received information that prisoner was believed to have been convicted in 1902 on a charge of obtaining money by fraud. On being called up for sentence, prisoner was asked by the magistrate whether he had been previously convicted of theft & the answer being in the affirmative he was sentenced to ten years, being seven years for the

R. v. ACKROYD & JAGGER (1843), 1 Car. & Kir. 158; 1 L. T. O. S. 414; 1 Cox, C. C. 46.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Stonnell (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 474. Refd. Burgess v. Boctefeur (1844), 8 Scott, N. R. 194.

5497. — — —.]—A certificate of a previous conviction for felony is not admissible, unless it sets forth, not only the fact of prisoner's conviction, but also the judgment of the ct. thereon.—R. v. STONNELL (1845), 4 L. T. O. S. 474; 9 J. P. 183; 1 Cox, C. C. 142.

5498. — — — Need not contain formal caption.—Under Transportation Act, 1824 (c. 84), s. 24, which makes a certificate of the conviction, omitting the formal part of the record, evidence, a certificate stating that "at the General Quarter Sessions of the Peace of our Lady the Queen, holden at M. in & for the county of K. on, etc., H. late of, etc., was in due form of law tried & convicted on a certain indictment against him, for," etc., is sufficient, without any more formal caption.—R. v. HORNE (1850), 4 Cox, C. C. 263.

5499. — — — Certification by deputy clerk.—On the trial of an indictment against a person for being at large without lawful cause before the expiration of his term of transportation, a certificate of his former conviction & sentence was put in; it purported to be that of G., "deputy-clerk of the peace" for the county of L., " & clerk of the cts. of general quarter sessions of the peace holden in & for the said county, & having the custody of the records of the cts. of general quarter sessions of the peace holden in & for the said county." It was proved that H. was clerk of the peace of L., & that he had three deputies, partners, of whom G., who had signed the certificate, was one, & that each of them acted as clerk of the peace, & that for forty years they had kept the sessions' records at their office:—Held: sufficient proof of the conviction & sentence under Transportation Act, 1824 (c. 84), s. 24.—R. v. JONES (1847), 2 Car. & Kir. 524.

5500. — — —.]—The certificate of a previous conviction required by Transportation Act, 1824 (c. 84), s. 24, is sufficient, by virtue of Evidence Act, 1845 (c. 113), s. 1, if it purports to be signed by an officer having the custody of the records, although that officer is therein described as the deputy-clerk of the peace of a borough. The certificate need not aver that the quarter sessions at which prisoner was convicted were held by the Recorder.—R. v. PARSONS (1866), L. R. 1 C. C. R. 24; 35 L. J. M. C. 167; 14 L. T. 450; 30 J. P. 359; 12 Jur. N. S. 436; 14 W. R. 662; 10 Cox, C. C. 243, C. C. R.

5501. Proof of certificate.—R. v. STONE (1844), 1 Cox, C. C. 70.

5502. — — —.]—On an indictment for felony after a prior conviction, prosecutor must prove that the certificate of prior conviction was obtained from the clerk of the peace.—R. v. WHALE (1844), 2 L. T. O. S. 519; 8 J. P. 698; 1 Cox, C. C. 69.

5503. — — —.]—A certificate of a previous conviction proves itself.—R. v. ERPS (1844), 8 J. P. 417.

theft & three years on account of the previous conviction:—Held: the magistrate had exceeded his powers in imposing a sentence for a term greater than that allowed when no former conviction has been proved, the previous conviction in this case not having been charged in the information by analogy to Criminal Code, s. 851, nor proved in accordance with sect. 963.—R. v. EDWARDS (1907), 7 W. L. R. 1; 17 Man. L. R. 288.—CAN.

Sect. 11.—Offences after previous conviction: Sub-sect. 5. Sects. 12 & 13. Part XIV. Sect. 1: Sub-sect. 1.]

SUB-SECT. 5.—PROOF OF IDENTITY.

5504. Method of proof.]—In order to prove the identity of a prisoner who is named in a certificate of a previous conviction, it is not necessary to call a witness who was present at the trial to which the certificate relates, it is sufficient to prove that prisoner is the person who underwent the sentence mentioned in the certificate.—R. v. CROFTS (1840), 9 C. & P. 219.

Annotation:—Reidd. R. v. Leng (1858), 1 F. & F. 77.

5505. —.]—The proof of the identity of prisoner charged with a previous conviction on an indictment for a felony, ought to be positive & direct, & should be given by some one who was present at the trial & conviction set forth in the certificate. Evidence by the gaoler that prisoner was handed over, with others, to him on his appointment, & that he was then in confinement under the sentence set forth in the certificate, is insufficient.—R. v. BIRD (1842), 6 J. P. 525.

5506. —.]—To prove the identity of a prisoner under a certificate of a former conviction it is not sufficient to prove that he was in the gaol, went up with other prisoners to the sessions, was brought back & remained in gaol one calendar month afterwards. It must be proved that he was tried & convicted of the offence stated in the certificate.—R. v. LLOYD (1843), 1 L. T. O. S. 480; 1 Cox, C. C. 51.

5507. —.]—A previous summary conviction which, under Criminal Justice Act, 1855 (c. 126), s. 7, is required to be proved by a certified copy, also requires proof of prisoner's identity, as under Criminal Law Act, 1826 (c. 28), s. 11, which remains in this respect as it stood before. The identity may be proved by evidence from which a jury may draw the conclusion that he is the same person named in the certificate, although no witness saw him convicted at his trial.—R. v. LENG (1858), 1 F. & F. 77; 8 Cox, C. C. 73.

5508. —.]—R. v. DRABBLE (1909), 53 Sol. Jo. 449.

5509. —.]—“Proof of the identity” of the person against whom it is sought to prove the conviction with the person named in the record of the conviction required by Prevention of Crime Act, 1871 (c. 112), s. 18, does not mean conclusive proof, but means such evidence as will entitle a jury to find that the identity is proved.—MARTIN v. WHITE, [1910] 1 K. B. 665; 79 L. J. K. B. 553; 102 L. T. 23; 74 J. P. 106; 26 T. L. R. 218; 22 Cox, C. C. 236; 8 L. G. R. 218.

5510. —.]—The ct. of trial cannot take cognisance of previous convictions unless they are duly proved by a witness, subject to cross-examination.—R. v. SEYMOUR (1923), 87 J. P. 148; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 128, C. C. A.

SECT. 12.—PARDONS AND REPRIEVES.

See CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, Vol. XI., pp. 516 et seq.

SECT. 13.—VAGRANCY.

See MAGISTRATES.

Part XIV.—Appeal to Court of Criminal Appeal.

SECT. 1.—THE RIGHT OF APPEAL.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

5511. When confined to point of law.]—If, on an appln. for leave to appeal against conviction or sentence, a point of law emerges, the ct. will grant leave to appeal on that point only.—R. v. BRIGGS (1909), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 192, C. C. A.; subsequent proceedings, [1909] 1 K. B. 381, C. C. A.

5512. Conviction on information by Attorney-General—For smuggling.]—An information by the A.-G. in the K. B. Div. for smuggling is not a “criminal information” within Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 20 (2), & therefore there is no appeal from conviction in such a case to this ct.—R. v. HAUSMANN (1909), 73 J. P. 516; 26 T. L. R. 3; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5513. Finding of fitness or unfitness to plead & take trial—Criminal Lunatics Act, 1883 (c. 38), s. 2.]—Where upon the trial of a prisoner, there is a preliminary inquiry as to whether he is fit to plead, & he is found fit to plead, there is no appeal against that finding. The ct., being of opinion that prisoner was insane at the time he committed the act, quashed the sentence, & made an order for his detention as a criminal lunatic under the above

PART XIII. SECT. 11, SUB-SECT. 5.

5504 i. Method of proof.]—Before a conviction for a second offence under the Liquor Licence Act, it is necessary to prove the identity of deft. with the person named in the certificate of the former conviction, & neither the similarity of names nor the personal knowledge of the magistrate will be sufficient for that purpose.—R. v. HERRELL (1898), 12 Man. L. R. 198.—CAN.

5504 ii. —.]—On a trial before a magistrate who was the same magistrate by whom deft. had been previously convicted of a like offence, the information alleging such prior conviction, all that appeared with regard to it being the evidence of the licence inspector, who proved that deft. was the person previously convicted:—Held: it must be assumed that the magistrate satisfied himself as to the prior conviction, the inspector's evidence only being necessary to prove the identity of the deft.—R. v. Mc-

GARRY (1900), 20 C. L. T. 170; 31 O. L. 486.—CAN.

5504 iii. —.]—In proof of the conviction of a prior offence by the person accused, identity of name in the certificate of conviction is some evidence of the identity of the person, & it is then a question of the weight of evidence for the determination of the magistrate.—R. v. LEACH, R. v. FOGARTY, R. v. WARLOW (1908), 17 O. L. R. 643; 12 O. W. R. 1016, 1026.—CAN.

5504 iv. —.]—Police ought not either directly or indirectly to do anything which may prevent the identification of an accused person from being absolutely independent, & they should be most scrupulous in seeing that it is so.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY (No. 2), [1917] 1 W. W. R. 404; 10 Alta. L. R. 275; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 247; 33 D. L. R. 702.—CAN.

5504 v. —.]—Records of the Finger Print Department are not in themselves proof of previous convictions, even where accused's finger prints correspond with the finger prints on a slip setting forth certain convictions. There must also be evidence identifying accused with the person who appears, from such certificate, to have been convicted.—R. v. JACKSON (1917), C. P. D. 264.—S. AF.

PART XIV. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.

d. Matters within discretion of judge at trial—Reservation of points of law.]—Where a prisoner, whether defended or undefended, himself asks that a point of law be reserved, it lies in the discretion of the judge to reserve such point.—R. v. HIDDILSTON (1889), 10 N. S. W. L. R. 280.—AUS.

e. — To grant or refuse postponement of trial—Not “a question of law.”]—The exercise of judicial discretion by a judge in granting or refusing the postponement of a trial is not “a question of law” upon which a case may be reserved under Criminal Act.—R. v. JEFFERSON (1908), 72 J. P. 467; 24 T. L. R. 877; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Alexander (1913), 109 L. T. 745. Refd. R. v. Gilbert (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1424.

5514. —.]—Applt. was indicted for libel. Before the trial a jury was empanelled to inquire whether he was fit to plead. They found that he was insane & unfit to plead. Thereupon the judge ordered him to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. Applt. was made for leave to appeal against that order:—Held: as applt. had not been convicted on indictment within Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 3, no appeal would lie.—R. v. LARKINS (1911), 105 L. T. 384; 75 J. P. 320; 27 T. L. R. 438; 55 Sol. Jo. 501; 22 Cox, C. C. 598; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 194, C. C. A.

5515. Plea of insanity set up after trial.—If a plea of insanity is set up after the trial, the ct. will not interfere unless applt. would obtain some benefit from the exercise of its powers under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 5 (4).—R. v. DENCH (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 281, C. C. A.

5516. —.]—The defence of insanity ought to be raised at the trial, & not for the first time in the Ct. of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. DE VERE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

5517. Matters within discretion of judge at trial—Separate trials of persons jointly indicted.—When prisoners are jointly indicted & applt. is made for them to be tried separately the matter is one for the discretion of the judge; but such discretion must be exercised judicially. But even if it had been exercised judicially the conviction would be quashed if it appeared to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal that a miscarriage of justice had resulted from prisoners having been tried together.—R. v. GIBBINS & PROCTOR (1918), 82 J. P. 287, C. C. A.

5518. —.]—If a co-prisoner does not apply to be tried separately, no objection on the ground of a joint trial will be entertained by the Ct. of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. BAKER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 249, C. C. A.

5519. — Separate hearing of appeals.—It is within the discretion of the judge at the trial whether defts. jointly indicated shall be tried severally, & unless one has been prejudiced by such joint trial this ct. will not interfere, though it may hear appeals of such defts. separately.—R. v. BYWATERS (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 66, C. C. A.

5520. — Putting prosecution to election of counts.—The ct. of trial has a discretion as to putting the prosecution to election when there is a multiplicity of counts from which there is no appeal, & the conviction of applt. was quashed where evidence of a previous conviction was wrongly admitted.—R. v. CURTIS (1913), 29 T. L. R. 512; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 9, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Seham Yousry (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1272.

5521. —.]—Prisoner, who was charged with publishing a defamatory libel, pleaded inter alia justification. A replication to the plea was filed during the course of the trial. The fact that, in the course of the trial, counsel for the prosecution referred to the contents of certain documents which were not admissible in evidence afforded no ground for quashing the conviction, as the irregularity could not, in the circumstances of the case have influenced the verdict of the jury.

On behalf of applt. it was said that the prosecution ought to have been put to their election. It is sufficient to say that the question of election is one which the ct. in its discretion may grant or refuse (LORD COLERIDGE, J.).—R. v. SEHAM YOUSRY (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1272; 112 L. T. 311; 31 T. L. R. 27; 24 Cox, C. C. 523; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 13; 78 J. P. Jo. 521, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Gibbins & Proctor (1918), 82 J. P. 287.

5522. —.]—(1) The discretion of a judge in putting the prosecution to elect as to the charges to be proceeded with will only be reviewed in a case of manifest injustice.

(2) If counsel deliberately refrains from calling witnesses in the ct. below, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will be slow to give leave to call them on the appeal, & will only do so in exceptional circumstances.—R. v. STARKIE, [1922] 2 K. B. 275; 91 L. J. K. B. 663; 86 J. P. 74; 38 T. L. R. 181; 66 Sol. Jo. 300; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 61, C. C. A.

5523. — Allowing witness to be treated as hostile.—The ct. will not as a rule permit an appeal on the ground that the trial judge wrongly allowed a witness to be treated as hostile.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1913), 77 J. P. 240; 29 T. L. R. 188; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 133, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. White (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 60.

5524. — Admission of rebutting evidence.—(1) Whether or not rebutting evidence on the part of the prosecution ought to be admitted at a criminal trial after the close of the evidence for the defence is a matter in the discretion of the judge at the trial.

(2) A summing up, criticised for misdirection, must be considered as a whole.

(3) The rule that the jury must not separate during a trial for murder does not mean that in no circumstances must they physically part from one another. The rule is subject to the qualification that upon an emergency, or where it is necessary, a juror may leave the rest of his fellows.—R. v. CRIPPEN, [1911] 1 K. B. 149; 80 L. J. K. B. 290; 103 L. T. 705; 75 J. P. 141; 27 T. L. R. 69; 22 Cox, C. C. 289; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (1) Apld. R. v. Sullivan, [1923] 1 K. B. 47. Generally, Refd. R. v. Foster (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 196; R. v. Wilson, Lewis & Havard (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 125.

5525. — Comment on failure of defendant to give evidence—Or not calling particular witness.—

The ct. will not review a judge's comment on deft.'s not giving evidence nor on his not calling a particular person.—R. v. VOISIN, [1918] 1 K. B. 531; 87 L. J. K. B. 574; 118 L. T. 654; 82 J. P. 96; 34 T. L. R. 263; 62 Sol. Jo. 423; 26 Cox, C. C. 224; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Cook (1918), 34 T. L. R. 515.

5526. — Discharge of jury.—The right to discharge a jury is entirely within the discretion of the judge who tries the case, & the Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no jurisdiction to review the exercise of that discretion. A jury, however,

Code, s. 1014.—R. v. MULVHILL (1914), 19 B. C. R. 197.—CAN.

f. — Refusal of permission to recall witness in order to impeach her credit.—The refusal of permission to recall a witness in order to lay a foundation for evidence impeaching her credit by contradicting a previous statement made by her is a matter wholly in the discretion of the trial judge, & an appellate ct. should hesitate to interfere with the exercise of that discretion.—R. v. SCHRABA, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 107; 31 Man. L. R. 275.—CAN.

5526 i. — Discharge of jury.—The discharge of a jury during the course of a trial is a matter solely within the jurisdiction of the trial judge, & his discretion is not open to review on appeal.—R. v. BORDENINK, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 968; 45 D. L. R. 470.—CAN.

g. — To grant or refuse a

Sect. 1.—The right of appeal: Sub-sects. 1 & 2.]

should not be discharged merely to enable the prosecution to present a stronger case against prisoner on some other occasion.—R. v. LEWIS (1909), 78 L. J. K. B. 722; 100 L. T. 976; 73

J. P. 346; 25 T. L. R. 582; 22 Cox, C. C. 141; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Richardson (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 159.

5527. — With a view to increasing term.]—Leave to appeal against sentence granted with a *separate trial when two indicted together.]—*When two or more persons are charged together, the granting or refusing of an application for a separate trial is in the discretion of the judge, & where such discretion has been exercised, the Supreme Ct. has no power to interfere.—R. v. LEO (1914), T. P. D. 299.—S. AF.

h. Special leave—When granted.]—In granting special leave to appeal in criminal cases the High Ct. will follow the practice of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.—EATHER v. R. (1914), 19 C. L. R. 409.—AUS.

k. ———.]—The Appellate Div. follows the practice of the Privy Council with regard to appeals from convictions by a jury in criminal cases & will not review or interfere with the course of such cases unless it is shown that by a disregard of the form of legal process or by some violation of the principles of natural justice or otherwise substantial & grave injustice has been done.—R. v. DIDAT (1913), App. D. 299.—S. AF.

l. ———.]—On indictment for attempting to trade with the enemy contrary to the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy Act, 1914, on various dates both before & after the passing of that Act, the judge held that the Act was not retrospective as to attempts to trade with the enemy & that, as to the attempts alleged to have taken place after the passing of the Act, there was no evidence to go to the jury, & directed the jury to find a verdict of "not guilty," which they did. The Crown having applied for special leave to appeal from the judgment of acquittal or, alternatively, from the direction of the judge:—Held: special leave to appeal should be refused.—R. v. SNOW (1915), 20 C. L. R. 315.—AUS.

m. ———.]—On complaint for publishing information which might be useful to the enemy the magistrate found that the information published was not of such a character that it might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy, & dismissed the complaint:—Held: the only question was what inference should be drawn from the facts, & special leave to appeal refused.—CORRIE v. LOVEKIN (1915), 19 C. L. R. 562.—AUS.

n. ———.]—Special leave to appeal from a judgment of the Ct. of Appeal for Ontario, under 60 & 61 Vict. c. 34, s. 1 (e), will not be granted on the ground merely that there is error in such judgment; nor when it is certain that a similar application to the Ct. of Appeal would be refused.—A.-G. of ONTARIO v. SCULLY (1902), 33 S. C. R. 16.—CAN.

o. ———.]—Leave to appeal to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal should not be lightly granted.—R. v. LAI PING (1904), 25 C. L. T. 22; 11 B. C. R. 102.—CAN.

p. ———.]—Want of jurisdiction to hear.]—*An application for special leave to appeal to Supreme Ct. refused by the Ct. of Appeal on the ground that there would be no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal if leave were granted.—R. v. MANITOBA GRAIN CO., LTD., [1922] 3 W. W. R. 560.—CAN.

q. ———.]—Special circumstances must be shown.]—*The High Ct. has, under Judiciary Act, 1903-1912, s. 35 (1) (b), an unfettered discretion to grant or refuse special leave in every case, but a prima facie case showing special circumstances must be made out.—

EATHER v. R. (1915), 20 C. L. R. 147.—AUS.

r. Only after trial or conviction.]—R. v. LALANNE* (1870), 3 L. N. 16.—CAN.

s. On questions of law.]—Under C. S. U. C., c. 112, any question of law which may have arisen on a criminal trial may be reserved for the consideration of superior cts. of common law.—R. v. BISSELL (1882), 1 O. R. 514.—CAN.

t. ———.]—Must be some particular question.]—*The power to reserve a question of law arising on a criminal trial means that some particular question of law must be stated.—R. v. MOKE, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 575.—CAN.

a. ———.]—Criminal Code, s. 1024 A.]—*The "conflict" referred to in Criminal Code, s. 1024 A, must be one on a question of law.—R. v. JANONSKY (1922), 65 D. L. R. 83; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 226; 63 S. C. R. 223.—CAN.

b. Second application with new material.]—Where defts.' applications for orders nisi to quash convictions were refused on the ground of non-compliance with the statute & rule requiring a recognisance & affidavit of justification to be filed:—Held: the indulgence of the ct. ought not to be extended in favour of fresh applications made by defts. upon new material supplying the defects.—R. v. RICHARDSON, R. v. ADDISON (1889), 13 P. R. 303.—CAN.

c. ———.]—After the dismissal of a case reserved on the application of the accused, a second application, although upon new grounds, is to be discouraged.—R. v. BELS SINGH (1915), 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 40.—CAN.

d. On refusal to reserve case—Writ of error.]—Whether the police ct. is a ct. of justice within 32 & 33 Vict. c. 21, s. 18, or not, is a question of law which may be reserved by the judge at the trial, under C. S. U. C., c. 112, s. 1, & where it does not appear by the record in error that the judge refused to reserve such question it cannot be considered upon a writ of error.—R. v. MASON (1872), 22 C. P. 246.—CAN.

e. ———.]—On trial for "assault with intent to murder," certain evidence was tendered for the Crown, which prisoner's counsel objected to as inadmissible. The evidence was admitted, & prisoner's counsel then applied to have a case reserved. The judge refused the application:—Held: a writ of error does not lie upon such refusal, & Criminal Procedure Act, s. 266, is a restriction, & not an enlargement, of the common law scope of writs of error.—R. v. GILBOY (1889), 7 Man. L. R. 54.—CAN.

f. ———.]—Where the ct. appealed from has affirmed the refusal to reserve a case moved for at a criminal trial on two grounds, & is unanimous as to one of such grounds, but not as to the other, the supreme ct. on appeal can only take into consideration the ground of motion in which there was dissent.—McINTOSH v. R. (1894), 23 S. C. R. 180.—CAN.

g. ———.]—Court of Appeal cannot give judgment on merits—Even with consent of parties.]—*On an application for leave to appeal from the decision of a trial judge, refusing to state a reserved case under Criminal Code, s. 1014, the consent of the parties cannot give the ct. jurisdiction to treat the matter as one arising on a case actually reserved, & so give judgment on the merits.—R. v. GRAVES (No. 2) (1912), 12 E. L. R. 49; 20 Can. Crim. Cas. 384.—CAN.

aa. On weight of evidence.]—Prisoner was indicted for theft & was acquitted on the ground of insanity:—Held: the judge could not reserve a case depending upon the weight of evidence, & the question reserved, whether there was evidence of insanity as required by s. 736 of the code, was within the principle decided.—R. v. PHINNEY (No. 2) (1903), 36 N. S. R. 288.—CAN.

bb. Where new trial granted.]—An appeal to the Supreme Ct. of Canada does not lie in cases where a new trial has been granted by the Ct. of Appeal, under Criminal Code, 1892, ss. 742 to 750 inclusively.—VIAU v. R. (1898), 29 S. C. R. 90.—CAN.

cc. Regulated by Criminal Code.]—Criminal appeals are regulated by the provisions of the Criminal Code.—RICE v. R. (1900), 32 S. C. R. 480.—CAN.

dd. Decisions of English Court of Criminal Appeal not binding in Alberta.]—R. v. GURVIN* (1911), 18 W. L. R. 482; 20 W. L. R. 130; 45 S. C. R. 167.—CAN.

ee. After acquittal—By complainant.]—Deft. was indicted for theft under Criminal Code, s. 305 (a). The theft was admitted, but it was contended that there was evidence of insanity at the time of the act. The judge charged jury that there was no such evidence, & that the case did not come within s. 736. The jury having found the prisoner not guilty, two questions were reserved for the opinion of the ct.: (1) Whether there was evidence of insanity as required by s. 736; (2) if not, whether there should be a new trial. Upon motion to quash the case reserved on the ground that where there had been an acquittal the Crown could not have a case reserved or an appeal:—Held: the motion must be dismissed, & the case proceeded with to ascertain whether there was evidence of insanity sufficient in law for submission to the jury.—R. v. PHINNEY (No. 1) (1903), 36 N. S. R. 264.—CAN.

ff. ———.]—Under s. 749 of the Code a complainant has no right to appeal from an acquittal of accused unless he "thinks himself aggrieved" by such acquittal.—R. v. SUCKLING, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 89.—CAN.

gg. Court cannot go outside reserved case.]—The ct. cannot travel outside the reserved case in search of facts, as the effect of the evidence should be summarised in presenting the case, & the jurisdiction of the ct. being statutory, the case to be accepted as presented.—R. v. HAYNES (1914), 14 E. L. R. 457; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 101.—CAN.

hh. Death of appellant before hearing.]—M. & N. were convicted of criminal breach of trust, & each was sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment & fine of R.1,000. Both prisoners appealed to the High Ct. N. died pending his appeal. One of the relatives of N. applied to the High Ct. to set aside the conviction & order the fine to be refunded:—Held: on N.'s death his appeal abated under Code of Criminal Procedure (Act X. of 1882), s. 431.—Re NABI SHAH (1894), 1 L. R. 19 Bom. 714.—IND.

kk. On questions of fact.]—The Appellate Div. is slow to interfere with the findings of judges & magistrates view to increasing the term.—R. v. JAMES (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

5528. Certificate granted.—Only where judge has doubt on case.—A certificate of appeal should only be granted when the learned judge has a doubt about some point in the case.—R. v. LANGLEY (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 199, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—AGAINST CONVICTION.

5529. Special verdict of insanity—Trial of Lunatics Act, 1883 (c. 38), s. 2 (1).—R. v. VAN WAAS (1908), 72 J. P. Jo. 305, C. C. A.

5530. — — — — —]—There is an appeal against the special verdict allowed by sect. 2 (1) of the above Act.—R. v. IRELAND, [1910] 1 K. B. 654; 79 L. J. K. B. 338; 102 L. T. 608; 74 J. P. 206; 26 T. L. R. 267; 54 Sol. Jo. 543; 22 Cox, C. C. 322; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 74.

Annotations.—Consd. Felstead v. R., [1914] A. C. 534. Refd. R. v. Machardy, [1911] 2 K. B. 1144. Mentd. Oaten v. Auty, [1919] 2 K. B. 278.

5531. — — — — —]—There is no appeal against that part of a special verdict under sect. 2 of the above Act, which finds deft. to be insane.—R. v. MACHARDY, [1911] 2 K. B. 1144; 80 L. J. K. B. 1215; 105 L. T. 556; 76 J. P. 6; 28 T. L. R. 2; 55 Sol. Jo. 757; 22 Cox, C. C. 614; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 272, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Hill (1911), 105 L. T. 751; Felstead v. R., [1914] A. C. 534.

5532. — — — — —]—A special verdict given under sect. 2 of the above Act, is one & indivisible, & is a verdict of acquittal. Therefore accused who by the special verdict is found guilty of the act charged, but insane at the time is not a convicted person within Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 3, & cannot appeal from that part of the verdict which finds that he was insane at the time of doing the act.—FELSTEAD v. R. [1914] A. C. 534; 83 L. J. K. B. 1132; 111 L. T. 218; 78 J. P. 313; 30 T. L. R. 469; 58 Sol. Jo. 534; 24 Cox, C. C. 243; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 129, H. L.; affg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. FELSTEAD (1913), 30 T. L. R. 143, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Apld. R. v. Taylor, [1915] 2 K. B. 709. Refd. Oaten v. Auty, [1919] 2 K. B. 278; Public Prosecutions Director v. Beard, [1920] A. C. 479. Mentd. Re Houghton, Houghton v. Houghton, [1915] 2 Ch. 173.

5533. — — — — —]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no jurisdiction either under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), or in a case stated under Crown Cases Act, 1848 (c. 78), s. 1, to entertain an appeal by a person against whom a special verdict has been found that he was guilty of the act charged against him, but that he was insane at the time, inasmuch as he is not a convicted person within the above-mentioned statutes.—R. v. TAYLOR, [1915] 2 K. B. 709; 84 L. J. K. B. 1671; 113 L. T. 513; 79 J. P. 439; 31 T. L. R. 449; 59 Sol. Jo. 530; 25 Cox, C. C. 84; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 198, C. C. A.

5534. Summary conviction—As incorrigible rogue.—No appeal lies to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 20 (2), from a conviction of a person as a rogue & vagabond at petty sessions, where he is committed with hard labour until the next general or quarter sessions of the peace as an incorrigible rogue under Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 83), s. 5, & is there sentenced to imprisonment with hard labour, although an appeal does lie under that sect. with leave, against the sentence imposed by quarter sessions.—R. v. BROWN (1908), 72 J. P. 427; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Consd. R. v. Johnson, [1909] 1 K. B. 439.

5535. — — — — —]—Appl. was convicted before the magistrates at petty sessions of being an incorrigible rogue within Vagrancy Act, 1824 (c. 23), s. 5. Although twice before convicted of being an idle & disorderly person, he had never been convicted of being a rogue & vagabond within sect. 4 of the Act. He was sent to quarter sessions to be dealt with, & was there sentenced. Applt. petitioned the Home Secretary against his sentence who referred the case to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 19 (a):—Held: a person sentenced by quarter sessions as an incorrigible rogue can appeal against the sentence, but not against the conviction, & applt. not having been at some former time adjudged to be a rogue & vagabond & duly convicted thereof, quarter sessions had no power to sentence him as an incorrigible rogue.—R. v. JOHNSON, [1909] 1 K. B. 439; 78 L. J. K. B. 290; 100 L. T. 464; 73 J. P. 135; 25 T. L. R. 229; 53 Sol. Jo. 288; 22 Cox, C. C. 43; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Consd. R. v. Evans, [1915] 2 K. B. 762.

5536. — — — — —]—R. v. LEWIS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

5537. After plea of guilty.—Only under exceptional circumstances will the ct. be induced to grant leave to reopen a case in which prisoner has pleaded guilty.—R. v. LUCAS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 61, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Verney (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 107.

5538. — — — — —]—For leave to be granted where applt. had pleaded guilty special circumstances would have to be shown, such as those where there was ground for saying there had been a mistake (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. BROCK (1908), 72 J. P. Jo. 365, C. C. A.

5539. — — — — —]—Of offences not committed.—R. v. VERNEY (1909), 73 J. P. 288; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 107, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Refd. R. v. Alexander (1912), 76 J. P. 215.

5540. — — — — —]—Plea due to mistake—Misstatement of law by judge.—If deft. pleads guilty, owing to a misstatement of the law by the judge, the ct. will quash the conviction.—R. v. ALEXANDER (1912), 107 L. T. 240; 76 J. P. 215; 28 T. L. R. 200; 23 Cox, C. C. 140; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 110, C. C. A.

5541. — — — — —]—On an appeal on the ground that applt. pleaded guilty by mistake, the ct. will satisfy itself on the facts whether he really did upon questions of fact, but in special cases where there are circumstances which convince the ct. that, making all allowance for the considerations of the manner & demeanour of witnesses, the ct. below should have entered a different finding, it will allow the appeal.—R. v. MPETA (1912), App. D. 568.—S. AF.

PART XIV. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 2.

s. On points not raised at the trial.—After the conviction of a prisoner, sentence was deferred pending an appeal to the full ct. & certain points were reserved. After the rising of the ct. & during vacation the prisoner's attorney submitted certain other points to the judge in his chambers, & they were included in the special case:—Held: such points were not properly submitted within Criminal Law Amendment Act, s. 422, & could not be considered.—R. v. DEAN &

132; 12 N. S. W. W. N. 141.—AUS.

t. Conviction must be shown to be erroneous on admitted facts.—On an application for leave to appeal to Ct. of Criminal Appeal it is essential that applt. should establish that there is something arising out of the admitted facts which indicates that the verdict of the jury was erroneous.—JEFFRIES v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 143.—AUS.

a. Not where evidence sufficient to at evidence of accomplice.—A new trial cannot be granted to a person convicted of incest where there was sufficient evidence to convict prisoner without the woman's evidence.

1.—The right of appeal: Sub-sects. 2 & 3. Sects. 2 & 3.

not understand the effect of his plea.—R. v. RHODES (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Golathan (1915), 112 L. T. 1048.

5542. ———.]—In the absence of mistake, this ct. will not entertain an appeal after a plea of guilty pleaded on the advice of counsel.—R. v. FORDE, [1923] 2 K. B. 400; 92 L. J. K. B. 501; 128 L. T. 798; 87 J. P. 76; 39 T. L. R. 322; 67 Sol. Jo. 539; 27 Cox, C. C. 406; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 3.—AGAINST SENTENCE OR ORDER.

5543. Sentence fixed by law—Sentence of death—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 3.—R. v. LORD (1908), 52 Sol. Jo. 740; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 110; 72 J. P. Jo. 400, C. C. A.

5544. ———.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no jurisdiction to extend the time for appealing, or applying for leave to appeal against a conviction involving sentence of death, or against such sentence, which is fixed by law.

On a conviction for murder the sentence is one which is fixed by law, therefore there is no right of appeal. The commutation of the sentence to penal servitude for life is not a sentence of law. It is the exercise of the prerogative of mercy which rests with the Sovereign. It was on the recommendation of the Home Secretary that the Sovereign commuted the sentence, & from that there can be no appeal (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. TWYNHAM (1920), 90 L. J. K. B. 586; 124 L. T. 286; 85 J. P. 48; 26 Cox, C. C. 678; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

5545. Sentence commuted by Home Secretary—Sentence of death—Commuted to penal servitude for life.—R. v. LORD, No. 5543, ante.

5546. ———.]—R. v. TWYNHAM, No. 5544, ante.

5547. ———. Sentence of imprisonment—Commuted to detention in Borstal Institution.—There is no appeal from the commutation by the Home Secretary of detention in a Borstal Institution to ordinary imprisonment, under Prevention of Crime Act, 1908 (c. 59), s. 7.—R. v. KEATING (1910), 103 L. T. 322; 74 J. P. 452; 26 T. L. R. 686; 22 Cox, C. C. 343; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

5548. After plea of guilty—Variation of sentence.—Where prisoner appeals against a sentence passed upon him at the trial in respect of an offence to which he has pleaded guilty, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no power, if it is necessary to set that sentence aside, to substitute another in its place under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (3).—R. v. DAVIDSON (1909), 100 L. T. 623; 25 T. L. R. 352; 22 Cox, C. C. 99; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 51; 73 J. P. Jo. 100, C. C. A.
Annotation:—N.F. R. v. Ettridge, [1909] 2 K. B. 24.

5549. ———.]—Where prisoner pleads guilty at his trial the Ct. of Criminal Appeal has power to quash the sentence passed upon him & to substitute such other sentence, warranted in —R. v. GALLANT (1922), 65 D. L. R. 538; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 234.—CAN.

b. After plea of guilty—On technical point.—In a review case the ct. will not, where the accused has pleaded guilty, upset a finding on a technical point.—R. v.

a statute prescribes a definite penalty for an offence, the imposition of a penalty other than the one prescribed is irregular, & the conviction will be set aside.—Ex p. WILSON (1877), 1 P. & B. 274.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 2.

d. Notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal—Criminal Code, R. S. C., 1906, c. 146, s. 1024.]—The law, as they think ought to have been inflicted.—R. v. ETTRIDGE, [1909] 2 K. B. 24; 78 L. J. K. B. 479; 100 L. T. 624; 73 J. P. 253; 25 T. L. R. 391; 53 Sol. Jo. 401; 22 Cox, C. C. 101; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 62, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Woodman (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 67.

5550. Sentence on breach of recognisances.—Qu.: whether under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 7, there is an appeal against conviction for breach of a recognisance.—R. v. CALLAGHAN (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 185, C. C. A.

5551. Sentence as incorrigible rogue—By quarter sessions.—R. v. BROWN, No. 5534, ante.

5552. ———.]—R. v. JOHNSON, No. 5535, ante.

5553. Order for payment of costs—Evidence as to means heard by court.—R. v. HOWARD (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

5554. Order for restitution of property.—On an appeal by prisoner against a conviction to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal in a case where an order for the restitution of stolen goods has been made, the person against whom it was made has no right, either under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 6 (2), to apply to that ct. to annul or vary such order, but can only be heard if the ct. proposes to annul or vary it.—R. v. ELLIOTT, [1908] 2 K. B. 452; 77 L. J. K. B. 812; 99 L. T. 200; 72 J. P. 285; 24 T. L. R. 645; 52 Sol. Jo. 535; 21 Cox, C. C. 666; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 15, C. C. A.

As to appeal against expulsion order.]—See ALIENS, Vol. II., pp. 193–197.

SECT. 2.—TIME LIMIT FOR APPEAL—EXTENSION OF TIME.

5555. Notice of appeal or of application for leave to appeal—On point of law.—R. v. WESTACOTT, No. 5900, post.

5556. ———.]—Where applt. was two or three days out of time in his appeal the ct. granted an extension of time to raise a point of law.—R. v. JACKSON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 166, C. C. A.

5557. ———. Ignorance of time limit.—Applt. was indicted for maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm upon Mary Pearson. He was found guilty, & sentenced to five years' penal servitude. He applied for leave to appeal, giving as a reason for the delay that he did not understand that an appeal had to be lodged within ten days, as he was completely unnerved by the severity of his sentence. An extension of time granted. Inquiries had been made about the woman Pearson. She married a man seventeen years ago, & left him to live with applt. She then left applt. & lived with another man, who bore the name of Pearson. She had been several times convicted for assaults, & was a common prostitute. She was made allowances of money by Pearson, & it was suggested that applt. went to attempt to obtain some of it. At the trial the recorder thought the woman was respectable, & that applt. had been instrumental in breaking up the power given by above sect. to a judge of the Supreme Ct. of Canada, to extend the time for the service on the A.-G. of notice of an appeal in reserved Crown case may be exercised after the expiration of the time limited by the Code for the service of such notice.—GILBERT v. R. (1907), 38 S. C. R. 207; 27 C. L. T. 158.—CAN.

e. ———. After verdict—Before sentence.—After verdict, but before sen-

PART XIV. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.
c. Sentence fixed by law.—When home:—Held: in view of the facts which had since come to the knowledge of the ct., the sentence must be reduced to eighteen months hard labour.—R. v. DICKINSON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

5558. — Appeal not entered on ground of expense.—Extension of time for appealing was allowed on the ground that at the time of his conviction applt. was under the impression that to appeal against his conviction would entail expense which he was unable to meet.—R. v. VILLARS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 246, C. C. A.

5559. — Term of detention as habitual criminal—Within discretion of Home Secretary.—R. v. ASTON (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

5560. — Effect of long delay—Discretion of court.—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal will require substantial reasons to be advanced before they will grant an extension of time for giving notice of appeal, or of application for leave to appeal, under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 7 (1), at all events where the delay is other than slight.—R. v. RHODES (1910), 74 J. P. 380; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 35, C. C. A.

Annotation.—R. v. Rigby (1923), 128 L. T. 800.

5561. — Interests of prisoner in other hands.—When the ground of an applt. for extension of time for leave to appeal is that applt. believed that his interests were in other hands, the ct. will not entertain the applt. when there has been undue delay.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 158, C. C. A.

5562. — Applt. was convicted of housebreaking, & was sentenced to imprisonment. Applt. had served that sentence & was released from prison six months before the applt. His character had been good. Applt. was a soldier, & the case had now been taken up on his behalf by some of the officers of his regiment, who had appealed to the Home Office. Some suspicion was thrown on another man in the same regiment, who had been convicted of other stealing; with the property stolen by him was found one of the articles stolen in the housebreaking for which the applt. was convicted:—Held: leave to appeal would be granted.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

5563. — When an applt. is made much out of time, the ct. will only grant it for strong reasons.—R. v. WATSON (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 45, C. C. A.

5564. — Prisoner with bad record.—R. v. HARTLEY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 218, C. C. A.

5565. — Conviction against co-offender—quashed.—R. v. PRIESTLEY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A.

5566. — Discretion of court.—If the ct. thinks that there was no case to be put to the jury it will quash the conviction.

If the ct. thinks there has been a miscarriage tence, it is too late to move for a reserved case.—R. v. PERTELLA, R. v. LEE CHUNG (1908), 14 B. C. R. 43. CAN.

1. — Effect of long delay—After sentence served.—There is no general rule that after serving his sentence a prisoner is absolutely disqualified from moving for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence. An application for a new trial on this ground must be made promptly; & the fact that, with the assent of the Crown, leave has been granted by the Supreme Ct. to move the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial does not bind the Ct. of Appeal to go into the merits of the case if the application has not been made within a reasonable time.—R. v. HUGHES (1909), 29 N. Z. L. R. 239.—N.Z.

PART XIV. SECT. 3.

5571 i. Grounds of appeal—Reference to court when insufficient.—Notice of appeal from a conviction for stealing in a dwelling-house disclosed that the only ground of appeal was whether identification could be proved by evidence of finger prints. The Registrar, considering that point of law was settled by authority, referred the appeal to the ct. for summary determination, & the ct. dismissed the appeal summarily as frivolous.—R. v. MORRIS (No. 2), [1914] S. R. Q. 274.—AUS.

of justice in respect of which there is no appeal, it will order facilities for an appeal to be given.—R. v. JACKSON & REYNOLDS (alias ROPER) (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

5567. — ——The ct. will not entertain an applt. for extension of time for leave to appeal except on strong grounds.—R. v. RIGBY (1923), 128 L. T. 800; 87 J. P. 123; 39 T. L. R. 453; 67 Sol. Jo. 681; 27 Cox, C. C. 411; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 111, C. C. A.

5568. — ——The ct. only grants an extension of time for appealing in exceptional cases.—R. v. MOORE (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

5569. — No power when sentence of death passed.—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal may amend a notice of an applt. for leave to appeal against a conviction on grounds involving questions of fact, duly given under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 7 (1), into a notice of appeal involving grounds of law only. On an applt. for leave to appeal against a conviction for murder, where it appeared there were grounds of law which could be argued in favour of applt. the ct. made such an amendment, as by sect. 7 of the Act they were prevented from extending the time for giving notice of appeal.—R. v. MEAD (1909), 73 J. P. 192; 53 Sol. Jo. 378; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

5570. — ——R. v. TWYNHAM, No. 5544, ante.

SECT. 3.—NOTICE OF APPEAL.

5571. Grounds of appeal—Reference to court when insufficient.—R. v. OLIVER, No. 5598, post.

5572. — Should be stated in notice.—Grounds of appeal should be stated in the notice of appeal & not in written statements addressed to the ct.—R. v. SIMPKINS (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

5573. — In general terms—When shorthand notes not yet available for counsel.—Even when the shorthand note of the trial is not in counsel's hands, notice of appeal must state, at least generally, the grounds & particulars relied upon.—R. v. ADLER (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 105, C. C. A.

5574. — Not stated in the notice—Must be stated to court.—When an appeal to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal is to be supported on a ground not stated in the notice, it should be mentioned in counsel's opening.—R. v. LEE KUN (1916), 32 T. L. R. 225; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 293, C. C. A.

5575. — Misdirection—Particulars must be given with notice.—Particulars of misdirection alleged as a ground of appeal should be given in the notice of appeal.

The ct. should always have particulars of the 5572 i. — Should be stated in notice.—The representative of the Crown should be served with a notice of motion setting out the grounds of appeal.—R. v. LAI PING (1904), 25 C. L. T. 22; 11 B. C. R. 102.—CAN.

5572 ii. — ——In all cases where leave to appeal is applied for, ample notice of the application must be given to the A.-G., & the notice of motion should set forth the grounds relied on.—R. v. VANBUSKIRK POIRIER (1920), 48 N. B. R. 24; 57 D. L. lt. 513.—CAN.

5575 i. — Misdirection—Particulars must be given with notice.—When, in a criminal appeal it is intended to rely on alleged misdirection, or to object misdirection complained of; but the ct. has a discretion in the matter (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. ANON. (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

Sect. 3.—Notice of appeal. Sect. 4: Sub-sects. 1 & 2, A. & B.]

5576. ———.]—Substantial particulars of misdirection or of other objections to the summing up must always be set out in, or sent to the Registrar of the Ct. of Criminal Appeal with, the notice of appeal. If required, the Registrar will ask for further & better particulars.—WYMAN v. WYMAN (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163, C. C. A.

5577. ———.]—In appeals on the ground of misdirection, the extent of the misdirection suggested should be carefully stated.—R. v. HOOLEY, MACDONALD & WALLIS (1922), 92 L. J. K. B. 78; sub nom. R. v. HOOLEY, R. v. MACDONALD, R. v. WALLIS, 127 L. T. 228; 87 J. P. 4; 38 T. L. R. 724; 27 Cox, C. C. 248; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Jones (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 95.

5578. Withdrawal of notice of abandonment of appeal.]—R. v. BARKER* (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 283, C. C. A.

5579. ———.]—The reinstatement of an abandoned appeal is entirely at the discretion of the ct.—R. v. PITMAN (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 14, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Cox (1920), 15 Cr. App. Cas. 36. Mentd. R. v. Moore (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 153.

5580. ———.]—The ct. will only exceptionally allow a notice of abandonment of appeal to be withdrawn.—R. v. COX (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 36.

5581. ———.]—Special circumstances must exist before the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will grant leave to withdraw a notice of the abandonment of an appeal & will allow the appeal to proceed.—R. v. SLOAN, R. v. WADDINGTON (1923), 87 J. P. 56; 39 T. L. R. 173; 67 Sol. Jo. 403, C. C. A.

5582. Form of notice—Application against sentence—Intention to appeal against conviction.]—If a notice of appln. for leave to appeal, though in form an appln. as to sentence, is in fact intended as an appln. against conviction, the ct. may treat it as such.—R. v. MILBURN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 152, C. C. A.

5583. Amendment of notice—From fact to point of law.]—R. v. MEAD*, No. 5569, ante.

SECT. 4.—PROCEDURE AT HEARING.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

5584. Leave must be obtained when necessary.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not hear an appeal against conviction for which its leave is necessary, unless such leave has been formally asked.—R. v. SCHEFFER (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 1.

5585. Presence of appellant—Appeal involving questions of fact.]—Where an appeal to the Ct.

of Criminal Appeal involves questions of fact & prisoner desires to be present, the ct. has no power under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 11 (1), to hear the appeal in his absence.—R. v. DUNLEAVEY, [1909] 1 K. B. 200; 78 L. J. K. B. 359; 100 L. T. 240; 73 J. P. 56; 21 Cox, C. C. 760; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 212, C. C. A.

5586. Hearing in camera—Conviction for incest.]—

—Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), s. 5, applies to proceedings in the Ct. of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. PRIESTLEY (1922), 127 L. T. 221; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 143, C. C. A.

See, now, Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1922 (c. 56), s.

5587. ——— Conviction under Defence of Realm Amendment Act, 1915 (c. 34), s. 1 (3).]—R. v. M.* (1915), 32 T. L. R. 1; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

5588. ———.]—ANON. (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 281, C. C. A.

5589. Adjournment of appeal—Judge at trial a member of the court.]—The ct. has a discretion in granting an adjournment on the ground of one of its members having been the judge at the trial.—R. v. SHARMAN (alias SUTHERLAND) (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

5590. ———.]—R. v. BENNETT, R. v. NEWTON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 146; 77 J. P. Jo. 508, C. C. A.

5591. ——— To enable witness to be called.]—In a proper case the ct. will adjourn the hearing of an appln., & permit the name of a prospective witness not to be mentioned in public if it is duly supplied to the registrar.—R. v. GORDON, HICKSON, WILLIS & HARRIS (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 237, C. C. A.

5592. ——— For trial of further indictments.]—R. v. LAYCOCK* (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 209, C. C. A.

5593. ——— Notice of intended application to be given.]—An appln. for adjournment of a case likely to last some time should be notified to the ct. some days before its sitting.—R. v. ROBERTS (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 252.

5594. Only one counsel heard—For appellant.]—R. v. WEAVER* (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 12; 72 J. P. Jo. 256, C. C. A.

5595. ———.]—The ct. will only hear one counsel for applt.—R. v. REYNOLDS (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

5596. Duty of counsel—As to personal investigation of facts.]—Counsel ought not to inform the ct. of any facts he has personally investigated in the course of preparing the appeal.—R. v. BENJAMIN (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 146, C. C. A.

5597. Separate judgments may be delivered.]—R. v. KERR* (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 165, C. C. A.

5598. Summary determination of appeals—Neither side represented—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 15 (2).]—R. v. OLIVER* (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 45; 72 J. P. Jo. 340, C. C. A.

5599. ———.]—R. v. RYE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

5600. Application to single judge—Reference to

to the summing up of a judge at the trial, substantial particulars of the misdirection & of any other objection to the summing up must be clearly stated in the notice of the appeal, or sent to the Registrar with the notice of the appeal.—R. v. TEMPLETON, [1922] St. R. Qd. 165.—AUS.

g. Amendment of notice—Adding grounds of appeal.]—Prisoner gave notice of appeal within the specified time. Counsel was assigned to prisoner after that time. On hearing of the appeal, counsel moved to amend the notice of appeal by adding several additional grounds of appeal, & the ct. granted leave.—R. v. WALKER (No. 1) (1915), S. R. Q. 115.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 1.

h. Presence of appellant.]—Where a person is detained in a State gaol under a sentence of a State Ct., the High Ct. has no jurisdiction to order him to be allowed to come before the High Ct. in order that he may personally apply for leave to appeal from a judgment of a court of that State.—HORWITZ v. CONNOR (1908), 6 C. L. R. 38.—AUS.

k. ———.]—R. v. RIEL* (No. 1) (1885), 1 Terr. L. R. 20.—CAN.

l. ———.]—R. v. GLASS* (1877), 21 L. C. J. 245.—CAN.

m. Right to begin.]—On special cases reserved at Criminal Trials, the party at whose instance the case has been reserved has the right to begin.—R. v. ROBERTS (1886), 12 V. L. R. 135.—AUS.

n. Only one counsel heard—On either side.]—In reserved criminal cases, only one counsel will be heard on either

5. Sentence ordered to run from date of conviction—Bail pending appeal—[Escape.]—Deft. was convicted of assault & sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment. He entered upon his sentence, but on the following day was admitted to bail pending an appeal which was heard six weeks later, when it was held that the appeal did not lie. Deft. was in ct. & left without

Sect. 4.—Procedure at hearing: Sub-sect. 2, B. Sect. 5: Sub-sect. 1, A. & B.; sub-sect. 2, A.]

5620. ———.]—If leave to appeal against sentence is obtained by misrepresentation, sentence will not run from the date of conviction.—R. v. FENLEY (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 118, C. C. A.

5621. ———.]—Sentence of imprisonment in second division.]—In the case of first offenders sentenced to imprisonment in the second division the ct. is inclined to allow sentence to run from the date of conviction.—R. v. DYER, BELLAMY & WAKEFIELD (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 174, C. C. A.

5622. ———.]—The ct. leans to allowing sentences of imprisonment in the second division to run from the date of conviction.

Resps. are not entitled to be heard on applns. for such relief.—R. v. MASON (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 126; 84 J. P. Jo. 5, C. C. A.

5623. ———.]—Time in prison awaiting trial reckoned.]—R. v. GULSTON, No. 5611, ante.

5624. ———.]—R. v. RANGLES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 194, C. C. A.

5625. ———.]—Not on ground of good character.]—Previous good character is not a ground for allowing sentence to run from conviction.—R. v. O'SULLIVAN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 35, C. C. A.

5626. ———.]—Not where appeal adjourned to suit counsel.]—Where an appln. for leave to appeal is deferred to suit the convenience of counsel & is afterwards heard & dismissed, the ct. will not order the sentence to date from the conviction.—R. v. PARK, R. v. HILL (1915), 32 T. L. R. 157; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 304, C. C. A.

5627. ———.]—Although prosecution not represented.]—When the ct. is satisfied that a verdict was reasonable in view of the proved facts, it will not grant leave to appeal because the judge did not direct the jury on the alleged absence of motive on deft.'s part or refer to his previous good character.

The Ct. of Criminal Appeal, on dismissing an appln. for leave for appeal, may, notwithstanding that the prosecution is not represented, order that the sentence imposed on appt. shall run from the date of conviction.—R. v. BROWNHILL (1912), 29 T. L. R. 156; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 118; 76 J. P. Jo. 616, C. C. A.

5628. ———.]—Prosecution not entitled to be heard on application.]—R. v. MASON, No. 5622, ante.

5629. Sentence ordered to run from date of entry of case in list—Adjournments.]—R. v. BOYD interference, remaining at large for three months, when he was re-arrested & taken to gaol to complete his sentence.—Held: (1) re-arrest was justified, for his failure to return to custody when his appeal failed constituted in law an escape, & made him liable to serve the uncompleted portion of the original sentence, as well as to the punishment, if any, to be awarded for the escape itself; (2) having obtained his liberty on bail on his own motion pending the appeal, he could not be heard to say, though the proceedings were not justified, that he had not been out on bail during this period, which, therefore, was not to be reckoned as part of his sentence.—R. v. RAPP (1914), 31 O. L. R. 117.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

5630 i. Whether court will review verdict.—The ct. has no inclination to control or interfere with the verdict of a jury, where there is conflicting or circumstantial evidence, & the case has been legally tried & properly & fairly submitted to them.—R. v. DOWSEY (1866), 2 Old. 93.—CAN.

5630 ii. ———.]—A question of fact or of mixed fact & law, can not be dealt with by the ct.—R. v. WAKELYN (1913), 23 W. L. R. 807; 10 D. L. R. 455; 4 W. W. R. 170; 21 Can. Crim. Cas. 111.—CAN.

5630 iii. ———.]—Under Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 418, an appeal in a case tried by a jury lies on matters of law only, & the ct. has no power to try the accused on matters of fact.—WAFADAR KHAN v. R. (1894), 1 L. R. 21 Calc. 955.—IND.

5630 iv. ———.]—On an application by a convicted person to the Supreme Ct. under The Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 416, for leave to apply to the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, the judge should consider whether there is a reasonable prospect of the Ct. of Appeal granting a new trial. If it is clearly not arguable that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, the application ought to be refused.—R. v. BRODERSON (1905), 25 N. Z. L. R. 861.—N.Z.

t. ———.]—Where dissent in court below.]—In a criminal appeal, it is (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 64; 72 J. P. Jo. 352, C. C. A.

SECT. 5.—SCOPE OF INQUIRY.

SUB-SECT. 1.—MATTERS DEALT WITH AT TRIAL.

A. Matters left to and decided by Jury.

5630. Whether court will review verdict.—R. v. TOWLER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 34, C. C. A.

5631. ———.]—The ct. will not entertain a point submitted to the jury with a proper direction.—R. v. PAYS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 48, C. C. A.

5632. ———.]—R. v. MARTIN, No. 5993, post.

5633. ———.]—An alibi will not be re-tried by the Ct. of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. POPE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

5634. ———.]—When the defence is mistaken identity, if it is put properly to the jury the ct. will not set the verdict aside. The jury are the judges of fact. Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), was never meant to substitute another form of trial for trial by jury.—R. v. SIMPSON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 128, C. C. A.

5635. ———.]—The ct. does not sit to try cases over again (per CUR.).—R. v. JENKINS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 247, C. C. A.

5636. ———.]—R. v. EDMUNDS (1909), 25 T. L. R. 658; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 257, C. C. A.

5637. ———.]—Where the facts are all consistent with guilt, & some inconsistent with innocence, the ct. will not interfere with the verdict.—R. v. WOODBRIDGE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 321, C. C. A.

5638. ———.]—The ct. will not review a verdict when the defence of accident has been properly put before the jury.—R. v. ATHERTON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 84, C. C. A.

5639. ———.]—We do not sit to try cases where something was not proved which could have been proved, & in this case we think there was no ground whatever for saying applt. was not properly convicted (per CUR.).—R. v. SAUNDERS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 227, C. C. A.

5640. ———.]—When there has been a proper direction to the jury it is not the usual practice of this ct. to interfere with the jury's verdict & to re-try the case. It is only in very exceptional cases that this rule will be departed from.

It must not be supposed that the fact that a judge disapproved of the verdict of the jury would alone be sufficient to upset a conviction.—R. v. SCHIRAGER (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 253, C. C. A.

doubtful whether any question except that upon which there was a dissent in the court below could be reviewed on an appeal to the supreme ct.—EBERTS v. R. (1912), 47 S. C. R. 2.—CAN.

u. ———.]—Where the ct. appealed from has affirmed the refusal to reserve a case moved for at a criminal trial on two grounds, & is unanimous as to one of such grounds but not as to the other, the Supreme Ct. can only take into consideration the ground of motion in which there was dissent.—MCINTOSH v. R. (1894), 23 S. C. R. 180.—CAN.

a. ———.]—In an appeal taken to the Supreme Ct. the subject of appeal is restricted to the matters upon which there was a judicial dissent in the provincial ct.—R. v. PICARIELLO & LASSANDRO, [1923] 1 W. W. R. 1489; [1923] 2 D. L. R. 706; 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 229.—CAN.

b. Case stated must contain all facts.—A case reserved for Ct. of Appeal must contain all the findings of fact upon which the judge below based his decision.—R. v. STEERS (1918), 26 B. C. R. 334.—CAN.

5641. —.]—R. v. HANCOX, No. 5780, post.
 5642. —.]—R. v. BROWNHILL, No. 5627, ante.
 5643. —.]—R. v. HAND (1913), 48 L. Jo. 136, C. C. A.

B. Defence of Insanity.

5644. Whether appeal allowable.—R. v. JEFFERSON, No. 5513, ante.

5645. —.]—The ct. will not entertain an appln. for leave to appeal on the ground of insanity unless a strong prima facie case is made out.—R. v. JESSHOPE (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.
Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Loake (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 71; R. v. Lumb (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 263; R. v. Boss (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 71.

5646. —.]—Where a defence of insanity has been suggested but not proved, & has not been accepted by the jury, this ct. will not interfere.—R. v. ATHERLEY (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 165, C. C. A.

5647. —.]—The onus of proving insanity is upon the defence, it is not for the Ct. of Criminal Appeal, but for the jury to deal with the question of prisoner's sanity or insanity.—R. v. SMITH (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.
Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Abramovitch (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 145.

5648. —.]—Where there is conflicting evidence as to prisoner's sanity, the ct. will not interfere on the ground that the judge took a view against insanity, if he directed the jury properly on the principles which should guide them.—R. v. MARSLAND (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

5649. —.]—The ct. will not grant an appln. for leave to appeal on the ground that applt. was temporarily insane when he committed the crime, when that suggestion has been properly dealt with at the trial.—R. v. COLLINS (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

5650. —.]—When the defence of insanity has been properly left to the jury, the ct. will not as a rule reconsider the verdict.—R. v. LAW (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 246, C. C. A.

5651. —.]—When the only defence at the trial was that of insanity the ct. will not allow an appeal on the fact.—R. v. THORNLEY (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 270, C. C. A.

5652. —.]—When the defence of insanity has been set up at the trial, it is only in exceptional circumstances that this ct. will hear any further evidence on that subject.—R. v. PERRY (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 48, C. C. A.

5653. Powers of Home Secretary.—Where a defence of insanity has not been accepted by the jury at the trial, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not interfere except on conclusive proof. The large powers possessed by the Home Secretary remain untouched in any way by the Act constituting this ct.—R. v. JONES (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. True (1922), 127 L. T. 561.

5654. —.]—Where a defence of insanity has been left with a proper direction to the jury at the trial, the ct. will not act upon fresh evidence tendered to prove insanity unless legal insanity be clearly proved. The suggestion that applt.'s family history points to insanity in his case should be made to the Home Secretary.—R. v. LOAKE (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.
Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Lumb (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 263.

5655. —.]—Where, after a trial, fresh evidence as to prisoner's insanity is forthcoming, this ct. will, in its discretion, leave the case to be dealt with by the Home Secretary, if he thinks fit to do so.—R. v. LUMB (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 263, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Folld. R. v. Boss (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 71. Refd. R. v. McLaren (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 107; R. v. Tillet (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 159.

5656. —.]—R. v. Boss (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—MATTERS NOT RAISED AT TRIAL.

A. Specific Defence not raised.

5657. Whether appeal allowable.—The ct. will not entertain a defence of payment over of money not set up at the trial.—R. v. COOPER (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

5658. —.]—When the defence of insanity has been successfully set up at the trial, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not entertain an appeal on the ground that the true defence was innocence of the offence charged.

It is against the practice of the ct. to allow an appeal to be made on lines different from those followed in the ct. below (PHILLMORE, J.).—R. v. CARROLL (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 146, C. C. A.

5659. —.]—R. v. SIMPSON, No. 5979, post.

D. L. R. 121; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 261; 61 S. C. R. 608.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 2.—A.

5657 i. Whether appeal allowable.—On a charge of murder accused was convicted of manslaughter. His counsel had refrained at the trial from calling evidence of previous hostility by deceased towards the accused, apprehending that it might supply evidence of motive.—Held : a new trial should not be granted in order to enable accused to call this evidence for the purpose of showing that he acted in self-defence.—MATTSON v. R. (1919), 27 C. L. R. 176.—AUS.

5657 ii. —.]—If there is error in a judge's charge, the lack of objection to it at the time does not disable accused from taking advantage of it later.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 805.—CAN.

5657 iii. —.]—An accused person who at his trial has not pleaded the right of private defence, but has raised other pleas inconsistent with such a defence, cannot in appeal set up a case, founded upon the evidence taken at his trial that he acted in the exercise of the right of private defence.—R. v. TIMMAL (1898), 1 L. R. 21 All. 122.—IND.

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

5644 i. Whether appeal allowable.—Prisoner was convicted of attempting to murder his wife. The defence of insanity was set up, & in support the general conduct & behaviour of the prisoner about the time of the commission of the crime, & the evidence of two medical practitioners, was relied on. The jury found the prisoner guilty, stating, in reply to a question of the judge, that they had considered the evidence on the defence of insanity :—Held : the finding of the jury against the defence of insanity not only was not unreasonable, but was reasonable, & therefore the appeal dismissed.—It. v. MARINONE, [1915] S. R. Q. 14.—AUS.

5644 ii. —.]—On a charge of murder, accused set the defence of insanity but was convicted. The ct. granted a new trial on the ground that further evidence on the question of insanity was available although it could have been procured at the trial. In such cases the ct. will relax the strict rule because the accused may not be capable of properly instructing his advisers.—It. v. TUCKER (1915), 15 S. R. N. S. W. 504; 32 N. S. W. W. N. 169.—AUS.

5644 iii. —.]—Deft. was convicted of the murder of his wife, & the evidence clearly established the fact of killing, in circumstances which, in the absence of explanation, would constitute murder. The defence was, that deft. was insane. The judge refused to reserve for the opinion of the ct. sixteen questions which he was asked to reserve :—Held : there was no sufficient ground to support any of the questions except question 12, upon which it was directed that a case should be stated. Question 12 was as follows : "Was my charge to the jury that the onus was upon prisoner to satisfy them 'beyond a reasonable doubt' as to his insanity, a proper statement of the law"?—Held : the question should be answered in the negative, & a new trial should be directed.—It. v. ANDERSON (1914), 26 W. L. R. 783.—CAN.

5644 iv. —.]—On the defence of insanity on a charge of murder it is a misdirection, justifying a new trial, for the judge to instruct the jury that such defence must be established beyond a reasonable doubt. Insanity, as a defence on such charge, may be found upon a substantial preponderance in the weight of evidence. The degree of proof required is not as great as that required to overcome the presumption of innocence.—R. v. CLARK, [1921] 2 W. W. R. 446; 48 N. B. R. 342; 59

Sect. 5.—Scope of inquiry: Sub-sect. 2, A., B. & C.; sub-sect. 3.]

5660. ———.]—The ct. will not entertain a defence which was not, but which could have been, set up at the trial.—R. v. DEANE (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

5661. ———.]—A mere omission or misstatement in a summing up is not in itself a misdirection where the case has been fully heard by the jury but there is a miscarriage of justice within Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4, where the omission of misstatement is such that the jury may probably have been misled by it.

When a judge has said in the hearing of counsel & without any objection from him that a particular defence, say, consent, was not intended to be raised, applt. cannot in ordinary circumstances, rely on that defence on appeal (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. WANN (1912), 107 L. T. 462; 76 J. P. 269; 28 T. L. R. 240; 23 Cox, C. C. 183; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. May (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 63.

5662. ———.]—The ct. will not entertain a case for applt. inconsistent with the defence set up at the trial.—R. v. PHILPOT (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 140, C. C. A.

5663. ———.]—Where, on a trial for murder, the defence was accident, the ct. will not entertain an appeal on the ground that there was sufficient provocation to reduce the crime to manslaughter.—R. v. FITZGIBBONS (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 264, C. C. A.

5664. ———.]—Appln. for leave to appeal granted where, in exceptional circumstances, an important point for the defence was not taken, but refused on a point which could have been taken at the trial.—R. v. LEE (1910), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 67, C. C. A.

5665. ———.]—Alibi.—Defence of alibi not set up at the trial must not be set up on appeal.—R. v. BEAUCHAMP (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 20, C. C. A.

5666. ———.]—Insanity.—R. v. ATKINS, No. 5703, post.

5667. ———.]—R. v. DE VERE, No. 5516, ante.

5668. ———.]—Where evidence for the defence as to the state of prisoner's mind can be called at the trial, the ct. will not hear that evidence unless, perhaps, insanity is alleged.—

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 2.—B.

5674i. Whether appeal allowable.—It is the right & duty of the ct. to take into consideration objections to the record not put forward by counsel, as also answers, not adduced by the Crown, to points, which have been taken for the defence.—It. v. NASH & FORBES (1855), 2 Legge, 905.—AUS.

5674ii. ———.]—While it is well established that in a proper case the ct. will not refuse to grant a new trial in a case of felony because counsel for the defence did not take the objection at the trial, deliberate withholding of objection to something which might be remedied at the trial ought to be discountenanced; & where the objection is one having reference to practice & procedure, failure to take it ought, unless in very exceptional circumstances, to be an answer to the objection when afterwards urged.—It. v. WALKER & CHINLEY (1910), 13 W. L. R. 47.—CAN.

5674iii. ———.]—Objections to the reception of evidence as to confessions not having been raised when the evidence was tendered, it was not open to prisoner to raise them after verdict.—R. v. HOO SAM (1912), 20 W. L. R. 571; 1 W. W. R. 1049.—CAN.

R. v. BRADLEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

5669. ———.]—R. v. DENCH, No. 5515, ante.

5670. ———.]—Upon an indictment for felonious wounding, applt. was found guilty, but insane. At the trial applt., who was undefended, pleaded that what he did was done in self-defence. The only question which the judge left to the jury was whether applt. was insane:—Held: applt.'s defence, however weak, should have been left to the jury; failure to so leave it amounted to a miscarriage of justice; & therefore the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. HILL (1911), 105 L. T. 751; 76 J. P. 49; 28 T. L. R. 15; 22 Cox, C. C. 625; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 416.

5671. ———.]—The ct. will not, as a rule, entertain a defence of insanity not set up at the trial.—R. v. McLAREN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 107, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Alexander (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 139.

5672. ———.]—R. v. ALEXANDER (1913), 109 L. T. 745; 23 Cox, C. C. 604; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 139; 77 J. P. Jo. 483, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Gilbert (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1424; It. v. Lesbini, [1914] 3 K. B.

5673. ———.]—The ct. declines to receive evidence of insanity when it has not been offered in defence at the trial.—R. v. TELLETT (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

B. Point of Law not taken.

5674. Whether appeal allowable.—R. v. ROSE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 265, C. C. A.

5675. ———.]—Effect of proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).—R. v. RAWLINGS, No. 6149, post.

5676. ———.]—A conviction may be quashed on a point of law not taken at the trial.—R. v. BOUGHTON (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

5677. ———.]—R. v. SHAW (1911), 104 L. T. 112; 75 J. P. 191; 27 T. L. R. 181; 22 Cox, C. C. 376; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 103, C. C. A.

5678. ———.]—The ct. may give effect to a point of law which might have been taken for the defence at the trial.—R. v. WILKS (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 16, C. C. A.

5674 iv. ———.]—A conviction for adultery on two counts of an indictment, the first charging an offence on Sept. 16, 1913, & the second an offence on Mar. 14, 1914, will not be quashed on a case reserved on objection that the evidence adduced in support of the second count was not admissible in support of the first, if the accused failed to avail himself of the privilege of applying to have each count tried separately.—It. v. STRONG (1915), 43 N. B. R. 190.—CAN.

5674 v. ———.]—On trial of accused evidence was given of a confession by him. The Crown refused to call as a witness a third party who was present when the alleged confession was made. The judge refused to compel the Crown to call all its witnesses with regard to the alleged confession & take all the evidence thereon before admitting it in evidence. The main trial then proceeded & in the course of it accused's counsel himself called the third party as a witness with regard to the alleged confession. The Ct. of Appeal dismissed a motion on behalf of accused under Criminal Code, s. 1015, for leave to appeal from the Judge's refusal to reserve the question of the proper admission of the confession.—R. v. GAUTHIER, [1921] 2 W. W. R. 1.—CAN.

5674 vi. ———.]—If an objection exists, whether to the charge of the Judge or to the reception of evidence, the objection must be taken at the time, & taken in a specific, tangible shape, so that it may not be misunderstood.—It. v. O'CONNELL (1844), 7 L. R. 261, 332.—IR.

5674 vii. ———.]—Where an indictment is informal, but accused is not thereby prejudiced in his defence, & does not raise any objection on that ground at trial, the ct. will not on appeal quash a conviction merely on the ground of such informality.—It. v. WANG YUNG SHAN (1905), T. S. 397.—S. AF.

5674 viii. ———.]—Where an indictment charged accused with the contravention of one of three closely related sects. of a certain statute, which sects. had all to be referred to for a complete definition of the offence intended to be charged, the sect. mentioned only providing the penalty to be imposed for a commission of such offence, & accused, pleading to the merits, at trial took no objection to, & suffered no prejudice in consequence of, the error:—Held: the indictment was sufficient to sustain a conviction of such offence.—DENNILL v. R. (1905), T. S. 100.—S. AF.

5679. —.]—R. v. METZ, No. 6152, post.

5680. —.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not entertain an objection to the admissibility of evidence, if the objection was not taken at the trial when the evidence was tendered, although it was taken during the opening speech of counsel for the prosecution.—R. v. SANDERS, [1919] 1 K. B. 550; 88 L. J. K. B. 982; 120 L. T. 573; 26 Cox, C. C. 390; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 9, C. C. A.

C. Other Cases.

5681. Defence reserved before magistrates—Not fully investigated at trial.—(1) If deft. reserves his defence before the magistrate, so that his defence at the trial has not been investigated, the ct. will not review the case on that ground. Otherwise, perhaps, if he has so acted by legal advice.

(2) A conviction will not be quashed because, in a conflict of testimony, the jury might have come to an opposite conclusion.—R. v. McNAIR (1909), 25 T. L. R. 228; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 2, C. C. A.

5682. Charge of serious offence—Verdict of lesser offence—Omission of defence to deal with lesser offence.—R. v. DONOVAN & HURLEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 3.—EXAMINATION BY AND REPORTS TO THE COURT.

5683. Examination of handwriting.—In this case the question was one of identity. At the trial there was a considerable conflict of oral evidence. The Ct. of Criminal Appeal compared the writing of the real culprit with that of applt. written at the trial, on his notice of appeal, & in prison, & expressed the opinion that the two sets of writing were by a different hand. On that ground & on the ground that the differences between the handwriting of applt. at the trial & that of the real culprit were not adequately & clearly dealt with in the summing up, they quashed the conviction.—R. v. SMITH (1909), 74 J. P. 54; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 87, C. C. A.

5684. —.]—(1) On an issue as to handwriting, the ct. may inform itself by examining the notice of appeal which is in applt.'s handwriting.

(2) Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied in the case of a summing up which was inadequate because it did not put the whole of the defence to the jury.—R. v. TOTTY (1914), 111 L. T. 167; 24 Cox, C. C. 227; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (2) Refd. R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 416.

5685. Examination of finger prints.—Where necessary the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will examine finger prints alleged to be those of applt.—R. v. BACON (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 90, C. C. A.

5686. Reference to depositions.—R. v. HILLMAN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

5687. —.]—(1) Misdirection on part of the case for the prosecution is not a ground for quashing a conviction unless there has been a substantial miscarriage of justice.

(2) The ct. may look at the depositions taken before the magistrate though they were not put in at the trial.—R. v. MONK (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

5688. —.]—R. v. HANCOX, No. 5780, post.

5689. —.]—Where there is some evidence to go to the jury, the ct. will, if necessary, look at the depositions.—R. v. METCALFE (1913), as reported in 9 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

5690. — Coroner's depositions not put in at trial.—B. kept an establishment or home for the reception of mental defectives, & the business & financial arrangements of the home were managed on her behalf by applt. In 1915 B. had a paralytic stroke, & shortly afterwards she executed a general power of attorney in favour of applt. which placed him in full financial control of the establishment. B., however, continued to look after the management of the home, & the welfare of its inmates. In Jan. 1919 one of the inmates died. The evidence given at the coroner's inquest showed that death was due to neglect & starvation. B. & applt. were charged with the manslaughter of deceased. Applt. was convicted at the trial, & sentenced to imprisonment. B. was found unfit to plead, & ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. On the facts disclosed at the trial, & shown by the coroner's depositions, put in by leave of the ct., on appeal:—Held: there was no evidence that applt. had undertaken a duty amounting to the charge of the inmates of the home, & on this ground the conviction of applt. was quashed. Under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 9 (a), the ct. has power to receive as fresh evidence depositions in a coroner's ct. not put in at the trial.—R. v. HALL (1919), 122 L. T. 31; 84 J. P. 56; 26 Cox, C. C. 525; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 58, C. C. A.

5691. Order for inquiries & report—For information of court.—In a proper case the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will order inquiries to be made for its information.—R. v. HUGHES (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

5692. — By special commissioner—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 9 (d).—R. v. HOLT (1920), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 152, C. C. A.

5693. — By police—Copy of report to be supplied to appellant.—(1) Police reports made by order of the ct. should be supplied to applt.

(2) As a general rule the ct. will not allow a witness who could have been called at the trial to be called on appeal.

(3) When an applt. is made for leave to appeal & to give fresh evidence, & names have been given, we cannot admit the evidence of persons whose names were not given when the applt. was made (PICKFORD, J.).—R. v. BROWN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

5694. Order for production of documents—Not

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 2.—C.

c. Objection to charge of judge—On grounds of misdirection or non-direction.—The rule is the same in criminal as in civil cases, at any rate where prisoner is defended by counsel, that any objection to the charge of the presiding judge, either for non-direction or for misdirection, must be taken at the trial, & if not then taken it cannot be afterwards raised, especially where the evidence fully sustains the verdict.—R. v. FICK (1866), 16 C. P. 379.—CAN.

d. Question put to accused.—The ct. cannot, in a suspension of a conviction on a summary complaint, enter into an inquiry as to the exact question which had been put to the complainant when no objection had been taken at the time.—ANDERSON v. MCFARLANE (1899), 1 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 36.—SCOT.

e. Admissions by accused.—In a suspension of a conviction the complainant stated that he had while in prison been interrogated by police constables, & that their evidence as to his answers had been illegally admitted at the trial. Prosecutor denied that the police had interrogated the complainant, but stated that the complainant had voluntarily made certain admissions to the police, & that evidence of these admissions had been led at the trial. No objection to this evidence was taken in the inferior ct.:—Held: the bill must be refused.—RUSSELL v. PATON (1902), 4 F. (Ct. of Sess.) 77; 39 Sc. L. R. 647; 10 S. L. T. 94.—SCOT.

PART XIV. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 3.

f. Report & notes of judge.—There is no general rule that the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will in no case look at any thing except the trial judge's report & notes of the trial. Where it is quite plain that a mistake has been made by the judge other evidence will be regarded.—R. v. STORER, [1916] V. L. R. 285.—AUS.

Sect. 5.—Scope of inquiry: Sub-sect. 3. Sect. 6: Sub-sects. 1, 2 & 3.]

produced at trial.—If necessary, the ct. will order documents that ought to have been forthcoming at the trial to be produced.—R. v. EVANS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 15, C. C. A.

5695. Medical report made on examination before act committed.—R. v. COELHO, No. 6218, post.

5696. Report by Clerk of Assize—As to his discussions with jury.—On the trial of a prisoner at assizes, some time after the jury had retired to consider their verdict, the clerk of assize went to their room & asked if they had agreed or were likely to agree. The jury then put some questions to him, & he answered them & a discussion took place. Later he visited the jury again, & a further discussion took place. Eventually the jury found prisoner guilty:—Held: evidence from the jury-men to prove the above facts was inadmissible, but the ct. could act upon a report made by the clerk of assize, & as it was impossible to say that but for the discussions & the advice given by him the jury would have come to an unanimous conclusion, the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. WILLMONT (1914), 78 J. P. 352; 30 T. L. R. 499; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 173, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Ellis v. Deheer (1922), 127 L. T. 431. Refd. Goby v. Wetherill (1915), 113 L. T. 502.

SECT. 6.—CALLING FRESH EVIDENCE.

SUB-SECT. 1.—PROCEDURE.

5697. Whether application necessary—Discretion of court.—The ct. though refusing an appln. to call further evidence, may, at its discretion, give leave on the appeal.—R. v. GROSVENOR (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 230, C. C. A.

5698. Names of new witnesses—Must be disclosed to court.—R. v. LOVETT & HIPPERSON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 94, C. C. A.; subsequent proceedings, 1 Cr. App. Rep. 111, C. C. A.

5699. ——— Effect of non-disclosure.—R. v. BROWN, No. 5693, ante.

5700. Nature of evidence must be stated.—R. v. LOVETT & HIPPERSON, No. 5698, ante.

5701. ————The nature of the evidence of the new witnesses must be disclosed to the ct. & to the registrar.—R. v. GOWLETT (alias WOODFORD) (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 204.

5702. ————The ct. will not as a rule give leave to call a witness the nature of whose information is not disclosed.—R. v. GORDON, HICKSON, WILLIS & HARRIS (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 246, C. C. A.

5703. ——— Whether on affidavit.—Solr. & counsel having been assigned to applt., & an appln. being made on his behalf for leave to call further witnesses, who had not been called at the trial, the ct. said that in such a case the evidence of the suggested witnesses should be placed before the ct. on affidavit. The question of the insanity of prisoner was not raised in the ct. below.—R. v. ATKINS (1908), 24 T. L. R. 807; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 45, 69; 72 J. P. Jo. 340, 352, C. C. A.

5704. ————R. v. DUNTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 165; 72 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

5705. ————R. v. HANCOX, No. 5780, post.

5706. Solicitor assigned—To take proofs.—When it is necessary to take proofs of fresh witnesses the ct. will assign a solr.—R. v. HEWSON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

5707. Proofs of proposed witnesses should be prepared.—An applt. for leave to call further evidence should be prepared with proofs of the evidence of the proposed witnesses.—R. v. MARCUS (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 187, C. C. A.

5708. Witnesses must be in attendance.—R. v. COLEMAN, No. 5975, post.

5709. Witnesses must be out of court till called.—

Persons proposed to be called as witnesses, on appeal, must be out of ct. until they are called.—R. v. MILLER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 213, C. C. A.

5710. Whether cross-examination of witness allowed—Misunderstanding at trial.—R. v. EAST (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 205, C. C. A.

5711. ——— Credit of witness involved.—The ct. may give leave to cross-examine a witness on matters of credit which could not be the subject of contradiction at the trial. If a direction is wholly insufficient a conviction may be quashed.—R. v. HAMILTON (1917), 118 L. T. 180; 26 Cox, C. C. 157; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 32, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—WHEN LEAVE WILL BE GIVEN.

5712. Omission to call evidence at trial due to misunderstanding.—R. v. GRAY (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 154, C. C. A.

5713. ————R. v. REEN & LINTOTT (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 310, C. C. A.

5714. ————Conviction quashed on the ground that there was a strong probability that if the evidence of certain witnesses for prisoner who, when the case was heard, were absent through a misunderstanding had been before the jury prisoner would have been acquitted.—R. v. NICHOLSON (1909), 73 J. P. 347; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 195; sub nom. R. v. HENDRY, 25 T. L. R. 635, C. C. A.

5715. ————Leave to call evidence granted where there was reason to think that all the evidence which might have been called at the trial was not exhausted.—R. v. GARNHAM (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 150, C. C. A.

5716. ————R. v. SCHMIDT (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 288, C. C. A.

5717. ————The ct. will allow evidence to be given, which might have been given at the trial, if it is satisfied that the omission was due to a misunderstanding on deft.'s part.—R. v. WARREN (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

5718. Witness called at trial did not answer to his name.—Conviction quashed on the ground that the defence was not properly put to the jury.

In this case we give leave to appeal & also leave to call C. who was called at the trial, but being too late did not answer to his name (BRAY, J.).—R. v. RICHARDS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 161, C. C. A.

5719. ————R. v. WITTON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

5720. Adjournment of trial refused.—R. v. FARINGTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

5721. On question of identity.—X. obtained a horse by false pretences from J. on Nov. 17, at a horse fair. G. was arrested for the offence on Aug. 5, 1908. J. identified G. as being X.; but J.'s man, who had as good if not a better opportunity of seeing X. at the fair, was unable to identify G. as the man. There was no controversy as to G. being at the fair on Nov. 17. A hand-writing expert stated that the cheque given by X. to J. at the fair & a cheque written by G. at the police ct. on his own request, were written by the same person. For the defence, one witness said that G. was with him at the fair at the time the offence was committed, & he did not commit it Another witness said that a man, not G., had given him the horse to take away, & a third witness said that he saw a man, not G., commit the offence. G. was convicted. On appeal, a detective-sergeant was called by leave of the ct., who said that the description of X. given to the police about a fortnight after the offence was committed, was that of another man, B. The description gave the height of X. as 5' 6" or 7". G. was about 5' 3" in height, a very short man. The ct. quashed the conviction, having regard to the evidence given on appeal.—R. v. BETHIDGE (1908), 73 J. P. 71; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 236, C. C. A.

5722. —.]—Fresh evidence will be heard when the evidence of identification is unsatisfactory.—R. v. GILLING (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

5723. Defence of alibi.—R. v. LAWS (1908), 72 J. P. 271; 24 T. L. R. 630; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 6, C. C. A.

5724. —.]—R. v. MALVISI (1909), 73 J. P. 392; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 251, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.

5725. —.]—R. v. KEYS (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 210, C. C. A.

5726. —.]—R. v. WARREN, No. 5717, ante.

5727. Mistake in summing up at trial.—Leave was given to call further evidence in view of an alleged mistake in summing up.—R. v. CROOK (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 57, C. C. A.

5728. —.]—Applt. was convicted on an indictment which charged him under Larceny Act, 1901 (c. 10), with the fraudulent conversion of a sum of money entrusted to him for safe custody. At the trial the judge suggested to the jury the possibility of a criminal conspiracy between prisoner & a person not called as a witness, & the Ct. of Criminal Appeal allowed him to be called on the appeal. In such case if his evidence is satisfactory the ct. will if it believes the jury might have been influenced thereby quash the conviction.—R. v. HALL (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 221, C. C. A.

5729. Perjured testimony at trial.—R. v. DONOVAN & HURLEY, No. 5682, ante.

5730. Evidence affecting character of witness for prosecution.—The ct. will not quash a conviction when evidence is forthcoming, after the trial, of previous convictions of a material witness for the prosecution, unless those convictions affect his credibility.—R. v. HAMPSHIRE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 212, C. C. A.

5731. Additional facts ascertained since trial.—Witnesses are only allowed to be called when additional facts have come to light since the date of trial (per CUR.).—R. v. PITCHFORTH (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 249, C. C. A.

5732. —.]—R. v. JONES (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 88, 102, C. C. A.

PART XIV. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 2.

5731 i. Additional facts ascertained since trial.—On application under Crimes Act (No. 2657), 1915, s. 593 (c), for leave for a new trial on the ground that evidence of prisoner's innocence not previously available was now obtained. Three of the proposed witnesses were follow-prisoners who had refused to give evidence at the trial. One of the proposed witnesses was a convicted person who was not called at the trial because a constable had advised prisoner not to call him; another of them could not be found at the time of the trial. The ct. regarding the circumstances as special, itself heard the witnesses proposed to be called, & thereupon quashed the conviction & ordered a new trial.—R. v. ENNOR, [1916] V. L. R. 376.—AUS.

J.—VOL. XIV.

g. Affidavits of persons present at hearing.—Where a conviction is attacked upon the ground that it was made without evidence & in the absence of a plea of guilty, a question of fact arises which, like all other disputed questions of fact, must be determined by evidence; therefore the ct. is not restricted in its investigation to the record of the conviction but may look at the affidavits of those present at the hearing as to what actually took place thereon.—R. v. BARLOW, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 499; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 381.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 3.

5740 i. Where witness might have been called at trial.—On a charge of murder accused was convicted of manslaughter. His counsel had refrained at the trial

5733. —.]—Conviction quashed in view of fresh evidence not available at the trial.—R. v. MURPHY (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

5734. —.]—In a proper case the ct. will hear fresh relevant evidence about the character of prosecutrix which was not forthcoming at the trial.—R. v. GREENBERG (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 106, C. C. A.

5735. Evidence of nationality—Order for expulsion of alien.—On the question whether an expulsion order should be recommended, the ct. will hear evidence on the point whether applt. is an alien or not.—R. v. FERGUSON (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 24, C. C. A.

5736. —.]—If there is any uncertainty at the trial whether applt. is an alien the ct. will hear evidence on the point.—R. v. COLLINS (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 244, C. C. A.

5737. On appeal against sentence.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 150, C. C. A.

5738. To allow appellant to supplement his own evidence.—R. v. WESTLAKE (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

5739. Only in exceptional circumstances.—This ct. has to be convinced of very exceptional circumstances before it will reconsider the verdict of a jury in the light of fresh evidence which has not been laid before the jury & which in some cases might have been put before the jury at the trial (DARLING, J.).—R. v. MASON (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 160, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 3.—WHEN LEAVE WILL BE REFUSED.

5740. Where witness might have been called at trial.—R. v. HARTLEIGH (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

5741. —.]—Appln. to call further evidence where applt. could have asked to have the witnesses called at the trial, refused.—R. v. JONES (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 27, C. C. A.

5742. —.]—Persons who could have been called at the trial cannot be called in this ct. to make out a new case.—R. v. SOPER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

5743. —.]—The ct. will not as a rule hear witnesses who ought to, & could have been called at the trial.—R. v. WINKWORTH (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 129, C. C. A.

5744. —.]—If applt. is represented at the trial & his counsel deliberately refrains from calling witnesses, leave will not be granted to appeal in order that they may be called.—R. v. WATKINS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 183, C. C. A.

5745. —.]—The ct. will not readily hear witnesses who were at the trial & were not called.—R. v. PERRY & HARVEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

from calling evidence of previous hostility by deceased towards accused, counsel apprehending that it might supply evidence of a motive for the murder:—Held: a new trial should not be granted in order to enable accused to call this evidence for the purpose of showing that he acted in self-defence.—MATTSON v. IT. (1919), 27 C. L. R. 176.—AUS.

5740 ii. —.]—Before the ct. will entertain applications for leave to call fresh evidence some satisfactory reason must be given why witnesses were not called at the trial; evidence must be material, & if given might have affected the result. Where no proofs of witness's evidence were produced ct. refused application.—R. v. EYLES (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 377; 23 C. L. R. 1.—AUS.

Sect. 3.—Calling fresh evidence: Sub-sects. 3, 4

5746. —.]—R. v. MORAN (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A.

5747. —.]—R. v. BROWN, No. 5693, ante.

5748. —.]—Witnesses who could have been called at the trial will not be called on appeal.—R. v. ALLEN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

5749. —.]—Where people know of the existence of a witness, but take no trouble to call him, & the fact turns out that on some point his evidence would be more material than originally appeared, that is not a reason for allowing that witness to be called on appeal (PICKFORD, J.).—R. v. HEWITT (1912), as reported in 7 Cr. App. Rep. 219, C. C. A.

5750. —.]—The general rule that witnesses who might have been called at the trial & were not, will not be called in the ct. above will be enforced with strictness when the defence is an alibi & applt. reserves his defence before the justices, & the more so where prisoner was on bail & knew the names of the witnesses he wished to call.—R. v. TREVARTHEN (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.

5751. —.]—It is not a misdirection to tell the jury, when prisoner on oath contradicts a witness on a crucial point, that their verdict should depend on the question which of the two they believed. When counsel has elected not to call certain persons as witnesses at the trial, as a rule, they will not be allowed to be called on appeal.—R. v. LIVOCK (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 264, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.

5752. —.]—The ct. will not hear a witness whom applt. deliberately declined to call at the trial.—R. v. WEISZ (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

5753. —.]—Inability to pay expenses.—The ct. is not disposed to hear witnesses on the plea that deft. could not afford to call them at the trial, as, in a proper case, the police will pay their expenses.—R. v. MACK (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 114, C. C. A.

5754. —.]—Unless good reason for omission given.—Permission to call fresh witnesses is not given unless some reason is given why they were not called at the trial (LORD ALVERSTONE, L.J.).—R. v. MARTIN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.

5755. —.]—The ct. will not, as a rule, permit a witness who could have been called at the trial, but was not, to be examined on the appeal.—R. v. McGERLYNCHIE (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 183, C. C. A.

5756. —.]—Except in special circumstances.—Only in exceptional cases will the ct. hear witnesses who, without good reason, were not called at the trial. On an indictment for obtaining by false pretences there must be a direction on the guilty knowledge of each obtaining.—R. v. DUTT (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 51, C. C. A.

5757. —.]—R. v. PERRY, No. 5652, ante.

5758. —.]—R. v. STARKIE, No. 5522, ante.

5761 i. Appellant who has not given evidence at trial.—The High Ct. declined on appeal to receive evidence which was available on the trial below when prisoner deliberately elected not to give evidence in reply to the case made against him.—R. v. MADHUB CHUNDER GIRI (1873), 21 W. R. 13.—IND.

5766 i. Where evidence would not have affected the verdict.—Accused were convicted of having in their possession without lawful excuse a forged Commonwealth Security, to wit, a £5 note, & also with having the note with intent to defraud. Accused applied for leave to appeal on the grounds (inter alia) that fresh evidence was forthcoming, such evidence being in support of an alibi.—Held: the further evidence submitted was not of such a nature as would justify the re-opening of the case, & there was nothing to show that there had been any injustice.—STEELE v. R. (1919), 22 W. A. L. R. 22.—AUS.

5772 i. Attempt to supplement case

5759. —.]—Except in case of insanity.—R. v. BRADLEY, No. 5668, ante.

5760. Where witness refused to attend at trial.—R. v. FLATELEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

5761. Appellant who has not given evidence at trial.—Prisoner who sets up an alibi & does not go into the box cannot ordinarily expect his appln. to be granted.—R. v. MACK (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 132, C. C. A.

5762. —.]—R. v. RUBENS (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 163; 73 J. P. Jo. 240, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.

5763. —.]—R. v. MALVISI, No. 5724, ante.

5764. —.]—Deft. who has not given evidence on his trial will not be allowed to do so on appeal.—R. v. KING (1914), as reported in 10 Cr. App. Rep. 44, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.
Mentd. R. v. Creamer (1919), 35 T. L. R. 281.

5765. —.]—The rule of the ct. is not to hear applts. who did not give evidence below.—R. v. ROSE (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14, C. C. A.

5766. Where evidence would not have affected the verdict.—R. v. ROUMILLEN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A.

5767. —.]—R. v. FLUELLIN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 30, C. C. A.

5768. —.]—R. v. HILLARY (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 153, C. C. A.

5769. —.]—The ct. will not hear fresh evidence if it is satisfied from the proofs of the proposed witnesses that their evidence would not have affected the result of the trial.—R. v. BRINSLEY (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 102, C. C. A.

5770. —.]—Appln. for leave to appeal refused when the ct. was of opinion that fresh evidence tendered would not have affected the verdict.—R. v. CALDWELL (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 151, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.]

5771. —.]—The ct. will allow further evidence to be called only when it is satisfied that the evidence would or might have induced the jury to form a different opinion on the guilt of applt.—R. v. GROSVENOR (1914), 111 L. T. 1116; 24 Cox, C. C. 468; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 235, C. C. A.

5772. Attempt to supplement case made at trial.—R. v. MORTIMER (1908), 99 L. T. 204; 72 J. P. 349; 24 T. L. R. 745; 21 Cox, C. C. 677; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 20, C. C. A.

5773. For cross-examination of witness—Not cross-examined at trial.—If deft. declines to cross-examine a witness, the ct. will not grant leave to appeal in order that the witness may be cross-examined.—R. v. DENEHURST (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 4.—WHAT EVIDENCE IS ADMISSIBLE.

5774. Letter written by prisoner—After conviction—Production of copy of destroyed letter.—After his conviction for murder prisoner wrote from the prison in which he was confined a letter made at trial.—Affidavits of facts not shown to have become known since the trial, not admissible on a motion for a new trial.—R. v. CHUBBS (1864), 14 C. P. 32.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 4.

h. Medical evidence.—A girl went to prisoner's house with the object of having an abortion procured. To achieve this purpose prisoner had sexual connection with her repeatedly on the night of her arrival & repeatedly which had a most material bearing on the case. The letter had been destroyed by the person to whom it was addressed. The prosecution gave notice to prisoner that upon the hearing of an appln. which he intended to make to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal for leave to appeal, an appln. would be made by the prosecution for leave to call witnesses for the purposes of proving the destruction of the letter & producing a copy in evidence:—Held: the evidence was admissible, & no privilege attached to the letter.—R. v. ROBINSON, [1917] 2 K. B. 108; 86 L. J. K. B. 773; 117 L. T. 160; 81 J. P. 152; 25 Cox, C. C. 762; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 226, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Rose (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 14.

5775. Written appeal for mercy—On behalf of prisoner.—R. v. WEAVER, No. 5594, ante.

5776. Not communication with Home Secretary—With reference to the appeal.—(1) On a petition to the Home Secretary, referred to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 19 (a), the ct. can only act on legal evidence given at the ct. of trial or before the Ct. of Criminal Appeal. They cannot act on communications made by third parties to the Home Secretary; but they may look at such communications to see whether they should allow evidence to be called on the matters dealt with in them.

(2) It has been suggested that because counsel for the Crown in the course of his speech to the jury commented, when dealing with one incident of the case, on the fact that prisoner's wife had not been called, & said that her evidence might have been of great importance, there was here a mistrial. Before the jury considered what their verdict was to be, counsel withdrew his observation in the presence of the jury. The judge who tried the case did not comment on the matter in his summing up; but when the matter was brought to his notice he asked the jury to pay no attention to counsel's observation. It is quite impossible for us to take the view that there had been a mistrial on the ground that that observation has been made (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).

(3) Where there has been a mistrial within the meaning of the cases, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal have the power formerly possessed by the Ct. for the Consideration of Crown Cases Reserved of issuing of writ of venire de novo.—R. v. DICKMAN (1910), 74 J. P. 449; 26 T. L. R. 640; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 135, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (3) Consd. Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

5777. Not affidavits alleging local prejudice at trial.—The ct. will not receive in evidence affidavits purporting to show that, owing to newspaper reports or other matters, local prejudice against applt. made a fair trial impossible.—R. v. WILSON, LEWIS & HAVARD (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 125, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Blatherwick (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 281; R. v. Crane (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 113; R. v. Watson (1913), 109 L. T. 335; R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77; R. v. Threlfall

gave her injections into the vagina of a hot & weak solution of a germicide. He did nothing else, & used no instrument or drug. Twenty-two hours after her arrival at his house she expelled a fetus, which was somewhat putrefied, & thereafter the prisoner gave uterine & vaginal injections of a weak solution of a germicide. The girl died a few days later of peritonitis arising from a miscarriage, & prisoner was tried for murder, & conducted his own defence. There was no evidence that the acts done by the prisoner were likely to endanger human life. Prisoner did not cross-examine medical witnesses or adduce any evidence tending to show that the putrefaction was of so advanced a stage that the death of the fetus must, or might, have occurred before the time of the girl's arrival at his house. On appeal to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal, medical evidence was admitted, which showed that it was extremely unlikely, & practically impossible, for putrefaction to the extent indicated to have occurred within twenty-four hours, & evidence was given that the acts done by prisoner were ordinarily likely to endanger human life.—R. v. WALKER (No. 1) (1915), S. R. Q. 115.—AUS.

(1914), 111 L. T. 168; Bradshaw v. Waterlow, [1915] 3 K. B. 527; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658; R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933; R. v. Wyman (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163.

5778. Not letter written by juror to trial judge—In respect of information arising after the trial.—The ct. will not take notice of a letter written by a jurymen after a trial to the trial judge; written either in respect of matters which came to his knowledge after the trial or as to matters which influenced him in coming to a conclusion with regard to the verdict.—R. v. MELIK (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 100, C. C. A.

5779. Not evidence of jurors—To prove irregularity at trial.—R. v. WILLMONT, No. 5696, ante.

5780. Evidence as to conduct of jury at trial.—On an appeal where suggestions were made as to the probability of bias on the part of two of the jurymen who tried the case, the ct. allowed evidence to be called in reference to those suggestions, but intimated that the granting of such leave must not be taken as a precedent.

The ct. has power to receive evidence on affidavit, but will not, as a rule, attach weight to such evidence unless there was opportunity to cross-examine deponent.—R. v. HANCOX (1913), 29 T. L. R. 331; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A.

5781.—The ct. should be very cautious in admitting evidence of misconduct on the part of one of the jury, & certainly should not so do unless the evidence if admitted would compel the ct. to quash the conviction, & unless the appln. for leave to call such evidence is based upon substantial information.—R. v. SYME (1914), 112 L. T. 136; 79 J. P. 40; 30 T. L. R. 691; 24 Cox, C. C. 502; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 284, C. C. A.

5782. Evidence disregarded by judge at trial.—The ct. will, if it thinks it necessary, deal with & act upon evidence disregarded by the judge at the trial.—R. v. BRAY (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 290, C. C. A.

5783. Not medical evidence—Whether convict fit to undergo corporal punishment.—The ct. will not hear medical evidence on the question whether a convict is fit to undergo corporal punishment.—R. v. DUGDALE (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 55, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 5.—EFFECT OF EVIDENCE.

5784. Conviction quashed—Where fresh evidence raises grave doubt.—This is a case of a larceny committed in a brothel. Applt. is a man who had frequented the brothel, & who had been twice previously convicted of stealing. It is easy to understand how the police, & also the prosecution, came to suspect him of the offence in question. But unless there was evidence upon which a jury of reasonable men could properly find him guilty, the verdict cannot stand. Plans of the house have been proved before us which were not before the jury. Upon the evidence given at the trial, & the plans & the evidence as to the house given before

PART XIV. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 5.

k. Duty of court.—Where the Ct. of Appeal allows evidence of innocence to be given it is the ct.'s duty to scrutinise very carefully & either quash the conviction if the new evidence is convincing, or grant a new trial if the evidence raises a case of doubt, or dismiss the appeal if the evidence appears suspicious.—R. v. SCHULZ (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 259; 30 N. S. W. W. N. 73.—AUS.

1. —]—On appeal on the ground of the discovery of fresh evidence since the trial it is the duty us, it is quite impossible to say that there was not very serious doubt as to applt.'s guilt. The probable inference from the whole of such evidence is that prosecutrix, who was the only witness who identified him could not see him from the position in which, according to the evidence, she was when she says she saw him. This conviction cannot stand (per CUR.).—R. v. OSBORNE (1908), 72 J. P. 473; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 144, C. C. A.

Sect. 6.—Calling fresh evidence: Sub-sect. 5. Sect. 7: Sub-sects. 1, 2 & 3.]

5785. ———.]—R. v. NICHOLSON, No. 5714, ante.

5786. ———.]—Where, after hearing fresh evidence, there is a grave conflict of testimony, the ct. will lean to the side of leniency, & quash a conviction.—R. v. WRIGHT, BRASSINGTON & MARSH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 284, C. C. A.

5787. ———.]—Fresh evidence raising grave doubt is ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. WALKER & MALYON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 296, C. C. A.

5788. ———.]—Where, on fresh evidence, the ct. was satisfied that the case set up by the prosecution at the trial failed, though an alternative case withdrawn from the jury at the trial might have succeeded, the conviction was quashed.—R. v. WINKWORTH (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

5789. ———.]—R. v. STOKES (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 40, C. C. A.

5790. ———.]—Conviction quashed in view of fresh evidence before the ct. & other evidence admitted by the Crown as establishing applt.'s case.—R. v. THOMPSON (alias PETTIT) (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 203, C. C. A.

5791. ———.]—If the ct. on hearing fresh evidence is of opinion that if it had been before the jury which convicted they might have acquitted, it will quash the conviction, & all the more so in a case which the trial judge has characterised as a weak case.—R. v. EDWARDS (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

5792. ———.]—R. v. WILLIAMS, No. 5561, ante.

5793. Conviction upheld—Where court consider fresh evidence would not secure acquittal.]—R. v. GERHOLD (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

5794. ———.]—The ct. dismissed an appeal where the fresh evidence called conflicted with the evidence previously called on behalf of applt., & where no jury would have altered a verdict on such fresh evidence.—R. v. DUNTON (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 191, C. C. A.

5795. ———.]—Unless the ct. is of opinion that the further evidence that has been called would have caused the jury to acquit, it will not quash a conviction.—R. v. JACKSON (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 93, C. C. A.

SECT. 7.—DETERMINATION OF APPEALS AGAINST CONVICTION.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

5796. General rule—No substitution of conviction—After acquittal.]—The ct. on quashing a conviction for one offence, cannot substitute a conviction for another, by virtue of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 5 (2), of which there has been an express acquittal.—R. v. FISHER (1921), 91 L. J. K. B. 145; 86 J. P. 29; 66 Sol. Jo. 109; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 53, C. C. A.

5797. Absence of motive.]—Absence of proved motive is not a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. ELLWOOD (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

5798. Confession by another person.]—Leave to appeal given in view of a confession by another person of the crime of which applt. had been convicted.—R. v. HOPKINS (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. C. A.

of the ct. to determine whether the additional evidence taken in conjunction with the evidence given at the trial would have led the jury to bring in a different verdict.—HURLEY v. R. (1919), 22 W. A. L. R. 25.—AUS.

m. Conviction upheld—Where court consider fresh evidence would not have secured acquittal.]—Applt. with another was convicted on charge of robbery with violence. At the trial the issue of mistaken identity was taken. After sentence a petition was presented on the ground that fresh evidence was forthcoming of a witness not called at the trial which would establish the innocence of applt. Case was referred by A.-G. to Ct. of Criminal Appeal. The witness referred to was called by applt. & gave evidence on oath. In his evidence he said that he assaulted the complainant but that nobody else was present, also he committed the robbery:—Held: even if jury believed this story it was inconsistent with the evidence given at the trial on which jury convicted applt.—SLEATOR v. R. (1914), 16 W. A. L. R. 113.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 1.

n. General rule.]—A conviction can be set aside only where there has been a miscarriage of justice by reason of a wrong decision of law.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 805.—CAN.

o. ———.]—The sound rule to apply in trying a criminal appeal where questions of fact are in issue is to consider whether the conviction is right, & in this respect a criminal appeal differs from a civil one. In the latter case the ct. must be convinced before reversing a finding of fact by a lower ct. that the finding is wrong.—PROTAP CHUNDER MUKERJEE v. R. (1882), 11 C. L. R. 25.—IND.

p. ———.]—MILAN KHAN v. SAGAI (1895), 1 L. R. 23 Cal. 347.—IND.

q. Doubt expressed by judge as to correctness of verdict.]—On appeal against conviction on the ground that the verdict was against evidence the judge reported that he expected & thought there should have been a verdict of not guilty, & that he had material doubt as to the correctness of the verdict of guilty:—Held: the report was to be taken into consideration but was by no means conclusive, otherwise a conviction would always be open to doubt unless both judge & jury agreed as to the question of fact.—R. v. MANSFIELD (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 187; 33 N. S. W. W. N. 56.—AUS.

r. Surprise.]—Prisoner, having been indicted with two others acquitted, was convicted of the murder of H., whose body was found in a field adjoining a railway on Monday, Apr. 10, apparently about three days after death, which had clearly been caused by violence. M., the chief witness for the Crown, swore that on the Friday night previously he heard cries in this field, & that not long afterwards he saw three persons walk quickly past his house from that direction, whom he recognised as prisoner & his two sons. He also stated that on the following morning he saw prisoner walking along the railway & stopping near where the body was afterwards found, his manner being strange & excited. At the coroner's inquest, held six months before, this witness had declared himself unable to identify the person seen by him, & had not mentioned seeing prisoner on Saturday. On motion for a new trial, on the ground, among others, of surprise at these discrepancies, the ct. refused to interfere. The indictment alleged the murder to have taken place on Apr. 6, while the evidence, both at the trial & the coroner's inquest, pointed to Apr. 7, & it was stated in the affidavits that prisoner had thus been misled in directing his evidence of an alibi more particularly to the wrong day:—Held: no ground of surprise.—R. v. HAMILTON (1866), 16 C. P. 340.—CAN.

s. Sufficiency of evidence.]—Upon questions of fact, an appellate criminal tribunal is but held to the determination whether there was some evidence before the trial ct. or whether there was no evidence at all.—R. v. GIROUX, [1916] Q. R. 26 K. B. 323; 56 S. C. R. 63.—CAN.

t. ———.]—The sufficiency of evidence is not matter for decision by a Ct. of Appeal; but the absence or presence of evidence is a matter of law.—R. v. GROSS & MILLER, [1918] Q. R. 28 K. B. 54; 31 Can. Crim. Cas. 36.—CAN.

a. ———.]—Where a conviction is attacked upon the ground that it was made without evidence & in the absence of a plea of guilty, a question of fact arises which, like all other disputed questions of fact, must be determined by evidence; therefore the ct. is not restricted in its investigation to the record of the conviction, but may

5799. —.]—R. v. SELBY (1913), 48 L. Jo. 325, C. C. A.

5800. Incorrect evidence—By material witness.—Where a very material witness whom the jury must at least have believed, is proved to be mistaken on or to have falsified a material point, the ct. will quash the conviction.—R. v. HULLETT (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

5801. Advice by counsel to plead guilty—Knowledge of jury.—It is not a ground for quashing a conviction that the jury knows that counsel has advised deft. to plead guilty.—R. v. BUCKLAND (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 83, C. C. A.

5802. Identity of handwriting not proved.—The ct. will not interfere with a conviction based upon the fact that handwriting is traced to deft. without positive proof that that handwriting is not his.—R. v. TRELOAR (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—DEFECTS IN INDICTMENT.

5803. What is a defect in indictment—Misjoinder of defendants.—Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 5, does not authorise the joinder in one indictment of a court for larceny against one deft. alone with a count for another larceny against the same deft. & another person jointly. Such an indictment is bad & may be quashed after verdict.—R. v. EDWARDS, [1913] 1 K. B. 287; 82 L. J. K. B. 347; 108 L. T. 815; 29 T. L. R. 181; 23 Cox, C. C. 380; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 128; sub nom. R. v. GILBERT, R. v. EDWARDS, 77 J. P. 135; 57 Sol. Jo. 187, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Consd. R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99.

5804. — False pretences not set out.—A conviction on an indictment essentially bad will be quashed. In this case an indictment for obtaining goods by false pretences did not aver that prisoner's name was not what he said it was, & did not aver that he knew an alleged representation to be false.—R. v. MCCALLUM (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 3; 78 J. P. Jo. 399, C. C. A.

5805. — Duplicity.—In Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 8 (1), the words "steals or with intent to steal, nips, cuts, severs, or breaks any fixture" include two distinct felonies, & a count which charges both alternatively is bad.—R. v. MOLLOY, [1921] 2 K. B. 364; 90 L. J. K. B. 862; 85 J. P. 233; 37 T. L. R. 611; 65 Sol. Jo. 534; 27 Cox, C. C. 34; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 170, C. C. A.

5806. — Addition or amendment without consent of court of trial.—No count can be added to or amendment made in a bill of indictment without consent of the ct. of trial.—R. v. ERRINGTON (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 148, C. C. A.

5807. When objection should be taken—Whether after plea or after verdict.—An indictment under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908, charged in one count that offences were committed "on divers days between Jan. 1909 & Oct. 1910," & in another count that offences were committed "on divers days between Oct. 4 & the end of Feb. 1913." At the trial, after prisoner had pleaded not guilty, & the jury had been sworn, objection was taken that the indictment was bad for duplicity. The objection was overruled, & prisoner was convicted. On appeal:—Held: the indictment was bad in that it charged more than one offence in each count, but as prisoner had not in fact been embarrassed or prejudiced in his defence by the presentment of the indictment in this form, there had been "no substantial miscarriage of justice," & the appeal must therefore be dismissed under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).

Qu.: whether an objection that an indictment is bad on its face can be taken after plea or after verdict.—R. v. THOMPSON, [1914] 2 K. B. 99; 83 L. J. K. B. 643; 110 L. T. 272; 78 J. P. 212; 30 T. L. R. 223; 24 Cox, C. C. 43; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 252, C. C. A.

5808. Application of proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1)—Amendment irregularly made by court.—R. v. COHEN, No. 6115, post.

5809. — Omission of words usually inserted to describe offence.—In this case the only objection taken is that the indictment was bad because it omitted the words "take & carry away," which are the ordinary words in an indictment for larceny. We are clearly of opinion that this case comes exactly within the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1). It was on the clearest possible evidence that the jury convicted applt. There is no appeal on the merits. So that it is impossible to say that the omission has occasioned any actual miscarriage of justice (per Cur.).—R. v. HARRIS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 285, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Distd. R. v. Edwards, [1913] 1 K. B. 287. Consd. R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99.

5810. — Duplicity of offences in same count.—R. v. THOMPSON, No. 5807, ante.

SUB-SECT. 3.—NO CASE TO GO TO JURY.

5811. Conviction quashed when no evidence or guilt.—This conviction cannot stand. Ther.

look at the affidavits of those present at the hearing as to what actually took place thereon.—R. v. BARLOW, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 499; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 381.—CAN.

b. —.]—The Supreme Ct. will not consider questions which were not properly within the scope of the case presented below in questions reserved for consideration of the Ct. of Appeal.—SCOTT v. R. (1921), 58 D. L. R. 242; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 187.—CAN.

c. Doubtful direction as to law.—An indictment charged accused with wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The wounding was by a shot from a revolver. The jury were directed that if they thought the revolver had been fired in a spirit of bravado, not aiming at the injured person, but in a grossly careless & reckless manner, they might, though they should acquit of the crime charged, convict of "wounding," that being an offence under Criminal Code, s. 186, if committed under such circumstances, though not alleged. No amendment of the indictment was applied for or made. The jury found a verdict of "wounding without intent." For the Crown it was contended that this verdict could be supported, under s. 372, as a verdict of "guilty," under s. 186, on the grounds (a) that the indictment necessarily meant a charge of "unlawfully wounding" with intent, & (b) that "unlawfully wounding" was a sufficient description of an offence under s. 186.—Held: that both these propositions were so doubtful that the case ought not to be held to come within s. 372, & that a verdict of "not guilty" ought to be entered.—R. v. LOONEY (1897), 16 N. Z. L. R. 269.—N.Z.

d. —.]—The ruling of the judge as to whether there was evidence was not the exercise of a discretion but a decision on a point of law, & could, therefore, be made the subject of a question reserved under sect. 270 of the Ordinance of 1903 for the consideration of the Supreme Ct.—R. v. KHAN (1912), T. P. D. 712.—S. AF.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 2

e. Whether power to amend.—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no power to amend an indictment finally dealt with before a Judge of the Supreme Ct. or before a Judge of Quarter Sessions.—R. v. BURNS (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 351; 37 N. S. W. W. N. 77.—AUS.

f. Defect patent on face of indictment.—The ct. will not arrest judgment after verdict, or reverse judgment in error, for any defect patent on the face of the indictment.—R. v. MASON (1872), 22 C. P. 246.—CAN.

g. What is a defect in indictment—More than one offence in one count.—Indictment bad for having charged in one count more offences than one.—R. v. QUINN (1918), 43 O. L. R. 385; 44 O. L. R. 707.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 3.

5811 i. Conviction quashed when no evidence of guilt.—Prisoner was convicted of having stolen a purse was not sufficient evidence, when the case for the prosecution closed, to be left to the jury (per CUR.).—R. v. PEARSON (No. 1) (1908), 72 J. P. 449; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sects. 3 & 4.]

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572. Refd. R. v. Howells & Allen (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 197.

5812. —[—No doubt the possession of the servant may be the possession of his master, even for criminal purposes, but not unless there is evidence that the latter was aware of & had consented to it. There is no such evidence in this case (per CUR.).—R. v. PEARSON (No. 2) (1908), 72 J. P. 451; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

5813. —[—When at the close of the evidence for the prosecution there is no case to go to the jury, the ct., on a submission, ought to withdraw the case from them.—R. v. LEACH (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 72, C. C. A.

5814. —[—R. v. JACKSON & REYNOLDS (alias ROPER), No. 5566, ante.

5815. —[—R. v. WHITE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 211, C. C. A.

5816. —[—R. v. KERR, No. 5597, ante.

5817. — At conclusion of case for prosecution—No submission by prisoner—Evidence for defence against prisoner.—[Where prisoner is not defended by counsel at the trial & at the conclusion of the case for the prosecution, there being no evidence against him, he does not ask that the case should be stopped, & the judge does not stop the case on his own initiative, but the case proceeds, & evidence is given for the defence which is evidence against prisoner & on which he is convicted, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not quash the conviction on the ground that there was no evidence against prisoner in the case for the prosecution.

On a general verdict of guilty on an indictment containing counts for housebreaking, larceny, & receiving, the ct. varied the verdict to one of receiving only, & reduced the sentence.—R. v. GEORGE (1908), 73 J. P. 11; 25 T. L. R. 66; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Jackson (1910), 74 J. P. 352. Consd. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168. Refd. R. v. Leach (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 72; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

5818. — Submission by prisoner—Whether subsequent proceedings can be disregarded.—[Applt. who had an establishment for breeding pheasants was seen to leave his house at about 3.15 a.m., having then nothing in his hands. Three hours later he was seen to return carrying a sack which contained eleven tame pheasants. He was thereupon arrested & charged with the larceny of these pheasants. At the trial there was evidence that no one could be traced who had lost any pheasants. Counsel therefore submitted that there was no evidence of a larceny to go to the jury. The case, however, was left to the jury who convicted applt.:—Held: the conviction must be quashed as the facts were quite consistent with applt.'s innocence.

There was evidence before the case for the prosecution closed that no one could be found who had lost any pheasants, & on these facts was there any evidence of larceny to go to the jury? If there was really no evidence of stealing it was the duty of the judge to withdraw the case from the jury on prisoner's counsel's submission, that there was no such evidence when the prosecution closed their case. Applt.'s counsel made that submission in the ct. below, & as applt. had a right to a decision at that moment, the ct. now would ignore anything that took place during the remainder of the trial after that submission has been made (DARLING, J.).—R. v. JOINER (1910), 74 J. P. 200; 26 T. L. R. 265; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A.

Annotations:—W.F. R. v. Fraser (1911), 76 J. P. 168; R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

5819. —[—The doctrine in R. v. Joiner, No. 5818, ante, that where, at the close of the case for the prosecution, there is no evidence to go to the jury, & a submission to that effect is made, this ct. will disregard the subsequent evidence, doubted.—R. v. FRASER (1911), 76 J. P. 168; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Fold. R. v. Power, [1919] 1 K. B. 572.

5820. —[—If at a trial of an indictment a submission is made at the close of the case for the prosecution that there is no evidence that prisoner committed the offence, & the submission is overruled, & witnesses are called for the defence by whom evidence is given incriminating prisoner, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal is entitled on an appeal by prisoner against conviction to take into consideration the adverse evidence given by the witnesses for the defence.—R. v. POWER, [1919] 1 K. B. 572; 88 L. J. K. B. 593; 120 L. T. 577; 83 J. P. 124; 35 T. L. R. 283; 26 Cox, C. C. 399; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

5821. —[—If on the submission by one deft. that there is no case to go to the jury, the ct. holds that there was a case, it will not interfere if the judge uses the subsequent evidence of defts. against that deft.—R. v. HOGAN (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 182, C. C. A.

containing $3.50 from D. The evidence showed that D. had a purse containing the money; that she stopped in a crowd to watch something that attracted attention; that there was a commotion in the crowd during which prisoner pushed her or was pushed against her; that, as this occurred, a constable saw prisoner putting his hand in a fold of her dress; that the purse was missed within a few minutes afterwards; & that prisoner, being arrested after an interval, had upon him money in bills & silver, some of which were of the denominations of the money in D.'s purse, but none of which could be identified as having been hers:—Held: the evidence did not raise more than a mere suspicion against prisoner, & was not sufficient in law to warrant a conviction, & prisoner discharged.—R. v. WINSLOW (1900), 12 Man. L. R. 649.—CAN.

5811 ii. —[—Accused was charged, under Criminal Code, s. 242, with omitting without lawful excuse to supply his wife & infant child with necessaries & thereby causing their deaths. The omission consisted in this, that he did not go after his wife & child when he saw them go into the cold & bring them back to his house before they died from exposure:—Held: (1) where a woman having the exercise of free will chooses to leave the shelter provided by her husband & to go out into the cold & is frozen to death, the husband is not criminally liable. Accused had provided sufficient shelter for his family; & there was no evidence from which it could be found that the woman was not in possession of her faculties & capable of exercising her free will; (2) as to the child, who was only ten years old, he could not be said to have the exercise of his free will; & the responsibility of the accused in regard to the child was greater. But, as the child did not go out alone, but under the guidance of his mother, & as accused, though he knew that the boy left the house in extremely cold weather, did not know that he was in danger, it could not be said that the assistance which he might have rendered was necessary to the safety of the child, therefore there was no evidence upon which the jury could properly convict accused.—R. v. SIDNEY (1912), 21 W. L. R. 853; 20 Can. Crim. Cas. 378; 5 D. L. R. 256; 2 W. W. R. 761.—CAN.

5811 iii. —[—Accused was convicted of perjury for asserting as witness in a former trial that the statements made by S. were not true. S. gave evidence on the trial for perjury, but his evidence at the former trial in which were the "statements" denied by accused on that trial was not put in, although counsel for the Crown had expressed a wish to put it in:—Held: there being no evidence that S. made such statements on the trial, the jury should have been directed to find the accused not guilty.—R. v. SEGAL, [1920] 2 W. W. R. 29; 53 D. L. R. 472.—CAN.

5822. Court will not interfere if there was some evidence.]—The ct. will not quash a conviction merely because the evidence is circumstantial.—R. v. NEWSON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 44, C. C. A.

5823. —.]—R. v. JACKSON (1910), 74 J. P. 352; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 4.—UNREASONABLE VERDICT—QUASHING CONVICTION.

5824. As ground for quashing conviction—Verdict against weight of evidence.]—R. v. BURKE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 245, C. C. A.

5825. —.]—In order to convict a receiver of stolen property, there must be clear evidence of some possession on the part of deft.—R. v. LEWIS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 96, C. C. A.

5826. —.]—If there is a probability that the jury believed that consent was not a defence to a charge of rape the ct. will quash the conviction.

There was not sufficient evidence before the jury to justify them in concluding that the girl did not consent (per CUR.).—R. v. BRADLEY (1910), 74 J. P. 247; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 225, C. C. A.

5827. —.]—The ct. will quash a conviction if it is of opinion that it is not justified by the evidence, even though it believes that the verdict was correct.—R. v. BENNETT (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

5828. —.]—R. v. DAVIS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 66, C. C. A.

5829. —.]—R. v. HOLMES & GREGORY (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 130, C. C. A.

5830. —.]—R. v. PEACOCK (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

5831. —.]—R. v. BARKER & PAGE, No. 5908, post.

5832. —.]—As there was no other satisfactory evidence, the ct. has come to the conclusion that the verdict as regards H. cannot be supported, so the conviction in his case must be quashed (per CUR.).—R. v. GARDNER & HANCOX (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 206; 114 L. T. 78; 80 J. P. 135; 25 Cox, C. C. 221; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 265; sub nom. R. v. GARDNER, R. v. HANCOX, 32 T. L. R. 97; 60 Sol. Jo. 76, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Pilley (1922), 127 L. T. 220.

5833. —.]—Applt. was charged at sessions with stealing money, &, in a second count, with receiving it knowing it to have been stolen. In the opinion of this ct. the evidence against applt. for larceny was very strong, but there was no evidence against him of receiving. The chairman of the sessions summed the case up to the jury as a case of larceny, & did not deal at all with the charge of receiving. The jury convicted applt. of receiving:—Held: in these circumstances the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. EVANS (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1176; 114 L. T. 616; 25 Cox, C. C. 342; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

5834. —.]—R. v. CALEY (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 231, C. C. A.

5835. —.]—R. v. CHADWICK, MATTHEWS & JOHNSON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 247, C. C. A.

5836. —.]—R. v. HALL, No. 5090, ante.

5837. —.]—R. v. STANFORD (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 73, C. C. A.

5838. —.]—R. v. SMITH (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 101, C. C. A.

5839. —.]—R. v. ARMSTRONG (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 147, C. C. A.

5840. —.]—R. v. MARGULAS (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5841. — Offence charged not known to the law.]—R. v. SHAW, No. 5677, ante.

5842. — First verdict not accepted by judge—Case for defence subsequently proceeded with.]—R. v. DOLLERY (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

5843. Conviction not quashed—Where there was evidence on which jury could convict.]—The ct. refused leave to appeal against a conviction where there was evidence upon which the jury might properly have arrived at their verdict.—

5822 i. Court will not interfere if there was some evidence.]—Evidence making a prima facie case for the Crown in a criminal prosecution, if unanswered, & believed by the jury, is sufficient to support a conviction.—R. v. GIRVIN (1911), 18 W. L. R. 482; 20 W. L. R. 130; 45 S. C. R. 167.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 4.

5824 i. As ground for quashing conviction—Verdict against weight of evidence.]—An accused was found guilty on a charge of conspiracy with a person unknown. The full ct. being of opinion that there was no evidence to show that the offences could not have been perpetrated by one person quashed the conviction.—R. v. MALONEY (1915), 15 S. R. N. S. W. 461; 32 N. S. W. W. N. 156.—AUS.

5824 ii. —.]—To set aside a verdict on the ground of perjury on the part of a witness for the prosecution the Ct. of Criminal Appeal must be fully satisfied as to the truth of the facts before it, & must also be satisfied that a jury would be likely to come to a different conclusion in view of the dissimilar story.—MCGRATH v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 124.—AUS.

5824 iii. —.]—Conviction of deft. quashed for having counselled & procured the bribery of a peace officer on the ground of lack of evidence.—R. v. RYAN (1913), 23 O. W. R. 799; 4 O. W. N. 622; 9 D. L. R. 871.—CAN.

5824 iv. —.]—The K. B. Div. has jurisdiction to review the evidence upon which inferior tribunals find a conviction in criminal cases, & to determine whether such evidence is reasonably fit to be submitted for the purpose of proving such a charge, & whether the evidence actually submitted in any particular criminal case is of a character sufficient to reasonably sustain a verdict of guilty; & the K. B. Div. will in a proper case quash a conviction where in its opinion the evidence upon which the inferior tribunal acted is unfit or insufficient to reasonably sustain the verdict of guilty. The old rule, that if there is a scintilla of evidence to support the finding a conviction by an inferior ct. cannot be disturbed, had been abolished.—R. v. WATERFORD JJ. (1909), 43 L. L. T. 170.—IR.

h. — Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 416.]—Where a person convicted by a jury of a crime applies to the Ct. of Appeal, under Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 416, for a new trial, on the ground of the verdict being against the weight of evidence, the rule established in regard to such an application in a civil case must be applied, & the verdict cannot be disturbed unless it is one which the jury, viewing the whole of the evidence reasonably, could not properly find.—R. v. SYRICH (1901), 20 N. Z. L. R. 744.—N.Z.

k. —.]—The ct. cannot interfere with the verdict of a jury unless it is satisfied that the verdict is such as twelve reasonable men, giving due weight to the presumption of law in favour of prisoner's innocence, could not properly have found. All questions of the credibility of witnesses, &, within the above limits, of the weight to be attached to their evidence, are for the determination of the jury, & must be held to have been determined by their verdict.

—R. v. ALLANDALE & DENNETT (1905), 25 N. Z. L. R. 507.—N.Z.

l. —.]—R. v. FINDLAY (1907), 26 N. Z. L. R. 980.—N.Z.

5843 i. Conviction not quashed—Where there was evidence on which jury could convict.]—Appls. were convicted of breaking & entering the shop of W. & therein stealing the sum of £2 8s. 6d. Evidence was admitted showing that during the night that such offence was committed the store of O'D. was broken & entered & Cavour cigars & 4s. in cash belonging to O'D. had been stolen & that on the following morning an empty box of Cavour cigars had been found at W.'s shop:—Held: verdict of jury was not unreasonable. Assuming the evidence regarding the offence at O'D.'s store to have been wrongly admitted there had been no substantial miscarriage of justice, as there was sufficient evidence to support the verdict of the jury apart from that evidence.—LAMBERT & DEVAUX v. R. (1914), 16 W. A. L. R. 178.—AUS.

5843 ii. —.]—On a charge of wounding with intent to murder the evidence of identification was slight. Accused appealed against conviction on the ground that the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict:—Held: there was evidence of identification which would be sufficient if believed to support the verdict, & where

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-secs. 4 & 5.]

R. v. WILLIAMSON (1908), 24 T. L. R. 619; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 3, C. C. A.

5844. ———.]—R. v. ASHFORD (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 185, C. C. A.

5845. ———.]—R. v. MCNAIR, No. 5681, ante.

5846. ———.]—R. v. SIMPSON, No. 5634, ante.

5847. ——— Because judge disapproved of verdict.]—R. v. SCHRAGER, No. 5640, ante.

5848. ———.]—When on an indictment for perjury containing several assignments a general verdict of guilty is returned, though one assignment is clearly not proved by reason of the want of corroboration, the ct. will quash the conviction. The ct. will not set aside a verdict merely because the trial judge is dissatisfied with it.

When a case is one proper for the consideration of the jury, & the jury being properly directed convict, the mere opinion of the judge that he would have found the other way, or that the verdict was not satisfactory, is not a sufficient ground for quashing the conviction (AVORY, J.).—R. v. GASKELL (1912), 77 J. P. 112; 29 T. L. R. 108; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 103, C. C. A.

5849. ———.]—During the absence of applt.'s husband on active service applt. wrote a letter to prosecutor alleging that he was the father of her expected child & demanding money. Applt. was convicted on a charge of demanding money with menaces & without reasonable or probable cause. The judge, in giving his certificate for an appeal, stated that he disagreed with the verdict, but wished the case to be considered by the Ct. of Criminal Appeal:—Held: the verdict was not unreasonable, & no miscarriage of justice had occurred; the question involved was entirely one of fact on which the finding of the jury must be accepted; & there being no allegation that the jury had been misdirected, or that there was no evidence at all to support their verdict, the appeal must be dismissed.—R. v. PERFECT (1917), 117 L. T. 416; 25 Cox, C. C. 780; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 273, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Fold. R. v. Moor (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 31.

5850. ———.]—The disagreement of the judge with a verdict is not a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. MOOR (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 31, C. C. A.

5851. ——— Judge's view may be considered by court.]—While it must not be supposed that the mere fact that the judge who tried the case does not approve of the verdict is a sufficient reason for asking the ct. to set it aside, it is a factor for consideration (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. HART (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Scranton (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 104.

5852. ———.]—The fact that a judge is dissatisfied with the verdict is not sufficient by itself to justify us in setting aside the verdict (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. SMITH (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 232, C. C. A.

5853. ———.]—The ct. may quash a conviction on the report of the trial judge that he

Ct. of Appeal sees that there has been no abuse of the process of trial or no neglect on the part of some one concerned in the trial, & it comes merely to a question whether the jury ought to have found a verdict of guilty or not guilty, then their verdict is unchallengeable.—R. v. MCCALL (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 467; 37 N. S. W. W. N. 189.—AUS.

5843 iii. ———.]—In the course of carriage part of the goods were stolen. The missing goods were traced to accused, & were seized in the possession of his confederates. These goods bore the consignees shipping brand, were of like quality to, & with the goods in the bales delivered, made up the quantity ordered. A witness first claimed, in cross-examination, to identify the goods by the invoice, but on discovering the shipping brand relied on that. The invoice was not admitted as evidence. Accused was proved to have admitted to the police that he stole the goods seized, but his statement in some particulars could not be reconciled with known facts. The jury convicted him of receiving. The judge reserved the question whether there was evidence on which the jury could find the property in the goods as laid, viz. in the consignees:—Held: taking the evidence as a whole the jury might reasonably find that the goods were the goods of the consignees.—R. v. REID (1921), 17 Tas. L. R. 132.—AUS.

5843 iv. ———.]—Deceased was murdered, according to the only eyewitness, a girl of about eight years, by a dark man with a fat face, dressed in brown trousers, in the seat of which were two rents, a black shirt with white stripes, & a dark coat. Prisoner had been seen in the vicinity of the murder some 20 or 30 minutes previously. His dress corresponded with the shirt, coat, & trousers mentioned, in addition to which he wore a black hat. A knife, sworn to as having been in prisoner's possession three days before, was found on the afternoon of the murder, still wet with blood, a few feet from the murdered woman's body. When arrested three days later, prisoner was without the dark shirt:

Held: the jury was justified on the evidence in coupling prisoner with the crime. In a criminal case, on an application for a new trial on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence, the ct. will be governed by a consideration of whether the evidence was such that the jury, viewing the whole of the evidence reasonably, could not properly find a verdict of guilty.—R. v. JENKINS (1908), 14 B. C. R. 61; 9 W. L. R. 405; 14 Can. Crim. Cas. 221.—CAN.

5843 v. ———.]—The ct. should not confirm a conviction on the legal evidence as sufficient unless satisfied that the verdict would have been the same if evidence had not been wrongly admitted. This principle applies as well to cases of improper admission of evidence as to cases of mis-direction.—RAMESH CHANDRA DAS v. R. (1919), 1. L. R. 46 Calc. 895.—IND.

5843 vi. ———.]—Ct. refused to direct a new trial for a defect in the record when the jury were justified in convicting on the evidence in the case.—KASIMUDDIN NASYA v. R. (1920), 1. L. R. 47 Calc. 795.—IND.

5843 vii. ———.]—The ct. has power under Evidence Act (I. of 1872), clause 26, to examine the evidence & determine whether after the exclusion of the inadmissible evidence the residue is sufficient to justify the conviction. The ct. will not substitute its own finding for the verdict of the jury, & it must consider whether evidence improperly admitted was of such nature that it possibly might have considerably influenced the minds of the jury & whether it was reasonably certain that the jury would not have acted on the unobjectionable evidence if the wrongly admitted evidence had not been presented to them. Where the residue was by no means conclusive the ct. set aside the conviction.—R. v. PANCHU DAS (1920), 1. L. R. 47 Calc. 671.—IND.

m. ——— Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 3.]—Applt. was, in July, 1889, tried for & convicted of a murder committed in May of that year. He was sentenced to death, but sentence was afterwards commuted to one of imprisonment for life. The above sect. provided that the Act should apply only to offences committed on & after the day of its coming into force. Parliament having been petitioned on behalf of the applt., on the ground of there being evidence tending to establish his innocence which was not produced at the trial, & of alleged unfair practices by two of the witnesses for the Crown, Criminal Code Act Amendment Act, 1895, was passed, which by sect. 2 provided that, notwithstanding anything contained in the 1893 Act, the applt. should have the right to apply to the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial, as provided in sect. 416 of the last-mentioned Act:—Held: a new trial could be applied for only on the ground mentioned in sect. 416—namely, of the verdict being against the weight of evidence, & not on the other grounds on which Parliament had been petitioned.—CHEMIS v. R. (1895), 14 N. Z. L. R. 393.—N.Z.

n. ———.]—On a motion under The Criminal Code Act, 1893, s. 416, for leave to apply to the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial of an indictment upon which the applt. had been convicted, on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, if there exists a reasonably arguable ground upon which it may be contended, not necessarily successfully, that the verdict was such that a jury, viewing reasonably the proved facts, could not properly find, then the judge presiding at the trial ought to grant leave to move the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial.—R. v. BRUGES (1906), 26 N. Z. L. R. 389.—N.Z.

5847 i. ——— Because judge disapproved of verdict.]—R. v. BREWSTER (No. 2) (1896), 2 Terr. L. R. 377.—CAN.

o. Granting of leave to appeal by trial judge—Criminal Code, R. S. C.

was not satisfied with it, though it would decline to do so on the further evidence called by applt.—R. v. BERWICK (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A. 5854. —[The judge's view (of the sufficiency of the evidence) by itself does not entitle the ct. to set aside a verdict but it is an element to be taken into consideration (per Cur.).—R. v. SCRANTON (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Cuffin (1922), 127 L. T. 564.

5855. Granting of leave to appeal by trial judge—Not an indication of dissatisfaction with verdict.—Leave to appeal being granted by the single judge, who was also the judge at the trial, does not imply a doubt as to the conviction being right.—R. v. CARPENTER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 210, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 5.—WRONGFUL ADMISSION OF EVIDENCE AT TRIAL.

5856. General rule.—In a criminal trial, if any evidence not legally admissible against prisoner is left to the jury, & they find him guilty, the conviction is bad: & this notwithstanding that there was other evidence before them properly admitted & sufficient to warrant a conviction.—R. v. GIBSON (1887), 18 Q. B. D. 537; 56 L. J. M. C. 49; 56 L. T. 367; 51 J. P. 742; 35 W. R. 411; 3 T. L. R. 442; 16 Cox, C. C. 181, C. C. R.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Stephens (1888), 58 L. T. 776; R. v. Moore (1892), 61 L. J. M. C. 80; R. v. Marsham, Ex p. Pethick Lawrence, [1912] 2 K. B. 362.

5857 Conviction quashed—Evidence of other acts.—If on an indictment for receiving stolen property an attempt be made to prove the possession of other property alleged to have been stolen within twelve months, & the proof fail, the jury must be warned to disregard the evidence.—R. v. HALIKIOPULO (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 272, C. C. A.

5858.—[On an indictment for obtaining by false pretences or other fraud, evidence of similar offences to that charged committed by deft. is only admissible a prima facie case being made, to negative a defence of mistake or accident or to prove a systematic course of fraudulent conduct but not to prove general bad character. Conviction quashed as evidence admitted may have influenced the jury.—R. v. FISHER, [1910] 1 K. B. 149; 79 L. J. K. B. 187; 102 L. T. 111; 74 J. P. 104; 26 T. L. R. 122; 22 Cox, C. C. 270; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Apprvd. & Apld. R. v. Ellis, [1910] 2 K. B. 746. Consd. R. v. Rodley, [1913] 3 K. B. 468. Apprvd. & Apld. R. v. Kurasch, [1915] 2 K. B. 749. Apld. R. v. Wilson (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 251. Refd. R. v. Ball (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 238; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Baird (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785.

5859.—[It is quite clear from the summing up that the jury were invited to consider whether these two cases, evidence of which had been wrongly admitted, were not very damaging to deft.'s credit & the jury could hardly have failed to draw the inference hostile to deft. on the point. We feel bound therefore to say not only that the jury may have been influenced but that they must have been influenced (BRAY, J.).—R. v. ELLIS, [1910] 2 K. B. 746; 79 L. J. K. B. 841; 102 L. T. 922; 74 J. P. 388; 26 T. L. R. 535; 22 Cox, C. C. 330; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. Barker v. Arnold, [1911] 2 K. B. 120; R. v. Boyle & Merchant, [1914] 3 K. B. 339; R. v. Mason (1914), 111 L. T. 336; R. v. Baird (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785; R. v. Ratcliffe (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 135; R. v. Starkie, [1922] 2 K. B. 275; Jenkins v. Feit (1923), 129 L. T. 95.

1906, c. 148, s. 1021.]—The judge presiding at a criminal trial has no power to grant a new trial. Leave to move the Ct. of Appeal for a new trial may, under above sect., be given by the trial judge, but only on the ground that the verdict is against the weight of evidence.—R. v. DI FRANCESCO (1918), 44 O. L. R. 75; 45 D. L. R. 488.—CAN.

—[Where the trial judge, acting under above sect., gives leave to prisoner, after conviction, to apply to the ct. in banco for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, the power of the ct. is limited to the granting of a new trial, & the question then becomes whether the verdict was such as a jury, viewing the evidence as a whole, could reasonably find.—R. v. PEEL (No. 1) (1920), 54 N. S. L. 329; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 390.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 5.

5856 i. General rule.—The wrongful admission of evidence which is in its nature damaging to accused & which considering all the evidence must be taken to have influenced the decision of the justices vitiates a conviction.—CRUDGINGTON v. COONEY, Ex p. COONEY, [1902] S. R. Q. 176.—AUS.

5856 ii.—[Ct. will not lay down any strict rule that it will not entertain an appeal on the ground that evidence had been wrongly admitted unless objection to the admission of the evidence has been taken at the trial.—R. v. O'BRIEN (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 486; 37 N. S. W. N. 154.—AUS.

5856 iii.—[Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not, as a general rule, upset a conviction on the ground that evidence is inadmissible unless exceptional circumstances are proved, & this rule more especially applies in cases where an advocate has attempted to make use of such evidence for his own purpose.—R. v. BRANSCOMBE (1921), 21 S. R. N. S. W. 363.—AUS.

5856 iv.—[Under Code, s. 746, the improper admission of evidence at a criminal trial cannot be said in itself necessarily to constitute a wrong or miscarriage, but it is a question for the ct. upon the hearing of any appeal, whether in the particular case it did so or not.—R. v. Woods (1897), 5 B. C. R. 585.—CAN.

5856 v.—[It is the duty of the judge on a criminal trial to exclude illegal evidence, & its admission is a ground for a new trial, whether objected to or not on the trial.—R. v. CLARKE (1907), 2 E. L. R. 327; 38 N. B. R. 11.—CAN.

5856 vi.—[If inadmissible evidence bearing upon the particular count of the indictment under which the conviction is made is improperly received, the conviction would be bad; but, as the appeal under Criminal Code, s. 1912, is in the nature of a rehearing, the ct., disregarding all such evidence & looking only at the evidence clearly admissible, may form its own judgment on the guilt or innocence of prisoner, & affirm or quash the conviction accordingly.—R. v. CLARKE (1908), 9 W. L. R. 243; 1 Alta. L. R. 368.—CAN.

5856 vii.—[Where evidence has been improperly admitted or something not according to law has been done at the trial which may have operated prejudicially to accused upon a material issue, although it has not been & cannot be shown that it did, in fact, so operate, & although the evidence which was properly admitted at the trial warranted the conviction, Ct. of Appeal may order a new trial.—ALLEN v. R. (1911), 44 S. C. R. 331.—CAN.

5856 viii.—[Omission at a trial to object to the reception of evidence does not preclude the right to object on a criminal appeal.—R. v. JENNINGS & HAMILTON, [1917] 1 W. W. R. 1073; 11 Alta. L. R. 290.—CAN.

5856 ix.—[Although a Ct. of Appeal finds that evidence was improperly admitted it is required, under Criminal Code, s. 1019, to consider its possible or probable effect upon the jury.—R. v. LETAIN, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 595; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 389.—CAN.

5856 x.—[RAMESH CHANDRA DAS v. R. (1919), 1 L. L. R. 46 Calc. 895.—IND.

5856 xi.—[R. v. PANCHU DAS (1920), 1 L. L. R. 47 Calc. 671.—IND.

5856 xii.—[R. v. TAYLOR (No. 2) (1885), 3 N. Z. L. R. C. A. —CAN.

5856 xiii.—[R. v. LAWRENCE (1905), 25 N. Z. L. R. 129.—N.Z.

5856 xiv.—[Where evidence had been wrongly admitted against an accused, & it formed the basis of the case against accused, who had been convicted:—Held: the evidence had prejudiced accused, & the conviction should be quashed.—R. v. BINDER (1912), T. P. D. 373.—S. AF.

5856 xv.—[R. v. KOTCHO, R. v. BARLEY, [1918] E. D. L. 91.—S. AF.

q. Evidence called after defence closed.—It is competent for the Crown with or without the instructions of the ct., but with its permission, to call evidence to rebut evidence given for the defence on some new point, upon which the Crown evidence is silent, & which could not have been foreseen by prosecution. The evidence for the prosecution against an accused person, coupled with the evidence of his co-accused, was sufficient, if believed, upon which to have convicted accused; but the magistrate not being satisfied with this evidence, after the defence had been closed, caused additional

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 5.]

5860. ———.]—Conviction quashed on the ground that a witness had been allowed to depose to the admission by prisoner that he had committed offences unconnected with the pending charge.—R. v. COULTER (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 147, C. C. A.

5861. ———.]—When on the trial of an indictment evidence relative to another indictment has been admitted the ct. will quash a conviction.—R. v. POSNETT (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 64, C. C. A.

5862. ———.]—On the trial of an indictment for burglary with intent to rape, evidence of immoral conduct subsequent to the attempt alleged is not admissible against deft.—R. v. RODLEY, [1913] 3 K. B. 468; 82 L. J. K. B. 1070; 109 L. T. 476; 77 J. P. 465; 29 T. L. R. 700; 58 Sol. Jo. 51; 23 Cox, C. C. 574; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 69, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Kurasch*, [1915] 2 K. B. 749. Refd. R. v. Burlison (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 39; R. v. Jones (1922), 127 L. T. 160.

5863. ———.]—The ct. will quash a conviction when evidence of a previous accusation of an offence similar to that charged has been improperly given, although the judge warns the jury to disregard such evidence.—R. v. BARRON (1914), 110 L. T. 350; 78 J. P. 184; 30 T. L. R. 187; 24 Cox, C. C. 83; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 236, C. C. A.

5864. ——— Evidence of previous conviction.]—On an appeal against the verdict of a jury convicting a prisoner of having feloniously uttered a counterfeit coin where the only evidence of guilty knowledge was the fact that prisoner had run away when followed by a policeman & where the prisoner had proved conclusively that he had not uttered another counterfeit coin to the same person a fortnight before—as was alleged—for he was in prison at the time, the ct. allowed the appeal on the ground that the judge had not expressly warned the jury that they must disregard the fact that the prisoner had been in prison before.—R. v. LEE (1908), 72 J. P. 253; 24 T. L. R. 627; 52 Sol. Jo. 518; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Warner* (1908), 73 J. P. 53. Refd. R. v. Joyce (1908), 72 J. P. 483. Mentd. R. v. Laws (1908), 72 J. P. 271.

5865. ———.]—Under the circumstances of this case, on a trial for larceny, where a witness, put forward by the prosecution as an accomplice, gave evidence which suggested that prisoner had been previously concerned with him in coining offences, & the judge, who tried the case, prevented prisoner, who was not defended by counsel, from cross-examining on the point, & stopped him in the middle of his explanation of the matter, in his address to the jury, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction.

R. v. Lee, No. 5864, ante, must not be taken as an authority for saying that, where some fact has come out prejudicial to prisoner, which ought not to have been given in evidence, & the judge who tries the case has not warned the jury to disregard that fact—that case is no authority for saying that on those facts only the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will quash the conviction (DARLING, J.).—R. v. WARNER (1908), 73 J. P. 53; 25 T. L. R. 142; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 227, C. C. A.

5866. ———.]—R. v. WESTFALL (1912), 107 L. T. 463; 76 J. P. 335; 28 T. L. R. 297; 23 Cox, C. C. 185; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Hudson*, [1912] 2 K. B. 464. Refd. R. v. Roberts (otherwise Spalding) (1920), 37 T. L. R. 69.

5867. ———.]—If evidence of a previous conviction of deft. is improperly given the ct. will quash a conviction which may have been due to the jury knowing the fact.—R. v. HEMINGWAY (1912), 77 J. P. 15; 29 T. L. R. 13; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Redd*, [1923] 1 K. B. 104.

5868. ———.]—R. v. CURTIS, No. 5520, ante.

5869. ———.]—Where deft. has unnecessarily let in evidence a previous conviction, the ct. will take into account its effect on the jury.—R. v. FRANKS (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

5870. ———.]—Evidence of a previous conviction of deft. improperly given may be so prejudicial to him that the ct. will decline to apply the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4.—R. v. LANE (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

5871. ——— Evidence of previous warning.]—Evidence of a previous caution against committing an offence of a certain kind is not admissible on the trial of an indictment for an offence of that kind.—R. v. MULLINS (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R.*, [1914] A. C. 599.

5872. ——— Hearsay evidence.]—Applt. was convicted of stealing a pair of glasses in a shop. The witness for the Crown who spoke of the theft at the police ct. said that the glasses stolen were Zeiss glasses. This witness was ill at the time of the trial, & being unable to attend, his depositions given at the police ct. were read. A pair of glasses were produced from the custody of a pawnbroker,

ALLI AHMED (1913), T. P. D. 500.—S. AF.

58641. ——— Evidence of previous conviction.]—On the trial of prisoner on a charge of breaking & entering a house with intent to steal, evidence was given that prisoner had been committed for trial to a previous sitting of the ct., had absconded from bail, & gone into N.S.W., where he was arrested & sentenced to imprisonment on two charges of stealing in a house; that he had been taken back to Q. from the gaol wherein he had been confined in N.S.W., on the expiration of the term of his imprisonment. The judge, in summing up, referred to the fact that prisoner had absconded, & then got into trouble in N.S.W. Prisoner was convicted, & sentenced to a term of imprisonment.—Held: as the trial judge had commented on the evidence relating to the prisoner's arrest & conviction in N.S.W., the conviction should be quashed & a new trial ordered.—R. v. EVERETT, [1920] S. R. Q. 1.—AUS.

evidence to be called upon a point upon which evidence for the Crown had already been given:—Held: as the additional evidence had been improperly admitted & as it was impossible to hold that accused had not been prejudiced thereby, the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. JILWANA, [1917] E. D. L. 411.—S. AF.

r. ——— Evidence of wife.]—Where of two witnesses against accused one was his wife & the wife's evidence was so important that the magistrate could not fairly have been asked whether he would have convicted without it the ct. set aside the conviction.—R. v. BROWN, [1920] C. P. D. 20.—S. AF.

s. ——— Consent to admission—Act 13 of 1917, s. 273.]—Accused cannot by waiver or consent render admissible a statement expressly declared by Act 31 of 1917, s. 273, to be inadmissible.—R. v. PERKINS, [1920] App. D. 307.—S. AF.

t. Conviction quashed—Evidence of similar acts.]—Prisoner was charged with obtaining 19s. from R. by falsely pretending that a worthless piece of paper presented & delivered by him to her was a one-pound note. At the trial eight other similar pieces of paper were admitted in evidence. As to five of these R. swore that she received them from prisoner as good notes, the other three had been found on another person not before the ct. & they could not be traced to the prisoner. R. could not pick out the five pieces of paper she had received from prisoner from others:—Held: these three pieces of paper were wrongly received in evidence & conviction of prisoner quashed.—R. v. ALLEN (1872), 11 N. S. W. S. C. R. 73.—AUS.

s. ———.]—Where accused was charged with perjury & subornation of perjury, & evidence was admitted, though not objected to at trial, that accused had also attempted to suborn other persons not connected with the charge:—Held: its admission must necessarily have, & had, in fact, prejudiced accused, & the conviction should therefore be quashed.—R. v.

which the prosecution alleged to be the stolen glasses. These glasses were identified by another witness as the property of the firm from whom the pair of glasses had been stolen, but he said that these glasses were Busch glasses. He explained the inconsistency by stating that the other witness who was ill had made a mistake at the police ct. in saying that the stolen glasses were Zeiss glasses, & that he knew this mistake had been made as the other witness had told him so. Prisoner's defence was an alibi. The ct. quashed the conviction on the ground that the judge at the trial had not told the jury to ignore the conversation spoken to between the two witnesses as being hearsay, but had, on the contrary, suggested to the jury what it was likely the witness who was ill might have said had he come into the box & given evidence, & also on the ground that as to the evidence as to the alibi, the judge had said in his summing up: "I do not wish to bias you in any way whatever, but here is a man who has set up an alibi which is no shadow of an alibi from any possible point of view."—R. v. RUFFINO (1911), 76 J. P. 49; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

5873. — — —.]—In this case a conviction for burglary was quashed on the ground that the Chairman at quarter sessions who tried the case had in the course of the summing up admitted the hearsay testimony of a police officer, the effect of which was to refute an alibi set up by prisoner. This testimony was not admitted at the request of prisoner, & the Chairman himself told the jury that it was more satisfactory they should have heard the statement, although it did not support prisoner's statements. The ct. refused to act under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), as they said it was impossible for them to say that the wrongful admission of evidence might not have affected the minds of the jury.—R. v. CAMPBELL (1912), 77 J. P. 95; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 75, C. C. A.

5874. — Statement made in presence of prisoner.—The contents of a statement alleged to have been made in the presence of prisoner cannot be given in evidence unless & until the judge has satisfied himself, from the evidence contained in the depositions or given at the trial, that there is evidence, fit to be submitted to the jury, that prisoner by his answer to the statement, whether given in words or by conduct, acknowledged the truth of the statement. If the contents of the statement are admissible in evidence, in accordance with the above rule, the jury should be directed that they are entitled to take the statement into consideration as evidence in the case, not because the statement is evidence of the matters contained in it, but solely because of prisoner's acknowledgment of its truth.—R. v.

5874 i. — Statement made in presence of prisoner.—Statements made in the presence of the prisoner & denied by him as false are not admissible in evidence against him as an admission of guilt. Where the judge refused to allow counsel to interpose to show that the prisoner denied the truth of the statements made in his presence & admitted the evidence without inquiry as to its admissibility.—Held: the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. STEVENS (1904), 4 S. R. N. S. W. 727; 21 N. S. W. W. N. 245.—AUS.

5877 i. — Incriminating evidence of co-prisoner.—The omission of the judge to tell the jury that the statement of one prisoner is not evidence against his fellow-prisoner is a material error, & one fatal to the trial, notwithstanding standing that the judge dealt with the evidence against each of prisoners separately.—R. v. MIYA VALAD DAUD (1869), 6 Bom. Cr. Ca. 10.—IND.

b. — Confession.—A confession having been wrongly admitted in evidence, the conviction must be quashed although prisoner afterwards admitted his guilt in the witness box whilst giving evidence.—R. v. O'KEEFE (1893), 14 N. S. W. L. R. 345.—AUS.

c. — — —.]—When a confession by an accused is improperly admitted in evidence, no substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice can be said to be occasioned thereby, if he went into the witness box & told there in substance the story related in the confession.—R. v. MOKE, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 575.—CAN.

d. — — — No evidence that

NORTON, [1910] 2 K. B. 496; 79 L. J. K. B. 756; 102 L. T. 926; 74 J. P. 375; 26 T. L. R. 550; 54 Sol. Jo. 602; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 65, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Christie, [1914] A. C. 545. Refd. R. v. Atherton (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 233; R. v. Hickey (1911), 27 T. L. R. 441; R. v. Stroud (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 38; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Adams (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 77. Mentd. R. v. Althuler (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 243.

5875. — — —.]—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

5876. — Irrelevant evidence.—It was objected that evidence was wrongly admitted, viz. of persons who supplied goods & who were asked if they would have supplied them had they known that deft. had disposed of 100, Commercial Road. They said "No." The evidence ought not to have been admitted; it was not relevant to any issue. The Recorder, in summing up, told the jury that they ought not to pay any attention to that evidence, although he thought it ought to be admitted. We do not think there was any miscarriage of justice through its admission, & the conviction must stand (per CUR.).—R. v. RICHMAN (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 233, C. C. A.

5877. — Incriminating statement by co-prisoner.—On the trial of B. & C. for burglary on a Monday night, the evidence against C. was that A., B., & C., were seen in each other's company on the Monday afternoon & the following Tuesday afternoon. The burglary was at a post office, & a large number of stamps were stolen. On the Tuesday afternoon C. was seen dealing openly with 1s. 3d. worth of stamps, & on the following Sunday with twelve halfpenny stamps. C. was searched on the Tuesday afternoon & no stamps were found on him. When C. was arrested he said that he did not know B. C. admitted when giving evidence that he did know B. A. was called by the prosecution & he swore that though he was guilty C. was innocent. Leave was obtained to treat him as a hostile witness, & a written confession made by him previously, which implicated C., was put to him under Criminal Procedure Act, 1865 (c. 18), s. 3, & so came to the minds of the jury. B. gave evidence, & a written confession made by him implicating C. was put to him in cross-examination & so came to the minds of the jury. The judge in summing up the case, directed the jury to disregard the two written confessions & advised them to acquit C., but he was found guilty. C. appealed:—Held: the appeal would be allowed & the conviction quashed.—R. v. DIBBLE (1908), 72 J. P. 498; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. White (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 60.

5878. Conviction upheld — Effect of evidence negatived in summing up.—R. v. CROOKS (1889), 5 T. L. R. 620, C. C. R.

voluntary.—Evidence held not admissible on a trial for theft, of an alleged confession of accused when virtually under arrest, as there was nothing to show that the statement was made voluntarily. Because of the improper admission of such evidence & of evidence given by the prosecution in rebuttal which was not proper rebuttal evidence, & as in the opinion of the ct. there was no other evidence to justify it, conviction was set aside.—R. v. HUGHES, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 119; 55 D. L. R. 697; 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 103.—CAN.

e. — — — — —.]—R. v. JONES, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 411; 62 D. L. R. 413; 36 Can. Crim. Cas. 208; 17 Alta. L. R. 86.—CAN.

f. — Report of Commission — Speeches in Legislative Assembly.—

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 5.]

5879. ———.]—A conviction will not be quashed if the jury is properly warned against prejudicial evidence accidentally admitted.—R. v. LUCAS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 234, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Stratton (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 255; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

5880. ———.]—Notwithstanding that the fact of a previous conviction has been illegally elicited in cross-examination, if the judge has successfully checked its influence on the mind of the jury, & the ct. is satisfied that there has been no miscarriage of justice, the ct. will not interfere.—R. v. STRATTON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 255, C. C. A.

5881. ———.]—A slight irregularity in cross-examination, amply provided against by the judge, is not a ground for appeal.—R. v. SULLIVANT (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 265, C. C. A.

5882. ———.]—If when a previous conviction of a deft. on trial has, by the inadvertence of the ct. become known to the jury, they have been sufficiently cautioned against giving any weight to that information, a conviction by them will not necessarily be quashed.—R. v. HARGREAVES (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

5883. ———.]—Where a statement was put in which contained certain observations adverse to applt. & its admission was objected to by counsel at the trial, & after it had been read the judge observed: "I did not know what was in it; now I have heard it read I do not think it is evidence," & strongly cautioned the jury against taking it into account:—Held: the admission of this evidence had led to no substantial miscarriage of justice.—R. v. WILSON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

5884. ———.]—In answer to a question, a witness for the prosecution said: "After he had done his two years."

It was an unfortunate incident but it was not due in any way to the carelessness of counsel, who put the question quite rightly; but the witness could only fix a certain date by reference to a period of two years' imprisonment which applt. had served. The judge at once, & again in his summing up, directed the jury not to allow the question to affect them. We cannot think that the answer affected their decision (per CUR.).—

R. v. DEAN & MEAGHER (1896), 17 N. S. W. L. R. 132; 12 N. S. W. W. N. 141.—AUS.

g. ——— Depositions on trial of another.—At the trial of prisoner, prosecuting counsel put in a letter, addressed to the Crown Attorney, from counsel who had been retained to act for prisoner, as follows:—"I find that I will be unable to go on with this trial on Dec. 28. . . . Would you kindly see the judge & ask him if he can take it on Jan. 6. . . . I am quite willing to accept the evidence of the family, in particular those who gave evidence at the H. trial, so that it would not be necessary for you to call them." The trial was proceeded with on Dec. 29, prisoner then being represented by another counsel, when, in addition to the letter, the depositions of two witnesses taken at the trial of H., who were not members of the family, were put in without the consent of, or objection to on the part of, prisoner's counsel:—Held: assuming the consent in the letter, which seemed to be a concession for the proposed postponement of the trial to Jan. 6, wide enough to authorise the admission of the specified depositions, the depositions of the two witnesses not members of the family, were improperly received.—R. v. BROOKS (1906), 11 O. L. R. 525; 7 O. W. R. 533; 11 Can. Crim. Cas. 188.—CAN.

h. ——— Evidence taken at preliminary hearing.—Prisoner was tried upon an indictment for rape & seduction. After giving evidence at the preliminary hearing the girl upon whom the crime was alleged to have been committed, died. On the trial, counsel for the Crown, without proving the evidence of the girl taken on the preliminary hearing, & without objection from counsel for prisoner, read to the jury from his brief what purported to be a copy of the girl's evidence. The jury found prisoner guilty on the first count:—Held: though counsel for prisoner neglects to object, it is the duty of the judge in a criminal case to see that proper evidence only is before the jury, & prisoner should be discharged.—R. v. POWELL (1919), 27 B. C. R. 252.—CAN.

k. ——— Police evidence obtained by false representations.—A conviction in the Sheriff Ct. set aside on appeal, on the ground that the evidence of

R. v. SMITH (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 2153; 114 L. T. 239; 80 J. P. 31; 31 T. L. R. 617; 59 Sol. Jo. 704; 25 Cox, C. C. 271; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 229, C. C. A.

5885. ——— Evidence not objected to at time.—When prisoner is defended by counsel & he chooses, for reasons of his own, to allow such evidence to be let in without objection, he cannot come here & ask to have the verdict revised on that ground (per CUR.).—R. v. DAVIS & RIDLEY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 133, C. C. A.

5886. ———.]—R. v. BENSON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 70, C. C. A.

5887. ———.]—Objection to the admissibility of questions tending to prove prisoner's previous "bad character" must be taken at the trial.—R. v. HUDSON, [1912] 2 K. B. 464; 81 L. J. K. B. 861; 107 L. T. 31; 76 J. P. 421; 28 T. L. R. 459; 56 Sol. Jo. 574; 23 Cox, C. C. 61; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 256, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Watson (1913), 29 T. L. R. 450. Mentd. R. v. Biggin, [1920] 1 K. B. 213.

5888. ——— Evidence of another offence not implicating prisoner.—A conviction will not be quashed because a witness, in re-examination, volunteers inadmissible evidence of another offence not necessarily implicating deft.—R. v. PRIESTLEY (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

5889. ——— Where misreception of evidence is slight.—Where there is not any misdirection, a prisoner's admission of a previous conviction is no ground for quashing conviction nor is it a ground that slight mistakes in receiving evidence have been made.—R. v. JOYCE & BROWN (alias BROCKWELL) (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 82, C. C. A.

5890. ———.]—Evidence improperly given to which neither judge nor jury pays attention not a ground for quashing a conviction, & the ct. will dismiss an appeal where there is no ground for saying that there was no evidence on which the jury could convict, or that they were in any way misdirected.—R. v. GREEN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

5891. ———.]—Slight misdirection or improper admission or rejection of evidence is not sufficient ground to quash a conviction, unless there has been some "substantial miscarriage of justice."—R. v. BRANN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 256, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Campbell (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 75.

5892. ——— Reference by prosecution to inadmis- sible evidence. The Superintendent of Police ought not to have been admitted, his information having been obtained by means of false representations.—KERR v. MACKAY (1853), 1 Irv. 213; 25 Sc. Jur. 402; 2 Stuart, 388.—SCOT.

1. Conviction upheld.—Evidence of another offence.—Charge as to latter withdrawn.—It is no ground for quashing a conviction for unlawful assembly on one day, that evidence of an unlawful assembly on another day has been improperly received, if the latter charge was abandoned by the prosecuting counsel at the close of the case, & there was ample evidence to sustain the conviction.—R. v. MAILLOUX (1876), 3 Pug. 493.—CAN.

m. ——— Question by judge.—Prisoner was convicted of sodomy. During the Crown case the mother of the boy was called & gave evidence that she had examined the boy shortly after the offence was committed. In cross-examination she said, "My husband came home that night. I did not tell him of the boy's condition." She was then asked by the judge why she did not inform her husband; to which she replied that sible documents.]—R. v. SEHAM YOUSRY, No. 5521, ante.

5893. ——— Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied—Statement made in presence of prisoner.]—R. v. ATHERTON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 233, C. C. A.

5894. ——— ——]—The jury should be directed that, a statement made by one prisoner implicating another & immediately denied, although strictly admissible as evidence, must not be accepted as evidence of the facts contained in such statement. Notwithstanding the lack of such a direction to the jury by the presiding judge at the trial, the ct. will act under the above proviso if they are satisfied that no substantial miscarriage of justice has taken place. In the absence of any reasonable explanation by applt. as to his recent possession of stolen goods, the conviction was upheld on appeal.—R. v. CURNOCK (1914), 111 L. T. 816; 24 Cox, C. C. 440; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

5895. ——— Statement by mother of prisoner.]—R. v. WILSON, No. 5883, ante.

5896. ——— Statement by accomplice.]—R. v. STROUD (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 38, C. C. A.

5897. ——— Evidence of general fraudulent conduct.]—R. v. CUTTING (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 150, C. C. A.

5898. ——— Admission of deposition.]—R. v. TOTTERDELL (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 274, C. C. A.

5899. ——— Evidence of other offences.]—Where owing to a general misunderstanding, on the trial of a charge of larceny, evidence was wrongfully admitted of another larceny by prisoner at precisely the same place & time, but the jury were cautioned against the confusion, & there was in the opinion of the ct. no miscarriage of justice, the ct. refused to quash the conviction.—R. v. LOATES (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 193, C. C. A. Annotation:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

5900. ——— Evidence of trial by court-martial.]—Applt. who was entrusted with the squadron account & also with the sergeants' mess account of the regiment in which he was quartermaster-sergeant, was indicted for uttering a forged receipt in respect of the latter account. At the trial evidence was given of a conversation between applt. & his captain in which applt. said he was £60 out in his squadron accounts, & asked the captain for a loan of the money promising repayment out of his deferred pay. Applt. was convicted. Evidence was also admitted at the

she had never heard of such a thing before & did not know that a crime had been committed. Objection was taken on behalf of prisoner that the judge was not entitled to ask the witness her reason for not informing her husband:—Held: the evidence was admissible. Even if objectionable it would not constitute a substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice within sect. 476, Crimes Act, 1900.—R. v. KELLY (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 518.—AUS.

n. ——— Admission of secondary evidence.]—Secondary evidence of a document having been given without objection prisoner's counsel afterwards asked that the evidence be withdrawn from the jury, the judge refused:—Held: the objection only being as to the mode of proof the case fell within the proviso to sect. 423, which provides "that no conviction shall be reversed unless for some substantial wrong or other miscarriage of justice."—R. v. UMPLEBY (1897), 8 N. S. W. L. R. 154; 13 N. S. W. W. N. 181.—AUS.

o. ——— ]—A witness said he knew the prisoner was in B. on a certain day in July, 1913, from inquiries made & what prisoner had told him. The evidence was objected to. The judge made no note of the evidence & it was disregarded. Evidence in rebuttal established that the prisoner had admitted that he was in Brisbane in July, 1913.

On appeal from the conviction on the ground that the above evidence was improperly admitted:—Held: the ct. would, if necessary, decide on the circumstances of the case that no substantial miscarriage of justice had actually occurred, & would dismiss the appeal under Criminal Code Act of 1913, s. 9.—R. v. MORRIS (No. 2), [1914] S. R. Q. 274.—AUS.

p. ——— ]—Prisoner was indicted for unlawfully using an instrument on L. with intent to procure a miscarriage. L. was called for the prosecution to prove the charge, & in cross-examination denied that she had told A., R., & T., that before prisoner had operated on her she had been operated on by a doctor for the purpose of procuring a trial to the effect that applt. had been tried by court-martial, but applt.'s counsel in cross-examination elicited the fact that the verdict of the court-martial against applt. had been quashed by the Judge Advocate-General. The Judge in his summing up also pointed this out to the jury, & no point was made by the prosecution that the verdict of the court-martial should be taken into consideration:—Held: (1) evidence of above conversation was properly admitted in order to show that about the same time as the commission of the offence with which he was charged applt. was in want of money; (2) without deciding whether the evidence as to the court-martial proceedings was properly admitted or not, no substantial miscarriage of justice had occurred, & the case came within the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).—R. v. WESTACOTT (1908), 25 T. L. R. 192; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 246, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (2) Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599.

5901. ——— Evidence of previous conviction.]—R. v. JOYCE & BROWN (alias BROCKWELL), No. 5889, ante.

5902. ——— ——]—R. v. SOLOMON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Beecham, [1921] 3 K. B. 464.

5903. ——— ——]—The ct. will not, in view of the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), quash a conviction on the ground of the misreception of unimportant evidence.—R. v. BIDDULPH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 221, C. C. A.

5904. ——— ——]—If evidence of previous convictions has been admitted owing to deft.'s action at the trial, the ct. will not grant relief on that ground only.—R. v. COLLINS (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 6, C. C. A.

5905. ——— Elicited in cross-examination.]—R. v. STRATTON, No. 5880, ante.

5906. ——— ——]—Under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), the appeal in this case was dismissed, inasmuch as having regard to the other evidence given at the trial, no substantial miscarriage of justice had actually occurred by a previous conviction of deft. which was elicited in cross-examination.—R. v. BEECHAM, [1921] 3 K. B. 464; 90 L. J. K. B. 1370; 85 J. P. 276; 37 T. L. R. 932; 65 Sol. Jo. 768; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 26, C. C. A.

5907. ——— Evidence of handwriting.]—R. v. O'BRIEN (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 29, C. C. A.

miscarriage. A., R., & T., were called for the defence, & swore that L. had so told them. The doctor was then called by the Crown, & he swore that he had not operated on L.:—Held: the evidence of the doctor was properly admitted; but in any event prisoner's case was not so affected by the evidence as to warrant a reversal of the conviction, even if the evidence were not strictly admissible.—R. v. ANDREWS (1886), 12 O. L. 184.—CAN.

q. ——— Threats made by prisoner to another person.]—Evidence of threats made by prisoner in respect of another person was improperly admitted, but, in the circumstances, no substantial wrong or miscarriage of justice was occasioned on the trial by reason of the evidence, & therefore, under Criminal Code, s. 1019, the conviction should not be set aside or a new trial directed.—R. v. SUNFIELD (1907), 10 O. W. R. 1010; 15 O. L. R. 252.—CAN.

r. ——— ]—Prisoner was convicted of murdering S. On motion for discharge of prisoner on a reserved case the questions reserved were:

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sects. 5, 6 & 7, A. (a) & (b).]

5908. ——— Evidence other than inadmissible evidence sufficient.]—The ct. will quash a conviction, where the only evidence of guilt is an answer to the charge which may or may not be construed as an admission.

If the ct. thinks there was sufficient evidence of a larceny, even though some evidence given thereof was inadmissible, it will not quash the conviction.

Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied in such a case where invoices received by an agent in this country from consignors abroad were admitted as evidence of the contents of a box landed in England.—R. v. BARKER & PAGE (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 191, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 6.—WRONGFUL EXCLUSION OF EVIDENCE AT TRIAL.

5909. Conviction quashed—Evidence for defence excluded.]—When the issue is whether applt. was carrying on a genuine business, he is entitled to put in evidence receipts bearing on that point, & if his bank books are put in, to refer to entries in them.

The evidence was admissible in law, & its exclusion has prevented applt. from putting forward a substantial part of its defence. Consequently the conviction must be quashed (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. SAGAR, [1914] 3 K. B. 1112; 84 L. J. K. B. 303; 112 L. T. 135; 79 J. P. 32; 24 Cox, C. C. 500; 10 Cr. App. Rep. 279, C. C. A.

5910. ——— ]—Conviction quashed on the ground of misdirection & improper exclusion of evidence.—R. v. HUMPHREYS (1919), 84 J. P. 48; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

5911. Conviction upheld—Cross-examination stopped.—Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied.]—The above proviso applied though a cross-examination was wrongly stopped.—R. v. SMALLMAN (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 1, C. C. A.

“Was the evidence of statements made by prisoner at the police station properly admitted?” & “Should there be a new trial because of wrongful admission of the evidence, or any part thereof?”—Held: the questions should be answered adversely to prisoner & the conviction affirmed.—R. v. STEFFOFF (1909), 14 O. W. R. 1233; 1 O. W. N. 250; 20 O. L. R. 103.—CAN.

s. ——— ]—A witness, A., when about to leave the box was noticed by the judge to be muttering; he asked the interpreter what she was saying; & this brought out a statement from the witness respecting something said by deceased to witness, tending to incriminate prisoners, & which at that stage of the trial was not admissible.—Held: as the ante-mortem statement of deceased made to A. which included the matter so improperly brought out, was afterwards admitted, no wrong or miscarriage had resulted therefrom.—R. v. WALKER & CHINLEY (1910), 13 W. L. R. 47.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 6.

t. New trial granted—Evidence for defence excluded.]—A new trial granted of a charge of carnally knowing a girl of previously chaste character & between the ages of fourteen & sixteen, for the reason that accused should have been allowed to give evidence to show that he was not at his house, where the offence was alleged to have been committed, at the period when it might have been committed.—R. v. McPHERSON, [1922] 2 W. W. R. 723; 69 D. L. R. 301; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 315.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—A. (a).

5916 i. Slight omission.—Not a ground for quashing conviction.]—If, on the facts of the case in a murder trial, accused was either guilty of murder or not guilty on account of insanity it is not a reversible error for the judge to omit any direction to the jury that in the event of their finding accused to have been sane at the time of the commission of the offence, they should also consider whether or not what he did amounted to manslaughter.—R. v. OLKHOVIK, [1920] 35 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 56 D. L. R. 499.—CAN.

s. Omission calculated to mislead jury—Ground for quashing conviction.]—The omission by the judge in his charge to the jury, to mention the fact of the original witnesses named in the first information having been abandoned by the prosecution of two of them having given evidence for the defence, & of the witnesses actually examined for the prosecution being entirely new witnesses, is a sufficient misdirection to justify the setting aside of the conviction.—DASARATH MANDAL

SUB-SECT. 7.—MISDIRECTION.

A. Insufficient Direction.

(a) In General.

5912. When calculated to mislead jury—Ground for quashing conviction.]—R. v. WANN, No. 5661, ante.

5913. ——— ]—An inadequate summing up may be a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. MCGILL (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 267, C. C. A.

5914. ——— ]—ANON., No. 5588, ante.

5915. ——— ]—Even in a case where corroboration is not legally essential, a confusion in the summing up upon the nature & meaning of corroboration, may invalidate a conviction.—R. v. RUDGE (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 113, C. C. A.

5916. Slight omission.—Not a ground for quashing conviction.]—An omission by the judge to call attention to a slight discrepancy between a witness's evidence at the trial & that at the coroner's inquisition is not misdirection.—R. v. BEAL (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

5917. ——— ]—R. v. BROWNHILL, No. 5627, ante.

5918. ——— ]—Mere omission to deal with a point of evidence is not necessarily misdirection.—R. v. MACLEAN (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

5919. Non-direction may amount to misdirection—Except in a simple case.]—In a simple case the judge is entitled to ask the jury whether they will dispense with his summing up.—R. v. NEWMAN (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 134, C. C. A.

5920. ——— ]—Applt. was convicted of high treason upon an indictment which charged him, inter alia, with adhering to, aiding, & comforting the King's enemies. He was by birth a German subject, but became a naturalised British subject in 1905. From that time up to the year 1914, he acted as German consul at Sunderland. On Aug. 4, 1914, a state of war existed between England & Germany as from 11 p.m. on that date. There was evidence at the trial that on Aug. 5 applt. had given advice & assistance which enabled German subjects liable to be called upon for military service in Germany to return there. The direction given by the judge to the jury was,

v. R. (1907), 1 L. R. 34 Calc. 325.—IND.

5920 i. Non-direction may amount to misdirection.]—Prisoners, who had been drinking, came on deceased's lawn & commenced to shout, sing & use profane & insulting language towards him. He twice warned them away, & finally appeared with a loaded gun threatening to shoot. A rush was made towards where he stood, when he took hold of the barrel of the gun & struck one of prisoners with the stock. The gun was discharged into his body, & there was evidence that prisoners then maltreated him. Next day he was taken to a hospital where he died. The judge in charging the jury instructed them that prisoners were doing an unlawful act in trespassing on the property of deceased, & if they were actuated by malice it would be murder, if not it was manslaughter, drawing their attention especially to Criminal Code, ss. 256 & 259 (b). Prisoners were found guilty of murder:—Held: the judge should have drawn the attention of the jury to sect. 259, sub-sect. (d), & directed them to find whether or not prisoners knew, or ought to have known, that their acts were likely to cause death, & his failure to do so was non-direction for which prisoners were entitled to a new trial.—R. v. GRAVES (1912), 12 E. L. R. 332; 9 D. L. R. 30, 175.—CAN.

5920 ii. ——— ]—In some circum-

in effect, that, if applt. knew of the declaration of war between England & Germany at the time when he was giving such advice & assistance, they must find him guilty, & that he was lawfully entitled to act as he did, even after war was declared, was no defence:—Held: the direction to the jury should have been that they must consider whether, in acting as he did, the intention & purpose of applt. was evil & that he intended to aid & comfort the King's enemies, or whether he acted in good faith to his country & under the belief that it was his duty to assist German subjects to return to Germany; no direction on this point had been given to the jury, & the conviction must therefore be quashed.—R. v. AHLERS, [1915] 1 K. B. 616; 84 L. J. K. B. 901; 112 L. T. 558; 79 J. P. 255; 31 T. L. R. 141; 24 Cox, C. C. 623; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

5921. — Larceny.—At the end of a trial for larceny on several different occasions, which had lasted four days, the assistant Recorder omitted to direct the jury, saying that they had heard the case, that he expected they had had enough of it, & that anything he could say would be of little use. The prisoner complained of the method of identification adopted, & as to some of the charges his evidence went to establish an alibi. The jury found the prisoner guilty. On appeal the conviction was quashed on the ground that in the circumstances the assistant Recorder should have directed the jury on the question of identification & should have told them that if they thought that upon the evidence some of the charges could not be supported they might, if they saw fit, acquit the prisoner.—R. v. FINCH (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575; 115 L. T. 458; 25 Cox, C. C. 537; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

5922. ——A conviction will be quashed for non-direction on a vital point of fact.—R. v. KURASCH (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

5923. ——R. v. HAMILTON, No. 5711, ante.

5924. — Receiving.—R. v. EVANS, No. 5833, ante.

5925. ——Non-direction, on charges of receiving stolen goods with guilty knowledge, may amount to misdirection leading to the quashing of a conviction.—R. v. BARTLETT, BRADBERRY & GREEN (1920), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 157, C. C. A.

5926. ——A grave omission to direct the jury on a vital point of law cannot be made good merely by counsel's calling attention to it at the termination of the summing up.—R. v. WILLETT (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 146, C. C. A.

5927. Defence an alibi.—Direction as to identification necessary.—When the sole defence is an alibi, identification by a single witness must be conducted with great care & the summing up must deal carefully with the facts of the identification.—R. v. MILLICHAMP (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 83, C. C. A.

(b) As to Necessary Ingredients of Offence.

5928. Larceny—Intent to steal.—A. sold a horse to B. There was a dispute between A. & B. as to the price at which the horse was sold, & eventually A., after repeated efforts to obtain what he said was owed to him by B., threatened to take the horse back, & eventually did so. A.

was convicted of larceny. The Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction on the ground that there was no proper summing up on the question of "felonious intent," & also no proper evidence of "felonious intent" to go to the jury.—R. v. CLAY (1909), 74 J. P. 55; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 92, C. C. A.

5929. ——On a charge of larceny, when the facts are compatible with an honest mistake on deft.'s part, there must be a direction on intent to steal.—R. v. STURGESS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 120, C. C. A.

5930. — Guilty knowledge.—When a man is jointly indicted with his paramour for stealing the goods of her husband at or about the time of her leaving the latter, the jury must be clearly directed as to the proof of his guilty knowledge & should not have topics of prejudice connected with his immorality addressed to them.—R. v. BLOOM (1910), 74 J. P. 183; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 30, C. C. A.

5931. — Intention to pass property.—Where larceny by a trick is alleged, the jury should be directed on the question whether there was an intention to pass the property, or merely to part with possession.—R. v. SPINNEY (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

5932. — Cheque & proceeds.—On a trial for larceny of a cheque, it is a misdirection not to distinguish between the instrument & the proceeds thereof. The attention of the jury should be drawn to the specific facts that they must find in order to convict.—R. v. HAMPTON (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1137; 113 L. T. 378; 24 Cox, C. C. 722; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

5933. Obtaining by false pretences—Intent to defraud.—On a charge of obtaining by false pretences, the nature of the offence, as differing from mere dishonesty, ought to be explained to the jury.—R. v. BAKER (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 152, C. C. A.

5934. ——On an indictment for obtaining money by false pretences, it is essential that the jury should understand that there should be no conviction without an intent to defraud, & unless such intent is clear from the facts, they should be directed on the point; they should also be directed that the obtaining must be due to the false pretence alleged.—R. v. FERGUSON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 133, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Bentote (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 149.

5935. ——On an indictment for obtaining by false pretences, it is not always essential that the jury should be directed in so many words that there must be an intent to defraud.—R. v. CARR (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 140, C. C. A.

5936. ——Except in the clearest case, there must be a direction to the jury on a charge of obtaining by false pretences that an intent to defraud must be proved before they can convict.—R. v. SECOMBE (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 275, C. C. A.

5937. ——Proviso to sect. 4 of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), applied when there was no direction on the intent to defraud.—R. v. BENTOTE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

5938. ——A direction on "intent to defraud" should put the issue of fraud clearly stances non-direction to a jury may be substantially & in effect misdirection, & therefore may be misdirection absolutely, & consequently involve a question of law within the meaning of Criminal Code, s. 1914.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 805.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—
A. (b).

b. General rule.—It is the duty of the judge in a criminal trial with a jury to define to the jury the crime charged & to explain the difference between it & its cognate offences, if any. Failure to so instruct the jury is good cause for granting a new trial, & the fact that counsel for the accused took no exception to the Judge's charge is immaterial.—R. v. WONG ON & WONG GOW (1904), 24 C. L. T. 384; 10 B. C. R. 555.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 7, A. (b) & (c) & B. (a) & (b).]

before the jury.—R. v. SUMMERSKILL (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 170, C. C. A.

5939. — Guilty knowledge.]—R. v. DUTT*, No. 5756, ante.

5940. — Nature of pretence.]—The direction as to a false pretence alleged must be precise.—R. v. HEATH (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 247, C. C. A.

5941. Receiving—Guilty knowledge.]—On an indictment for receiving stolen property, if there is evidence that it was found in the deft.'s possession, the jury must be carefully directed on the question whether he had any knowledge where it was.—R. v. HIGGINBOTTOM (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

5942. — Possession.]—Joint possession must not be presumed; an omission to deal with the law on the point may be a misdirection resulting in a miscarriage of justice.—R. v. FLATMAN (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 256, C. C. A.

5943. — Onus of proof.]—When deft. accused of receiving stolen goods property gives evidence, it is especially important that the direction should deal accurately with the law of onus in such cases.—R. v. LEWIS (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 33, C. C. A.

5944. Demanding property on forged document—Guilty knowledge.]—R. v. SMITH*, No. 5838, ante.

5945. Perjury.]—R. v. GASKELL*, No. 5848, ante.

5946. User for purpose of betting.]—User of a place by a person not the owner or occupier for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto is not within the Betting Act, 1853 (c. 119), s. 3, unless the sanction of some one in authority or his servant is proved.

Applt. was tried for unlawfully using a room in the F., M., for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto, in contravention of sect. 3 of the Act. The barman, K., was expressly forbidden to allow betting. The servants in charge of the hotel—K. & B.—knew that applt. was carrying on the business of betting in the room:—Held: the word "use" meant user with the sanction of the landlord or of his servants, & as the judge had failed to point this out to the jury, who may have thought that mere use of the premises in the ordinary way was enough to justify a conviction, & that the sanction of the landlord or his servants was not necessary, or that deft. was liable in any case if he carried on ready-money betting in the room. The conviction must be quashed.—R. v. MOSS (1910), 74 J. P. 214; 26 T. L. R. 323; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 112, C. C. A.

5947. Attempt to commit crime.]—On an indictment charging an attempt to commit a crime it may be a misdirection not to distinguish an attempt in law from an intention or a threat.—R. v. LANDOW (1913), 109 L. T. 48; 77 J. P. 364; 29 T. L. R. 375; 23 Cox, C. C. 457; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 218, C. C. A.

(c) Case for Defence not put to Jury.

5948. Whether ground for quashing conviction.]

—The prisoner was convicted of murder. At the trial the judge in his summing up omitted all mention of the defence raised on behalf of the prisoner:—Held: as it could not be said on the facts that if the attention of the jury had been directed to the defence by the judge the result of the trial would have been & ought to have been different, the omission to refer to the defence had not led to a miscarriage of justice. In determining whether there has been a miscarriage of justice, the ct. may consider what the applt. has said in his notice of appeal, although it may not be entitled to consider what is stated therein in determining whether the verdict is unreasonable or cannot be supported having regard to the evidence.—R. v. NICHOLLS (1908), 73 J. P. 11; 25 T. L. R. 65; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 167, C. C. A.

5949. —.]—A judge in summing up is bound to put the defence, however weak, before the jury.—R. v. DINNICK (1909), 74 J. P. 32; 26 T. L. R. 74; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Hill (1911), 28 T. L. R. 15. Expld. R. v. Trueman (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 20. Folld. R. v. Immer, R. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 416.

5950. —.]—R. v. RICHARDS*, No. 5718, ante.

5951. —.]—On an indictment for receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge, great care must be taken when the accused is clearly not guilty of the theft, & the theft is not recent, having regard to the object stolen, to put his account clearly before the jury.—R. v. FIELD (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 190, C. C. A.

5952. —.]—R. v. RUFFINO*, No. 5872, ante.

5953. —.]—R. v. HILL*, No. 5670, ante.

5954. —.]—Where an issue at the trial is the identity of certain goods with those alleged to have been stolen, it is a grave misdirection to assume such identity, & where one of the questions in dispute was never left to the jury, the ct. will quash a conviction.—R. v. HILL (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 250, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Smith (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 19.

5955. —.]—Where the defence is that the property alleged to be stolen has been abandoned, there must be a specific direction to the jury on this point.—R. v. WHITE (1912), 107 L. T. 528; 76 J. P. 384; 23 Cox, C. C. 190; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 266, C. C. A.

5956. —.]—If the ct. considers that deft.'s case was not fully put to the jury, it may quash

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— A. (c).

5948 i. Whether ground for quashing conviction.]—Where accused is undefended at the trial, the judge must be careful to point out to the jury the leading points in favour of the defence, but where accused has himself made an elaborate address to the jury & has refused throughout a long trial to have counsel an appellate ct. should not be astute in finding points overlooked by the trial judge in his charge.—R. v. KELLY (1916), 35 W. L. R. 46; (1917), 1 W. W. R. 46; 54 S. C. R. 220.—CAN.

5948 ii. —.]—If the omission of the judge in his charge to the jury to refer to confirmatory circumstances brought out in evidence upon an alibi claim was such as to prejudice seriously accused & to make the judge's statement of the evidence misleading to the jury, it is proper to grant a new trial on a case reserved.—R. v. HYDER (1917), 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 172.—CAN.

5948 iii. —.]—The theory of the defence & the evidence favourable to the defence should be put before the jury in such a way as to ensure their appreciation of the points at issue. But every bit of evidence & every inconsistency therein need not be pointed out to the jury.—R. v. BAUGH (1917), 38 O. L. R. 559; 33 D. L. R. 191; 28 Can. Crim. Cas. 146.—CAN.

5948 iv. —.]—It is the duty of a trial judge to put the defence fairly before the jury so that it may appreciate what it is & determine the weight to be given to the evidence in support of it.—R. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

5948 v. —.]—Where the medical opinion was that the injuries of deceased were not, in the case of a man in ordinary health, dangerous to life.—Held: the judge should have specially called the attention of the jury to such opinion.—PANCHU DAS v. R. (1907), 1 L. R. 34 Calc. 698; 11 C. W. N. 666.—IND.

5948 vi. —.]—The omission by the judge in his charge to the jury, to mention the fact of the original witnesses named in the first information having been abandoned by the prosecution, of two of them having given evidence for the defence, & of the witnesses actually examined for the prosecution being entirely new witnesses, is a sufficient misdirection to justify the setting aside of the conviction.—DASARATH MANDAL v. R. (1907), 1 L. R. 34 Calc. 325.—IND.

a conviction.—R. v. WILSON (alias WHITTINGDALE) (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

5957. —[.]—ANON., No. 5588, ante.

5958. —[.]—On the trial of an indictment for receiving stolen goods with guilty knowledge the jury should be expressly asked to consider whether deft.'s explanation of his possession of the goods soon after the theft of them is reasonable or not. An attempt to evade arrest should not be unduly insisted upon as evidence of guilt.—R. v. HAMPSON (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 75.

5959. —[.]—Whatever line of defence is taken by counsel at a trial, it is for the judge to leave to the jury all the questions which appear to him to arise upon the evidence, whether they have been raised by counsel or not. The ct. must not exclude from consideration any view of the facts of a case other than that presented by prisoner in giving evidence.—R. v. HOPPER, [1915] 2 K. B. 431; 84 L. J. K. B. 1371; 113 L. T. 381; 79 J. P. 335; 31 T. L. R. 360; 59 Sol. Jo. 478; 25 Cox, C. C. 34; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 136, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Distd. R. v. Clinton (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 215. Refd. R. v. Beard (1920), 84 J. P. 129.

5960. —[.]—When a deft. charged with larceny disputes the identity of property found in his possession with that stolen, there must be a clear direction to the jury on the issue of identity.—R. v. BRUHIN (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 276, C. C. A.

5961. —[.]—A summing up in effect recommending a verdict of guilty which does not adequately put the prisoner's case will be quashed.—R. v. FRAMPTON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 202, C. C. A.

5962. —[.]—The rule that a summing up must carefully put the defence is specially strict when deft. is not represented by counsel. A summing up is sufficient if it is not unfair to the accused & if points are not withheld which it is reasonable to suppose are not already properly before the jury (DARLING, J.).—R. v. IMMER, R. v. DAVIS (1917), 118 L. T. 416; 26 Cox, C. C. 186; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

—[.]—On a charge of receiving stolen property, whether the jury believe the deft.'s explanation or not, the onus of proof lies on the prosecution. To ignore the evidence for the defence amounts to a misdirection.—R. v. BADASH (1917), 87 L. J. K. B. 732; 118 L. T. 179; 26 Cox, C. C. 155; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

5964. —[.]—The defence must be put to the jury in summing up.

In charges of fraud, there must be a direction on the intent.—R. v. THOMPSON (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 6, C. C. A.

5965. —[.]—A bonâ fide belief by the accused that he has a legal claim to property is a good defence to the charge of larceny thereof, & must be submitted to the jury.—R. v. CLAYTON (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 45.

5966. Sufficient to put substantial defence.—[.]—Omission in a summing up to tell a jury in terms what the defence is does not amount to misdirection.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— B. (a).

5969 i. Summing up to be considered as a whole.—[.]—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal in considering objections to the summing up will regard the whole of the summing up in the light of the conduct of the trial, the questions raised by the prosecution & the defences set up.—R. v. TEMPLETON, [1922] St. R. Qd. 165.—AUS.

5969 ii. —[.]—A trial judge is justified in refusing to direct the jury specifically that "besides being satisfied that the facts proven were consistent with prisoner's guilt, they must also be with any other rational explanation, theory or hypotheses," if the charge made this principle sufficiently obvious to the jury in other language.—R. v. COOK (1914), 14 E. L. R. 471; 18 D. L. R. 706; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 50.—CAN.

5970 i. Defective summing up not necessarily a ground for quashing a conviction.—[.]—To sanction interference with the verdict on misdirection ct. must be satisfied that omission of some specific evidence caused jury to be misled or that they would not have returned verdict of guilty if their attention if the issues in the case are in substance put to the jury in the summing up.—R. v. BRADSHAW, R. v. EDWARDS, R. v. JONES (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 280, C. C. A.

5967. —[.]—R. v. TRUEMAN, [1913] 3 K. B. 164; 82 L. J. K. B. 916; 109 L. T. 413; 77 J. P. 428; 29 T. L. R. 599; 23 Cox, C. C. 550; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 20.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Syme (1911), 112 L. T. 136.

5968. —[.]—On a charge of murder by shooting with a revolver the defences raised were that applt. was in such a drunken state that the offence should be reduced to manslaughter, & alternatively that the shooting that took place during a struggle was purely accidental. On appeal from a verdict of manslaughter it was contended that the judge misdirected the jury by disregarding to a great extent the defence of accident & directing the jury mainly on the question of manslaughter:—Held: the judge was right in not putting the defence of accident too prominently before the jury, as counsel for applt. had obviously, in his discretion, relied mainly on the defence of manslaughter; there had been no misdirection which would justify the ct. in quashing the conviction; & the appeal must be dismissed.—R. v. GORGES (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 1049; 114 L. T. 77; 25 Cox, C. C. 218; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 259, C. C. A.

B. Misdirection of Fact.

(a) In General.

5969. Summing up to be considered as a whole.—[.]

—R. v. CRIPPEN, No. 5524, ante.

5970. Defective summing up not necessarily a ground for quashing a conviction.—[.]—Though some expressions used by the judge may be open to criticism, if looking at the summing up as a whole, it cannot be said there has been any substantial misdirection, & if the ct. is satisfied with the result of the trial it will not interfere (ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. DODDS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 65; 72 J. P. Jo. 352, C. C. A.

5971. —[.]—R. v. COHEN, No. 6115, post.

5972. —[.]—Where there is a direct conflict of testimony, if the main issue is put fairly to the jury, the ct. will not interfere merely on account of some want of clearness in the summing up.—R. v. GOLDING (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 83, C. C. A.

5973. —[.]—Despite too strong or immoderate remarks in a summing up, the ct. will not quash a conviction unless there has been a miscarriage of justice.—R. v. HEPWORTH (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 128, C. C. A.

5974. —[.]—The ct. will not grant leave to appeal if, despite unhappy expressions in the summing up likely to injure the defence, it is of opinion that, on the whole, there was no misdirection.—R. v. CARTER (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 192, C. C. A.

(b) Serious Misdirection.

5975. Serious misstatement of fact a ground for quashing.—[.]—W. & C. were indicted for stealing attention had been drawn to it by the judge.—SULLIVAN v. R. (1913), 15 W. A. L. R. 23.—AUS.

5970 ii. —[.]—Misdirection in order to form a ground for quashing a conviction must be a misdirection in law & not a misdirection in fact. A judge is entitled to make in his summing up such observations on the evidence as he thinks fit.—JEFFRIES v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 143.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— B. (b).

5975 i. Serious mis-statement of fact

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 7, B. (b) & (c) & C. (a).]

certain property & receiving it, well knowing it to have been stolen. W. pleaded guilty & C. not guilty. It appeared that C., when arrested, was with a barrow on which was the stolen property. C. told the detectives that he had obtained the property from K., of 55, East Street. He had, in fact, obtained it from W., of 55, East Street, & the defence was that he was innocently employed in carting the property at the instance of W. W. was called for the prosecution & supported C.'s defence. The judge, in summing up to the jury, said: "Where is K.? Why does not K. come here & tell you all about it?" C. was convicted, but obtained leave to appeal. On the appeal he obtained leave to call W., who said that he had married a widow named K. & was known to C. as "S. K." The ct. said that they believed this evidence, & as they could not say the verdict would have stood if the mistake had not been made, they allowed the appeal, & the prisoner was discharged.—R. v. COLEMAN (1908), 72 J. P. 425; 24 T. L. R. 798; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 50, C. C. A.

5976. S. P. R. v. SOVOSKI (1908), 72 J. P. 435; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 98, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Norton (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 65.

5977. S. P. R. v. MASON (1909), 73 J. P. 250; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

5978. S. P. R. v. MARTIN (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 98, C. C. A.

5979. S. P. R. v. SIMPSON (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 54, C. C. A.

5980. S. P. R. v. RODDA (1910), 74 J. P. 412; 26 T. L. R. 539; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

5981. S. P. R. v. FELDMAN (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 214, C. C. A.

5982. S. P. R. v. BUNDY (1910), 75 J. P. 111; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 270, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Fold. R. v. Finch (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575.

5983. S. P. R. v. JOHNSON (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 82, C. C. A.

5984. S. P. R. v. BROOKS (1911), 6 App. Cr. Rep. 263, C. C. A.

5985. S. P. R. v. ELLSOM (1911), 76 J. P. 38; 28 T. L. R. 1; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. A.

5986. S. P. R. v. SAVIDGE (1911), 76 J. P. 32; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 34, C. C. A.

5987. S. P. R. v. CORRIGAN (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 4, C. C. R.

5988. S. P. R. v. HAGAN (alias SMITH) (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Schama, R. v. Abramovitch (1914), 112 L. T. 480.

5989. S. P. R. v. MYERS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 264, C. C. A.

5990. S. P. R. v. HUMPHREYS (1919), 84 J. P. 48; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

a ground for quashing.—R. v. MURPHY (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 646.—AUS.

5975 ii. ————R. v. WILSON (1914), 14 S. R. N. S. W. 7; 31 N. S. W. W. N. 12.—AUS.

5975 iii. ————JACKMAN v. R. (1914), 16 W. A. L. R. 8.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—
B. (c).

5993 i. Slight mis-statement of evidence not ground for quashing—No substantial miscarriage of justice.—R. v. SNOW (1918), S. A. L. R. 173.—AUS.

5993 ii. ————R. v. HOGUE (1917), 39 O. L. R. 427.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.—
C. (a).

c. General rule—Charge to be viewed as a whole.—A ct. of appeal where the question is misdirection of the jury, must look at the charge to the jury as a whole & with regard to the circumstances under consideration, & where a trial judge in his charge has made use of expressions which it might be supposed would, if taken alone, lead the jury to believe that the evidence of the accused himself is not sufficient to prove an alibi unless it is corroborated, but a perusal of the whole charge shows that the alleged error is at the worst merely technical, & that no substantial wrong has been done to the accused, a new trial should not be ordered.—R. v. MILLER, [1923] 2 W. W. R. 625; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 130; 32 B. C. R. 298.—CAN.

6006 i. Jury clearly misdirected—Conviction quashed—Unless jury must have given same verdict on proper direction.—

5991. S. P. R. v. SHAW (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 139.

5992. S. P. R. v. ADAMS (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 77, C. C. A.

(c) Slight Misdirection.

5993. Slight misstatement of evidence not a ground for quashing—No substantial miscarriage of justice.—The ct. will not re-try a case on the evidence at the trial properly submitted to the jury & criticised by counsel. Slight mis-statements of effect of evidence by the judge not a ground of appeal. Judge giving his opinion on the facts not a mistake in law.—R. v. MARTIN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

5994. S. P. R. v. BRANN, No. 5891, ante.

5995. S. P. R. v. MARTIN, No. 5978, ante.

5996. S. P. R. v. PARKER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 118, C. C. A.

5997. S. P. R. v. SMITH & GRAINGER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 214, C. C. A.

5998. S. P. R. v. DONOGHUE (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 187, C. C. A.

5999. S. P. R. v. KAMS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 8, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Landow (1913), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 218.

6000. S. P. R. v. SYERS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 42, C. C. A.

6001. S. P. R. v. BUTLER (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 137, C. C. A.

6002. S. P. R. v. MONK (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

6003. S. P. R. v. FISHER & GROUT (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 164, C. C. A.

6004. S. P. R. v. WOLFF, No. 6159, post.

6005. S. P. R. v. SCOTT, No. 6138, post.

C. Misdirection in Law.

(a) In General.

6006. Jury clearly misdirected—Conviction quashed—Unless jury must have given same verdict on proper direction.—On an indictment for larceny the prisoner was convicted of larceny as a bailee. Appeal on the ground of misdirection:—Held: misdirection was a question of law, & therefore leave to appeal need not have been obtained, & in order to determine whether there had been a misdirection or not, the lines upon which the case for the prosecution had been conducted at the trial must be considered, & following the above rule, there had been no misdirection; & as in the opinion of the ct. no miscarriage of justice had been caused, Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1) would apply. Semble: although there may be a misdirection, unless the misdirection causes a substantial miscarriage of justice, an

To sanction interference with the verdict on misdirection, ct. must be satisfied that omission of some specific evidence caused jury to be misled or that they would not have returned verdict of guilty if their attention had been drawn to it by the judge.—SULLIVAN v. R. (1913), 15 W. A. L. R. 23.—AUS.

6006 ii. ————JEFFRIES v. R. (1916), 18 W. A. L. R. 143.—AUS.

6006 iii. ————Four persons were jointly charged with an offence & convicted & the Ct. of Criminal Appeal was of opinion that there had been a failure on the part of the judge to adequately state to the jury the facts which rendered the case against one of accused less strong than the case against the others. The ct. being unable to come to the con-

appeal against a conviction may be dismissed.—R. v. MEYER (1908), 99 L. T. 202; 24 T. L. R. 621; 21 Cox, C. C. 673; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 10; 72 J. P. Jo. 256, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Coleman (1908), 24 T. L. R. 798; R. v. Mortimer (1908), 24 T. L. R. 745; R. v. Wann (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 135. Mentd. R. v. O'Sullivan (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 35.

6007. ————.]—On the trial of an indictment for manslaughter there was evidence that prisoner had inflicted injuries upon the deceased more than a year & a day before the date of the death, & also certain further injuries within that period which tended to accelerate the death. The judge directed the jury that they might find prisoner guilty even if they thought that the death was wholly caused by the earlier injuries. The jury convicted prisoner. Upon an appeal against the conviction on the ground of misdirection :—Held : although upon a proper direction the jury would probably have found that the later injuries accelerated the death, as it was not certain that they would have done so, & as the ct. were not entitled under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), to substitute themselves for the jury & find the facts necessary for conviction, they could not say that there had been no substantial miscarriage of justice, so as to entitle them to dismiss the appeal upon that ground.—R. v. DYSON, [1908] 2 K. B. 454; 77 L. J. K. B. 813; 99 L. T. 201; 72 J. P. 303; 24 T. L. R. 653; 52 Sol. Jo. 535; 21 Cox, C. C. 669; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Refd. R. v. Stoddart (1909), 73 J. P. 348; R. v. Ellsom (1911), 76 J. P. 38; Mentd. Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; Crane v. Public Prosecutions Director, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

6008. ————.]—R. v. COHEN, No. 6115, post.

6009. ————.]—The ct. will not dismiss the appeal under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), in a case where there has been substantial misdirection, unless they can say that the jury, if properly directed, would have returned the same verdict.—R. v. STODDART (1909), 73 J. P. 348; 25 T. L. R. 612; 53 Sol. Jo. 578; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 217, C. C. A.

Annotations :—Appld. R. v. Norton, [1910] 2 K. B. 496. Consd. R. v. Ellsom (1911), 76 J. P. 38. Foll. R. v. Vassileva (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 228. Refd. R. v. Bradshaw, R. v. Edwards, R. v. Jones (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 280; R. v. Brownlow (1910), 74 J. P. 240; R. v. Pratley (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 159; R. v. Hill (1911), 76 J. P. 49; R. v. Savidge (1911), 76 J. P. 32; R. v. Horn (1912), 76 J. P. 270; R. v. Monk (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 119; Ibrahim v. R., [1914] A. C. 599; R. v. Schama, R. v. Abramovitch (1914), 112 L. T. 480; R. v. Finch (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 1575; R. v. Immer, lt. v. Davis (1917), 118 L. T. 416; R. v. Hill (1918), 82 J. P. 194; R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11.

6010. ————.]—The prisoner was convicted of larceny, before the Recorder of Liverpool, at Liverpool Quarter Sessions, on Oct. 5, & sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour. Appeal against conviction on the ground of misdirection.

Even though we may consider that the Recorder gave a wholly wrong direction to the jury, we are convinced that on the facts a jury properly directed would have given the same verdict, & we must uphold the conviction (per cur.).—R. v. MORGAN (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

6011. ————.]—R. v. COURT (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 127, C. C. A.

6012. ————.]—On a charge of indecent assault, when consent is a good defence, it is a grave misdirection to cause the jury to believe that because the defence has not set up consent they may convict, though, in fact, they think there was consent, & where the direction brought about a miscarriage of justice, the ct. quashed the conviction.—R. v. HORN (1912), 76 J. P. 270; 28 T. L. R. 336; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 200, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Hopper (1915), 79 J. P. 335.

6013. ————.]—On an indictment for larceny by a trick the jury must be specifically directed on the point whether there was an intention to pass the property. Though the ct. may agree with the verdict it will quash a conviction unless it is satisfied that, with a proper direction on the law, the jury must necessarily have arrived at it.—R. v. HILLIARD (1913), 83 L. J. K. B. 439; 109 L. T. 750; 23 Cox, C. C. 617; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

6014. ————.]—Where a jury have been misdirected on any question of law the conviction will be quashed unless the Crown show that, on a right direction, the jury must have come to the same conclusion.—R. v. SBARRA (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1003; 119 L. T. 89; 82 J. P. 171; 34 T. L. R. 321; 26 Cox, C. C. 305; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 118, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Mentd. R. v. Smith, [1918] 2 K. B. 415.

6015. ————.]—Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1) applied despite a grave irregularity in procedure at the trial & a mistaken direction on the onus of proof.—R. v. THOMAS (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 34, C. C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. lt. v. Harrison (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 156.

6016. Misdirection on immaterial point—Conviction upheld.—Misdirection on an immaterial point of law is not a ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. HUNTING & WARD (1908), 73 J. P. 12; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

6017. ————.]—An immaterial misdirection is not a ground for giving leave to appeal.—R. v. KLEISS (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 101, C. C. A.

6018. Misdirection on one count—May invalidate conviction on another count.—When the jury are directed that they may consider together distinct counts for different offences & there has been misdirection on one, the ct. will quash a conviction.—R. v. MORGAN (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 2, C. C. A.

clusion that the jury, if adequately directed, would have concluded that the facts proved were inconsistent with his innocence, directed a new trial in the case of that accused person.—R. v. TEMPLETON, [1922] St. R. Qd. 165.—AUS.

6008 iv. ————.]—R. v. BLYTHE (1909), 14 O. W. R. 688; 1 O. W. N. 33; 19 O. L. R. 386; 15 Can. Crim. Cas. 224.—CAN.

6016 i. Misdirection on immaterial point—Conviction upheld.—On a charge of conspiracy, evidence was given by the Crown witnesses of certain statements made by some of accused. Witnesses were called by accused to prove that when the statements were alleged to have been made accused were in places other than those at which the interviews were stated to have taken place. Judge when summing up told jury that they might perhaps come to the conclusion that the Crown witnesses were speaking truly when they said that the interviews had taken place & that the statements had been made, although they might have been mistaken as to the time & dates. Accused appealed on the ground that this was a misdirection. Ct. of Criminal Appeal refused to interfere with the verdict.—

R. v. REEVE (1917), 17 S. R. N. S. W. 81; 34 N. S. W. N. 123.—AUS.

6016 ii. ————.]—Failure to point out to the jury on the trial of an indictment to commit rape, the only issue involved being the identity of prisoner, that on such an indictment the law permits the finding of a lesser offence than the one charged, is not error or non-direction for which a new trial will be granted.—lt. v. CLARKE (1907), 2 E. L. R. 327; 38 N. B. R. 11.—CAN.

6016 iii. ————.]—R. v. HAYNES (1914), 14 E. L. R. 457; 23 Can. Crim. Cas. 101.—CAN.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 7, C. (b) i., ii., iii., iv. & v.]

(b) What amounts to Misdirection.

i. As to Onus of Proof.

6019. General Rule.]—Upon the trial of an indictment for receiving stolen goods well knowing the same to have been stolen, the onus always remains upon the prosecution. The judge in directing the jury, should tell them that, upon the prosecution establishing that the person charged was in possession of goods recently stolen, they might, in the absence of any explanation by the accused of the way in which the goods came into his possession, which might reasonably be true, convict prisoner; but, if an explanation were given which the jury thought might reasonably be true, although they were not convinced of its truth, prisoner was entitled to be acquitted, inasmuch as the Crown would have failed to discharge the duty cast upon it of satisfying the jury beyond reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused.—R. v. SCHAMA, R. v. ABRAMOVITCH (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 396; 112 L. T. 480; 70 J. P. 184; 31 T. L. R. 88; 59 Sol. Jo. 288; 24 Cox, C. C. 591; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 45, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. & Fold. R. v. Badash (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 732; Refd. R. v. Aubrey (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 182; R. v. Millington (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 86; R. v. Bailey (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 27; R. v. Norris (1917), 86 L. J. K. B. 810; R. v. Hamilton (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 734; R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11.

6020. —.]—On an indictment for receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge there is no onus on deft. to prove that he received the property honestly.—R. v. AUBREY (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 182, C. C. A.

—.]—If lawful possession, within Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 58, is established, the onus is upon the prosecution to show that deft. had a guilty purpose.—R. v. WARD, [1915] 3 K. B. 696; 85 L. J. K. B. 483; 114 L. T. 192; 80 J. P. 16; 60 Sol. Jo. 27; 25 Cox, C. C. 255; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 245, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Jenkins, R. v. Evans-Jones 87 J. P. 115.

6022. —.]—In a direction on receiving stolen property with guilty knowledge, circumstances calling for an explanation by deft. must not be confused with circumstances absolutely establishing guilt. It is a serious misdirection to lead the jury to suppose that they must ask themselves:

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— C. (b) i.

6019 i. General rule.]—On a trial for murder, where the evidence is circumstantial, & some of the material facts proved are of such a character that it is possible to draw from them inferences bearing either four or against the defence set up, it is the province of the jury to draw the inferences, & it is misdirection for which a new trial will be granted for the trial judge to tell the jury that the only inferences that should be drawn are those tending to establish the guilt of prisoner.—R. v. COLLINS (1907), 3 E. L. R. 361; 38 N. B. R. 218.—CAN.

6019 ii. —.]—On the defence of insanity on a charge of murder it is a misdirection, justifying a new trial, for the judge to instruct the jury that such defence must be established beyond a reasonable doubt. The degree of proof required is not as great as that required to overcome the presumption of innocence in an accused.—R. v. CLARK, [1921] 2 W. W. R. 446; 61 S. C. R. 608; 59 D. L. R. 12.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— C. (b) ii.

6024 i. Intent to defraud.]—On a charge of stealing accused was found guilty of fraudulent appropriation. Judge, when summing up said to jury if they found that as a reasonable man, accused must have known that the effect of what he did was to defraud they were at liberty to find that he had a fraudulent intention & the appropriation was fraudulent:—Held: wrong direction. Conviction quashed.—R. v. COOPER, [1914] 14 S. R. N. S. W. 426; 31 N. S. W. W. N. 164.—AUS.

d. Murder.]—On a trial in which accused person was charged with murder the judge misdirected the jury in two parts of his summing up, although the law was correctly stated by the judge towards the end of the summing up. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter with a recommendation to mercy:—Held: in view of the jury's verdict the conviction should be quashed.—GATTIE R. (1919), 22 W. A. L. R. 11.—AUS.

e. Attempt to administer drugs—With intent to procure abortion.]—On a

“Has deft. proved himself innocent?”—R. v. BRAIN (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 197, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Sanders (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11.

6023. —.]—R. v. SANDERS, No. 6199, post.

“to Necessary Ingredients of Offence.

6024. Intent to defraud.]—It is a clear misdirection to instruct a jury that a statute under which an indictment is laid does not require an intent to defraud to be proved, when in fact it does.—R. v. BROWNLOW (1910), 74 J. P. 240; 26 T. L. R. 345; 4 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

6025. Conspiracy.]—A man, his wife, & two sons were indicted for conspiring to cheat & defraud the creditors of the wife. It appeared that the wife carried on a business of buying the parts of bicycles, putting them together, & selling the bicycles. She became a bkpt. in 1910. The husband managed the business; the sons were employed in the business at a weekly salary. The case for the prosecution was that the creditors had been defrauded by the mother selling to the sons in the years 1908, 1909, & 1910, bicycles under value, the sons reselling the bicycles at a profit. It appeared from the evidence that the mother sold bicycles to the sons at a less sum than she sold them to agents for the retail trade. Appls. were convicted, but the father & the two sons appealed. On appeal their convictions were quashed on the ground that the language of the summing up to the jury was such that the jury might have thought that the fact that the sons were allowed to buy the bicycles at less than other customers was sufficient to justify the conviction, even although the bicycles were sold to them at or over cost price, & to justify the convictions the jury would have to come to the conclusion that the bicycles were sold below cost price.—R. v. CRANE (1911), 75 J. P. 415; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 185, C. C. A.

6026. —.]—On a charge of conspiracy it is misdirection to discuss the case of each deft. separately without reference to the alleged concert.—R. v. BAILEY & UNDERWOOD (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 94, C. C. A.

iii. On joint Indictment—Distinction between Co-Defendants.

6027. Omission to distinguish between co-defendants.]—The only evidence on which B. was convicted of receiving a gun, well knowing that it charge of attempting to administer a drug or other noxious thing with intent to procure a miscarriage, the record disclosed sufficient evidence to justify the inference that accused attempted to obtain noxious substances from a physician, that he believed that he had got them & tried to get the woman to take them:—Held: the conviction should be sustained, although the charge to the jury overlooked the fact that the charge against accused was one of an attempt only & submitted to it the question whether the substances were in fact drugs or other noxious things within Criminal Code, s. 305, & there was not sufficient evidence to support a reasonable inference to that effect.—R. v. PERTBONE, [1918] 2 W. W. R. 806; 13 Alta. L. R. 463; 41 D. L. R. 411.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— C. (b) iii.

6027 i. Omission to distinguish between co-defendants.]—Statements made by S., one of several prisoners, were admitted in evidence. They were commented upon by counsel for the other prisoners was stolen, was that of G., who said that S. & B. together sold him the stolen gun for 5s. G. admitted previous convictions. The judge who tried the case against S. & B. together, told the jury that 5s. was a ridiculous price for the gun; but he omitted to caution the jury that if that were so, it was as much evidence of guilty knowledge on the part of G., who bought the gun, as it was on the part of B., who sold it, & that the sole evidence against B. was that of G., who might be an accomplice. There was abundant evidence against S., but the judge did not properly distinguish between the cases against the two prisoners. On these grounds the conviction of B. was quashed.—R. v. BEAUCHAMP (1909), 73 J. P. 223; 25 T. L. R. 330; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 20, 40, C. C. A.

6028. —.]—When defts. are tried together & set up different defences the direction to the jury must clearly state the difference.—R. v. ROWAN (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 279, C. C. A.

6029. —.]—On a joint indictment for larceny on receiving stolen property the cases made against each deft. must be carefully distinguished to the jury.—R. v. ASHWORTH (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 112, C. C. A.

6030. —.]—On a joint indictment for receiving stolen property, the evidence of the guilty knowledge of each deft. must be carefully distinguished in the summing up.—R. v. PRITCHARD (1913), 109 L. T. 911; 23 Cox, C. C. 682; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 210, C. C. A.

6031. —.]—When two or more persons are jointly indicted the direction must carefully distinguish between the case of each, & it is a grave misdirection to suggest wrongly that if one is guilty another must also be guilty.—R. v. GRAHAM (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 7, C. C. A.

6032. —.]—If a deft. jointly charged with another for conspiracy sets up an alibi or mistaken identity, the jury must not be allowed to assume that the former must be convicted, if the latter is convicted; there must be a direction that the co-deft. may be convicted of conspiracy with a person unknown.—R. v. HIGGINS (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

6033. —.]—When defts. are jointly indicted but not all on all charges, the jury must be directed to discriminate carefully between the respective allegations.—R. v. TWIGG (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 71, C. C. A.

6034. —.]—In the case of co-defts., the jury must, if necessary, be carefully charged to distinguish between their cases.—R. v. LOVETT & FLINT (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 37, 41, C. C. A.

in his address to the jury & by the A.-G. in his reply.

The judge in summing up also commented upon the statements & refused to tell jury that they were not evidence against the other prisoners. Afterwards on consideration he advised the jury not to allow the statements of S. to affect their minds in considering the cases of the other prisoners, & concluded his summing up with the same caution:—Held: conviction sustained.—R. v. SCOTT (1879), 2 N. S. W. S. C. R. N. S. 290.—AUS.

6027 ii. —.]—A failure to direct the jury that statements made by one of accused are only evidence against him who made them is a misdirection entitling that other accused to a new trial, where there has been substantial wrong or miscarriage.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 805.—CAN.

6027 iii. —.]—The omission of the judge to tell jury that the statement of one prisoner is not evidence against his fellow-prisoner is a material error, & one fatal to the trial, notwithstanding that the judge dealt with the evidence against each of the prisoners separately.—R. v. MIYA VALAD DAUD (1869), 6 Bom. C. Ca. 10.—IND.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 7.— C. (b) v.

6041 i. Expression of view of facts by judge—Amounting to withdrawal of facts from jury.—Where the judge by telling the jury that there was no evidence on which they could return a verdict of manslaughter told them, in effect, that the acts done by prisoner were likely to endanger human life, that question being one of fact for the jury, there was a misdirection, & miscarriage of justice had occurred, & a new trial was ordered.—R. v. WALKER (No. 1) (1915), S. R. Q. 115.—AUS.

6041 ii. —.]—A summing up to jury in which judge gave no aid to 6035. — Marital coercion.—Conviction of married woman, who was indicted jointly with her husband for larceny, quashed on the ground that her defence, that she acted under the coercion of her husband, was not left to the jury with such a direction as would enable them to apply their minds to the true legal position.—R. v. CAROUBI (1912), 107 L. T. 415; 76 J. P. 262; 28 T. L. R. 248; 23 Cox, C. C. 177; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

iv. Direction to Jury to Convict.

6036. Positive direction to convict.—On an indictment for attempted rape, a positive direction to the jury to convict of indecent assault is a ground for quashing.

Great care is necessary in trying cases of this kind, as juries generally hold strong views in favour of the woman who has been attacked. It ought to have been left to the jury whether or not the prisoner committed an indecent assault upon the prosecutrix. The fact that he did not leave the question of indecent assault to the jury was a misdirection. A judge must not put himself in the position of the jury as regards the decision of facts. The proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), does not apply where the judge decides facts instead of the jury.—R. v. WEST (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Folld. R. v. Beeby (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 138.

6037. —.]—It is a misdirection to tell the jury that unless they believe that the witnesses for the prosecution have committed perjury, they must find a verdict of guilty, when there is another possible explanation of the facts.—R. v. TAYLOR (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 41, C. C. A.

6038. Recommendation to convict—Judge's opinion as to guilt of accused.—R. v. RANGLES, No. 5624, ante.

6039. —.]—R. v. FRAMPTON, No. 5961, ante.

v. Other Cases.

6040. Expression of view of facts by judge.—R. v. MARTIN, No. 5993, ante.

6041. — Amounting to withdrawal of facts from jury.—A judge should not express his view of the facts of a case in such a way to lead the jury to believe that the questions of fact are withdrawn from them.—R. v. BEEBY (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 138, C. C. A.

6042. —.]—It is not a misdirection to make a suggestion as to the facts of a case different to that made by the prosecution & by the defence.—R. v. BENTLEY (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 109, C. C. A.

the jury in the arrangement of the facts which were spoken to by the witnesses, & himself found facts which he should have put to the jury, was pronounced defective, & verdict founded thereon was set aside.—R. v. RAM GOPAL DHUR (1868), 10 W. R. 7.—IND.

6041 iii. —.]—It is a misdirection for the judge to express his opinion on various questions of fact without telling jury that his opinion is not binding on them & that they are the sole judges of fact.—NATABAR GHOSH v. R. (1908), 1 L. R. 35 Cal. 531.—IND.

1. Direction as to intending consequences.—In a trial with a jury under Penal Code, s. 366, the judge on the question of intent charged the jury in the following words:—"It remains only to consider the question of intent. The charge was that the girl was kidnapped in order that she might be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse. As to this, it is sufficient to say that

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 7, C. (b) v.; sub-sect. 8, A. & B.]

6043. Statement that "affirmation is stronger than negation."—It is a misdirection to tell the jury, in general terms, that affirmative is stronger than negative evidence.—R. v. HOUSE (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Apld. R. v. Coleman (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 73.

6044. —.]—R. v. COLEMAN (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 73, C. C. A.

6045. Equivocal expression treated as admission of guilt.—In a case where a prisoner was convicted of stealing £3 8s. from the person, a detective gave evidence at the trial that he said to prisoner when charged: "Do you care to tell me where you have put the money?" Prisoner said, "I have got no money." The detective told him that he was going to his lodgings, & prisoner then said, "You will find £1 7s. 6d. in my box; my girl has got the key." The judge who tried the case, in summing up, said, "Subsequently, however, he, prisoner, said, 'I may as well tell you that I have £1 7s. 6d.' I suppose he meant 'still remaining.'" The judge also said, "Now, that statement of prisoner's as to the remainder of the money being in his box, coupled with prosecutor's tale, can only point in one direction." He also said, "When he wrote that letter, a statement of his defence to the magistrate, he apparently quite forgot that he had told the officer that he had the £1 7s. 6d. left of the money he took from prosecutor." In another passage the judge spoke of the £1 7s. 6d. as "belonging to E.," the prosecutor. The Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashed the conviction on the ground that the judge who tried the case had misdirected the jury by treating prisoner's statement to the detective as a confession, when it was consistent with his being not guilty.—R. v. JOYCE (1908), 72 J. P. 483; 25 T. L. R. 8; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

6046. —.]—R. v. VASSILEVA (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 228, C. C. A.

6047. —.]—It is a misdirection to treat as an admission of guilt an expression which is consistent with innocence.—R. v. SCHOFIELD (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 191, C. C. A.

6048. Direction as to intending consequences—Of accidental act.—Prisoner was indicted for shooting with intent to resist his lawful apprehension. The defence was that prisoner's gun went off accidentally. In his summing up, the judge directed the jury that a man must be taken to intend the natural consequences of his acts, & that it was for the prisoner & not for the prosecution, to satisfy them that the gun went off accidentally. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: the conviction must be quashed as the judge's direction might have been understood by the jury as laying down a proposition of law which was not correct—namely, that a person must be taken to intend the consequences, not only of his intentional, but also of his accidental, acts.—R. v. DAVIES (1913), 29 T. L. R. 350; 8 Cr. App. Rep. 211, C. C. A.

6049. Failure to warn jury to disregard inadmissible evidence.—R. v. LEE, No. 5864, ante.

6050. As to doctrine of marital coercion.—In this case, where the evidence showed that a wife committed a theft in the presence of her husband, a recorder directed the jury that if they thought that the theft was the result of a preconcerted scheme between husband & wife, that would tend to rebut the presumption that the wife was acting under the coercion of her husband & was entitled to be acquitted:—Held: the fact of such a preconcerted scheme might be evidence & strong evidence that the wife was acting under the coercion of her husband. Accordingly the conviction was quashed on the ground of misdirection on the part of the recorder.—R. v. CAROUBI (1912), 107 L. T. 415; 76 J. P. 262; 23 Cox, C. C. 177; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 149, C. C. A.

6051. Direction as to which witness jury might believe.—R. v. LIVOCK, No. 5751, ante.

6052. —.]—A statement to a jury that it is for them to decide "which side" they believe should be accompanied by a careful direction on the particular facts of the case.—R. v. BURTON (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

6053. Direction that defence did not suggest identity of true offender.—It is not a misdirection if the judge points out that the defence makes no suggestion that some other person than the defendant is guilty.—R. v. READE (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 82, C. C. A.

6054. Failure to inform jury of power to convict for lesser offence.—Applt. was convicted for wounding with intent to murder, & was sentenced by Ct. to five years' penal servitude. Though no notice of appeal on a point of law had been given, leave obtained to raise the point that the judge at the trial omitted to tell the jury that it was open to them to convict him of the lesser offence of unlawful wounding. It was submitted that the Ct. could deal with the point under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 5 (2).

The point could only be raised now as a suggested misdirection, but there was no misdirection in this case, & a judge was not bound in every case to tell the jury that they were at liberty to convict no other inference is possible under the circumstances. When a man carries off a young girl at night from her father's house, the presumption is that he did so with the intent indicated above. It would be open to him, if he had admitted the kidnapping, to prove that he had some other object, but no other object is apparent on the face of the facts:—Held: this amounted to a misdirection of the jury. The question of intent was a question of fact, but the way in which it had been put to the jury left them no option but adopt the view taken by the judge.—R. v. HUGHES (1891), 1 L. R. 14 All. 25.—IND.

6054 i. Failure to inform jury of power to convict for lesser offence.—On a trial for murder the jury are entitled under Crimes Act (N.S.W. No. 40), s. 23 (2), to bring in verdict of manslaughter even though on the evidence the case is one of murder or nothing, & therefore when in answer to a question by the jury whether they were at liberty to find any other verdict than guilty or not guilty judge told them they were not:—Held: this was a misdirection.—BROWN v. R. (1913), 17 C. L. R. 570.—AUS.

6054 ii. —.]—Deft. was convicted of rape. On a case reserved, it was objected that when the jury came & asked if they were limited to a verdict of guilty or not guilty, the judge had not informed them they could bring in a verdict of indecent assault or common assault or of attempt to commit rape, & in effect had limited them to a verdict of guilty or not guilty:—Held: the judge in not informing the jury that they had an alternative mode of finding had encroached on the function of the jury by withdrawing from them their power to find a lesser offence & there must be a new trial.—R. v. SCHERF (1908), 8 W. L. R. 219; 13 B. C. R. 407.—CAN.

g. Comment on prisoner not giving evidence.—By judge—Canada Evidence Act, 1893, s. 4, sub-s. 2.—At the trial prisoner did not testify on his own behalf & the judge in his charge to the jury, contrary to above sect., commented upon that fact, although, when his attention was drawn to it, he recalled the jury & withdrew his comment:—Held: prisoner had a right to have his case submitted to the jury without the comment & having been deprived of that right, there was a substantial wrong done to him which could not be undone by calling back the jury & withdrawing the comment.—R. v. COLEMAN (1898), 30 O. R. 93.—CAN.

h. — By counsel.—It is the duty of the judge in a criminal case carefully to protect accused from damaging insinuations which may not in terms invite a consideration of accused's failure to testify but make indirect & covert allusions to his

of a lesser offence, unless that point was substantially raised by the evidence (per cur.).—R. v. VAUGHAN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 25, C. C. A. 6055. —]—It is not a misdirection to abstain from pointing out to the jury that they have the power to find a lesser cause than that charged.—R. v. NAYLOR (1910), 74 J. P. 460; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 19, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 8.—ABSENCE OF OR SUFFICIENCY OF CORROBORATION.

A. In General.

6056. Evidence of accomplice—General rule.]—

If after the proper caution by the judge, the jury nevertheless convict the prisoner, this Ct. will not quash the conviction merely upon the ground that the accomplice's testimony was uncorroborated. In considering whether or not the conviction should stand, this Ct. will review all the facts of the case, & will bear in mind that the jury had the opportunity of hearing & seeing the witnesses when giving their testimony. But the Ct., in the exercise of its powers, will quash a conviction even when the judge has given to the jury the warning or advice above mentioned if Ct., after considering all the circumstances of the case, thinks the verdict "unreasonable" or that it "cannot be supported having regard to the evidence" (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. BASKERVILLE, [1916] 2 K. B. 658; 86 L. J. K. B. 28; 115 L. T. 453; 80 J. P. 446; 60 Sol. Jo. 696; 25 Cox, C. C. 524; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 81, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Reid. R. v. Wyman (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163; R. v. Feigenbaum, [1919] 1 K. B. 431; R. v. Smith (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 74; R. v. Wakeley (1919), 84 J. P. 31; R. v. Warren (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 4; R. v. Schiff (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63; R. v. Howard (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 177; Thomas v. Jones, [1921] 1 K. B. 22; R. v. Crocker (1922), 92 L. J. K. B. 428; R. v. Rudge (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 113.

6057. —]—Conviction quashed on the ground of insufficient corroboration of an accomplice's evidence.—R. v. EVEREST (1909), 73 J. P. 269; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 130, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Blatherwick (1911), 6 Cr. App.

Rep. 281; R. v. Crane (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 113; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658; R. v. Willis, [1916] 1 K. B. 933; R. v. Wyman (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 163. Reid. R. v. Warren (1909), 73 J. P. 359; R. v. Threlfall (1914), 111 L. T. 168.

6058. —]—Corroboration of an accomplice's evidence must be material. The slighter it is, the more distinct should be the direction to the jury as to it. Deft. on trial should be informed of his right to give evidence. It is not sufficient that the accomplice has said something which is true.—R. v. WARREN (1909), 73 J. P. 359; 25 T. L. R. 633; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 194, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Reid. R. v. Graham (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 40.

6059. —]—When a jury finds that the explanation of a deft. charged with feloniously receiving stolen property may reasonably be true, the ct., if it thinks that there was no corroboration of an accomplice's evidence, will quash the conviction.—R. v. NORRIS (1916), 86 L. J. K. B. 810; 116 L. T. 160; 25 Cox, C. C. 601; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 156, C. C. A.

6060. Several assignments of perjury—No corroboration as to one assignment.]—R. v. GASKELL, No. 5848, ante.

6061. Slight corroboration—Subsequent doubt as to prosecutors' evidence.]—When corroboration of prosecutor's evidence is very weak &, after conviction, doubt has been thrown on that evidence, the ct. may quash the conviction.—R. v. BAKER (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 136, C. C. A.

6062. Statutory corroboration absent—Children Act, 1908, c. 67, s. 30 (a).]—R. v. CHRISTIE, No. 3811, ante.

6063. — Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (c. 69), s. 2 (1).]—R. v. GOLDSTEIN (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 27, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Mentd. R. v. Hughes (1923), 87 J. P. 140.

B. Warning by Judge.

6064. Necessity for—Evidence of accomplice.]—R. v. TATE, [1908] 2 K. B. 680; 77 L. J. K. B. 1043; 99 L. T. 620; 72 J. P. 391; 52 Sol. Jo.

sentence.—R. v. GALLAGHER, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 1183; 63 D. L. R. 629; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 83; 17 Alta. L. R. 519.—CAN.

k. Comment by judge on failure of accused at preliminary hearing to disclose defence.]—R. v. MAH HONG HING (1920), 3 W. W. R. 314; 53 D. L. R. 356.—CAN.

l. Nondirection may be misdirection.]—Nondirection may be misdirection according to the circumstances of each case.—R. v. TRUPCHUK, [1923] 3 W. W. R. 86; 40 Can. Crim. Cas. 227.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—A.

m. Evidence of accomplice—Who is an accomplice.]—Certain persons were engaged in a scheme for forging bank-notes & sought assistance of L., who knew something of photo-lithography, for preparation of a plate from which to print notes. L. was told all details of the scheme & promised £50 if he could reproduce a certain drawing on a plate so that prints could be made from it & £2,500 when the notes were printed. L. said he would like to make some experiments & was given £10 for the purpose. He made no experiment & did not return the money nor inform the police. Some months afterwards another man supplied the necessary plates & the forgeries were printed & uttered.

At the trial of applt. for forging & uttering a £5 note L. was called as witness for the Crown & gave evidence implicating the accused. Chairman of Quarter Sessions directed jury that L. was not an accomplice & his evidence did not require corroboration.—Held: direction was erroneous, & there was ample evidence on which jury might have found L. was an accomplice. Conviction set aside & new trial ordered.—R. v. FERGUSON & KING, [1916] 17 S. R. N. S. W. 69.—AUS.

n. Evidence of "trap."]—A conviction for selling liquor without a licence set aside, when the sole evidence of the sale was that of a trap, & the circumstances were such as to render this evidence unreliable.

If detectives are to be employed, every precaution should be taken that their evidence be corroborated, for unless there is such corroboration cts. could wisely hesitate to accept their statements as true.—R. v. MAHLAMANI (1895), 10 E. D. C. 9.—S. AF.

o. —]—If a person is convicted on the uncorroborated evidence of traps the conviction may be set aside.—R. v. FILANIUS, [1916] T. P. D. 415.—S. AF.

p. —]—Applt. & another were charged with contravening Act 38 of 1896, s. 66, by supplying intoxicating liquor to a prohibited person. The principal evidence for the prosecution was given by the person supplied, a police trap, who had been handed marked coins. The trap was out of sight of the detectives for 20 minutes. Magistrate rejected the evidence of the trap so far as it sought to implicate second accused but convicted applt. None of the marked money was found on applt.—Held: having regard to the circumstances & the great caution which should be shown in accepting uncorroborated evidence of traps, conviction should be quashed.—RENAUD v. DURBAN CHIEF CONSTABLE, [1921] 42 N. L. R. 354.—S. AF.

q. Indecent behaviour to girl.]—Where a person was charged with the offence of behaving in a lewd & indecent manner towards a girl under puberty & convicted, the ct. quashed the conviction on the ground that the only evidence adduced of the girl's age was her own uncorroborated statement.—LOCKWOOD v. WALKER, [1910] S. C. (J.) 3.—SCOT.

r. Statutory corroboration absent—Attempt to have unlawful carnal knowledge of a child.]—R. v. BOWES (1909), 14 O. W. R. 1214; 1 O. W. N. 253; 20 O. L. R. 111.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 8.—B.

6064 i. Necessity for—Evidence of accomplice.]—It is not only a desirable practice that jurors should be warned against accepting uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, but if it should appear at any trial that the warning has not been given, & there is an absence of corroborative evidence, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal should set aside the conviction, & deal with the case under the provisions of the Act which enables the ct., if it thinks a proper

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 8, B.; sub-sect. 9.]

699; 21 Cox, C. C. 693; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 39, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Beauchamp (1909), 73 J. P. 223; R. v. Kams (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 8; R. v. Cohen (1914), 111 L. T. 77; R. v. Baskerville, [1916] 2 K. B. 658.

6065. ———. ———.]—R. v. BEAUCHAMP, No. 6027, ante.

6066. ———. ———.]—The ct. will quash a conviction unless the jury are expressly directed that there must be corroboration of an accomplice's evidence.—R. v. MASON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

6067. ———. ———. Sexual offence.]—On a charge of sexual offence, the jury must be distinctly cautioned to be careful how they accept the uncorroborated evidence of the prosecutrix.—R. v. BROWN (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 24, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—*Refd. R. v. Stone (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89. Mentd. Bradshaw v. Waterlow, [1915] 3 K. B. 527.

6068. ———. ———. Consenting party.]—In an indictment under the Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 (c. 45), if there is evidence to go to the jury that the female was a consenting party, they must be clearly cautioned that, if they come to that conclusion, her evidence must be corroborated, as she then becomes an accomplice.—R. v. STONE (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 89, C. C. A.

6069. ———. ———. Larceny—Evidence of receiver of stolen property.]—Where on the trial of a charge of larceny the only evidence against deft. is that of the person who receives the stolen property, & there is a suspicion that he knew that the property was stolen, his evidence must not be left to the jury as that of an untainted witness, but they should be warned that if they think that he was an accomplice there ought to be corroboration of his story.—R. v. JENNINGS (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 242, C. C. A.

6070. ———. ———.]—R. v. BRYANT (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 49, C. C. A.

case appears, to direct a new trial.—R. v. MOELLER (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 613.—AUS.

6064 ii. ———. ———.]—Evidence in corroboration of the evidence of an accomplice must be independent testimony which affects accused by connecting him, or tending to connect him, with the crime. It must be evidence which implicates him, that is, which confirms in some material particulars not only the evidence that the crime has been committed but also that accused committed it. Where the judge told the jury that they should be satisfied that the accomplice was corroborated in some material particular with reference to the crime charged but did not tell them that it should be evidence implicating the accused, a new trial was granted.—R. v. DOUGHTY & SHORTAL (1916), 16 S. R. N. S. W. 570; 33 N. S. W. W. N. 180.—AUS.

6064 iii. ———. ———.]—On a charge of murder based on evidence that accused procured an abortion with the consent of the woman on whom the operation was performed, resulting in the woman's death, the judge when summing up referred to various parts of the evidence as corroborative, & later summarised those different points as amounting to corroboration of the account given by the deceased woman without pointing out to the jury that mere corroboration of details in the account amounting only to the probability that an offence had been committed would not be sufficient, & that where corroboration was sought for the law required evidence which connected accused with the crime; Ct. of

Appeal quashed the conviction.—R. v. NAUGHTON (1920), 20 S. R. N. S. W. 259; 37 N. S. W. W. N. 40.—CAN.

6064 iv. ———. ———.]—When the jury have been cautioned as to acting upon the unconfirmed testimony of accomplices, no fault can be found with the admission of their evidence. In an indictment for soliciting P. & S. to steal money of the G. Bank, the jury were told that the testimony of the accomplices was not sufficiently corroborated to warrant a conviction, whereupon they came into ct. stating that they thought the prisoner guilty, but that he ought not to be convicted on the evidence. They were then told that they ought to acquit; but after a short interval they returned a verdict of guilty. Before recording their finding, the presiding judge recommended them not to convict on the evidence saying, however, that they could do so if they thought proper; they nevertheless adhered to their verdict:—Held: no ground for a new trial. The rule that if the verdict be sufficiently sustained by evidence, the ct. are not required to interfere, asserted & acted upon.—R. v. SEDDONS (1866), 16 C. P. 389.—CAN.

6064 v. ———. ———.]—K. was convicted of being an accessory before the fact to the murder for which accused was being tried, & that fact was proved at the trial of accused:—Held: K. was an accomplice, & the trial judge should have cautioned the jury against acting on K.'s evidence unless it was found by them to be corroborated in some material part by other evidence; & the trial judge having refused so to do, a new trial was directed.—R. v.

6071. ———. ———.]—A statement by a co-deft. who is an accomplice of another deft. is not corroboration of the evidence of other accomplices against that deft. On the point of corroboration by an accomplice there must be a proper direction.—R. v. HOWARD (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

6072. ———. ———.]—When two persons are tried together & the evidence discloses a possibility that one of them may be an accomplice of the other or of a third person, the usual warning to the jury about corroboration must be given.—R. v. HEATHFIELD (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

6073. ———. Warning by counsel for prosecution sufficient.]—If a jury has been sufficiently warned by counsel for the Crown of the necessity for corroboration of certain evidence, a conviction will not be quashed merely because the warning was not repeated in the summing up.—R. v. QUINN (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 269, C. C. A.

6074. ———. Unless sufficient corroboration in fact existed—Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1) applied.]—Misdirection—no caution to jury as to evidence of accomplice.

The summing up is a most inartistic performance. It did not give the jury the usual warning with regard to accomplices, & it contains the chairman's own views, some of which are absurd. We cannot say a single word in its favour, but at the same time we think that it has not caused a miscarriage of justice. The circumstances of the case are inconsistent with innocence, & though we think that this is the kind of summing up which ought not to have been delivered, yet the case comes within the proviso to sect. 4 of the above Act (DARLING, J.).—R. v. BOWLER (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

6075. ———. ———.]—If there is sufficient corroboration of an accomplice's evidence, the ct. will not interfere, despite the want of a proper caution to the jury, if there is no reason to fear a miscarriage of justice.—R. v. KIRKHAM (1909),

RATZ (1913), 24 W. L. R. 908; 4 W. W. R. 1231.—CAN.

6064 vi. ———. ———.]—The question whether or not a judge, in charging a jury, should caution them that the evidence of an accomplice should be corroborated, is not a matter for a ct. to review on a case reserved, for it is not a question of law, but of practice, though a practice which should not be omitted.—R. v. ANDREWS (1886), 12 O. R. 184.—CAN.

6067 i. ———. ———. Sexual offence.]—A man was tried for a sexual offence on a girl of ten to sixteen years of age & was convicted. Corroboration of the girl's story, which is not legally necessary, was absent. Judge omitted to warn jury of the danger of convicting on her uncorroborated evidence:—Held: conviction should be quashed & verdict & judgment of acquittal should be entered, on the ground that a miscarriage of justice had occurred by reason of the omission to warn the jury.—HARGAN v. R. (1919), 27 C. L. R. 13.—AUS.

6067 ii. ———. ———.]—While on the trial of charges of indecent assault & carnal knowledge of a girl under fourteen, corroborative evidence is not necessary, yet the judge should warn the jury to be careful in acting on the evidence of children of tender years concerned in the offence; it is not necessary that the judge should use the actual words "warn" or "caution," provided his conduct of the case does in fact give the jury such warning or caution.—R. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

73 J. P. 406; 25 T. L. R. 656; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 253, C. C. A.

6076. ———.—]—The jury ought to be directed that a child of tender years who gives unsworn evidence under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, ought to be corroborated, but if there is in fact good corroboration of such evidence the ct., in view of the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4, will not quash a conviction.—R. v. MURRAY (1913), 30 T. L. R. 196; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 248, C. C. A.

6077. ———.—]—Where at a trial the evidence of a child of tender years, which is given under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, & Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 28 (2), is of importance, the judge should direct the jury not to convict upon it; unless it is corroborated by some other material evidence in support of it implicating the accused. In the absence of such a direction a conviction of the accused must be quashed.

Semble: if the evidence in corroboration is so ample & so clear that the ct. is bound to come to the conclusion that, despite a proper direction as to the necessity for corroboration, the jury must have returned a verdict of "Guilty," the absence of such a direction will not vitiate the conviction.—R. v. DAVIES (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 208; 114 L. T. 80; 25 Cox, C. C. 225; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 272; 79 J. P. Jo. 556, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Fold. R. v. Lyons (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 144. Refd. R. v. Schiff (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63.

6078. ———.—]—The ct. will not quash a conviction merely because there has not been a specific direction to the jury that the evidence of a child who is not sworn under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 30, must be corroborated—if, in fact, there has been corroboration. But such a direction should be given.—R. v. SCHIFF (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 63, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 9.—MISCONSTRUCTION OF VERDICT.

6079. General rule—Verdict & recommendation to be considered as a whole.—]—The verdict & recommendation of a jury must be considered as a whole. If they find specifically guilty, the verdict cannot be set aside because they express doubts on points of detail. If a verdict is on its face inconsistent, this ct. can refuse to allow it to stand.—R. v. CHARLTON (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

6080. Verdict not explicit—Court will give effect to intention of jury.—R. v. RAWLINGS, No. 6149, post.

6081. Same act charged in separate counts—General verdict of guilty—Confined to least offence.—]—When the same act is differently charged in various counts the ct. may construe a verdict of guilty upon all as if it was limited to the least offence alleged. Applt. was convicted of obtaining goods by false pretences, & of obtaining credit by fraud. The indictment contained three counts; in the first applt. was charged with obtaining three horses by false pretences, in the second he was charged with obtaining credit by false pretences, & in the third with obtaining credit by fraud other than false pretences. The judge when the jury found applt. guilty on all three counts, sentenced him for both offences, three years' penal servitude, for the false pretences, & 12 months' imprisonment with hard labour for obtaining credit by fraud:—Held: the offence was either the one or the other. That the conviction for obtaining goods by false pretences, & the sentence of three years' penal servitude must be quashed, & the sentence of 12 months' imprisonment with hard labour must remain.—R. v. JOHNSTON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 262, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Norman (1914), 112 L. T. 784; R. v. Smith (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 81.

6082. Obtaining by false pretences—Intent to defraud negatived.—]—An inconsistent verdict cannot stand.

Applt. was indicted of obtaining goods by false pretences, of attempting to obtain certain other goods by false pretences, & on a third count of obtaining credit by false pretences under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 13 (1). Applt. had ordered furniture of prosecutors. The latter, before completing the order, demanded of him a reference. Applt. sent in reply three distinct names. Two of these represented, to his knowledge, an identical person, which was the false pretence averred. Applt.'s defence was that he had no intent to defraud & had no intention of obtaining credit, but had intended to pay cash for the goods. On counts 1 & 2 he was found not guilty. On the third count the judge put the following questions to the jury: Did deft. obtain credit by false pretences? Did he do so with intent to defraud? The jury answered the former question in the affirmative & the latter in the negative. Contended for applt. that the verdict amounted to not guilty, as the jury expressly negatived any intent to defraud. Fraud is necessary in the offence.

There cannot be an offence within the statute unless there is an intent to defraud. It may be that the jury ought to have found that there was fraud. But they have found that there was not fraud. Their two findings do not constitute a verdict of guilty.—R. v. MUIRHEAD (1908), 73 J. P. 31; 25 T. L. R. 88; 53 Sol. Jo. 164; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 189, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Brownlow (1910), 74 J. P. 240; Morison v. London County & Westminster Bank, [1914] 3 K. B. 356.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 9.

a. Ambiguous verdict.—]—Prisoner was indicted under Criminal Code Act, ss. 269 & 271, upon a charge of forging & uttering an acknowledgment of the receipt of money. Prisoner, as agent for M., had incurred a debt of £5, & the creditor, G., demanded payment from him. He thereupon made & signed in G.'s name a receipt for £5 from himself. Prisoner then sued M. for the £5 which he alleged he had paid to G., & produced the false receipt in support of his claim. He recovered judgment. G. swore that he had not authorised prisoner to sign the receipt. The jury found the following verdict: "We find accused guilty of forging & using a receipt, but do not consider it was done with any criminal intent"—Held: the verdict was ambiguous, for it might have meant that the jury thought prisoner had no intent to defraud, in which case, as that was not a necessary ingredient of the offence, it was a verdict of "guilty"; or it might have meant that they believed he honestly thought he had authority to sign & use the receipt, in which case it was probably equivalent to a verdict of "not guilty"; & under the circumstances a new trial should be ordered.

Qu.: whether on a case stated under sect. 412 the ct. is entitled when the verdict of the jury is ambiguous to apply to its full extent the rule in civil cases, & after looking at the evidence to construe the verdict, to enter a verdict of "guilty"; but for the purpose of determining whether the verdict should be entered for prisoner or whether there should be a new trial the ct. may properly look at the evidence.—R. v. STEWART (1908), 27 N. Z. L. R. 682; 30 N. Z. L. R. 1025.—N.Z.

t. ———.—]—Defence of one of two prisoners jointly indicted for theft was that he was too drunk to form a criminal intent. The other admitted the theft & did not allege drunkenness. There was no evidence or plea of insanity on the part of either of the prisoners. Jury returned a verdict "guilty with no criminal intent. Act committed while under the influence of temporary insanity":—Held: verdict was ambiguous & uncertain & new trial ordered.—R. v. ADAMS & CARR (1916), 35 N. Z. L. R. 356.—N.Z.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sects. 9 & 10.]

6083. ———.]—When on a charge of obtaining by false pretences the ct. thinks that it is doubtful whether the jury intended to answer the specific question "Was there an intent to defraud?" in the affirmative, it will quash a conviction.—R. v. HUNT (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 155, C. C. A.

6084. Malicious damage—Malice Negatived.]—Prisoner was indicted under the Malicious Damage Act, 1861 (c. 97), s. 20, for having cut & destroyed certain trees the property of his landlord. Prisoner was to leave his cottage on Sept. 29, & on the night of Sept. 28, he went into his garden & cut down the trees, being, as he said, under the impression that he was entitled to do so as he had planted them himself. The jury found the prisoner guilty, but added that he had done what he did in ignorance. The Chairman of quarter sessions declined to accept that verdict, & he again summed up the case to the jury, who eventually found the prisoner guilty, but recommended him to mercy. There was no proper shorthand note of the proceedings of the trial:—Held: (1) the provision of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 16, as to shorthand notes of proceedings being taken at the trial was directory merely, & the taking of a shorthand note was not essential to the validity of the proceedings; (2) there was so much doubt as to whether the jury did not intend to negative malice that it would not be safe to allow the conviction to stand.—R. v. RUTTER (1908), 73 J. P. 12; 25 T. L. R. 73; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 174, C. C. A.

Annotation:—As to (1) Reid. R. v. Elliott (1909), 73 J. P. Jo. 252.

6085. Verdict of guilty—Wrongly entered—Under mistake of law.]—Where the ct. of trial, under a mistake of law, enters a verdict of guilty, when it should have entered one of not guilty, the ct. will not apply the proviso to sect. 4 of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), though it is satisfied that the former verdict was correct.—R. v. JOHNSON (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 57, C. C. A.

6086. ——— On findings of jury.]—Prisoner was indicted for stealing seven live fowls, the property of the High Sheriff of Worcestershire. An execution had been levied on the goods of prisoner's wife, & while the sheriff's officer was in possession under the execution of certain live fowls then on the premises prisoner came & took away seven of them. In answer to questions left to them by the chairman of quarter sessions, the jury found (1) that the seven fowls taken by prisoner were his own property, & (2) that they were seized by the sheriff as part of the property of prisoner's wife under the impression that they were her goods. The chairman directed a verdict of guilty to be entered, but gave a certificate for leave to appeal:—Held: on the findings of the jury the proper verdict was one of not guilty.—R. v. KNIGHT (1908), 73 J. P. 15; 25 T. L. R. 87; 53 Sol. Jo. 101; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 186, C. C. A.

6087. Accessory before fact to burglary—Guilty knowledge negatived.]—Applt. & one K. were convicted of burglariously entering a dwelling-house, the jury having found in the case of applt. that he had handed a jemmy to K. with the knowledge that it was wanted for a burglary, though he did not know that it was wanted for this particular burglary:—Held: on this finding applt. was not an accessory before the fact to the burglary, & therefore his conviction must be quashed.—R. v. LOMAS (1913), 110 L. T. 239; 78 J. P. 152; 30 T. L. R. 125; 58 Sol. Jo. 220; 23 Cox, C. C. 765; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 220, C. C. A.

6088. Offence under Children Act, 1908 (c. 67), s. 17—Finding of negligence only.]—A verdict of "negligence" on an indictment under the above Act, s. 17, is a verdict of not guilty as mere negligence is not an offence within that sect.—R. v. CHAINBY, [1914] 1 K. B. 137; 83 L. J. K. B. 306; 109 L. T. 752; 78 J. P. 127; 30 T. L. R. 51; 23 Cox, C. C. 620; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 10.—IRREGULARITY AT TRIAL.

6089. Irregular constitution of court.]—Conviction quashed as being coram non jndice, some of the convicting justices sitting only by virtue of their names being added after the demise of the Crown issuing a Commission, to a schedule in that commission.—R. v. HOLDICH (1920), 37 T. L. R. 330; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 122, C. C. A.

6090. Joint trial—Separate indictments—Conviction quashed—Order for retrial.]—Applt. was indicted for receiving goods knowing them to be stolen, & another man was charged in a separate indictment with stealing the goods. The two prisoners were tried together & convicted:—Held: the proceedings were a nullity, & the Ct. of Criminal Appeal in quashing the conviction had power under the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), to order applt. to be tried according to law.—CRANE v. PUBLIC PROSECUTOR, [1921] 2 A. C. 299; 90 L. J. K. B. 1160; 125 L. T. 642; 85 J. P. 245; 65 Sol. Jo. 642; 27 Cox, C. C. 43; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 183; sub nom. R. v. CRANE, 37 T. L. R. 788, H. L.

Annotations:—Reid. R. v. Morton (1920), 15 Cr. App. Cas. 30; R. v. Hammer, [1923] 2 K. B. 786.

6091. Two indictments—Trial of one on evidence as to the other.]—Where there has been a conviction after grave irregularity at the trial not discovered for some time, the ct. will quash the conviction without regard to the merits of the case.

Applt. was convicted of feloniously receiving stolen property. There were two indictments against applt.: the first with reference to twenty-three baskets of strawberries, the property in which was laid in the London & South Western Ry. by a first count, & in W., by a second count, & the second indictment with reference to ten baskets of strawberries, the property in which was laid by different counts in the London & South Western Ry. & R. & H. The prisoner was a. Jurymen sworn in name of another.]—On a trial for larceny, one jurymen answered to & was sworn & served in the name of another. The fact was discovered after the jury retired but before they gave their verdict. Prisoner who was undefended was found guilty:—Held: mistake did not invalidate the conviction.—R. v. MERCER (1870), 9 N. S. W. S. C. R. 57.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 10.

b. Jurors & triers having acted as special constables at time offence committed.]—Applt. was convicted by the Ct. of Quarter Sessions on a charge that he unlawfully assaulted F. & thereby did him bodily harm. The offence was alleged to have taken place during the course of a popular disturbance, & nine of the jurors who tried applt. had on the day of the offence acted as special constables. These jurors having been challenged on this account by applt., two triers, who had also acted as special constables on that day, had tried the cause of the challenge & determined that the jurors so challenged were impartial. Applt. appealed from his conviction alleging (inter alia) that the jury & the triers were biased by reason that such triers & nine of the jury had acted as special constables & that there was evidence to show that applt. was not present at the time the offence was alleged to have been committed:—Held: as no application for a change of venue was made, & as the triers had decided that there was no cause for challenge of the jurors it was not competent given in charge of the jury on the second indictment, but counsel opened, & he was tried on the first indictment. The mistake had only quite recently come to light & no one noticed it at the trial:—Held: the conviction must be quashed as having been irregular, & having regard to what had happened, that there should not be any further proceedings in respect of either of the indictments.

—R. v. LONG (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 17, C. C. A.

6092. Consent of Attorney-General not obtained—Explosive substances Act, 1883 (c. 3), ss. 2, 7 (1).—Appl't. was convicted under sect. 2 of the above Act for unlawfully & maliciously causing an explosion. By sect. 7 of that Act, a person so charged cannot be indicted without the consent of the A.-G. No such consent was applied for or obtained:—Held: as the consent of the A.-G. had not been obtained, the ct. below had no jurisdiction to try the indictment, & as the appeal could not be dismissed under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), upon the ground that there had been no substantial miscarriage of justice, the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. BATES, [1911] 1 K. B. 964; 80 L. J. K. B. 507; 104 L. T. 688; 75 J. P. 271; 27 T. L. R. 314; 55 Sol. Jo. 410; 22 Cox, C. C. 459; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 153, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. R. v. Metz (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1462.

6093. Improper arraignment—Coinage offences—Effect of proviso to s. 4 (1) of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23).—R. v. RUSSELL* (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 78, C. C. A.

6094. Plea of guilty improperly entered—Order for retrial.—Plea of guilty improperly entered. Conviction & judgment set aside & annulled, & appl't. ordered to appear at the next session of the Central Criminal Court to plead & answer the indictment.—R. v. BAKER (1912), 28 T. L. R. 363; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 217; 76 J. P. Jo. 184, C. C. A.; subsequent proceedings, 7 Cr. App. Rep. 252, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299. Refd. R. v. Ingleson (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 21; R. v. Golathan (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 758. Mentd. R. v. Wakefield, [1918] 1 K. B. 216; R. v. King (1920), 15 Cr. App. Cas. 13; R. v. Lloyd (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 184.

6095. ———.—R. v. LLOYD, No. 5065, ante.

6096. ———.—A prisoner pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him in the first count with stealing horses & in the second count with receiving the horses knowing them to have been stolen. On being asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him he stated that he was guilty of taking the horses not knowing that they were stolen. He was then sentenced:—Held: the plea of "guilty" was wrongly entered & all proceedings at the trial consequent on that plea were bad; a plea of "not guilty" must be entered, & the case must go back for trial.—R. v. INGLESON, [1915] 1 K. B. 512; 84 L. J. K. B. 280; 112 L. T. 313; 24 Cox, C. C. 527; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 21; 78 J. P. Jo. 521, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Rhodes (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 33; R. v. Golathan (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 758; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299. Mentd. R. v. King (1920), 15 Cr. App. Cas. 13.

6097. ———.—A prisoner is not to be taken to admit an offence with which he is charged unless he pleads guilty to the charge in unmistakable and unambiguous terms. Where the ct. holds that the proceedings which have culminated in the conviction appealed against are abortive & void the ct. may at its discretion direct that appl't. shall be tried for the offence with which he was charged, & may order that he shall be kept in custody until such trial.—R. v. GOLATHAN (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 758; 112 L. T. 1048; 79 J. P. 270; 31 T. L. R. 177; 24 Cox, C. C. 704; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Wakefield, [1918] 1 K. B. 216; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

6098. Suggestion by judge—As to plea prisoner should make.—On a plea of not guilty there ought to be no suggestion by the ct. that that plea should be withdrawn, or that there should be a plea of guilty.—R. v. KING (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 13, C. C. A.

6099. Alteration of date in indictment—Without formal amendment.—R. v. MANNING (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

6100. Personation of juror—By person not on panel—Order for retrial.—When, at a criminal trial a qualified juror, duly summoned, was personated by a man who was not on the panel & who was not qualified to serve as a juror that amounts to a mistrial, & the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will grant a venire de novo.—R. v. WAKEFIELD, [1918] 1 K. B. 216; 87 L. J. K. B. 319; 118 L. T. 576; 82 J. P. 136; 34 T. L. R. 210; 62 Sol. Jo. 309; 26 Cox, C. C. 222; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 56, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Bottomley (1922), 87 J. P. 26. Refd. Bannister v. Clarke, [1920] 3 K. B. 598; Crane v. Public Prosecutor, [1921] 2 A. C. 299.

6101. Misnomer of jurymen—Jurymen qualified to serve.—The mere misnomer of a jurymen in his jury summons & in the calling of the jury does not bring about a mistrial, where it is not shown that but for the misnomer the prisoner would have challenged the jurymen & would have done so successfully.—R. v. BOTTOMLEY (1922), 127 L. T. 847; 87 J. P. 26; 38 T. L. R. 805; 27 Cox, C. C. 302; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 184, C. C. A.

6102. Alleged misconduct of juror.—R. v. SYME, No. 5781, ante.

6103. Separation of juror—Owing to illness.—R. v. CRIPPEN, No. 5524, ante.

further to question the impartiality of the jury.—YAMAMOTO HIDESABURO v. R. (1921), 24 W. A. L. R. 54.—AUS.

c. Omission to challenge juror.—If def't. omit to challenge a juror on the ground that such juror entertains a hostile feeling against him, he cannot after a verdict of guilty ask on that ground to get the verdict quashed & to have a new trial.—R. v. HARRIS (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 569.—CAN.

d. Improper challenges.—Under Code, s. 928, after the list of jurors has been called & gone through, a number having been directed at the instance of the Crown to stand aside, & a complete jury not obtained, although the Crown may not have exhausted its number of peremptory challenges, it cannot challenge peremptorily on the second going through of the panel. If it does so, the jury is improperly constituted, & a substantial wrong done to accused entitling him to a new trial.—R. v. CHURTON, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 774.—CAN.

e. Communication by judge to jury—Not in open court—Absence of prisoner & his counsel.—Prisoner was charged with perjury. The presentment contained three assignments. After the jury had retired to consider their verdict & after they had been absent several hours, they sent a message to the judge, who had also left the ct. asking a question on a matter material to one of the issues being tried. The judge, without communicating with prisoner or his counsel, sent an answer in writing by the sheriff to the jury. This answer was merely a repetition of what the judge had said in his direction & contained no new matter. The jury brought in a general verdict of guilty. Some days afterwards prisoner's attorney on discovering that a communication had taken place between the judge & jury asked the judge to state a special case upon the ground that the trial was rendered a nullity by reason of the communication:—Held: the communication between judge & jury being on a matter material to the issue should have taken place in open ct. in the presence of the prisoner or his counsel, & as it had taken place in the absence of the prisoner & his counsel the trial was a nullity.—R. v. FITZGERALD (1889), 15 V. L. R. 40.—AUS.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 10.]

6104. Irregular communication with jury.—By Clerk of Assize.—R. v. WILLMONT, No. 5696, ante.

6105. — Possible conversation with other persons.—If a juror, after the judge had summed up in any criminal trial, separates himself from his colleagues, & not being under the control of the ct., converses or is in a position to converse with other persons, it is an irregularity which renders the whole proceedings abortive. Hence, where a juror, when the jury retired to consider their verdict, separated himself from them & left the precincts of the ct. for a short time, & then rejoined them, the conviction was quashed. But the prosecution was at liberty to recommence the proceedings. An explanatory letter of the juror was not admissible in evidence in the Ct. of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. KETTERIDGE, [1915] 1 K. B. 467; 84 L. J. K. B. 352; 112 L. T. 783; 79 J. P. 216; 31 T. L. R. 115; 59 Sol. Jo. 163; 24 Cox, C. C. 678; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 54, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—*Consd. Fanshawe v. Knowles, [1916] 2 K. B. 538. Distd. R. v. Twiss, [1918] 2 K. B. 853.

6106. — Conversation with prosecutors & witness.—Appl't, who was charged with gross indecentcy with male persons, appealed against a sentence on the ground that one or more of the jury had spoken with one of the prosecutors, the male persons in question, & also with a witness for the prosecution during the adjournment of the ct.:—Held: there had been no misdirection, & there was no evidence that the conversation by the juror had led to any miscarriage of justice.—R. v. TWISS, [1918] 2 K. B. 853; 88 L. J. K. B. 20; 119 L. T. 680; 83 J. P. 23; 35 T. L. R. 3; 62 Sol. Jo. 752; 26 Cox, C. C. 325; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 177, C. C. A.

6107. Omission to interpret evidence.—To foreign prisoner.—Where a prisoner who understands little or no English is tried for a criminal offence, & is undefended by counsel, all the evidence at the trial must be interpreted to him, & compliance with this rule cannot be waived by prisoner. If he is defended by counsel the safer course is that the evidence should be interpreted unless prisoner or his counsel expresses a wish to dispense with the translation, & the judge assents to this course. He should not assent unless satisfied that prisoner knows the nature of the case to be made against him, & in any case any substantial departure from, or addition to, the evidence appearing on the

1. Irregular communication to jury.—Conviction will be quashed where any information is given to jury whilst visiting the locus in quo. The judge in the criminal ct. must find as a fact that the alleged tampering took place.—R. v. POSTER (1898), 1 W. A. L. R. 21.—AUS.

g. Irregular conduct of juror.—Conversation with prosecutor.—When a private prosecutor & one of the impanelled jurors have had an unpremeditated & innocent conversation, which could not bias the juror's opinion nor affect his mind or judgment, although such conversation is improper it cannot have the effect of avoiding the verdict & constituting ground for allowing a new trial.—R. v. HARRIS (1898), Q. R. 7 Q. B. 569.—CAN.

h. ——In a trial for murder by shooting the jury attended church in charge of a constable, & the clergyman directly addressed them, referring to the case of a man hanged for murder in P. E. L., & urging if they had the slightest doubt of the guilt of prisoner they were trying, to temper justice with equity:—Held: although the remarks of the clergyman were highly improper, it could not be said that the jury were so influenced by them as to affect their verdict.—PREPPER v. R. (1888), 15 S. C. R. 401.—CAN.

k. ——It is highly undesirable that a juror should have any communication with anybody who is not a juror upon the subject-matter of the trial. The mere fact that one of them is addressed by a stranger to whom apparently the juror makes no reply or whose remarks the juror does not look upon as worthy of consideration cannot have the effect of invalidating a trial. A casual question to a police officer in charge of the jury cannot be any ground for invalidating the trial. If the presence of the constable has not in any way affected the deliberations of the jurors either by interfering with or inconveniencing them, accused is not prejudiced. The judge in twice sending the clerk of the Crown to the jury if he could give them further assistance, there being 17 charges, was only doing his duty.—Re BONOMALLY GUPTA (1916), 1 L. R. 44 Cal. 723.—IND.

1. Separation of jury.—Prisoner was tried before the Y. county ct. on a charge of larceny & found guilty. During the trial the jury, while in charge of two constables, were allowed to separate by walking on different sides of the street. One or two other separations of a similar nature were complained of, but there was nothing to show that any of them had any conversation with any person, not a juror, in reference to the case. This was brought to the notice of the county ct. judge, & an application was made to him to delay passing sentence, & to treat the verdict as a nullity. This application was refused, & prisoner was sentenced & remanded to gaol, pending his removal to the penitentiary. An order to the keeper of the gaol having been obtained under Consolidated Statutes, c. 41, upon the return of this order:—Held: the separation of the jury was such as to avoid the verdict.—Ex p. Ross (1881), 21 N. B. R. 257.—CAN.

m. ——One of a jury, in a case of felony, after the case for the prosecution had closed, supposing the trial was over, separated from the rest, & went a distance of about a mile from the precincts of the ct., without permission, but was brought back to the jury-box in about an hour & three-quarters, & the trial was continued:—Held: no mis-trial.—R. v. O'NEILL (1843), 2 L. T. O. S. 77.—IR.

n. Jurors allowed access to newspapers containing reports of trial.—Trial for murder.—Resp. was tried for murder & convicted & sentenced to death. Afterwards an application was made to Supreme Ct. of the Colony sitting in banco, for a rule to show cause why a venire facias de novo should not issue for the trial of prisoner. On further affidavits the rule was made absolute & it was ordered that a suggestion should be made on the record to effect that after jury had been empanelled & before verdict, jurors were allowed during adjournments of the ct. for the night by officers of sheriff having charge of them, to have access to a free perusal of certain newspapers having reports of the evidence from day to day, & that the last-mentioned trial by reason of the matters so suggested was not according to law, but was irregular & void. This suggestion was followed by an entry purporting to be an order that for this cause the judgment & verdict be vacated & that sheriff cause a new jury to come:—Held: the above order vacating the judgment upon the verdict & for a venire facias de novo was invalid;

(1) because this was substantially an attempt to grant a new trial on the ground that the conviction was unsatisfactory by reason of irregularity in the conduct of the trial, & the discretion to grant new trials does not extend to cases of felony; (2) the Supreme Ct. sitting in banco had no jurisdiction to take cognisance as a ct. of appeal of the judgment pronounced at the session of oyer & terminer which had come to an end before the session in banco began; (3) the evidence was insufficient in that on mere hearsay information, it showed only possible access by the jury to newspapers without showing that the newspapers contained matter tending to influence the jury improperly or that they were ever used by the jury. The cases in which a verdict upon a charge of felony has been held to be a nullity & a venire facias de novo awarded have been cases of defect of jurisdiction in respect of time, place, or person, or cases of verdicts so insufficiently expressed or so ambiguous that a judgment could not be founded thereon, but there is no authority of holding a verdict of conviction or acquittal in case of felony delivered before a competent tribunal in due form to be a nullity by reason of some conduct on the part of the jury considered unsatisfactory by the ct. If irregularity occurs in the conduct of a trial not constituting a ground for treating the verdict as a nullity the remedy to prevent a failure of justice is by application to the authority with whom rests the discretion either of executing the law or commuting the sentence.—A.-G. FOR NEW SOUTH WALES v. MURPHY (1870), 21 L. T. 598.—AUS.

o. Endorsement of document supplied to jury.—The jury may be allowed to take the indictment with it when it retires to consider its verdict. The fact that in the second of the present cases the indictment handed to the jury was endorsed with the verdict "guilty" on the first case tried before another jury was held not to have caused any injustice to accused, since every one of the jurymen must in all probability have been aware of the result of that trial.—R. v. PARKIN, [1922] 1 W. W. R. 732; 66 D. L. R. 175; 37 Can. Crim. Cas. 35; 31 Man. L. R. 438.—CAN.

p. Failure to supply refreshments to jury.—No substantial miscarriage depositions should be interpreted to prisoner though his counsel does not apply for this to be done. A Chinaman, who did not understand English, was convicted of murder. He was defended by counsel, both at the police ct. & at the trial: at the police ct. all the evidence was interpreted to him, but this was not done at the trial. No application was made either by prisoner or his counsel that the evidence at the trial might be translated, & with the exception of prisoner's own evidence, the evidence at the trial did not depart from that recorded in the depositions:—Held: (1) the omission to translate the evidence was a matter of practice, & not of law, & no irregularity had been committed which would justify the quashing of the conviction; (2) even if there had been an irregularity, the conviction must be upheld on the ground that no substantial miscarriage of justice had actually occurred.—R. v. LEE KUN, [1916] 1 K. B. 337; 85 L. J. K. B. 515; 114 L. T. 421; 80 J. P. 166; 32 T. L. R. 225; 60 Sol. Jo. 158; 25 Cox, C. C. 304; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 293, C. C. A.

6108. Unsworn statement—By person in court—Interrupting a witness.—Such an irregularity as the interposition of a person in ct. interrupting of justice is occasioned by failure to supply a jury with refreshment during a period of eight hours.—R. v. MURRAY & MAHONEY (No. 2), [1917] 1 W. W. R. 404; 10 Alta. L. R. 275; 27 Can. Crim. Cas. 247; 33 D. L. R. 702.—CAN.

q. Presence of constable in jury-room during deliberation.—In view of Code, s. 959 (2) & (3), it was held that the fact that the constable in charge of a jury was in the room with them for a considerable time while they were considering their verdict, did not necessitate the discharging of the jury & trying accused over again, it being evident that the trial judge was of opinion, agreed with by the ct., that as the constable did not speak to the jurors or in any way seek to influence their verdict during the time he was in the room, his mere presence there could not lead to any miscarriage of justice.—R. v. CORRIGAN, [1919] 2 W. W. R. 81.—CAN.

r. Presence of constables & caterer in jury-room during deliberation.—Prisoner was tried for murder. Crown prosecutor informed the jury that it was competent for them to bring in verdict of guilty with a strong recommendation to mercy. During jury's deliberation two constables & person who catered for the jury was present, but there was no evidence of interference with the jury. Jury found prisoner guilty of manslaughter with a strong recommendation to mercy. Application for prisoner was made under Crimes Act, 1908, s. 442, for an order reserving for the opinion of the Ct. of Appeal whether the presence of two constables & F. in the jury-room during deliberations vitiated the verdict of the jury:—Held: application should be refused as the presence of constables & caterer was met by Crimes Act, s. 427.—R. v. PARKINSON (1915), 34 N. Z. L. R. 636.—N.Z.

s. Matters incapable of proof opened to jury by Crown.—A.-G., in opening the case for the Crown, outlined evidence of the most damaging character against accused, & pointed to blood-stained clothing of one of them, which had been brought into ct., but failed to prove his statements, the Crown witnesses whom he intended to call not being competent by reason of her being the wife of prisoner referred to. The question reserved in regard to this was, whether it was non-direction or other error in law on the part of the trial judge to omit to direct a witness & making an unsworn statement about the case in hearing must be objected to by counsel at once. It is essential that the shorthand writer should take down & transcribe every word said at the trial by those whom it is their duty to report & record every incident thereat.—R. v. AUSTIN & DAVIES (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 171, C. C. A.

6109. Neglect to inform prisoner of right to give evidence.—R. v. WARREN, No. 6058, ante.

6110.—R. v. YELDHAM (1922), 128 L. T. 28; 27 Cox, C. C. 315; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 18, C. C. A.

6111.—R. v. GRAHAM (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 40, C. C. A.

6112. Prisoner deprived of right to cross-examine—& give evidence in rebuttal.—Where a witness is recalled after the summing up & interrogated the jury that these matters were not in evidence & ought to be wholly disregarded in deciding the guilt or innocence of accused:—Held: the production in ct. of the clothing, coupled with the declaration that the stains on them were stains of human blood, was calculated to have the most profound effect upon the jury; & a substantial wrong was done in not withdrawing them & clearly & explicitly warning the jury against being influenced by them.—R. v. WALKER & CHINLEY (1910), 13 W. L. R. 47.—CAN.

t. Improper verdict—Jury recalled.—Prisoners were charged with larceny of certain goods & with receiving the same goods. Jury found both prisoners guilty of larceny & receiving & were discharged. Objection was then taken on behalf of one of the prisoners that verdict was irregular. Jury who had not left precincts of ct. were recalled by judge & returned verdict of larceny against each prisoner upon which prisoners were sentenced:—Held: the first verdict was illegal, & second verdict a nullity & conviction must be set aside.—R. v. ATKINSON & CLUTTON (1907), 7 S. L. N. S. W. 713.—AUS.

a. Interpreter wrongly sworn.—On trial of a Chinese who did not understand English an interpreter was produced by the Crown, to whom the usual oath of the Gospel was administered. While the jury were deliberating it transpired that the interpreter was not a Christian, although on previous occasions when he had acted as interpreter he had been sworn on the Bible he knew nothing about an oath except the name. Prisoner having been convicted ct. sustained the conviction.—R. v. AH FOO (1861), 8 N. S. W. S. C. R. 343.—AUS.

b. Witness affirming—No proper foundation for affirmation.—Upon the trial of deft. upon a charge of theft, the person whose property was said to have been stolen was called as a witness by the Crown, & upon the usual oath being recited to him, said, "I affirm." He then affirmed, in the usual form, & gave his evidence. It appeared from his examination in chief that he was a clergyman, not in active service. Upon the cross-examination, he refused to give any reason for affirming instead of taking an oath, & the presiding judge sustained him in his refusal. Deft. was convicted, but a case was stated for the opinion of the ct.:—Held: a proper foundation was not laid to permit the witness to affirm. A witness must take an oath unless he objected to do so on the ground of conscientious scruples; & he must so state, that is, his objection must be expressed to the ct.—R. v. DEAKIN (1911), 19 W. L. R. 43; 17 B. C. R. 13; 2 D. L. R. 282; 19 Can. Crim. Cas. 62.—CAN.

c. Accused questioned as to previous conviction—Question not answered.—On a trial upon an indictment accused gave evidence on his own behalf, & in the course of cross-examination was asked a question by Crown counsel, the answer of which would have involved an admission that he had been previously convicted. No circumstances existed that would have rendered the question a proper one, & the judge instructed accused not to answer & disallowed the question. After argument, in the course of which Crown counsel asserted within the hearing of the jury that accused had been in gaol six years before. The judge told the jury to dismiss the matter from their minds. Accused was convicted:—Held: as accused had not in fact answered the question the conviction must stand.—R. v. REIMER (1910), 12 W. A. L. R. 91.—AUS.

d. Accomplice giving evidence—Conditions as to recommendation for pardon.—A judge may, even after a prima facie case has been made out, direct that an accomplice be examined on the understanding that if he gives his evidence in an unexceptionable manner he shall be recommended for pardon. The judge in stating conditions to an accomplice about to give evidence as to his recommending a pardon, appeared to give witness the impression that unless he told the same story to the ct. as he did previously to the magistrate a recommendation for pardon would not be given:—Held: by the statements made the witness was fettered in his answers so as to constitute the doing of "something not according to law" at the trial, within the meaning of Criminal Code, s. 1019, which resulted in a "substantial wrong or miscarriage" of justice entitling the accused to a new trial.—R. v. ROBINSON (1921), 30 B. C. R. 369; 70 D. L. R. 755.—CAN.

e. Improper summing up by counsel for Crown.—Resp. was convicted on a charge of murder, the evidence the prisoner has a right to cross-examine him & to give evidence in rebuttal.—R. v. HOWARTH (1918), 82 J. P. 152; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 99, C. C. A.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sects. 10 & 11, A., B., C. & D.]

6113. Comment by counsel—On omission to call wife of prisoner.]—R. v. DICKMAN*, No. 5776, ante.

6114. Consideration by jury of irrelevant matters.]—On proof that the jury in finding their verdict have considered matters which they ought not to have regarded the ct. will quash the conviction.—R. v. NEWTON (1912), 28 T. L. R. 362; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 214; 76 J. P. Jo. 184, C. C. A.

Application of proviso to s. 4 (1) of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), see Sub-sect. 11, post.

SUB-SECT. 11.—APPLICATION OF PROVISIO TO SECT. 4 (1) OF CRIMINAL APPEAL ACT, 1907 (c. 23).

A. Defective Indictment.

See Part XIV., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 1, ante.

B. Wrongful Admission or Exclusion of Evidence.

Defective indictment.]—See Part XIV., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 2, ante.

Wrongful admission of evidence.]—See Part XIV., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 5, ante.

C. Absence of or Sufficiency of Corroboration.

See Part XIV., Sect. 7, sub-sect. 8, B., ante.

being purely circumstantial. He appealed to the full ct. of Supreme Ct. of N.S.W. The judge stated in his report that he had no reason to think that the evidence did not fully justify the conviction. Full ct. had held that certain conduct of the Crown prosecutor during his address to the jury amounted to an invitation to them to assume that certain evidence which had been rejected had been given & a persistence in that invitation notwithstanding the judge's rebuke. They also thought that the case for the prosecution was very weak. On those grounds they quashed the conviction. On appeal by the Crown to High Ct. three months after conviction.—Held: new trial should be directed.—R. v. EYLES, [1917] 23 C. L. R. 1.—AUS.

f. —.]—Question reserved for the opinion of Supreme Ct. in banc by the judge. Whether comment by counsel for Crown in his address to the jury with regard to prisoner not giving evidence on his own behalf was proper.—Held: this was a comment forbidden by statute & distinctly unfavourable to prisoner.—R. v. KING (1905), 1 W. L. R. 348.—CAN.

g. —.]—Where the judge, at the trial of a criminal charge before a jury, rules that evidence tendered for the defence which is material, & is such that, if the jury believe it, they will not be justified in convicting accused, is properly admissible, but counsel for the Crown, in addressing the jury, tells the jury that that evidence is not admissible & should not have been allowed, & the jury find a verdict of "guilty," a new trial should be granted, because the jury may have been led, by the statement of the counsel, to believe that they should pay no attention to that evidence in considering their verdict.—R. v. WEBB (1914), 27 W. L. R. 313.—CAN.

h. —.]—The question whether a summing up by a Crown counsel was so inflammatory or improper as to prejudice the fair trial of the accused is not one which may be reserved for an appellate ct.—R. v. KELLY (1916), 35 W. L. R. 46; 11 W. W. R. 46.—CAN.

k. Improper comment by judge.]—Prisoner was convicted of receiving certain cheques. A witness called by Crown had been previously convicted before the same judge of receiving one of the same cheques. On the previous trial this witness had given evidence on his own behalf. When witness was called judge stated he had before him his notes of the evidence given by this witness at the previous trial, & in his summing up he told jury that if the evidence given by the witness differed from the story he told when he was convicted he would have asked witness some questions.—Held: judge had given evidence of what the witness had said at the previous trial & conviction set aside.—R. v. THOMPSON (1907), 7 S. R. N. S. W. 764.—AUS.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 11.—D.

6115 i. General rule—Effect on jury.]—Prisoner, who was tried & convicted of murder, although he had ample time & opportunity to tell all he knew concerning the crime both to the authorities & others, maintained a complete silence respecting it with the exception of some bald assertions of his innocence, until he went upon the witness stand at the trial to give evidence on his own behalf, when he admitted being present at the doing of the deed, but charged it upon G., a young companion, who was with him, & who, before & at the trial, had alleged prisoner's guilt. The judge, in charging the jury, told them that they were entitled to take this continued silence of prisoner into consideration, & after deciding whether or not such silence proceeded from a consciousness of guilt & a desire to supply a defence upon the Crown, which it might not be able to meet,

D. Misdirection by Trial Judge.

6115. General rule—Effect on jury.]—Amendment of indictment wrongly made, but "no substantial miscarriage of justice":—Held: proviso to sect. 4 of the above Act, came into operation.

A faulty summing up is not necessarily a ground for quashing a conviction; upon the construction of sect. 4 (1) of the above Act; if there is a wrong decision of any question of law applt. has the right to have his appeal allowed, unless the case can be brought within the proviso. In that case the Crown have to show that, on a right direction, the jury must have come to the same conclusion. A mistake of the judge as to fact, or an omission to refer to some point in favour of prisoner, is not, however, a wrong decision of a point of law, but merely comes within the very wide words "any other ground," so that the appeal should be allowed according as there is or is not a "miscarriage of justice." There is such a miscarriage of justice not only where the ct. comes to the conclusion that the verdict of guilty was wrong, but also when it is of opinion that the mistake of fact or omission on the part of the judge may reasonably be considered to have brought about that verdict, & when, on the facts & with a correct direction, the jury might fairly & reasonably have found applt. not guilty. Then there has been not only a miscarriage of justice but a substantial one, because applt. has lost the chance which was fairly open to him of being acquitted, & therefore, as there is no power of the ct. to grant a new trial, the conviction has to be quashed. If, however, they might therefrom draw an inference as to his guilt or innocence. He further instructed them that this continued silence of prisoner was an element that might assist them in determining the amount of credence that ought to be given by the story told by prisoner in the witness box:—Held: the charge was correct in both respects; &, even if erroneous, as in the opinion of the ct. no substantial wrong or miscarriage had been occasioned thereby, such error was cured by Code, s. 746 (f).—R. v. HIGGINS (1902), 36 N. B. R. 18.—CAN.

6115 ii. —.]—Whether the judge's direction to the jury was or was not strictly justified in the circumstances of the case, there was no ground for setting aside the conviction, having regard to Criminal Code, s. 1019.—R. v. HOO SAM (1912), 20 W. L. R. 571; 1 W. W. R. 1049.—CAN.

6115 iii. —.]—Deft. was charged with procuring a woman to become a prostitute, & was tried before a judge & jury. The evidence of the prosecutrix was, that she had gone away with deft. & lived with him in a cabin, immediately adjoining which was another cabin where lived another Chinaman with another woman; that deft. had left the prosecutrix, & carried away all her clothing; & her clothing was found in his bag when he was arrested. The judge charged the jury that it was a matter of common knowledge that one of the most usual ways of forcing women to embark in the business of prostitution was by taking away their clothes. There was no evidence to show that this was a common practice. The portion of the charge above set out was not objected to at the trial.—Held: the conviction should be affirmed. The portion of the charge referred to was objectionable, but no substantial wrong was done to deft. The Crown was not bound to prove what deft.'s motive for taking away the clothes was; the jury could infer a motive; &, on the the ct. in such a case comes to the conclusion that, on the whole of the facts & with a correct direction, the only reasonable & proper verdict would be one of guilty, there is no miscarriage of justice, or at all events no substantial miscarriage of justice within the meaning of the proviso, notwithstanding that the verdict actually given by the jury may have been due to some extent to such an error of the judge, not being a wrong decision of a point of law.—R. v. COHEN (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Appl. R. v. Thompson, [1914] 2 K. B. 99.

6116. ———.]—R. v. BOWLER, No. 6074, ante.

6117. ———.]—R. v. MORGAN, No. 6018, ante.

6118. ———.]—R. v. MCKONE (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 181, C. C. A.

6119. ———.]—R. v. TOTTY, No. 5684, ante.

6120. ———.]—R. v. SIMMONDS (1917), 144 L. T. Jo. 79, C. C. A.

6121. ———.]—R. v. SBARRA, No. 6014, ante.

6122. ———.]—Although information of previous convictions against applts. was inadvertently given to the jury, the ct., being of opinion on the evidence that in any event the jury must inevitably have arrived at the same verdict of guilty, & that consequently there had been no "substantial miscarriage of justice," refused to exercise their power under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4, to quash the verdict.—R. v. WILLIAMS & WOODLEY (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 557; 123 L. T. 270; 84 J. P. 90; 64 Sol. Jo. 309; 26 Cox, C. C. 608; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 135; sub nom. R. v. WILLIAMS, R. v. WOODLEY, 36 T. L. R. 251, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Beecham, [1921] 3 K. B. 464.

Refd. R. v. Jones (1922), 127 L. T. 160.

6123. Insufficient direction—Larceny or false pretences.—R. v. MEYER, No. 6006, ante.

6124. Omissions in summing up.—R. v. FARRINGTON, No. 5720, ante.

6125. ———.]—R. v. BENTOTE, No. 5937, ante.

6126. On immaterial point of law.—R. v. HUNTING & WARD, No. 6016, ante.

6127. Misstatements in summing up.—Misstatements in a summing up will be considered with the question whether there has been a miscarriage of justice.—R. v. PRATLEY (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 159, C. C. A.

6128. Offence not charged in indictment—Receiving goods stolen by wife from husband.—R. v. TOTTERDELL, No. 5898, ante.

6129. Not leaving question of fact to jury.—R. v. WEST, No. 6036, ante.

6130. ———.]—R. v. BEEBY, No. 6041, ante.

6131. ———.]—When a false pretence is alleged in a document, the interpretation thereof is not a matter of law for the ct. but of fact for the jury.

It should have been left to the jury to say whether applt. had made the statements with the intent to lead persons to a belief which was false (per CUB.)—R. v. ROSENSON (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 235, C. C. A.

6132. As to necessity for corroboration—Of child's evidence.—R. v. MURRAY, No. 6076, ante.

6133. Effect of admitted statement.—R. v. CURNOCK, No. 5894, ante.

6134. —Against co-defendant.—The prosecution is not confined under Larceny Act, 1916 (c. 50), s. 43 (1), to evidence of the bare facts of the finding of "other" stolen property; but may give the same evidence as would be admissible on an indictment in respect of that property.

Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4, applied despite misdirection as to the effect of statement made by one deft. as evidence against his co-deft.—R. v. SMITH, [1918] 2 K. B. 415; 87 L. J. K. B. 1023; 119 L. T. 584; 26 Cox, C. C. 321; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 151; sub nom. R. v. SMITH, R. v. CURRIER, 34 T. L. R. 480, C. C. A.

6135. Suggestion of previous convictions.—In a summing up, care should be taken not to use expressions suggesting that deft. had been previously convicted, where there is no evidence to that effect. Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).—R. v. BURNELL (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 222, C. C. A.

6136. As to one-man company.—R. v. GRUBB, [1915] 2 K. B. 683; 84 L. J. K. B. 1744; 113 L. T. 510; 79 J. P. 430; 31 T. L. R. 429; 59 Sol. Jo. 547; 25 Cox, C. C. 77; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 153, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Refd. R. v. Bottomley (1922), 87 J. P. 26; R. v. Cuffin (1922), 127 L. T. 564.

6137. Suggestions of counsel as to offence ignored.—R. v. GORGES, No. 5968, ante.

6138. Misstatement of evidence.—A slight misstatement of the evidence in a summing up may not be ground for quashing a conviction.—R. v. SCOTT (1917), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

6139. Mistake in referring to evidence.—Applt. was convicted on an indictment for attempting to have carnal knowledge of a girl under thirteen years of age, for indecent assault, & for indecent assault occasioning bodily harm. Evidence for the Crown at the trial was brought to show that both applt. & the girl were suffering from a discharge due to gonorrhœa. Analyses of both discharges had been obtained, & part of the cross-examination of the doctor who sent the discharges for analysis was directed to prove that there were no gonococci in the girl's discharge. There were evidence, could not have done otherwise than convict, irrespective of what the judge said. The lack of objection to the charge, at a time when the matter could have been instantly rectified, while not necessarily fatal to an appeal, was a matter which the ct. ought to consider both in its relation to the general practice as to new trial, & the probable effect which the words complained of had upon those who heard them. Criminal Code, s. 1019, covered the case, there having been no substantial wrong or miscarriage.—R. v. LEW (1912), 19 W. L. R. 853; 1 D. L. R. 99.—CAN.

6115 iv. ———.]—Where upon the facts a ct. of appeal is of opinion that the jury, if it had been properly directed, would have returned the same verdict, a conviction will not be interfered with on the ground of misdirection.—R. v. LETAIN, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 505; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 389.—CAN.

6115 v. ———.]—R. v. McDONALD (1920), 53 D. L. R. 730.—CAN.

1. Omission to direct jury on immaterial point of law.—On a trial for the murder of a police officer, there was evidence that E. & J. had set out from their home, during the night when deceased was killed, with the intention of committing theft; J. & his wife testified that, on returning home, E. had told them that a man, whom he supposed to be a secret police constable, had pointed a pistol at him & told him to "go to hell," & that he had shot him. The defence was rested entirely upon alibi, & accused testified on his own behalf, stating that he had been at home during the whole of the night in question, but making no mention of any facts concerning the shooting. In his charge, the judge reviewed the evidence, in a general way, & told the jury that, upon the evidence adduced, they must either convict or acquit of the crime of murder; that they could not return a verdict of manslaughter; that, if they believed J.'s account of what happened to be substantially true, they should convict of murder; & he did not instruct the jury as to what, in law, constituted manslaughter nor as to circumstances on which the verdict might be reduced to manslaughter. E. was convicted of murder.—Held: on the evidence the charge of the judge was right, & the omission to instruct the jury in respect to manslaughter did not occasion any substantial wrong or miscarriage which could justify the setting aside of the conviction nor a direction for a new trial.—R. v. EBERTS (1912), 22 W. L. R. 901; 3 W. W. R. 37; 7 D. L. R. 530.—CAN.

m. ———.]—The judge neglected to tell the jury that any admissions or confessions made by one of accused, not in the presence of the other, was only evidence against the one making four reports of the result of the analysis, three of which were labelled, as to two, with the girl's name, & as to another with the applt.'s name, the fourth being unlabelled & unidentified. One of them, labelled with the girl's name & showing the presence of the typical microscopical appearance of the gonococcus, was admitted in evidence. In his summing up the judge by mistake referred to the unlabelled report only, which stated that "if the specimen is from the urethra the organisms seen are doubtless gonococci," & he did not refer to any other report:—Held: a mistake had been made, but that as the report given in evidence was substantially to the same effect as that which was referred to in the summing up, no injustice had resulted, & the appeal would be dismissed.—R. v. MULLASHEY (1919), 83 J. P. 188; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 44, C. C. A.

Sect. 7.—Determination of appeals against conviction: Sub-sect. 11, D., E. & F. Sect. 8: Sub-sect. 1, A.]

6140. As to onus of proof.]—On indictments for receiving with guilty knowledge the onus never rests on deft.—R. v. SANDERS (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 11, C. C. A.

v. THOMAS, No. 6015, ante.

E. Irregularity in Procedure at Trial.

6142. Improper arraignment—Coinage offence.]—R. v. RUSSELL, No. 6093, ante.

6143. Witness called by prosecution—After close of defence.]—Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied despite an irregularity in procedure at the trial.

such confession or admission, all the evidence being before the ct.:—Held: it would not be useful to send the case back to have this question re-stated, as all that could be said upon it had been said by counsel, & all the evidence bearing upon it had been brought to the attention of the ct.; & from that evidence it was plain that, in the circumstances, it was not serious error on the judge's part, & in any case it was manifest that there had been no substantial wrong or miscarriage under Criminal Code, s. 1019, by reason of such warning not being given.—R. v. DAVIS (1914), 26 W. L. R. 912.—CAN.

n. Misdirection upon evidence—Refusal to redirect.]—Where a judge errs in his statement of the evidence to the jury & refuse to correct it, although exception is taken by counsel for accused, it cannot be said that no substantial wrong was done, & consequently the conviction will be set aside & a new trial ordered.—R. v. KLEPARCZUK, [1918] 1 W. W. R. 695; 13 Alta L. R. 212; 29 Can. Crim. Cas. 336; 39 D. L. R. 171.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 11.—E.

o. Reply wrongly allowed to Crown.]—At the trial of accused who was not defended by counsel, & who called no evidence, & did not give evidence himself, but made a statement to the jury from the dock, immediately before prisoner made his statement the Crown prosecutor requested, & was permitted, to address the jury. Prisoner was found guilty, & sentenced to a term of imprisonment. The learned judge stated a case, by which he raised the question whether he was right in allowing the Crown prosecutor to address the jury:—Held: he was not right in so doing, but there had been no substantial miscarriage of justice, & the conviction should be affirmed.—R. v. MEHEAN (1919), 12 Q. S. R. 119.—AUS.

p. Personation of juror.]—On the empanelling of a jury the associate called the name of B. W., whose name was on the jury panel, & a jurymen named L. W., whose name was also on the panel, answered, entered the jury-box, was sworn, & acted on the jury. Accused was convicted:—Held: the conviction must stand, there being no miscarriage of justice.—MORGAN v. R. (1920), 22 W. A. L. R. 45.—AUS.

q. —.]—B. found guilty of feloniously administering poison with intent to murder, moved in arrest of judgment on the ground that one of the jurors who had tried the case had not been returned as such. The general panel of jurors contained the names of J. L. & M. L. The special panel for the term of the ct., at which prisoner was tried, contained the name of J. L. The sheriff served J. L.'s summons on M. L., & returned J. L. as the party summoned. M. L. appeared in ct., answered to the name of J. L., & was sworn as a juror without challenge when B. was tried. On a reserved case:—Held: the point should not have been reserved, but assuming the point could be reserved, R. S. C., c. 174, s. 246, clearly covered the irregularity complained of.—BRISEBOIS v. R. (1888), 15 S. C. R. 421.—CAN.

r. Challenging the jury.]—When a panel had been gone through & a full jury had not been obtained the Crown on the second calling over the panel was permitted, against the objection of prisoner, to direct eleven of the jurymen on the panel to stand aside a second time, & the judge was not asked to reserve, & neither reserved nor refused to reserve the objection. After conviction & judgment a writ of error was issued:—Held: all

v. R. (1890), 18 S. C. R. 407.—CAN.

s. Separation of jurors—Conversation with strangers.]—Even in a criminal case the separation of the jurors & their conversation with

The calling of witnesses after the close of the defence was in the discretion of the judge at the trial, & that discretion must be exercised with a due regard to the interests of deft. If it were shown that the prosecution had done something unfair—had set what has been called a trap—which resulted in an injustice to prisoner, the ct. reserved to itself full power to deal with the matter (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. FOSTER (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 196, C. C. A.

6144. Cross-examination to letter of defendant—Letter not produced.]—Cross-examination to a letter written by deft. but not produced is improper. Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), applied.—R. v. BANKS (1916), as reported in, 85 L. J. K. B. 1657; 80 J. P. 432; 12 Cr. App. Rep. 74, C. C. A.

6145. Omission to translate evidence—To foreign defendant.]—R. v. LEE KUN, No. 6107, ante.

6146. Information of previous convictions—Obtained by questions of judge.]—An interrogation of deft. by the judge tending to suggest that the latter has information to deft.'s discredit or that deft. has been guilty of an offence, other than that then being tried, if deft. has not let in such evidence, is an infringement of Criminal Evidence Act, 1898 (c. 36), s. 1 (f). Proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), not applied.—R. v. RATCLIFFE (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 135; 122 L. T. 384; 84 J. P. 15; 26 Cox, C. C. 554; 14 Cr. App. Rep. 95, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. R. v. Redd, [1923] 1 K. B. 104.

6147. — Inadvertently given to jury.]—R. v. WILLIAMS & WOODLEY, No. 6122, ante.

strangers will not necessarily destroy the verdict. Qu.: whether misconduct of the jurors, when there is no other irregularity, would in capital cases be a sufficient ground for directing a venire de novo.—R. v. KENNEDY (1856), 3 N. S. R. (2 Thom.) 203.—CAN.

t. —.]—Prisoner was convicted on a charge of rape. The jury included eight jurors who were members of a jury empanelled on the previous day to try prisoner, but which had, after hearing the evidence of five Crown witnesses, been discharged on the ground that the jurors had not been kept together overnight:—Held: the trial judge was under no duty to exclude from the convicting jury the jurors who were members of the jury which had been discharged, & the mere presence of the jurors in question on the convicting jury did not constitute a substantial wrong or miscarriage under Criminal Code, s. 1019.—R. v. LUPARELLO (1915), 30 W. L. R. 777; 8 W. W. R. 89; 25 Man. L. R. 233.—CAN.

a. Absence of juror during trial.]—On the trial of deft. on an indictment, charging him with the forgery of two promissory notes, deft. having been found guilty, a reserved case was applied for, because one of the jurors was absent from the ct. room at a time when a witness gave evidence of having seen deft. at a previous trial write a number of names on a sheet of paper:—Held: the points mentioned were within Code, s. 746 (f), & there having been no substantial wrong or miscarriage which would be ground for a new trial, the appeal should not be allowed.—R. v. McLEAN (1906), 39 N. S. R. 147.—CAN.

b. No record of evidence kept—Military court.]—Resp., a South African Mounted Rifleman, & as such under Act 13 (1912), s. 12 (1), a member of the permanent defence force of the Union, was tried before his commanding officer & convicted of an offence against Police Regs. in failing to make a certain entry in the occur-

6148. Case summed up by counsel for prosecution—Defendant not represented by counsel.]—R. v. THOMAS*, No. 6015, ante.

F. Other Cases.

6149. Ambiguous verdict.]—When the words of a verdict are not clear or are confused, but the intention of the jury is plain, the ct. will give effect to it, under the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1). Under that proviso it may decline to consider a point of law not taken at the trial.—R. v. RAWLINGS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 5, C. C. A.

6150. Technical objection—Charge of obtaining credit by fraud—Proof of obtaining property by fraud.]—Where it appeared doubtful whether the evidence supported a conviction for obtaining credit by fraud other than false pretences, the ct. dismissed the appeal, acting under Criminal that the evidence showed that applt. had obtained property by fraud or larceny.—R. v. ARMITAGE (1909), 74 J. P. 48; 3 Cr. App. Rep. 80, C. C. A.

6151. — Charge of false pretence—Proof of fraud not a false pretence.]—If on an indictment for obtaining money by false pretences, fraud is proved against applt., even though it is not strictly a false pretence in law, the ct. will apply the proviso to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1).—R. v. BUCKLAND (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

6152. — Proof of consent of Attorney-General.]—The ct. will not give effect to a purely technical point which might have been taken at the trial. A conviction for an offence under Trading with the Enemy Act, 1914 (c. 87), s. 1 (4), shall not be quashed merely because formal proof of the consent of the A.-G. to the prosecution has not been given at the trial.—R. v. METZ (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1462; 113 L. T. 464; 79 J. P. 384; 50 Col. Jo. 457; 25 Cox, C. C. 67; 11 Cr. App. 164, C. C. A.

8.—DETERMINATION OF APPEALS AGAINST SENTENCE.

SUB-SECT. 1.—ALTERATION OF SENTENCE.

A. In General.

6154. Trial judge proceeding on wrong principles—Agreement with sentence not the test—Rule when prisoner has pleaded guilty.]—Where a prisoner has been tried, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will not interfere with the sentence imposed unless the judge has gone wrong in principle, although members of the ct. may be of opinion that they would not have inflicted so severe a sentence. But where prisoner has pleaded guilty, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal are in as good, or in nearly as good, a position to consider what is the proper sentence on reviewing the sentence, as the ct. of trial is on its imposition, & therefore in such cases the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will reduce a sentence which is in their opinion too severe.—R. v. NUTTALL (1908), 73 J. P. 30; 25 T. L. R. 76; 53 Sol. Jo. 64; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 180, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Haden (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 148.

6155. — — —.]—The ct. will not interfere with a sentence unless it is apparent that the judge at the trial has proceeded upon wrong principles, or given undue weight to some of the facts proved in evidence. It is not possible to allow appeals because individual members of the ct. might have inflicted a different sentence, more or less severe (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. SIDLOW (1908), 72 J. P. 391; 24 T. L. R. 751; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

6156. — — —.]—If the principle on which the ct. of trial passes sentence is right, this ct. will not inquire whether the sentence is one which they themselves would have thought well to pass (CHANNELL, J.).—R. v. MAURICE (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 176, C. C. A.

6157. — — —.]—R. v. HILLIER* (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

6158. — — —.]—R. v. SHERSHIEWSKY* (1912), 28 T. L. R. 364; 76 J. P. 172, C. C. A.

6159. — — —.]—An isolated incorrect passage in a summing up is not sufficient ground for quashing a conviction if the ct. is satisfied that the jury appreciate the proper question for them.

It is not the policy of this ct. to interfere (with a sentence) if its members are of opinion that they would have given a less sentence, but slaughter & sentenced to ten years' penal servitude. It appeared that applt. gave the deceased a "clout" under the left ear, kicked him when he was falling from the blow, & kicked him again on the side of the head when he was lying on the ground; but the cause of the death of the deceased, whose body was in a diseased condition, was the fall following upon the "clout." Applt. when he gave the "clout" was very drunk, in an excited condition from a fight he had just had with rence book. Resp. at the time of the offence was employed on police duty. No record of the evidence was kept but the commanding officer in failing to keep such record, acted in strict accordance with the Defence Code. Upon a summons to review the proceedings under Cape Provincial Division, s. 190:—Held: assuming the commanding officer sat as an inferior ct. of justice to try resp., there had been no such irregularity in the proceedings as would justify an interference with the conviction & sentence.—UNION GOVERNMENT & FISHER v. WEST, [1918] App. D. 556. S. AF.

PART XIV. SECT. 7, SUB-SECT. 11.—F.

o. Perverse verdict—Whether view of trial judge conclusive.]—R. v. BREWSTER* (No. 2) (1896), 2 Terr. L. R. 377.—CAN.

J.—VOL. XIV.

PART XIV. SECT. 8, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

d. Principles on which the court acts.]—A Ct. of Criminal Appeal should not interfere with a sentence because ct. might have inflicted a different sentence, more or less severe, nor unless the ct. sees that the sentence is manifestly excessive or inadequate.—SKINNER v. R. (1913), 16 C. L. R. 336.—AUS.

e. — — —.]—R. v. MALCOLM*, [1919] V. L. R. 596.—AUS.

f. — — —.]—Deft. was convicted at the police ct. on a charge under Police Act, 1892, s. 66 (3), that "he did on Oct. 2, 1920, pretend to tell the fortune of J.," & was sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour. On appeal it was contended on deft.'s behalf that the sentence was excessive:—Held: there was no ground for interfering with the sentence. A Ct. of Criminal Appeal will be reluctant to interfere with sentences which do not seem to it to be wrong in principle though they may appear heavy to individual judges.—ISHERWOOD v. O'BRIEN (1920), 23 W. A. L. R. 10.—AUS.

g. — — —.]—Semle*: on an application for leave to appeal against a conviction & sentence, where, for convenience, the merits of the whole matter are argued, the ct. will not interfere with the sentence if the application for leave to appeal is refused.—R. v. NICHOLLS, [1922] St. R. Qd. 71.—AUS.

h. — — —.]—The ct., on an application on behalf of a convict under Criminal Code, s. 1055A, for revision of sentence passed, largely reduced the sentence passed on a charge of incest, on consideration of the peculiar conditions in the case.—R. v. ADAMS,

N N

Sect. 8.—Determination of appeals against sentence : Sub-sect. 1, A., B., C. & D.]

another man, & in pain from a wound in the eye. The deceased man was only thirty-six years of age. On an appeal against this sentence:—Held: the Ct. of Criminal Appeal was not there to correct sentences on minor differences of opinion in the standard of punishment. They had to consider whether a wrong standard or principle had been applied in the particular case under consideration. In this case they thought the judge who had tried the case had allowed two circumstances to weigh with him too much—(1) the fact that applt. did not give the deceased man a chance of "putting up his hands," & (2) that it made no difference to the offence whether the body of the deceased man was in a diseased condition. But such a condition might make the consequences of an assault more serious than could be anticipated. The sentence would be reduced from one of ten to one of three years' penal servitude.—R. v. O'CONNELL (1909), 73 J. P. 118; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 11, C. C. A.

6161. —[—]—For the purposes of sentence there may be a distinction between an actual receiver of stolen goods & one who, knowing them to be stolen, merely gets rid of them to screen the thief. It is not the function of this ct. to gauge nicely the terms imposed by the judges at the trial (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. MAXWELL (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 28, C. C. A.

6162. —[—]—R. v. WILSON, No. 5610, ante.

6163. —[—]—In this case we have experienced considerable difficulty. The Recorder imposed a long term of imprisonment upon prisoner, believing that a short sentence would do no good; & while it is true that only three previous convictions were proved against applt., on the other hand, he about himself.

We only interfere with sentences, as a general rule, when it appears that the sentence has proceeded upon some wrong principle (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. ROSS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 198, C. C. A.

6164. —[—]—R. v. KERVORKIAN (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 96, C. C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. R. v. Caroubi (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 153.

6165. —[—]—R. v. WILLIAMS (OTHERWISE EMBLETON) (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 11, C. C. A.

6166. —[—]—Or sentence manifestly excessive.—R. v. SHERSHEWSKY, No. 6158, ante.

6167. —[—]—We are loth to interfere with a sentence unless we come to the conclusion that it is one which no judge ought to have passed (LORD READING, C.J.).—R. v. PRIDAY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 34, C. C. A.

6168. —[—]—R. v. WOLFF, No. 6159, ante.

6169. —[—]—R. v. WILDE & JUKES (alias WEST) (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 34, C. C. A.

B. Substitution, Variation and Correction of Sentences.

6170. Whether fresh sentence can be substituted—Plea of guilty.—R. v. DAVIDSON, No. 5548, ante.

6171. —[—]—R. v. ETTRIDGE, No. 5549, ante.

6172. Variation of sentence—Sentence reduced on one of several prisoners.—If the ct. reduces a sentence passed on one of several prisoners jointly indicted, it will, in the absence of any reason for discrimination, reduce it in the case of the others.—R. v. BOXALL, HAMMERSLEY & MARSTON (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

6173. —[—]—R. v. BRENNER (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 203, C. C. A.

6174. —[—]—Sentence reduced in view of mitigation of that of another deft.—R. v. HICKSON (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 47, C. C. A.

6175. —[—]—Sentence based on misleading evidence.—Applt. was convicted of attempted larceny & sentenced to two years' detention under the Borstal system. Applt. & his mother, who were desirous that he should be sent to Borstal, had misled the ct. as to his age. Prisoner was over 21 years of age, & therefore ineligible for punishment under the Borstal system.

The sentence must be varied to one of four months' imprisonment with hard labour (per CUR.).—R. v. BURKE (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 222, C. C. A.

6176. —[—]—To carry out intention of trial judge.—In order that the intentions of the trial judge should be carried out the ct. will reduce a sentence.—R. v. ROUSE (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

6177. —[—]—When sentence has been passed under a misunderstanding of relevant facts, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal will give effect to what it believes would have been the judgment of the trial judge if he had been cognisant of the true facts.—R. v. PLATT (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 172, C. C. A.

6178. —[—]—When one of several convictions quashed.—When one of two or more convictions is quashed, sentence may be reduced.—R. v.

6179. Correction of sentence—Mistake as to prisoner's antecedents.—W., aged sixteen, was convicted of stealing a lady's bag from her person. It appeared that he had been sentenced to fourteen days' imprisonment for embezzlement six months previously. W. was now sentenced to two years' imprisonment with hard labour, & he was recommended for treatment under the Borstal system. Before sentencing him, the judge said, "They say that they cannot do anything with you at home." It appeared that this remark had been made with reference to another person, D., & that the judge, in sentencing W., was under the impression that a bad character given to D. applied to W. The ct. reduced the sentence to six months' imprisonment with hard labour, to date from the conviction.—R. v. WHITEMAN (1909), 73 J. P. 102; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

6180. —[—]—When the police reports, after conviction, of a prisoner's antecedents were found on appeal to be incorrect & the sentence passed was evidently increased by reason of the misleading statements made, the sentence of three years' penal servitude was reduced to one of fifteen months' imprisonment with hard labour.—R. v. ELLEY (1921), 85 J. P. 144; 15 Cr. App. Rep. 143, C. C. A.

6181. —[—]—Misapprehension of effect of sentence—Modified Borstal.—The ct. will correct a sentence passed under a misapprehension of its

[1921] 3 W. W. R. 854; 65 D. L. R. 211; 36 Can. Cr. Cas. 180; 17 Alta. L. R. 52.—CAN.

k. No reduction of lawful sentence—Unless circumstances peculiar.—In pursuance of a common purpose between K., the driver of a motor-car, & himself, C., an employé of a motor garage, took a tin of petrol from his employer's store & without removing it from the employer's premises placed it in another portion of those premises. The employer becoming aware of the removal took back the tin of petrol & substituted for it a tin of petrol & water, the contents of which in accordance with an arrangement between C. & himself, K. poured into the car:—Held: the ct. will not alter a lawful sentence imposed by a magistrate unless there are peculiar circumstances in the case. A sentence of imprisonment without the option of a fine, passed by a magistrate on first offenders confirmed.—R. v. CARELSE & KAY, [1920] C. P. D. 471.—S. AF.

effects.—R. v. SMITH (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

Annotation.—Folld. R. v. Lee (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 144.

6182. — Mistake in record.—The ct. will correct a sentence due to a mistake in the record.—R. v. MALOY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

6183. ——Where, though the prosecution has abandoned a count in the indictment, a general verdict has been returned, the ct. may amend the record of the verdict.—R. v. PROCTOR, R. v. WHITEFIELD, R. v. MORRISON (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 124, C. C. A.

6184. — Clerical error in indictment.—A clerical error in an indictment may be a ground for reducing sentence.—R. v. JAMES (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 10, C. C. A.

6185. — Imposed by mistake.—Where hard labour has been, by mistake, inflicted in respect of a common law offence for which it cannot be imposed, the sentence will be reduced.—R. v. CARNEY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 79, C. C. A.

6186. ——The ct. will rectify a sentence inadvertently passed.—R. v. NEARY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 209, C. C. A.

6187. — Misapprehension of plea by prisoner.—The ct. will correct a sentence inflicted under a misapprehension of deft.'s plea.—R. v. HIRST (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 282, C. C. A.

C. On Account of Facts not before Trial Judge.

6188. Good character of prisoner.—The ct. will take into consideration the fact that applt. did not put his good character in issue at the trial.—R. v. FRANCIS (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 259, C. C. A.

6189. ——R. v. BRUCE (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 168, C. C. A.

6190. ——The ct. may consider evidence of character not given at the trial.—R. v. MURCH (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 214, C. C. A.

6191. ——Sentence mitigated in view of favourable facts not known to the judge at the trial.—R. v. YARDLEY (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 131, C. C. A.

6192. ——Mitigation of sentence in view of meritorious conduct not known to the ct. of trial.—R. v. MARROWS (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 207, C. C. A.

6193. Bad character of prosecutrix.—R. v. DICKINSON, No. 5557, ante.

6194. Owing to plea of guilty.—If, owing to a plea of guilty, the judge at the trial has not all the facts before him, the Ct. of Criminal Appeal may interfere.—R. v. SNEASBY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 178, C. C. A.

6195. ——In view of facts not disclosed to the judge at the trial on a plea of guilty a sentence may be reduced.—R. v. ADAMS (1916), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 139, C. C. A.

6196. Period of honesty by prisoner.—The ct. may mitigate sentence on evidence of a period of honest work, not before the ct. of trial.—R. v. KENDRICK (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 117, C. C. A.

6197. Established by witnesses on appeal.—R. v. LANE (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 136, C. C. A.

6198. ——R. v. HOLDER (1911), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 59; 75 J. P. Jo. 569, C. C. A.

6199. ——R. v. SANDERS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 179, C. C. A.

6200. Information as to crime volunteered by prisoner.—R. v. PORTER (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 213; 77 J. P. Jo. 557, C. C. A.

6201. Lengthy detention before trial.—Mitigation of sentence in view of lengthy detention before trial not known to trial judge.—R. v. MCCULLOCH (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 51, C. C. A.

6202. Prisoner's state of health.—A sentence may be reduced in view of prisoner's state of health which was not before the judge at the trial.—R. v. RYLE (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 312, C. C. A.

6203. ——Applt. had been sentenced to five years' penal servitude for performing an operation to procure abortion, resulting in the death of the woman. He had pleaded "not guilty" to the original indictment for murder, but had afterwards pleaded "guilty" to the charge of manslaughter. He was eighty-one years of age, infirm & shaky, & had from a time before the trial been in the infirmary in a neurasthenic condition & was said to be, if anything, worse since his admission:—Held: the ct. was in a better position to gauge applt.'s condition than the judge at the trial, & without interfering with his discretion the sentence would be reduced to one of two years' imprisonment.—R. v. FERROA (1919), 14 Cr. App. Rep. 39; 83 J. P. Jo. 267, C. C. A.

D. Other Cases

6204. Pending charges—Consideration of—Consent of prisoner.—Pending charges against applt.s. will not be taken into consideration by Ct. of Criminal Appeal in passing sentence unless they consent.—R. v. WERNER & COOKES (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 93, C. C. A.

6205. ——In considering the severity of a sentence, the ct. may take into account the fact that an untried indictment is pending against applt., & may inquire whether he confesses it.—R. v. SMITH (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 201, C. C. A.

6206. Remanet sentences—Cannot be considered.—The ct. has no jurisdiction over remanet sentences.—R. v. WILLIAMS (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 2, C. C. A.

PART XIV. SECT. 8, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

6185 i. Correction of sentence—Imposed by mistake.—W. & L. were charged on information with robbery. The evidence showed that they had committed the offence in company. They were found guilty & sentenced to imprisonment & to a whipping & flogging respectively.

Prisoner's counsel took no objection to the sentence. The sect. under which they were charged did not authorise whipping or flogging, although the sect. dealing with robbery in company does so. The error was not discovered until the sittings had been closed. When the judge discovered the error, he re-opened the ct., respited the sentences & stated a case:—Held: the sentences must be amended by striking out so much as directed the whipping & flogging.—R. v. WISHER (1896), 7 Q. L. J. 52.—AUS.

l. — No inquiry into prisoner's antecedents—Left to executive to determine.—When passing sentence on a prisoner who had been convicted of using certain materials for the purpose of forging a £5 bank-note, judge said he was passing the maximum sentence of 14 years' penal servitude on prisoner, leaving it to the executive to determine when his history was known, the length he would have to serve. One of the Crown witnesses said that prisoner admitted to him that he had produced spurious money in other countries. Beyond this nothing was known against prisoner who had only been in Australia a few months:—Held: infliction of the maximum penalty was contrary to the principles which have always guided judges in determining sentences.—R. v. SELLING (1913), 13 S. R. N. S. W. 628; 30 N. S. W. W. N. 189.—AUS.

m. — Sentence erroneous in law.]

—A prisoner convicted under 46 Vict. No. 17, s. 98, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment. The lowest sentence that could be legally passed was three years' penal servitude:—Held: the defect was not amendable under 46 Vict. No. 17, s. 427, & judgment must be reversed.—HUME v. R. (1888), 9 N. S. W. L. R. 168.—AUS.

n. ——Deft. was convicted under the Speedy Trials Act, Criminal Code, Part 18, of fraudulently abstracting electricity to the value of some $13.40 from the St. J. Co., & was sentenced to two years' imprisonment & to pay a fine of $1,000, one-half of which was ordered to be paid to the St. J. Co. On appeal:—Held: the sentence was erroneous in law, & the case was remitted to the ct. below with directions to impose a sentence of six months' imprisonment & a fine of $500.00.—R. v. SPERDAKES (1911), 40 N. B. R. 428; 9 E. L. R. 433.—CAN.

Sect. 8.—Determination of appeals against sentence: Sub-sect. 1, D.; sub-sect. 2. Sects. 9 & 10.]

6207. Mitigation by Home Secretary—Ground for not interfering with sentence—Habitual criminal.]—R. v. MORTON* (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 145, C. C. A.

6208. ———.]—The ct. will not interfere with a sentence, mitigation of which would more properly be effected by the royal prerogative.—R. v. STEANE (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 55, C. C. A.

6209. Irregularity at trial not affecting sentence.]—It is not a ground for granting leave to appeal against sentence that, after conviction, information has been given to the ct. of alleged previous convictions of prisoner without strict proof thereof, where there is no reason to believe that the term has been increased in view of such information.—R. v. PEARSON (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 188, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—FRIVOLOUS APPEALS AND INCREASE OF SENTENCE.

6210. Frivolous appeals—Sentence unaltered.]—R. v. HOOPER, R. v. THOMAS* (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 109; 72 J. P. Jo. 400, C. C. A.

6211. ———.]—R. v. ROTHWELL (alias MILLER)* (1922), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 104, C. C. A.

6212. ———Sentence increased.]—In this case S., who was convicted of shooting a fellow passenger in the train with the intent to murder him, applied for leave to appeal against his sentence of twelve years' penal servitude. Leave was granted that the question of the sufficiency of the sentence might be considered, & the case being that of a most deliberate attempt to murder, the ct. increased the sentence from one of twelve to one of fifteen years' penal servitude.—R. v. SIMPSON (1910), 75 J. P. 56; 5 Cr. App. Rep. 217, C. C. A.

6213. ———.]—R. v. COTTON* (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 142, C. C. A.

6214. ———.]—In the case of frivolous appeals against sentence the ct. will exercise its power of increasing sentence.—R. v. PICKERING (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 175, C. C. A.

6215. ———.]—R. v. MASSEY* (1921), 16 Cr. App. Rep. 85, C. C. A.

SECT. 9.—POWER TO VARY VERDICT.

6216. Murder—To manslaughter.]—R. v. LETENOCK* (1917), 12 Cr. App. Rep. 221, C. C. A.

6217. ———.]—R. v. WARD* (1922), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 65, C. C. A.

6218. ———To special verdict of insanity—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 5 (4).]—R. v. COELHO* (1914), 30 T. L. R. 535; 18 Cr. App. Rep. 210, C. C. A.

6219. ———.]—Applt. was convicted of murder & sentenced to death. He appealed against the conviction. The Ct. of Criminal Appeal, being of opinion that the evidence showed that at the time of committing the act charged against him he was insane:—Held: the proper course for the ct. to pursue was that provided by

sect. 5 (4) of the above Act, namely, to quash the sentence passed at the trial, & to order applt. to be kept in custody as a criminal lunatic.—R. v. GILBERT (1914), 84 L. J. K. B. 1424; 112 L. T. 479; 24 Cox, C. C. 586; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 23, C. C. A.

6220. Wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm—To unlawful wounding.]—R. v. PARKS* (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 50, C. C. A.

6221. Unlawful wounding—To assault occasioning bodily harm.]—R. v. CAMERON* (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 198, C. C. A.

6222. Carnal knowledge—To indecent assault.]—R. v. PITTS* (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 126, C. C. A.
Annotation:—Mentd. R. v. Dossi (1918), 87 L. J. K. B. 1024.

6223. Riot—To assault.]—R. v. WONG CHEY, ETC.* (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 59, C. C. A.

6224. Larceny from the person—To simple larceny.]—R. v. TAYLOR*, [1911] 1 K. B. 674; 80 L. J. K. B. 311; 75 J. P. 126; 27 T. L. R. 108; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 12, C. C. A.

6225. Obtaining by false pretences—To attempting to obtain.]—R. v. DARGUE* (1911), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 261, C. C. A.

6226. ———.]—R. v. MARSTON* (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 203, C. C. A.

6227. Larceny by a trick—Not to obtaining by false pretences.]—On an indictment for larceny by a trick, if the facts proved establish only an obtaining by false pretences, the ct. will not substitute the latter verdict unless it is satisfied in accordance with Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 5 (2), that the jury "must," on a proper direction, have so found.—R. v. COLLINS (1922), 128 L. T. 31; 87 J. P. 60; 67 Sol. Jo. 367; 27 Cox, C. C. 322; 17 Cr. App. Rep. 42, C. C. A.

6228. Larceny—To receiving stolen property.]—Four persons were charged in two counts of an indictment with larceny of lead piping at common law & receiving it well knowing it to have been stolen. The evidence showed that the first prisoner stripped the lead piping from a house, & the second & third prisoners carried it away to the fourth prisoner. The first prisoner was acquitted upon the ground that he was not guilty of larceny at common law, but only under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), s. 31, for which offence he was not indicted. The jury found the second & third prisoners guilty of larceny & the fourth of receiving:—Held: the jury upon the evidence would, if their attention had been called to the particular point, have convicted the three prisoners of receiving, & therefore under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 4 (1), 5 (1), the appeal would be dismissed, prisoners being properly convicted of receiving.—R. v. COOPER, SHEA & STOCKS (1908), 24 T. L. R. 867; 1 Cr. App. Rep. 88; 72 J. P. Jo. 365, C. C. A.

6229. Receiving stolen property—To larceny.]—If on an indictment for larceny & receiving the jury return only a verdict of the latter, without sufficient evidence to constitute that offence, the ct. will, on a review of the whole facts, substitute a verdict of the former charge.—R. v. SMITH (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 133, C. C. A.

PART XIV. SECT. 9.

o. Assault on constable in execution of duty—To assault at common law.]—A constable in uniform on his way from his beat to his home at 11.20 p.m. saw five young men standing at the corner of a street & said to them, "Are you not away to bed yet, boys?" As he was walking away one of them threw a bottle at him which struck his head & inflicted a serious wound:—

Held: the constable when assaulted was not "in the execution of his duty" within Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 12, & consequently that the assailant was not guilty of the statutory offence created by that sect. & the case was not one appropriate for the exercise of the power conferred by Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1908, s. 75, & find accused guilty of an assault at common law.—MONK v. STRATHERN, [1921] S. C. (J.) 4.—SCOT.

p. Principal offence—To abetment of offence.]—It is not a universal rule that in no case can an appellate ct. convict an accused of abetment, when he was charged only with the principal offence. But it is discretionary with the appellate ct. to allow such fresh charge being tried on appeal.—INDAR CHAND v. R. (1915), 1 L. R. 42 Calc. 1094.—IND.

6230. General verdict of housebreaking, larceny & receiving—To receiving only.]—R. v. GEORGE, No. 5817, ante.

6231. Obtaining credit & goods by false pretences—To obtaining credit only.]—R. v. NORMAN, [1915] 1 K. B. 341; 84 L. J. K. B. 440; 112 L. T. 784; 79 J. P. 221; 31 T. L. R. 173; 24 Cox, C. C. 681; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 58, C. C. A.

*Annotations:—*Consd. R. v. Smith (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 81. Refd. R. v. Pickering (1921), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 175.

6232. Obtaining goods & credit by false pretences & obtaining credit by fraud—To obtaining credit by fraud only.]—R. v. JOHNSTON, No. 6081, ante.

SECT. 10.—POWER TO ORDER VENIRE DE NOVO.

6233. When awarded—Mistrial.]—R. v. DICKMAN, No. 5776, ante.

PART XIV. SECT. 10.

q. Whether power to order new trial—Felonv.]—The ct. has power, under Criminal Statute, No. 233, to grant new trials in cases of felony; & order may be made at the time of quashing first conviction.—R. v. WHELAN (1868), 5 W. W. & A.D. 7.—AUS.

6239 i. —.]—The ct. has no power to order a new trial in a criminal case reserved under 14 & 15 Vict. c. 13.—R. v. BABY (1855), 12 U. C. R. 346.—CAN.

6239 ii. —.]—R. v. HEALEY* (1856), 3 N. S. R. (2 Thom.) 331.—CAN.

6239 iii. —.]—Defts. having been convicted on an indictment for nuisance which had been removed into the Queen's Bench by certiorari, moved for a new trial, which was refused:—Held: no appeal would lie to a ct. from the judgment refusing the new trial, & it could make no difference that the indictment had been removed by certiorari, & tried on the civil side.—R. v. LONDON CITY (1888), 15 A. R. 414.—CAN.

r. —.]—Supreme Court, Newfoundland.]—*The Supreme Ct. of Newfoundland possesses all the powers of the Ct. of Q. B. in England, & can therefore legally order a new trial in a criminal case.—R. v. ST. JOHN (1861), 4 Nfld. L. R. 598.—NFLD.

s. —.]—When awarded.]—*Where after conviction for a capital offence, the proceedings were discovered to have been illegal, there having been no associate judge sitting in ct. during the trial, on motion on behalf of the Crown, the indictment & conviction, with prisoner, were brought up on certiorari & habeas corpus, & an order made setting aside all such proceedings, & remanding prisoner to custody, with a view to a new trial.—R. v. SULLIVAN (1857), 15 U. C. R. 198.—CAN.

t. —.]—On a trial for felony the jury cannot be allowed to separate during the progress of the trial, & where such separation takes place it is a mistrial, & the ct. may direct that the party convicted be tried again.—R. v. DERRICK (1879), 2 L. N. 214; 23 L. C. J. 239.—CAN.

u. —.]—The grounds on which new trial should be granted by the ct. under sect. 689 must be those which a ct. of civil jurisdiction would consider sufficient.—SLEATOR v. R. (1914), 16 W. A. L. R. 113.—AUS.

v. —.]—R. v. CHUBBS* (1864), 14 C. P. 32.—CAN.

w. —.]—Withholding from the ct. confessions made before the coroner, for fear that they would prejudice prisoner, would render application for a new trial irregular.—R. v.

FINKLE (1865), 15 C. P. 453.—CAN.

d. —.]—R. v. SEDDONS* (1866), 16 C. P. 389.—CAN.

e. —.]—R. v. SLAVIN* (1866), 17 C. P. 205.—CAN.

f. —.]—Where points of law were reserved under 14 & 15 Vict. c. 3, & prisoner, besides relying upon them, moved for a new trial, the ct. refused to grant it, though the evidence was slight.—R. v. HAMBLBY (1859), 16 U. C. R. 617.—CAN.

g. —.]—The ct. will not in criminal cases grant a new trial, unless the verdict is clearly wrong, even though the evidence on which the prisoner is convicted would equally justify his acquittal, for the jury are to judge of the preponderance of the evidence & their finding will not be disturbed.—R. v. McELROY (1864), 15 C. P. 116.—CAN.

h. —.]—One of the prisoner's counsel while addressing the jury at the close of the case, was suddenly seized with a fit, & incapacitated from proceeding further. No adjournment was applied for, but the other, who was the senior counsel, continued the address to the jury on prisoner's behalf, without raising any objection that he was placed at a disadvantage by reason of his colleague's disability. It did not appear that prisoner had been prejudiced by the absence of the counsel alluded to:—Held: no ground for a new trial.—R. v. FICK (1866), 16 C. P. 379.—CAN.

k. —.]—Where, on the trial of prisoners indicted for breaking & entering a bank, the jury disagreed, & there was no time left for a second trial during the then sittings of the ct.:—Held: a trial could be obtained by the issue of a commission by the Govt., & the ct. could not order a new trial of the cause, nor discharge prisoners on their own recognisances.—R. v. WATSON (1876), 11 N. S. R. (2 R. & C.) 1.—CAN.

l. —.]—In a criminal case reserved the Ct. of Q. B. deferred pronouncing judgment, on the verdict against prisoner, being in doubt as to the legality of the admission of certain evidence, & ordered a new trial.—R. v. LALIBERTE (1878), 1 S. C. R. 117.—CAN.

m. —.]—Case stated at instance of Crown after trial & acquittal of accused on a charge of theft:—Held: there was possession under Criminal Code, s. 989, as steer in question was in accused's herd, a small compact one, in charge of his son.—R. v. DUBOIS (1909), 12 W. L. R. 560.—CAN.

n. —.]—Where judge, at trial, rules that evidence tendered for defence which is material, & is

6234. —.]—Unqualified juror.]—R. v. WAKEFIELD, No. 6100, ante.

6235. —.]—Plea of guilty improperly entered.]—R. v. BAKER, No. 6094, ante.

6236. —.]—R. v. INGLESON*, No. 6096, ante.

6237. —.]—R. v. GOLATHAN*, No. 6097, ante.

6238. —.]—Joint trial of persons separately indicted.]—CRANE v. PUBLIC PROSECUTOR, No. 6090, ante.

6239. Whether power to order new trial.]—R. v. DYSON*, No. 6007, ante.

6240. —.]—R. v. DIBBLE (alias CORCORAN)*, No. 5877, ante.

6241. —.]—Fresh evidence, not strong enough to quash a conviction, might induce the ct., if it had the power, to grant a new trial.—R. v. COLCLOUGH (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 84; 73 J. P. Jo. 147, C. C. A.

such that, if the jury believe it, they will not be justified in convicting accused, is properly admissible, but counsel for Crown tells jury that that evidence is not admissible & should not have been allowed, & jury find a verdict of "guilty," a new trial should be granted, because the jury may have been led, by the statement of counsel, to believe that they should pay no attention to that evidence in considering their verdict.—R. v. WEBB (1914), 27 W. L. R. 313.—CAN.

o. —.]—Where an accused is found guilty on all of several inconsistent counts & is clearly guilty of one & is to be punished on one only, a new trial should not be ordered, but he should be given the minimum sentence prescribed for the offences charged in the several counts.—R. v. KELLY (1916), 35 W. L. R. 46; 11 W. W. R. 46.—CAN.

p. —.]—Under Criminal Code the Crown has the same privilege as an accused person of securing a new trial if the Ct. of Appeal is of opinion that a mistake has been made & that in consequence thereof a substantial wrong has been done in the method by which the final result of the trial was arrived at.—R. v. NICKLE, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 1016; 16 Alta. L. R. L. 1; 34 Can. Crim. Cas. 15.—CAN.

aa. —.]—R. v. SALES* (1908), 27 N. Z. L. R. 715.—N.Z.

bb. —.]—After acquittal.]—Qu.*: whether it is proper to grant a new trial, where an individual or a corpn. has been once acquitted on an indictment, even in cases of misdemeanour.—R. v. GRAND TRUNK RY. CO. (1857), 15 U. C. R. 121.—CAN.

cc. —.]—Whether or not the ct. should order a new trial after an acquittal depends on whether or not there was evidence upon which the judge could have reasonably convicted if he had not been led to acquit by his mistaken view of the law. If on perusal of the evidence the ct. is of opinion that there was such evidence it should order a new trial; otherwise the acquittal should stand.—R. v. SHAYCHOOK, [1923] 2 W. W. R. 108; 39 Can. Crim. Cas. 386.—CAN.

dd. —.]—Jury not unanimous.]—*Upon motion for new trial:—Held: affidavits made by some of the jurors that the jury were not unanimous, but believed that the verdict of the majority was sufficient, could not be received as ground for new trial.—R. v. FELLOWES (1859), 19 U. C. R. 48.—CAN.

ee. —.]—Joint trial of persons separately indicted.]—*Motion on behalf of defts. M. & F., tried together & convicted of burglary & theft, for a new trial, made by consent of the trial judge under Code, s. 1021. It was

SECT. 11.—THE COURT IN RELATION TO THE HOME SECRETARY.

6242. Powers of Home Secretary—Unaffected by Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23).—The Home Secretary's powers are untouched by the above Act.—R. v. FAIRBROTHER (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 233, C. C. A.

6243. Decision of Home Secretary—Not subject of appeal to Court of Criminal Appeal.—R. v. LORD, No. 5543, ante.

6244. ———.—R. v. KEATING, No. 5547, ante.

6245. ———.—R. v. TWYNHAM, No. 5544, ante.

6246. Reference by Home Secretary to Court of Criminal Appeal—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 19 (a)—Case dealt with as an ordinary appeal.—R. v. DICKMAN, No. 5776, ante.

6247. ———.—This case was referred to the ct. by the Home Secretary under the provisions of sect. 19 (a) of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23); it does not seem to be a case in which this ct. can possibly interfere. Cases of this kind are referred to us as if they were appeals, & cannot be treated upon considerations different from those which are applicable in the case of appeals (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. ALLEN & WINTER (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 225, C. C. A.

6248. ———. Petition against sentence only.—Prisoners who have petitioned the Home Secretary against their sentence, & whose petitions are referred to the Ct. of Criminal Appeal under sect. 19 of Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), must be deemed to be applts. in respect of their sentence only.—R. v. SMITH, R. v. WILSON, [1909] 2 K. B. 756; 79 L. J. K. B. 4; 101 L. T. 126; 73 J. P. 407; 22 Cox, C. C. 151; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 271, C. C. A.

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Rabjohns (1913), 109 L. T. 414; R. v. Collins (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 105.

6249. ———. Conviction as incorrigible rogue.—R. v. JOHNSON, No. 5535, ante.

6250. Reference to Home Secretary by court—When no appeal entered—Against sentence.—The ct. will call the attention of the Home Secretary to a sentence not appealed against which it thinks too severe.—R. v. WHALEY (1914), 10 Cr. App. Rep. 22, C. C. A.

6251. ———. For release of prisoner—Detained on account of ill-health.—The chairman sent applt. to prison in the interests of his health. He received a medical report that applt.'s health had much improved since he came to the prison, but that he was not yet fit to be released, as, if he were, he might make another attempt on his life. We will alter the imprisonment to the first division & report to the Home Secretary, that he should be released as soon as the doctor reports that it is safe to do so (BRAY, J.).—R. v. SAUNDERS (1913), 9 Cr. App. Rep. 119, C. C. A.

SECT. 12.—PROCEDURE ON REVERSAL OF DECISION BY HOUSE OF LORDS.

6252. General rule.—On an indictment for incest under Punishment of Incest Act, 1908 urged on behalf of defts. that if either of them were granted a new trial because of a conviction against the weight of evidence, both must be, as they were tried together:—Held: the rule above referred to on behalf of defts., applied to cases of conspiracy only, & the case of each deft. must be considered on its merits. Upon the merits, the ct. came to the conclusion that deft., F., was entitled to new trial.—R. v. MURRAY & FAIRBAIRN (1912), 23 O. W. R. 492; 4 O. W. N. 368; 27 O. L. R. 382; 20 Can. Crim. Cas. 197; 8 D. L. R. 208.—CAN.

PART XIV. SECT. 13.

b. Whether conclusive—Conflict between note & judge's recollection.—Where there is a conflict between the evidence as taken down in shorthand

(c. 45), evidence is admissible to prove the existence of a guilty passion between accused & of carnal intercourse before the Act was passed.

Order of Ct. of Criminal Appeal quashing the conviction reversed.

Upon an appln. subsequently made to Ct. of Criminal Appeal:—Held: the proper procedure in applying the above decision of the House of Lords was by appln. to Ct. of Criminal Appeal to amend its record by expunging the order setting aside the verdict, & to make an order for the arrest of the accused persons.—R. v. BALL, [1911] A. C. 72; 104 L. T. 48; 75 J. P. 184; 27 T. L. R. 162; 55 Sol. Jo. 190; 22 Cox, C. C. 370; 6 Cr. App. Rep. 49; sub nom. PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR v. BALL (No. 2), 80 L. J. K. B. 693, C. C. A.

6253. ———.—R. v. LEACH (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 172, C. C. A.

6254. ———.—R. v. THOMPSON (1918), 13 Cr. App. Rep. 97, C. C. A.

SECT. 13.—USE OF SHORTHAND NOTES OF TRIAL.

6255. Effect of absence or insufficiency—Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 16 (1).—R. v. RUTTER, No. 6084, ante.

6256. ———.—Application was made for leave to appeal against conviction upon the ground that no sufficient shorthand note of the proceedings at the trial was forthcoming, contrary to Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 16 (1):—Held: that Act is directory only, & the absence or insufficiency of a shorthand note of the trial does not make the trial improper, or confer an absolute ground for appealing, although, where there is ground for questioning the legality or propriety of a conviction or sentence the absence or insufficiency of a shorthand note may become material.—R. v. ELLIOTT (1909), 100 L. T. 977; 25 T. L. R. 572; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 171; 73 J. P. Jo. 252, C. C. A.

6257. Whether conclusive—Discrepancy between judge's note & shorthand note.—R. v. BEAUCHAMP, No. 6027, ante.

6258. ———. As to evidence given at the trial.—Where it is uncertain whether certain evidence has been given before the jury, the ct. will be guided by the shorthand notes, especially when combined with the judge's own notes, unless there are grave reasons for departing from this practice.—R. v. RIMES (1912), 28 T. L. R. 409; 7 Cr. App. Rep. 240; 76 J. P. Jo. 220, C. C. A.

6259. What should be included—Judge's summing up.—The shorthand notes of the proceedings at the trial of a prisoner which are required to be taken by Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 16, should include a note of the summing up.—R. v. BENNETT (1909), 25 T. L. R. 528; 2 Cr. App. Rep. 152; 73 J. P. Jo. 252, C. C. A.

6260. ———. Statements & incidents of trial.—R. v. AUSTIN & DAVIES, No. 6108, ante.

6261. ———.—It must be understood by shorthand writers that their duty is to take in shorthand everything that occurs at the trial, so that if an appeal is brought this ct. may be able

by the official reporter & the positive recollection of the trial judge, the ct. will accept as final the report of the judge as to what actually took place.—R. v. TUCKER (1915), 15 S. R. N. S. W. 504; 32 N. S. W. N. 169.—AUS.

6257 i. ———. Discrepancy between judge's note & shorthand note.—The ct. is bound to accept the statement of the trial judge as to the facts, even to form as good an opinion as is possible when reading the transcript. An abbreviated note is not sufficient. Everything that occurs at the trial must be taken in the form of question & answer, which should be numbered to admit of easy reference (LORD TREVEETHIN, C.J.).—R. v. MONKMAN (1922), 66 Sol. Jo. 317; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 115; 57 L. Jo. 94, C. C. A.

6262. What may be included—Note of counsel's speeches—When required by judge—Criminal Appeal Rules.—By an additional rule to the Criminal Appeal Rules, dated Mar. 27, 1908, power is given to a trial judge to order shorthand notes to be taken of the speeches of counsel (DARLING, J.).—R. v. BLISS HILL (1918), 82 J. P. 194; sub nom. R. v. BROADHURST, MEANLEY & HILL, 13 Cr. App. Rep. 125, C. C. A.

6263. ———.—R. v. SULLIVAN, [1923] 1 K. B. 47; 91 L. J. K. B. 927; 126 L. T. 643; 86 J. P. 167; 27 Cox, C. C. 187; 16 Cr. App. Rep. 121, C. C. A.

6264. Should be taken on plea of guilty.—R. v. DIXON & ROCKLIFFE (1920), 15 Cr. App. Rep. 96, C. C. A.

6265. Form of note—Numbered questions & answers.—R. v. ALLEN (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 18; 72 J. P. Jo. 281, C. C. A.

6266. ———.—In the shorthand notes of the trial questions & answers must be numbered.—R. v. GREY (1909), 2 Cr. App. Rep. 37, C. C. A.

6267. ———.—R. v. MONKMAN, No. 6261, ante.

6268. Grant of free copy to appellant—Criminal Appeal Rules, 1908, r. 39 (c).—In a proper case the ct. will grant appet. a transcript of the shorthand note of the proceedings at the trial, free of charge, under Criminal Appeal Rule 39c.—R. v. DAVIS (1914), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 52, C. C. A.

6269. ———.—Not after dismissal of appeal.—The Ct. of Criminal Appeal has no power under Criminal Appeal Rules, 1908 r. 39 (c), to order a transcript of the shorthand notes taken at the trial to be furnished to a person whose appeal has been dismissed & who has served his sentence.—Ex p. WEIR (1912), 108 L. T. 350; 77 J. P. 56; 23 Cox, C. C. 326, C. C. A.

6270. Transcript to be preserved—By official shorthand writer.—The official shorthand writer is bound to keep the transcript of the trial (LORD ALVERSTONE, C.J.).—R. v. HARRIS (alias DESMOND) (1912), 8 Cr. App. Rep. 30, C. C. A.

SECT. 14.—“CRIMINAL CAUSE OR MATTER.”

6271. Extraditable offence—Extradition Act, 1870 (c. 52).—The Q. B. Div. having refused an application for a writ of habeas corpus made on behalf of a person who had been committed to prison under Extradition Act, 1870 (c. 52), s. 10, as a fugitive criminal accused of an extradition crime:—Held: the decision of the Q. B. Div. was given in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & therefore no appeal would lie to the Ct. of Appeal.—Ex p. WOODHALL (1888), 20 Q. B. D. 832; 57 L. J. M. C. 71; 59 L. T. 841; 52 J. P. 581; 36 W. R. 655; 4 T. L. R. 515, C. C. A.

Annotations.—Folld. R. v. Brixton Prison, Ex p. Savarkar, where not borne out by the stenographer's notes of the evidence, which in this case the judge declared to be incorrect.—R. v. ANGELO (1914), 26 W. L. R. 108.—CAN.

o. Stenographic notes not available.—Where upon a motion for leave to appeal from a refusal of a trial judge to reserve certain questions arising out of a trial for theft, it appeared that the ct. stenographer who took the evidence had left Canada, taking his notes with him, & the judge's notes were not complete, the ct. entertaining little doubt as to the [1910] 2 K. B. 1056. Appld. R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99. Refd. R. v. Barnardo (1889), 23 Q. B. D. 305; Cox v. Hakes (1890), 15 App. Cas. 506; Ex p. Schofield, [1891] 2 Q. B. 428. Mentd. R. v. Young (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 42; Payne v. Wright (1892), 61 L. J. Q. B. 398; Ex p. Pulbrook, [1892] 1 Q. B. 86; Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344; R. v. Wiltshire J.J., Ex p. Jay, [1912] 1 K. B. 566; Scott v. Scott, [1912] P. 241; R. v. Manchester Local Profitteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089; Re Clifford & O'Sullivan, [1921] 2 A. C. 570; Provincial Cinematograph Theatres v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Profitteering Committee (1921), 125 L. T. 651.

6272. ———.—Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881 (c. 69).—Appct., having been committed, under an Indian warrant which charged him with certain offences, for return to India under above Act for trial there, obtained from the K. B. Div. a rule calling upon the governor of the prison to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus should not issue. The K. B. Div. having discharged the rule, appct. appealed:—Held: no appeal lay to the Ct. of Appeal, the decision of the K. B. Div. having been given in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47.—R. v. BRIXTON PRISON (GOVERNOR), Ex p. SAVARKAR, [1910] 2 K. B. 1056; 80 L. J. K. B. 57; 103 L. T. 473; 26 T. L. R. 561; 54 Sol. Jo. 635, C. A.

Annotations.—Refd. Ex p. Le Gros (1914), 30 T. L. R. 249. Mentd. R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99; Home Secretary v. O'Brien (1923), 39 T. L. R. 638.

6273. ———.—On an application to the Ct. of Appeal for a rule nisi for a habeas corpus on behalf of one who had been committed on the charge of an extraditable offence, it appeared that the Div. Ct. had refused the application. It was admitted that no appeal would lie from the Div. Ct., & in the alternative the application was made to the Lord Chief Justice individually as a judge of the K. B. Div.:—Held: as the Lord Chief Justice was sitting as a member of the Ct. of Appeal & not as a judge of the K. B. Div. the ct. could not deal with the application.—Ex p. LE GROS (1914), 30 T. L. R. 249; 78 J. P. Jo. 63, C. A.

6274. Abatement of nuisance—Public Health Act, 1875 (c. 55), s. 96.—R. v. WHITCHURCH, No. 10, ante.

6275. ———.—The Q. B. Div. refused to grant an order nisi for a mandamus to compel a stipendiary magistrate who had made an order under above sect. for the abatement of a nuisance, to state a case for the opinion of the ct.:—Held: the decision of the Q. B. Div. was given in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & therefore the Ct. of Appeal had no jurisdiction to entertain the application for a mandamus.—Ex p. SCHOFIELD, [1891] 2 Q. B. 428; 60 L. J. M. C. 157; 56 J. P. 4; 39 W. R. 580; 7 T. L. R. 615; sub nom. ROOK v. SCHOFIELD, 64 L. T. 780; 17 Cox, C. C. 303, C. A.

Annotations.—Consd. R. v. Young (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 42; Payne v. Wright (1892), 61 L. J. M. C. 114; Ex p. Pulbrook, [1892] 1 Q. B. 86; R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99. Refd. Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344; R. v. D'Eyncourt (1901), 85 L. T. 501. Mentd. R. v. Tyler & International Commercial Co., [1891] 2 Q. B. 588; Rayson v. South London Tram. Co. (1893), 42 W. R. 21; R. v. Davey, Ex p. Bishop (1899), 63 J. P. 515; R. v. Manchester Local Profitteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089; Toronto Ry. v. Toronto City, [1920] A. C. 446.

6276. Corrupt practices at election—Certificate to witness.—The decision of a Div. Ct. discharging a rule for a mandamus to the comrs. appointed to inquire into corrupt practices at a parliamentary guilt of accused made an order that the Crown file with the registrar of a properly authenticated transcript of the notes within one month, if not so filed an order to go quashing the conviction.—R. v. JENNINGS & HAMILTON (1916), 34 W. L. R. 1058; 10 W. W. R. 1049.—CAN.

Sect. 14.—“Criminal cause or matter.”]

election to grant their certificate under Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1863 (c. 29), which certificate if given would be a protection to the witness against criminal proceedings for bribery, does not relate to a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & the Ct. of Appeal is not therefore, deprived of jurisdiction to hear an appeal against such decision.—R. v. HOLL (1881), 7 Q. B. D. 575; 50 L. J. Q. B. 763, C. A.

Annotations :—Apld. Ex p. Walker (1889), 22 Q. B. D. 384. Refd. Preece v. Harding, Re Hereford Municipal Pctn. (1889), 6 T. L. R. 65.

6277. Default in forwarding list of members of company to registrar—Companies Act, 1862 (c. 89), s. 26.]—An application to a magistrate for a summons against a co. to recover penalties for default in forwarding a list of its members to the registrar of joint-stock cos. as required by above sect., is a criminal proceeding, & therefore, the judgment of the Q. B. Div. on an application for a mandamus directing the magistrate to hear the summons is a judgment in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & no appeal lies therefrom to the Ct. of Appeal.—R. v. TYLER & INTERNATIONAL COMMERCIAL CO., [1891] 2 Q. B. 588; 61 L. J. M. C. 38; 65 L. T. 662; 56 J. P. 118; 7 T. L. R. 720, C. A.

Annotations :—Consd. R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99. Refd. R. v. Young (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 42. Mentd. Rayson v. South London Tram. Co. (1893), 69 L. T. 491; Southport Corpn. v. Birkdale U. D. C. (1897), 76 L. T. 319; Park v. Royalties Syndicate, [1912] 1 K. B. 330; Monsell v. L. & N. W. Ry., [1917] 2 K. B. 836; Griffiths v. Studebakers (1923), 87 J. P. 199.

6278. Possession of false measures—Weights & Measures Act, 1878 (c. 49).]—The decision of the Q. B. Div. discharging a rule nisi for a mandamus to compel justices to hear a summons under sect. 25 of above Act against a person for being in possession for use of false or unjust measures is a decision of the High Ct. in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, in respect of which no appeal lies to the Ct. of Appeal.—R. v. YOUNG, ETC., LONDON COUNTY JJ. (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 42; 66 L. T. 16; 8 T. L. R. 178; 36 Sol. Jo. 138; 17 Cox, C. C. 425, C. A.

Annotation :—Refd. R. v. Brixton Prison, Ex p. Savarkar, [1910] 2 K. B. 1056.

6279. Contravention of Building Act—Metropolitan Building Act, 1855 (c. 122).]—No appeal lies to the Ct. of Appeal from a decision of the Q. B. Div. on a case stated by a magistrate upon a summons taken out under sect. 46 of above Act, for a contravention of the provisions of sect. 19 of that Act; for the decision of the Q. B. Div. is a decision in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47.—PAYNE v. WRIGHT, [1892] 1 Q. B. 104; 61 L. J. M. C. 114; 66 L. T. 148; 56 J. P. 564; 8 T. L. R. 288; 36 Sol. Jo. 230; 17 Cox, C. C. 460, C. A.

Annotations :—Consd. Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344. Refd. R. v. Manchester Local Profiteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089; Wilson v. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 36 T. L. R. 412.

6280. — London Building Act, 1894 (Amendment) Act, 1898 (c. cxxxvii).]—A magistrate convicted a person of having erected a building beyond the general line of buildings in a street in London, & made an order for the demolition thereof under London Building Act, 1894 (c. cxxiii) & above Act, & refused to state a case for the opinion of the High Ct. The K. B. Div. refused to grant a rule nisi for a mandamus to the magistrate to state a case; but a rule nisi was granted by the Ct. of Appeal :—Held : this was a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & the Ct. of Appeal had no jurisdiction to entertain the application for a mandamus.—R. v. D'EYNCOURT (1901), 85 L. T. 501; 18 T. L. R. 53; 20 Cox, C. C. 68, C. A.

6281. Criminal libel—Law of Libel Amendment Act, 1888 (c. 64).]—An appeal does not lie from an order made by a judge at chambers under sect. 8 of above Act allowing a criminal prosecution to be commenced against the proprietor, publisher, or person responsible for the publication of a newspaper, for a libel published therein.—Ex p. PULBROOK, [1892] 1 Q. B. 86; 61 L. J. M. C. 91; 66 L. T. 159; 56 J. P. 293; 40 W. R. 175; 36 Sol. Jo. 79; 17 Cox, C. C. 464.

Annotations :—Distd. R. v. Manchester Local Profiteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089. Apld. Provincial Cinematograph Theatres v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Profiteering Committee (1921), 125 L. T. 651.

6282. — Taxation of costs.—By Libel Act, 1843 (c. 96), s. 8, on judgment for deft. in an information for libel he is entitled to recover from prosecutor his costs, to be taxed by the officer of the ct. before which the information is tried. The master of the Crown office having taxed deft. his costs according to the usual practice under a sidebar rule :—Held : by Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, the general right of appeal given by sect. 19 from any judgment of the High Ct. is excepted in any criminal cause or matter; the costs were the consequence of the judgment, & were within the exception; & the Ct. of Appeal had no jurisdiction.—R. v. STEEL (1876), 2 Q. B. D. 37; 46 L. J. M. C. 1; 35 L. T. 534; 41 J. P. 245; 25 W. R. 34, C. A.

Annotations :—Foldd. R. v. Fletcher (1876), 2 Q. B. D. 43. Apprvd. & Apld. Blake v. Beech (1877), 36 L. T. 723. Consd. R. v. Foote (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 378. Apld. R. v. Rudge (1886), 53 L. T. 851; Ex p. Woodhall (1888), 20 Q. B. D. 832. Consd. Ex p. Schofield, [1891] 2 Q. B. 428. Refd. R. v. Central Criminal Court JJ. (1886), 56 L. J. M. C. 25; Ex p. Pulbrook, [1892] 1 Q. B. 86. Mentd. Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344; Scott v. Scott, [1912] P. 241.

6283. Profiteering — Profiteering Act, 1919 (c. 66).]—Complainant & three friends were supplied in a restaurant with a meal consisting of sausages, bread, cakes, & tea ordered separately. Complainant made a complaint concerning the prices charged to the Local Profiteering Committee, who proceeded to investigate the complaint under sect. 1, sub-sect. 1 (b), of the above Act. The proprietors of the restaurant obtained a rule nisi for a prohibition against the committee investigating the matter on the ground that the articles supplied did not come within Board of Trade Order, dated Sept. 11, 1919, Sched. II., made under the Act, & that the articles described as six small cakes were not separately complained of. This rule was discharged by a Div. Ct. & the railway co. appealed, when a preliminary objection was taken that no appeal lay, on the ground that the order of the Div. Ct. was made in a criminal cause or matter within Jud. Act, 1873, s. 47 :—Held : the order of the Div. Ct. was not in a criminal cause or matter.—R. v. MANCHESTER LOCAL PROFITEERING COMMITTEE, Ex p. LANCA-SHIRE & YORKSHIRE RY. CO. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089; 123 L. T. 98; 84 J. P. 177; sub nom. WILSON v. LANCA-SHIRE & YORKSHIRE RY. CO., 36 T. L. R. 412; 64 Sol. Jo. 358; 18 L. G. R. 333, C. A.

Annotation :—Distd. R. v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Profiteering Committee, Ex p. Provincial Cinematograph Theatres (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1088.

6284. — — ——Where a complaint has been made to a profiteering committee that an overcharge has been made, & the committee have found that the charge made was excessive & have directed a prosecution to be instituted under above

Act, & a rule nisi for certiorari on the ground that the committee was not properly constituted, & that the proceedings were without jurisdiction, has been discharged:—Held: an appeal would not lie, as the direction to institute a prosecution was the first step in a "criminal cause or matter" within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47.—PROVINCIAL CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRES, LTD. v. NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE PROFITEERING COMMITTEE (1921), 90 L. J. K. B. 1064; 125 L. T. 651; 85 J. P. 211; 37 T. L. R. 799; 65 Sol. Jo. 661; 19 L. G. R. 505; 27 Cox, C. C. 63, H. L.
Annotation:—Reid. Re Clifford & O'Sullivan, [1921] 2 A. C. 570.

6285. Decision of High Court—Refusal of certiorari—To quash conviction by justices.—Where the Q. B. Div. discharges a rule for certiorari to bring up a conviction of justices to be quashed, there is no appeal to the Ct. of Appeal under Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66).—R. v. FLETCHER (1876), 2 Q. B. D. 43; 46 L. J. M. C. 4; 35 L. T. 538; 41 J. P. 310; 25 W. R. 149; 13 Cox, C. C. 358, C. A.
Annotations:—Apld. Blake v. Beech (1877), 2 Ex. D. 335. Consd. R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99. Reid. Ex p. Schofield, [1891] 2 Q. B. 428; R. v. Marlborough Street Police Magistrate, Ex p. Samuel (1919), 63 Sol. Jo. 300; Re Clifford & O'Sullivan, [1921] 2 A. C. 570. Mentd. Yates v. R. (1885), 52 L. T. 305; Ex p. Woodhall (1888), 20 Q. B. D. 832; R. v. Young (1891), 61 L. J. M. C. 42; Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344; R. v. Brixton Prison, Ex p. Savarkar, [1910] 2 K. B. 1056; Scott v. Scott, [1912] P. 241; R. v. Manchester Local Profiteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089.

6286. ——— To remove indictment to Central Criminal Court.—The decision of the Q. B. Div. on an application for a writ of certiorari under Central Criminal Ct. Act, 1856 (c. 16), s. 3, to remove an indictment into the Central Criminal Ct. for trial is a "judgment of the High Ct. in a criminal cause or matter" within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & the Ct. of Appeal has no jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from such decision.—R. v. RUDGE (1886), 16 Q. B. D. 459; 55 L. J. M. C. 112; 53 L. T. 851; 50 J. P. 755; 34 W. R. 207; 2 T. L. R. 243, C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. Burnett v. Berry (1896), 60 J. P. 550.

6287. ——— Refusal of prohibition—To magistrate.—A judgment of the K. B. Div. refusing to issue to a magistrate a writ of prohibition against proceeding with the hearing of a criminal charge is a judgment in a "criminal cause or matter" within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & therefore by that sect. is not subject to appeal.—R. v. GARRETT, Ex p. SHARF, [1917] 2 K. B. 99; 86 L. J. K. B. 894; 116 L. T. 398; 81 J. P. 145; 33 T. L. R. 305; 25 Cox, C. C. 627, C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. Re Clifford & O'Sullivan, [1921] 2 A. C. 570.

6288. Conviction for keeping common gaming-house.—A judgment of the Ct. of Appeal from inferior cts., against the validity of a conviction, under Betting Act, 1853 (c. 119), s. 3, for keeping a common gaming-house, on a case stated under Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1857 (c. 43), is a judgment of the High Ct. in a criminal matter from which, by Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, there is no appeal.—BLAKE v. BEECH (1877), 2 Ex. D. 335; 36 L. T. 723, C. A.

Annotation:—Reid. Seaman v. Burley, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344.

6289. Enforcement of poor rate by warrant of distress.—A judgment upon a special case stated by justices on an application to enforce payment of a poor rate by warrant of distress is a judgment in a criminal cause or matter within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, inasmuch as the proceedings before the justices may end in imprisonment of the person in default, & therefore an appeal will not lie to the Ct. of Appeal from the judgment of the Q. B. Div. on such a case.—SEAMAN v. BURLEY, [1896] 2 Q. B. 344; 65 L. J. M. C. 208; 75 L. T. 91; 60 J. P. 772; 45 W. R. 1; 12 T. L. R. 599; 40 Sol. Jo. 684; 18 Cox, C. C. 403, C. A.

Annotations:—Distd. Southwark & Vauxhall Water Co. v. Hampton U. C. [1899] 1 Q. B. 273; Scott v. Scott, [1912] P. 241. Apld. R. v. Manchester Local Profiteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089. Reid. R. v. Newcastle-upon-Tyne Profiteering Committee, Ex p. Provincial Cinematograph Theatres (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1098.

6290. Bailiff retaining excessive charges—Distress Costs Act, 1817 (c. 93).—The Ct. of Appeal has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal from a decision of a div. ct. upon a case stated by justices as to a complaint under sect. 2 of above Act against a certificated bailiff for unlawfully retaining certain charges exceeding those allowed by statute when employed to make a distress for rent for a sum not exceeding £20; the proceeding before justices being a "criminal cause or matter" within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47.—ROBSON v. BIGGAR, [1908] 1 K. B. 672; 77 L. J. K. B. 203; 97 L. T. 859; 24 T. L. R. 125; 52 Sol. Jo. 76, C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Daly, Ex p. Newson (1911), 104 L. T. 892. Reid. R. v. Manchester Local Profiteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089.

6291. Penalty for supplying inferior gas.—By a local Act it was provided that, "if it shall at any time be proved to the satisfaction of any two justices, after hearing the parties, that the illuminating power of the gas supplied by the corpn. in the said township did not, when so tested as aforesaid, equal the illuminating power by this Act prescribed," the corpn. should forfeit such sum not exceeding £20 as such justices should determine, to be paid to the local board. Upon an information & complaint by the local board under the above provisions, the justices convicted the corpn. & imposed a penalty of £10 & stated a case for the opinion of the High Ct.:—Held: the judgment of the High Ct. upon the case was a judgment in a "criminal cause or matter," within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, from which no appeal would lie to the Ct. of Appeal.—SOUTHPORT CORPN. v. BIRKDALE URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL (1897), 76 L. T. 319; 18 Cox, C. C. 537, C. A.

6292. Application for bail.—A prisoner applied for bail to a div. ct. of the Q. B. Div. but was refused; he then appealed to the Ct. of Appeal:—Held: the decision of the Div. Ct. was a judgment of the High Ct. in a criminal matter, & therefore the Ct. of Appeal had no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal.—R. v. FOOTE (1883), 10 Q. B. D. 378; 52 L. J. Q. B. 528; 48 L. T. 394; 48 J. P. 36; 31 W. R. 490; 15 Cox, C. C. 240, C. A.

Annotations:—Folld. R. v. Rudge (1886), 2 T. L. R. 243; Re Woodall (1888), 57 L. J. M. C. 71. Reid. R. v. Central Criminal Court JJ. (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 314; R. v. Phillips (1922), 128 L. T. 113. Mentd. Re Frost (1888), 4 T. L. R. 757.

6293. Order for restitution of property.—An order of the Q. B. Div. discharging a rule nisi for a certiorari to bring up an order for restitution of property made under Larceny Act, 1861 (c. 96), is a judgment in a "criminal cause or matter" within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, & no appeal lies to the Ct. of Appeal.—R. v. CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT JJ. (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 314; 56 L. J. M. C. 25; 56 L. T. 352; 51 J. P. 229; 16 Cox, C. C. 196; sub nom. R. v. CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT JJ., FOISARD'S CASE, 35 W. R. 243, C. A.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Woodall (1888), 57 L. J. M. C. 71.

6294. Order to enforce payment of rate—Public Health Act, 1875 (c. 55), s. 256.—An application to a ct. of summary jurisdiction for an order to enforce payment of a general district rate under the above sect. is not a criminal cause or matter, & therefore an appeal lies to the Ct. of Appeal from the judgment of a Div. Ct. upon a case stated on such an application.—SOUTHWARK & VAUXHALL WATER CO. v. HAMPTON URBAN COUNCIL, [1899] 1 Q. B. 273; 68 L. J. Q. B. 207; 80 L. T. 1; 63 J. P. 100; 47 W. R. 177; 15 T. L. R. 95; 43 Sol. Jo. 124, C. A.; affd. on other grounds, sub nom. HAMPTON URBAN COUNCIL v. SOUTHWARK & VAUXHALL WATER CO., [1900] A. C. 3, H. L.

Sect. 14.—“Criminal cause or matter.” Part XV.]

Annotations:—Mentd. R. v. Shuttleworth, Ex p. Tickle (1908), 72 J. P. 329; Atkins v. Hutton (1910), 103 L. T. 514.

6295. Order to pay costs of abandoned appeal to quarter sessions.—Where notice of appeal to quarter sessions against a summary conviction for wilful damage & trespass having been given, but the appeal not being prosecuted, the sessions made an order for payment of costs against the party, who had given the notice under Quarter Sessions Act, 1819 (c. 45), s. 6, & an application for a certiorari to bring up the order so made had been refused by a div. ct.:—Held: the order for costs being one made in a “criminal cause or matter,” no appeal lay to the Ct. of Appeal against the decision of the Div. Ct.—R. v. WILTSHIRE JJ., Ex p. JAY, [1912] 1 K. B. 566; 81 L. J. K. B. 518; 106 L. T. 364; 76 J. P. 169; 28 T. L. R. 255; 56 Sol. Jo. 343; 10 L. G. R. 353; 22 Cox, C. C. 737, C. A.

Annotations:—Apld. R. v. Marlborough Street Police Magistrate, Ex p. Samuel (1919), 63 Sol. Jo. 300. Mentd. R. v. Garrett, Ex p. Sharf, [1917] 2 K. B. 99; Re Clifford & O’Sullivan, [1921] 2 A. C. 570.

6296. Order to pay costs of motion to commit for contempt of court—Nullity suit.—Upon a motion by resp. to commit for contempt of ct. petitioner & her solr. for publishing copies of the transcript, in contravention of the order directing that the cause should be heard in camera, the judge found that petitioner & her solr. were guilty of a contempt of ct. & ordered them to pay the costs of the motion:—Held: the order to pay costs was not a judgment in a “criminal cause or matter” within Jud. Act, 1873 (c. 66), s. 47, so that no appeal would lie from it.—SCOTT v. SCOTT, [1913] A. C. 417; 82 L. J. P. 74; 109 L. T. 1; 29 T. L. R. 520; 57 Sol. Jo. 498, H. L.

Annotations:—Consd. R. v. Manchester Local Profitteering Committee, Ex p. L. & Y. Ry. (1920), 89 L. J. K. B. 1089. Mentd. Cleland v. Cleland, Cleland v. Cleland & McLeod (1913), 109 L. T. 744; Moosbrugger v. Moosbrugger, Moosbrugger v. Moosbrugger & Martin (1913), 29 T. L. R. 658; Ex p. Norman (1915), 85 L. J. K. B. 203; Norman v. Mathews (1916), 85 L. J. K. B. 857; R. v. Lewes Prison, Ex p. Doyle, [1917] 2 K. B. 254; Re Stevenson, [1918-19] B. & C. R. 106.

6297. Breach of regulations—For management of Royal park.—The decision of the Div. Ct. refusing an ex p. motion to grant a rule nisi for a writ of certiorari to quash a conviction by magistrates for the breach of regulations made for the management of a Royal park is a decision in a “criminal cause or matter.” & is therefore final.—R. v. MARLBOROUGH STREET POLICE MAGISTRATE, Ex p. SAMUEL (No. 1) (1919), 63 Sol. Jo. 300, C. A.

6298. Breach of bye-law.—MELLOR v. DENHAM, No. 8, ante.

Penal actions.—See Part I., Sect. 1, ante.

Appeal against attachment & committal for contempt of court.—See CONTEMPT OF COURT, ATTACHMENT & COMMITTAL, Vol. XVI., pp. 80-82.

Part XV.—Appeal to House of Lords and Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

6299. Grant of legal aid—To appellant—By Court of Criminal Appeal.—Ct. of Criminal Appeal, sitting as a single judge, has power to grant applt. legal aid under Criminal Appeal Act, 1907 (c. 23), s. 10, on an appeal from a decision of Ct. of Criminal Appeal to the House of Lords, where the A.-G. has granted his certificate under sect. 1 (6) of that Act.—R. v. LEACH (No. 2) (1912), 76 J. P. 246; 56 Sol. Jo. 311, C. C. A.

6300. Condition precedent—Preliminary hearing by Court of Criminal Appeal necessary.—R. v. FLESTAD (1913), 30 T. L. R. 143; 9 Cr. App. Rep. 227; 77 J. P. Jo. 580, C. C. A.

6301. Case must raise points of law of exceptional importance.—(1) Applt. who was charged with acts of gross indecency with boys, set up the defence that he was not the man & adduced evidence to prove an alibi. It was proved that the man who committed the offence made an appointment to meet the boys three days later at the time & place where the offence was committed & that applt. met the boys at the appointed time & place & gave them money. The prosecution tendered evidence that on this occasion, when he was arrested, applt. was carrying powder puffs & that he had indecent photographs of boys in his rooms:—Held: in the special circumstances of the case the evidence was admissible on the issue of identity.

(2) The case raised no point of law of exceptional importance, & it was to be regretted that it should have been thought desirable in the public interest that an appeal should be brought to the House of Lords (LORD SUMNER).—THOMPSON v. R., [1918] A. C. 221; sub nom. THOMPSON v. PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS DIRECTOR, 87 L. J. K. B. 478; 118 L. T. 418; 82 J. P. 145; 34 T. L. R. 204; 62 Sol. Jo. 266; 26 Cox, C. C. 189; 13 Cr. App. Rep. 61, H. L.; affg. S. C. sub nom. R. v. THOMPSON, [1917] 2 K. B. 630, C. C. A.

Annotations:—As to (1) Refd. R. v. Twiss, [1918] 2 K. B. 853; R. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555; R. v. Manning (1923), 17 Cr. App. Rep. 85. As to (2) Refd. It. v. Armstrong, [1922] 2 K. B. 555.

Leave to appeal to Privy Council.—See DEPENDENCIES.

END OF VOL. XIV.

(Vol. XV., CONCLUDING CRIMINAL LAW AND PROCEDURE, COMMENCES AT PAGE 601.)

